1879—THE BELOVED PHILOSOPHER—1935

WILL ROGERS

Whole World Pays Tribute to Rogers

GLENDALE, Calif., Aug. 22.—Massed solidly on three sides of Forest Lawn Memorial Park, a crowd estimated at thirty thousand came from all parts of California today for a final glimpse of Will Rogers.

Hundreds of those filing past the closed casket of the famous humorist handed flowers to the honor guard of Army flyers from March Field who guarded the casket.

Spectators filed past the casket at the rate of ninety per minute, paying tribute to the man who died with Post in tragic Alaskan plane crash.

The whole world this afternoon pays tribute to its best loved character. Flags everywhere will be at half mast. Every theatre in the land will observe a minute of silence, as will offices, stores and factories in many places. Airplanes will drone a funeral dirge through the skies of Southern California. Hearts in every land will be sad.

This afternoon, at 2 o'clock, they're holding the funeral rites of Will Rogers.

In the Wee Kirk o' the Heather in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, at Glendale, California, will gather the immediate family and close friends, to bid a last farewell to the beloved humorist of stage, radio and screen.

In Hollywood Bowl, nestled in the Hollywood Hills, twenty thousand of his admirers will pay their respects to his memory, at a huge outdoor service, perhaps the greatest in history.

Rev. Brougher, of Glendale, life-long friend of Rogers, will

FREE PICTURE OF WILL ROGERS

We are going to give each subscriber to The Democrat who cares for one, a late picture of Will Rogers, the home-spun philosopher. These pictures are printed on heavy paper, suitable for mounting or framing, and are from one of his latest photographs. If you care for one of them, call at The Democrat office and you will be presented with one free of charge.

Memorial Rites For Wiley Post

By Associated Press
OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 22.—Three airplanes trailing crepe streamers circled over Oklahoma's limestone capital today as the state paused to bury one famous son and mourn another. Wiley Post's body lay in the rotunda of the capitol building, in view of the packed crowds gathered.

Simultaneously with services for Will Rogers in California, memorial rites were held at Claremore where thousands paid tribute to the humorist.

Thousands flooded the capitol building for the memorial service led by Governor Marland for Post. Afterward, rites were planned for the First Baptist Church.

Escaped Convict and His Companion Caught Here

Citizens Assist in Capturing Two Criminals

Captured last night about 9:45 by local officers, Jack Walker, an escaped convict from the New Mexico penitentiary at Santa Fe, and his companion, a man giving his name as Hall, of Tatum, N. M., are in the Hall County jail today, awaiting advices from New Mexico authorities.

Walker, who was serving a 99 year term in the New Mexico penitentiary for bank robbery, escaped about seven weeks ago from the penal institution. He is a well known New Mexico desperado, having been implicated with numerous bank robberies and other crimes in that state.

Hall, who would not give his first name, is unknown here, but no doubt has a criminal record.

The sheriff's office was tipped off by David Hudgins and his wife that two men in a new car had asked them to help get the car started, and they suspected that the men were auto thieves.

Sheriff Colvin and Deputies Wilson and Turlington went on the prowl for the men. They discovered them in the car at the corner of 15th and Bradford streets. As they saw the officers approaching the men jumped from the car and ran. Hall was overtaken and captured, but trace of Walker was lost, and the former was brought to town and booked.

In the meantime, Walker's headlong flight down alleys and across fences was heard by Joe DeBerry, who with Clyde Milam, local citizens, gave chase and captured him. The "hot" kept their prison-

Close Odd Fellows Convention Today

The evening meeting of the Lower Panhandle Association of Oddfellows and Rebekahs, at the High School building last night, was well attended.

Miss Edna Bryan presided at the meeting. The program was opened by the seating of the Grand Lodge officers, directed by Miss Cupper.

Memorial services conducted by Lakeview and Vernon Rebekah Lodges were beautiful and impressive.

In an address by Suot. Couch, there was brought to the audience an able presentation of the work being done for the elderly Oddfellows at the Ennis home, and the care of children at the Corsicana home.

The audience was again entertained by the group of children from the Corsicana home, with dances, songs and readings. In the feature song and tap dance, little Miss Baldwin again drew prolonged applause.

In the Rebekah degree staff work last night, the Electra Degree Staff won the cup for the third consecutive time, with a grade of 993. The Wichita Falls staff was second with 991 grade, and Vernon third with 934.

At yesterday afternoon's session, Judge C. A. Wheeler, of Austin, Past Grand Master, made the principal address, stressing the part Oddfellowship had played in Texas history.

The final convention session is being held this afternoon, featuring individual charges, contest, awarding of cups and medals, Degree of Chivalry, election of officers and the selection of the next convention city.

Following the closing session, a watermelon feast will be served the delegates.

The Corsicana home glee club will leave this afternoon, entertaining at Clarendon tonight, and visiting a number of Panhandle cities before returning home.

RAIN IN AUGUST USUALLY LAST OF MONTH

Record for Thirteen Years in County Shows Hope

If the law of averages holds good for August rainfall in this county, there is still hope for plenty of rain before it is too late.

A careful perusal of rainfall records for the past thirteen years here shows that more rain falls the last half of August each year than does in the first half. For the period from 1922 to 1934, 10 1/2 inches fell the first half, and 19 1/2 the last fifteen days of the month.

The average rainfall for the month of August the past thirteen years has been 2 1/2 inches. The record is as follows: 1922, no rain in August; 1923, 6 inches; 1924, 3 1/2 inches; 1925, 1 1/2 inches; 1926, 2 1/2 inches; 1927, 3 1/4 inches; 1928, 3 1/2 inches; 1929, 1 1/2 inches; 1930, 1 1/2 inches; 1931, 4 1/2 inches; 1932, 1/2 inch; 1933, 2 1/2 inches; 1934, 2 1/2 inches.

In 1933, 2 1/2 inches of rain fell after August 15, and last year 2 1/4 inches fell after August 25.

WHAT DO YOU THINK? Local Opinions on Pertinent Topics.

THE QUESTION:
What do you think of developing Broome's Park as a city-county project?

THE ANSWERS:
EDWIN THOMPSON: Broome Park would be a better project than any of the other projects the Democrat has mentioned. It is true we need a gymnasium and an auditorium, but they are out of the question, because of the expense involved.

As I understand it, all projects approved by the W. P. A. have to have a great deal of manual labor used in its construction. This work would have to be done entirely with such labor. It would be impossible to do the landscaping and improving by any other method. Therefore, I believe such a project as this would more readily meet with approval by this board than any that have been submitted before.

It would be necessary to erect a new bridge to replace the one washed out. This would be the only big expense and yet a bridge will cost less than the buildings suggested.

I do not believe a complete play ground should be built in the park. All this would be unnecessary as we already have Carnegie Park for this purpose. It would be used more for picnics, so all that would be needed would be benches, tables and one or two barbecue pits.

During the summer time the park could be used for all outdoor meetings. It would be an ideal place to have the old settlers reunion. The portable loud speaker the city is about to buy could be used to a wonderful advantage in the park for such meetings.

It is a project worth looking into by the Planning Board for W. P. A. work and I would like to see it passed on favorably.

ROY FULTZ: The Broome Park project is the most appealing plan yet considered. It is gaining more interest each day and I think it will eventually be the project submitted to the WPA.

It has more merit to it than the other projects do, because Memphis has no park of this kind and it will furnish the type of work necessary for the stamp of approval from the WPA.

This would have to be a city-county project. It is necessary for a sub-division of the state to submit an improvement to the Works Progress Committee. Too, it would require the help of the county to finance this work.

The drawback of all of the proposed plans is the expense and it is no easy matter to raise the funds. However, Mr. Broome has said he would sell the land cheaply, if it were used for this purpose. This would be the greatest expense in the building of the park. It is my understanding that the WPA would furnish the trees, shrubbery and the other items, which would be needed.

It seems possible to the men, who have made a survey of the grounds, that the river might be dammed at some point in the park to create a lake. All parks of any account have a lake. It is the first requisite of a good park.

This project could be worked out on a small scale first and later be enlarged on. If we could

BB. TOURNEY TO BE STAGED AT ESTELLINE

Six Teams Will Vie For Honors This Week-end

ESTELLINE, Aug. 22.—An invitational baseball tournament under the auspices of the Estelline Fire Department will be held here Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

It is a project worth looking into by the Planning Board for W. P. A. work and I would like to see it passed on favorably.

Six teams of this section will vie for the $50 cash purse—$30 for first place and $20 for runners-up. Teams already signifying their intention of entering are Tell, Farnell, Memphis, Cross Roads, Estelline, and probably either Carey or Lakeview.

An entrance fee of $2.50 is being charged, and should be sent to H. C. Edwards.

In addition to the grand prizes, small cash purses and merchandise are being offered by the businessmen for outstanding individual performances, such as the first hit of the tourney, first stolen base, most sensational catch, first home run, the best catcher, most valuable player to a team, etc.

The tournament is scheduled to get underway with a double-header Friday afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock, and followed by another double bill Saturday afternoon. The final game will be played Sunday afternoon at 3:30. One defeat eliminates a team.

Church of Christ Meeting Success

Great crowds of men and women are attending all the services at the Church of Christ this week, and never has there been a people who seem to be more interested in "pictures of life's other side" than has been shown throughout the entire meeting.

Four answered the invitation Wednesday, bringing the total for the seven days to 19.

BY NARD JONES © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 JO DARIEN breaks her engagement to BRET PAUL, college athletic star, because he objects to her taking a job as hostess at Crest Lake Inn, fashionable summer resort owned by wealthy DOUGLAS MARSH. Jo goes to Crest Lake and later Bret arrives as life guard.

Douglas Marsh's eccentric mother dislikes Jo. PETER FRAGONET, film actor, pays Jo marked attentions and asks her to marry him as soon as he can get a divorce. Jo becomes friendly with LOLITA MONTEZ, film actress.

She remembered the meeting with Douglas Marsh on her first day in Brown's tiny store. Then Crest Lake, and Fragonet, and Lolita, and Silas Drann.

Jo struggled with an impulse to knock at her landlady's door and tell that pessimistic woman that here was one girl who was not "going home wiser." But she managed to restrain herself; more practically, she hurried upstairs to her room. There was plenty of time in which to make her appointment with Boleson, but she wanted to look her best.

Prompted by his mother, Marsh asks Jo to leave Crest Lake. She decides to go to Hollywood to look for a job, and files there with Fragonet. Later she begins to doubt Fragonet's promises and moves to a rooming house where she cannot find her. Lolita Montez offers to help Jo find a job.

Silas Drann, the director, asks Jo to come to the studio for a screen test. She goes.

Drann telephones that the screen test was a success. Later Jo gets a call from BOLESON production executive, asking her to come to see him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Fortified with the courage Boleson's message had given her, Jo approached the Atlas gate far more certain of herself than she had been on her initial visit. She gave her name to the still suspicious gateman and told him she had an appointment with the Atlas president.

"Oh, yes..." He touched his cap. "Mr. Boleson's secretary called a few minutes ago. Right down to the administration building there, Miss Darien."

Jo walked along in the sunlight on winged heels. In the reception room of the administration building, too, she found the way paved.

"Please go right in. Mr. Boleson's office is the first door to the left down the hallway."

CHAPTER XLII
 With Boleson's words still ringing through her head, Jo replaced the receiver. Then it was true! There could be no doubt about it now.

And why not? Why shouldn't it be true, Jo Darien asked herself stoutly. She had read of many instances of unknown girls starting out for stardom after only a few days or weeks in this magic city. Usually it was a girl who had possessed some sort of "break"—and she had had such a key. Swiftly her brain traveled back over the events which had led to this unbelievable moment when Boleson had asked her to come to his office.

She remembered the evening with Bret and Tubby in that little room in the Fendale apartments—when Bret had suggested Jo should answer Mr. Brown's advertisement in the newspaper.

She first encountered Boleson's secretary, a brisk and efficient young woman who asked her to be seated. But Jo had not long to wait. In less than half a minute she was ushered into a darkly furnished office. In one corner was a broad walnut desk and behind it stood a short, rather heavy man whom Jo liked at once. He seemed reticent, almost shy, and Jo could hardly believe that this could be Boleson himself. It may have been that he recognized that he did not look the part, for he introduced himself, diffidently asked Jo to sit down near his desk.

"Miss Darien, perhaps—" He stopped, cleared his throat. "Perhaps you are wondering why I sent for you."

"It was—well, rather unexpected," Jo said, smiling.

"What I am going to say is a bit difficult." He returned her smile. "You see, it smacks a little of attending to your business instead of mine. But you'll understand that my people—the actors and actresses who work for Atlas—represent millions of dollars in investments. Investments that had to be protected for the sake of the Atlas stockholders..." He paused a moment, and Jo wondered to what he was leading.

"I think I can see you're a sensible young woman," he went on. "You're not the sort of girl I expected. I think you'll listen to reason. You know, of course, to what I'm referring?"

"I'm... afraid I don't, exactly," Jo confessed, her mind in a whirl.

"It's about Fragonet," he told her quickly, his tone edged suddenly with impatience.

"Fragonet?" repeated Jo, startled. "I—I don't understand, Mr. Boleson."

"You don't deny knowing Fragonet?"

"Of course not. But I—"

She was interrupted by his quick nod. "Good! Miss Darien, I don't know what your real feelings are toward Peter Fragonet, nor do I know what his real feelings are toward you. That's not my business. But Fragonet—Fragonet as an asset to Atlas Pictures Corporation—is my business. I have several millions tied up in Fragonet pictures, one of which has not even been released."

"But—"

"Please let me finish, Miss Darien. We have always had a little trouble with Fragonet. He has a—shall I say, a flair—for drawing adverse publicity. Just now there's a drive for clean pictures, and I'm heartily in favor of it. Along with better pictures, the public is demanding that the private lives of its stars be normal and sane. I agree with that, too—"

"One moment, Mr. Boleson," Jo interrupted, her lips pale with slowly rising anger. "I really can't see what all this has to do with me. I met Mr. Fragonet at Crest Lake where he was making a picture. I've seen him no more than two or three times since coming to Hollywood. Beyond that there's nothing that would—"

"I believe you," Boleson told her quietly. "But I'm not sure that the gossips would. Especially after the rumors have been broods, a bit. And there's Mrs. Fragonet. You flew from Crest Lake with Fragonet, did you not?"

Jo nodded weakly. "That was a mistake, I know."

"I'm afraid it was. The rumor kettle was all set to boil over about then, but fortunately I arranged for Fragonet and his wife to appear together at one of the premieres at Grauman's."

Boleson leaned forward slightly, meeting Jo's eyes across the desk. "It's purely a business proposition with me, Miss Darien. I'd like to get rid of Fragonet—he's a lot of trouble—but I can't do that. I want to avoid any scandal for him. I'm going to get to the point, Miss Darien. What is it worth to you?"

"What is it worth to me?"

"Exactly. What will you take to turn Fragonet down cold?"

Jo grew crimson. She bit her lips, those trembling lips she had rouged so carefully for this important visit to Boleson's office. When she answered at last it was with more than ordinary effort.

"I'll take nothing at all," she said coldly.

Boleson smiled, but it was a cool smile now. "Are you trying for higher stakes, or are you in love with him?"

"Neither, Mr. Boleson. I've—I've already turned him down cold, as you put it. Perhaps there were times, at Crest Lake, when I should have avoided him. But I didn't realize then what it could lead to. I really never want to see Fragonet again..."

She broke off, suddenly weeping. Before she could stem the flow of tears she was conscious of Boleson leaning over her solicitously, his hands nervous, his voice heavy with embarrassing regret.

"Miss Darien, I—I can't tell you how sorry I am," he was saying, over and over again. "It was necessary for me to put it up to you pretty straight, just in case you were the hardboiled type. I'm really sorry, and I do believe you."

Jo held to his arm, lifted her self unsteadily from the chair. "It's quite all right. You see, I—I was rather taken by surprise."

"I didn't mean to have that happen," Boleson said, puzzled. "Surely you must have had some notion that I'd be concerned

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE

WITH the establishment of a vocational agriculture department in the Memphis High School by the school board Tuesday night, Memphis schools took another step forward in meeting the growing demands of students of the area.

The purpose of the department is to give the rural student something practical—something that will prepare him for better farm work if he cannot or does not go on to college, and to give him an opportunity to make the most of his college studies in case he does seek higher learning.

The principles of the department are: To prepare the boy for useful farm employment; to meet the needs of those interested in farming and farm living; to prepare the boy to meet the demands of a progressive vocation of farming to this particular section and to embody in the course of study the needs of the farms in this section, which are to be determined by surveys made by the students made by the students themselves.

The course includes tire shop work, farm mechanics, shop and wood work stock judging, educational tours, exhibits, summer encampments and the agricultural surveys of Hall County.

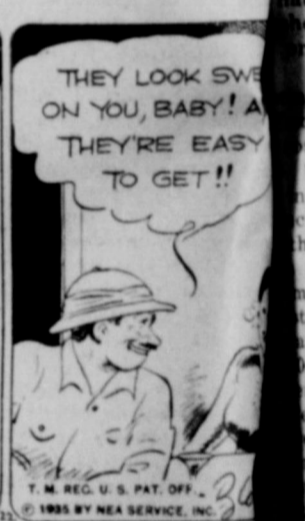

All of this sounds very practical. And it is. As Supt. W. C. Davis, who engineered the department as one of his fondest dreams, said: "The educational trend is toward the more practical. Instead of offering the accepted courses of study, we want to offer the pupil something that will qualify him to go to work and accomplish something."

The department is to have an interesting sideline—that of adult evening classes. The instructor will maintain these classes just the same as he does his high school work. He will work in cooperation with the county agricultural agent, but where the county agent deals with groups and generalities, the department head will work with individuals on specific problems.

This course is going to be a boon to the local school and to rural students alike. It will offer the boys something to compare with the vocational home economics courses offered the girls for several years.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Douglas Malvern Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lee Martin, near Plaska, celebrated his third birthday Monday afternoon with a party.

He received several presents, which he accepted with squeals of delight. The children layed games until refreshments were served.

The birthday cake was decorated with an orange-colored "Three" in the center, instead of the customary candles. Iced orangeade and doll cookies were served.

The guests were Dorothy and Audrey Grant, Onetta and Freeman White, J. E. and Charlene Nix, Cleva Mae Tiner, Mrs. Bob Tiner, Mrs. Homer Grant and Mrs. J. E. Nix.

Horses have been measured by "hands" from very ancient times.

Singing Convention Wellington Sunday

WELLINGTON, Aug. 22.—The monthly singing convention formed by the various church organizations of Wellington will be held again Sunday in the Nazarene Church.

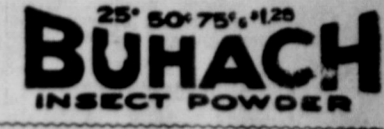

Several prominent singers will be present, which will include V. O. Stamps and his quartette of Dallas.

The singing will begin at 2:30 p. m. and will continue until 5 o'clock.

MOSQUITOES

No need now to be chewed to bits by those blood-thirsty pests! Just burn a little Bu-hach on your porch—or wherever you want to spend the night in comfort—you won't be bothered again.

Mosquitoes HATE the pleasant odor of burning Bu-hach and won't come anywhere near it. It's sure death to them if they do! So protect yourself from these pests this cheap, easy way. In Handy Sifter Cans at Tarver's Pharmacy and Durham-Jones Pharmacy.
