RAF Delivers Heaviest Air Attack Of The War

1500 Tons Of Bombs Dropped On Duisburg

LONDON, May 13 (AP) — British bombers delivered their heaviest attack of the war on Germany last night, dropping more than 1,500 tons of bombs on the battered industrial center of Duisburg, it was announced today.

Thirty-four bombers were reported lost in the raid — the first great night attack on the Reich since the smashing assault on Dortmund May 4.

Allied raiders followed up this assault by streaming across the English Channel this morning in bright sunlight to smash at the coast of occupied France. The rumble of heavy explosions rolled back across the channel, and later twin-motored bombers came winging home under a swarming escort of fighters.

Floods Cause Severe Loss In Arkansas

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 13 (AP) — The worst Arkansas river flood in history gushed down the lower valley today, topping or smashing levees and flooding additional thousands of acres after cresting here at 41.7 feet—3.7 feet higher than the record stage which had stood 110 years.

Receding here almost as rapidly as it had risen, the river left in its wake six known dead, 22 missing, hundreds homeless and untold property damage in Oklahoma as it pushed its burden into Arkansas. Seven of the missing were Camp Gruber, Okla., soldiers who were engaged in rescue work.

Downstream, the U. S. engineers abandoned hope, with one exception, of saving any main line levee between here and Little Rock.

Relief agencies, whose rescue operations were overshadowed by the spectacular work of Camp Gruber and Camp Chaffee soldiers, expressed belief that all valley dwellers now had been brought to safety.

Fort Smith and Camp Chaffee were cut off from their principal sources of water with only six days supply in emergency reservoirs. Across the river, Van Buren was without light and power and one third of the community was under water.

Fort Smith virtually was isolated by the main stream and its backwaters. All rail traffic was suspended. Only the rooftops of buildings in west Fort Smith, across the Arkansas-Oklahoma bridge, showed above the surface of a lake of backwater that was five miles across.

Ickes 'Hopes' For Solution

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP) — Fuel Administrator Ickes said today it is "up to the government to take the next step" toward settling the coal mining dispute but added that some other government agency would have to take it.

Ickes told a press conference he would not suggest extension of the 15-day truce granted by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers which expires next Tuesday midnight, and added "I can't say I have plans for a settlement but I have a prayerful hope."

"I can't believe the miners, whatever their grievance, will do such a disservice to their country" as to stop coal production, Ickes said.

Earlier in the day, Lloyd Thrush, president of the AFL-Progressive Mine Workers, announced that Ickes had agreed to release from government control all mines in Illinois having contracts with his union as the result of voluntary action on the part of the operators and the union in extending the present contract indefinitely.

Released, Thrush said, will be 150 mines in Illinois employing 15,000 members of the AFL union.

Airplane Crash Kills Five Men

SHREVEPORT, La., May 13 (AP) — Five members of the Second air support command were killed in an airplane crash near Vinegar Bend, 50 miles north of Mobile, Ala., Wednesday afternoon, the public relations office at Barksdale Field, the command base, announced today.

The pilot of the plane, Lieut. Col. Adam J. Heinz, Greeley, Colo., parachuted to safety but was reported to have suffered minor injuries. He was able to communicate with the air base here by telephone.

Reds Strike With New Fury In The South

Important Hill Is Taken, Equipment Captured

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—Russian troops in a resurgence of fighting in the Donets river valley around Lisichansk, about 125 miles southeast of Kharkov, have occupied a hill described in the Soviet noon communique today as a "height of great tactical importance" after rolling back German armor and crushing an enemy wedge thrust into a town held by the Russians.

More than 1,000 Germans were killed and about 1,000 were captured, along with a great store of military equipment in a battle which continued last night, Russian war bulletins said. They were recorded here by the Soviet radio.

Temporarily, the outbreak overshadowed the steady, grinding drive by the Red army against the line of German fortifications outside Novorossiisk where a German counterattack was thrust back and Red army artillery kept up its attacks on the German blockhouses and artillery posts.

(The German high command said that Red army attacks were repulsed both on the Kuban bridgehead and north of Lisichansk. The communique, broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, credited Red fighter planes with sinking a 3,000-ton freighter in the Arctic sea.)

Moscow, in a special broadcast, said the Red air force had inflicted heavy damage in 12 more raids on German communications centers, bringing the total of such attacks to more than 50 in four consecutive days.

The midnight communique said that in aerial battles 18 more German planes were shot down with a loss of five Soviet craft.

No Decision Yet On Tax Measure

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Apparently gaining strength rapidly, administration forces approached within striking distance today of another upset of the skip-year plan to put taxpayers on a current payment basis.

Although advocates professed confidence they had the votes to force senate passage of a modified Ruml plan, administration strategists contend the issue is so close it may well go their way on a compromise.

Their way in this case is a substitute of a 10 percent increase in the tax rate by Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the finance committee which would abate—instead of a full year's tax liability—75 percent of the lesser of either 1942 or 1943 taxes for everybody.

Wants Action On Prohibition Bill

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Representative Sam Russell of Stephenville, Tex., wants action on his bill (H. R. 1548) to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors to men in the armed forces.

He told the house in the Congressional Record that the legislation was introduced January 27, "yet even up to this date nothing has been done, or is being done, about it."

This lack of action has resulted, he said, despite the fact "the mothers and fathers of the boys who are fighting on every battle front for democracy, decency, honesty and civilization have been solemnly promised that every moral shield of protection would be thrown around them in their service to our country."

Poundage Instead Of Fanfare

Airmail Week Is Being Observed

National Airmail Week is observed here appropriately with poundage instead of fanfare. Postmaster Shick has taken by Postmaster Nat Shick by arranging a display of cachets and covers from the city's biggest airmail celebration back in 1938 when the 20th anniversary of the service was celebrated over the nation.

Included in the display is "Big Jim," a West Texas horned toad (now slightly stuffed)—the first and only creature to circle the United States by airmail. The name was inspired by Jim Farley, then postmaster general, who thought the idea "a clever stunt."

The excitement of leaving here in a special wire cage on April 19, 1938 and arriving back on April 28 after 15 stops that took him to all four corners of the nation was to much—and "Jim" died. "But not so the popularity of airmail, for today the average daily volume dispatched through the Big Spring office is many times what it was five years ago, and indeed, the normal run for the week will far exceed all that could be mustered with a special campaign during the week—May 15-21—in 1938.

Week day volume through the Big Spring office since the first of May averages 86 points with 77 pounds the smallest day's run. Frequently the total runs well above the 100 mark. Between 1,200 and 1,500 letters are handled each day.

Definitely out of the "fad" class, airmail has grown to such proportions here that one man devotes practically all of his time to working the outgoing airmail. Special care is taken to assure best connections at Fort Worth so that the fastest possible service will be given on the mail originating locally.

RESISTANCE IN TUNISIA ENDS

Meet Again—Smiling with pleasure, President Roosevelt drove up to the White House Tuesday night accompanied by Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who arrived in Washington against a background of the allied victory in Tunisia and German jitters over invasion.

Open Revolt Rages In Holland, Said To Be Spreading

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—Reports from the continent today said revolt was raging in occupied Holland and had spread "like wildfire" across the border into Belgium where there was a series of attacks on German troops, military establishments and communications.

Reverberations of the Allied victory in Africa were said to be shaking the whole of Hitler's Europe. Accounts of sabotage, armed clashes and general resistance poured in from Poland, Norway, Yugoslavia and Greece, but the Dutch and Belgians appeared to be giving Nazi occupation forces the greatest trouble.

Churchill To Make Address

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain will address the American congress next Wednesday at 11:30 a. m. Central War Time.

Speaker Rayburn of the house invited him this morning, he accepted, and Rayburn returned to the capital to arrange a joint senate-house session.

The White House said, meanwhile, that a radio address Churchill has scheduled for tomorrow afternoon (2 p. m. CWT) will be almost entirely for home consumption in England.

It will carry out a promise made before the prime minister came to the United States to honor the anniversary of the British home guards. American newspapers will carry the address if they wish.

Whether Churchill's speech to congress will be broadcast is up to Rayburn. What the theme of it will be and whether it will give any clues to reasons for the current Roosevelt-Churchill meeting, the White House did not say. But it will give the prime minister a forum for analyzing the Tunisian victory and its relation to the future conduct of the war, if he wants to make this use of it.

War Expenditures Reach A New Peak

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—War expenditures reached a new high of $7,250,000,000 in April, the War Production Board reported today.

This brought war expenditures since July, 1942, to $94,900,000,000.

Navy Lists Ship Losses Of April 17

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—The navy today identified the three Allied ships sunk by Japanese planes off Guadalcanal Island in the Solomon April 17 as the American destroyer Aaron Ward, the American tanker Kanawha and the New Zealand corvette Mca.

The identifications were made in a communique which also reported a resumption of air attacks against enemy positions on Klaka Island in the Aleutians, three new raids against Japanese bases in the Solomon Islands, and a bombardment by American light warships of the enemy positions at Vila and Munda in the Solomons.

Resumption of air action in the Aleutians ended a four-day period of inactivity described here as resulting from bad weather. The latest attack was made on May 11 and the last raid previously reported against Klaka took place on May 6.

Results of the surface bombardment of Vila and Munda were not given but the air raids on an attack on Kahlil Wednesday was reported to have started a number of fires "which appeared to be burning enemy aircraft."

The navy previously had reported on the April 7 Japanese raid, saying that of 98 bombers and fighters which executed the attack 39 planes in all were shot down. While American losses were given as one destroyer, one tanker, and one corvette sunk; one small fuel oil boat damaged and a total of seven aircraft lost.

A similar report came from Warsaw, where a locomotive was said to have been badly damaged just as it entered a station. A German railway inspector killed the Polish engineer and the fireman on the spot, the report said, whereupon Polish workmen beat the inspector and two other Germans to death with crowbars. Hastily-arrived Nazi troops were declared to have killed five Poles.

The Italians were said to have established an 8 p. m. curfew along the Mediterranean coast of France. The Dutch government-in-exile in London urged Holland's 400,000 ex-servicemen to defy German orders to register. The Dutch appeal, broadcast by the Free Netherlands station Radio Orange, warned the ex-servicemen that the Germans intend to make them "labor slaves" and advised them to defend themselves against attempts at arrest.

The broadcast represented an unprecedented action on the part of the exiled government, which thus—by implication, at any rate—advocated for the first time a policy of outright physical resistance in the homeland.

M'Arthur And Halsey Talk

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, May 13 (AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., naval commander-in-chief in this area, has conferred for the first time with General Douglas MacArthur at the latter's headquarters in Australia, the navy's South Pacific command announced today.

Reporting Halsey's return from the conference, an official announcement said "the discussions centered on the closest cooperation and coordination of the two commands, utilizing the total means at their disposal."

"Personal respects were exchanged for the first time" by the two commanders, the headquarters statement continued, adding: "Details broached at this meeting between General MacArthur and Admiral Halsey are being perfected by continuing conferences between representatives of both commands."

However, before a merger can be effected, the companies must submit an application to the commission which then will hold public hearings.

African Shipping Losses 2.16 Pct.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 13 (AP)—Shipping losses in moving the enormous number of men and supplies into North Africa for the Allied campaign have amounted to 2.16 percent of the total traffic, it was announced officially today.

In the six-month period from Nov. 8, 1942, to May 8 of this year a total of more than 11,000,000 gross tons of shipping arrived in North African ports, including Canada from the United Kingdom and the United States.

Since the traffic goes both ways, the tonnage actually escorted by the American and British navies thus was more than 22,000,000 tons.

Unexpected Blow From West Knocked Out Axis

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 13 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, reviewing his six-month campaign in North Africa, said today the final blow was struck in a clever move by which the bulk of the enemy troops were held on the eighth army front while the first army got in the knockout punch.

"The reputation of the eighth army alone was enough to hold powerful enemy forces in front of it," the commander in chief said. "There was a peculiar circumstance at the end which Gen. Sir Harold Alexander (deputy commander in chief in charge of ground forces) took advantage of. In many punches the eighth army delivered hammer blows while the other units served as the anvil. Because of its efficiency, the eighth army got an enormous reputation, with everyone, including the Germans, expecting the killing punch to come from it."

"General Alexander counted on that. He built up the first army to do, to make its (western) front still stronger, brought around some of the eighth army to the first army front. The Germans thought the real fight was coming from the south."

General Eisenhower cited the success of this move as another proof of the advantages of a unified command. "All indications were that the Germans were greatly surprised by the thrust from the west and this led to their disorganization and collapse. The Allied chieftain said the governments of both Britain and the United States and the local French 'have a real reason for encouragement and hope as a result of this campaign.'"

AXIS PRISONERS MAY REACH FINAL TOTAL OF 175,000

By WILLIAM B. KING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 13 (AP)—Allied mopping up parties hunted the last ragged remnants of Hitler's African armies in Tunisia today to round out a victory which Gen. Sir Harold Alexander said was "one of the most complete and decisive in history."

A military spokesman estimated that the prisoners would total "near 175,000 when the last of the holdout detachments were rounded up in the offensive launched May 5. All organized resistance had ended. The Allied air force, with no more targets in North Africa, moved its aerial offensive across the Mediterranean. German and Italian armies were crushed and their commander in chief, Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim, was among the 150,000 captives already counted.

The small pockets of enemy soldiers who fought on either had not heard about the general debacle or preferred to remain in action despite the surrender of their commander. Allied armies dropped their final bomb in Africa at mid-morning yesterday. It was dropped by the desert air force, which lost its first one June 11, 1940, on Tobruk the day after Italy entered the war.

But the air force announced there would be no letup. It means merely that its attacks will be concentrated across the Mediterranean. On the southern sector facing Eighth army positions fighting was stubborn throughout yesterday morning, but the battle ended as organized combat during the day.

Enemy resistance collapsed suddenly in the area of Zaghouan, 28 miles south of Tunis. The Allied communique announced that French troops, centering attacks in that area, had captured more than 22,000 prisoners in the final 48 hours of combat. Enemy troops surrounded in the coastal sector north of Enfidaville were subjected to a strong bombing attack and this aerial pounding "finally induced the enemy First Army to ask for terms," the communique said.

Naval forces, which played an important part in the final stages of the battle by preventing the escape of defeated axis soldiers by boat, continued to patrol the coast of Cap Bon peninsula. During the past few days naval vessels have picked up various craft bound for Pantelleria or Sicily and brought them back to join their 150,000 companions behind barbed wire in Africa.

Speaking of the prisoners, General Anderson said: "Perhaps they will be sent to Canada. At least two-thirds are Germans, which is very gratifying." General Alexander, in a man to man talk with his staff in a building tucked away in the Tunisian hills, said "we have wiped out an entire army and today we stand masters of the whole of North Africa."

Gen. Anderson himself told war correspondents that it didn't matter anyhow, underlining the completeness of the Axis debacle. Officially Von Arnim was captured by troops of the British Eighth army's Fourth Indian Division which attacked the enemy's First army a week ago.

Terms Refused By Von Arnim; Who Cares?

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 13 (AP)—The Italian General Giovanni Messe surrendered today to the British Eighth army and it was reported here, but not confirmed, that one of the sons-in-law of King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy gave up with him.

By DANIEL DE LUCE BRITISH FIRST ARMY HEADQUARTERS, TUNISIA, May 13 (AP)—Dust-strained Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim, captured commander of the conquered Axis forces in Africa, refused to sign the surrender terms of Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson and was sent to the rear today more anxious about his baggage than his troops. Driven nearly 100 miles in an automobile after sending out envoys with a white flag and surrendering, Von Arnim was received last night by Gen. Anderson in the tent in a green pasture from which he directed the drive of his forces. Gen. was interviewed last night by Gen. Anderson in his pasture tent. After that the British leader met Allied war correspondents.

What is believed to be the last message that Von Arnim sent in his role as commander in chief of the Axis forces was found among captured papers.

It said: "The order to defend Tunisia to the last cartridge has been carried out."

Von Arnim, 54, is being given the courtesy of a general officer. Capture of the Eilatian aristocrat closes a brilliant career in the army of Kaiser Wilhelm and Adolf Hitler. He joined the Prussian army in his youth and was made a sub-lieutenant in 1909. He won four decorations in the World war and, after 1918, remained in Germany's 100,000-man armistice army, where he specialized in staff work.

County Schools Receive Funds

The county superintendent's office received a check for $2,943 from the state department this week to make another $3 payment on the $250 per capita allotment. The payment leaves only $1 more to be paid this year and this amount will likely be received before school is dismissed.

Graduating Bombardiers Pledged Support From Home

gentlemen on your graduation as bombardiers. We in the aviation industry know that the job you have selected to do for your country is not an easy one." T. H. Beck, chief project engineer for North American Aviation, Inc., Dallas, told cadets of class 42-7 who received their commissions as second lieutenants and were awarded wings at graduation exercises held in the post chapel at the Big Spring Bombardier school this morning.

"I want you to know that we won't let you down, either. If it takes the bonds, we'll buy them. If it takes more taxes, we'll pay them. If it takes less food, that's O. K. too. We're willing to do anything we can to make your part in winning this war easier."

Beck, who was sent to Australia in 1938 to start production of A-24's, told cadets that those working on the production front felt something closer to the men in uniform because of their job of getting out equipment needed on the battlefield. He pointed out that teamwork, as in combat crews, was essential on the production line and in turning out planes.

In explaining the reason for successful step-up in war production, Beck stated that three years before the war, aviation experts got together for a bit of "day-dreaming" and worked out methods of improving and simplifying production.

Concluding his address, Beck said, "Gentlemen, you know your job and we believe that we know ours. Together we can lick that Unholy Trio. God speed you on your missions and may the bombs you drop help make the pattern for world peace."

Chaplain James L. Patterson gave the invocation and the post orchestra played "Rose Ann of Charing Cross" and "When the Lights Go On Again" with Cadet Arthur Sorenson as vocalist.

Lieut. G. E. Myers, Jr., wing commander for the class, gave the responding address and reminded the boys that they were cadets when they entered the theatre and officers when they left—officers ready to go out and do their job in making the world safe for democracy.

Capt. Richard T. Allen administered the oath of office and Col. Robert W. Warren awarded wings. Recognition went to Lieut. Elsworth Power of Chicago, Ill., for the highest scholastic record; Lieut. Ralph B. Wagner of Harvard, Ill., as outstanding bombardier; and to Lieut. John Woffington of San Jose, Calif., as outstanding athlete.

The post orchestra concluded the program with "Bombs for the Enemy" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Chaplain Emeric Lawrence gave the benediction.

Officers of class 42-7 include Lieut. G. E. Myers, Jr., wing commander; Lieut. J. W. Rosher, wing adjutant; Lieut. R. C. Vaughan, squadron commander; Lieut. R. A. Palmer, squadron adjutant and Lieut. J. W. Woffington, squadron first sergeant.

OPA To Hire More Sleuths

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown today disclosed plans to hire 1,400 more investigators to help roll back the cost of living, and said the OPA's new subsidy program will be strictly experimental.

Job of the new probes will be to educate innocent violators of price rules and punish wilful "chillers," Brown said. Aides have estimated that effective enforcement, depending mostly on adequate personnel, could cut the cost of living 3 per cent.

By such enforcement—and careful use of subsidies—Brown said in an interview, OPA expects to bring down the cost of living to the level of Sept. 15, 1942, and hold it there.

He added that his recently announced plan to seek a 10 per cent reduction in the retail costs of meat, butter and coffee about June 1 through subsidies was experimental. The future of subsidies in the price-picture, he indicated, will depend on actual results of the trial next month.

The 1,400 extra investigators, Brown explained, will be added to an existing force of approximately 3,500.

Negroes Get Pen Terms

For "Pitiful Kid" stood up and took it Thursday, and if it was any consolation, he had three mates who suffered similarly.

"Pitiful Kid" also answers to the name of Adam Lockridge, and it was under this name that the young negro drew a two year term in the state penitentiary in each of three cases for burglary. Judge Cecil Collins, who heard his plea of guilty along with those of three other negroes, allowed the sentences to run concurrently, however, and gave time for 20-odd days in jail waiting trial.

Woodrow Maddox got two years in two cases, the sentences to run concurrently, and concurrent two-year terms on three cases were imposed on David Jackson and John Henry Williams. The quartet had confessed to a series of North Side break-ins.

One divorce was granted Wednesday by Judge Collins to Elma R. Miller from C. A. Miller and custody of two minor children was awarded to the plaintiff.

The divorce suit of Natalia Everetts versus Fred Everetts, originally scheduled for Thursday, was set for Saturday, Judge Collins said.

Food and weather difficulties, either enough to cause trouble, Thursday forced postponement of scoutmasters' training hike. H. D. Norris said the food problem would be solved by next Thursday and hoped for consideration at the hands of the weatherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ligon Baird are visiting here briefly while en route to Hobbs, N. M., to visit his sister and to Vernon to be with her relatives. Baird, now a petty officer, IC, is stationed at Columbus, Ohio, by the U. S. navy. Formerly, he was a police radio dispatcher here.

Considerable smoke damage resulted from a blaze in a grocery at 1901 Scurry street at 2:30 a. m. Thursday. Fire Chief Ollie Cordill theorized that the flames were touched off by spontaneous combustion of oily rags and mops. A petition was scorching and a hole burned in the floor. A couple of hours earlier firemen made a run to the Crawford hotel basement to extinguish a trash fire.

The Wolcott ranch area in northwestern Martin county, hard hit by drought last year when other sections were getting rain, seems to have turned the tables. During April, according to the Soil Conservation Service recording gauge, the area had 2.1 inches of rain. In the "wet" spell of last weekend, another 2.03 inches fell.

Says Oil Prices 50 To 60 Pct Below Parity

HOUSTON, May 13 (AP)—Commenting upon yesterday's resolution by Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.), asking presidential intercession for an oil price increase, H. R. Cullen, large independent oil operator, today pointed out all prices are from 50 to 60 per cent below parity of other commodities.

Oil prices, he noted, were stabilized long before the spiraling price level reached its present height. "The independent oil operator," Cullen said, "has found most of the big fields now producing in Texas. He could and did take long chances because he had an incentive in profit. Under present conditions there is not enough profit to justify the risks the explorer must take."

"If the government wants production it could have it much easier if it would appoint oil men with power of decision in territories where there is production," he added.

Cullen estimated that withholding was off by ninety percent from its peacetime form. "The oil industry is as much concerned with the prevention of inflation as any business, but in view of the hazardous nature of the enterprise, the return should be commensurate with the risk," he declared.

FSA Supervisors In Parley Here

Farm Security Administration district and county supervisors were holding a one-day conference here Thursday for an explanation on pump irrigation loans.

These are being made possible this year as an encouragement to gardening where water is available.

Here for the parley were Marvin Wilson, Sweetwater, district supervisor, T. Huel Linder, Sweetwater, district specialist, Oscar M. Fowler, Midland, Jack Welch, Tahoka, and Ur D. Kendrick, Big Spring, all county supervisors.

(The Italian high command announced today that the Italian First army, headed by Marshal Giovanni Messe, ceased fighting this morning by order of Premier Mussolini. The communique, broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press, said that to this army "fell the honor of the last axis resistance on African soil.")

(It was the first time that Messe, 59-year-old infantry specialist, had been referred to as marshal. This suggested a last-minute promotion from general by Mussolini, just as Hitler elevated Gen. Frederick von Paulus to field marshal last January a few hours before his division surrendered to the Red army at Stalingrad.)

Be Ready To Face Drouth Problems

During the past 43 years the average annual rainfall is 19.27 inches at the Big Spring Station. The rainfall in 22 of these years has been average or above, but there is only two periods during the 43 years when the rainfall was average for more than two successive years. One of these periods was from 1905 to 1908 and the other 1913 to 1915. There has been five periods of two successive years of above average rainfall. They were, 1919, 1920; 1922, 1923; 1931, 1932; 1933, 1934; 1941, 1942. If we have average rainfall in 1943 it will be the first time that three years of average rainfall has come in succession since 1915.

For this reason ranchers should give serious consideration to adjusting the number of stock on their grass if the present drouth continues for any appreciable length of time. The grass generally is in fair shape at present, due possibly, to the fact that fall rains came early enough last fall to allow most of the new grass growth to mature before frost. As a result there was more than the usual carry over of matured grass on the range. Cattle also are in better than normal shape even though there was a shortage of cake and meal.

The common practice, which is nothing but human nature, is to keep waiting for that rain and eventually the grass has been damaged by too close grazing. This practice is harmful to the grass in several ways. It leaves the ground bare, and the hot sun bakes the soil and damages the grass roots, causes more run off when it does rain and lowers the vigor of the grass plant to the extent that only a small percent of the expected growth will be attained from the first few rains.

Experiments have run in New Mexico for a number of years to determine the effect of close grazing on rangeland during drouth periods. They have found that most satisfactory results are obtained where 1-3 to 1-2 of the cattle are steers and the balance are breeding cattle. Quick adjustments in the number of cattle can be made economically by selling the steers, thereby preventing close grazing during drouth periods. Ordinarily if adjusted are made before the drouth becomes serious, the steers will bring a reasonably good price while if they are held too long and the prairie becomes serious there will be a big feed bill or the cattle will be sold at a much lower price. When it does rain, the range can be restocked at very little if any loss in the transaction.

Quite often the condition of the cattle is used as a guide in determining the condition of the range.

termining the condition of the grass. This is often misleading because the cattle will not show the effects of a shortage of grass until the grass has been damaged. If an inspection of the grass is made now it will enable the rancher to make necessary adjustments in his livestock numbers before the grass is damaged and the price of cattle is lowered due to drouth conditions.

Rabbit Raising On The Increase

This year lots of people will be raising rabbits who've never kept rabbits before. There are several reasons. And here are some from R. E. Callender who is game management specialist for the A. & M. College Extension Service. First, the meat is unrestricted in the government's plan of voluntary meat rationing. Second, rabbit raising requires little space. A city backyard often is just as adequate as a farm. . . . provided, of course, that city ordinances don't interfere. And finally, rabbit meat is quickly produced. Only 90 days are required from the time the doe is mated until the young rabbits are ready for the table.

Many Americans who've never tried rabbit don't know what they've missed. Callender says. He describes the meat as clean, fine-grained, and nutritious. It's a pearly white meat with fine flavor.

What's more, rabbit meat can be raised economically. Callender quotes a Department of Interior wildlife leaflet that only four and one-half pounds of feed are required to produce one pound of live meat. Fryer rabbits usually weigh three and one-half to four pounds when they're ready for market. While older and heavier rabbits are excellent for roast or fricassee. Actually about 82 per cent of the carcass is edible.

Callender says rabbit husbandry is on a big boom in Texas. Recently at a show in Houston, more than $1,000 worth of rabbits from the show room were sold within a day and a half. If you've got questions about rabbit husbandry, see your local county agricultural agent.

The Preparation Of Dehydrated Vegetables

Dehydrated vegetables are satisfactory if properly prepared and seasoned. At their best, they probably won't be equal in flavor, texture and appearance to cooked fresh vegetables. The yield of prepared dried products will vary but generally one cup of a dried vegetable will serve four to six people. Keep these general principles in mind when preparing dehydrated or dried vegetables:

1. Soak in hot water just long enough to plump and cook in the water in which soaked.

This preliminary soaking is usually termed "refreshing" or "refreshing." Thirty minutes to one hour is usually sufficient. Avoid soaking longer than necessary for these reasons: (1) Vegetables soaked too long lose more flavor and tend to have a heavy and water-soaked texture. (2) Minerals and thiamin, ascorbic acid and riboflavin are water soluble. The liquid in which dried vegetables are soaked will contain a portion of these nutrients and a part of the flavor of the vegetable and for these reasons should be used.

2. Some dehydrated vegetables can be cooked without soaking. Leafy vegetables and those which are powdered or finely shredded or cut may be cooked without soaking. Drop into hot salted water and simmer until tender.

3. Use small amount of water. Avoid adding too much water. Use only enough to "clump" the vegetable to approximately the original volume of the fresh product, with enough water remaining to almost, but not quite, cover the vegetable. A few trails will determine the best ratio.

The use of large amounts of water in cooking dried vegetables is destructive to the nutritive value. The larger the quantity of water the greater the loss of carotene, thiamin, and ascorbic acid.

4. Simmer rather than boil. Vegetables cook just as quick when simmered, and less water is required. They do not "cook to pieces" as much when simmered as when boiled vigorously.

5. Cook only until tender. Vegetables should be cooked until tender but not cooked until mushy.

6. Use any left-over cooking water. It contains some of the flavor, minerals and vitamins.

7. Increase the palatability of dehydrated vegetables with tasty seasonings.

Since dehydration unavoidably removes some of the delicate flavors and odors of the fresh products it is desirable to add seasonings such as strips of ham or bacon, garlic, basil or sliced onion. Tomato sauce is good with some products. Generous amounts of butter improve beets, carrots and potatoes. Peas and corn can be cooked in milk.

Vegetable soups are improved by the addition of meat stock or ham hock or soup bones. Rice may be added also.

Powdered pumpkin and sweet potatoes may be cooked with milk and sugar and thickened with egg and used as a pie filling.

White potatoes after refreshing may be fried, scalloped, mashed or prepared in other ways as fresh potatoes.

Jump On Those Flea Beetles

Did you notice small, round holes in the leaves of the green beans or mustard greens while walking through your Victory garden this morning? The holes looked as though a charge of small shot had landed in the garden. Well . . . if you saw such holes then the flea beetle has moved in on you. The beetle is NOT a chummy fellow. . . . He's very shy and you won't see him often. But if you observe a small brown, black or striped insect . . . that's the unwelcome boarder in your garden. Another characteristic which will help you identify it. . . . When disturbed it jumps like a flea.

The beetle is very fond of young seedlings. . . . So it's important to watch for these pests. If they get a head start, says J. F. Roseborough horticulturist for the A. & M. College Extension Service, they may destroy a large number of your garden plants before you suspect the cause. They feed the top side of the leaves, and go after cabbage, turnips, tomatoes, eggplants and potatoes as well as beans and mustard greens.

Roseborough says that the preferred method of control is dusting affected plants with a rotenone and sulphur mixture. If that isn't available dusting the seedling plants with cryolite will do the job. After that use a dust or spray of pyrethrum. If you cannot get these materials, then dust the plants thoroughly with air-slaked lime or Bordeaux mixture. Repeat as often as it is necessary. If it rains often you may have to do it five or six times to get the situation well in hand. But keep after 'em.

Your county extension agents can give you details on control methods.

Strike Fails To Halt Movement Of Tomato Crop

HARLINGEN, May 13 (AP)—The Rio Grande valley tomato crop is being harvested despite a strike of union pickers, involving some valley plants, shippers say.

A disagreement between members of the Federal Fruit Packers union and plants which had not signed union contracts continued. Meanwhile, soldiers from Harlingen army gunnery school were granted permission by their commanding officers to work in tomato packing sheds during off hours. The permission was granted with the stipulation that such work would not interfere with army duties.

The Valley Morning Star said that a strike of union pickers, involving some valley plants, had opened a number of jobs, and that soldiers were finding it easy to get work in their off hours.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

Almost everybody's figuring what things'll be like after the war. I talked about that today with Jeb Crowell. Jeb—he's a veteran of the last War—says: "One thing's sure, Joe. The boys this time won't return and find what we came back to."

Then he went on to mention Prohibition . . . and I ought to say right here that Jeb's a man of moderation . . . a glass of beer or two is all he'll ever take. It was the principle of the thing that bothered him.

"Passing a law behind our backs," he says, "was violatin' just what we were fightin' for. The very principles we fought for in 1776. Law-makin' without representation is one of the most undemocratic things we can do."

I guess we're all agreed on that. Most folks admit we made a mistake once . . . but the boys who are fighting this war can be pretty sure we won't pull anything like that again!

Miss Laneous Notes

An outgrowth of the last war was the attractive, useless woman who spent most of her waking hours playing bridge, riding around in her automobile, nagging at her husband and children.

The deepest problems she ever encountered were the servant problem and how to pay her bridge debts without letting her husband know the amount. She was a product of the times.

But this woman disappeared almost entirely along about the first of the year 1942. She disappeared into jobs both feminine and masculine. She exchanged her bridge cards for rivet guns and her beauty parlor appointments for sessions at the Red Cross.

She did an about face that surprised many a cynic. For the first time in many years she justified her existence by the manner in which she began to live.

It's amazing, this change in personality, and it is only when you find a sample of the stylish woman of the 30's still around that you realize the extent of the change. As outmoded as the dodo bird, she still can find nothing to do with her time.

She frets and walls over matching curtains, spends hours selecting the right shade of nail polish and claims to be all worn out from shopping for party favors.

But these few who have survived the wartime era and refused to change with the tide find themselves alone most of the time. For lack of companionship they'll probably soon die out.

Now that the initial stock of the exchange has been paid for, the exchange is required by the war department to hold profits between four and a half and seven and a half per cent. To do this some times requires selling at below cost to offset outside income from drink machines, etc.

Purpose of the exchange is to provide soldier necessities not ordinarily carried by the quartermaster, said Capt. James L. Duke, and these must be made available at the lowest possible cost to the men, according to regulations. Certain restrictions are imposed to prevent abuse of the privileges of shopping at the exchange, and and post civilian workers are held to limited purchases of food, drinks and tobacco to avoid competition with merchants, pointed out the captain.

Profits from post exchange are turned over to special services to be used on projects of benefit to the entire garrison.

Lawrence Robinson, club president, said several were planning on attending the district 2-T Lions convention in Lubbock Sunday and Monday. John Coffee announced plans for the "I Am An American Day" program Sunday at 6 p. m., and John Dibrell, high school coach, invited the club to come out and "see a free football game" Friday evening under Steer stadium lights.

Kate Smith swaps stories with Shirley Pearl of Long Beach, Cal.

"DEAR KATE SMITH," writes Shirley Pearl, "I am a girl 12 years old, who took cooking at Junior High School and loved it. So I thought it my duty to write you about your wonderful Calumet Baking Powder. "Our school uses it because it is double-acting and money-saving. The can lasts such a long, long time. And almost every girl's mother in our cooking class uses it now because we proved it's wonderful!"

KATE WRITES BACK, "Shirley, your letter is one of the most interesting I've received. Because it shows that if a whole class of girls, just learning to cook, can make things their mothers all agree are wonderful, why, anybody can be a baking whiz with dependable Double-Acting Calumet. "Here's a tasty new recipe you might like. I'll bet Mother will say this is 'wonderful, too!' "Listen to 'KATE SMITH SPEAKS,' CBS Network

Try Kate's Strawberry Shortcake

3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
3 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1/4 cup milk
2 quarts strawberries, washed and hulled

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening; add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1/4 inch thick into sheet, 16x8 inches. Cut in half. Fit one half into well-greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Brush with melted shortening. Fit second layer of dough into pan. Brush with melted shortening. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Reserve about 1/2 cup whole strawberries for garnish; cut remaining berries in small pieces and sweeten slightly. Give Mother A Rest From Ration Worries With Reunion Dinner

Strawberry Shortcake

Meat and butter ration points may be precious but there is no better occasion for a little spree in point spending. For mother, who has been busy wrestling with ration restrictions and food budget problems, deserves a real treat. A family reunion dinner, with married daughters and sons chipping in their ration points, will solve the food problem. One can furnish the meat, another butter, another rationed canned goods and so on. Have mother's favorite meat and the dessert that she likes best. If the family is small, with one or two children, they and of course Dad can enter into the spirit of the day by helping with much of the meal preparation, setting the table, possibly making some favors and selecting a table centerpiece.

One of the best meat buys from point and pocketbook standpoint is ROLLED SHOULDER OF VEAL. If mother likes veal, select a boneless roast. For the larger family buy about 5 pounds. If the family boasts four members there will be enough left over for 2 or 3 more meals.

This is the way that we cook the veal shoulder: Place the meat in a roaster, sprinkle top with 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika and 3 tablespoons each of chopped celery, onions and green peppers. Veal needs a little extra seasoning. Roast uncovered for an hour in moderate oven, about 250 degrees F. Add 1-2 cup boiling water and baste every 15 minutes for another hour. Surround the veal with peeled potatoes and scraped carrots. Sprinkle them lightly with salt and pepper. Add 1-4 cup boiling water and a lid. Bake another hour. Baste the veal and vegetables frequently. The vegetables will be nicely browned. Make gravy from the drippings left in the pan.

Mussolini Calls For More Planes

STOCKHOLM, May 13 (AP)—Anti-Nazi German circles reported to the Göteborg newspaper Handels Tidning today that Premier Mussolini had sent a peremptory demand to Adolf Hitler for anti-aircraft artillery and planes to defend Italy. They declared that the tone of Mussolini's demand had caused astonishment at Hitler's headquarters.

Tips on How to— Improve Your Lighting

Use One Large Bulb

There is one time when 2 + 2 doesn't equal 4, and that's when you add lamp bulbs. One 150-watt bulb gives more light than three 50-watt bulbs, so where practical, use one or two large bulbs instead of three or five smaller bulbs.

Keep Spare Fuses On Hand

Buy a few extra fuses the next time you are in a drug store, electric shop or other place where fuses are sold. Then you'll be prepared to put in a new fuse should one burn out.

FOOD NUTRITION and Point Rationing NEWS

The Big Spring Daily Herald

Keep Serving The Foods That Contain Important Vitamins

(Official news of rationing, nutrition and other war programs affecting the home and kitchen, prepared by the regional Office of War Information.)

Planning your shopping for menus, points and price all at once will seem simpler and the nuisances of wartime living less annoying. If you've been getting your own personal ration of Vitamin B1 regularly, it helps keep your nerves healthy and your temper even. It's in lean pork (more plentiful than beef) and liver (now lower in point value); also in the dried peas and beans and nuts you use to build up the meat ration. There's little, too, in fruits and vegetables and whole grain cereals.

This is just one reason for keeping the nutrition yardstick in mind. There are other mighty important things you simply must have every day, in each of the food groups. Don't cheat yourself of any health, pep or good looks by skimping on any of the seven groups.

Check today's meals, and yesterday's for information. Plan all the days to come for compliance. Group I—Green and yellow vegetables. Group II—Oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit. Group III—Potatoes and other vegetables and fruits. Group IV—Milk and milk products. Group V—Meat, poultry, fish and eggs; nuts and dried beans. Group VI—Bread, flour, cereals. Group VII—Butter and fortified margarine.

Ceiling Prices

Gradually, from now on, you will find more and more of your grocery list under specific dollar-and-cent ceiling prices which are the same for the whole community. It is the effort of OPA to "hold the line" of prices and to make it easier for retailers and shoppers alike.

Remember, anyone may sell under the ceiling price. If you find an under-ceiling bargain, that is fine. But no one may sell over the ceiling price. You will get to know the ceilings on bread and butter, poultry, milk, eggs, cheese, sugar, cereals, flour, various meats. You will find planning and economical shopping easier. Prices will be held down or rolled back, to keep the cost of living from the rapid rise war usually brings. It is a tremendous undertaking to arrive at ceiling prices fair to producer, wholesaler, retailer and consumer. Help your country by being patient, keeping posted on regulations, and helping your grocer to observe them.

Beef Shortages

The patriotic housewife can help the beef shortage situation in several ways. Here are some: Vary your meat purchases. Use pork, mutton, sausage. Spend your ration points each week, and thus insure a more steady supply of meat. Look for posted ceiling prices. Pay no more. Report any violation.

Cabbage For Health

Cabbage should improve both in quantity and quality since the Mississippi crop has begun to move. Cabbage is a secondary member of Group II on the nutrition yardstick, oranges, grapefruit and tomatoes. It is a splendid source of Vitamin A, to keep eyes, skin and body linings healthy. B1 for healthy nerves and C for good teeth and bone structure.

The old stand-by, cole slaw, which presents cabbage in its best form, fresh and crisp, can be varied unendingly. Add a tomato one day, a handful of boiled shrimp the day you're light on other fish or meat dishes. A few olives minced or a spoonful of unstrained olive relish, if you find it in your store, gives a tang that your family or guests will remind you of months later, with requests for more.

Potatoes Or Else

If Irish potatoes are still scarce or high in price in your store, use rice or grits in their place BUT be sure to add some extra milk and greens somewhere in the day's menu to supply the needed Vitamins.

Ever-Useful Onion

Onions are plentiful now and have a variety of uses. They're believed to increase the appetite for other foods served at the meal, which is handy to remember if you're trying to introduce to your family some new, low-point dish and aren't sure of their reaction. They're good Group III material. Put them, boiled, under a white sauce to get the milk quota to ob-fectors in your family. Fried, they're every man's delight.

Householder's Friend

White sauce and hard-boiled eggs are still one of the best meat or poultry stretchers discovered. Serve on toast or rice, with noodles, or in a casserole topped with breadcrumbs. Such dishes add to Groups IV and V, and if you scrape a dash of raw onion juice over the dish just before serving, they'll probably get you applause.

Green Beans

Don't overcook the green beans coming from your garden or the new commercial crop. Easy and quickly done. Vary them from straight boiled, with salt and butter, by the addition of a cheese sauce. Good to eat and good for you. Leftovers (unsauces, please) add their bit to any other cooked vegetable for salad.

More Women Are Urged To Save Fats

Add wartime duties for seven women out of ten: collection of waste kitchen fats. Official estimates say only three women of ten now are saving waste fats and regularly turning in collections to their neighborhood butchers. It sounds a little complicated, but the fact is that waste kitchen fats now are the sole source of fats required in soap-making. And soap-making is the only process by which glycerin can be obtained to supply the urgent needs of the armed forces. Explosives, antiseptics, delicate ship mechanism, all require glycerin.

Use of this chemical compound in all non-essential civilian products was banned in April. Because glycerin is so urgently needed for war, none can be spared to manufacturers of cosmetics, toothpaste, candy, chewing gum, shaving cream, tobacco, and even soap. Each housewife is asked to salvage one tablespoon a day of waste fats from her kitchen, to make up the 200,000,000 pounds a year vitally needed for prosecution of the war.

The monthly quota for the Southwest region, which included the state of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, is 900,000 pounds. The three states, during March, turned in 387,333, the highest mark yet achieved by the region. National collections during the month were 7,312,817 pounds, or 43.9 per cent of the national quota.

CAIRO, May 13 (AP) — British long-range fighters sank a small enemy sailing vessel and damaged at least five others in forays over the Aegean Sea yesterday, a Middle East air communiqué announced today.

Take Advantage Of Low-Point 'Variety' Meats

Maybe you have been slow to take advantage of the low-point items called "variety" meats—liver, brains, sweetbreads, because your family thinks they don't like them. There's considerable variety you may try on these items, and they are valuable sources of that very important Vitamin B1 as well as some other hard-working elements like iron and B2.

Some like liver broiled, with a piece of bacon slipped on after it has been turned, for the last half of the broiling process. Some like it fried with onions and bacon fat. In any case, cook it thoroughly and you may find more takers. Dropping it in boiling water for a few minutes before actual cooking either way is favored by many cooks.

Sweetbreads are now only three points a pound and may be served broiled, fried, creamed or used in salad. Preliminary work in each case is to wash, simmer about twenty minutes in salted water to cover, then allow to cool in the liquid. You'll need a sharp little knife to remove the skin and tough membranes after they've cooled.

Broil sweetbreads in a shallow pan, basting with melted fat. For frying, dip them in beaten egg slightly diluted with water, then sprinkle with flour and salt and fry slowly in plenty of fat. To cream them, cut the cooked sweetbreads in small pieces and make a rich white sauce. This dish, served in patty shells, used to be a delicacy of fine hotels. You'll probably serve it on toast and brighten the plate up with colorful vegetables.

120,000 PRISONERS
LONDON, May 13 (AP)—Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee, formally announcing the end of the campaign in North Africa, told the house of commons today the Allies had taken more than 150,000 prisoners and captured over 1,000 guns, 250 tanks and thousands of motor vehicles.

It's Easier To Get Sugar For Your Canning

It is simpler to get canning sugar this year. Your local War Price and Rationing Board sets the date to begin issuing sugar allowance coupons; and many have already announced it.

You may get one pound of sugar per four quarts of finished fruit, for each member of your family. If you want to make jam or jelly, you may ask for as much as five pounds per person for this purpose. But the sugar you get for both canning and preserving must not total more than 25 pounds per person. This 25-pound limit per person is for the year from March 1, 1943 to February 29, 1944.

You must present War Ration Book No. 1 for each person for whom you ask sugar. The Rationing Board will note on the book the sugar issued for each person.

Don't ask for more sugar than you need. Help make sure your neighbors get what they need too.

Steers Clash With Seniors Friday Night

Game At 8:45 And It's At No Charge

John Dibrell, high school football coach, would count it a good swap to abandon the climatic Steer-Senior football game for a good rain—but in event the rain disappears as per the 1943 custom, the traditional tilt will be played under the Steer stadium lights at 8:45 p. m.

The admission is free, and as some wag observed, anyway it goes, Big Spring will win a game. The high school band, under the baton of Maestro Dan Conley, will furnish music for the occasion.

While the game is rated as a toss-up, the Steers generally shared the opinion of Barkley Wood, racy center, who promised "we'll show 'em a thing or two."

He and his mates have come a long way in spring drills, for they were about as green a lot as ever stepped on the gridiron here when the practice season started. Now they have developed into a fair first line unit with some likely looking reserve material. In some respects, the Steers already is superior to the 1942 team although it lacks a lot of experience.

Experience, incidentally, is the quality upon which seniors are leaning heavily in hopes of knocking off the Steers. Every position will be filled by a senior letterman, although some have been shifted from line to backfield.

Peppy Blount and Wayne Deardarsters with Thomas Clinkscars, Kin and Glenn Brown at tackles, Darrell Webb and Robert Coffey at guards; Billy Bob McDonald at center; and Ernest Bostick, Billy Mims, Red Cagle and John Uirey five men who is perhaps slightly in the backfield.

Gene Smith, a stubborn defender adept at catching passes, and either Peta Cook or Winifred Cunningham, a great pass snatching prospect, will be at ends for the Steers. Noel Hull will be on one tackle while it is a toss-up whether Lee Christian, shifted from guard, or I. B. "Toar" Bryan will start at tackle. Ray Thomas and Harlan Morgan will be guarding ing will be at ends; Bobby Boyliko to see service. Barkley Wood will be the center.

It is probable that Bobo Hardy may get the nod at quarterback, for Leo Rusik, who has been running the job, suffered a nasty gash on his cheek in scrimmage Wednesday. Dewey Stevenson will be at fullback, Bobby Barron at left half, and either John McIntosh or Hugh Cochran at the other half. McIntosh, incidentally, has been showing so much stuff that he is running Cochran a terrific race for that half place.

Tigers Await The Payoff Punch From Dick Wakefield

AP Features

DETROIT—Richard Cummings Wakefield stands apart in baseball because of the record bonus he received for his signature. Now the Detroit Tigers are standing by to see if he'll make good.

If he hadn't been able to hit a baseball so far, Wakefield would be just another senior at the University of Michigan this year putting in his last licks on a diploma. Instead, he is regular left fielder of the Tigers and the object of great attention as the possible rookie of the year.

Wakefield's father, Howard, was a major league catcher a quarter century ago, and Dick, the second of four sons born at Chicago, had a way about him in handling and hitting a baseball. So dad Wakefield spent much time with Dick.

Dick was a catcher in high school, but at Michigan, where former major league pitcher Ray Fisher is coach, he was shifted to the outfield, largely because Michigan already had a pretty good catcher. As a right fielder, Wakefield battled Michigan to the western conference title.

With each booming homer, Wakefield increased his tremendous reputation for major league scouts to the point where the ivory hunters often outnumbered the paying customers. Dick told the mall he wasn't much interested, not just then anyway.

Before Michigan captured the Big Ten crown, Howard Wakefield died, and in the weeks that followed Dick and his mother, Mrs. Frances Wakefield, arrived at the decision that baseball would come first. Dick goes back to school in off seasons.

When school was out two years ago, Wakefield packed his bag and his big bat and toured by league parks to peddle his wares—from Detroit to Cleveland to Cincinnati to Chicago. Each time he belted a fancy assortment of pitches into the stands, and wild bidding for his services naturally developed.

Finally, on June 21, 1941, Wakefield signed with Detroit for a $52,000 bonus (plus a new automobile thrown in by Owner Walter O. Briggs, millionaire automotive executive). Mrs. Wakefield handled the affairs as Dick was then barely 20 years old. They paid $23,000 to Uncle Sam in taxes.

Wakefield, a big grinning kid

DICK WAKEFIELD
Plenty Of Power In Swing

two inches over the six foot mark and 190 pounds, stayed with the Tigers for six weeks after signing. Del Baker, then Detroit's manager, sent him in seven times as a pinch hitter at the return of one single.

The high priced youngster then was sent to Winston-Salem, N. C., of the Piedmont league where in 55 late season games he batted an even .300. With 61 hits he drove in 28 runs for a cellar club.

Last summer, in his first full year in organized ball, he jumped up to the Texas league where he batted .300 and won the seasonal championship under Steve O'Neill, present Tiger manager. Dick won the batting championship at .345, drove in 90 runs with 192 hits and was named the league's most valuable player.

With the Tigers, Wakefield wears uniform No. 2, the numeral the great Charley Gehring carried in his long and illustrious career here.

On the field, Wakefield looks like a carbon copy of Ted Williams. He has an easy left-handed stance at the plate. He throws right-handed and has a strong arm. The nickname of "Whirlaway" grows out of his speed.

Off the field, he looks like any other college boy, except that he puffs on long cigars. He is exceedingly popular with his teammates, particularly among veterans such as Rudy York, Finky Higgins and Roger Cramer. Dick is pretty slick on the billiard table, where he often hooks up with Pitcher Hal White, Tiger cue ace.

Wakefield holds a 3-A draft classification because he is the sole support of his mother and youngest brother. The other two boys are in the armed service.

Sammy Baugh Rated 'Tops' By Navy Lads

AP Features

ATHENS, Ga.—Who is pro football's No. 1 player? Singin' Sammy Baugh, say aviation cadets at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School here.

The question put to Navy's combat flyers of tomorrow was: If you owned a professional football team and one player in the National Football league for your team, whom would you choose?

Their answers proved these cadets air-minded in more ways than one. One out of every four named Baugh, of the Washington Redskins' celebrated backfield player. Next they'd like to have Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers, just as famous a passer-receiver as Baugh is a passer.

Others who scored heavily in the poll included Davy O'Brien, who, like Baugh, gained fame as a pigskin aerial artist at Texas Christian University before he went to the National league as a member of the Philadelphia club, and Sid Luckman, who tossed passes at Columbia before joining the Chicago Cardinals.

Devotees of the ground-school type of play voted for such flashy runners as George McAfee of Duke and the Chicago Bears and wild Bill Osmanski, also of the Bears. Most popular linemen in the poll were Clyde "Bulldog" Turner, the huge center who went to the Bears from Hardin-Simmons University, and Danny Fortmann, the burly guard of Colgate University and the Bears.

Baugh's accurate and bullet-like passes and his long-distance punting, coupled with his not-to-be-sensational running, make him my No. 1 choice," said Cadet M. J. Winick of New Orleans, La.

Cadet C. R. Blalock of Oklahoma City, Okla., admires Baugh's gameness. "Baugh's outstanding ability is well known," commented Cadet Blalock, "and has the respect of all opposing players, as well as his teammates. Baugh isn't a big fellow as pro football players go, but he has never asked any quarter from any of them. He takes beatings that would be hard on much sturdier fellows, but he always comes back and proves all over again his right to stardom."

Football-wise officers at the Pre-Flight School backed up the cadets on their choice of Baugh. "Why that's no question," exclaimed Ensign Frank J. Filchock, former Redskins' back, "there can be only one answer to that. Sammy Baugh is the greatest quick-kicker and punter I have ever seen. He's the best punter I've ever seen. He's a great field-general and he's a good runner and a strong defensive player."

Others who named Baugh as pro football's outstanding player included Lieut. Comdr. Madison "Matty" Bell, former Southern Methodist University mentor; Ensign Ray Mallouf, who was some shaken as a passer himself at SMU and with the Chicago Cardinals; Ensign Bill Davis, former Chicago Cardinal tackle.

M'Nutt Favors Off-Hour Ball

WASHINGTON, May 13. (AP)—Baseball in general, and off-hour contests in particular, received a strong plug today from Paul V. McNutt, the nation's manpower boss.

Approving efforts to accommodate the swing-shift of America's "industrial army," McNutt said he had read of the recent National league morning game between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

"I hope that these games at odd hours work out and draw the crowd that baseball deserves," he added, saying that such a program was in line with a policy which the war manpower commission has long stressed.

Officer Is Killed In Grade Crash

WATERTOWN, Tenn., May 13 (AP)—Major A. P. Meador, 30, of Palestine, Tex., was killed and Private John Allie, 23, of Pen Argyl, Pa., was critically injured late Tuesday when the jeep in which they were riding and a passenger train collided near here during Second army maneuvers.

Major Meador was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital. Allie is expected to recover. Major Meador was a graduate of the 1935 class of Texas A. and M. college.

Natl. Sports Coordinator To Be Named

NEW YORK, May 13. (AP)—A national coordinator for all sports, rumored for nearly a year, is likely to be named by President Roosevelt within a month, and U. S. Senator James Mead, who advocated cancellation of the world series and all star games less than three months ago, is the leading candidate for the job.

Word on the early appointment of such a sports officer came last night from Herbert Maynard Swope, chairman of the New York racing commission and consultant on public policy to the war department.

Swope pointed out also that racing has received a green light from Washington, since both Rubber Administrator William Jeffers and Defense Transportation Boss Joseph Eastman have told him that operation of the turf is being carried on this year with 100 percent cooperation with the war effort.

Less than a year ago, Swope removed himself as a possible candidate for the office of sports coordinator because he felt he was too busy with his various jobs as racing commissioner, war department and head of the turf committee of America.

Huge Fire Started In Duisburg Raid

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—A Canadian who participated in the great raid over Duisburg last night said: "There were lots of really neat fires, but one of them topped anything I have seen. It started with an explosion that shot flames 2,000 feet high. When it died down thick black smoke rose about 6,000 feet."

Another crewman described the

Some Firsts Of The New Ball Season

AP Features
The first tackle of the new baseball season was made by a rookie in his major league debut—Catcher Hugh Poland of the Giants.

It came about as a result of some daffy Dodger base running. On a hit to right, Dixie Walker on second and Dolph Camilli on first started running. When Dixie got half way home he saw he couldn't make it and turned back to third but Camilli was just reaching that bag. So, in the run-down efforts to catch Walker (with Camilli trying to decide whether to stand pat or try to get back to second), Poland fumbled the ball. As he fell trying to grab it, he also lunged at Walker, holding him briefly. The ump ruled this as interference and allowed Walker to score.

Other firsts: first batter, Elmer Valo, A's; first out, Valo; first assist, Catcher Jake Early, Senators; first putout, Jim Vernon, Senators; first stolen base, Ellis Clary, Senators; first strikeout, Bob Johnson, Senators; first error, John Sullivan, Senators; first run, Valo, A's.

All expressed conviction that a huge munition dump had received a direct hit.

Yankees Turn Flinger Into A Flychaser

AP Features
NEW YORK—It is a bit unusual to find a fat and prosperous championship team like the New York Yankees changing players from one position to another to round out a ball club but the wartime manpower shortage has brought this unique situation about.

Hard-pressed for outfielders, after losing Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich and George Selkirk to the armed forces, Marva Joe McCarthy converted pitcher Johnny Lindell into a fly-chaser.

McCarthy never was sweet on Lindell as a chunker but he liked the healthy out Johnny took at the ball. So when things got tough this spring, McCarthy waved Johnny off the mound and into the garden. He hit well during the exhibition games, and opening day found him on the picket line with Charley Keller and Stormy Weatherly.

The shift still is in the experimental stage. Maybe it will pan out and maybe it won't. McCarthy is optimistic.

Public Health Is Important

Not enough importance is attached to the matter of health by the general public, and the consequences is that some of the regulations made and enforced by health authorities are sneeringly criticized and sometimes openly flouted.

The Army is teaching the average citizen something by the regulations it makes on the sanitation of places where food is prepared and served. Unless these places come up to the requirements of the Army the soldier does not eat there, and if necessary the military police are stationed to enforce the rules. The Army has learned that a sick soldier is a liability, and while they will be sick sometimes it will not be from food unfit for consumption if the Army can prevent it.

Less of time in civilian life because of illness and in many cases illness that could easily have been prevented, is enormous, to say nothing of the cost of illness in struggles and doctors services.

The comparatively small amount of money spent from public funds in operating health measures does a surprisingly large amount of good. Fortunately some public authorities are learning that preventive measures against illness are worth more than they cost and the necessary assistance is being given these agencies.

Texas has some cities that maintain efficient health services, and should have many more. Especially should all meats and milk and the sources from which they are derived be under careful and regular inspection. There will be some cost to this but it is far less than the cost of the illnesses that would almost surely result if such inspection and regulations were not made and enforced. The health of the individual is a public concern and should be treated so, and that is what the modern system of health organizations is created for. Preventable illness is an offense against the good and welfare of the Nation.

Washington Daybook—

Black Market Expose Is Due To Come Any Day

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Congressmen and government officials are convinced that the lid will blow off the black market story any minute now.

It probably will come as soon as congress is comfortably settled after the Easter "vacation" and has had an opportunity to commingle with itself on whether conditions are as bad throughout the rest of the United States as they are in Washington.

Meatleggers, javaleggers, gasleggers, spudleggers and the rest are almost as common here as bootleggers were in any metropolitan center in the prohibition era.

My own simple investigations have disclosed:

(1) A congressman was approached by a furtive stranger in the halls of his apartment building and offered one pound of coffee for $1.25. I could use names and places except that the congressman bought it, established connections with this javalegger and has turned in his name to OPA investigators.

(2) A former well-to-do producer man in keeping office hours only in the mornings and driving a taxi in the afternoons and evenings. (Out of the latter he makes about $200 a month.) "It was either get into the black market game or get out of business," he said, "and I have two boys in the army." He told of one of his customers, owner of three groceries, who was screaming for white potatoes. When the produce dealer told him he couldn't get potatoes at any price, the groceryman said, all right, he would go to the black market. "I can get all I want there and I've got hundreds of customers who will buy them at five pounds for $1." (For a month Washington has received only one fifth its normal needs of white potatoes, receipts averaging only one car a day.)

(3) That the liquor black market has become so serious that Rep. Andrew J. May, of Kentucky, demanded the OPA crack down. The OPA has promised to do so, but off the record, some officials assert there isn't manpower enough in the investigation division to pay attention to the small-time black market operators. Because that condition exists in other products, as well as in liquor, the small-time black market is flourishing unpunished throughout the country as well as in the District of Columbia.

(4) That one out of every five auto drivers has little black market books with the names and telephone numbers of gasleggers. The telephone numbers are not used to call for deliveries, as in the days of bootleggers, but to find out if the dealers have any gas on hand before wasting what is in the tank by making the run to the filling station or garage where it is sold.

(5) That the black market in meat, for a time the most flourishing of all, has struck a snag in spoilage. So many butchers have been stung, and so many consumers have been caught the same way or made ill by overripe and unspiced meats, that both public and dealers are beginning to shy away.

Just why the white light of publicity has not been turned on black market operations in this country to a greater extent is a mystery. It's true that responsible officials are reluctant to advertise their inability to cope with the situation, but it also is true that if the public were really aroused to the magnitude of this "flagrant and inexcusable violation of the anti-inflation program," as Mr. May calls it, we might move a long way toward stamping it out.

HIGHWAY TO HER HEART

Chapter 4

Penny stepped through the hatch of the big bi-motored plane for her first close-up of a northern frontier trading post. They'd arrived safely at Hudson's Hope. Immaculate in a gray business suit, Powell preceded her. Cleve, in an old slouch hat and cloaks, trailed along behind.

"I'll look after the luggage," he called. "Meet you at the hotel in a few minutes."

Penny wasn't listening. The marvelous view of river, mountains and canyon held her attention. Below them, in its out-of-the-valley, was the mighty Peace. Across on the far side, sweeping up the slope and off to the horizon, she could see the massed green of spruce and jack-pine.

Stark wilderness everywhere around her. It was breathtaking, mysterious and—and a little frightening, too. Somewhere in this rugged land fate had dumped Bill.

She said to Powell, "Well, what do you think of it?"

He paused to take her arm. "It looks a bit bleak," he said. "I'm afraid the accommodations won't be any too good."

Penny laughed. Powell was referring to the town and the hotel. The impact of the country itself had escaped him. He'd completely overlooked the gorgeous setting for this poky little settlement of log shacks and cluttered houses.

He hadn't even seen the three Indian tepees down there on the first bench of the river.

"I think it's wonderful," Penny said, breathing deeply. "Air tangy with pine. Everything new and clean and primitive."

The hotel was called Baird's Stopping Place. Men in top boots clanked through the door. On the rough board walk outside were small groups of trappers and prospectors with hoary heads and time-grooved faces, half-breeds and Indians.

Everyone stared at Penny. She went in with Powell to register, looking curiously around. Fire crackled in the great hearth at one end of the high-beamed room. There were shaggy skins on the rough-hewn floor, antlered heads on the walls.

"What are we going to do first?" she asked. "Look up the mounted policeman?"

Mr. Baird, the proprietor, came forward to meet them. Baird wore a dark woolen shirt, open at the throat, and a pair of moccasins. When he walked, his feet seemed to whisper.

He shook hands with them. He said, "Did you bring your bedrolls?"

"Powell stared. "Certainly not!"

"I think I can provide sheets and blankets for the young lady, and a room for her." He smiled at Penny.

Powell bristled. "But what about Mr. Rockwell, my assistant and myself?" he asked. "We'll want separate rooms, of course."

Baird shook his head. "In this country," he said, "everyone brings his own bedroll and bunks on the floor."

Powell choked. He looked at Penny. Then he yanked at his tie.

"I didn't know what we were getting into."

"It'll be fun to rough it!" Penny glanced about her approvingly. "Don't you see, Powell, it will be like camping out."

Powell said, "What I object to is camping in."

Penny burst out laughing. He joined her ruefully.

"How long are you planning to stay?" asked Mr. Baird.

"A week or two, I imagine," answered Powell.

As he was getting over his huff at the thought of camping in the adventure of this experience. He squeezed her arm.

"We'll manage somehow." Then, to Baird: "Do the best you can for us. I won't spare any expense."

Behind them something thumped loudly on the floor. It was Cleve with their luggage, camera and equipment, and Penny's firstaid kit and box of goodies for Bill. Cleve had hired two half-breeds to fetch it all down here. He was grinning and holding a fluffy ball in his arms.

"See what I picked up," he said. "A malamute pup."

Penny shouted delightedly. "A real husky! Oh, look, Powell, isn't he cute?"

"He's almost pure wolf," Cleve said. "Look at his pointed ears, his thick coat. He's all yours, Penny. Here, I bought him for you."

"Cleve—you don't mean it!"

Powell said, "He looks like a thoroughbred, all right. Thanks, old man. He'll be company for Penny."

They were all in wonderful good humor. Penny took the puppy from Cleve and hugged it to her, shining-eyed. Presently Mr. Baird showed her to her room. It was clean and bright with a nice view of the river. She un-

'For Whom The Bells Toll' Is Long--And Very Good

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Most of us haven't seen "For Whom The Bells Toll" at all, and won't until it's released in July, but there's a man in town who has seen it every day for nearly 40 days.

The "Bell" is that picture Paramount is so proud and secretive about, so secretive they scarcely mention it except in loud yells and huzzahs, so hush-hush that nobody at Paramount (except maybe the few tops) can get a look.

And the man who has seen the "Bell" so much is Sherman Todd, who is an associate producer at RKO. That shows how, things being equal, they aren't Todd lent himself to Paramount to be film editor on the "Bell" and cut it down to size, but it's still about the longest movie Hollywood ever made—longer than "Gone With the Wind." And good, very good, says Todd. . . .

Warner Baxter, after "Crime Doctor," can be sure he'll be a popular guy no matter how the movie turns out. He's been made chairman of the gasoline rationing board in the Malibu district. He'll be popular, that is, with some. . . .

They've put up a circus tent at 20th to house the overflow for the lot's plaster department—a busy place since materials began getting scarce. Plaster, cheap and plentiful, can duplicate any number of priority materials—shingles, board siding, corrugated iron, wood flooring, metal fixtures, etc. There's plaster all over the big Lourdes village set for "The Song of Bernadette," plaster that fools the camera. The department has doubled its staff, works 10 hours a day. . . .

They're putting so much civilian talent into "This Is the Army" that the question is sure to come up: Is it? . . .

True words department (spoken by the Devil in "Heaven Can Wait"): ". . . we're so busy down here—really, sometimes it looks as if the whole world is coming to hell! . . ."

When Humphrey Bogart was on location in the desert for "Somewhere in Sahara," his hotel boasted a bellhop named Mario, a 16-year-old boy who became the movie's mascot. One day Mayo Method (Mrs. Bogart) asked Mario if he liked the Bogart role—a Yankee tank commander who keeps Afrika Korps Nazis from taking an old Sahara fortress.

Saved From Death Biggest Thrill Of A War Hero

By JOHN L. SPRINGER

AF Features Writer

NEW YORK—The most exciting experience of America's No. 1 flying ace Capt. Joe Foss was the time he was shot down at sea and saved from death—because he couldn't swim.

The curly-haired, 28-year-old Marine captain, who has knocked out 26 planes to equal Eddie Rickenbacker's record in World War I, didn't let the experience stop him. Five days later he went up again to shoot down three more Zeros. And he has since learned to swim.

Joe is back from the Solomons for a rest at his home in Falls, S. D., where his mother and brother now live. Then he's going to visit war plants to boost morale and later—he hopes—go back for more hunting. But as for his nearest scrape with death—

"It started on a routine flight of the eight planes in our 'Flying Circus' from Henderson Field," Joe recalls. "I was the flight leader, but was last in line when we started going down to strafe Jap shipping."

"Then I saw a reconnaissance plane, and decided to get him. As I moved in, I sort of visualized what I thought would happen—like a boxer in the ring, waiting for an opening.

"I guess I must have thought too long, because I misjudged his speed, giving the rear gunner a chance to cut loose with his free guns.

"One of his bullets swished past the hood—an inch from my face—and into the windshield. I could see other holes all over my plane. It took only a couple of seconds, but I got sore and made up my mind I was going to get that guy."

"I turned back and shot him down. Another reconnaissance plane came along, and I shot him down, too."

Joe grinned. "The other planes in my flight were all gone by now, and as I headed home the motor started missing.

"I was off my course, 60 or 80 miles from Henderson Field. There was only one thing to do. I saw an island in the distance, but the prospects of reaching it were none too good.

"I glided the plane to a water landing. I finally got out.

"But I couldn't swim much, and it was getting dark. That island was about 5 miles away and I wondered how I was ever going to reach it."

It was long waiting out there in the ocean, and growing darker. His "Mae West" life jacket held him up, and he kept stroking for that island.

"My swimming wasn't very good, I wasn't making much headway, and it began to look farther every minute," Joe said.

After more waiting—and more praying—Joe saw a lantern blinking from a small ship. "I was afraid to call out—it might have been Japs," he explained.

"Finally a voice said clearly, 'Let's look over here.'

Solons Again Ignore Law On State Redistricting

AUSTIN, May 13. (UP)—The 48th legislature, like its predecessor, flouted the constitutional directive to re-district the state at the end of each decade. Though recommended by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, bills on legislative and judicial redistricting were ignored by both house and senate. Not in two decades have Texas legislative districts been revamped, though the constitution stipulates that this shall be done by the legislature on the basis of the federal census. The house last week turned thumbs down by a one vote margin on a resolution authorizing a committee of 11 members to prepare a reassignment of judicial districts and present it to the next legislature. Early in the session the house committee on congressional and legislative districts sent to the floor with a favorable report two measures to remold the state's 159 legislative districts. A sub-committee drawn bill proposed to increase West Texas' representation in the legislature. Rep. Charles H. Young's bill would have allotted fewer seats to West Texas than the sub-committee measure. By Rep. Harley Sadler of Sweetwater and others, the sub-committee bill proposed to reduce the number of floral representatives from 21 to 19 and to lump similar industries wherever possible in the same district.

Transportation In Akron Tied Up By Strike

AKRON, O., May 13. (UP)—A strike by CIO bus and street operators today tied up Akron's mass transportation system, making thousands of war workers dependent upon motorists to get to their jobs on time.
The operators, members of the CIO transport workers union, threatened a strike several weeks ago to enforce wage demands, but continued working at request of the war labor board which has union pay demands under consideration.

New AA Gun Developed

By FRANK CAREY

EL PASO, May 13 (AP)—American anti-aircraft strength is being bolstered by development of a new gun designed to match a five-incher believed in the possession of the Germans.

Brig. Gen. W. L. Richardson, brigade commander at Fort Bliss, told newsmen making a transcontinental tour of war installations that the new anti-aircraft gun is comparable to that Germany is using in defense of its cities.

The calibre of the new weapon cannot be disclosed, Gen. Richardson said, but it is semi-mobile.

Gen. Richardson also disclosed that the efficiency of American aircraft, shooting against unseen targets at night and in fog, is approaching the status of firing against visual targets. He said that "radar" is the instrument designed to locate unseen aircraft by radio and direct anti-aircraft fire to it automatically, is permitting us to fire almost as effectively against unseen targets at night as we do against visual ones in the daytime.

Gen. Richardson spoke during a spectacular night demonstration of anti-aircraft firing with 50 searchlights of 80,000,000 candlepower lighting the sky as 50 calibre machine guns and 40 and 90 millimeter guns fired at towed targets. Radio controlled planes and rockets travelling 400 miles an hour were used as targets. They are eight feet long, have a wingspread of 12 feet and are powered by a six-horsepower engine. They can stay in the air for an hour and 10 minutes on five quarts of gasoline and can be made to maneuver like a full-size plane.

When the radio-controlled plane is hit seriously and begins to fall, a parachute opens automatically.

Heavier Planes Coming Off The Line -- 75,000 This Year

HEAVIER PLANES—2-30 WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt's new 1943 aircraft production goal—911,000—000 pounds—apparently means about 75,000 planes.

While this figure is much smaller than his original goal of 125,000 planes, announced early in the war, this year's output figured on a weight basis will equal 150,000 planes of the 1942 vintage.

In 1942, the first year of real mass production, this country produced about 45,000 planes of all types with a total weight of 291,000,000 pounds, or an average of approximately 6,000 pounds per plane.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board predicts that the 1943 models will have an average weight twice as great as last year's. So 911,000,000 pounds of planes, each averaging 12,000 pounds, would mean between 75,000 and 76,000.

Mr. Roosevelt translated aircraft production, past and projected, into pounds to fully reflect the emphasis on heavier planes, particularly the growing output of 4-engine bombers specially designed to carry the war to the enemy.

Next year's goal, as announced by the president, is 1,417,000,000 pounds. Assuming a further average increase in weight of 25 per cent—from 12,000 to 15,000 pounds per plane—this would mean about 90,000 planes.

Memorial Service Planned For May 30 At Colorado City

COLORADO CITY, May 13. — Plans for an all-county Memorial Day service to be held at Rudwick Park in Colorado City on Sunday evening, May 30, are being formulated by a committee of representatives from the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary, and the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The Rev. H. H. Black, state chaplain of the American Legion and chaplain of the Oren C. Hooker post, Mrs. J. G. Merritt, and Mrs. Charles C. Thompson are the committee members.

The program will honor the dead of all wars and will include numbers from members of all faiths from throughout Mitchell county.

Buses Traveling Alcan Highway

WHITEHORSE, Y. T., May 13. (AP)—The spring thaw damaged the Alaskan highway less than feared and already buses like those on the highways in the states amaze settlers deep in the heart of the northland.

During the dry and comparatively warm months ahead, Brig-Gen. James A. O'Connor, commanding general of the northwest service command, is confident the first land route in history to Alaska will become a permanent year-around road.
