1,000 HEAR RAYBURN'S "JACK SAVAGE" TALK AT HARRISON'S

Transcending in interest any previous morning service of the cooperative revival was the talk of Dr. James Rayburn Thursday morning at 10:00 o'clock at the Harrison Hardware company, when the evangelist spoke to more than 1,000 men and boys on the subject of "Jack Savage."

Dr. Rayburn carried his listeners with him to a revival meeting he conducted in an Iowa town many years ago. He said, in part:

"Some years ago when I was conducting an evangelistic campaign in an Iowa town, my wife and I, and our two little children, were guests in the home of Jack Savage. He was a fellow who associated with men who took delight in speaking lightly of God—a tobacco chewing crowd they were.

5 CALLS IN DAY KEEP FIREMEN BUSY

Fire Fighters Kept on Jump for 24-hour Period

Leader-Democrat News Alliance
WELLINGTON, April 19.—"Things are getting pretty fast—just about as fast as I can stand," declared Bura Handley, chief of the Wellington fire department Tuesday afternoon just after the local department had answered their fifth fire call during a period of 24 hours.

Monday at noon the mattress factory owned by J. R. Childress and located just east of the Wellington Motor company caught fire. The department made a hurried call and succeeded in getting the blaze under control after the fire had charred only the inside of the building and consumed a portion of the cotton.

Two runs were made during the night to the residence of Toad Boverie. An alarm was turned in at 11 o'clock and the firemen were successful in extinguishing the flames before a great deal of damage had been done, and returned to the city hall. A few live sparks must have gone unnoticed, for at 2 o'clock the house was in flames again and the firemen made their second run to this residence. Two rooms and the top were burned from the house, which was a six-room structure. The loss is partially covered by insurance, it is reported.

At noon Tuesday the barn owned by Mrs. R. L. Templeton was completely destroyed, and the sparks from this conflagration caught the roof on the residence of Marvin Somerville, half a block distant, causing the firemen to make another run.

Mrs. G. S. Vineyard and son Jim returned to their home in Amarillo this morning after a visit with their daughter and sister, Mrs. J. C. Wells.

Revival Meet is Drawing to Close

Blackboard Talk Friday Morning is Week's Feature

Most impressive of all services of the Rayburn revival is the blackboard talk at 10 a. m. Friday morning, according to the Rev. G. W. Otteson, assistant to Dr. Rayburn. All business in the city will cease for one hour during this service. A soul stirring message presented in a new and different way is promised.

"It isn't so much what you hear as what you see at this service," Rev. Mr. Otteson said, "and what one sees should convince even the most skeptical."

The Gold Medal band will play a short concert preceding the blackboard talk.

"The One Word" is Dr. Rayburn's subject for Friday night. "Divine Healing," the last bible lecture of the series, will be delivered at the tabernacle at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. Saturday night the subject is "Matthew 10:32." Sunday morning delegations from all lodges of the city will attend in a body to hear the sermon, "The Church."

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 a meeting for both men and women will be held at the tabernacle. Dr. Rayburn will speak on "The Science of Church Life." Following the meeting a conference will be held with all church members. "The Second Coming of Christ" is the subject for Sunday night. Monday evening at 7:30, the last service of the revival, is termed "Converts' Night."

Collection taken Sunday night is Dr. Rayburn's sole remuneration for his work in Memphis. No salary is included in the budget for him. He simply takes the last collection money, be it large or small, and considers his "account" closed. Members of the finance committee for the revival urge all church members and others to be liberal when this last collection is taken.

Catching Lions Edinburg Sheriff's Favorite Pastime

EDINBURG, April 19. (UP)—"That's all right, I'll catch another one to take his place," Luther D. Snow, sheriff of Willacy county, said when notified that a mountain lion he caught several days ago near Raymondville had been killed by another lion at the Harlingen zoo, where Snow's animal was being kept.

The dead beast had been caught by Snow and his brother, Robert, about 30 miles northeast of Raymondville on the King ranch. They also captured a small lion. The large lion had been placed in a cage at the Harlingen zoo with another lion which had been there for several weeks.

Friction developed from the start. Persons visiting the cage one morning found the newly caged lion dead on the floor, and the old captive leaning weakly against the bar with a triumphant though slightly spent expression in his eyes.

The dead lion measured seven and one-half feet from tip to tip, and the small one captured by the sheriff taped a little over six feet.

Graham Brothers Truck Used For Shearing Sheep

Shearing sheep by the motor truck that also transports the wool to market is Australia's latest labor saving method.

In the sheep country near Melbourne, a fan pulley is mounted on the crank shaft extension on the front of a Graham Brothers truck. A belt from this pulley running to a special mounted pulley shaft operates 15 shearing machines. Forty thousand sheep were recently sheared by this attachment on a ranch of 104,000 sheep.

No, these are not the Samson sisters doing their daily dozen, but it is a real log they are carrying around. It should weigh at least 400 pounds, but it happens to be balsa wood, the lightest known. DALLAS, April 19. (UP)—Texas has little organized crime in comparison with other states, according to John L. Mee, New York, vice president of the National Surety company.

Mee visited Texas on a business trip for his company. "Either organized bands of crooks have not yet come to Texas or else they have been chased out of the famous two-gun Texas rangers," Mee said. Most of the thefts from Texas banks and business houses are made by Lone Wolf crooks, Mee said the records of his company showed.

Trucks Pass Tests To Enter Argentine Free of Import Duty

Motor truck shirkers aren't allowed in the Argentine.

The government requires they prove their worth in rigid tests before being admitted duty free. With these trailers and the bed of the truck heavily laden with iron and tires, a 1-1-2 ton Graham Brothers truck recently pulled a load of several tons to pass all requirements. Hereafter, Graham Brothers trucks will be exempt from the 10 per cent duty charges, and enter the country as a desirable immigrant.

Net Service Manager Explains Aluminum Pistons

Aluminum piston has been used in automobiles for 17 years, according to Mr. Williams, service manager for the D & M Chevrolet company, local dealers in Chevrolet cars and trucks, "but until recently of the last four or five years it has not been practical."

The first aluminum pistons were soft and consequently wore rapidly. They also expanded when heated by the burn-off in the engine and had fitted loosely in order to prevent a piston 'sticking.' This the motors using the aluminum piston soon become noisy and rattle too much oil.

In spite of the short life and high replacement cost the manufacturers continued to use aluminum piston because with it they could build a motor which almost no trouble with the connecting rod bearings which would run with almost perfect freedom; thus overcoming two of the greatest objections to the aluminum piston.

Years ago it was discovered that the addition of certain metals to the piston could be heated, as we say, tempered, made a piston which was as long or longer than the iron piston.

Many years ago engineers had developed a piston composed chiefly of iron which expanded less than any other metal. It is called Invar, an alloy of iron and nickel, of invariable expansion. An aluminum piston was made with this invar, struts, of this kind perpendicular to the ends of the piston skirt, or lower part of the piston, which had which was cut from the aluminum and whose expansion was the expansion of the invar.

Discoveries solved the problem of the use of aluminum pistons. They could now be made of iron and aluminum. They wore longer. They were popular and today they are the cars made of the strut type aluminum.

Germans Make Ladies' Shoes of U.S. Army Jerkins

SAN ANTONIO, April 19. (UP)—Lieut. J. J. Raeyer, most widely known officer at Fort Sam Houston and oldest in service at the fort, is to be transferred to foreign duty but he has asked his superiors to defer his transfer "as long as possible."

He will not leave here until next year. His orders call for a tropical tour after leaving here.

Lieut. Raeyer has been salvage and laundry officer at the post for the past nine years and has become acquainted with thousands of army men because of the peculiar nature of his duties. He entered military duty in 1927 after a successful career as rice planter in Texas and Mexico.

During his service here, Lieut. Raeyer has salvaged and disposed of more than $4,500,000 in government material, including tents, vehicles, surgical supplies, clothing and other articles of army equipment. His largest sale was a collection of several thousand leather perkins, no longer desired for American use, to Germans for approximately $3,000,000. He said that within a month after they were sold shoe stores throughout Germany began selling women's shoes fashioned from the discarded jerkins.

HARPER KIRBY, DRY LEADER, IS DEAD

Chairman of Constitutional Democrats Dies at Austin

AUSTIN, April 19. (UP)—Funeral services for Robert Harper Kirby, 67, chairman of the "Constitutional Democrats," life-long prohibitionist and philanthropist, who died Monday afternoon of heart failure shortly after a conference with Gov. Moody, was held Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the family residence here.

Overexertion, caused by a hurried walk from the State Capitol Building to his home, some four blocks distance, after he had apparently forgotten his waiting automobile, brought on the straits that caused his death. He died just as he reached the steps of his home.

Physicians several weeks ago advised him to resign his post as chairman of the Constitutional faction because of the strain and he offered his resignation, but withdrew it when asked to direct the movements of the group from his home in Austin. He was hurrying yesterday to catch a train for Rochester, Minn., where he was to have been treated for his heart trouble.

Pall bearers for the funeral were Brown Robbins, W. A. Keeling, Q. C. Taylor, T. B. Walling, H. H. Lueddecke and E. P. Cravens, all of Austin and personal friends of Kirby.

The Rev. W. H. Bryan, pastor of the First Methodist church, of which Kirby was a member, officiated.

Aside from his connection with the Constitutional Democrats, Kirby has been very active in a philanthropic way, giving widely to charity and religious purposes. Born at Hempstead, Walter county, March 20, 1861, the son of Jared Ellison and Helen Marr Kirby, he was educated at Texas Military Institute of Austin, Eastman's Business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Vanderbilt and Texas Universities. He was married to Miss Annie E. McAshen of Houston August 28, 1883.

The conference held Monday with Governor Moody before the death of Kirby was said to have been in the interest of securing harmony in the Texas campaign to support a dry candidate for president of the United States. Governor Moody is leader of the "Harmony" Democrats, while Kirby was elected chairman of the "Constitutional" group when it was organized for the present campaign some time ago.

Valley's First Crate Tomatoes Is Forwarded

EDINBURG, April 19. (UP)—What is believed to be the first tomatoes shipped this season from any section of the United States—one crate of them—have left the Lower Rio Grande Valley. They were shipped by William Y. Buck of Harlingen to a firm in Hitchcock, a small town near Houston.

"The present season's yield has not yet begun to appear in marketable quantities, but I think that the last of April or the early part of May, this section will be sending out carlot shipments of tomatoes," Buck said.

Dodge Brothers Deliveries Pass Factory Output

With the added stimulus that has been provided by the introduction of the new low priced Standard six, retail deliveries by Dodge Brothers, Inc., for the week ended April 7, in this country and Canada, exceeded factory shipments by 67 units, according to John R. Lee, general sales manager of the company.

Retail sales of cars and trucks totaled 6,232 units which exceeds any week last year and sets a new high mark for 1928. Factory shipments were 6,165. It is significant that domestic dealer reports show an increase in sales of passenger cars of 52 per cent over the corresponding week in 1927. Last week's retail deliveries were 18 per cent over those of the preceding week, and 32 per cent ahead of those for the same week last year.

While the public acceptance of the new Standard Six line has met every expectation, as evidenced by the retail sale of approximately 3,000 of these cars in the first eight days upon the market, the demand that is being made upon the lines is exceptionally high.

The Senior Six is rapidly finding its way into the higher class car field, and judging from its production schedules on the way to substantially increase its share of the market.

During the past week, sales of the Senior six gained 23 per cent; over the preceding week while the Victory six which have been great favorites with the buying public since the day of their introduction, had a 23 per cent increase in sales.

In addition, a continued heavy demand for our Graham trucks and commercial trucks are exceedingly optimistic prospects for the quarter.

Special equipped trucks of this nature have been found to reflect the character and stability of the firms they represent.

S. M. U. Student Says "Back to the Kitchen," but Kitchen Must Have Pleasant Aspect and Much Color

DALLAS, Tex., April 19 (UP)—"Back to the kitchen" is the watchword for what will be a nation wide movement among the flappers, according to Dorothy Smith, senior student in Southern Methodist University. Miss Smith is the leader of the local movement to put flappers back in the kitchens.

"Nearly all of the young girls in college are interested in our 'back to the kitchen' plan," Miss Smith said, "but we all want the kind of kitchens that are worth going back to."

"I don't see why the kitchen shouldn't have a color scheme, same as a living room. You spend a lot of time in it, why not have it artistic and pleasant?"

Modern kitchens should be jade and crimson and white, according to Miss Smith. The stoves should be of fay enamel and the pots and pans carry out the color plan.

"I'd like to see a man with his office all dirty and black and depressing," Miss Smith argued. "He just wouldn't stand for it."

The mothers of today's flappers went on a strike from the routine of the kitchen, said Miss Smith.

"And no wonder," Miss Smith said. "But we girls of today have gas to burn, all sorts of labor saving devices and even a combination refrigerator and gas stove, sometimes. And we've got our gay pet color schemes in our kitchens."

1000 Hear—

(Continued from page 1.) mitted that he did. I asked him what profit he had gained out of leading a sinful life. He told me that he had gained nothing but a ruined life.

"I asked him to give his life to God, to start over again. He told me that he would if his father would also. He said it would be no use to try to live a Christian life, while his father scoffed at God and at everything of a religious nature. I determined to have a talk with Jack.

"One night at the conclusion of my services, I told my wife to go upstairs and put the children to bed and not wait up for me as I wanted to have a talk with Jack. I asked him if he wouldn't like to see Carl be a Christian. He looked at me earnestly and said, 'There is nothing in this world I'd rather see. He has made of himself a tramp. I offered to give him the proceeds from my farm for a period of ten years if he would work it, and then deed the farm to him at the end of that time but he refused. He said he didn't want the farm. He has almost wrecked his mother's health, and there is nothing in this world I'd rather see him do than become a Christian.'

"Then I told him how he could bring about Carl's conversion—to come down the aisle with him and give his life to God. He thought for a while, but would not give in. I told him that I would get Carl out of bed and have him come down in his pajamas and that we would pray over the matter but he refused.

"The last night of the meeting arrived. People were flocking down the aisle. A minister went to speak with Jack, but I saw him shake his head. Then the minister asked me if I would not speak to Jack. Although I do not generally leave the pulpit, I did so then. I went back and asked him to come and give his life to Christ. He gripped the seat in front of him like a vise. I plead with Carl to come on anyway, and he told me he would if Dad would, but the father would not give in.

"The next morning the Savages went with me to the station. The Rock Island train came in. I told Jack that I wished he would reconsider and write me that he had done so. All I could get out of him was the word 'Probably.' As the train was pulling out, he grabbed my hand and I plead with him again, but he shook his head.

"Some months later, a minister wrote me from the city in which Jack lived that they had been having a terrible time. He said that shortly after I had gone, Carl went on another trip. He became sick and was brought home on a stretcher. His sisters were sent for when it became evident that he could not survive. When Jack entered the sick room, Carl looked at him and then shrieked, 'I am going to Hell and you are the cause of it. I wanted to be a Christian, but you wouldn't let me. I am lost; I am lost.'

"The doctors hurried Jack from the room. Carl grew weaker and the doctors thought he had lost consciousness and they permitted the family again to re-enter the sick room. Again Carl saw his father and began swearing and berating him for allowing him to die unsaved. The father left the room and stood outside with bowed head.

"Today, Carl Savage is in his grave and Jack is walking the streets of his home town. He hasn't been about a church in

The great audience of men and boys hardly moved during the thirty minute talk. In the eyes of many stood tears. Maybe there was a Jack Savage in that crowd. Who knows?

Sportier Sport Clothes, Fashion's Cry

Street Attire Becomes More Formal, Says Harriet, and Whole of Fashion Trend Is Away from Masculinity This Season

BY HARRIET

Sports costumes are growing sportier. And street attire gets more normal. Those are the two outstanding developments right now in the realm of clothes.

Audacious sweaters live sports suits and quite sedate coats and suits make the street costumes more conventional.

It is all a sign of these very feminine times in which we live. Once Dame Fashion made up her mind to obliterate the masculine boyish form, she determined to go the whole way and create styles definitely that would let a woman change her mind, her clothes and her personality as many times as she wanted.

Modernistic sweaters and frocks that have signs of the Zodiac on them for decoration are the two new stylish facts in sports wear. The frocks have Zodiac signs for each month of the year and one picks her birthday month to be sure to have luck. Sometimes the belts with these frocks are in gold or silver with all the signs of the Zodiac worked out elaborately around them.

Wide Range of Sweaters The modernistic sweaters seem to be slated for more popularity. Daring indeed are they in their color combinations and their oddities. They range from the soft all-wool types to soft, lacy ones in pastel colors that call for, a finely pleated pastel satin skirt.

The sports sweaters that have attracted the most attention are those that have their modernistic designs woven right into them. Others have applied colors elaborating these designs. All colors, however, are toned to fade into each other, the design furnishing enough novelty without having too much contrasting color to smite the eye.

Soft grays merge into silver, blues range from dark to sky blue and then there are some such color schemes as chocolate, beige and gray, or dark green, pink and blue. One outstanding feature of these sweaters is that the sleeves will sometimes be of different colors, one dark, the other very light—giving an astonishingly attractive sweater.

"Crew" Neck Is New The model shown today uses dark green, flesh, pink and pale orange in a modernistic sweater, with one sleeve a dark green, the other a pale orange. Here we see the new round, or crew, neck, also. The skirt or kashine tweed in green, is cut with circular sides to give it the fullness required by the up-to-date costume.

This sport costume (left) and the other for street wear emphasize the diverging aims of the two types. Sport clothes are getting sportier and street costumes more formal, Harriet says.

While sweaters dare much in the way of color and design, the new street coats either for separate wear or ensembles are becoming more intricately decorated but at the same time, more conservatively so.

Much hand-work is seen on them, hand embroidery indeed being almost the most stylish ornamentation on wool this season.

But the colors tone quietly into each other, and with all the work put on a single garment, the most successful one is that which gives the appearance of sheer simplicity, almost severity.

A typical ultra-stylish coat for this season is the medium blue soft broadcloth shown today. Light weight, it is as soft as the exquisite silver crepe satin which lines it. It is cut straight line, with a svelt standing collar of silver dyed lamb. Varied sizes of polka dots in silver silk thread march up and down the front, around the bottom of the coat and entirely outline the open, deep cuffs which are quite novel.

FORMER QUANAH MAN SOLVES VALLEY IRRIGATION PROBLEM

EDINBURG, April 19. (UP)—Reclamation of approximately 14 per cent of citrus land, cutting in half expenses of raising the fruit, and reducing the number of men required to irrigate 20 acres of orchard will be accomplished by a new tile irrigation canal system put into use for the first time by M. S. Winbury in his citrus grove one mile east of Alamo, near here.

Total costs of the system when finally completed will be $3,175, he said.

On the south side of the field there were 49,500 square feet, or little more than an acre of waste land made useless by the old open canal formerly used, which has been converted into tillable land by the new underground canal system. On the land thus saved three rows of trees, 25 in each row, can be planted.

"I have been paying a man $1,000 a year to care for my orchard, but I think I can care for it myself now and thereby lower the cost of maintenance $500," he said.

Winbury estimated that it took 20 hours to irrigate the orchard by the old methods and that now the work can be done in ten hours with one man.

The county water district in which Winbury lives is so impressed with the saving effected by the new system, that it is planning on tiling all its canals at a cost of more than $2,000,000.

Winbury was formerly a stock farmer at Quanah.

LET'S CHAT AWHILE

By Dorothy B. Robbins

I do not know, I am sorry to say, whether my native state is one of the fifteen having passed laws to protect wild flowers. I'm in favor of it and pledge my vote if it is ever necessary.

Cruelty is the word for the hand that slaughters the innocent flowers. If they are gathered any distance from home, they are wilted before they can be cared for. Cultivated flowers, especially roses, have always seemed to belong to the parent bush. Let them shatter and lie on the ground and throw out their perfume: 'tis a fitting way.

As the artificial flowers more and more correctly copy nature—and even the paper ones—it would seem that at last the time is arriving when nature's artistic arrangements need not be defiled by ruthless hands. Watch children picking wild flowers and you will observe this: eight out of ten pluck them for the sheer pleasure of breaking the stems—"pulling flowers," they call it; the other two run to mother and demand vases. In both cases, the flowers are forgotten.

With all our roadways running in a perfect network everywhere it is high time for leaving every attractive sight possible, not only for homefolks to enjoy, but for visitors. We are all more or less on parade for the nation now; at all times, because of tourist travel. I have seen many beautiful wild flower gardens in Texas, with so many varieties of flowers that it looked like an extra package of mixed seed had been planted in that particular spot. If you know a similar place and love the flowers, take your crayons and go make as nearly a reproduction of the scene as possible. Besides the flowers, there will be rocks, a growing field, a farm house in the distance and maybe a farmer ploughing. Birds will be hither and thither, an eagle booming overhead, and a blue sky with a brilliant sun. Yes, I've seen that picture I know just where to find it. I have seen it often.

Perhaps the little brand has filled up and roads cut places that once grew wild and deeper in leafy delirium blossom of the mayapple. plum sweetens a forest and wood beckons because it is runner of all bloom; ghostly looms through trees when it lets under their leafy delirium seriously contemplating their presence known.

A bouquet of nigger-grasses would appeal though, and I would find to be a "scold," if some youngster complimented me such fashion. But, really possible to see every you and more how necessary leave the wild flowers in as God has planted them.

The west has a flower as "Star of Bethlehem" pretty white waxen flowers growing on a long stem lasting a few days, in rank in moist soil on flowers of white and pink grow so deep in it that they look like big patches of color.

TEXANS WATCH OUTCOME OF CONVENTIONS

BY GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Texas, April 19. (UP).—Texas politics shifted during the past week from the theoretical to the practical.

The rallies and conferences to crystallize sentiment have been supplanted by a systematic organized campaign to get votes in the precinct primary conventions on May 5. These meetings will send delegates to county conventions which will select delegates to the state convention at Beaumont.

For the Harmony group the state has been divided into divisions that correspond to the congressional districts. Organizers have been sent to the Lower Rio Grande Valley and other sections, and the campaign is mapped out even down to leadership in each

The Town Where Nothing Happens, Proud of It's Record

On maps of Mississippi, Walthall has as big a circle as any other county seat to mark the fact that it is the seat of Webster county's government. But Walthall has a greater distinction—it is the town where nothing ever happens.

And this, not on the testimony of restless, modern youths of Walthall, but on the indisputable testimony of records in the pretty court house of which Walthall is so proud.

Old residents of the village pause and wrinkle their brows as they try to recall the when the last person Walthall died. It was twelve years ago. And, Walthall residents will tell you defensively, that he died of old age. Even so, the demise was so unusual that the entire village turned out to attend the funeral.

There are conflicting accounts of when the last death before that occurred. County records are not even clear on the point so it was many, many years ago.

No Doctors; No Lawyers

There are no lawyers, doctors or ministers in the town. Several times optimistic graduates from law and medical schools have settled there, but not for long. All they moved on—"to Texas." Walthall folks say—because there was no work for them in this town where "nothing ever happens."

Sickness is a rarity and a law suit practically unknown. Walthall has two flourishing churches, a Methodist and a Baptist. Both ministers, however, live elsewhere and drive to their churches on Sunday mornings from surrounding towns.

In accordance with law, Walthall residents have a duly elected coroner, but his office is largely honorary. There is little for a coroner to do in a community put on a sun-up breakfast that brought out the largest crowd ever assembled to eat the breakfast and to listen to the plans of the organization for the coming year. This is mentioned because it contains a novel idea for getting out a big gathering, provided of course people elsewhere can be induced to rise as early as those Tahoka people get up.

New Braunfels Gauze Mill

One successful enterprise usually results in another. New Braunfels has made a big success of its gingham mills, its cement plants, its power plant, its pleasure park and about everything else undertaken. It is now announced that a $425,000 gauze mill is to be built there to manufacture medicinal gauze and such things, and that around the plant there will be constructed a suburban addition to accommodate the mill employees. The chamber of commerce says that $3,500,000 will be spent there this year in industrial development.

Sunflower Seed

There is one crop, said to be valuable as chicken feed, that is apparently native to the Texas soil, but which is much overlooked as a farm crop. That is the sunflower seed crop. An Oklahoma farmer has planted a large acreage in Russian sunflowers and has contracted the entire output to wholesale dealers in poultry feed, who will grind it and mix it into their feeds. It is said to be excellent feed for laying hens. The hedge-row, fence-line kind of sunflower found everywhere in Texas may not be Russian in character, but is close enough variety may be successfully grown.

Breakfast at Sunrise

Getting the idea from sunrise prayer meetings that were so popular at camp meetings in pioneer Texas days, the Tahoka chamber of commerce recently where even natural deaths are practically unknown.

Plenty of Room in Jail

Likewise, the county sheriff, his deputies, the town mayor and the entire police force—consisting of one man—have little in the way of law enforcement to take care of. The town's commodious jail is more often than not without a solitary tenant.

In keeping with the best modern traditions, the last man to be locked up had gotten into trouble over payments on his automobile. He supplied bond within a few hours and loyal Walthall citizens are inclined to disregard this slight cloud upon the jail's tenantless record.

Walthall's unique distinction cannot be laid to isolation. The village is in the central part of the state and is on several main highways. For all its lack of spectacular happenings, the town is progressive. It boasts of excellent schools and is a prosperous shopping center for the farmers of Webster county.

Settled Many Years Ago

The town's history goes back into the early days of the nation. It was founded by hardy pioneers who were attracted by the abundance of wild turkey and other game in the virgin forest that is now Walthall. Many prominent Mississippi families trace their ancestry back to "Walthall folks."

Built On Value — Growing on Value

First Chevrolet Built in Dixie Now On Road

The first Chevrolet car ever built in Dixie rolled off the assembly line Friday, April 13, when the mammoth new Chevrolet factory in Atlanta—the largest automotive institution in all the South—swung into operation to supply the Southeastern states.

In the presence of a group of notables, including city, state and civic officials, the first Southern-built Chevrolet was welcomed to the land of cotton and sunshine by Governor Hardeman of Georgia and Mayor Ragsdale of Atlanta. Representing the Chevrolet Motor company were W. S. Roberts, plant manager, and L. S. Costley, regional sales manager.

Flashing from the assembly line, its lustrous finish glistening in the sunlight, Number One caught every eye as it was quickly driven out to make room for Number Two which was coming up immediately in the rear. Over to the driveway shed it went as an admiring crowd followed to make further inspection of the car that is the herald of a long line to follow in succeeding weeks.

City officials present at the formality commented on the significance of the event, its importance, not only to Atlanta but to the entire Southeast, and joined in the opinion that the huge Atlanta plant would be a leading factor in increased industrial activity in the South.

Constructed at a cost of more than $2,250,000, the plant covers 22 acres and has 410,000 square feet of floor space. It has an assembly capacity of 350 cars a day, or more than 100,000 a year. Following the Chevrolet policy of recruiting workmen from the community in which its plants are located, it will be almost exclusively a Southern institution, its 1,300 employees being residents of Atlanta or nearby cities. The payroll will approach $3,000,000 annually.

Production will be on a basis of 2,000 cars for the last half of April, with the May schedule calling for six thousand cars.

Strategically located for shipping purposes, the plant is equipped to make rapid deliveries to the Six Southeastern states it will serve, including Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and parts of North Carolina and Tennessee.

The factory is served by the Southern Railroad company, which has six lines of tracks adjoining the plant for storage of cars. Accommodations have been made to handle as many as 300 cars at one time. Two other tracks lead directly into the Chevrolet plant proper and one track into the Fisher Body unit.

In all the plant embraces six units. The main building which includes Chevrolet and Fisher body assembly, a three story office building, driveway shed, loading dock, parts warehouse and pump.

The first spade of dirt preparatory to the start of construction work, was turned the day following Thanksgiving and the plant opened 19 weeks later. The Seaboard Southern Construction company, general contractors, worked night and day shifts to complete the plant in the comparatively brief space of time. Erection of the factory was superintended by Harry Celander, construction engineer for the Chevrolet Motor company, who directed the work continuously since Thanksgiving Day.

In addition to Mr. Roberts, plant manager, the following officials are now in charge: W. J. Sullivan, superintendent; E. J. Gleason, manager of the Fisher Body division and H. J. Schmidt, resident controller.

The Atlanta plant provides Chevrolet with eight domestic assembly plants throughout the country, an export plant at Bloomfield, N. J., and manufacturing plants at Detroit, Bay City, Saginaw, Flint and Toledo. In addition to Atlanta, assembly plants are located in Flint, Mich., Tarrytown, N. Y., Norwood, O., Oakland, Cal., Buffalo, N. Y., Janesville, Wisc., and St. Louis, Mo.

The public will be invited to inspect the plant early in May when an "Open House" will be arranged.

CLEANING UP

A picnic and span Panhandle will greet tourists this summer if the plans of the various cities and towns are put over. Never before in the history of the country has there been such a wide-spread and concerted movement toward beautification and the "clean up, paint up" campaigns are going over strong. Nurseries doing business in this section have had the biggest demand in their experience for trees and shrubs and plants and it appears that Panhandle citizens are determined to show the world that the Plains country is not the barren, desolate region it has been pictured. Mayors of towns throughout this territory have issued proclamations calling upon the people to observe National Clean Up Week, which began last Monday, and the citizens are responding wholeheartedly in the undertaking. It goes without saying that the home folks will get the greatest pleasure and satisfaction out of their improved premises even though it be undertaken, nominally, for the benefit of the traveling public. In many cases the farm folks are also cooperating in the movement and a few years of such work will make a wonderful change in the attractiveness of this entire region. Let the good work go on and let's all help—Southwest Plainsman.

WILD AND WOOLY JACK HOXIE APPEARS IN PERSON IN MEMPHIS

Jack Hoxie, famous Western movie star, appeared in person at the Gem theatre, matinee and night, Tuesday, in connection with one of his starring vehicles, "Backfire." As G. W. Wall, the star's manager, introduced Jack, a wave of spontaneous enthusiasm surged over the packed theatre and this movie hero dear to the hearts of young and old alike was given a big ovation.

As Jack allowed the spotlight to find him, he removed his ten gallon hat, jingled his spurs and smiled broadly.

"Thanks, folks," he said, "I'm mighty glad of the opportunity to visit your splendid city. I am making an extended tour visiting the smaller towns as well as the larger cities. I think no difference should be made between them. The smaller towns are just as deserving of recognition as the larger ones."

"I left Los Angeles March 15 and I expect to be on the road for at least six months. My first objective is Chicago, and from there, I shall go to New York. I may go back to California through the south or through Canada, I'm not sure which."

"I'm making this trip in advance of five Peter B. Kyne pictures which I shall make for the Red Cantas Cruz. I will also work on them in New and in West Texas. The pictures will be known as 'Golden Stallion.' I am not yet to announce the titles of the other four."

"Suppose you folks have my horse. His name is 'White Bird,' and he is nine years old. Three others of the same breed. Their names are 'Golden Stallion,' 'Nava,' and 'Golden Stallion.' Some have perhaps seen the 'Stallion,' as he is appearing in a serial at the Gem Saturday."

In conclusion of Jack's talk, manager announced that the star would be glad to shake hands with people as they passed the theatre. A mad rush to the exit where Jack, said a few words to each hook hands with him.

"How much money do you make?" was the first question asked him.

"I draw down $2,500 a week," the star replied, as he sweat from his forehead. "Of course, I get a percentage on the pictures," he replied.

"Are you married?" "I'll say I am. I have daughters. My wife, the screen as Marian, is with me in many of my pictures."

"What do you think of Memphis?" "I like this state," he passed through Texas. "This is the first opportunity I've had to really meet you. They are certainly and are giving me a welcome wherever I appear. You, I'm just crazy about. No kiddin'. Some of the best people in the world."

"He is one-quarter Indian," he was born in Guthrie, Oklahoma, thirty-six years ago. He is a noted rider of wild horses and has a double barrel before the camera. On the lot, he is a "double barrel" for himself.

"The star has been in the business for seven years. His first experience was with the camera, where he played the part of Kit Carson, Jr. He is tall for the role."

"But I made it all that time until the picture was being started for several world's records, he bulldozed a road flat at Bakersfield, and he set a record for truck riding at the same year."

"Jack has appeared in pictures. He stated that he required to make pictures is from six to eight hours before the camera stage?" he was asked.

"Jack replied, 'I like it better stay with it.' His ranch at Burbank, California, is known as 'The Santa Cruz.' The manager for Jack is handling stars and pictures for the past five years. He is in Memphis Jack's picture, Matador, which, Chillicothe, Fort Worth."

Replacement Parts For Model T Fords Demand Attention

DETROIT, April 19.—The manufacture of replacement parts for the millions of Model "T" Ford cars still in daily use continues to demand nearly one third the production capacity of Ford plants here.

Ford officials estimate, from reports of dealers all over the country, that there are still approximately eight millions of the Model "T" cars in constant use in the United States. Some of these cars are many years old. Every now and then there are reports of Ford cars of the old brass-bound radiator types of twelve or fourteen years ago, still running after more than a hundred thousand miles of service.

The newest of the Model "T" Fords is now nearly a year old, for the production of assembled Model "T" cars was suspended in May 1927 to make way for the new Model "A". This suspension of assembled Model "T" cars did not affect the production schedule of model "T" replacement parts, however. Throughout the past year the manufacture of model "T" parts continued to occupy about one third the production capacity of the Ford plants.

A few days ago newspaper correspondents here asked Henry Ford how long he expected to continue making parts for model "T" cars.

"Until the last Model 'T' is off the roads," Mr. Ford replied. "That may be ten years, but we do not intend to allow any Ford car ever to become obsolete as long as it can be made useful with reasonable replacements." Ford engineers, from tests and observations made over a long period of years, have estimated that the average useful life of a model "T" Ford car is about seven years.

Public Health Campaigns

Fully 150 Texas cities and towns conducted "health campaigns" of some kind during the first week in April, which was designated as "Health Week."

Town Planning

Mt. Pleasant can hardly be called a city. It is a big town in East Texas, but not too small to emulate the plans of the larger "burgs."

Studying at College

Here is an idea from Taylor that should be worth something. Citizens of that town are organizing a caravan to go to the A. & M. college to spend a day studying poultry, livestock and agriculture.

Cheese Factories

Rock has become the Texas towns considering building of cheese factories. The factory was ordered last year.

town to Round Rock to learn just how cheese-making is done there. Rockdale and Bartlett are among the latest towns to study such an enterprise.

Dalhart Celebrates

Dalhart has obtained natural gas and naturally Dalhart is glad. To show its jubilant feeling the council and the chamber of commerce gave a town celebration.

Dairy Interest Shown

The interest in dairying as a leading industry of the Panhandle-Plains country was shown at the dairy show at Plainview the first week in April.

"Pave Every Street"

Pahr started a "Pave Every Street" campaign, using that phrase as a slogan, in the early part of 1927, and so closely has the city stuck to its purpose that in a few months the slogan will be obsolete.

Another Good Idea

Last year the Crowell banks, cooperating with the Foard county farm agent, loaned the money to 24 boy club members in the county with which to buy pure-bred Jerseys.

surplus of from $45 to $300, in addition to the ownership of a Jersey cow. Perhaps an even greater result has been the business confidence the boys have gained. The banks, too, have made permanent customers of these boys.

Millions in Poultry

It is hard to believe that Dallas does a poultry and egg business of about $10,000,000 a year, but that is what a large dealer there estimates, and he says the business has increased 100 per cent in the last few years.

J. G. Brown, Local Cicero Smith Lbr. Co. Manager, Has Longest Record of Service With the Chain

Twenty-five years ago when Memphis was a wee small town the Cicero Smith Lumber Company invested here, purchasing a yard from Col. Boykin who had previously bought the business established by John Browder.

In 1906 J. G. Brown came to Memphis as bookkeeper for the concern. Mr. Brown has been manager for over twelve years and has the longest record of service of any man in the Cicero Smith retail yards. He has been with the company for 23 years. Manager Brown has seen the chain grow from 5 yards to 35 now operated in Texas and Oklahoma.

In addition to lumber, brick, tile, cement, lime and other building materials the company deals also in paint, wire, posts and coal.

The junior member of the office force, Zeb Moore, bookkeeper, has been at his post for 8 years. Two yard men are also employed.

"Business has grown to such an extent during the last two years that we must improve and enlarge our quarters," Mr. Brown said. "We are planning an entirely new yard and expect to start construction early in May."

Show Hosses

Show hosses, show hosses, leadin' the parade, White bellies, dappled thighs an' a touch of jade; Big hosses, little hosses, wearin' bright aigrettes...

Marchin' round the public square, heads bent forward proud, Pullin' show equipment for a laughin' crowd; Pawin' at the pavement, kickin' up the dust...

Dancin' hosses, educated to the tune of whips While the drums they rattle an' a trombone blips; Every day a pageant, every night a din, For this is circus lather that they wallow in.

Crackin' whips they march to in the dusty ring While a prima donna does her best to sing; Stoppin' in their tracks when a whistle blows, Mute performers are they of the tented shows.

Do you see them pantin', dare you count their ribs? They were born to travel far from juicy cribs; They were born to suffer in electric glare, For they are money getters, every hoss an' mare.

Show hosses, show hosses, leadin' the parade, White bellies, dappled thighs an' a touch of jade; Let them pass by quickly; give 'em room, I say, Show hosses, show hosses, every circus day.

Mrs. Roy L. Noles and Ernest Winn Are Married in Wellington Saturday

WELLINGTON, April 19.—Mrs. Roy L. Noles and Ernest L. Winn, two of Wellington's prominent and well-liked residents, were united in a beautiful marriage ceremony which was solemnized Saturday, April 14, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Harper with Rev. C. R. Joyner, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

CHILDRESS, April 19.—Fire believed to have started in a battery charging machine completely gutted the Gulf Auto Supply company and destroyed 12 automobiles early Tuesday morning. Loss is estimated at $50,000.

An entire business block was threatened for a time while firemen fought the roaring furnace of flames and smoke for two hours. About half the loss was covered by insurance.

The station will be rebuilt at once, the management has announced.
