Nazi Troops Stand Guard Over Norwegian Workers As Strike Threatened

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 11 (AP)—With all of the Oslo area encircled by German troops and two Norwegian labor leaders already dead by firing squad, Vidkun Quisling's nazi-sponsored regime today took over complete control of both workers' and employers' organizations in German occupied Norway.

The status of a general strike called for today was uncertain.

A dispatch from Oslo, censored by the Germans, claimed work was resumed after two days of strikes in iron and ship-building industries. There was no amplification. Dispatches coming through the German censorship at Oslo have not mentioned the general strike threat and have minimized the labor trouble angle.

The head of the Norwegian Federation of Labor was ousted and arrested and replaced by Odd Fossum, leader of Quisling's Nasjonal Samling labor organization. This put the nation's federation of labor into Quisling's so-called corporative state structure.

The entire board of the employers' organizations then was removed and placed under police surveillance. A new employers' leader, one Ljpestad, a Quislingist was appointed.

The German forces were prepared to meet all strike eventualities under a state of civil siege, proclaimed for the capital and its environs yesterday. Quisling spies betrayed the plan to authorities, bringing on the stage of siege.

In last night's darkness, a firing squad executed Viggo Hanstvedt, secretary of the Norwegian labor federation and Rolf Vikstrom, a trades union president, shortly after they had been condemned by summary courts set up by Joseph Terbo-

Soviet Army Claims Nazis Shoved Back

Reds List Losses Of 1,000,000 Men In Leningrad Siege

By The Associated Press
Russia's armies reported today they had driven the Germans back 15 miles on the central front, taken a toll of 80,000 men dead and wounded in 80 days of fighting around Kiev, and seized the initiative in the siege of Leningrad.

Battles were reported raging along the entire 1,300-mile front from the Karelian Isthmus to the Black sea, with the long dormant Velikie Luki sector, on the north central front, suddenly flaming into action.

While nazi warplanes dropped pamphlets calling on Leningrad's 1,200,000 population and 1,000,000 red army defenders to surrender or have the city laid in ruins, Soviet defense forces were reported counter-attacking the German siege attacks.

Soviet dispatches said Russian forces, after five days of assault, had captured the village "Y," on the approach to Leningrad, and stood off a counter-attack by numerically superior German troops.

Heavy fighting was also reported around the besieged Black sea port of Odessa.

"Soviet bombers do not allow fascist troops a moment's respite, dropping tons of metal on their heads continuously, destroying tank columns and exterminating the enemy's manpower," said the army newspaper, Red Star.

Communist In Parliament Calls Churchill Liar

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—William Gallacher, the only communist member of parliament, today called Prime Minister Churchill a "blackguard" to his face and accused him of "dirty, cowardly, rotten action" in an angry outburst in the house of commons.

Gallacher later apologized to the house.

The incident came over charges that Col. J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, minister for aircraft production, had expressed hope that the Russian and German armies would annihilate each other.

Flourid and excited, the communist first told the house that "very deep and bitter feeling exists among trade unionists" over statements attributed to Col. Moore-Brabazon.

He asked Churchill to "clear out of this government anyone who is not 100 per cent for co-operation with Russia."

"I do not think I should be prepared to receive guidance in policy or conduct from an honorable gentleman who, it is notorious, has to change his opinions whenever he is ordered by a body outside this country."

Gallacher retorted that "I have never at any time taken orders from anyone outside this country," and he shouted a demand for withdrawal of the "insulting remark."

"It is a dirty, cowardly, rotten action on the part of the prime minister," he said. "It is the action of a blackguard. It is a foul and dirty lie."

The debate, which thus brought the harshest words leveled at Churchill since he became prime minister, was the aftermath of an

Enrollment In Big Spring's Schools Down

Enrollment in Big Spring schools is off by comparison with last year's totals, figures compiled by school administrators showed Thursday.

Total enrollment as of Wednesday afternoon was 2,292. This was 22 below the 2,314 shown at the end of the first day of enrollment last year. Hence, comparable figures probably would show an even more pronounced difference.

Sharpest decline came in the elementary groups, while the seventh grade and the high school showed light gains.

W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said that enrollments were being boosted daily it was doubtful that this would close the gap.

Comparative figures follow:

Senate Hears Discussion Of Bond Measure

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—The senate pitched into debate today on the road bond bill embodying the recommendations of Governor Coke R. Stevenson, but the house, after a 50-minute session, adjourned without clearing away doubt as to the course it would take.

The house printed on minority report by a vote of 90 to 28 a committee approved bill re-enacting the road bond law which expired Sept. 1.

However, this did not clarify the lower chamber's procedural plans materially, because the bill landed on the floor calendar with one substantially the same as that under consideration in the senate.

No attempt was made to start debate on either bill.

Rep. Lon E. Alsop of Carthage announced he would offer as a substitute to the bill printed on minority report one which would provide only for continuation of debt servicing on eligible road bonds.

Distributions of the surplus remaining in the road bond fund after servicing could be effected separately, he declared.

Nazi Raider Sinks Ship In Pacific

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—A German raider operating in the Pacific ocean about 1,000 miles west of the Panama Canal has sunk the 7,822-ton Dutch motorship Kota Nopan and threatened other vessels, shipping sources said today.

Close on the heels of an announcement that she was long overdue at the Canal on a voyage to New York from Batavia, the West Indies, and presumed lost due to enemy action, came confirmation of the Kota Nopan's sinking, placing the action in the general locale of the Galapagos Islands.

FD To Answer All Questions

President Confers With Congressmen, Diplomats

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt's radio address on foreign policy tonight was described at the White House today as one which will be "all covering and will leave no unanswered questions."

Stephen Early, the press secretary who said this, also declared that the president would devote part of today to the Russian aid question, receiving Constantine Oumansky, the Soviet ambassador, and Secretary of State Hull, and would cancel tomorrow morning's press conference to hold his first meeting with the American mission to Russia headed by Averell Harriman.

As the chief executive went over a completed draft of his address with senate and house democratic and republican leaders, Early told reporters that the speech "will mean what it says and will be written in English—English that will not need translation. Foreign languages need translation; English not."

The fact that republicans as well as democrats were at the White House conference was taken as proof that momentous problems were under discussion. Of greatest concern was the future course of relations between the United States and the Rome-Berlin axis.

Congressional leaders who called at the mansion included republicans for the first time since the president proclaimed an unlimited national emergency last May 27. From the senate came Vice President Wallace, Majority Leader Barkley, Minority Leader McNary and Chairman Connally of the foreign relations committee.

The house group included acting Speaker Woodrum, Minority Leader Martin, acting Majority Leader Cochran, and Chairman Bloom of the foreign affairs committee.

Early would not say whether tonight's address would call for any new legislation, but there

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT were indications in other official quarters that no new legislation would be asked.

The president's secretary said the speech, to be broadcast from the diplomatic reception room of the White House at 8 p. m. (CST), had been "about completed" yesterday morning at Hyde Park, N. Y.

He pointed out, however, that it was still open to any revision the president might deem fit to make as a result of his talk with the congressional leaders.

The conference with legislative chiefs was the second the president called after returning to the capital last night from his mother's funeral in Hyde Park, N. Y. Immediately after his arrival at the White House, he was closeted for an hour and 23 minutes with Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox and Harry L. Hopkins, lease-lend supervisor, but the conferees were pledged to strict secrecy.

As far as the White House was concerned, apparently, the exact contents of the speech would remain confidential until Mr. Roosevelt starts speaking at 8 p. m. C.S.T. All networks will carry the address, and all available short wave units will relay it to the four corners of the world both in German and in foreign tongues.

For today's White House meeting the foremost topic in the opinion of congressional informants, was the question that is expected to occupy a major portion of the president's radio address—the war waged by axis forces at sea and its effect on American shipping.

Before the legislative chiefs met with the president, there were reports on capitol hill that Mr. Roosevelt might transmit to congress the question that is expected to occupy a major portion of the president's radio address—the war waged by axis forces at sea and its effect on American shipping.

RAF RESUMES RAIDS OVER NORTH ITALY

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Royal Air Force bombers raided Turin last night in the heaviest attack yet made on northern Italy, authoritative British sources said today.

The main objective of the many heavy bombers taking part in the assault was given as the Royal Arsenal. British officials said large fires were left burning.

The attackers were led by Britain's new Stirling and Halifax four-motored bombers. It was the first time they had crossed the Alps, although some of the crews which bombed Turin were over Berlin Sunday night.

They described the trip to Italy as "like an air-liner trip in peacetime."

The last previous attack on northern Italy occurred the night of Jan. 12-13 when Turin was raided for the 15th time.

Other targets also were blasted by the RAF planes, the British said.

Italian objectives in southern Italy and Sicily have been bombed frequently, but these operations were carried out by planes based in the Mediterranean area.

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Cannon-carrying British Spitfire fighter planes raided northern France, Belgium and Holland today, attacking airbases and hangars of the occupied territories, the air ministry reported tonight.

Dr. Lancaster Quits Baptist Church Post

Dr. C. E. Lancaster, pastor of the First Baptist church here for the past four years, submitted his resignation Wednesday evening to become effective on or before Nov. 1.

The action was taken before the church in conference Wednesday evening and the resignation was accepted with regret.

He told members he had no immediate plans, but that he wished to assist in every way in the raising of the new church budget adopted by members Wednesday evening.

His prayer, said Dr. Lancaster, was that the church should continue to advance and further the cause of Christ.

The pastor came here from Pampa where he had been pastor of the First Baptist church in that city for years. During the World war he gave up his pastorate to serve as a chaplain in France, returning immediately afterwards to his civilian ministry.

Under his pastorate here the church has shown substantial membership gains and the church debt has been reduced by approximately $12,000 and more than $15,000 has been given to denominational missions and benevolences.

Labor Training Plan Formulated

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—Plans for a concentrated labor training and supply program to feed Texas manpower into defense industries were announced today by W. R. Woolrich, University of Texas engineering dean.

Named a member of the tenth regional labor supply committee by Sidney Hillman, associate-general of the office of production management, Dean Woolrich will supervise new efforts to satisfy defense employment and production needs in the Texas area.

Spence Expects Call Sept. 27

E. V. Spence, former city manager, said Thursday that he probably would report to Fort Sam Houston on Sept. 27 to enter on active duty with the U. S. army.

He was sworn in here as a major in the reserve corps last week, and at that time understood that he would be subject to call for active duty. Since then he has been assigned to a probable call date.

He and Mrs. Spence are at home at the Crawford pending his orders to report. His assignment with the reserve (and probably in active duty) was as a post commander in charge of construction and civil maintenance.

Texans Cities To Entertain Troops

OAKDALE, La., Sept. 11 (AP)—Granted three-day passes by their commanding general, Major General Robert S. Beighler, 2,000 troops of the 27th (Ohio) division left Oakdale, La., this morning for Beaumont and Port Arthur, Texas, where arrangements are being made to entertain them with dancing and swimming parties. One-half the group went to Beaumont, the other half to Port Arthur.

Because a fifth army corps order prohibits the use of trucks except for official business, troops will make the trip to Texas and back to Oakdale by train. Two regimental dance bands accompanied the soldiers.

Thomason Funeral Scheduled Today

Ickes Rebuked For 'Over Enthusiasm'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—A special investigating committee reported today there was no actual shortage of gasoline or other petroleum products in the east and recommended immediate removal of existing restrictions.

Accusing Secretary of Interior Ickes, defense petroleum coordinator, and his aides of "over enthusiasm" in creating "unnecessary alarm" among the public, the special committee said that the "shortage, as we see it, is a shortage of surplus—and not a shortage of products or a lack of facilities to transport them."

Chairman Maloney (D-Conn.), in presenting the finding to the senate, cautioned that it was preliminary. He added that the fact finding group would resume public hearings whenever it found them necessary.

The group began hearings Aug. 28 after Ickes and Harold K. Davies, deputy coordinator, had issued a series of public warnings about gasoline and oil shortages along the populous Atlantic coast.

Filling stations and other retail outlets were ordered to close from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. and supplies to retail outlets were cut 10 per cent below July deliveries.

"With proper conservation motorists should find it possible to acquire the gasoline and oil products which they need," Maloney told the senate. "We believe that present restrictions should be lifted, and that the public, with a clearer understanding of conditions, would cooperate in carrying out an effective program of conservation."

The report recommended "an immediate increase in the use of tank cars, a constant increase in facilities through the continuing construction of tankers, much help through the improved use of pipe lines now in operation and under construction, the more extensive use of highway oil-carrying motor trucks, and the probable construction of barges; and at the same time an increased efficiency in the use of all forms of transportation in this industry."

Reservations For Goodwill Fete Total 66

Reservations for the Coahoma goodwill dinner, scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 18, rose to 66, pushed little past the halfway mark Thursday as workers continued their drive for 135 Big Spring business and professional men to attend the affair.

Driving ahead at a dizzy pace for reservations, Harry Hurt had sold a total of 60 pairs of tickets, or 80 tickets in all. Under the good will dinner plan local men purchase tickets for themselves and a guest in the host community.

New names added to the list included Cunningham & Phillips and Firestones each with double reservations, E. M. Smith, J. D. Griffin, Murie Stroup, A. C. Linger Store, Thort Paint & Paper Store, J. & L. Dug, Carnet Radio and Sporting Goods, Taylor Electric, McDonald Automotive, Cornelison Cleaners, Claude Wolf, E. E. Freeman, Andrew Merrick, Piggy Wiggy, Shroyer Bros., Collins Bros., Waits Jewelry, J. & K. Shoes, Courtesy Service, Harry Lester, Army Store, and Darby's Bakery.

Search Continues For Lost Bomber

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 11 (AP)—Aerial searching for an army bombing plane, missing two days with a crew of six, was resumed today after a crash party proved groundless a report from a logger that a private searching plane had sighted part of the bomber's wreckage in the Cascade mountains woods about 12 miles east of Enumclaw.

Colonel William H. Crom, Mo. Chord Field commander, said the search would go on for the plane, last reported in the Seattle-Tacoma area before dawn Tuesday while on a routine flight.

Movies Accused Of Opposing Peace

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—A senate inter-state commerce subcommittee heard charges today that a privately-controlled ownership was being operated within the motion picture industry to "club those who want to present the side of peace in America."

... a word to the wives

When hubby returns home after a grueling day, do you greet him with a bit of grand-tastin' refreshment? Do you inspire his gratitude by pouring a frosty glassful of Grand Prize to give his thirst the "go-by"? No? Then, lady, here's a helpful hint.

Men like to be pampered. And grand-tastin' Grand Prize surely pampers a man's palate. This delicious beverage is smooth as your hubby's proposal. It's as deeply mellow as his love for you. Yes, and the flavor of this great brand is so satisfying that contentment follows as a matter of course.

So, garner a supply of Grand Prize right now. Then serve your man his favorite beer to-night. Try this treat yourself, too. See if it isn't worthy of a king's ransom... and of a queen's consideration.

Shortage Of Goods Because Of Defense Begins Touching Big Spring

The things that the defense program is taking off the shelves of Big Spring stores constitute a long and varied list.

Airplanes and guns aren't the only things that Uncle Sam is making these days. He's buying up a little of everything on the market, and with factories flooded with defense orders, some very strange things are falling to go to the consuming public.

Bobby pins, for example. They're going up and getting rare. Some stores are placing a limit on the number any one customer can buy, and the beauty shops are beginning to hoard the supplies they have on hand.

All in all, Milady's beauty is talking about as much of a licking from this crisis as anything else. The French and English cosmetics are disappearing, particularly those from Paris.

But the druggists tell you not to worry about their filling prescriptions.

Strangely, some pharmaceuticals made in England are easier to obtain than the corresponding goods made in America. Perhaps it is because the English are keeping their commerce up to as high a level as possible in an attempt to finance the war.

The United States is a land of vast surpluses of staple foods and no one is likely to get hungry for a while yet, but the department of agriculture is not just kidding when they plead with everyone who can to produce more eggs, pork, chickens and milk.

The government is buying a fantastic amount of some foods for army use and for shipment to England under the lease-lend law. Among these are the products named above, plus cheese, condensed milk, and some canned goods.

For example, the government has contracted for 80 per cent of the current season's canned salmon. That other 20 per cent just isn't going around.

One grocer here reports he can get no canned spinach.

He also reports trouble in getting canned English peas and canned fruits. Army buying of canned fruits of all types has really created a shortage in that field. Canned meats are going up.

There is another classification of groceries that is running short because of army buying but because of limited transportation from the far lands in which they are grown.

Hungarian paprika is disappearing from the stores, as is tapoca, which comes from the Dutch Indies. Ships from the Indies devote all possible space nowadays to tin and rubber. Other spices from that area are likely to run short.

Tea presents a sort of mystery. The price is 'way up but the supply is still good. It comes from Ceylon, India and such lands, and water freight from those points is high nowadays, in view of the unsettled condition of the seas.

Turning from food to hardware, we find galvanized items disappearing rapidly. Some stores can't supply an ordinary galvanized water bucket, plumbers are screaming for the widely used galvanized water pipe. Copper and brass pipe and fittings are hard to get.

Some dealers have trouble getting bathroom fixtures, while others report more trouble with water heaters. Delivery on all plumbing goods is likely to be slow.

Copper machinery is limited. Attic fans, ventilation grills, air-conditioning units, water pumps, and all-steel kitchen cabinets are on the "slow delivery" list. Rubber mats are harder to get than they used to be.

Chromium plated furniture, appliances and decorations are still available, but merchants warn that it may not last long. Aluminum utensils are rare.

Photographers are making a rush for equipment. Some types of fine lenses and cameras are hard to get, others move fairly rapidly. Cheap cameras are plentiful. Photo finishing paper is slow on delivery. Acetic acid, used by photographers, is delivered but slowly. Of course, fine German camera lenses are imported no longer.

Many tire manufacturers are limiting orders, giving the buyer only two tires at a time. Bicycle tires are becoming harder to get; manufacture of white sidewall tires has ceased.

The list of "hard to get" items seems endless—and it is going to be longer, as American industry turns more completely to the job of arming the democracies.

To the layman, who does not understand just what items the government is buying, the things that turn up lacking may seem strange. The things listed above as hard to get are still on stock in many Big Spring stores. Tomorrow, however, a lot of them won't be.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking gross acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nausea, backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You No. 30 of a Series

A BAD ONE DOES TURN UP ONCE IN A WHILE!

Good weather and a bumper crop! Even then one finds a poor stalk once in a while.

The retailing of beer is something like that. Most beer retailers operate respectable law-abiding establishments. Occasionally one finds an exception—a man who tries to beat the law of who permits anti-social conditions.

The beer industry wants this type of undesirable retailer stamped out. Your cooperation will help us in our clean-up efforts.

The beer industry brings important benefits to the community. Here in Texas, beer provides employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in state taxes.

Texas, too, has an important stake in the beer industry's purchases—for materials, equipment, and services—from over 100 other industries.

You can help us protect these benefits in two ways. First—patronize only the reputable places where beer is sold. Second—report to the proper authorities any law violation you may observe.

College Students Should Confer With Local Draft Boards

ADWYN, Sept. 11 (AP)—Selective registrants planning to attend college this fall had better consult their local boards before reporting to school in the opinion of state selective service director J. Watt Page.

The director has advised the registrants to learn when they might be called to military duty in order to save time and trouble.

General Page said while deferments were granted to some entering national defense occupational fields, there was no blanket deferment for all students.

'Corridor Of Death' Takes Another Life

TEMPLE, Sept. 11 (AP)—The bloody corridor of death—a flawless stretch of highway between Troy and Eddy on the Temple-to-Waco route—still claims its toll of dead and injured.

An old story was reenacted along the corridor yesterday. An automobile collided with a truck on the highway—smooth and straight, with no blind corners, no traps for the unwary. Dale Dwyer, 13, was killed; his mother, Mrs. F. T. Dwyer, was critically injured, with a fractured chest and thigh; Kenneth Dwyer's chest was crushed; Frank Dwyer, driver of the car, managed to escape with minor injuries.

Not on the corridor but in its near vicinity Dan H. Connolly, 56, of Belton, was killed when his car crashed head-on into a truck between Temple and Belton.

Having A Stag Party? Well, See That The Food Is "He-Manish" In Flavor And Easy To Serve

Mixed grill for the stag party—broiled bone chops served with mushrooms.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE, AF Feature Service Writer

If your husband is having a stag dinner, it is well to prepare food that has a he-man flavor and can be served simply. Men are suspicious of dishes hard to distinguish, and usually steer away from much creamed food.

Men prefer their meats to be broiled or roasted, their vegetables merely dressed in butter and light seasonings, and their salad to be crisp and green with a mild French dressing. Pickles make a hit, and sliced dill and mustard are among the favorites.

For most men, pie and the cotbler family head the dessert list. Ice cream and cake also have masculine following.

FORK CHOPS SAVORY will help put over a man's dinner. Wipe six thick chops with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with flour, salt, paprika and just a little chopped onion. Fit into shallow buttered casserole. Add 1-3 cup catsup, 1-3 cup each of chopped celery and green pepper, and 1-3 cup boiling water. Cover and bake an hour in moderate oven. Uncover and brown 5 minutes. Side these chops with baked potatoes, buttered asparagus, hot biscuits and plum jelly, tossed green salad and fresh apple pie.

Here is a GREEN SALAD with a masculine touch. Rub a salad bowl with clove of garlic. Add 2

BOILED CHOPS

To prepare chops, preheat the broiler. Wrap the bone chops with bacon strips. Place on rack and brown on one side. Season with salt and pepper, turn and top with mushrooms. Place tomato slices, sprinkled with seasoned bread crumbs (and more bacon if desired) on broiler racks with chops. Continue broiling until done—12 to 15 minutes.

peeled and cubed tomatoes, 1 cup cubed cucumbers, 2 cups chicory or shredded lettuce, 2 slices Bermuda onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley and 1-4 cup crumbled Roquefort cheese. With 3 forks, stir in enough well seasoned French dressing to moisten. Cover and chill several hours. Give several stirs during this period to blend.

LIVER AND ONIONS is another plain dish that interests men. Cover a pound of sliced beef liver with warm water for 5 minutes. Drain and wipe with soft paper. Roll the liver in flour and sprinkle with salt and paprika. Place in greased shallow baking dish. Add 1-3 cup boiling water and lid. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Spread with a cup of sliced sweet onions, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon paprika. Bake 20 minutes, or until onions are light brown and the liver is tender.

Buttered green beans and cold or hot cabbage slaw go well with liver. Hot corn muffins, corn sticks or Graham rolls with well spread apple butter have plenty of man appeal. For dessert, Peach Cobbler with thick, yellow cream has few equals.

When serving lamb chops, provide at least two per person. They can be served with hashed browned potatoes, peas, hot rolls, raspberry jam, fresh fruit, crisp and toasted crackers and several kinds of cheese. Chill sauce goes well with the potatoes. You might inquire whether your male guests prefer hot or cold coffee. If no salad course is indicated, a good alternate is radishes, celery, pickles and olives, jumbled together on cracked ice.

Increased Farm Income Seen—Efforts Underway To Step Up Texas Farm Food Production

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 11 (AP)—Increased farm income and further steps away from the one-crop system were seen today as two probable effects of the effort now under way to step up utilization of Texas' huge acreage for the national defense food supply.

While details remain to be worked out, an effort will be made to make personal contact with every potential food producer in the state to enlist farmers in the department of agriculture's nationwide proposal announced by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard Monday.

Probably through the farm plan sign-up which has been utilized in the past two years to provide farmers co-operating with the AAA with details as to their allotments and probable payments and at the same time encourage soil-building, Secretary Wickard's plan will be brought individually to all Texas crop producers before December.

A meeting in Memphis Sept. 29 and 30 will work out in detail the plans for carrying on the campaign, but E. F. Vance, farm defense board chairman and AAA administrative officer for Texas, expressed the opinion the sign-up will be the means of reaching the farmers.

Acres in Texas taken out of cotton or wheat may be used for any purpose, such as producing feed grains or vegetables, according to AAA officials.

Allotments are issued on cotton, wheat, rice and peanuts and the farmer who overplants any allotment is subject to payment deductions.

The AAA will issue no soil-depleting allotments this year, so that the farmer who observes certain minimum soil-conserving or soil-building provisions may plant the remainder of his acreage to any crop he wishes, excepting the four allotted crops of cotton, wheat, rice and peanuts.

Vance said, however, that "this call for more milk, eggs, pork and board and county U. S. D. A. defense boards in every county in the nation recently were set up on order of Secretary Wickard to help farmers meet demands of national defense and to advise with them to how best they could contribute to the defense effort. Upon these boards will rest the responsibility of contacting all farmers and seeing that Texas produces its full share of the needed foods, Vance said.

"We can look for a greatly accelerated shift from the production of surplus crops, such as cotton, towards a more balanced system of farming. As I see it, this plea for more food can mean a great deal more to Texas farmers than just immediate income increases."

The American ship of state will never be sunk if we have enough battleships for defense. You can help build them by making a habit of buying defense savings bonds and stamps.

It's Hardest Work In World— Cotton Picking Makes Country Boys Glad That They Moved Into Town

By RAY DAVIDSON

All of us who came to town after beginning life as country boys sometimes look back on the blessings of rural life with a bit of nostalgia.

We think of the unlimited quantities of watermelon and peaches and the convenience of the old swimming hole where nature had her way and the running start we had over the town folks when it came to spotting those deep holes where the fish were biting best.

We forget about the miseries of drawing water from a well, bathing in a No. 9 and reading by lamplight.

TRY MOROLINE HAIR TONIC - 10¢

But there is one thing we don't forget about those childhood days at Podunk, and that is the cotton picking. There's something about cotton picking that teaches a fellow never to fear any other kind of work. Cotton picking can create more pains per square inch than any other torture to the human body.

So when we hear the farmers bragging about this big crop, we are thankful too, but can't help feeling a touch of pity for the old woman and the kids.

Personally, I remember picking cotton when I was too little to pack a sack, so I just ran down the row grabbing bolls and sticking them in Papa's sack.

and then the regulation ducking torture device was applied. Maybe the reason cotton picking hurts so is that it hurts all over. The shoulder is chafed and bruised from the constant tug of the shoulder strap, providing one gets far enough to get his sack heavy. The back aches from stooping over, then the picker drops to his knees and wears them raw crawling along the gravel-strewn middle.

Of course, we always tried to make knee-pads out of old quilts and scraps of automobile tires (size 30 by 3 1/2), but then the knee pad straps caused trouble, and the things feel silly when the picker stood up.

Then the fingers suffered. You hear of the horny-handed men of the soil? Well, brother, those hands got horny on those infernally sharp points of a ripe cotton burr. These burrs puncture the hands all over, but principally around the finger nails, causing soreness that remains until after Christmas.

This is all aside from the usual discomforts of working in the field: Stinging nettles, hot sun at midday and frost on the ground in early morning, dust down the collar and all over everything, and the great distance of that degenerated water jug from the point where you get thirsty.

The mitigating circumstances are few. Rocks in the cotton to increase the weight usually bring trouble from the old man. A good healthy green boll fight with the cousins brings rebukes from the same source. And if the little kids try riding on big brother's sack they usually feel the business end of a cotton stalk laden with heavy unopened bolls.

the rewards at the scales are few. The sack that drags like 175 pounds usually weighs up at only 87. And anyway, it only means another round to start.

Yesir, you can hear these guys tell how they would like to go back to the farm, but you never hear them itching to sling a cotton sack strap over their shoulder. It's gentleman farming they want.

At Ritz—The dramatic romance between a two-fisted lumberjack and his dance hall queen sweetheart highlights the colorful action in Stewart Edward White's "Wild Geese Calling," the new 20th Century-Fox hit playing Friday and Saturday at the Ritz Theatre. Henry Fonda and Joan Bennett are starred in the picture, which also features Warren William, Osa Munson and Barton MacLane.

Vichy Issues New Orders For Arrest

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Vichy colonial administration in Africa ordered today the internment of persons reporting that Germans are in Dakar, France's reinforced West African base.

The order, issued by Pierre Boleson, governor general of French West Africa, coincided with the arrival in Algeria of Admiral Juan Esteva, resident general of Tunisia, to confer with General Maxime Weygand, Vichy's proconsul in North Africa.

Vichy has denied the presence of any Germans in French West Africa.

Sports Make Now Or Never Try Today

Shreveport Must Sink Oilers To Stay In Texas League Playoffs

By The Associated Press
The Shreveport Sports moved to Tulsa today to make what may be their last try in the Texas league championship playoffs.

It's a case of now or never with the Sports as a result of their second consecutive defeat by the Tulsa Oilers at Shreveport last night. The Sports were unable to stand up before the brilliant pitching of Emil Kueh, Oiler righthander and dropped the contest by the score of 3 to 0.

At Houston rain forced postponement of an attempt by Dallas to make it two in a row over the Oilers. The game will be played tonight, and the teams will move to Dallas for the second contest tomorrow night.

The Oilers lost no time in launching their offensive against Shreveport last night. Moore walked in the first inning and was driven home by a long single into right center off the bat of Platt. In the second inning Waitkus hit sharply through the pitcher's box moved up on Zelaco's single and then trotted home on Hernandez triple to deep right center.

Home Run Takes Court Bounce Of $10,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—A home run took a $10,000 bounce in superior court.

Harry Sachs sued the owners of the Chicago White Sox for that amount. He averred that, in dodging a four-base ball in the right field stand at Comiskey park, he fell over a seat and suffered permanent eye injuries.

Stevens Gets Two Homers, Blasts Visitors

Ramsdell Hurls 4-Hit Ball As B'Spring Takes Second Tilt In Row

The second victory in a row over Clovis in the West Texas-New Mexico league final playoff was garnered by the Big Spring Bombers here last night by the score of 8 to 0.

Several items contributed to the Pioneers' shutout defeat—Willard "Pop" Ramsdell's four-hit pitching, Eddie Stevens' two-homer performance and Clovis' Catcher Walter Schmidt's removal from the game after being struck by a foul tip.

Tonight, the battle goes into its third round as both clubs moved to Clovis for a three-game stand. If, by any chance, the Bombers do not sweep the field at the end of the Clovis engagements, the windup will be returned to Big Spring to put the finishing touches on a seven-game series. Manager Jodie Tate has said.

Unless Bob Kohout shows a full recovery from his ailments by tonight, the pitching cloak will fall on either Andy Mohrlock or Buck Schulze. Tate will not know definitely who will get the assignment until he lands in Clovis.

For six innings of last night's fracas it looked like the game might be a one-run affair. Mel Kramer was allowing the Bombers one hit per frame and Ramsdell had limited the Pioneers to three spaced wallop.

The outcome started to be foretold when Stevens connected for a home run over the right field barrier with bases empty. Two outs were already checked against the Bombers in the frame, Hayden Greer and Dick Ratliff having filed out to Ray Surratt at center field.

It seemed that Clovis was doomed for defeat. Walter Schmidt was struck over the eye by a foul tip and was removed from the game in the third inning. Mack Quillin was shifted in from second base to fill the vacancy, while Manager Greer Stetz took over the key-stone position.

Big Spring's puzner started its drive in the seventh. Jack Lindsey and Hank Poltras hit neatly to set up the pattern with none out. Ramsdell took a sacrifice hit but beat out the effort to land on first then romped on to second as Quillin threw wild to Stetz covering first. Lindsey and Poltras scored on the play.

Mei Reeves was safe on first as Stetz erred and was advanced to second on a passed ball. Greer singled to drive in Ramsdell and Reeves. Ratliff got a base-hit, bringing up Stevens.

With Greer and Ratliff on, Stevens again got his second hit and second homer of the game, hammering the ball far over the right field fence. That ended the scoring show, but it was enough—seven runs had been tallied.

Except for the wild seventh, the engagement was a pitchers' duel. Ramsdell and Kramer hurled well controlled ball, neither giving up a walk.

The box score:

Baylor Coach Makes No '41 Grid Promises

Kimbrough Contends Bears Lack Sufficient Reserve Strength

WACO, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Southwest Conference's freshman coach, smiling Frank Kimbrough of Baylor, says if his team finishes higher than last he'll be thankful.

Kimbrough has the knack of being cheerfully gloomy. He even smiles when he tells you Baylor hasn't the proper reserve strength to contend for the title.

Kimbrough came to Baylor from Hardin-Simmons where he had a winning percentage of .865—47 victories, 8 losses and 3 ties in six years—producing an unbeaten string of 18 games in 1936-37-38 and finishing up last season with an undefeated, untied team.

Prior to that he made an impressive record with Wayland Junior college of Plainview and before going to the Texas junior college title while mentor at Amarillo Junior college.

Kimbrough at 37 will be the youngest coach in the conference. He replaces the veteran Morley Jennings, who retired to become athletic director of Texas Tech.

If work will win the title Baylor should be the favorite. The squad practices three and a half hours in the morning, three hours in the afternoon, has an hour's stunt practice and finishes with an hour of football movies at night.

"It's going to take a lot of work because I have to have every man ready to go 90 minutes," he explained. His program promises pleasing football—a high-gear offense built around an aerial show with bounding Jack Wilson carrying the burden.

An injury to Wilson wrecked Baylor's hopes last season. He went out in the second game of the campaign and the Bears failed to win a conference tilt.

Wilson has entirely recovered and is ready to spark the team as punter, passer, runner and field goal kicker.

Jack Russell, 222-pound wingman being boomed for all-American honors after a sensational sophomore year, heads an imposing array of ends.

Grid's New Sub Ruling Gets Okay

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—Signals off, men! There's nothing wrong with the new unlimited substitution rule in college football that precise stop-watch officiating can't fix.

That's the word today from Walter R. Okeson, chairman of the football rules committee, with a supporting chorus from Fritz Crisler, of Michigan, head of the football coaches association, and Lou Little of Columbia, No. 1 man in the coaches rules committee.

The misunderstanding, as Okeson terms them, which arose when substitutions dragged out the Chicago and New York all-star games interminably are due to failure to study the rule, and specifically one of its clauses, with due care.

"Substitutions," says Okeson, "may be made at any time but they can be made without penalty only when time is out . . . when, for instance, the watch is stopped by an incomplete pass, ball going out-of-bounds, etc., substitutions can be made without penalty. But if the attacking team fails to get the ball in play within 25 seconds after the referee has placed it, that team will be penalized. If the defending team tends to cause delay by sending in a substitute as play is about to be started, it is penalized."

"In short, if there are no substitutions, 25 seconds may be consumed in putting the ball in play. And if there are substitutions, not a second more is permitted."

An Associated Press survey of more than a dozen leading coaches throughout the country finds the majority willing to go along. Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin believes the coaches "will control it," while Dana Bible of Texas and Bob Zuppke of Illinois stress the importance of the 25-second clause, and Bible adds he is sure the rule will cut down on injuries.

Nat'l Loop Crisis Reached

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (Herald Special News Service)—The week's best quote: Just before he left to see the Dodgers tackle the Cards, Larry MacPhail remarked, "I don't see how our experienced club can blow a three-game lead."

Any way, he can't claim the Cubs were playing favorites. They said they'd treat the Dodgers the same as the Cards, and they did just when it hurt the most . . . Down in Dallas they're staging an official weigh-in for high school footballers to put an end to arguments about how the boys are listed . . . Del Miller, the youngster whom trotting-horse drivers pick as their coming champion, isn't wasting any time getting there. He drove at the Reading (Pa.) fair last Monday afternoon and at Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island that night . . . Morris Siegel quit a job as assistant sports editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch to join the navy. So what do you suppose he's doing now? Writing sports copy in the publicity dept. at the Norfolk naval base.

Cleaning the Cuff
Whatever became of the guys who thought baseball was losing out as the national game? . . . If they're still around, they might like to know that more than 25,000 fans turned out in Youngstown, Ohio, Sunday to see ten early-round games in the National Amateur Baseball Federation tournament . . . The golf pros aren't complaining, but they're beginning to wonder where all the dough is coming from . . . In September, usually an off month in the tournament league, they've already had the $11,000 Tam O'Shanter Open and have $5,000 tournaments coming up at Atlantic City, Philadelphia and Providence, R. I. . . Most of them are new events, too . . . Tampa fight fans are going for Buddy Scott of Oklahoma in a big way since he knocked out their favorite, Tommy Gomez. They say he's the hottest thing southern boxing has seen in a coon's age . . . Clemson footballers always can give the opposition a Payne . . . First they had Oliver Payne, a guard Joe, an end, followed him; Booty, a reserve back last year, is slated for a first-string job this season and the last Payne, Jackie, another back, is on the reserve list. They're all brothers from Greenville, S. C. . .

Brooks Open Crucial Test With Cards

By The Associated Press
The breath-taking battle for the National league pennant has come to another crisis.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals open a crucial three-game series in St. Louis today.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals open a crucial three-game series in St. Louis today. They have been going on all summer as expectantly looking for these games to point out the eventual champion.

As a spectacle it will be a magnificent sight to see, but as a test of strength it is likely to be inconclusive simply because the teams appear to be so evenly matched.

They have collided 20 times already this season with St. Louis winning ten, Brooklyn nine and one game ending in a tie after 12 innings. They have played every day for five months and have arrived at this critical point in the schedule with only a single game separating them in the standings.

The Cubs rammed a dagger in the backs of the Braves yesterday by winning two games 6-4 and 5-3. The Cardinals met stubborn opposition from the poor but proud Phillis, yet managed to cop their doubleheader 3-2 and 1-0. The Cards were held to six hits in the first game, but one of them was a two-run homer by Johnny Hopp.

Let the tail-enders wage only seven safeties. Then in the second game Harry Gumbert pitched a masterful three-hit shutout.

The Boston Braves beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-1 in 15 innings and the Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged the New York Giants to win 10-7 in the other National league games.

In the American league the Boston Red Sox battered the Detroit Tigers 11-2, the Chicago White Sox crushed the Washington Senators 12-4 for Thornton Lee's 19th victory and the Philadelphia Athletics downed the Cleveland Indians 6-4.

Local Football Season Tickets On Sale Now

Season tickets for all Big Spring high school football games are now on sale at the school tax office on the high school campus.

There will be no reduction in price for season purchases, school officials announced. The price for the five home games will be $3.75, or the regular 75 cents per game for reserved seats.

The sole inducement for season purchases is that it will insure choice seats as a reward for early action.

No tickets will be held on the request of anyone. They will be delivered as the purchasers call and pay for tickets, it was announced.

First game of the season here is on Sept. 19 against Austin High of El Paso. Other home games are with Lamesa on Oct. 17, Midland on Oct. 24, Plainview on Oct. 31, and Sweetwater on Nov. 20. The Midland, Lamesa and Sweetwater games are conference affairs.

Watkins And Bristow Lead CC Ringers

Ohio Bristow and D. A. Watkins took the lead in the Country Club ringer tournament Thursday, whitening their ringer scores to 28, three under par.

Bristow, who qualified with a 29, had cut six off his original score and had a pair of ducks on the par three No. 3 and No. 4. Watkins had cut nine off his qualifying 42 and had an eagle two on the par four, 555-yard No. 6 by a miracle shot in which he holed out from 140 yards off.

Most improvement has been shown by C. L. Rows who cut 15 strokes off his qualifying 49. Ducks on the No. 3 hole had been scored by Bob Piner, Carl Strom, Pat Kenney, Neal Hilliard and Bristow. Bill Crook and Bristow deuced the difficult No. 8. The tourney goes to Oct. 1.

Lookin' 'em Over

With Jack Douglas

Two badly battered clubs square off tonight in the second start of the West Texas-New Mexico league finale. Last night, Walter Schmidt, Clovis catcher, received a bad cast over his eye when a foul tip slammed into his mask with cutting force. But, that was just an addition to a spell of ailments that have beset Big Spring as well as Clovis.

Clovis Edgewell was scheduled to do the hurling for the Pioneers but a bad cold forced him to give up the spot to Mel Kramer.

Big Spring's trouble was also of the double-barreled variety. First, Bob Kohout, pitcher, is in danger of missing out on his turn at the mound because of a hard tussle with a cold. Second, Larry Drake, after turning in a booming hit show Tuesday to get four for four, may be out for the next day or so, perhaps for the remainder of the playoffs, because of a sore arm.

Schmidt's accident probably contributed to the top-heavy licking suffered by the Pioneers Wednesday evening. Mack Quillin was shifted to the backstop and, due to his lack of experience in the position, made a costly overthrow to first on Pitcher Willard Rame-dell's sacrifice hit. What followed then accounted in part for Big Spring's seven-run blast.

Old John King was right—south-paws are most peculiar people. You don't think so? Well, Paul Schoendienst, Clovis first baseman and possessor of the league's smoothest throwing arm, is the sole means of support of an African lion cub. Schoendienst bought the animal a short time ago and intended to take it home with him when the championship series is over.

You football fans who take a shot at the parlay cards or make private forecasts may get a kick out of a new type forecasting coming this season in a novel series of films booked by the Ritz theatre.

To appear each Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday for 13 weeks—beginning this week—the short features will be edited by Norman Sper, noted grid analyst and prognosticator. Each week Sper will pick winners (in this case, that is). In the next week's major games of the nation, including big tilts in the Southwest. Also, he will show crucial scenes from the past week's big games, in regular speed and slow motion.

The Ritz will get the film by air each week from New York, so each edition will be up-to-the-minute stuff. Sper, you know, writes a newspaper syndicated column, national magazine articles and broadcast stuff for the radio, and has a record of being 80 per cent correct on his selections over a ten-year period. His newswire analysis should prove interesting.

This week's issue will deal with the nation's prospects in general, with Sper going so far as to name conference champions, and probable Bowl contestants. On ensuing weeks, he will get down to individual games. The series will be called "Football This Week." Here's a chance to match your expert rating against that of Brother Sper.

Maneuvers Are Amusing—Army's Homey Hobby Crop Looks Good

By JOHN GROVER
AP-Feature Service Writer

BREEZY HILL, La. — So you women think men don't know anything about home-making? You should see the army keeping house in the field.

You think you could do as well? not throwing things around. Anybody caught tossing cigarette butts away wins a job policing the whole company street.

Brothers Under the Skin

How about the class of neighbors in this military subdivision? The boys kill three rattlesnakes

Maybe so, lady, but your day would be full of little incidents like this:

"Junior, kill that rattlesnake for mama like a good boy. Then run over to the mudhole and see if they've got the kitchen loose yet."

Just a sample. I watched the 62nd brigade setting up camp after their 1,000-mile trek from Florida. Quite a suburban development goes up in these pine woods. Uncle Sam, realtor. Build your home on Breezy Hill, soldier. No modern improvements. Southern exposure — also north, east, west and straight up.

Close Quarters

And they call this Breezy Hill. That's conservative. When we arrive, the "brees" would blow the paint off a wall, if there was a wall. This heavyweight saphy blows up a peeling rain. Try wrestling up a tent in the wind and rain sometime. Like necking an octopus. The rain is a degenerate cow-pat. It goes all to pieces. Trucks groan through it in compound low gear. Pretty soon they just groan—no go. The road has dissolved. Where it was is a mess that looks like equal parts war-fie batter, chocolate pudding and library paste.

They hook wire ropes to the trucks and snake 'em out with winches. They get their tents up. The smart ones ditch all around their tents so the rainwater drains off, leaving the tent floor dry. Lazy rookies don't. Their bedding begins to float. They'll dig ditches next time.

Your bungalow in Military Heights is a snug affair, called a pup tent. The pup was the runt of the litter. Two soldiers share a space roughly seven by four feet. Sardines don't get better acquainted.

Army kitchens are compact, gas-burning units. They can cook a meal bouncing along at 40 miles an hour. Even if the kitchen truck stalls, dinner will be ready. That makes up for plenty in the field.

The bathroom lacks a certain touch of privacy. The bath is a 10-gallon can with a shower-head, hung in a tree. You stand in line for it. (That's when things are going good; under war conditions you just remember your last bath.) Household utilities? Every soldier's his own vacuum cleaner. Camps are kept epic and span by

The War Today—Columnist Thinks War Might End Sometime During The Next Year

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Herald Special News Service)

Probably all of us are acutely conscious of the nearness of the war-danger as we await President Roosevelt's discussion of the position over the air tonight—a talk which cannot be expected to do other than emphasize the gravity of the crisis.

Possibly it is this thought which impelled me to write today on the duration of the war, or maybe the impulse came from the fact that the question most often thrown in my direction is how long the war will last—as though I were a major prophet. Anyway, it certainly is a topic close to all.

The way the European conflict is going right now I for one shouldn't be greatly surprised if it ended sometime next year.

Now that isn't a prophecy, because we know the war might drag on through the ten years for which the axis claims to be prepared. Such duration isn't likely, however, for if the warring continues a decade poor Europe will be a bag of bones.

The thought that the war might end next year is based on the strong and growing possibility that an already tortured continent won't be able to support the axis military operations, and may revolt against the terrific burden. Such a thesis presupposes, of course, that the allies have a good chance to win—a view which this column has previously recorded.

This possibility doesn't condemn Herr Hitler to defeat without further trial. It would be poor judgment to suggest that the creator of the most powerful army in history (pating Moscow on that) hasn't a chance to win, because he has.

We have to know considerably more about the endurance of the Muscovite war machine which has been doing such great things, and which today claims to have mus-

Schoolboys Open Grid Wars Friday

By The Associated Press

Another schoolboy football campaign slips quietly into Texas tonight with two El Paso teams firing the opening shots.

A schedule of 30 games is served up to the fans but none of the so-called big four—Amarillo, Masonic Home, Paris and Tyler—is involved.

These are the teams generally picked as outstanding title contenders in the Texas interscholastic league's twenty-second annual race.

The first game matches Austin of El Paso against Cathedral of El Paso, a non-league member.

Tomorrow night finds 26 of the state's 106 class AA teams swinging into action, the top game being between Mineral Wells and Sweetwater.

These two schools are ranked high in their respective districts—Sweetwater as favorite in No. 4 and Mineral Wells among the leaders of district 9.

Six other games are between class AA teams with Olney playing Plainview; Class A teams clashing with Burk Burnett, Midland meeting Yalata; Sherman tangling with Greenville, Arlington playing Ennis and Kilgore tackling South Park of Beaumont.

The week's schedule by districts (all games tomorrow night unless otherwise stipulated):

District 1—Olney at Plainview; District 2—Class AA teams clashing with Burk Burnett, Midland meeting Yalata; District 3—Coleman at Odessa, Mineral Wells at Sweetwater, Tahoka at Lamesa; District 4—Midland at Yalata, Bowie (El Paso) at Carlsbad, N. M.; Austin (El Paso) at Cathedral (El Paso), tonight; District 5—Sherman at Greenville; District 6—Gorman at Ranger, Stephenville at El Paso; District 10—Hillsboro at Marf, Groesbeck at Mexia, Arlington at Ennis; District 14—Kilgore at South Park (Beaumont), Leavelle, La. at Fort Arthur, Vinton, La., at Orange; District 18—Mercedes at McAllen, La. ### Vichy Guns Fire On British Planes

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 11 (AP)—French anti-aircraft guns opened fire today on a British plane which flew over Vichy during the early hours this morning.

Inhabitants who were up at 2 a. m. could hear the roar of the airplane motors and the sound of anti-aircraft fire.

It was forbidden at first, however, to speak of the presence of RAF fighters over this seat of government although there had been a two-hour air alarm before.

They hook wire ropes to the trucks and snake 'em out with winches. They get their tents up. The smart ones ditch all around their tents so the rainwater drains off, leaving the tent floor dry. Lazy rookies don't. Their bedding begins to float. They'll dig ditches next time.

Editorial -- New AAA Plan Looks Good

Farm leaders and AAA administrative officers reached an important decision here Tuesday in expressing preference for a 1942 agricultural program which would center on allotments for major crops (cotton and small grain in this country) and permit planting of the balance of land to whatever crops the producer elects.

Of course, the producer could earn soil building payments by judicious planting and by other approved practices. In so many words, he would be on his own, to a certain extent, in practicing diversification.

What appeals to this section is that we have been, or we had reason to think we had been, penalized on general allotment acreage. At the same time, farmers have been forced to plant cane and sudan on neutral or retired acreage. Now few things are as hard as cane on land and why its planting could have been construed as a soil building practice is somewhat of a mystery.

By shifting the restrictions on general allotments, we should see more land planted to commercial feed of crops, and thus our position as a feeding section for livestock could be further enhanced. At the same time, we believe that the land would suffer less than under the present arrangement.

Certainly this step would simplify matters and the simpler a plan, the better its chance for effective and durable operation. So, all in all, we believe those who exercised the right of choice welded it in the right direction.

Washington Daybook— What Tourists Really Ought To See In Capital City

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—A friend who catches these paragraphs occasionally said "I remember once you wrote about what you would do in Washington if you were a tourist. Tell me, what would you see and where would you go if you weren't a tourist?"

It took a little digging to get what he meant, but I got it. He didn't want to see the Washington Monument, the Capitol, Congress in session, the Lincoln Memorial and such. He wanted to take the back roads and depend on them to give him the feel of the country—or in this case, the city—he was passing through.

It was a tough assignment. After all, whoever heard of any one trying to explain how NOT to be a Washington guide? But it was fun trying and I'm going to pass along this list of things to do and places to go in Washington that tourists might miss.

Since these murals are among the very few in Washington not on the "tourist" agenda, and almost the only ones which critics agree are practically the best, I would be positive that I had made my bow to some of the greatest of today's art—of which Washington, oddly enough (never having been considered a world art center), now is very full.

I would pull all the strings I could to get into the Washington Navy Yard. It really isn't a "Navy Yard," but it's 115 acres of the Navy's best in modern "ordnance," which includes everything from minutely-ground lenses for binoculars to gigantic 16-inch guns. Besides, it's the only place in the world where you can see such historic ships anchored almost bow-to-stern as the old "Hartford" and the "Potomac"—which has carried President Roosevelt from the fishing trips of peaceful days to a conference in the North Atlantic.

I'd drive (without stopping) through the hills of Arlington Cemetery; walk for hours along the old Canal that winds for more than 200 miles up the Potomac river; pedal a bicycle through the maze of Rock Creek Park; and telephone my congressman and say I didn't want anything.

Colorado NFLA Holds Meeting

COLORADO CITY, Sept. 11 (SpI)—Around 400 Mitchell countians attended the annual stockholders' meeting of the Colorado National Farm Loan association at the Palace theatre in Colorado City Wednesday afternoon.

P. K. Mackey, president, had charge. Short talks were made by W. H. Tinney, county supervisor; Beth Gullidge, FSA home supervisor; Vera Crippen, county home demonstration agent; and J. W. Watson of the Mitchell county office of the Sweetwater Production Credit association.

Re-elected as directors for three-year terms were R. H. Bennett and P. K. Mackey. Directors subsequently re-elected all officers—P. K. Mackey as president, U. D. Wulfin as vice president, Chas. C. Thompson as secretary-treasurer, and Harold Bennett as active secretary-treasurer.

How to Crash Hollywood— Dismal Flops Sometimes Become Stars

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Richard Denning, now leading man to Dorothy Lamour in "Malaya," was lucky.

He had been at Paramount nearly two years, doing bits, when they decided to drop him. "Too stiff, too mechanical," they said. But an intensive six-week study under Bill Russell, studio drama coach, forestalled the axe. Denning was loaned to Columbia for "Adam Had Four Sons," came back a starring possibility.

Many "finds" with studio contracts are less fortunate. They get the axe—and, frequently enough to give us all a laugh, they turn up later at some other lot and become stars.

Every Studio Misjudges
You know the memorable instances: Deanna Durbin, released by Metro, saved Universal from the pawnshop; Rita Hayworth, dropped by 20th Century, shines for Columbia; Metro frees Mary Beth Hughes, who clicks at 20th; Universal's cast-off ingenue becomes Warner Bros.' Bette Davis; Paramount's unwanted Bob Cummings becomes Universal's joy.

Talent men give many reasons for this "studio blindness." I'll try to sum them up:
Anybody can recognize a star—when he's a star. Looking over a group of prospects, who can say—infinitely—that this one or that is sure to win the heights?
Often the studio lacks sufficient roles to give all its young players a chance. Sometimes production schedules are changed, eliminating a type of story for which a hopeful was signed.

Contracts call for periodic increases in salary. A player may be on the credit side of the company's ledgers when, drawing $75 a week, he plays numerous bits at $150 a week, if he's still playing bits, he may be red ink. (Say Metro's Billy Grady: "I'd rather pay you $1,000 a week than $50. At $1,000 you've arrived; at $50 you're just an experiment.")

Then There's "Economy"
Sometimes the prospect is caught in an "economy" drive which has no bearing on his individual talents—often most regrettable.

Occasionally the prospect is lazy or takes too much for granted; jolted by release, he makes good the next time.

The studios interchange tests. A test made at one lot may win a contract for the subject at another.

And the rejected starlet who later becomes the acclaimed star is not often the same person but an older, more experienced, perhaps differently styled version of that person.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIAN GREY

Chapter 11
OVER-NIGHT GUEST
"I don't believe we can sit here and dispose of Jerry's future like this between us," Pam said quietly. "After all, he'll take the woman he wants, if he'll have him."

"And that woman will be you. Take him, Pam. Don't let any hurt pride or anything keep you from it. Jerry's worth it, believe me. I've known him all my life, you see. Jerry needs someone like you. Don't let Lenore get you down."

"But I don't know why you're telling me all this," Pam said. "Because I don't want you to miss the chance of a lifetime. I mean the chance to get Jerry Winthrop."

Freda was smiling, but there was a note in her voice that was far from laughter. For the first time Pam felt she could believe; that Freda was sincere with her. Then Freda was talking again: "You see I wasn't as fussed as I seemed when you came out and saw us in your flower beds."

"Freda?" Pam was puzzled. The vernacular of drinking was foreign language to her.

"Yes, sweet child; I'm saturated. Spiced. Or just plain intoxicated, if you'd rather. Only I wasn't, you see. I hadn't been drinking at all, but it suited me to have the handsome Jerry think I was helpless."

Freda was leaning forward a little and talking with sudden earnestness. "I heard everything, Pam. Just how sweet you were to me. I wouldn't have been that way to you. I want you to know that. It's only fair. I couldn't have been as big and fine as you've been. I fight for what I want in all the small ways a woman knows. I've never wanted anything as you want Jerry. If I had, I'd have been poisonous. I'd never have insisted that you be brought into my house, had things been reversed. I'm not made of that kind of stuff. And I'm surprised myself in wanting you to have Jerry."

"But that was nothing," Pam said quietly. "Anyone would have done that."

"That's what you think. Really it was heroic, Pam. Not one girl in my crowd would have done that. Not one. From now on I'm with you, Pam!"

"Thanks," Pam said in a very small voice. She was still hurt and stunned by the events and

Manhattan— Concert Dancers Think Little Of Ballroom Teams

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—Dancers of the concert stage do not take ballroom dancers very seriously, although they admire the salaries the better ballroom dancers earn. As one well-known interpretative dancer said to me the other day: "What are ballroom dancers anyway? The girl wears a beautiful gown, and the man lifts her. They haven't contributed a thing since the Czares began the fad 20-years ago."

I would not go so far as to say that, but the trend in dancing in the more exclusive night clubs, particularly the Rainbow Room, during the last 20 months has been toward a more classical, interpretative vein.

The first of these I noticed—at this same rendezvous—was Jack Cole and his East Indian classic done to a jazz tempo. Cole has studied under Ted Shawn and Ruth St. Denis, and when he brought his Oriental style of presentation to Mr. Rockefeller's roof, he was well received.

Since then, though not necessarily in this order, I have seen Fernandez and the beautiful Monna Montes of the Met; Chandra Kaly and his dancers, similar in a sense to the Cole dancers; and Agnes de Mille and Hugh Laing, noted for their comedy and chorographic inventiveness.

This trend seems a rational and a logical move. It is too bad that Miss Montes, who refuses to leave the Met, must therefore sacrifice a great deal of pleasure and also a lot of money in being unable to follow a career that can take her into such places as the Rainbow Room at a cute salary. She likes night clubs, but she loves the Met more. I remember this young woman when she first started out; I believe that I even saw her first dancing appearance in New York. It was in the Village at Ben Colada's El Chico. Her rare beauty as a girl won her a prompt acclaim, and the next season she was at the Metropolitan.

Now her former partner, Fernandez, has a new partner, Juanita Deering, whom I have not seen but who is said to be very good.

I think it is a good thing that a more interpretative and a more classical form of dance is coming into the clubs because—well, why should someone like Monna Montes be seen only on Sunday evening at the Met? Why shouldn't she be seen every night, by changing audiences, and why shouldn't she reap the proper remuneration? It is of course her own affair, but I hope she understands that she is doing and I hope too that the Met is properly appreciative of her talents.

Gayda Says America Stepping To War

ROME, Sept. 11 (SpI)—Virginia Gayda, a leading fascist editorialist, predicted today a new American step toward war, citing what he called a publicity build-up for President Roosevelt's radio address tonight.

Writing in Il Giornale d'Italia, he said, "The American war patrol is heading toward some new fatal gesture that would satisfy the anxious requests of England and deluge the Moscow government on the efficiency of American aid."

Everything would seem to prove that American war-mongering is preparing to take a new step forward on the slippery slope toward the unknown.

Joey Archibald Risks Feather Title Tonight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (UP)—Joey Archibald, the little Rhode Island jumping jack, places his world featherweight title (New York and Maryland version) on the block here tonight with Chalky Wright, hard-hitting Los Angeles negro, as the challenger in a 15-round bout.

If Wright can defeat Joey—and most "low" observers give him better than an even chance—he'll be accorded "remote control" recognition as champion by the New York and Maryland boxing fathers.

Republican Candidate Gets Democratic Vote

MONTROSE, Pa., Sept. 11. (UP)—Robert Mitchell sought the republican nomination for prothronary as an independent and wound up as the democratic nominee for the office.

He polled 2,365 votes to 3,364 for Howard Maynard on the republican ticket but with no candidate on the democratic ballot, voters wrote in Mitchell's name 533 times so he'll oppose Maynard in the November general election.

American Craftsmanship Back Of Firm's 69-Year Success Record

American business is very largely a self-made job, and you will find the principle of craftsmanship back of every enduring success. In fact, at the start of many of the great business institutions of today, it was a shirt-sleeves job, the founders having little else than the principle of craftsmanship.

One of the most noteworthy examples on record of a business enterprise with the right idea but little capital is the firm of Montgomery Ward & Company.

In 1870, America was on the eve of a great business expansion. The country was growing up. Needs were multiplying fast. Transportation had provided the key to travel and shipping.

Opportunity was in the air, and in Chicago, two men, sensing the general trend, determined to launch a new venture... the sale of merchandise direct by mail.

Their aim was to provide quality goods at lowest possible prices, and right at the start they pledged themselves to a principle—satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

In 1872, in a small room in North Clark street, Chicago, Mr. A. Montgomery Ward and Mr. George R. Thorne, began business with a small stock of merchandise—log was little larger than a hand-bill, but it did the work and their stock was immediately sold out. During that first year their capital was turned over many times. From this small beginning, came the Montgomery Ward & Company of today with the home plant in Chicago, branches in eight strategic cities, retail stores in 650 communities, and one of the largest catalogs ever published.

Montgomery Ward's plan of service today owes its success both to the steadily growing needs of America since 1872, plus the American spirit of craftsmanship. The Montgomery Ward policy "satisfaction guaranteed or your money back" would have been less than a scrap of paper except for the American workman who made it possible to establish complete confidence in American quality production.

Montgomery Ward's relationship with one-third of the nation's families has been sustained for over 69 years by sound values and substantial savings, and the Montgomery Ward 69th anniversary sale now in progress commemorates the founding of the business and the success of its principles by a sale event of the first importance in desirable and low priced merchandise.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 11. (UP)—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal envoy to the Vatican, conferred today with Luigi Cardinal Maglione, papal secretary of state, for the second time in two days in an important exchange of views between the White House and the Vatican.

Informed sources said they understood the envoy told the pope yesterday that, in so far as Soviet Russia was concerned, Mr. Roosevelt was more interested in the welfare of the world's peoples than in the form of government as such.

pearances, lifeless even as its bud unfurls. It has a strange, luring sort of beauty that is changeless even after the dust of years has coated it. "Rose of Hell," they call it in Key West. Or by the less gusty name, it is named "Wood Rose."

Two middle-aged tourists had stopped to admire the strange flower. The woman turned suddenly, her plain face lifted as if listening to some celestial strain.

"Tom! That music! And someone singing! I've never heard anything like it!"

They stood enraptured, the roses that never bear any fragrance, forgotten.

Edmund Antoine had arisen early and strolled to the docks. He had been watching the water, mysterious opal under a sky that was momentarily crowded with vagrant clouds; then turquoise and emerald, as the clouds scuttled away before the march of a warm, triumphant sun.

Antoine turned finally and walked along Duval Street. Just opposite the two tourists he stopped, held to the spot by a harmony of sound issuing from the hall. Two voices were blending in a sort of melodic unity that was more than singing together.

Antoine, with his sensitive ear trained to catch every nuance, every imperfection of measure and beat, had the look of a man who has just made an important discovery. He turned suddenly and went into the hall, realizing only then that the girl's voice was familiar.

In the hall Lenore stood close to Vincenzo Barolli, her singing lips lifted slightly to his. His voice, as he looked down at her, poured from his throat like sunlight water flowing over a bed of velvety moss. Antoine was struck by something in their voices and their faces. He remembered seeing Barolli at the window while Lenore sang at his party at Pena's, sang with that odd brightness in her eyes that could have been tears.

Many things came back to him as he watched and listened. Barolli on the beach in casual conversation with Lenore, Barolli and Lenore at the other end of Duval Street, where they sold that peculiarly tropic delicacy, sour-sop ice cream; talking interestedly over two dishes of the sweet with its strange, half sour, musky flavor. Lenore and Barolli sitting close on the steps of the cabana at East Beach, where a white oleander bush grew out of the sand.

Barolli glanced at Antoine then and took up the baton, giving the boys the down beat, going through the number again without the voices. It was Barolli's orchestra, then. Lenore walked toward Antoine.

"You've caught me, Eddie," she said.

"Doing a very creditable job," was his answer in a preoccupied tone. Lenore sensed that he wanted to give Barolli and his music undivided attention, and said nothing more.

A New Lenore

As he crashed into a finale that softened gradually until it was only a whisper, Barolli turned to Antoine and held out the baton.

"My name is Barolli," he said. "Give my boys a whirl. See how they follow." It was evident he was proud of his collection of young musicians, their dark, sensitive countenances testifying visibly of their Cuban heritage. There was an eagerness in their faces as they turned to Antoine.

"And this is Edmund Antoine, Vin," Lenore said. "He's maestro at the hotel."

"Yes, I know," returned Barolli. "You've evidently done some fine selecting and training here, Barolli," Antoine said. "I didn't suppose the island would produce this sort of stuff."

"Oh, yes. They're born musicalians. They are so grateful for a chance to let it out."

"They should have plenty of chance," Antoine turned then to the musicians. He looked them over calmly, seemed to be taking stock of them. The music on the racks was the old number Fritz Scheff made famous: "Kiss Me Again." Antoine gave the boys a quick down beat.

Lenore and Vincent took up the words. Their voices soared, died to a tender pianissimo, and soared again. People passing on the street stopped to listen.

Barolli's smile, when he turned to Antoine as they finished, covering a riotous weling of emotion. He had been singing beside beautiful Lenore Winthrop, his voice blending with hers, and his boys had played as they never had before. It was almost too-much for one day.

"You can do with them what I never can," he said.

"No"—Antoine was quick to give credit where it was due—"all you need is a little time. Come around some morning. I'd like to have a talk with you. I've got to push along now. We play for lunch today."

"Edmund, I'm going your way. Let me drive you," Lenore offered quickly. And then, as Antoine suspected, after they had settled in Lenore's car, Lenore wanted to talk.

"Eddie, you won't say anything to Adele, will you? I mean about my being there with Vin? She and Father would just die if they knew. Of course it's not serious, I mean with Vin. It's just my art, my singing. And Gervase is coming down with Father any time now. I just don't want anything unpleasant. You see they wouldn't understand."

"But I understand, Lenore," Antoine said seriously, wishing to set her fears at rest. "I won't mention anything to your mother or father or your handsome Count Gervase de Bellefort — though I hate to see you throw yourself away on that effete gentleman!" He laughed a little on the last.

"You know Barolli really has got something."

"Oh, Eddie, do you think so, really?" Her eagerness was slightly surprising to Antoine.

When they reached Casa Marina Antoine dropped down on a bench for the few moments he still had left, and watched Lenore go into the hotel.

He wasn't so sure it was all just her art that took her to that barren hall to practice with Barolli. He had seen her face as she stood beside Barolli lifting her voice with his in song. Lenore hadn't realized how much was written there.

Skinner on Pacific 48 Years.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Crisis or no crisis in the Far East, William Henry Gates, dean of transpacific ship officers, is still going strong with 48 years to his credit already. Gates, who has made more than 200 crossings of the Pacific, sailed as chief engineer of the American Mail Line freighter Capillo.

War Trophy Causes Casualty

Crack Pistol And Rifle Shot Puts Stanton On The Map

STANTON, Sept. 11 (Spl)—The crack pistol and rifle shots of the world who were at Camp Perry, Ohio, are aware that Stanton is the home of a crack shot with a pistol and rifle in the person of Jesse N. Woody, who has been in the habit of winning medals and trophies at shooting matches until they number some 200 he has in his collection.

Woody returned Tuesday night from Camp Perry where he attended the National Rifle and Pistol matches, starting Sept. 3 and closing Sept. 8. The entire expense of Woody's trip was paid by the National Rifle association. He earned this free trip in competition with the top-ranking pistol shooters of the southwest region. He was winner of the regional match and represented the Master class at Camp Perry. The Master class is the highest of the National Rifle association's classification.

Woody's showing in the matches at Camp Perry follow: Fourth place, 45 cal. rapid fire 18x200; second place, 38 cal. police course 10 shots slow, 10 shots timed, 10 rapid fire at 25 yards, 28x200; first place in 38 cal. civilian pistol match over the national match course, 10 shots slow at 50 yards, 10 timed, 10 rapid fire at 50 yards, 28x200.

This match, a new one, gives Woody the Camp Perry record until someone shoots a better score. Fifth place, 35 cal. slow fire at 50 yards, 18x200; first place, 22 cal.

Men's Style Trends Paced By Headgear

For the past several years, most of the welcome changes which have occurred in the men's clothing field, with regard to color and the wide varieties in cuts and materials created, have been directly inspired by the vitality and progressiveness in the men's hat industry. Hat manufacturers, however, were not the originators of this swing away from extreme conservatism and regimentation in dress. American men themselves were the first to rebel against the drabness of their wardrobes. The hatters, with a sensitive finger on the sartorial pulse of the nation, were the first to realize and answer the need for wardrobes expressing individuality and variety.

For the past six years, the major change in felt hat styles has been toward wider brims. This trend appears now to have reached its limit. Brims will be no wider this fall than they were last spring, and some will be slightly narrower. In the East, the average brim width will be 2-3 inches while in the South, mid-West and far West, best brim widths will be 2-5 inches and 2-3-4 inches.

There is a very definite trend this fall towards brims turned up all around. This is keeping with the return to more formality in town dress.

In general, the color trend is toward medium tones, with the tendency to grow darker rather than lighter. The fastest growing new colors for fall will be the medium tan and brown shades. There is also an increasing use of neutral brown hats with blue and blue-grey clothing, so that the brown hat shares in the popularity of both brown and blue in suitings.

This fall will see a definite return to the regular ribbon band on felt hats, after several years of experiment with extreme novelty types and fabrics. One exception, the Gabardine band, will continue a strong favorite through the Fall, particularly on the University type hat.

Novelty effects are still with us, however, in the new weaves of grograin bands, in two-tone or three-tone ribbons, and in off-shade color contrasts of band and body.

Most popular of the color contrasts will be the blue band on the tan or brown hat.

Bound and welt edges will continue to lead. In many sections, the light contrast binding, either of grograin, gabardine or felt, will continue the success they have enjoyed.

The same trend toward more formality in town, which brings along the turned up brims, will also tend to modify the finishes on fall and winter felts.

Worms Damage Dawson Cotton

LAMESA, Sept. 11. (Spl)—Predicted yield of the Dawson county cotton crop dropped sharply in the last week, due to heavy leaf worm infestation.

Most estimates of the crop are around 40,000 bales, while not long ago a crop of 60,000 bales was thought likely. Despite heavy poisoning, worms have persisted in doing great damage.

Many farmers have poisoned five and six times, with showers repeatedly washing away the arsenic.

Some fields are reported wiped out by the insects. However, there are several farms that will yield a half bale to the acre or more.

Crack Pistol And Rifle Shot Puts Stanton On The Map

STANTON, Sept. 11 (Spl)—The crack pistol and rifle shots of the world who were at Camp Perry, Ohio, are aware that Stanton is the home of a crack shot with a pistol and rifle in the person of Jesse N. Woody, who has been in the habit of winning medals and trophies at shooting matches until they number some 200 he has in his collection.

Woody returned Tuesday night from Camp Perry where he attended the National Rifle and Pistol matches, starting Sept. 3 and closing Sept. 8. The entire expense of Woody's trip was paid by the National Rifle association. He earned this free trip in competition with the top-ranking pistol shooters of the southwest region. He was winner of the regional match and represented the Master class at Camp Perry. The Master class is the highest of the National Rifle association's classification.

Woody's showing in the matches at Camp Perry follow: Fourth place, 45 cal. rapid fire 18x200; second place, 38 cal. police course 10 shots slow, 10 shots timed, 10 rapid fire at 25 yards, 28x200; first place in 38 cal. civilian pistol match over the national match course, 10 shots slow at 50 yards, 10 timed, 10 rapid fire at 50 yards, 28x200.

This match, a new one, gives Woody the Camp Perry record until someone shoots a better score. Fifth place, 35 cal. slow fire at 50 yards, 18x200; first place, 22 cal.
