Man 'Taking On Appearance of Ape'

Eight years ago a strapping man of nearly six feet. Today, shrunken to a bare five feet, spine lengthening into a tail, legs bowed and head grown to nearly three times its size. Those facts describe the plight of George Bocklet, 49, of Azusa, Calif., shown at left as he appears today, a victim of the rare, incurable and menacingly painful Paget's disease which caused him to write to a Los Angeles physician: "I am taking on the appearance of an ape." How his head has enlarged is shown at right, the upper photo portraying him before his affliction.

CATTLEMEN PICK AMARILLO FOR 1936 MEET

W. T. Coble, of Amarillo, Re-Elected President

HOUSTON, March 15.—Amarillo yesterday was chosen as the next convention city of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Amarillo was chosen over Fort Worth by a vote of 67 to 62. Corpus Christi trailed with 47 votes.

All officers, including honorary vice presidents and directors, were re-elected after Jay Taylor of Amarillo, president of the Panhandle Livestock Association, made a brief talk for that action.

The officers are W. T. Coble of Amarillo, president; J. C. McGill of Alice, first vice president; J. T. Sneed of Amarillo, second vice president; W. E. Connell of Fort Worth, treasurer, and E. B. Spiller of Fort Worth, secretary.

Resolutions adopted included: Recommending adoption of Texas House bill No. 724 raising the truck load limit from 7,000 to 10,500 pounds.

Using a larger appropriation for the A. & M. College. Reaffirming support of the 2½ per cent retail sales tax.

TWO WITNESSES MAKE HAMLIN CASE BOND

Only One Juror Is Chosen During Afternoon

AMARILLO, March 15.—A stir was caused in the Hamlin trial yesterday afternoon when court was recessed while two witnesses, summoned by the defense, appeared before the bar and made recognition bands of $1,000 each to remain in Amarillo until after they have given testimony in the case.

The two are Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hudspeth, of Houston, salespeople for a Houston concern. It was learned that Amarillo is in their trade territory.

Here on Fatal Night Both the court and Defense Attorney E. T. Miller announced that they were not at liberty to make public the nature of the Hudspeths' expected testimony, but it was learned that they were in Amarillo on the night of January 4 when Mrs. Irene Hamlin was allegedly slain by her husband, George S. Hamlin.

Day Nets Two Jurors They were summoned by the defense several weeks ago and were included in the list of defense witnesses read when the trial began.

Only one juror was chosen during the afternoon. He is L. L. Beale, 56, of 700 Cleveland Street, a Sanborn School janitor.

Hundreds of students, representing 25 schools in Hall County, are in Memphis to take part in the annual county Inter-scholastic League meet today and tomorrow.

Director General Lee Vardy, of Turkey, met with division directors and judges at 9 o'clock this morning in the office of the county superintendent to outline details of the meet, and by 10 o'clock events were underway.

Winners in the county meet this week-end will compete in the district school meet at Childress on April 5 and 6.

Twelve Childress County school teachers are serving as judges of the various events. In return, the Childress county contest March 29 and 30 will be judged by teachers from Hall County.

JAYCEE COMEDY AGAIN IS 'HIT'

'Crazy Politics' Enjoys Success Before Second Night Audience Here Final presentation of "Crazy Politics" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce players, was received last night by a "fair" audience that was equally as responsive as the large crowd that witnessed the first showing at the high school auditorium Wednesday night.

The musical comedy brought laughs and roars from the audience with its comical action in the unusually comical plot of the story. Leading characters who added greatly to the unparalleled success of the two-day presentation included Cliff Bugnager, E. E. Walker, John Deaver, Dr. H. E. Howard, Allen Grundy, Allen Dumbear, Hiram Crawford, Cornebis McCanne, Guthrie Bennett, Hazel Owens, Herbert Estes, Mrs. Winifred Wilson, Mrs. R. S. Greene and others.

The play was presented by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Kennon Hillyer, president, this morning expressed complete satisfaction with the manner the play was presented and the wonderful reception given the play by the attending.

SILKEN SPINDLES

CHAPTER XLVIII
Letters, telegrams and a sheaf of mimeographed pages were spread over the big desk. The ornamental paper weight and the silver ash tray had been pushed aside to make way for a folder, bulky stuffed with manuscripts. A trade directory and two railroad time tables lay just beyond. In the center of the desk, on top of everything else, was a sheet of paper, neatly typed with columns of figures.

The figure he named took Gale's breath. It was more money than she had had at any time since she had been working. More money than she had dreamed of!

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson
The two weeks had been trying, strenuous. Brian had tackled them manfully, had fought his way through. There had been difficulties—serious ones—until it had been demonstrated, clearly and beyond dispute, that the policies Robert Thatcher had been carrying on in the mill were entirely his own, without the knowledge or consent of the owners.

away isn't going to change things. I mean about your marriage." Brian stared. "Marriage!" he exclaimed, "What marriage?" "Why yours and Miss Thatcher's." "You think I'm going to marry Vicky Thatcher! Where did you ever get an idea like that?" "She told me. She said the wedding was going to be in June. That's why—coming so soon—" Brian interrupted. "When did all this happen?" he asked. "When did Vicky tell you that?" "The night you and she came to my house." "That night—" Brian uttered a sharp exclamation. "The little liar!" he said. "Why, she's as bad as her father. The little liar! And so Vicky has been responsible for all this!"

He was on his feet now. "Listen, Gale," he said, earnestly. "I'm not engaged to Vicky Thatcher. I never have been. There isn't anybody—anybody in the world, do you understand?—I'll ever be engaged to except you. I told you before that I love you and I mean it. I love you, darling, with all my heart!" She raised eyes that were shining. She said, "Oh, Brian—!" It was later that Gale said, "I can hardly believe everything's happened the way it has. It's all so wonderful."

"Everything's going to be wonderful from now on," Brian told her. "Wonderful for you and me." "But that's not all I mean," Gale corrected. "I mean it's so wonderful about the people who are back at work, the things you've done for them, and for the mill. I want to help, Brian, in every way I can." "You will." He grinned. "It's the day of the New Deal," he told her. "A New Deal for the mill—and for you and me. Oh, that reminds me—"

Glorifying Yourself

Foundation lotion is used a drop at a time.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer
"My makeup simply won't stay on," complains a reader. "In spite of good cream rouge and careful application of the finest powder I can buy, my face always looks shiny and badly groomed. Do you think I ought to use a foundation of some kind?"

I certainly do think everyone should use foundation cream or lotion. Not only does it give the skin a smooth, satiny finish, but actually makes cosmetics adhere infinitely longer.

There are various types of foundations, of course. The thick lotions generally are best for dry and normal skins and the creams seem to suit oily complexions. One girl I know uses hand lotion as a foundation and finds that it does the trick perfectly.

Don't be afraid to pay a good price for a foundation that suits you. Since only a few drops per day are needed, by comparison it will last much longer than your other preparations. A particularly good foundation lotion that is made in many shades to match various skins comes in a diminutive bottle with a small opening. Only five drops are needed for each fresh makeup—one on chin, one on each cheek, another across the forehead and a fifth on the nose. Blend the drops across every inch of your face, smoothing your throat with whatever remains on the fingers. If your neck is particularly dry, put an extra drop there.

Another good foundation—this is a cream and comes in a jar—acts as a tissue cream and powder base at the same time. It's pale pink in color, good for any type of skin and really does hold powder in place for hours.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

T. J. Rea, Pastor
At the morning service, Rev. W. E. Hamilton of Lubbock will preach and the evening service Rev. R. T. Breedlove of Chillicothe will preach.

Sunday afternoon the Training School will begin at 3 o'clock, with three classes. Rev. Hamilton will teach "Education in the local church" Dr. Thos. S. Barcus will teach "Survey of New Testament" and Rev. R. T. Breedlove will teach "Teaching in the Sunday School". All three of these men are outstanding in their line. I am especially urging that all officers and teachers attend Hamilton's class. There will be a place for all. The Hedley, Lakeview and Plaska churches are to attend and it is hoped that all will take advantage of this exceptional opportunity.

If you are a Methodist, we urge that you come to the Sunday School and preaching services. All others will find a hearty welcome.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

John H. Banister, Minister
Paul Thompson preached last Sunday at the local church of Christ in the absence of John H. Banister, the local minister, who was confined to his bed with sickness. Good crowds and a fine hearing was given Thompson, who brought a fine message. He also preached at Lakeview in the afternoon and at night. The revival being conducted at Lakeview is going nicely. Overflow crowds. Arrangements are being made for more seating room. Singing is the best. Mr. Price, of Childress, who is preaching while Banister is sick, is doing a fine job. Four additions already.

The meeting will continue through the month and maybe longer. Some think people are no longer interested in Christianity and gospel preaching. You should go to Lakeview one of these nights and see whether that is true or not. Mr. Banister will preach at the local church Sunday morning. His subject will be "The Christian's Attitude Toward Evil". He will be at Lakeview for the afternoon and night services. You are invited to all our services.

Proverb Contest Rules

Each day for a period of four weeks The Memphis Democrat will print one of a series of cartoons representing some well known proverb or saying.

Contestants solve the picture puzzles by writing the proverb that the cartoon suggests or illustrates in the blanks below the pictures.

The prizes, totaling $30.00 in cash, will be awarded those sending in complete or near complete picture sets with the best and most appropriate answers to the pictures published. In case of a tie, neatness and originality of presentation will be considered.

Cartoons should not be sent to the office until the series is complete.

Only one answer may be given to a picture.

Only one member of a family will be given a prize, the award going to the person in that family submitting the best set.

No employees of The Democrat or members of their families are eligible in this contest.

At the close of the contest, send your answers to The Proverb Contest Editor, Memphis Democrat.

Just as sure as anything is said about the beautiful weather, and that it's time to plant flowers and garden seed, a sandstorm will appear. Should something be said about its going to be a bad day the sandstorm will immediately disappear and a bright and serene day will follow. For that reason TNG will attempt only to say that tomorrow may be the kind of day that will not be the kind of day that is the kind of day that was expected. Clear, isn't it?

 In other words, it may be the kind of day like the kind of day that is the kind of day one would not like to have. Or, it may not be the kind of day like the kind of day which one would like for it to be like. Take your choice.
 In plain English, it may be the kind of day that people hope it will be—a day full of bright sunshine without wind and sand to mar its splendor. It may not. That's the correct way to forecast weather in the Panhandle.

THIS SECTION MAY YET HAVE STATE PARK

THE people of this section of Texas seem to be determined to have a state park grace the wild country along the Cap Rock. The Quitaque Canyon Park Association attempted for weeks to secure a playground in Quitaque Canyon, where a beautiful stream winds its way down the canyon and over two magnificent falls, but this project fell through when Howard Brothers of New Orleans refused to sell 2,000 acres of land at the proposed park site. They gave as their reason that the loss of water in this area would greatly damage the value of the land. We do not know about that of course, but naturally were disappointed and feel that had the New Orleans brothers been interested in this part of the country, they could have made the sacrifice.

At any rate the group that planned and worked for the Quitaque Canyon park rates to see their months of toil go for nothing. "We are entitled to a park in this region and still plan to get it", they say. Therefore, they are seeking another suitable location. After it is found, they will again attempt to get the land title, this time from some other owner, and then proceed to get the state park board to include it in their chain of playground undertakings.

Three possible sites of the proposed park have been located. One of them was inspected Sunday. The other two will be visited by a group of citizens from the area from Plainview to Memphis next Tuesday. Although it will be hard to find a park site that equals Quitaque Canyon, the Cap Rock is cut by many interesting gorges and a suitable location should not be hard to find. The main difficulty will be that of water. If this can be provided, then this territory still is likely to have a fine playground in its own backyard.

Those men who are attempting, at their own expense and on their own time, to provide this section with a park, camp grounds, recreation center and perhaps swimming, boating and fishing locations, should be given every support possible by the people of this area. They are undertaking a difficult task, one that requires much time and work, and the result may be very pleasing indeed. The fact that the association refused to quit when it lost its first battle speaks highly of its personnel.

BUSINESS RUNS AWAY FROM EMPLOYMENT

THE man who said that there are lies, dam' lies, and statistics touched a popular chord. Most of us learned to dislike figures while we were studying arithmetic in grade school and never got over it.

Unfortunately, however, about the only way we can gauge the progress of our business recovery is by statistics. Still more unfortunately, the statistics that are now at hand are not entirely comforting.

They show progress, to be sure—but progress of a kind which creates new problems to replace the old ones.

John T. Flynn summed it up very concisely in his recent newspaper articles.

Comparing our industrial output today with that of 1929, Mr. Flynn demonstrated that we have traveled 54 per cent of the way back—a pretty fair record, as far as production is concerned.

But in the matter of re-employment, we have covered only 28 per cent of the distance. In wage levels, the gain from the 1932 low point is only 18 per cent. In payrolls, we have gained but 21 per cent.

Mr. Flynn draws this inescapable deduction from these figures:

"It is perfectly plain that employers are spending an ever smaller fraction of the cost of producing goods upon their workers."

This does not mean that employers are a mean and conniving set of chisellers. It simply indicates that our recovery efforts are bumping us up against the knottiest problem of the modern age—the dismaying fact that modern industry is progressively able to produce more and more goods with the expenditure of less and less human effort.

In the long run, any society which hopes to find its way back to a condition of peaceful plenty must find some way of averting the challenge.

No recovery can be on a sound basis until employment, wage, and payroll levels rise at something approaching the rate of production levels.

HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine
For years it has been noted that cancer seems to run in families, but modern studies have shown that, for the more usual types of tumors which are widely distributed, it is of little significance.

In a recent review of the subject, a specialist points out that certain unusual types of cancer seem to be quite definitely inherited. There is the case of one family in which 10 of 16 children had a certain unusual form of tumor of the retina, the tissue at the back of the eye. The parents in this family did not have these tumors, but an uncle on the father's side died from the same malady as affected these children.

The evidence that becomes available from the study of twins is of special interest. There are 38 cases in which twins have been involved in the study of tumor. In 12 cases, only one member of the pair had a tumor but, of course, the remaining member was still living and it was not possible to say that he would not eventually develop a tumor.

In the remaining 36 instances, both members of the twin groups had tumors. Those of each couple were in general of the same type, affected the same organ, and appeared at approximately the same time. While this kind of evidence may seem to establish definitely the importance of heredity in relationship to cancer, there is also plenty of good evidence as to the influence of environment. Certain types of cancer are often associated with unusual habits.

In one part of Kashmir, the natives develop cancers of the walls of the abdomen. These are associated with repeated burns from a sort of earthenware stove filled with charcoal which the people in the northern parts of the country wear around their waists to furnish warmth.

It is also recognized that special types of cancer from coal tar occur among chimney-sweeps. Moreover, it has been possible to produce cancers in rats by rubbing coal tar on their ears for a long time.

In fact, this work was of the greatest importance, because it gave the scientists opportunity to study cancer in lower animals. Thus the factors responsible in cancer would seem to be of two

Stories in STAMPS

The OLDEST CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

ICELAND, that cold bleak island in the North Atlantic, stands out in history as the country with the oldest constitutional government in the world. In 1930 it celebrated the millenary, or 1000th anniversary, of the founding of the Althing, its parliament. Before 930, the island was ruled by a system of homesteads with chiefs at their heads. Disputes and uncertainty about the laws brought about the union of these homesteads.

As part of this millenary, Iceland issued a set of 15 stamps portraying incidents and scenes in the history and life of the country.

types—the hereditary factor and the irritant factor. Some types of cancer may be the result of only one of these forces; others the result of both.

There is a form of skin disease in which there seems to be a hypersensitivity of the skin, so that under the influence of light there is inflammation leading to malignant changes.

Undoubtedly all human beings vary in their amount of resistance to cancer, and in the amount of susceptibility or likelihood that exists in them to the development of new growths.

While these studies do not definitely fix the cause of cancer, they add a great deal to our knowledge of the way in which it develops and thereby increase the eventual likelihood of control.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Wheeler Again Acts to Aid Poor Consumer... Hush Move Fails to Clamp Lips of NRA Employees... War Within Year Predicted for U. S. and They Bet on It.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Mama and Papa, groaning over the size of meat and grocery bills, are entitled to know how much of the family money goes to pay dividends and higher profits.

Or perhaps they aren't. It's an old-fashioned idea which was popular here in the early days of the New Deal.

Even the administration a year ago though it ought to know when it exempted food industries from anti-trust laws under the AAA act, whether its policies resulted in the gouging of consumers. But it changed its mind.

Toward the end of the last session of Congress, Roosevelt telephoned Senator Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina to urge passage of a bill from Senator Burt Wheeler of Montana for a quick investigation of food profits. The bill was lost in a last-minute rush.

This year, when Wheeler reintroduced the measure, the budget bureau sent word that it was "contrary to administration policy." Meanwhile, the AAA high command, with acquiescence from Secretary Wallace and Roosevelt, has ruthlessly suppressed most officials in its ranks who once led the fight for consumer and farmer protection against the "middleman."

The Senate has passed the Wheeler bill despite the administration's change of front, but the measure is sure to remain buried in the House unless popular protest against rising food prices directs more attention to it.

Wheeler wants to know who gets the "kravy" from AAA marketing agreements. He suspects that while farmers have been receiving higher prices, the big "spread" between their prices and consumer prices has been in many cases exorbitant and worked to disadvantage of farmers by reducing consumption. The investigation would be made by the Federal Trade Commission.

Only the day before the Senate began its investigation of NRA, word went down to subordinates in the Blue Eagle outfit that they must have no communication with members of Congress without previous consultation with their superiors.

The order was a bit late. Most NRA employees owe their jobs at least partially to the effort of one or more senators and those who had anything on their chests had already passed it along.

By the time the investigation began, investigating senators

Mack Thinks Foxx's Catching May Win A's Flag

HOOKS MAY FIT IN AS FIRST BASEMAN

No Doubt Chance To Shorten Jimmy's Career

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of articles on big league training camps, first of two stories on the Philadelphia Athletics.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
FORT MYERS, Fla., March 15.
Why has Connie Mack made a catcher out of James Emory Foxx, greatest long-distance right-hand hitter of all time and one of the three foremost first basemen in baseball?
Why did Foxx consent to the switch?
There is little question that it will shorten Foxx's brilliant major league career. The wear and tear is vastly greater behind the plate than at first base. There is much more adnger of the Maryland farmer being injured.

Mack, 72 and launching his 52d season, realizes all this.
The tall tactician's explanation stresses the importance of catching an dthe scarcity of receivers.
"With Foxx catching, the Athletics have a chance to win the American League pennant," says Mack, shading his pale blue eyes from the Florida sun. "We could do no better than run fifth in 1934 largely because we did not have a catcher of real worth and one who could hit much more than his weight."
"I couldn't buy borrow, or beg a catcher who figured to hit more than .200, but in Alex Hove, purchased from Tulsa, I have a first baseman who should hit at least .275. Hooks, with an average of .340, lost the batting championship of the Texas League last season by only two points.

Foxx Favors Switch
"The boss made the decision for me," smiles Foxx, the .360 hitter. "After all, my being put out of the game for any length of time means more to him than it does to me."
"I simply had a chance to do some business. Mr. Mack made it worth while for me to catch, so here I am."
Foxx reveals that he is to be given a bonus each season if the Philadelphia club winds up in the first division.

The Sudlersville slugger is so positive that he and his teammates will attain this end that he already is counting the extra cash.
"I should collect between $65,000 and $75,000 on the new three-year contract I signed at the conclusion of last season," he beams.
From that you easily can reckon the approximate amount of Foxx's flat salary annually.
Babe Ruth, whose major league home run record of 60 Foxx hopes to break, was paid $80,000 for the season of 1930 by the New York Yankees.

Ruth had vastly more color and bucks office appeal than Foxx, who swatted 58 home runs in 1932, but the difference in their pay well illustrates how fortunate a star is to be in New York and working for an owner like Colonel Ruppert.
Foxx, who is only 27, has been made captain of the Athletics, and is working with a ne wspirit at Terry Field here.

A's Might Win, Says Jimmy
"You will recall that a year ago I predicted the Athletics would be on top again in four years," asserts Foxx, "and I wouldn't be at all surprised if we won this season. We have the stuff. It only has to be brought out. It is to be a wide-open race."

Mack considers Foxx the most versatile top-ranking player in the history of the game, as well as the foremost long-distance right-hand hitter. He is rapable of playing any position, and can pitch, too.
Ruth and other remarkable pitchers switched to the outfield, where their hitting could be brought into play every day, but you have to go back to Roger Bresnahan to find a case anywhere near parallel to that of Foxx. Pohn McGraw transformed Bresnahan from a fly chaser to a

Ruthian Limbs Quake? Big Bat Still Booms

Waddling up to the plate in his customary ducky fashion, Babe Ruth took his turn at the plate during batting practice with his new teammates, the Boston Braves, and poked one of his customary homers over the wall of the park at St. Petersburg. Here is the Bam as he took his cut.

"There's one fellow I can lick," yelled Babe Ruth when he speeded little Rabbit Maraville on reporting for practice on his first day as a Boston Brave. And the Bam rushed over to the little 43-year-old infielder, who is attempting to come back after breaking a leg last spring, and embraced him in that pawing, bear-hug of his. Bigger than ever does George Herman look here at right, with the Rabbit, at St. Petersburg, Fla.

catcher quite early in the Duke of Tralee's career.
Bresnahan pitched, caught, and performed in both infield and outfield, but if Jimmy Foxx fulfills the wily Mack's expectations, he will supplant Roger as the greatest all-round ball player who ever lived, in the opinions of many whose memory extends over three decades.

NEXT: Prospects of the Athletics.

HARRY GRAYSON

Cloaked in the profundity and solemnity of British scholarship comes to light a statement by Dr. Millais Culpin, a loyal subject of his majesty the king, to the effect that:

"Left-handers are calm and deliberate, demand justice for themselves and others, and generally show a sort of deliberate obstinacy."

We have no means of knowing whether the learned doctor ever delved into the tomes of baseball, ancient and modern, but it seems that his statement is applicable to baseball more than any other sport.

Back in the Dark Ages of the diamond pastime, southpaws were regarded as beings from another world. Every time an unorthodox pitcher would walk to the mound, batters would stick their tongues in their cheeks and mumble magic phrases to ward off evil spirits.

Signing of a southpaw in these days meant evil omens to the starboard side players, and the superstitious ball hawks would don their lucky shirts, carry copious quantities of luck pieces, and prepare to battle a jinx they felt sure would ride with them in the person of the portside.

Left-handers have been accepted as matter of fact since, but their idiosyncrasies linger on.

Waddell Was Worried
If you remember Rube Waddell, Connie Mack's old south paw who was one of his greatest pitchers, you probably can recall his "deliberate obstinacy," and demands for justice for himself.
One of the best illustrations of these characteristics came to light one year when Rube failed to report in the spring.

Connie, knowing Waddell's temperamental ways, started searching in various saloons. He knew the petulant southpaw would be terding bar in one of them.
Finally Mack ran across Rube slopping suds over the mahogany. "What's wrong, Rube? Aren't the terms right this year?" he asked.

The lefty assumed a look of righteous martyrdom.
"It's about that Ollie Schreckengost," he finally confessed. (Ollie was his battery mate and shared the same room with Rube.) "I want a clause in my contract that he won't eat crackers in bed any more."

Mack stifled the urged to guffaw, produced a pen and paper there-with, plenty of technical and legal phraseology, fixed up a contract which prevented Ollie from eating crackers in bed.

British Golf Stars Face Quiet Season

WASH DAY

Baseball players don't have to do their own laundry in training camps, but big-hearted Dizzy Dean thought he'd lend a hand in putting the wash out on the line. Here's Diz as the cameraman caught him. He made some remark about white-washing National League teams this year as he pushed home that clothespin.

good doctor's statement as to being "calm and deliberate." Imagine a guy who eats so many hot dogs and drinks so much pop that he gets a tummy ache that causes a nation to weep-salty tears, being calm and deliberate!

Or imagine a guy like Babe, who can't remember a fellow's first or last name to save his expansive hide, and who addresses half his teammates as "Kid" or "Boy," being calm and deliberate enough to remember the name of the fellow to whom he's talking!

Lefty Gomez, the Yanks' smokeball artist, is another who disproves Dr. Culpin's declaration. The slim Castilian is so nervous he can't be calm. Every game he pitches he works himself into such a sweat that he loses pounds like a duck sheds water, and the only thing deliberate about him is the way he pushes that pellet past batters.

There are numerous other southpaws in baseball; some bear out the British savant's contention and others belie it.

To avoid any possibility of nations rising to arms over such a stupendous statement, Dr. Culpin would have done well to temper his bulletin to read:

"Right-handers are lucky people—lucky they aren't left."

LONDON, March 11.—The British season faces British last year.

No international scheduled, and apart from the Open Championship, and the Amateur Cup team for the Ridgewood, N. J.

The Professional Golf association already has a selection committee. In the example of 1933, or so probables from the final team will be selected.

Since the match will be played until September, golfers have all the be warmed up. The final will depend on their performance in the major tournaments.

The season opens the first of the big tournaments, the Hampton Invitation. The Reginald Whitcombe.

The first of the is the English, to be played in Lincoln, Nottingham, for time, starting April 29. is S. T. Lunt, who beat Crawley in an extra-out at Forbury last year.

Starting May 13 the Dunlop-Southport $80,000 ment, the richest event in Europe. Alfred Paley was the last winner, his markable score of 279 holes.

Next comes the George's Challenge Cup, a stroke competition, in which Lawson expected to compete. The ing week, beginning May will be defending his title at Royal Lytham, Lancashire.

Clashing with the and starting May 22, the British Women's Open ship, at Newcastle, Co. Northern Ireland. Mrs. Holm will be defending.

There is a month's that until the British ship is started June Muirfield, Scotland. He won it last year.

YOU'RE TELLING ME

Babe Herman reports from the Pirates' training camp that he used to average 55 yards on punts as a high school gridder... that's almost as far as he has booted some of those ground balls in the outfield... Sonny Workman, the noted jockey who was up on Epuipoise in most of that great horse's victories, is worried about his weight, and already is planning a training career... Japanese golf pros are to follow that Japanese baseball team on a tour of the United States... Six of them will be over to play our best courses in the summer... In two years, Leon Chagnon, formerly of the Pirates and now pitching for the Giants and now pitching in 52 games—but he didn't start a one... He hopes to get starting assignments will Bell Terry's crew.

Rome, with a population of 972,000, is the largest city in Italy.
What's good for major league ball players is good for the president of the National League, too, figured Ford Frick, head of the loop. So he stopped off at Catalina Island on the way back from a trip to the Panama Canal Zone, and tested out his pitching arm at the camp of the Chicago Cubs. Here he is in action.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

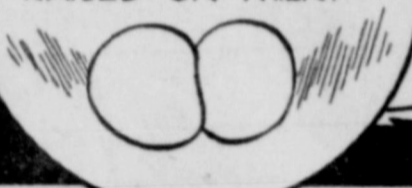

The DUCK-BILLED PLATYPUS,
FOUND IN TASMANIA AND SOUTHERN AUSTRALIA

THIS "WHAT-IS-IT" OF THE ANIMAL WORLD, ALTHOUGH CLASSED AS A MAMMAL, APPEARS TO BE A TOSS-UP BETWEEN BIRD AND BEAST. ITS BILL RESEMBLES THAT OF A DUCK AND IS USED FOR SIFTING WORMS FROM THE RIVER MUD. THE YOUNG HAVE TEETH, BUT THE ADULTS HAVE ONLY HORNY PLATES FOR CRUSHING THEIR FOOD.

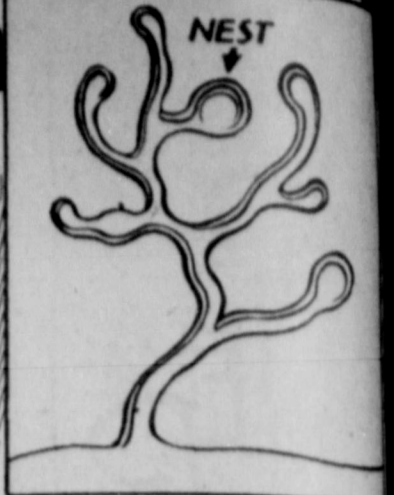

THE FEET ARE WEBBED, AND ON EACH HIND FOOT THERE IS A HIDDEN POISON SPUR, WHICH IS CAPABLE OF INFLECTING A SERIOUS WOUND.

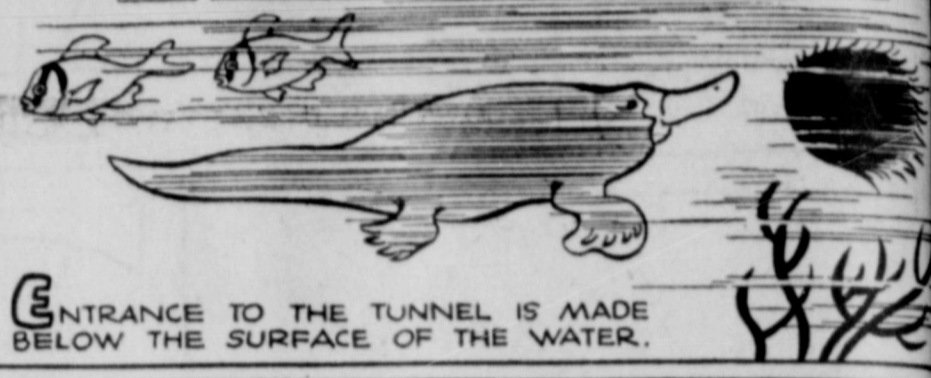

THE EGGS, TWO TO FOUR IN NUMBER, ARE SOFT-SHELLED, AND FASTENED TOGETHER. THE YOUNG ARE RAISED ON MILK.

STRANGEST OF ALL, THE DUCK-BILL ACTUALLY LAYS EGGS IN A NEST AND THEN SITS ON THEM, LIKE A BROODING FOWL.

THE NEST IS BUILT IN A RIVER BANK, FAR BACK IN AN UNDERGROUND TUNNEL. (CROSS SECTION SHOWN ABOVE)

ENTRANCE TO THE TUNNEL IS MADE BELOW THE SURFACE OF THE WATER.

ONLY ONE OTHER MAMMAL ON EARTH ... THE PORCUPINE ANT-EATER ... LAYS EGGS. IT MAKES NO NEST, BUT CARRIES ITS LONE EGG ABOUT IN ITS POUCH.

BOOTS AND BILLY HAVE FORGOTTEN ALL THEIR CARES AND WORRIES, AND ARE HAVING A SIMPLY SWELL TIME AS THEIR SHIP PUSHES FURTHER AND FURTHER SOUTH, INTO THE CALM WATER OF THE SOUTH SEAS... TOTALLY UNAWARE OF GWENDOLYN'S PRESENCE ON THE SHIP AND THE FACT THAT THEIR EVERY MOVE IS WATCHED.....

THE EVENING IS WARM AND BALMY—THE MUSIC THAT WAFTS FROM THE DANCE FLOOR, THE MOON—EVERYTHING IS GORGEOUS... AND STILL... ALL ABOARD SHIP IS NOT AS WELL AS IT MIGHT BE.....

HSSST, CHIEF

DON'T SPEAK TO ME HERE, YOU FOOL! MEET ME ON THE PROMENADE DECK

IN THE FIRST PLACE, I'VE WARNED YOU ABOUT WEARING THAT PHONEY UNIFORM! YOU'D BE IN A JAM, IF ANY OF THE SHIP'S CREW SPOTTED YOU

OH, SO HANDLE THAT, LISSEN... SHH! TH' DICKS ARE WISE

YEAH? HOW ABOUT THE GIRL?

NOW, ACE—COME WITH PAPA AN' BE A GOOD BOY! THE MASTER-AT-ARMS WANTS TO SEE YOU

IS THIS A JOKE, BOYS?

SURE—JUST A LITTLE GAME

TH' WAY WE PLAY IT IS TO SEARCH PEOPLE! Y'SEE, TH' HAMPTON PEARLS WERE SWATCHED A FEW MINUTES AGO

OF COURSE, YOU WERE JUST KIDDING AND DIDN'T INTEND TO KEEP 'EM—BUT, OTHER FOLKS DON'T KNOW YOU AS WE DO! BRING 'IM ALONG, BOYS

HAVE YOU HEARD, BOOTS? THE FAMOUS HAMPTON PEARLS HAVE BEEN STOLEN

OH, BILLY... ISN'T THAT DREADFUL?

HMMM

I HOPE YOU'RE SATISFIED, BOYS! YOU HAD THE WRONG MAN

OH, I WOULDN'T SAY THAT

NO, WE WOULDN'T SAY THAT

NOOOOOO

THERE'S SOMETHING COCKEYED ABOUT THIS! I'D HAVE SWORN HE HAD THOSE PEARLS—BUT, WE SEARCHED 'IM FROM HEAD TO FOOT! THEY AREN'T ON 'IM, THAT'S SURE—BUT, I'LL BET MY BIRTHDAY CAKE THE MUG KNOWS WHERE THEY ARE! I'LL KEEP MY EYES ON 'IM

CIGARETS, MISTER?

WHY... YES, SURE

NO, NO—A THUNDER CLAP

AH-HAHHHHH!

CLICK

GLORY!!! THEY'RE ALL HERE! NOT A ONE MISSING! AND NO ONE SUSPECTS A THING—THAT THEY CAN PROVE! WHAT A HAUL!!!!!! THAT GIRL IS A WONDER!

ONE THING ABOUT HARVEY - HE NEVER TALKS GOLF AFTER HE LEAVES THE CLUBHOUSE!

OUR BOARDING-HOUSE

By Ahern

GEE, UNCLE AMOS, I TURNED MY ANKLE IN A RACE AT SCHOOL. BUT I WON THE RACE, ANYWAY.

EGAD, M'LAD, LIKE A TRUE HOOPLE. NEVER SAY DIE! THAT IS THE HOOPLE SPIRIT!

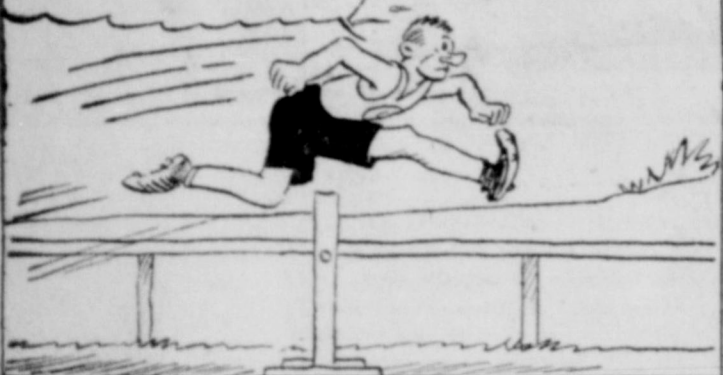

AH, WHAT A DELIGHT TO CLOSE MY EYES AND DREAM BACK TO MY YOUNGER DAYS, WHEN I, TOO, CARRIED ON AND ON AND ON!

SOME DAY, I MUST SEE IF I CAN FIND THE MEDALS I WON IN THE 100 YARDS DASH, IN MY HIGH SCHOOL DAYS. BROKE THE RECORD EACH YEAR FOR FOUR CONSECUTIVE YEARS.

THAT, NO DOUBT, WAS WHAT BUILT UP MY WIND AND RESISTANCE TO THE POINT WHERE I BECAME A SENSATION AS A HURDLER, IN MY FRESHMAN YEAR. LOW AND HIGH HURDLES - THEY WERE ALL THE SAME TO ME!

AND THE HIGH JUMP! WHAT A REMARKABLE THING HAPPENED, WHEN I ENTERED IN THE HIGH JUMP, AT OXFORD. THAT IS IN ENGLAND - GOOD OL' ENGLAND, M'LAD!

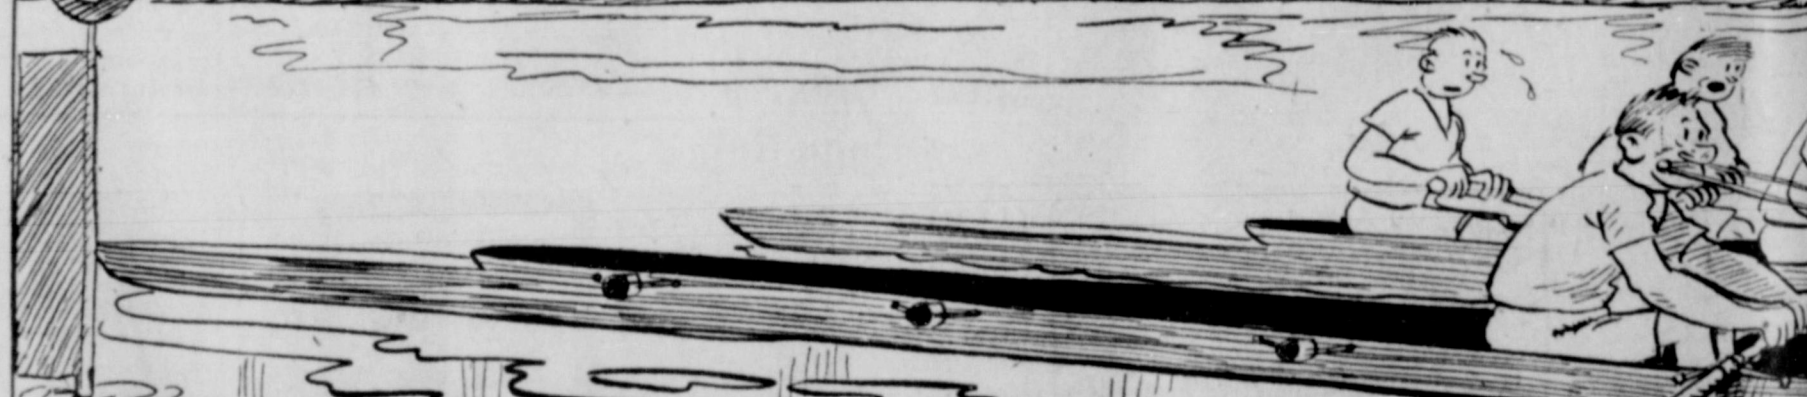

CONFUSED BY THE CHEERING, WHEN I STARTED DOWN THE CINDER PATH, I MISTOOK THE POLE VAULT BAR FOR THE HIGH JUMP BAR. I WAS UPON IT, AND IT WAS TOO LATE TO STOP, SO UP I WENT - AND CLEARED IT AT NINE FEET!

IT WAS NOT UNTIL THE FAMOUS SHELL RACE BETWEEN OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE, HOWEVER, THAT I RECEIVED RECOGNITION FROM THE KING OF ENGLAND. IT SO HAPPENED THAT THE OTHER MEMBERS OF THE OXFORD CREW WERE SEIZED WITH CRAMPS JUST BEFORE THE RACE STARTED. IT MUST HAVE BEEN SOMETHING THEY ATE.

I WAS FORCED TO BOARD THE SHELL ALONE! WHAT A RACE! AND, MIND YOU, I WON IT BY ONLY THE SCANT MARGIN OF A FEW INCHES.

ALVIN, THE GROCERY STORE CLOSES IN FIVE MINUTES. I WANT YOU TO DASH DOWN AND GET ME A POUND OF BUTTER.

GEE, AUNT MARTHA, YA BETTER HAVE UNCLE AMOS GO. HE CAN RUN LOTS FASTER THAN I CAN! HE WAS JUST TELLING ME -

OH, HE WAS, WAS HE? ALL RIGHT - ON YOUR WAY, YOU BIG LUMMOX, AND YOU BETTER BRING THAT BUTTER BACK!

PUFF-PUFF - WILL I NEVER LEARN! IT DOESN'T PAY TO TELL YOUR YOUNG OF YOUR PROWESS.
