

CK IN HOLDING HANDS.

He called on her the other night
And told her how the world seemed
And fair and grand,
With a sudden rush of pluck,
Said: "When I always had the luck
To hold this hand."
Next evening at the club he held Another hand,
He scooped the pot and fairly yelled
"This beats the hand!"
Say, fellows, that was nip and tuck—
I with a always had the luck
To hold this hand."
—Philadelphia Press.

But my roll showed him 7 meant straight business, and it was soon done. Back to the train I ran, and got it just as he was pulling out.
"Well," thinks I, "I ain't much of a ring. I'm afraid; but gladly I'll get her a better one, if only she'll be willing to take it from me, and wear it."
'Twas toward nightfall of the second day, just in the gray of the twilight that the train reached my stop-per's place. It had been a happy journey back. Out I piled into the cool car, and walked along the platform, lookin' to see if there was anyone I knew. I didn't see anyone at first, but when the train rolled on east I noticed a farmer on a wagon just over the other side of the tracks, and saw twas Mr. Welker that lived a couple o' miles past Morse's farm, where I was bound for.

"Good evenin', Mr. Welker," says I.
"If you're goin' to be headin' for home soon, will you give me a lift as far as Morse's?"
The old man looked sharp at me.
"What if I ought to know you," he says. "Why, ain't you the young chap that was workin' out there at Morse's last year, and went to make your fortune somewheres out in the wilderness?"
"Guess you're right," says I.
"And so you didn't get your fortune."

"What makes you think that?"
"Why, natural enough; I figure that no one that's ever left old man Morse's will yearn particular to go back except he's dead broke."
"Well, you're not so far off there," says I, "but then you see it's somebody besides Morse and his wife I'm goin' to see."
"Then I'm feared you won't see him, leastways not to-night," says he,
"for there ain't no one else livin' with 'em."
Somehow, his words sent a chill through me. "You don't mean," says I,
"that there's go one at all livin' with 'em?"
"Is there?" says he.
"Why, Nellie—Miss Wesley—you know—ain't she stayin' with 'em still?"

The old man looked at me a long time before he finally shook his head.
"No," says he, "you won't find her there. And so you're not goin' of it? I guess it won't vary many weeks after you'd left. Yes, my daughter knew her a little, and after hearin' she'd come down, used to ride over occasionally to see her. The doctor was the typhoid and she died her; but my girl thinks twas that a sorethin' besides, somethin' that was wearin' on her mind. I reckon them miserable Morse's hadn't treated her any too good; for though she didn't complain 'em of the gentle sort, my daughter suspicioned the poor child was dyin', for some reason, of a broken heart."

THE MINISTER MEANT WELL.

But His Good Wishes Boded Ill for the Congregation.
The debt of the struggling little church had all been paid off but $500.
A minister noted by his skill and success in raising church funds had been sent for and was presiding over the meeting. The work of stirring up the audience to the requisite pitch of enthusiasm had begun. Subscriptions were rapidly being secured, and after considerable effort to $100, where they stuck. In vain the visiting brother exhorted and pleaded. The limit of the cash resources of the congregation appeared to have been reached, and at last he sat down discouraged.

Then Brother Burymen, a highly respected undertaker, who had made a liberal subscription already, rose and said: "Then, this thing shan't fall through after it has got as far along as $100. I believe in a man giving as he has prospered, and, although I have given a pretty good-sized donation, I am ready to do more. I'll pay the last $100 myself."
"I don't know your name, brother," shouted the visiting preacher, jumping to his feet with enthusiasm, "but I hope your business will double during the coming year, and I believe it will."

His Incentive.
In one tiny hand the little fellow held a slab of stony-looking cake (his oldest sister's first attempt), while in the other he grasped a stick of peppermint, which he was very anxious to devour; yet he manfully gave his whole attention to the cake.

"You seem anxious to get rid of that cake, Georgie?" said an amused visitor.
"Yes," gulped Georgie, "I promised mummy I'd eat it all up before I touched this sweetstuff."
"Well, why don't you put the sugar-stick in my pocket? Then you won't be tempted to break your word."
"No, thank you," replied Georgie, philosophically. "I don't have the courage to be lookin' at I don't think I'll have the strength of mind to finish the cake!"

Luxury is apt to transform pleasures into burdens.

Moleskin for Coats.
The very smart moleskin fur appears in coats for which many hundreds of the skins of the little pro-cessures are necessary, each skin being little larger than the palm of your hand. The joining of the skins shows in a little ridge, which is formed with beautiful nicety into a sort of zigzag design. These wraps have deep, fringed collars, wide sleeves, with handsome frills of rich laces and embroideries, and cost anywhere from $200 to $1,000—which seems a goodly sum for a coat that may go out of fashion some day. It is not the American mole which has attained to all this grandeur, but a little creature that frisks among the purple heather and gorse of Scotland.

Vells of All Kinds.
Vells have reached the point of exaggeration. It is nothing unusual to find a fashionable woman asking for yards being considered quite small.
Then instead of the old time black and white colors of all shades are now considered the proper thing, and instead of pin dots, small moons as large as a quarter of a dollar are not at all one of the way. The very latest veil is the accordion-plated affair, which hangs in a curtain over the face and is more of a mask than a beautifier. The cloud veil is a trifle thinner and the shades are from deep to pale.

A Fashionable Blouse.
Simple blouse waists made of handsome material are much liked and are exceedingly serviceable worn with the fashionable tailored suits. This one is made of pale green panne velvet, simply stitched and held with fancy buttons, and is worn with a stock of the same combined with silk. The waist is a novel one and is tucked at the center front to give a vest effect and again at the shoulders to yoke depth, while the tucks at the back are arranged to give tapering lines.
The closing is made invisibly beneath the edge of one of the wide tucks and the fitted lining can be used or omitted as may be preferred. The quantity of material required is 4 1/2 yards 21, 3 1/2 yards 27 or 2 1/2 yards 44 inches.

4493 Blouse, Waist, $2 to 40 bust.

Three Pretty Effects.
Deep girles embroidered in the same tints as the gown are being much worn. These decided girle effect is desired material entirely different to the dress is used, and the new brocades touched in with a gold thread lend themselves admirably to this use.
One of the whims of the year is to veil silk girles with gauze, the gauze being continued in long ends reaching the bottom of the skirt.
Another novelty is the leather belts and girles which come in soft suede leathers and show a great variety of design, color and ornament.

Tissue Lamp Shades.
There is something entirely new for the woman who has tact in her fingers and delights in lamp and candle shades. They are made of tissue and crape paper, and no one need scold for they are not the old time flower effects which are pretty, to be sure, but not as generally useful as might be. These newer shades are made on the lines of the silk and satin shades, have equally as good color effects, and do not outlast which come in those made of more elaborate materials.

Velvet Skirt Buttons.
A nine-inch band of velvet is applied plainly to the bottom of the skirt, like a deep hem. It may be headed by a cluster of narrow tucks on big narrow bands of velvet, but nothing should break the velvet surface or mar the severity of the hem effect. This treatment is used more often for day frocks but it is applied to evening frocks, even to those of sheer material.

The wide, flat band of velvet matching the dress fabric in color, set on at knee height and bordered by lace on passmenterie, is another velvet trimming often seen upon the chiffon, mousseline crepe, silk or satin evening frock.

Girl's Gymnasium Suit.
In this day of physical exercises and devotion to health the gymnasium suit

4554 Girl's Gymnasium Suit, 8 to 16 years.

is as much a necessity as the costume for walking on the street. This very excellent one is absolutely simple at the same time that it fulfills all requirements and is suited to the various materials that are used for the purpose. The model, however, is made of dark blue flannel with the collar and shoulder of dark red handkerchief blue.
The suit consists of the blouse and the bloomers. The blouse is shaped by means of shoulder and under-arm seams, gathered and joined to the belt. The bloomers are generously full and made to droop below the knees. The upper edge is finished with front and back belts which can be buttoned to that of the blouse.
The quantity of material required for the medium size (12 years) is 4 1/2 yards 27 inches wide of 3 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, with 1/2 yard of either width for collar and shield.

The pattern 4594 is cut in sizes for girls of 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years of age.

Muff Chains.
Extremely novel and artistic are the muff chains some of the fortunate travelers have brought home with them this year from Europe. The prettiest are made of large oblong bits of mosaic, joined with gold chains an inch long. Others are of beautiful mountain stones found in Switzerland, in purple, deep green, blue and amber.
No chain is used for these stones, and they are fastened close together with short links. The effect is very rich when the stones of the chain match the gown or coat.

Dainty Work Table.
From France comes a dainty work table, such as was used perhaps 100 years ago. It is of rosewood, the height and form of a small, low stand, with the top cut into a round opening.
A deep, wide band of flowered silk is shirred around this opening and falls a foot and more below the table. Into this the fancy work is dropped. Pockets in the bag and compartments around the opening afford places for sewing implements. A lid closes over the top.

"I suppose it must seem dull to you here," says Nellie. "But you're not goin' to be gone long, that is, very long, are you?"
The pretty child. I could see she was trying to talk in a lively, cheerful way; yet she couldn't keep an anxious tone out of her voice.

"Well," says I, "that'll depend mostly on whether I have luck or not.
There's a girl, too, that'll have something to say about it."
I could see Nellie give a start when I said that, and thinks I, "she knows of course I mean her." But just then I was called away by Mr. Morse, my employer, who wanted some help out in the stock sheds, and was kept longer I'd expected, and so didn't get to tell Nellie that night what I'd finally decided I would. 'Twas late when I got through an' went back to the house, an' Nellie'd come to her room.

I had to be up and off early the next mornin', for there was a long walk to the station, and the train went through about five o'clock. I hung around, waitin' for Nellie to come 'n' see me, but she didn't appear.
Then I began to think she might be steyin' back purposely, dreadin' to meet me because she didn't care for me after all, and was afraid of what I might ask her. Fool again, I was!
So I didn't wait quite as long as I might, but went away feelin' as if I'd a lump of lead in my heart.

Montana's a great country. My brother's I worked side by side, day after day, week after week, gettin' what we'd come for—the mountain's gold. We'd had more'n usual luck, and twice had struck it rich. But hard as I worked, and eager as I was for success, there was one thing I was always thinkin' about, an' that was Nellie. What was she doin'? Did she ever think of me? Did she care for me? Such questions for Nellie to ask! 'Twas a wonder, but I was thinkin' I didn't write to her, for I was thinkin' all the while, "I'll be goin' back to her soon; then there'll be time for her to answer all my questions."

I've said we'd had more'n usual luck, my brother and I; so after eight months or so, one day, says I to myself, "Now's the time for me to go back and ask Nellie."
I'll never forget that journey back.
What a happy world this looks like if you're only happy yourself. I was two days on the trail back to the railroad town. It seemed a rough, lonesome road when I was comin'; but goin' home I could feel the beauty of the wild country. And then on the train two more days. How different it all seemed from when I went. I was interested now in everybody and everything I saw.
At one small town where the train stopped a few minutes I looked out, and there was a little jewelry store across the street. A sudden thought came to me, an' out I dashed. I guess that jeweler thought I was a crook when I burst in and asked to see the best diamond ring for ladies he'd got.

The proposed cotton growers meeting billed for last Saturday failed to materialize, owing to the inclement weather.

The man who wants to build an ideal home and have plenty of fruit, vegetables and feed stuff should come to Artesia.

A prominent citizen of Deming was arrested this week for killing a Chinaman. Who called New Mexico the uncivilized west?

What the Artesian country needs is more well drills. There is a demand for wells that the few machines now here cannot supply.

The fire which destroyed the city of Baltimore Sunday was the most destructive in the history of the world. The loss may reach $200,000,000.

Every carpenter in Artesia is making good use of his muscle these days. The saw, the planer and the hammer make a constant melody for nine hours per day.

Requests for copies of the Advocate are coming from all directions. Our subscription list is growing rapidly and Artesia is becoming known in all parts of the Union.

It seems to be statehood with Arizona or no statehood at all for New Mexico. The Advocate has come to the conclusion that this will be better than perpetual disfranchisement.

Our enterprising neighbors down at Carlsbad took right hold of Mr. Rigg's forestry proposition and have planted thousands of trees this month. See a full account in another column.

Russia and Japan have at last gone to war and the Japs secured first blood, by capturing four Russian war ships. Some how or other, our sympathies go out to the plucky little Japs, and we hope they will win.

A great deal of winter plowing has been done around Artesia and with the coming of warm spring days, planting will begin on a large scale. This will be a producing community in 1904 and the man who wants to see what the Pecos valley will grow should come out next summer.

Contracts let for two more business houses on Main street this week, and four on the same street already in course of construction. There seems to be nothing slow about Artesia.

A rural poet thus soliloquizes:—
 "Early to bed and early to rise does very well for sick folks and guys; but it makes a man miss all the fun till he dies and joins the stiff that have come to the skies. Go to bed when you please; and lie at your ease. You'll die just the same of some Latin disease."

J. C. Gage Land Co., Artesia,

Artesia's first term of public school closed last Friday, cut short by the fact that our district was organized too late last year to get our full share of the scholastic apportionment. So far as we know, the term has been entirely satisfactory and Prof. Peck is to be commended for his careful attention to the welfare of the school. While the public school fund is exhausted, there is no reason why we cannot have a school by public subscription. Nearly every parent in the town would rather pay a tuition fee than to have their children's education neglected and the boys going wild on the streets. The school building belongs to the whole people of the community and they should have the privilege of using the same whenever it is possible. No doubt some competent teacher can be found who will be glad to pay rent on the building, if necessary, and conduct a private school. This being the case, it is plainly the duty of the trustees to let such a one have it, that those parents who want to send their children to school can do so. There is no use in letting the school house stand there vacant when it can be used for school purposes. That's what the people built the house for, so let's get a teacher and keep the school going.

Mayor A. B. Corbin, of La Junta, Colorado, was with the Tallmadge party in Artesia last week. He is highly pleased with this part of the valley and says he is going to come back and bring a party of his townsmen with him. The entire party was convinced that here is some of the choicest irrigable land in the United States, not excepting the celebrated Rocky Ford cantaloupe lands. Also that the Pecos valley has one very conspicuous advantage of the Arkansas valley—that is the length of season. In 1903 portions of Colorado only had six weeks of growing weather, consequently but few products had a chance to germinate and mature before frost, while here we had six months of warm sunshine and ample time for harvesting. It is highly probable that a number of the Tallmadge party will invest here.

Death of E. A. Anderson.
 The first death in the town of Artesia occurred last Sunday morning, being that of E. A. Anderson. His death was a surprise and shock to the entire community. He was complaining Tuesday of something like indigestion and was confined to his room. His illness was not considered serious until acute pneumonia developed Friday. It was said on the streets Saturday that he was quite sick, but no one was prepared for the announcement Sunday morning that he had died at 3 o'clock a. m.

Mr. Anderson came to Artesia from Peck, Kansas, last year and filed upon a 160-acre homestead south of town and has since been working at the carpenter's trade in town. He was an intelligent, pleasant gentleman and made many friends by his courteous demeanor. He was the means of bringing many of his old neighbors to the valley and his good work has been appreciated. The remains were shipped to Wichita for interment, in charge of Mr. A. E. Noel.

The Hagerman Well.
 The Hagerman people have been having troubles of their own with their new well. She big flow of water still continues which comes from a depth of 530 feet but the well is being bored deeper and several days ago when a depth of 530 feet was reached the tools were lost. After many days probing and many vain attempts yesterday evening the tools were brought to the surface much to the pleasure of the people of Hagerman, and now the hole to China will continue to go down.—Roswell Record.

U. S. Court Commissioner Smith reports a large number of filings on land in the Artesia country last week.

Judge T. C. Tillotson, a prominent and substantial citizen of Elk, spent Tuesday night in the city, enroute to Roswell.

Mr. Edward Gessert of the John Srock Lumber Company, was looking after the firm's interests in Artesia this week.

Mr. John S. Majors has let the contract for a commodious business house on Main street, opposite the Advocate office.

Mr. S. E. Woodworth this week moved his blacksmith shop from Main street to the lots recently purchased on Texas avenue.

Mr. F. P. Crago writes from Fort Davis, Texas, that he is well pleased so far with his location and is enjoying comparatively good health.

Mr. A. L. Schneider, a well known transfer man of Roswell, will be in the city this week, with the view of putting in a baggage and transfer line.

Dr. A. L. Norfleet, cashier, says he will transfer his office into the new bank building next Tuesday, where he will be pleased to meet the public.

Mr. F. W. Axtell, of Fort Worth, Texas, was in Artesia Thursday, selling well casing to prospective drillers. He says he finds Artesia a profitable field.

Mr. S. W. Loving, who came in from Rockwall county, Texas two weeks ago, has been confined to his room at Hotel Artesia with la grippe this week.

After having been delayed for ten days because of a broken bit, the Artesia Well Drilling Company are again going down with the J. C. Hale well east of town.

Mr. S. W. Gilbert let the contract Thursday to J. T. Patrick for the erection of another cottage on Richardson avenue, on the lot west of the house just completed.

The clever gentlemen and expert plasterers are putting the finishing touches on the interior of the First National Bank building, and no town can boast of a neater building than the same.

Mr. J. C. Hale attended the Executive Committee meeting at Carlsbad Thursday and says he never met a finer lot of Democrats anywhere than those in charge of Eddy county affairs.

Mr. C. L. Higday left for the north east Monday in the interest of the Pecos Valley. He expects to return from Enid, I. T. about the 17th with a car of homeseekers, who say they want homes in the valley. Mr. Higday used to live up in that country and thinks kindly of his former neighbors, consequently "puts them next" to the Pecos valley.

Wanted No Cheap Gamblers.
 It happened in a San Francisco opium den, and may fairly be termed a contest of incarnation. Three dope fiends who had straggled the rabble at Oakland during the afternoon lay stretched out under the influence of the dreamy narcotic. Presently one of them exclaimed: "I bet to $10,000 on the black horse." After a while subject No. 2 broke the silence with: "I bet to $1,000,000,000 Klitty G. catches money." Then sport No. 3 was heard from. Rolling over, he remarked disgustedly: "Flow dem pikers out."

Prevention of Consumption.
 In the interest of preventing consumption in the boarding schools of France only metal bedsteads are permitted, every child older than twelve years must sleep in a room by itself, and in the kitchen and in the dining-room scientific precaution must be taken against the disease. And no pupil or teacher who is known to have consumption is permitted in any school. Circulars prepared by physicians, are sent to every school principal, which explains in detail preventive measures of all kinds.—New York Sun.

Nerves and the Piano.
 An eminent Berlin nerve specialist, who had his attention attracted to the chronic nervousness of many pianists, has been studying the piano from the pathological point of view. Out of 1000 young girls who had never studied each of whom had begun to study the piano under 14 years of age, no less than 600 had some nervous malady, while out of 1000 who had never studied the instrument only 100 were afflicted. The specialist, therefore, has promulgated the theory that no child should be allowed to learn the piano before the age of 16.

Territorial Banking Figures.
 That the national banks in Oklahoma and Indian Territories is prosperous is conclusively shown by a statement just made public by the controller of the currency. From March 14, 1900, to November 20, 1903, eighty national banks were organized in Oklahoma with a total capitalization of $2,466,000. Of the eighty national banks organized in Oklahoma during this period seventy-one had a capitalization of less than $500,000 each, totaling up a total of $1,745,000 capital stock. In Indian Territory there were sixty-four banks in this class organized with a total capital of $1,800,000. The national banks were organized in Oklahoma with a capital stock of $50,000 or over for each bank, the aggregate capital being $1,714,000. There were thirteen similar national banks organized in Indian Territory during the same period with a total capital stock of $735,000. The increase in the growth of national banks in Indian and Oklahoma Territories exceeded that of any state in the Union.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last year was without exception. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with treatment, pronounced it incurable, because they were unaware of a constitutional disease and therefore require constitutional treatment. Dr. S. B. Hartman's Catarrh Remedy, known as Catarrh Remedy, is the only cure for this disease. It is a simple, safe, and sure remedy. It acts directly on the blood and restores the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case that cannot be cured by their catarrh and medicine. Address: Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio. Send for Brochure and Testimonials. Sold by Dr. S. B. Hartman's Catarrh Remedy, Columbus, Ohio.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

Use Pe-ru-na for Coughs, Colds, Grip and Catarrh—A Congressman's Letter.

In every country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of the charges committed to their care, but they also minister to their bodily needs.

With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent Sisters have found Pe-runa a never failing safeguard.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters from all over the United States. A recommendation recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:
 Dear Sir: "The young girl who used the Pe-runa was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured."— Sisters of Charity.

The young girl was under the care of the Sisters of Charity and used Pe-runa for catarrh of the throat with good results as the above letter testifies.

Send to the Pe-runa Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio, for a free book written by Dr. Hartman.

The following letter is from Congressman Meekison, of Napoleon, Ohio:

Gentlemen: "I have used several bottles of Pe-runa and feel greatly benefited therefrom by my catarrh of the head, and feel encouraged to believe that its continued use will fully eradicate a disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison.

Dr. Hartman, one of the best known physicians and surgeons in the United States, was the first man to formulate Pe-runa. It was through his genius and perseverance that it was introduced to the medical profession of this country.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-runa, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address: Dr. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

We are glad to state that the business of the First National Bank has started off in a very promising manner. It is a solid institution and its officers are interested in the development of the Artesia country.

The unusually warm weather which prevailed several days this week, has caused a small sized epidemic of la grippe. Among those confined to their beds in consequence are Louis Cholais, G. W. Witt and J. W. Tate. Contractor J. T. Patrick has placed a flag on the ground for the construction of two modern cottages on Main street in the Roberts addition, which he will build for Miss Hess. They are to cost about $1000 each.

Dr. M. E. Clary, of the real estate firm of Henneck & Clary, has material on the ground for a business block on Main street, two doors west of the Hotel Artesia. We have not learned who will occupy the same.

The Advocate editor gave seven dollars for a load of stovewood Wednesday and that was not on subscription either. This is one article which is governed entirely by supply and demand in New Mexico.

S. P. Denning, the contractor, was in from Roswell several days this week. Mr. Denning has great faith in the future of Artesia, "for," he says, "this is the best part of the valley." The gentleman is eminently correct in this and no one can gainsay the statement.

Valleys. Can furnish tracts of from 40 to 2000 acres. Farms with deeded water rights for sale, as well as unimproved lands in the artesian belt. We do a general commission business in land and live stock. Thoroughly familiar with the entire irrigated section, and all inquiries answered.
Bargains in Lots in New Town of Dayton

Hart Crouch, the liveryman, secured inexhaustible water at a depth of nineteen feet last week. Around Artesia is the most wonderful sub-irrigated country in the world. The entire rainfall and snow of the Rocky Mountain range seems to have collected beneath the Pecos valley.

Mr. C. F. Herlachor arrived from Bayneville, Kansas, with a car of household goods Saturday night, and will move upon his land southwest of the city. He expects his family next week. Mr. Herlachor is one of the kind of men we need—a producer, a farmer.

Mr. W. L. McDaniel, who arrived from Tennessee last week, has purchased the grocery stock and meat market of Still Bros., and will add to and continue the business at the old stand on Main street. Mr. McDaniel's family arrived Wednesday and can now be recognized as citizens of Artesia. These are splendid people and worthy neighbors and are welcome additions to the community.

Mr. Whitt Smith returned Thursday morning from a six week's visit to his old home in Louisiana. He says the planters of that section are wild on the cotton question at present, but are expecting an invasion of boll weevils most any time.

The first flow of artesian water is running out of three more wells southwest of Artesia and the Advocate expects to announce the arrival of at least three more spouters next week and maybe four.

Mr. Sandford, of Cleburne, Texas, who secured 640 acres of land northwest of town last summer, has this week had a neat residence built upon the same. The construction work has been in charge of Messrs. Merrill and Montgomery.

Messrs. C. and J. Dees, two enterprising young business men of Pecosville City, Texas, were prospecting over this week and called on the Advocate. Land Agent E. C. Higgins secured them some choice land near Dayton and they will become citizens later. We welcome the young gentlemen to the valley.

A company composed of E. A. Clayton, S. W. Loving, E. P. Hardwick and Gayle Talbot this week purchased the Chambers & Heath well drilling outfit and will take charge of same as soon as the Chambers well, now nearing completion, is finished. The machine will be moved to the Hardwick tract of 100 two miles southwest of the city and put to work. Each of the gentlemen will secure wells in turn.

The Advocate editor read a card yesterday from the wholesale house at Chicago saying that it had received the order and the cash for the Artesia waterworks main and pipes and that the goods would be shipped immediately. That look exactly like business.

Notice.
The Board of Lady Managers of the Artesia Library Association will hold a special meeting Wednesday, Feb. 17th in the library rooms. Each member is requested to attend.
Mas. J. P. DYER,
Vice-President.

Artesia needs telegraph facilities badly. The wires and the instruments are here, but we lack the operator.

Dr. R. M. Ross and wife will occupy the cottage on Richardson avenue for which Mr. S. W. Gilbert has let the contract.

Artesia has had more than her share of dust this week. It has come often and from all directions.
The Cleveland Land Agency, composed of G. P. Cleveland and Sons, is the latest firm organized for the advancement of the great irrigated section around Artesia.
Mrs. W. H. Doss has been confined to her room all the week with a severe attack of rheumatism.
Rev. Ernest Jackson, pastor of the Presbyterian church at this place, has possessed himself of some Pecos valley land, and is a thoroughbred Artesiate now.

If You Want to Make Money

See E. A. CLAYTON and buy some town property in Artesia. He will sell you lots on Main street that you can double your money on in a short time and residence lots, 100. He has almost any kind of location if you wish to build. He says he wants the people to own the lots, so they can take an interest in helping to build the town.

The Artesia Improvement Co

E. A. CLAYTON, Manager.

Mr. C. L. Tallmadge, of the well known immigration agency of Tallmadge Brothers, Chicago, arrived in Artesia, Monday night in his private car accompanied by fifteen prospectors from the east, who came for the purpose of investing in Pecos Valley irrigated lands. The party remained in the city Tuesday and inspected some choice lands east of the city and, it is rumored decided to purchase. Mr. Tallmadge makes it his business to bring prospectors to the valley every few weeks and will be instrumental in settling up the Artesia country. We understand that he will establish a branch office with Messrs. Blair, Higday & Sholars, in the First National Bank building, where lands can be listed for Mr. Tallmadge's guidance when he comes.

A Serious Mishap.
Mr. Ward Cave was badly injured at the Turkin ranch last Friday by having his horse fall on him. He was rendered unconscious for several days, but is coming around all right now.

Well Machine for Sale.
Consisting of Alamo drop 1500 ft. machine, two complete strings of tools, $100 pump, J. T. Case 12-horse power traction engine. Nearly new shipped for only one well. Will be shipped from San Antonio, Texas, and car filled out with casing at wholesale price. Price $1,500.
JOHN R. HOBBS,
Artesia, N. M.

Mr. John Richie will move his family down from Roswell in a couple of weeks and occupy one of the cottages now being erected by Miss Hess.

The family of Mr. E. B. Kemp will arrive shortly and occupy one of the new Hess cottages.

Artesia needs telegraph facilities badly. The wires and the instruments are here, but we lack the operator.

Dr. R. M. Ross and wife will occupy the cottage on Richardson avenue for which Mr. S. W. Gilbert has let the contract.
