Scenes beneath the dome of the national capitol in Washington change from day to day and from year to year with kaleidoscopic swiftness, but outside the stately edifice unvarying beauty comes each spring, when the famous Japanese cherry trees burst into blossom. Here is the striking picture that greets the eyes of the thousands of tourists who flock every year to Washington to view the lovely spectacle.

Texas Without Anti-Trust Law

AUSTIN, Apr. 3.—The third court of Civil Appeals today affirmed trial courts dismissal of an anti-trust suit brought by Governor Allred when he was attorney general against 17 major oil companies.

The court ruled Texas anti-trust statutes unconstitutional under a ruling of the United States Supreme Court because they exempted farm products. No ruling was entered on the validity of the National Recovery Act, which oil companies claimed (Continued on page 8)

'Nothing New' on Pipeline Project

WASHINGTON, April 3.—As far as Secretary Ickes knows, Texas has done nothing more about the matter of getting a $50,000,000 PWA loan for construction of a natural gas pipeline from the Panhandle of Texas to St. Louis and Detroit.

Governor Allred sent a lawyer here to talk about it and I referred him to our legal staff," Ickes said at a press conference. "I've had no report since."

Mayor's Statement

J. A. Whaley, who last night was sworn in as Mayor of Memphis, this morning issued the following statement to "the citizens of Memphis":

I wish to express to you my appreciation for the confidence you have placed in me by electing me your Mayor, and I wish to assure you that I will fill this office to the very best of my ability. I realize the responsibility that goes with the office at all times and more especially under the present economic conditions and that I will need your help and counsel at all times. To those supporters responsible for my success in yesterday's election, I wish to thank each and every one of you, and to those who did not support me, I wish to say that I hold no enmity and that my desire is to be of service to one and all. May I ask the co-operation of every citizen for the best interests of Memphis? (Signed) J. A. WHALEY.

Court Rules Joe Palmer Must Die

AUSTIN, Apr. 3.—Joe Palmer, companion of Raymond Hamilton in his spectacular break from the state penitentiary death house at Huntsville last summer, lost his last court chance of escaping the electric chair when the Court of Criminal Appeals today overruled a motion for rehearing his appeal.

The court previously affirmed the death penalty assessed Palmer for the murder of Major Crawford, Eastman prison guard, during a convict delivery engineered by Clyde Barrow.

Judge Dean of Navasota likely will set Palmer's electrocution for May.

Tom Easterling, 100th judicial district court reporter, sustained injuries of minor seriousness when the car in which he was riding overturned near Abernathy Sunday afternoon, according to word received by friends here yesterday. He was reported resting nicely at his home in Lubbock. He formerly resided in Memphis.

At the time of the accident, he was enroute to Memphis to report to a local insurance office the theft of his automobile from his home in Lubbock Saturday night. The stolen car was found early Sunday on a highway near Leveland, stripped and burned.

The seriousness of the injuries sustained in the accident was not learned. Several others were in the car at the time but the extent of injuries was not learned by friends here.

Ex-Convict Admits Edenburg Slaying

SAN ANTONIO, Apr. 3.—Sheriff Albert W. West, Jr., said today that James D. McAllister, ex-convict, admitted after his arrest at a transient bureau here, that he killed Percy A. Calkins, Houston salesman, near Edenburg Sunday.

The sheriff said McAllister told him of "thumbing" a ride from Calkins a few miles from Falurrias. When Calkins stopped McAllister shot him with a pistol as he climbed in the car, he said.

McAllister told the sheriff that he robbed Calkins of money, jewelry and clothing, then dumped his body in a prickly pear thicket beside the road.

Calkins' car, still blood smeared, was found here, McAllister telling the police where it was hidden.

McAllister served two prison terms for robbery and was released under conditional parole.

Pioneer Tells True Story of Sandstorm

A true story of a terrible sandstorm that all but reached proportions of a hurricane is told by Mrs. Mattie Shannon, 500 North 12th Street, who has lived in the west since 1889 and "has seen some sandstorms."

Mrs. Shannon's story follows: I will tell about what I think was the worst sandstorm I ever witnessed.

The wind had blown almost a hurricane from the west all day, until about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when it became perfectly calm for about one hour. Then black clouds began to rise in the north. It looked like black smoke rising higher and higher until it seemed to be miles above the ground, and it was traveling southward at a tremendous rate.

I grabbed a lamp, called the children and made a rush for the cellar. We barely got inside and closed the door when the wind struck with such force it seemed it would tear up the very earth. We huddled as close together as possible, and waited what seemed an eternity but what was only two hours.

The dust was so thick in the cellar we could scarcely breathe. We decided by that time it was a genuine sandstorm instead of a

County Poll Tax Payers Qualify For School Vote

Citizens who have paid county poll taxes for 1934 are qualified to vote in their respective school districts in county school trustee elections Saturday, it was explained today by County Judge Jim Vallance.

Payment of city poll taxes or other special taxes is not required of qualified voters, he said. County poll taxes for 1934 are those paid during January of this year.

In other words, all citizens who are qualified to vote in general elections are also qualified to vote in school trustee elections, Judge Vallance explained.

Trustee elections are being held Saturday in each of the four independent school districts and all except one of the rural school districts in the county.

Election in Ward 3 Set April 16 To Fill Vacancy

J. A. Whaley was elected Mayor of Memphis, succeeding Bascom E. Davenport, in yesterday's city election, and last night he took the oath of office at the regular monthly meeting of the City Council.

Out of 196 votes cast in yesterday's election, the results for mayor were: J. A. Whaley 149, C. R. Webster 47.

The four aldermen who were re-elected yesterday also were sworn in last night. They were: C. W. Kinslow, Ward 1; J. B. Reed, Ward 2; T. H. Deaver, Ward 3; N. E. Burk, Ward 4.

Vote by Wards

The vote in yesterday's election was as follows: Ward 1—Whaley 52, Webster 18, Kinslow 68. Ward 2—Whaley 46, Webster 18, Reed 64. Ward 3—Whaley 41, Webster 8, Deaver 49. Ward 4—Whaley 10, Webster 3, Burk 13.

At last night's meeting, the council passed an order to hold an election in Ward 3 on Tuesday, April 16, for the purpose of electing an alderman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Whaley. His term as alderman expires in 1936. The alderman who will be elected April 16 will serve only one year.

Mr., Mrs. J. J. Bice Shoot 45 Rattlesnakes

Forty-five rattlesnakes were killed recently by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bice of Newlin on the Smith Ranch east of Newlin. Twelve were killed with one bullet from a .22 rifle, according to J. D. Bice, father of J. J., who brought some of the rattles to The Democrat this morning.

The 45 snakes were killed in three caves. Some of them were extremely large, 9 feet in length, Mr. Bice said.

The snakes crawl out and sun on the rock ledges at the cave entrances, and when found provide good sport for Mr. and Mrs. Bice, both good shots with the rifle.

When the 12 were killed, J. J. saw and shot one, but 12 rolled out coiled in a large bundle, all having been pierced by the same bullet.

The snakes are blind when they first come out of the cave and will strike without warning, but after they are stirred up their rattles get going plenty loud, Mr. Bice said.

HARRIS SEES TRAVIS SENS' STAR

Rookie Fielders' Bats Boom Sweet Music into Boss Harris' Ears

By HARRY GRAYSON
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

BILOXI, Miss., April 3.—"Joe Engel certainly can dig 'em up," remarked Bucky Harris, as the rangy Cecil Travis shot a three-base hit into right field.

Harris, happy in his new-old assignment as manager of the Washington Americans, says the 22-year-old Travis is just catching up with major league pitching.

"And when Travis goes catch up with it, what a sheilaeking it is going to take," smiles Harris. "If Travis pulls consistently, he'll be a .400 hitter."

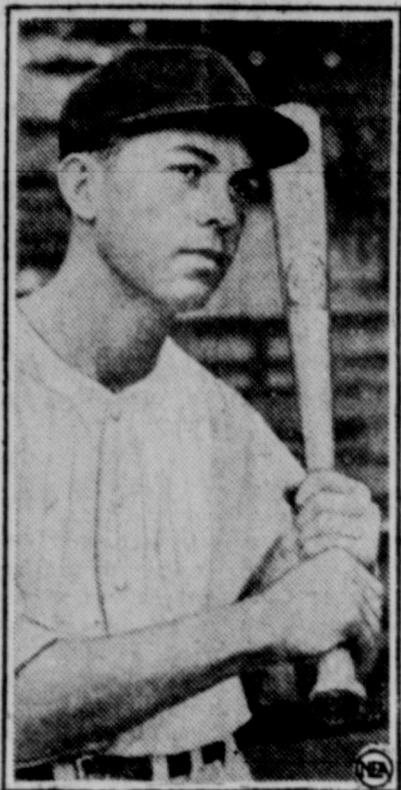

Yes, Joe Engel certainly can dig 'em up.

Not yet 21, and with only a season and a half of professional experience, Travis beat Ossie Bluege, one of the finest third basemen in baseball, out of his job with the Senators.

Engel paid Kid Elberfeld $200 for Travis in the spring of 1931. Clark Griffith asserts that he wouldn't take $125,000 for the young Georgian now, but there's never any way of telling what the Old Fox might do. Griffith's only regret is that he had put one son-in-law, Joe Cronin, to sell to the Boston Red Sox at $250,000 a crack.

But getting back to Joe Engel—"My Poy Choe" certainly can dig 'em up. The Washington scout not only knows a ball player when he sees one, but has the happy faculty of being on the ground when one arrives.

Engel stumbled into Elberfeld's baseball school at Atlanta four years ago on the morning that a gangling kid in blue overalls and tennis shoes hopped off an old truck and sought admittance. His name was Cecil Travis and he came from the cotton fields around Riverdale, Ga.

Travis didn't have to be in uniform to look like a ball player. He hit three home runs in his blue overalls and tennis shoes the first day, and became the property of the Chattanooga club of the Southern Association, of which Engel finds time to be president while carrying on his foxy foraging.

Hits Ring Off Rookie's Bat
Engel sent Travis to the Newport, Tenn., club, a member of a semi-professional circuit, with which the cotton picker hit .430. Travis reported to the Chattanooga club in September, and compiled an average of .410 for its remaining games.

Travis helped bat Chattanooga to a Southern Association pennant with a mark of .362 in 1932. Cecil trained with the Senators

PLAN SURPRISE FOOR LEAGUE FOES

at Biloxi in 1933, and hit .352 when returned to Chattanooga.

Washington recalled Travis in mid-season of that pennant-winning year, and in the first big-league game the young man ever saw he made five hits in five times at bat against Oral Hildebrand, star of the Cleveland Indians. Travis has been Washington's No. 1 third sacker ever since. He closed the 1934 campaign with an American League average of .340. Travis hit .319 in 1931, despite a beating by Thornton Lee of the Indians in early May that put him out for several weeks, and a leg injury suffered later.

Rookie Gardeners Can Till

But Travis isn't the only player Harris has in camp over whom he can wax joyful. He has a couple of rookie outfielders who can clout the apple in big league fashion.

One is Jake Powell, who hit .356 with Albany last season, and the other is Fred Sington, the former Alabama All-America football player, who compiled an average of .326 with the same club.

Both youngsters are pretty sure to stick around to help out Menush, Fred Schulte, and Johnny Stone with outfield duties.

The infield will be made up of Joe Kuhel at first, if his ankle, broken last year, is sound; Buddy Myer at second, and Lyn Larry at short. Larry has a big task to fill in replacing Joe Cronin, but he has assured Harris he can turn the trick.

Cliff Bolton's job as first-string catcher is endangered by Jim Holbrook and Jack Redmond, a couple of rookies. The former comes from Chattanooga and the latter from Birmingham.

Pitching will be handled by Earl Whitehill, ace of the staff; Walter Stewart, Leon Pettit, a rookie, Ray Prim, and Bob Burke, left-handers; Bumps Hadley, obtained from the Browns, Monte Weaver, Ed Linke, Jack Russell, and Al Thomas, right-handers. Prim is likely to be returned to the minors, as his record with the Senators and Albany last season was far from impressive.

Grimm Adds Youth to Chicago Cubs

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

AVALON, Catalina Island, April 3.—Building for the future, and not promising a pennant this year under his plans, Manager Charley Grimm is sending a rejuvenated gang of Chicago Cubs through spring training chores here.

Gone are the familiar faces of Guy Bush, Pat Malone, Jim Weaver, Bud Tinning, Dick Ward, Riggs Stephenson, Babe Herman, Benny Tate, and Bob O'Farrell. To the Wringle fold have come 10 assorted youngsters and three veterans, Freddie Lindstrom and Larry French, from Pittsburgh, and Tex Carleton from St. Louis.

Despite this general house-cleaning, which eliminated all the "playboys," Boss Grimm denies up and down that dissension in the ranks caused his outfit to do a jack-knife from the top of the heap near the close of last season's National League pennant race.

"All our strength was on the bench last year because of injuries," says Charley. "We had our regular team on the field but five times. There was no internal strife. Ball players have good and bad years, and we had our lean one last season."

"I'm taking a chance on building for the future, this season," Grimm continues. "I'm going to give some younger fellows a chance to make good where the veterans have failed."

Charley Cracks Whip
Manager Grimm is "more than satisfied" with his deal with the Pirates, in which the Bucs got Bush, Herman, and Weaver for Lindstrom and French, and the trade of Tinning and Ward for hurler Carleton from St. Louis.

Like the team, Boss Grimm has changed.

"I've been a good fellow in the past," he says, "but from now on I'll make Simon Legree look like Pollyanna. I'll stand for no more monkey business."

Despite the loss of about 16 games, on paper, through dispos-

Mrs. J. C. Roberts, Mrs. A. Womack and Mrs. Bob Roberts are visitors in Wichita Falls today.

of Malone, Bush and Weaver, Grimm thinks his pitching staff this year will make 'em sit up and take notice. French, the big southpaw, and Carleton will join Lonnie Warneke to form Chicago's "big three."

Veteran holdovers are Charlie Root, on the ragged edge, Bill Lee and Roy Joiner.

Four rookies are showing their wares. Clay Bryant, up from New Orleans, where he won 16 and lost 10, and Tom Casey, from Atlanta, where he won 8 and lost 6, seem to have impressed Grimm the most. Both are big fellows and right-handers.

The other two are Roy Henshaw, tiny left-hander who had a swell record of 16 wins and 4 losses with Los Angeles last season, and Fabian Kowalik, late of Buffalo, where he won 18 and lost 14.

Gabby Boss Catcher

Charles Leo Hartnett remains "head man" in the receiving department. The veteran 35-year-old backstop, with 12 years' service behind him, still has one of the best arms in the league. Three youngsters, all under 22, are battling for the two relief berths under Hartnett. They are Walt Goebel, up from the Pacific Coast League Angels; James O'Dea from Columbus, and Walter Stephenson, who drew pay checks at Lafayette, La., last season.

Lindstrom at third adds a decided punch to the Chicago infield, to Grimm's way of thinking.

Billy Herman continues to have a leech-like hold on second base, and Billy Jurges again will hold down the shortstop position. Phil Cavarretta, a first baseman, and Edward Cihocki, rookies, hope they will fit into the scheme of things in the infield.

"I'll take my outfield against the pick of the crop." Thus Charley Grimm sums up the situation in the Cub outer garden, where Hazen Cuyler, Chuck Klein, and Tuck Stainback roam.

Jobs of all these regulars will be in danger, however, if a newcomer, up from Chicago's Los Angeles training farm, can hit big league pitching. The young fellow is 24-year-old Frank Demaree, who let the Pacific Coast League hitters last year with an impressive .338 average and a long string of circuit clouts.

BILOXI, Miss., April 3.—A majority of the customers and Washington agree, but Buddy Myer is Joe Cronin's defensive shortstop. Certainly, no one in position to judge. Myer formed one of the finest second bases for a half dozen years.

Glorifying Yourself

BY ALICIA HART NEA Service Staff Writer

Aside from the fact that it's nice to have your hair, skin and figure look as smart as your new Easter suit and as fresh as the corsage of fresh flowers you pin on it, there's something else about spring beauty routines which is quite important. They make you feel good and give you self-confidence. The woman who has been giving herself intensive beauty treatments for a month and who feels that they have removed some of the defects that winter weather put on her face, hands and neck simply has self assurance. And that's quite as important as a new wardrobe, an Easter vacation or almost anything else.

If you doubt this, analyze your feelings some day when you haven't been near a beauty shop or given yourself home treatments for two or three weeks. The chances are ten to one that you are bored with the dress you have on, that you pull the hat that's meant to be worn jauntily down too far in hopes it will hide your hair and that you sit on your hands whenever possible. Obviously, when you have these reactions, your personality is going to be far from scintillating and your friends are likely to be as bored with you as you are with your clothes. However, have or give yourself a shampoo and a fresh wave, use a mask on your favorite home facial, manicure your nails, take a perfumed bath and see if you don't feel like a new woman. Even an old hat will seem and look pert on your head and your conversation and mannerisms will be infinitely more interesting. More than anything I can say, this simple test will prove to you how important spring beauty treatments really are.

Birthday Tea Is Given for Parnell Woman

PARNELL, April 2.—Mrs. Lee Wheeler, Mrs. J. M. Ferrel and Miss Rosalie Carter were joint hostesses at a surprise birthday tea given for Mrs. E. N. Mothershed at her home near Parnell recently.

Miss Carter presented a number of her pupils in a novel and interesting program, after which Mrs. Wheeler came forward with a beautiful basket of gifts, paying a tribute to friendship and expressing the well wishes of the guests.

A green and white color scheme was carried out in the basket and table appointments.

Mrs. Ferrel presented a beautifully decorated birthday cake which Mrs. Mothershed cut, and Mrs. George J. Bonal served to the guests. Tea was poured by Mrs. Wheeler, assisted by Mrs. Ferrel, for the following:

Mesdames L. T. Winn, Tom Weatherly, Lynn McCoy, Clarence Shackelford, W. W. Richards, J. Warner Cope, John Chaudoin, Claude Anderson, Morris McCoy, W. H. Shackelford, J. R. Moorehead, D. Travis, C. Cotton Control Head Fights Exemption of Two-Bale Producers

Opposition to the proposed two-bale exemption to the small cotton producer under the Bankhead act for 1935, has been voiced in a letter from Mr. Cobb, head of the government's cotton control program.

The letter from Mr. Cobb to the Hall County Cotton Control Association explained the effect the proposed exemption would have on the average cotton farmer.

According to Mr. Cobb's statement, the proposed exemption would take approximately 10 per cent of the cotton away from the average cotton producer who represents about 82 per cent of the total cotton producers in the South and give it to about 18 per cent of the South's cotton producers who represent the men who produce less than two bales.

Quoting from Mr. Cobb's statement, "This would, of course, work a gross injustice and at the same time would supply many producers in the small baleage class with far more cotton than they have ever produced. This would have the effect, of course, of giving them their full production, plus these other millions of bales of cotton which other producers are entitled to."

Mr. Cobb further states that the making of the two-bale exemption would not only work a gross injustice on the large majority of the cotton producers but would in all probability cause a complete break down of the administration of the Bankhead Act.

Mr. Cobb points out that the agitation for relaxation of the cotton control program has been responsible for the decline of approximately $10 a bale in the cotton market.

In view of the fact that the placing of the two-bale exemption into the Bankhead Act would probably cause a loss of approximately 3000 bales of cotton to Hely County, according to Mr. Cobb's claims, the Cotton Control Association of the county feels that the local people should be vitally interested in this piece of legislation now before Congress.

POPE DENOUNCES WAR

SPEAKING of war, Pope Pius made some interesting remarks to 20 cardinals gathered for a secret consistory at the Vatican yesterday. It was one of the strongest speeches ever made by the Pope and expressed the feeling of the Catholic Church against international armed conflict—a sentiment that should be expressed by churches of all denominations.

“War would be so enormous a crime, so foolish a manifestation of fury, that we believe it absolutely impossible,” the Pope stated.

“We cannot, in fact, persuade ourselves that those who should have at heart the prosperity and well-being of peoples should be willing to push a suicide, to ruin and to extermination not only their own nation but a great part of humanity.

“If someone wishes to commit this nefarious crime, then I could do nothing else than pray to God to desist; I could do nothing else than pray to God to destroy those peoples who desire war.

The fight against war has been left up too greatly to governments and diplomats—the average citizens have not had enough to say against this terrible hold-over of uncivilized days. We do not believe that churches as a body created for the worship of a Supreme Being should take the problems of government into its realm, but this not a matter of government. It involves countless human lives, human souls, it engenders hatreds and retards progress in religious as well as all other branches of thought and endeavor.

SWEATSHOP PAY IS NO BOON TO RELIEF

YOU'D think that the man who had a job in time of depression would go around patting himself on the back and rendering daily thanks to his lucky stars.

That's true, in most cases. But some job-holders lately have been developing a weakness for feeling sorry for themselves.

They take an attitude something like this: that because the job of supporting the unemployed falls on the government, and ultimately on the taxpayer, the man who has a job and pays taxes is very much to be pitied, since he is enabling others to live in idleness.

A young New Jersey accountant the other day sounded off at some length on this subject. He happened to know an unemployed family that was in dire circumstances—nine children, a squalid shack for a home, and relief payments of $6.25 a week as its sole income.

He tried to help a young man in this family get a job, and put an advertisement in a rural paper, stating that a 20-year-old American who could drive a car and knew how to take care of horses would take any job for his keep and $10 a month.

The accountant got 300 answers to that letter. Prospective employers all over New England and the central Atlantic region seemed to figure that a $10-a-month wage scale represented a bargain. So, when his young friend had accepted one of the offers, the accountant took the letters to relief agencies to see if other unemployed people didn't want jobs.

There he got a shock. The jobs went begging. None of the jobless men rose to the bait. And the accountant complained bitterly:

“As long as the government is going to take it out on those who pay taxes and support the vast bureaucratic machine of the Democrats, the unemployed won't work; they'll continue eating their heads off.”

Such honest indignation is very touching, until you stop to examine the boon which these unemployed men rejected. For a wage rate of $10 a month, even with keep, is a sweatshop wage, under any circumstances. Is it, really, surprising that American workers should reject it? Would we gain anything by lightening our relief load at the price of a wage scale like that? What happens to the American standard of living, at $10 a month.

The accountant reports that these offers came from high-grade outfits—Long Island estates, summer camps, shooting lodges, schools, and the like. And if we supremely lucky folk who are able to pay taxes would stop pitying ourselves, we might agree that these would-be employers rate just as much criticism for offering $10-a-month jobs as do the jobless men for turning them down.

LOOK OUT FOR THAT RIGHT!

HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The immediate hazard to health from dust storms which last for a few hours, or even for a day, is not particularly serious.

The real hazard to life from dust strikes those persons who are exposed continually in some industry to a dusty atmosphere. There are about 200 occupations in which the amount of dust in the air is considerable and present at all times.

Flour and starch dust in the milling industry do not do serious harm to the human body, but are dangerous because of the possibility of dust explosions. The soluble dusts are not usually serious because they are dissolved and eliminated from the body.

Most of the dust that gets into the nose and throat may be washed out, blown out, or coughed out when the day's work is ended. The dangerous dusts are those which are not dissolved. These collect in the lung and may in time set up irritation or inflammations.

Again it should be emphasized that this hazard will not arise for the average person in connection with the dust storms that have occurred during the last few weeks. You should realize, however, that slight hazards, do exist in relationship to the accumulation on the skin of considerable dirt and infectious material, and that in times when a dust storm is prevalent, it is probably desirable to bathe more frequently than under ordinary circumstances.

It is also important to recognize that the presence of such contaminated material, including germs on the skin, may make infections of the skin more frequent.

In some parts of the middlewest it has been reported that there have been outbreaks of pneumonia and of other serious infections in connection with dust storms. This seems exceedingly unlikely.

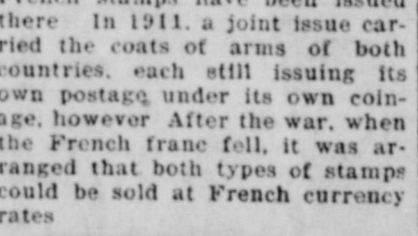

Pneumonia is caused by a germ which gets into the body that has a lowered resistance. It is exceedingly unlikely that a sufficient number of virulent germs of pneumonia have been spread about by dust storms to set up any serious infections.

Stories in STAMPS

UNDER TWO FLAGS

OF the thousands of islands that dot the South Pacific, the group called New Hebrides has never been claimed by a single nation. Instead, this colony remains under control of both Great Britain and France. A French explorer claimed the islands for his country in 1768, and Capt John Cook, the famous navigator, claimed them for Great Britain in 1774. In 1878, they were declared neutral and placed under a "condominium," or joint government.

Since 1908, both British and French stamps have been issued there. In 1911, a joint issue carried the coats of arms of both countries, each still issuing its own postage under its own coinage, however. After the war, when the French franc fell, it was arranged that both types of stamps could be sold at French currency rates.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Labor Wood and Wheedled Into NRA Support . . . Richberg Plays Role of Scorched Offering . . . Hillman Stars in Part of Peacemaker.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Recent surface developments involving the White House and labor and NRA don't make sense to a lot of people—even here in Washington.

They're easier to understand if you look behind the scenes to see what the chief actors were doing—and realize the seriousness of the previously existing mess. White House gestures to labor were imperative.

It looked as if Congress were preparing to cut the Blue Eagle's throat. Both industry and labor largely desire NRA continuance, but the critics were howling loudly.

NRA was being investigated by a Senate finance committee almost utterly ignorant of its operation. The impression was widespread that Roosevelt really wanted to give NRA a decent burial. Reports came in of manufacturers curtailing production so they might make higher profits through lower costs after expiration of NIRA June 16.

The NRA organization was badly demoralized and its administrative board, the National Industrial Recovery Board, was threatening to disintegrate through resignation of four of its five members.

Roosevelt needed articulated, solid support for NRA—from labor as well as industry. Experience had taught that it wasn't wise to have an industrialist at the organization's head, such as retiring Chairman Clay Williams of NIRB.

Big Man Needed
The job required a big figure, acceptable to both industry and labor, whose appointment would be evidence to Congress and the country of Roosevelt's determination to continue NRA, who could reinject life into NRA while strengthening the administration's legislative position.

With this in mind, Roosevelt decided on Donald Richberg, his "assistant president."

But Richberg had become anathema to organized labor. John L. Lewis, powerful leader of the miners, was attacking Richberg publicly and violently—with tacit support from other leaders.

Richberg's attitude on collective bargaining had infuriated labor and it had been Richberg who several months before had blocked efforts by Secretary Perkins to give labor equal representation with industry on NIRA.

Labor opposition was seriously impairing Richberg's effectiveness as F. D.'s right-hand man and seemed sure to be a factor in his resignation sooner or later.

Don Takes It on Chin
It was also becoming political liability to the administration and adding to third party worries. A distinct handicap in strike threats of variance in coal, textile, and automobile industries.

So Richberg, who had less capacity for taking the chin while standing out and took it on his own.

As Daniel Elzer, director of the NRA Labor Advisory Board, pleaded for labor support for four hours.

To all of which Richberg meekly with soft words.

Hillman Saves Day
Thereafter, Sidney Hillman and the American Clothing Workers entered the scene as a conciliator. He hadn't attended a meeting of the labor leader, but at the White House and President Billingsley.

He had conferred with Lewis and Clegg, everyone understood side wanted and would accept.

The labor leaders didn't stop batting Richberg's head, to co-operate with the NRA chief, and to see if strong for support of NIRA.

REVIEWS OF CURRENT MOTION PICTURES

One of the most enthralling and spectacular screen romances of recent years began a run at the Palace Theatre yesterday. This is the Fox Film production, "Hell in the Heavens," starring Warner Baxter.

Lewis Enters—

did not know until January 3 when he confessed because he was driven to different medical treatment.

Witness cried as he told of the untimely death of his four children, caused, he said, by his own physical condition.

It was to secure medical treatment for a condition he did not care to mention even to friends that he and his wife left Amarillo, Lewis said.

Feet Don't Fit Tracks

Under cross-examination by Major E. A. Simpson, special prosecutor, Lewis said he had no objection whatever to having his fingerprints taken for a comparison with any found in the Hamlin home.

Lewis said his only instruction from Major Simpson was: "All I want you to do is tell the God Almighty's unvarnished truth."

Lewis feet, the size of which has been a subject of much interrogation during previous days of the trial, are shorter by an inch, perhaps two inches, than the stick-measurement of tracks found in the yard of the Hamlin home when the crime was discovered.

Sensation in Court

Because his name had been mentioned often in court, Lewis' appearance yesterday morning caused a sensation.

Lewis was located in Tulsa, Okla., and brought here by "Ham" Horton, a deputy constable, under instructions from the prosecution.

Members are urged to attend the meeting.
