PATRIOTIC DAY FOR MEMPHIS, JUNE 5

People of Memphis Called Upon to Observe "Registration Day" With a Patriotic Program. Mayor Proclaims Holiday

JUNE FIFTH, "REGISTRATION DAY"

Patriotic Music, Speeches and Recitations On the Court House Lawn. Pretty Girls to Pin Badges on Patriots.

On Tuesday, June 5, all of our sons of the ages 21 to 30, inclusive will be called upon to register for service in the great war we are now entering. It may be quite a while before all of them are called into actual service, but some of them, will, probably, be called upon to go within a few months. In any event these young men are placing themselves subject to their country's call and we can but view their actions with mixed emotions, both sad and pleasurable. We are proud of their courage and patriotism, yet we can not repress a natural feeling of sadness when we contemplate their departure from home and their entrance into a savage and cruel war. We feel that it is due them, and due our country, that we take this occasion to publicly express, in suitable manner, our patriotic feelings and sentiments.

To this end we ask that every citizen in the Memphis voting precinct gather on the court house lawn on June 5, between the hours of 10:00 a. m. and noon and take part in a program of singing, speaking, music and other outward expressions of the patriotic sentiments we all feel. It is suggested that committees of ladies and girls arrange to pin badge, or other suitable decoration upon the young men as they register.

Let everyone, men, women and children come and make this a really patriotic day.

Respectfully,
W. M. Fore, Chairman
S. S. Montgomery,
H. E. Deaver,
N. R. Stroud,
W. A. Johnson,
Jerry Dalton,

Washington, May 19.—All three of America's fighting force, the army, navy and Marine Corps, soon will be represented in the zones.

With American destroyers already combating the U-boat menace in European waters and army regulars concentrating to carry the flag to the battle lines in Belgium and France, a regiment of marines was designated to day to join the expeditionary force and round out the Nation's representation in the field.

The machine will be attached to the army division under General Pershing.

To Issue Blue Cards.

Information was issued for the benefit of the public calling attention to the fact that every man who will not have passed his thirty-first birthday by June 5, and who is over 21 years old, must register. It is up to him to see that he registers. If he does not he is liable to arrest and punishment by imprisonment. When he has registered he will be furnished with a blue card certifying to his registration. These are to be kept to be shown any police or other officers who stop him and demand to know if he has registered. These cards are being guarded most carefully by Sheriff J. E. King. They will be issued to the registrars, strict account being kept, as every card must be accounted for.

Persons who will not be at home on June 5, must go to the County Clerk in the county where they are or to the City Secretary in a city over 30,000 people. They will be furnished a white registration card which they will fill out and address to the registrar of the voting precinct where they reside. These are to be addressed in care of the Sheriff of the home county for delivery to the registrar. Persons who are ill must send some one to get a registry card for them. This person then will be deputized to get the registration card filled out and return it to the registrar. Special provision will be made for registration of prisoners who are unable to present themselves for registration.

Upon presenting himself for registration on June 5 a man will be furnished a white card. On this he will be required to give his name in full, age in years, home address, date of birth, status of citizenship, place of birth, occupation, employer if an employe, race, his condition as to marriage or singleness, persons dependent upon him for support, military service had, if any, and grounds specified for exemption, if claimed. Affirmation will be required to these statements in the presence of the registrar. On the reverse side the registrar will note a description of the person registering, giving a state ment whether he is tall, medium or short, slender, medium or stout, color of hair and color of eyes. There is a blank to be filled in for tall men

CONSERVATION CLUB MEETING

MEETING OF HALL COUNTY CONSERVATION CLUB, TO BE HELD SATURDAY WEEK.

PRECINCT CHAIRMEN ARE NAMED

Program and Entertainment of Visitors Being Considered and Arranged by Memphis Ladies.

The announcement last week of the organization of "The Hall County Conservation Club" and the call issued by that body for a county meeting to be held on Saturday, June 2, has seemingly aroused the interest of the women throughout the county and it is believed that the largest number of Hall county women ever gathered together in this county will attend this meeting.

Mrs. Wheat, president of the Conservation Club, informs us that a number of ladies in different neighborhoods have been named as local chairmen and that probably a complete list of the chairmen throughout the county will be ready for publication next week.

Local committees are working on a membership campaign and the members of local clubs will assist in arranging a program and entertainment for the visiting ladies.

Speakers, especially informed on methods most practicable for this section in conserving foods are being sought and, doubtless, will be present.

Every woman, and especially every housewife, is, or should be, vitally interested in this meeting and it is hoped that none who possibly can come will stay away.

Pen Hanna Attempts Suicide.

Ben Hanna, who lives near Hedley made a double attempt to suicide Wednesday. He first took rat poison and then attempted to shoot himself with a shot gun. He aimed the gun at his left breast; but when he stooped over to pull the trigger his body was thrown out of range, the shot barely breaking the skin under his left arm.

His statement of his reasons for the act was that he had become so involved in a financial way that he could think of no other way out; that his life insurance would have cleared his indebtedness.

Ladies Give Red Cross Tea.

A Red Cross Tea, given by the Memphis ladies to raise funds for the local Red Cross organization, is announced for this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Walker. Hours from 5:00 to 7:00 o'clock. Everybody, men, women and children invited. A charge of ten cents will be made.

Miss Kate Arnold's piano pupils will appear in recital and cantata, Tuesday, May 29th, at High School Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock.

Simon Lake Said to Have Invented Non-Sinkable Merchant Submarine.

Philadelphia, May 21.—The Philadelphia Press will publish a story tomorrow to the effect that "America has found the perfect answer to the German submarine terror." It is said to be a merchant submarine standardized at about 7,500 tons or 8,000 tons dead weight, of such speed that it can, even when submerged, easily elude any surface pursuer and is non-sinkable.

The craft, the invention of Simon Lake, according to the Press, is capable of submerging within half a minute and has been so standardized simplified that the first one may be turned out in four months and others after that at the rate of three or four a week.

The seventh annual banquet of the Memphis Commercial Club, celebrating the close of its sixth year's work was held Tuesday evening.

More than two hundred members and guests were present, the largest number assembled for this event. The viands offered were both delectable and abundant and the speakers witty and entertaining. A spirit of cheerful friendliness and good-will pervaded the gathering; all seeming to be pleased and interested.

An appreciated feature, and one auguring the future usefulness of the organization, was the unusually large number of visitors from other Hall county communities. Estelline, Turkey, Lakeview, Newlin and perhaps other communities were represented. Speakers from each section warmly commended the work of the club and expressed the willingness of their people to co-operate in the work of development of home resources begun by the club.

The Estelline Chamber of Commerce sent greetings and assurance of enthusiastic co-operation.

A Lakeview representative said that an organization was being formed at that place and that co-operation was sought.

Among the visiting speakers were T. D. Gee and Mayor H. W. Mitchell of Estelline, J. H. Fry of Turkey, W. H. Dixon of Lakeview and J. L. Pope of Amarillo.

The report of President Dial was heard and approved. This report which reviews, and gives in some detail, the work of the club will be published next week.

BOARD REGENT'S INVESTIGATION OF UNIVERSITY

EVIDENCE AND REPORT OF THE INVESTIGATION CONDUCTED BY BOARD AT AUSTIN LAST OCTOBER

THE GOVERNOR AND UNIVERSITY

This Publication Will Make Clear the Issues Between the University Faculty and the Governor

Mr. Long: That is correct.

The Chairman: You declined payment of that bill?

Mr. Long: Yes.

The Chairman: Thereupon Dr. Battle took the matter up with the Auditor in person, who again declined to pay on the ground that he was not authorized by law to pay the expense of Mrs. James. You were not authorized to pay it on account of the expenses of Mrs. James?

Mr. Long: Yes.

The Chairman: Did Dr. Battle suggest that you change it from Prof. James and wife to Prof. James and assistant?

Mr. Long: Yes.

The Chairman: Is that all he ever said to you in regard to it?

Mr. Long: That was all.

The Chairman: Did he ever come back and make any further suggestions in regard to it then?

Mr. Long: No, sir.

The Chairman: How was it finally paid?

Mr. Long: Dr. Ellis came in and withdrew it. I suppose it was two or three days after Dr. Battle came in and asked me to make that change. He came in to me one afternoon, "Long," he says, "Have you that James voucher?" I says, "Yes, here it is." He says, "I have decided not to go to see the Comptroller about it. We will withdraw it; I don't think Dr. Battle's suggestion will be wise at all." He says, "will you pay Dr. James' expenses if I cut her's out?" I says, "I will." I says, "I can't pay the traveling expenses of any of the professors wives; I can't do it, it is against the law." He said, "That is all right; I will cut out her part of it if you will pay his." He said, "I will have to stand the loss of her expenses up there." He said, "I expect to get it back later on." He said, "The Dallas Fair gives an appropriation up there, and I expect to reimburse myself out of that." Dr. Ellis said that, and then the next day Mr. Polk sent me up a corrected account of Mr. James', and I paid it.

The Chairman: Dr. Battle never, ever, you say never did make any corrections afterwards?

Major Littlefield: I want to ask a question—

Mr. Long: There is an item that the Governor winds that up with—that is his verbal—

Major Littlefield: When Dr. Battle came in to you and said "I can tell you how you can cover that," and suggested that it be made for this gentleman and assistant, didn't you say to him then, Dr. Battle, you don't mean that do you?"

Mr. Long: Yes.

Major Littlefield: And he said, "I certainly do?"

Mr. Long: No he didn't reply, he could not have replied. It almost took my breath away; it hurt me when he made that suggestion. I said, "Dr. Battle, you don't mean that do you?" He turned around and went out of the office.

Dr. McReynolds: The voucher was not paid?

Mr. Long: No.

Dr. McReynolds: At your suggestion to do it that way?

Mr. Long: Yes. I only paid expenses; that was right and proper.

The Chairman: Up to this there are six items and Dr. Battle is involved in every one of these accusations under one form or another, and I think it is perfectly right that we should call Dr. Battle and ask his explanation of each one of them. That is the only one in which he—involved in this particular memorandum.

Dr. McReynolds: About the present traveling expenses being diverted to other items, charged to the President's expense account.

Mr. Long: They must be under the head of those vouchers over there.

The Chairman: About fifteen items (see page 150) charged to the President's traveling expense fund—I will ask you about them.

Mr. Long: Those are copies of the vouchers that I sent to the Governor—I have the duplicates of them right here. It is just the traveling expenses.

The Chairman: The following items of traveling expense were incurred by professors and instructors of the University and charged to the President's personal traveling expense fund—on what basis were they charged to that?

Mr. Long: I have no explanation at all. Dr. Battle and his Secretary would O. K. them and I send them in and I paid them.

The Chairman: Didn't he undertake to make any explanation at all why he should do that?

Mr. Long: No, my recollection is I asked Mr. Graff why he did that. He said it is a question of being impossible for the President to go and he sent a representative and that is why.

The Chairman: Well, he did make an explanation?

Mr. Long: Yes, that is Mr. Graff's explanation to me as I recollect now. I asked him one day why he did that and he made that remark. Sometimes there would be a call for the President to go in person and it would be so he couldn't go and he would send some member of the faculty.

Mr. Harrell: You thought they were all right or you would not have paid them?

Mr. Long: Yes. The Board of Regents had passed vouchers to cover cases of that kind.

The Chairman: You didn't see anything wrong in that?

Mr. Long: No, I paid them.

President Vinson: I can mention a specific instance of that sort, Dr. Battle sent Prof. Taylor this last spring to Washington to look after the matter of the Newland Bill to Congress to establish an experimental station. If the bill should go through it would mean an income to the University of approximately $15,000—of course, it was the business of the President of the University attend to such matters as that. It was impossible for Dr. Battle to go, and so he delegated Dean Taylor to go and attend to his business for him. That is a custom. I have also sent Professor Taylor to Chicago on exactly the same mission,—to meet with representatives from other state universities, in Chicago, paying his expenses out of the President's traveling expenses. At that time I could not go myself on account of having to go to El Paso.

The Chairman: I see an item of April 28, 1916, charged to the President's traveling expense account, E. J. Mathews, Secretary of this Board, Registrar, "Expense incurred in attending 1916 meeting of American Association of College Registrars at Columbia University, New York, and visiting Yale, Harvard, Boston Tech and Wellesley College." You made that trip?

Mr. Mathews: Yes.

The Chairman: Did you do that in the interest of the University?

Mr. Mathews: Yes.

The Chairman: Was there any other object involved to get you to go?

Mr. Mathews: None whatever.

The Chairman: You did it in connection with the duties of your department?

Mr. Mathews: Yes.

The Chairman: You went in connection with that. Those are the only important charges against Dr. Battle. I notice the others here, a good many of them, are ones that could be handled also as a good many of those others are faculty expense items and are mere matters of audit. If you did not think they had turned in proper expense accounts it was your duty to hold the voucher and go and fight it out with them—if they turned in an erroneous expense account, so I don't think there is any need of going into these items whatever—these vouchers here in regard to faculty expense?

Mr. Long: Yes, my opinion of that fact, all expenses paid, that it was for what it appropriated for and also reappropriated by the Board of Regents.

The Chairman: Yes, then you should have criticized them then and not now.

Mr. Long: That is not my criticism, understand.

The Chairman: You passed those vouchers and paid them each one of them appeared because you thought—

A NEW CREATION OF SCIENCE AND NATURE

WHEN we announced Bevo recently, our hopes were high. We knew that we had the most unusual soft drink that had ever been offered: A beverage combining the nutritive extracts of wholesome cereals, the zest of Saazer Hops, a flavor all its own and absolute purity. We knew this because, true to our own ideals, we had experimented for years before we were satisfied to say, "We offer you Bevo—it is a different soft drink—it is good and it is good for you."

High as were our hopes for its reception, we have realized them far and beyond our expectations.

Bevo today is an established popular success. Everywhere the same question is asked—"Have you tried Bevo?"

Now, one final word. We promise you that, in accord with the known principles of Anheuser-Busch and all its products, Bevo not only will forever maintain its present high standard of quality, but as time goes on our great endeavor shall be to make this soft drink even more perfect in every detail of its goodness.

You will find Bevo at inns, restaurants, groceries, department and drug stores, picnic grounds, baseball parks, soda fountains, dining cars and other places where refreshing beverages are sold.

Guard against substitutes. Have the bottle opened in front of you, first seeing that the seal is unbroken and that the crown top bears the Fox.

JENNY COMES BACK

By OSBORN JONES.

In the romance of Jane Bradley and Samuel Smith sentiment was in abeyance. That had all gone before in plenty, and it would come again. But the wedding was but ten days off and there were more important things to do than to pass the time in lovers' dream. There were time tables to consult, there was furniture to buy, and there were trunks to pack. And all this had to be done after five o'clock at night, for Jane as well as Samuel believed in sticking to work till the very eve of the wedding.

Samuel had come cityward because Blair's Corners did not seem to afford him opportunity for the making of a living, and when Jane's uncle and guardian had died, she, forgetting Samuel for the time, also came to the city, dug up a cousin for a chaperon, and found a position as a stenographer.

Two years had passed since Jane first went to work, and so there had been leisure enough in the unfolding of the romance and time enough for the deliberate feathering of the nest in the shape of a small uptown apartment. They had just picked out the dining-room set, and they sat shop-worn in the concourse of the big department store while Jane checked off from her methodical little list the items that they had bought. As she checked her eyes noticed those of Samuel following the lithe figure and exquisite plumage of a little city bird that strutted by them in the crowd.

"Striking girl, isn't she?" suggested Jane. It was Jane's way to refuse to let Samuel suspect her of jealousy.

"Striking, yes," agreed Samuel, a bit annoyed with himself and just a trifle pleased that Jane should willingly see his eyes follow another woman. "It's always been the memory of the little Jenny I used to know and the fact that you are all that little Jenny that has made me think of you even when those other women may have attracted my passing notice."

Jane especially hated to be called Jenny. In the city she was Jane, and she frankly liked the city better than the country. "And that reminds me," Samuel went on, "after we are married I am going to ask you to be more like that little Jenny and less like the Jane of the city."

Jane laughed. "I know what you mean, and if you really want me to be Jenny, why of course I shall."

It was five o'clock when Jane reached her cousin's and before she had put aside the new sophisticated hat Samuel had reached her on the telephone. "A big buyer from San Francisco has just come," he told her. "Doll up and do your worst. He's going to meet me at seven at the Palma, and I thought between you and the cabaret show we could land some pretty big orders. Of course I'll tell him we are engaged."

Jane dashed to her room and worked with furious rapidity, and at half past six she reached the Palma, where she registered her name and asked for a room. She had a suitcase, which she deposited in the hotel room and then came down to meet Samuel. But Samuel did not recognize her.

In fact, it was not till she had laid a hand on his arm that he realized that the little mouse before him was really Jane—only it was the old Jenny, and not Jane at all. With the help of her cousin, Jane had resurrected a "floppy hat," of the kind that she had worn in the "Corners" two years before. Then Jane had taken from her wardrobe the dress that was "best" two years before. Before donning this costume Jane had washed her face vigorously with soap and good cold water till it shone like a June sky, and Jenny in the country frock had added not a touch of cream or powder. At first Samuel was speechless. "But—the buyer!" he gasped.

"Don't you like me?" the girl's tones mocked pleadingly. "Don't you see I'm dressed just like the dear old Jenny of the 'Corners'? I thought as long as you were going to tell the buyer that I am going to be your wife, you would want me to look the part."

Samuel was thinking now just of business. He consulted his watch, and as he did so he had a vision of the Jane as he had seen her that afternoon—the Jane whose effed clothes had a little alarmed him; the Jane who, though dressed in the best of taste, attracted the attention of the men who passed; the Jane whose strikingness had called forth the little talk about the charm of Jenny. It was not Jenny but Jane that he counted on for that interview with the buyer. It was just a quarter before seven by his watch.

"Jane, I get the point. I see what you mean—but it isn't fair. The joke would be a good one if the occasion weren't so serious. You see, I counted on your help. That way you'd spoil everything. And now, of course, you can't get home and into your togs in a quarter of an hour."

"No," smiled the girl, and it was Jane talking through the Jenny make-up, "but I can go to my room here in the hotel and put back the Jane clothes in ten minutes. They're all here in a suitcase."

And as she turned to take the elevator to her room Samuel followed for a step. "Good-by, Jenny, forever," he said. "I liked you back in Blair's Corners, but it was with Jane here in the city that I fell in love."

Reese, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for eight consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Hall County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Memphis, on the first Monday in June A. D. 1917, the same being the fourth day of June A. D. 1917, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the ninth day of April A. D. 1917 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 896, wherein O. L. Tucker, Plaintiff, and W. C. Scott, the unknown heirs of W. C. Scott; J. M. Reese and the unknown heirs of J. M. Reese, are defendants, and said petition alleging that on or about the first day of January, A. Plaintiff alleges that he is the owner of said land under the five and ten year statutes of limitation; that on the day of the year last aforesaid, defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom and unlawfully withhold said premises from plaintiff's possession to his damage of $10,000.00.

particularily timely. To secure the best results ground wires ought to be placed about one hundred feet apart and closely stapled to the post, so as form a contact with every one of the fence wires. The ground wires should also extend slightly above the fence post, and, like a lightning rod, should penetrate the soil far enough to reach moist earth. No. 8 or 9 wire is most satisfactory for this purpose.

Plaintiff prays that defendant be served by citation by publication for eight weeks as provided by law and that upon hearing she have judgement quieting her title to said lots and for relief general and special, etc.

Herein fall not, and have you before said Court, on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed same.

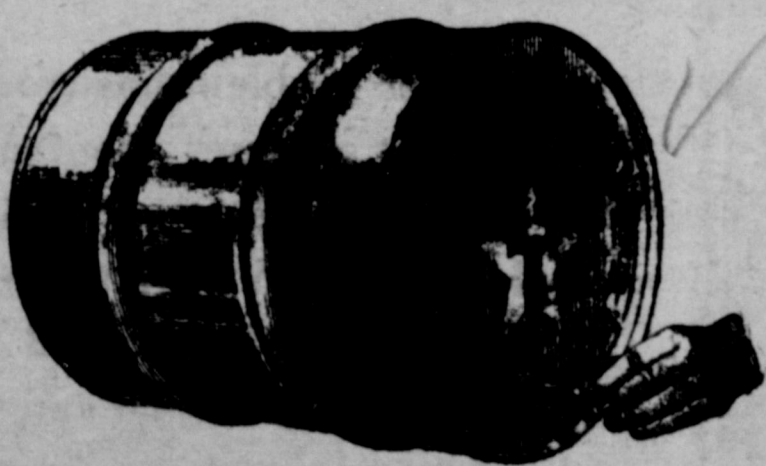

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Memphis this, the 4th day of April, A. D. 1917. Francis Roberts Clerk District Court Hall County, Texas

Telling the Truth.

Only a few days ago the editor of a paper in Indiana grew tired of being called a liar and announced that he would tell the truth in the future; and the next issue of the paper contained the following item:

"John Bonin, the laziest merchant in town, made a trip to Belleville yesterday.

"John Coyle, our groceryman, is doing poor business. His store is dirty and dusty. How can he do so much?"

"Rev. Sty preached last Sunday night on 'Charity.' The sermon was punk.

"Dove Sonkey died at his home in this place. The doctor gave it out as heart failure. Whisky killed him.

"Married—Miss Sylvan Rhodes and James Collins, last Saturday, at the Baptist parsonage. The bride is a very ordinary town girl, who doesn't know any more about cooking than a jack rabbit, and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty by any means, and a gait like a duck. The groom is an up-to-date loafer. He has been lying off the old folks at home all his life and is not worth shucks. It will be a hard life."—The Truth Seeker.

Obeying the People's Will.

The influence of invisible government can be observed in the war representatives and departments have been flooded with letters demanding the raising of all war revenue by taxes on unearned incomes, on land values or by conscription of wealth, but not a single letter has been written to their representatives asking that a tax be laid on chewing gum, on theatre tickets, on coffee and tea, on automobiles transportation receipts or in any other way on consumption? How many letters did any Congressman get asking him to vote for a fifty per cent. increase in postage rates? Congressmen prefer to do as their constituents wish, and mighty must be the influence that induces them to act otherwise. Yet the Committee on Ways and Means has brought in a bill to raise revenue by methods for which no one has openly asked, and which disregards practical suggestions urged by many. What influence could create such apparent contempt for public opinion? Chairman Kitchin did not explain it in his speech. And he certainly could not have been serious in offering as an excuse that the bill embodies the only means left open to raise additional revenue.—The Public.

Leather in Munitions.

Some idea of the tremendous effect of war on the leather market can be gained by reading the list below of contracts let by the United States Government on April 5.

The list follows: 321,000 haversacks; 360,000 pack carriers; 30,000 shovel carriers; 40,000 wire cutter carriers; 51,000 feed bags; 48,000 twines; 385,000 bayonet scabbards; 307,000 gun slings; 72,000 pistol holders; 51,100 horse brushes; 27,880 McClellan saddles; 38,000 saddle bags.

The Chairman: You have documentary evidence to that effect?
Mr. Long: Yes.

The Chairman: Next, do you know that the University of Texas Co-operative Society is a corporation composed of University Professors? You will find that it is really a student organization. What is the University Co-operative Society?

Dr. Vinson: It really consists of a Board of Trustees composed of certain members of the faculty and certain members of the student body.

The Chairman: Its purposes are purely co-operative?

President Vinson: Yes. In order to get books for the students at the lowest possible rate.

Dr. McReynolds: I don't understand how it is co-operative—it belongs to a few?

President Vinson: No.
Mr. Harrell: Don't you remember when that question came up about their building a house? I went in it and got the constitution and I found that all the profits and everything that accrued on the dissolution of this co-operative society, every cent of money, shall be turned over to the Board of Regents for the use of the University and no man can profit one cent for anything in it.

(Discussion)
The Chairman: Before coming to talk to Dr. Battle about these other matters, lets continue this about the Co-Op. It says here: "Mather would pay Kuehne 25 cents a book and, all told, pay Brown $50 for his notes. Mather would give the Co-Op ten cents on each sale."
Mr. Long: That is Dr. Mather's statement.

The Chairman: And he would give the Co-Op ten cents on each sale and the Co-Op would sell the books to the students for seventy-five cents?

Mr. Long: Yes.
The Chairman: The difference Dr. Mather would put in his pocket. That was his own profit?

Mr. Long: I don't know about that.

The Chairman: When this matter was called to Dr. Mather's attention, an investigation was started. It states "Mather contended at first that he had been crediting the difference to his department—the School of Physics—which had been turned into the Auditor's department. The investigation disclosed that this difference had never been turned in to the Auditor but had been pocketed by Mather. When cornered before Battle, Brown, Kuehne and the Auditor, Mather offered to pay and did pay the Auditor $100, which he said was the difference earned after paying Brown and Kuehne and the 10 percent to the Co-Op—notwithstanding that last year Mather had two thousand books printed and bound by Steck at the expense of the State."
Mr. Long: He has two thousand of Dr. Kuehne's notes and two hundred of Brown's.

The Chairman: He had twenty-two hundred, then?
Mr. Long: That is for the freshmen class.

The Chairman: There was a fresh supply of them printed?
Mr. Long: He said he was revising them every year.

The Chairman: And reprinting them?
Mr. Long: Not the entire book but he would just reprint such sheets as he wanted to. They were made up on the loose leaf system.

Major Littlefield: The State paid the expense of printing the books?
Mr. Long: Yes.

Major Littlefield: Who got that money?
Mr. Long: Dr. Mather had an account over there—he called it the Co-Op account—I don't know anything about that. He turned that profit he made on those books—he just indorsed that back to the Co-Op, to apply on a private account. I knew nothing about it until he asked me the other day to allow him to buy some things on his own account. I went over there to find out what that was and he had been buying supplies for his school that had not come through the Auditor's office. He has been applying the profits of these books on that. I called his attention to it and that $100 he sent me a month or two ago and $50 he paid the Auditor's office in 1914—they gave him a check for the profit on these books and he would in turn indorse it back to the Co-Op, to apply on his account.

Mr. Harrell: His part was turned over to the Co-Op, instead of the regular channel?
Mr. Long: Yes. I never knew about it until the other day when he came over. I went over there and got a copy of the account to see what it was. And that is what he has done.

Examination of Dr. W. J. Battle.
(Dr. Battle appears before the Board.)

The Chairman: Dr. Battle is here now. There are certain specific charges or accusations against you for acts of omission as well as of commission during your regime as President of the University of Texas, or Acting President. (Here the chairman made a general statement of the charges heretofore set forth in Item No. 1 of the Governor's memorandum as to mileage, for a full statement of which see p. 144.) It is stated you were informed of the matter and you gave no answer to it. What do you know about that and what action did you take, etc?

Dr. Battle: Those accounts were not brought to me directly—

The Chairman: I mean the practice of that.

Dr. Battle: I was just about to explain—but were brought to the attention of the Auditor and I relied on the Auditor to continue the same practices that had been in vogue when Dr. Mezes was President, after I came in as Acting President. I had understood that people bought mileage books and that it was a general practice. In any case, the thing seemed to me to be justified by reason of the fact that the members who had gone travelling were a long time waiting for their money. This was a way of preventing these people from loss.

The Chairman: In other words you approved that system?

Dr. Battle: The matter did not come to me directly. Of course, you understand it was done with the approval of Mr. Winn.

The Chairman: What was your custom? How did you travel,—on mileage?

Dr. Battle: I bought a mileage book once or possibly twice, but I invariably made a practice of getting excursion rates whenever I could.

The Chairman: When you bought mileage books did you charge up the University with two or three cents a mile?

Dr. Battle: I charged three cents a mile on the same basis as the others did. I did so because I felt it to be a custom of the Auditor's office and of the University to pay the expense of its men on this legal basis and if a man was able to advance his own money he might be allowed to do that. As a matter of fact the second mileage book that I got I have now. I don't know when I shall use it. I might say further, as a matter of fact, that on the great majority of trips I did not use mileage books because I found it more economical to buy a round trip ticket. In going to Galveston, for example, I bought a round trip and gave the State the benefit of it, and so in going to Dallas or San Antonio or wherever it could be done. In other words I tried to travel at the least possible expense to the State. When I had to go directly on a straight fare I did avail myself of the practice of the University and because the Comptroller had stated that it could not be arranged for the State to buy mileage books ahead of time. It had been proposed that the State buy mileage books for the use of the faculty but that seemed to involve more questions than the other practice.

Major Littlefield: While you were acting as President you were aware of their using the twenty-five-dollar per thousand-mile books, were you?
Dr. Battle: I knew that it was being done.

Major Littlefield: You also knew they were turning them in for $30 or three cents a mile?
Dr. Battle: He said he did it himself. He said he did it himself in one instance.

Dr. Battle: I understood it to be done that way, the basis of payment being the regular mileage rate of three cents a mile except when excursion tickets could be bought.

Major Littlefield: I understood you felt justified in doing that being out of the use of your money? How long were you out of the use of your money?

Dr. Battle: I never took any note of it but I do know that I have been out of it several weeks.

Major Littlefield: Five dollars will pay the interest on $25 for a good long time.

Dr. Battle: True enough, but mileage books are in use for a long time. They are not bought and used all at once. They are kept and the man is out of his money all the time. The amount is in truth so small that it never occurred to me that it was of any importance at all. If I had understood for a moment that it was objectionable it would have been stopped at once.

The Chairman: No. 2 (see page 144) has reference to a number of

SIGNS OF DANGER.

That Should Be Heeded by Memphis People.

There's serious danger in neglecting any weakness of the kidneys. The warning that Nature gives should not be overlooked. If troubled by too frequent passage of the kidney secretions; burning or scalding; if the secretions are highly colored and contain sediment when left standing—if you have backache, too with frequent headaches and dizziness, make up your mind that your kidneys are affected and begin using some reliable kidney remedy. Deaths from kidney disease have increased in the United States alone, 72 per cent in the last twenty years. The risk is great—you can't afford to delay. Memphis people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Can you ask for better proof of merit than the statement of this Memphis resident?

Mrs. Jno. Wood, Eighth St., Memphis, says: "I and others of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results. I gladly advise anyone to get a box of this medicine at Madden-Rushing Drug Co. and try it, if troubled in any way with disordered kidneys." 50c at all dealers. Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive, similar to this one from Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and just suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. — had us get Cardui. . . I began improving, and it cured me. I know, and my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."

She writes further: "I am in splendid health . . . can do my work. I feel I owe it to Cardui, for I was in dreadful condition." If you are nervous, run-down and weak, or suffer from headache, backache, etc., every month, try Cardui. Thousands of women praise this medicine for the good it has done them, and many physicians who have used Cardui successfully with their women patients, for years, endorse this medicine. lecturers in the Extension Department making a charge for study fees which they were permitted to charge as extra perquisites. That item brought to your attention. What decision have you now in regard to the idea of what should be done to respect?

Mr. Battle: You realize that the salary that was paid for these extra fees was not paid by the State. It was paid by the individuals receiving the lecture.

Mr. Chairman: The State did not pay the salary of the lecturer but did pay the expenses of the trip?

Mr. Battle: I think so. I am not in about the expenses of the trip. But the payment of the lecture: does it come from the State?

Mr. Battle: The man was on a ceremonial salary from the State?

Mr. Battle: Certainly.

Mr. Battle: You approved that practice?

Mr. Battle: I inherited it from my predecessor.

Mr. Chairman: And you had not approved of it had you?

Mr. Battle: The matter was never brought to my attention as being objectionable.

Mr. Long: Doctor, I spoke to you several times in discussing it and Dr. Long told me in his conversation that you had called his attention to it and you came in to see about it twice. He said you had called his attention to it and that Dr. Long discussed it with you and Dr. Long still contended on his visit to the office that he thought the professor were entitled to it. That is the way I understood it.

Mr. Battle: Of course, gentlemen, making of these long trips was not a matter of enjoyment to members of the faculty. They frequently went to distant portions of the State, where they would never have gone as a part of their regular duty. And it is an established practice of institutions generally to let their staff go and deliver lectures and get paid for them. It is quite a universal practice throughout the entire country.

Mr. Battle: The point that Mr. Long discussed with me, I don't remember the conversation. I don't say he is not correct about it.

Mr. Long: You stated that was a practice all over the United States in different universities. I remember telling me that. Of course, I was and didn't understand. All I tried to know was if there was any similarity about it.

Mr. Harrell: I think a great many universities—

Mr. Battle: It is the universal practice, gentlemen. That members of the faculty of the University of Missouri should not have the same practice when they go to different places. Professors of other institutions do not do it. If the State were going to pay the lecturer's salary that would be a different matter.

Mr. Chairman: I understand the university pays their traveling expenses when they want to deliver lectures?

Mr. Battle: I believe that is what Mr. Long said.

Mr. Long: That is true. We pay their traveling expenses in addition to the salary and whatever they they keep.

And it shall be unlawful for any person within this city to allow any garbage, offal or any substance detrimental to public health to accumulate or to remain on the premises owned, occupied or controlled by him.

Rule 2. Certain grounds shall be selected by the Mayor and city council and designated as dumping ground for the emptying and final disposal of garbage, offal, night soil, carcasses of dead animals and refuse of all kinds which place shall be so situated as to cause as little nuisance as possible, and it shall be the duty of the scavengers or other persons to haul said refuse to said grounds, and the local health authority shall see that such places are kept in as sanitary condition as possible at all times.

Rule 3. It shall be the duty of every owner or proprietor of every livery stable to construct a water-tight box or bin of sufficient size to hold not more than one wagon load of manure, in which all offal or droppings of animals shall be kept, and the contents of said box must be carted off, once a week, or oftener, when filled, or whenever it becomes a nuisance.

Rule 4. No person shall throw or deposit and garbage, offal, night-soil, dead carcasses of animals or filth into or where same would drain into any public or private well, cistern or other water.

Rule 11. A sexton or other person desirous of disintering or removing the body of a human being from one cemetery to another cemetery or to another part of the same cemetery, or from a receiving vault, or tomb elsewhere, shall first obtain a written permit from the local health authority,

Rule 18. The aprons, overalls, or other outer clothing of employees, who handle meat in contact with such clothing, shall be of a material that is readily cleaned and made sanitary, and shall be cleaned daily if used. All persons who handle meats or meat food products shall be required to keep their hands clean.

Rule 19. All offal and refuse must be removed from the slaughter house on the day of slaughtering and disposed of in a sanitary manner.

Rule 20. Slaughter houses shall be provided with a cooler or ice box for the proper cooling and chilling of meats, where the carcasses are to remain in the slaughter house for a greater length of time than twelve hours, into which the carcasses shall be placed directly after being slaughtered, and kept until removed from the premises. The room or compartments in which meat or meat food products are prepared, cured, stored packed or otherwise handled shall be properly lighted and ventilated, and shall be so located that odors from toilet rooms or catch-basins, tank-rooms, hide-cellars, etc., do not permeate them. All rooms or compartments shall be provided with saucilors which employes who expectorate shall be required to use. Where meat food products are prepared in a market, i. e., sausage, lard pickled pork, beef, etc., a separate room properly ventilated, lighted and supplied with running water shall be provided for this purpose exclusively, with the exception that sausage may be ground in the market proper, if under suitable conditions.

Rule 29. No person shall sell, or offer for sale, any part of any animal carcass slaughtered when not in good health, nor any decaying or unwholesome animal matter, not any article in which there has been used to any extent whatever any meat described, with the intent that the same may be used as a human food.

Care and Management of Dairies and Sale of Milk.

Rule 30. No building shall be used for stabling cows for dairy purposes which is not properly constructed, well lighted, ventilated and provided with a floor that can be readily cleaned and drained.

Rule 31.
