Governor Main Race In Run Off

The Second or Run-off Democratic Primary for Texas is coming up Saturday, with main interest centered in the race for Governor. The contenders, John Connally and Don Yarborough, have been campaigning vigorously since they emerged high in the First Primary on May 5th.

Connally has been said to have the big moneyed interests and the Lyndon Johnson machine backing him, while most of the liberal element has gone for Yarborough.

Connally emerged tops of six candidates May 5 and his victory in the run-off is taken for granted by many observers. But Yarborough might foot those experts and win. This would amount to the greatest upset in a Texas gubernatorial race since 1938 when "Pappy" O'Daniel won without a run-off over a large slate of contenders.

Preston Smith and Jimmy Turman are candidates for Lieutenant Governor, while the Attorney General's race has Waggoner Carr and Tom Reavley running.

Still farther down on the ballot will be Woodrow Wilson Bean and Joe Pool for Congressman-at-Large, and John C. Phillips and Tom Ferguson for associate justice, Court of Civil Appeals.

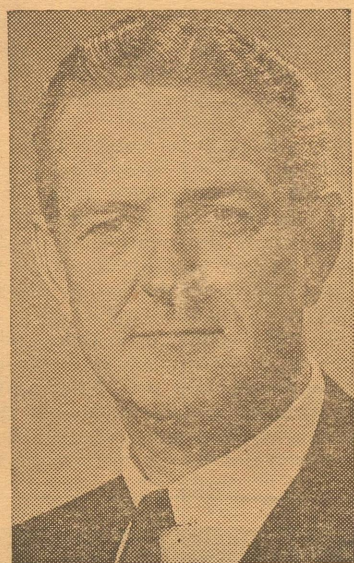

Here in Schleicher county there is only one local-level run-off race. Precinct 2 voters will choose between Gene McCalla and incumbent Grat Edmiston for their commissioner.

Polls will open Saturday morning at 8:00 at the various voting places over the county, and close at 7:00 p.m.

With passing of the deadline at 5:00 p.m. Tuesday for voting absentee, a total of 19 had voted in the county clerk's office, including a few mailed out and not yet received back.

The Run-Off Democratic Primary has in the past usually drawn a light vote; at least considerably fewer voters usually turn out than do for the first Primary. It remains to be seen just how the recent active campaigning among candidates for top-level offices will affect the voter turnout Saturday, on both the local and state levels.

Herman West Funeral Held Here Yesterday

Funeral services for Herman West, 73, brother of Palmer and Jimmie West, were held at the First Baptist church in Eldorado yesterday (Wed.) at 2:00 p.m., conducted by the Rev. C. M. Nyquist, pastor of the First Methodist church. Interment was made in the Eldorado cemetery.

H. L. (Herman) West was born on August 13, 1888 in Bell county near Killeen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. West, who moved to Schleicher county as pioneer citizens around the turn of the century.

Herman was married on April 15, 1914, to Maudie Lohman, and for many years was an employee of the Santa Fe railroad. In later years he ranched near the Mexican border country. His death occurred at Presidio, Texas, on Monday, May 28, at 8:30 a.m., at the age of 73 years, 9 months and 15 days.

He is survived by his wife, Maudie, of Presidio, and 2 daughters, Miss Venita West of Presidio, and Mrs. Dudley K. Brummett of Lubbock, and two grandsons. Also surviving are five sisters: Bertha West Elder of Arlington, Texas; Mrs. C. T. Womack of San Angelo; Mrs. Howard Bowder of Germantown, Tenn.; Mrs. Coralie Mebane of Tyler, Texas; and Mrs. W. C. Mund of Douglass, Texas; and two brothers, Palmer and Jimmie West of Eldorado.

More Boy Scouts Needed For Camp, Watson Says

The local Boy Scout troop is scheduled to leave June 10th to spend a week at Camp Fawcett, but because of the new driver's education program going on at school, several of the older boys in the unit have had to back out of going.

Fred Watson, troop committee man and counselor, stated this week that he would take five or more Boy Scouts to camp but that as of now, only two definitely were planning to go.

More Scouts, 11, 12, and 13 years old are needed to go to camp for the week starting June 10, he pointed out.

Full information on the camp is available from Mr. Watson, including camp fee, medical forms required, equipment and gear needed, etc.

All Scouts interested in attending camp have been requested to meet Monday night at 7:00 at the Scout hall to work out final plans. If fewer than five plan to attend camp, the trip will be called off, Mr. Watson concluded.

Williams received a Baccalaureate Degree in Agricultural Economics.

Homecoming and Dedication Sunday Scheduled at First Methodist Church

All former members, pastors, and friends of the First Methodist church here in Eldorado have been invited back for the church homecoming program and dedication service to be held this Sunday, June 3rd.

C. M. Nyquist, pastor for the past 1 1/2 years, and recently appointed for another year by the Annual Conference, reports that plans for the event are about complete.

All visiting ministers, former members, and out of town friends will be guests of the local congregation for the noon meal, to be served by Orland Harris.

Sunday will start as usual with Sunday school at 9:45.

At 10:45, the morning service will be highlighted by dedication of the educational building and the memorial stained glass windows. Bishop Paul V. Galloway of San Antonio will officiate at the dedication and the Rev. Lawrence K. Brown, district superintendent from San Angelo, will also be on hand.

The educational building was planned during the pastorate of Rev. Doyle Morton and completed during the pastorate of M. C. Stearns. The congregation paid off the last of the indebtedness six months ago and since then $7,500 has been spent improving the church and parsonage property. The major items are: the 14 stained glass windows; the central heating and air conditioning system; the redecoration of the parsonage and some new furnishings. There are also several other minor improvements.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hale are donors of a registry desk for the foyer which is a combination registry and memorial stand. It has been ordered and may be here in time for Sunday.

The two picture windows in the vestibule are the first ones seen by persons entering the church. One of these is in memory of Mrs. Margaret Hill Whitten and the other is in memory of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Benton and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Meador, Sr.

The 12 windows inside the church are memorialized as follows:

In Memory of Our Departed W.S.C.S. Members.

The McGinnes Family.

In Memory of Mrs. Fred Gunstead.

In Memory of Bertha Elizabeth Dudley.

In Memory of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. DeLong.

In Memory of Lt. David Elworth DeLong.

In Memory of Mr. J. H. O'Harrow.

In Memory of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bearce.

In Memory of Mr. V. J. Tisdale.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Wright.

In Memory of Edith Meador by her family.

In Memory of John Ford Oglesby, Sr.

The choir under direction of Miss Lynda McGinnes will present special music at the dedication, accompanied by Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Ogden at the organ and piano.

Dinner and Homecoming

At the noon hour, dinner will be served and there will be opportunity for people to visit until 2:30 p.m., time set for the homecoming service.

The Rev. Roy B. Shilling, who was pastor of the church from 1943 to 1952, will preach at the 2:30 service. This will be more than a preaching service, however. W. H. Hale, the general program chairman, will preside and other laymen will give the "story" of the stained glass windows and other memorials. There will also be a period of reminiscing.

In addition to Roy Shilling of Del Rio who will preach at the afternoon service, other former ministers who have stated that they plan to be on hand include Russell Heaner of McCamey and Doyle Morton of Sonora. Also M. C. Stearns of San Antonio may be here.

Widows of former pastors who may be here include Mrs. Young and Mrs. Connell.

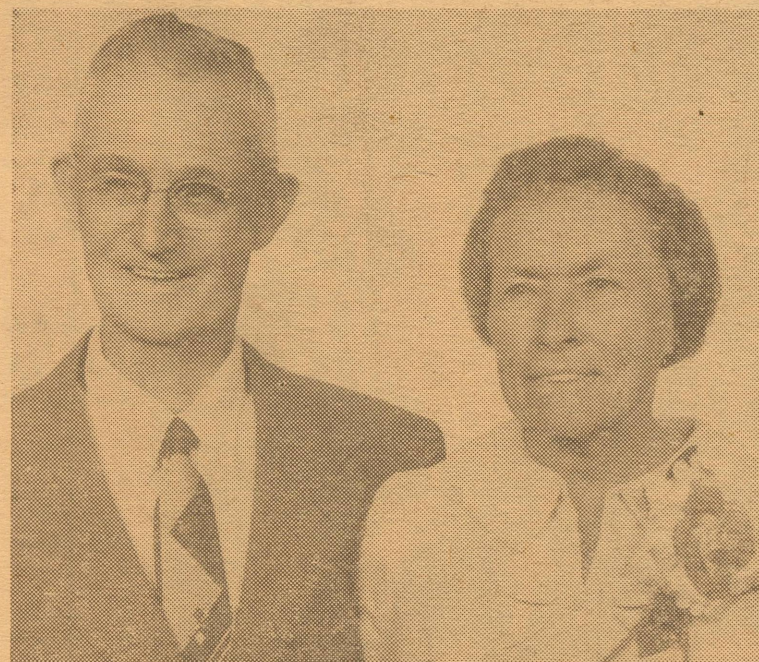

Mrs. Bill Rozean and Kay Peters will have charge of the music for this service.

History Goes Back To 1899

Methodist preaching was here before the county was officially organized; early in 1899 Rev. J. N. Broyles started holding Methodist services in Eldorado and the county was organized in 1901. In November of 1900 Rev. Broyles was appointed to Eldorado and 25

Strip of Hail Damage to Crops In Monday Storm

While storms were wandering all over West Texas on Monday, Schleicher county was visited by an innocent looking disturbance that proved to be more damaging than first appearances would indicate.

For about 15 minutes late Monday Eldorado experienced hard winds that sent trash and weeds flying through the air, and there was a brisk shower of rain that measured only about 2-tenths, accompanied by a little fine hail. Then it was all over and the skies cleared.

Residents were surprised a little later when travelers coming in on the Big Lake road reported that ditches a few miles west of town were white with drifted hail, and furrows on cultivated fields were standing in water.

Out around Gene Edmiston's and back this way to the Crabb place there was evidence of hail but it didn't look too serious. But appearances must have been deceiving for it developed that there was more damage than realized.

Jno. Mayo reported that it had cleaned his crop of young, tender cotton which had just been cultivated and hoed out. It was real fine hail, he said, but lots of it. "This is my fifth irrigated cotton crop," said Mayo, "and I've been hailed out six times!"

As of Tuesday morning he said it would be hard to tell just how badly his crop was hurt and he feared that it was pretty late to try to replant. "I guess I'll just go fishing a few days and then come back and decide."

Sam Gausemeier said that his place as well as his neighbors in the Bailey ranch area, all suffered hail damage. The cotton crop on Parker Bros. in Bailey Ranch (leased by Gene Moore) was severely damaged, and his 12 acres of onions were "flat on the ground."

Others mentioned as being in the damaged area included Lester Nixon, Aaron Steward and Bill McWhorter.

Reynolds community got two or three tenths of rain, but no hail.

Storms were scattered all over the area Monday. San Angelo had vicious winds and hail and at Tankersly there must have been some kind of a twister as the roof was blown off a new building at Boys Ranch.

Get-Acquainted Party Held For Oil Employees

A get-acquainted party, featuring a picnic supper, was held at Christoval park on Wednesday night, May 23, for the combined crews of Plymouth and Ohio oil companies. The Ohio Oil company recently bought out Plymouth and the work of both are now consolidated under one management. Plymouth's operations in this area have been mostly concentrated in the Susan Peak area and most of their crew have been located at Christoval.

Attending the picnic from Eldorado were members of the Ohio crew: Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Dewey Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Hale and Mike, Mr. and Mrs. William Jarrett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Newport and Genie, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hartley and family and her mother.

The Susan Peak crew included Mr. and Mrs. James A. McCollum, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Emerson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Pratt and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Saulas and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Wallace and family, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Wiggins and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Baker were unable to attend.

CAR BURNED UP

A late model Chevrolet Impala belonging to Charles West caught fire while parked on the court house area late Sunday night and the interior was completely gutted before firemen put out the flames.

The vehicle was unoccupied and had been parked there for several hours when it was discovered on fire and an alarm turned in about 11:20 p.m. Among the personal possessions which were in the car was a transistor radio and a high powered rifle, both of which were ruined.

Home Demonstration Agent's Column
By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

Home Demonstration club members have been featuring "country suppers" at their meetings during May, and so far every seems to be liking the fare very much. We had several things in mind when we decided on this demonstration since we wanted something that would be good, inexpensive, quick and easy.

The following menu is what we came up with and you might like to try a dish or two:

Country Supper

- Ranch style eggs
- Kidney Bean Relish
- Mixed green salad
- Buttered French Bread
- Quickie Pie
- Milk, tea, or coffee according to who is going to drink it.

Ranch Style Eggs

Follow these steps:
Put 2 tablespoons fat (your choice) in skillet.
Place skillet on low flame.
Add 3 chopped green onions or one small onion to fat.
Cook until onion is tender.
Drain one can Rotel, add to onion mixture, and heat well.
Beat six eggs, and add to skillet.
Stir until soft and creamy.
Add 3/4 to 1 cup grated sharp cheese to eggs. Stir until cheese is melted. Add salt and pepper. Serve with toast or hot bread.

You may not know what Rotel is. It is a canned tomato mixture with hot green peppers added when canned. Let your own taste for hot peppers guide you as to how much you use.

Kidney Bean Relish

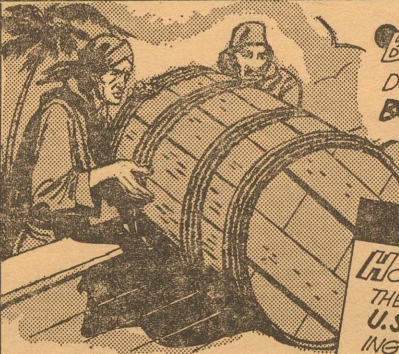

- (Recipe for 1 can beans)
- 1 can kidney beans
 - 1/4 cup salad oil
 - 1/4 cup vinegar
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - salt and pepper to taste
 - 1 small onion chopped, or 2 or 3 chopped green onions.
- Let stand 2 or 3 hours in the refrigerator; overnight is better and the beans may be kept several days in the refrigerator.

This mixture came from the inventive mind of Mrs. Hollis McCormick and B says to, again, use your own taste as a guide. Too much of anything? Cut it down. Lots of people like to have these beans in the refrigerator as an addition to any meal.

This Cherry Sauce is a part of the Quickie Pie. Make some pie crust circles to fit the size dish you always use to serve dessert. Make this—or any other fruit sauce. Spoon into a serving dish, top with a pastry circle, further decorate with a spoonful of whipped cream or leave it off and you have a quickie pie.

Have you seen the canned fruit, cherry and blue berry, I believe, pie filling which you can buy today? It's good and again, I say,

THAT'S A FACT

In today's mail I got an inquiry about any farm or ranch families in the county which might qualify as master farmers.

Slow down and read the following carefully:

Ten Tests Of A Master Farm Family

1. How far have they come from where they started?
 2. How far will they travel in the years before them?
 3. What do their neighbors think of them?
 4. Would you be proud to hold a meeting on their farm or in their home and point them out as masters of their craft?
 5. Will they continue to grow, as long as they live, as farmers and home makers, as citizens so that they will become more and more a 100% Master Farm Family?
 6. Are they upholding the standards which agricultural forces and the progressive farmer have pointed to and insisted were basic to successful farming, homemaking, and citizenship?
 7. What have they done to make farming and farm life of their community, their county, and their state sounder economically, more attractive, more satisfying and more stable?
 8. How have they dealt with those who have worked with them?
 9. What have they done for their children? What have their children done?
 10. Will their increased influence as a Master Farm Family inspire other farm families to carry out recommended practices?
- Do you know anyone who can pass the test? Don't be too hard on yourself, but what kind of a rating do you deserve?
Isn't wonderful that report cards are not sent to the children, too?

Reservists Have Close Call With Tank

United States Army Reservists from the surrounding area who were training in Sonora on Sunday, May 27, put their 20-ton M-40 tank out of commission on this last training period before leaving for their annual active duty training tomorrow, June 1, at midnight. The accident occurred on the road which goes along the railway thru the housing area built several years ago by a gas pipe line company. No one was hurt in the mishap.

As usual, the tank crewmen took the tank out for a training run down the road which is commonly used for Reserve tank driver training. A shower had left a slick place on the road and the tank skidded slightly. The driver corrected for the skid but ran over the railroad track at a speed of about 15 miles an hour. The right track was broken and the tank which was almost out of control with only the left track, crossed the road and ran through the railway right-of-way fence and broke down the Railway Crossing sign with its heavy post. Sgt. Charles Haynes of Sonora who was instructing the driver from on top of the tank narrowly missed serious injury when the heavy Railway Crossing post just brushed his head.

The accident occurred at about 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. A tank retriever from Fort Hood had not rescued the tank but was expected to transport it to Ft. Hood for repairs this week.

Lt. Arlan L. Fenner, officer in charge of the Sonora Reservists, said that the tank had not been scheduled for use in training at Fort Polk.

Two Eldorado Reservists received last minute deferments from the Fort Polk training when their requests for deferment were favorably considered by Reserve Headquarters at Austin. Both Eldorado Reservists are engaged in farming and the two weeks break in their farming operations at this time would be costly. Both will probably request alternate training this fall.

The realignment is supposed to help streamline and modernize the reserve structure, making the various units fit more properly into modern-day needs.

Recently, a sub-committee of the House Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, has been holding hearings on the entire reserve program, and this includes the proposed realignment. While the Congress does not dictate to the military how divisions and other units are to be organized, it is a proper function of the Congress to investigate plans and programs, and express its opinion about the adequacy and effectiveness of such developments.

Our committee is apprehensive of any changes that would affect the basic structure of existing National Guard units. The National Guard, unlike other reserves, is under control of the states. They serve not only a military purpose when called into federal service but also are available for call by Governors to deal with disasters, riots, etc.

National Guard units are now located in Brownwood, San Angelo, Coleman, Santa Anna, Kerrville, Ballinger, Lampasas, Brady and Fredericksburg.

The morale in each of these units is excellent, according to all reports. They serve a very vital purpose in providing convenient training for reservists who are by law required to train for certain periods. In that respect they implement other reserve units.

We are doing everything possible to convince the Department of Defense that it would not be in the national interest to disrupt the present arrangement except for possible changes of missions to coincide with the realignment plan.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman
O. C. FISHER

Following months of study by the Department of Defense and the various services, a realignment program has been announced for our reserve forces. It will affect the National Guard as well as other reserve units. The plan visualizes a net reduction of personnel of about 10%.

It is contended that the reorganization will better adapt the Reserve Components structure to the needs of the present day, to the type of war which is most likely to occur in these times, and to the requirements of today's Army.

The Defense Department says that the call-up which took place last Fall demonstrated that our Reserve and National Guard systems are fundamentally sound and absolutely essential to our national security, but that the study has revealed that certain units are either obsolete or are in excess of the needs of any future call-up.

Methodist ...

Methodist preachers have followed in his footsteps. The first church building was completed in 1903 and was the first house of worship in the new county. As other denominations came in they used the Methodist building for their worship services and often the Sunday Schools were combined.

The family of Mrs. A. L. Jones, the McCartneys, were here before Rev. Broyles started preaching, and she still attends the local church every Sunday. Mrs. V. G. Tisdale is the member with longest membership record. Herman Murchison was one of four to be baptized by Rev. Broyles on the 11th day of August in 1901, and he is in Eldorado.

The old frame church structure which stood on part of the present schoolgrounds was replaced in 1938 by the present pink brick church.

In 1944 the church was gutted by a fire, and in rebuilding the interior, the congregation started work on the present brick parsonage, which was completed in 1945, while the late Rev. F. B. Faust was pastor.

Subsequent acquisition of more adjacent land paved the way for building the educational building, now being dedicated. A master plan for landscaping the church grounds was adopted some time ago and is gradually being carried out.

Other interesting facts on the church history will be brought out at the homecoming.

Recital Well Received

Joe Stanford's voice recital was well received Tuesday night in the school auditorium by a sizable audience which turned out to hear his program and sacred and secular songs.

The first part of the program included woks by Mendelssohn, Haydn, and Dvorak, and was closed with "The Holy City" by Adams-Weatherly.

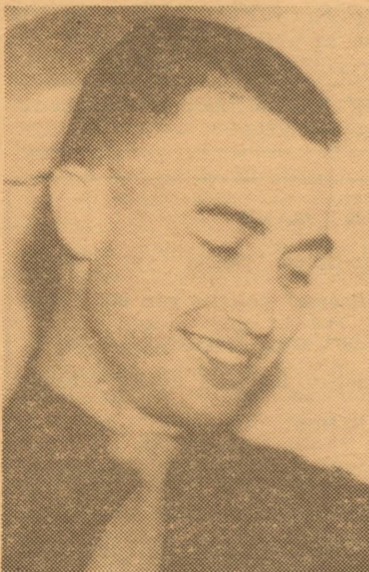

Following the intermission, lighter works by Mililotti, Brahms, Klein, Hutchinson and Sacco were presented.

Joe is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Truett Stanford and is a student of Miss Lois Smith at Baylor University, where he is a senior.

Livestock Producers Can Backtag Their Cattle

A new method for screening market cattle for brucellosis will make the job of keeping Schleicher county on the modified-certified list much easier.

Cattle being sold for beef are identified with a special back tag at the ranch or assembly points on the way to market. Blood samples are collected from the tagged animals at the packing plant or other designated points. The samples are then forwarded to a testing laboratory and the results to disease control officials.

Negative animals are credited to herds and areas of origin and veterinarians work directly with herd owners until the disease problem is cleared up.

Under the new method, counties can be recertified if at least five per cent of all breeding cattle in the county are tested each year OR a total of 15% for each three-year period. Only female cattle three years of age or older are back-tagged and tested.

Livestock owners who have missed previous meetings or have misplaced former memorandums in regard to backtagging are invited to come by the county agent's office for backtagging kits and additional information.

What this country needs is a good nickel cup of coffee!

A nickel goes a long way (like in the good ole' days) when you make your coffee the modern way — with clean, safe, flameless electricity.

Approximately 100* generous, delicious cups for a nickel! And this is only one example for the economy of electricity in your modern living. As a matter of fact, between the years of 1950 and 1960, the average cost of a kilowatt hour of electric service to residential customers served by West Texas Utilities Company went down 21%.

Gas Field Exhibit To Be Set Up Here At First National Bank

The animated story of a natural gas field, "transplanted" 700 miles into the heart of the market, will be on display for viewers in the Eldorado area from June 4 thru June 8. It will be exhibited at the First National Bank.

Northern Natural Gas Company has designed the unique creation to demonstrate how rock formations beneath Iowa farmland have been converted to a huge gas storehouse for the Northern Plains.

The 12,500-acre leased storage area near Redfield, Iowa, has an estimated capacity of 140 billion cubic feet of natural gas. It is controlled by 104 injection, withdrawal and observation wells reaching about 3,000 feet into the earth.

Incorporated into the replica to be seen here is a telephone tape narrating each step of the Redfield operation. Gas actually is utilized to show how the supply stream is forced underground displacing water in the sandstone—and how water re-fills the sponge rock when the fuel is withdrawn.

Redfield's reservoir can deliver more than 200 million cubic feet of gas a day back into Northern's transmission lines when needed to meet winter requirements. Gas is injected into the reservoir during periods of the year when demand in the market is less than the capacity of main lines from supply wells in the Southwest.

S. S. Monthly Payments Total $10,995 in County

Old-age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits are becoming increasingly important as a community resource according to Floyd B. Ellington, district manager of the San Angelo office of the Social Security Administration.

$10,995 is paid monthly in social security benefits in Schleicher county. This is an increase of about 31% over last year's figures. While the benefits are intended primarily for the beneficiaries' economic security, they help business in the community generally. Most of the money is spent immediately for food, clothing, and other necessities.

At the present time, social security benefits are being paid at a rate of over one billion dollars a month. "There are several reasons for the increase," Mr. Ellington said. There are more aged people; benefits are now payable at age 62; and less social security credit is needed to meet the eligibility requirements for benefits.

The average old-age benefit nationally for December 1961 was $75.65 for a retired worker. In the state of Texas, the average benefit was $68.23.

The table below shows the number and amount of each type of benefit being paid in Schleicher county, as of December 31, 1961, the date of the latest available tabulation:

Beneficiary Group & no. of beneficiaries	Total Of Payments
Retired Worker, 100	$6,856
Wife or Husband, 43	$1,393
Widow or Widower, 19	$1,056
Mothers & children, 41	$1,119
Disabled workers, dep., 17	$ 804

Welding Short Course For Farmers Is Set

JOEL R. BARTON

A farm welding short course for adult farmers will be held June 4-8 under the sponsorship of the Eldorado High School Vocational Agriculture Department, according to A. M. Whitis, superintendent, and Oliver Burk, teacher of Vocational Agriculture.

Mr. Joel R. Barton, welding specialist with the Vocational Agriculture Division of the Texas Education Agency and the department of Agricultural Engineering at Texas A&M College, will do the instructing in the course. He is headquartered at Texas A&M College.

Mr. Barton is a native of Glasscock county, Texas, and was reared on a West Texas ranch. He attended grade school in San Angelo and graduated from high school at Big Lake. He holds a B. S. degree in animal husbandry from Texas A&M. After five years as a pilot in the U. S. Air Force, Mr. Barton served as an agricultural specialist in Texas State hospitals and special schools. In addition to regular classes, he set up farm shops and gave instruction in farm welding and general farm repair.

"Many welding short courses in various parts of the state have been taught by Mr. Barton and all have met with outstanding success," according to Hulan Harris, area supervisor of vocational agriculture, Big Spring. Arrangements for the adult education short course in welding and in other fields are made through Mr. Harris' office.

The short course at Eldorado is scheduled to begin June 4 at 7:30 on the Nick Jurecek farm. Other meetings in the series will be held June 5 through 8. During the dates the short course is in progress, Mr. Barton will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Mr. Burk.

Farmers interested in attending the short course should write or call the superintendent of schools, A. M. Whitis, or the teacher of Vocational Agriculture, Oliver Burk. An entry fee of $5.00 will be charged. Farm Welding Short Course Certificates will be presented to each enrollee who attends all the training sessions.

Mr. Barton states that the short course will be adjusted to wishes and interests of farmers enrolled but that he expects to cover such subjects as safety in welding, factors controlled by the operation in running a bead and striking an arc, types of electrodes, preparation of joints, distortion, cutting, hardsurfacing, and pipe welding.

In an historic occasion for Texas and the nation, four United States District Judges who serve in Texas posed at the White House. This is the first time a woman United States District Judge has been appointed in Texas, and the second time in the nation. It is also the first time four Federal judges have been appointed and confirmed at one time in Texas. Shown here, left to right, are: Judge James Noel of Houston, Southern District; Senator Ralph W. Yarborough, Dem.-Texas; President Kennedy;

Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, Northern District; Vice President Johnson; Judge Adrian Spears of San Antonio, Western District; Judge Leo Brewster of Fort Worth, Northern District; and in front, young Ed Noel, son of Judge Noel. "I know that each of these four great Texans will serve the cause of justice and humanity in a way that will reflect credit upon our state and nation," Senator Yarborough said.

On The Screen . . . 'Light In The Piazza' Is Now Showing

The film version of Elizabeth Spencer's poignant "Light in the Piazza," which Arthur Freed has produced, is an especially enticing movie for those who like motion pictures. It is showing tonight and Friday night at the Eagle Drive-in, and is in Cinemascope and Metrocolor.

One must have a certain naivete to believe that a 26-year-old woman with the mental level of a 10-year-old can have a normal romance. And constantly through the picture is the overdone question which the mother asks herself: Shall I permit my daughter to assume the responsibilities of marriage?

But these are minor kinks in the satisfying whole. Using Miss Spencer's plot, writer Jacob J. Epstein and director Guy Green and producer Freed have come up with a film that achieves a delicate balance in artistic beauty, romantic substance and dramatic novelty. Certainly not the least in the picture's assets are the location scenes filmed in the intoxicating beauty of Florence and Rome in Italy.

"Light in the Piazza" is the film version of Elizabeth Spencer's novel which won the first $10,000 McGraw-Hill Fiction Award.

Miss Spencer had written an unusual story of young love which has an unusual solution. It all begins with an attractive American woman (Olivia de Havilland) visiting Florence with her daughter (Yvette Mimieux), a fully matured young woman physically, but with the innocent emotional reactions of a child.

The daughter falls in love with the impetuous young Italian played by George Hamilton. The mother is frightened by the blossoming romance and attempts to tell the boy's father (Rossano Brazzi) the truth about her daughter, but he is too delighted to listen and the mother takes her daughter off to Rome, hoping she will forget the boy. They are joined by the American husband and father, but his solution is to place his daughter in a private school. Miss de Havilland will not accept this solution, and she returns to Florence with her daughter where the ardent youth is waiting for Miss Mimieux to accept his proposal of marriage.

Does the mother finally permit the marriage to take place? Is she certain the child will find happiness and protection in the affection of the Italian family? These are questions which are resolved before the story is brought to its conclusion.

Miss Mimieux, Hollywood-born for all her French-style name, achieves a new career high in this picture with her portrayal of the afflicted girl. The role requires a sort of vacancy and a passion for fussy things, kind people and unfounded fears—that's what it gets from Miss Mimieux.

Hamilton acceptably manages the Italian flavor, including language, with more animation than he usually displays. Miss de Havilland projects the troubled mother rather well, Brazzi is his suave, romantic self, and Berry Sullivan is sound as the shallow husband.

The cast: Margaret Johnson—O. de Havilland Signor Naccarelli—Rossano Brazzi Clara Johnson—Yvette Mimieux Fabrizio Naccarelli—Geo. Hamilton Noel Johnson—Berry Sullivan Miss Hawthorne—Isabel Dean The Minister—Moultrie Kelsall Signora Naccarelli—Nancy Nevinson

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Baker and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McCormack and family visited over the week end in Fort Stockton with the Jack Shugarts, and in El Paso with Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Morris spent last week in Sterling City visiting his mother Mrs. Jack Weeks and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Banta and son, John Ogle, and "Grand-dad" Banta are visiting Mrs. Banta's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Robinson, in Quitman, this week.

Adult Sewing Class Starts Tomorrow

This is a reminder to those who desire to enroll in the Adult Sewing class taught by Miss Dana Owens, homemaking teacher in the local high school. Tomorrow, Friday, June 1 at 2:00 p.m. is the time for the organization of the class. Other plans for the remainder of the month will be made at this time.

There is no charge of taking this course, but participants will need their small pieces of sewing equipment, material and pattern. These will be listed at the first meeting. There will be only about seven afternoons all totaled, so it will be necessary to begin all the first and make each one if the most is to be gained.

Invite your friends and you get together and come tomorrow to the homemaking department. You may register by calling Miss Owens or by just coming on the opening day. We are looking forward to a profitable time together.

Livestockmen Continue To Co-Operate With Screwworm Eradication

The leveling off of screwworm cases in this county and many other counties checked by USDA entomologists during the past month is just a preview of results that will be obtained once the new 75-million-per-week sterile fly production plant at Mission, Texas, goes into operation. This plant will be dedicated June 16th.

Eventual eradication of this costly livestock pest will come from a combination of the release of sterile flies and work by livestock owners. Stockmen should adhere closely to good screwworm management practices to protect their herds and help reduce screwworm populations in order that maximum results can be obtained from the sterile fly releases.

Every case of screwworms put out of commission now prevents thousands of cases three to five weeks later. In turn, this helps make more effective use of the limited supply of available flies and will speed-up eradication.

Cattlemen and sheepmen of the county are due praise for the support already given the program, but there should be no let-up in the responsibilities of the program now. If you are out of vials call at the county agent's office for a resupply. This is important in that it (1) keeps officials advised as to where the drops should be made, (2) location of "hot spots" and (3) reduces the number of cases.

These responsibilities of ranchers include a regular spray program, close and frequent observation of all animals, pre-treatment of all wounds before infestation, early and intense treatment of screwworm-infested animals and frequent treatment. Also the collection of worms from each wound for positive identification.

The county committee asks that even though you have not contributed, but plan to later, that by co-operation with the program you help yourself and your neighbors. This by lessening the number of screwworm cases.

Individual premises on which screwworms are found will not be quarantined.

Austin.—Eight tired men will sit down Saturday night—but not to relax.

Probably it will be well into Sunday before four know that they have won and four know that they have lost the Democratic runoff primary for four important state-wide offices.

John Connally and Don Yarborough have battled it out for governor. James A. Turman and Preston Smith are the two tired men in the race for lieutenant governor, possibly the most important job in state government. Waggoner Carr and Tom Reavley competed for attorney general. Woodrow Bean and Joe Pool were the busy men seeking nomination for Congressman-at-large, a statewide seat in Congress which likely will be abolished within two to four years.

Following Saturday, they can rest a bit before taking up their campaigns against the Republican nominees who are expected to make the strongest bids since 1874 in the general election on November 6.

But no matter how the Democratic primary and the general election turn out, Texas will have new men in the three top state offices beginning next January.

On The Screen . . . 'Splendor In The Grass' Is On Sunday & Monday

William Inge, whose Broadway plays about life as it was yesterday always make it to the movies, has a many-splendored thing in his first work written directly for the screen, "Splendor in the Grass."

There's "viewer identification" for all age brackets in this latest Technicolor trip back to the small-town Kansas of the 1920's, showing Sunday and Monday nights at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre here in Eldorado. Inge and director Kazan deftly and tenderly weave a familiar story—the young lovers, shunning the temptation of sex at the high school level and losing each other at the adult level.

Sex is tastefully handled in "Splendor," never exploited for its own sake, but is always there as a vital and unalterable part of the story.

"Splendor in the Grass" as a collaboration of Elia Kazan and William Inge, reflects the merits and limitations of both. It is an important movie and provides the emergence of Natalie Wood as a topflight actress of stature. Young Warren Beatty has just enough James Dean pout and ability to make it on his own, even if he is Shirley MacLaine's brother.

A superb cast has given the characters a vitality. Chief among these are Miss Wood as shyly beautiful Deanie Loomis, and Warren Beatty as Bud Stamper, a high-school athletic hero, most popular boy in his class, and yet a sensitive, indecisive youth dominated by his father.

Bud and Deanie want to get married, but Bud's wealthy father wants him to stay single and go to Yale. When Bud agrees, the chaste lovers are left with a dismal choice of moral codes. Bud's father offers him a bluff prescription and Deanie's worried mother pathetically counsels purity. The upshot is that Deanie has a mental breakdown and other tragedies strike at Bud, but in the end Deanie comes home to face, with a sad, amazed smile, the fact that life finds infinite means for self renewal.

The supporting actors include Broadway's Pat Hingle, powerful as the boy's domineering father who wants to break up the match, and Audrey Christie, cruel, yet pathetic, as the girl's mother who dutifully explains that wives submit to husbands.

"Splendor" is a movie of many moving moments and poetic undertones that never ring phony. It's probably one of the 10 best of the past year.

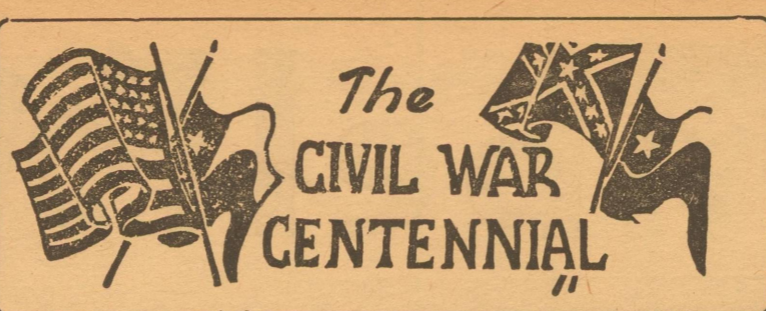

Interesting off-beat casting in the film: Author Inge as a minister, and comedian Phyllis Diller, glimpsed briefly as Texas Guinan.

Holding "Splendor in the Grass" together, Kazan's direction is swift, strong, and, at moments, as plain and clear as a painting by Grant Wood: In the background, a woman, witnessing a neighbor's quarrel, primly draws the curtains across the lower half of her window and righteously continues to stare out the upper half. He catches whole characters in passing expressions: Bud's wild sister (Barbara Loden), drunk and cutting loose for all she is worth on New Year's Eve, kisses her father on the mouth, is stung by an outraged rebuke, turns, wanders through the silent onlookers with an expression of agonized bewilderment—and the incident is a short story in itself.

All told, "Splendor in the Grass" is the probing study of a special but not unusual case with a couple of heart-tearing moments. It might enlighten high-school-agers and educate their parents.

The naval engagement between the "Monitor" and the "Merrimack" in March of 1862 was an inconclusive battle, but the following May the crew of the "Merrimack" fought off their old adversary while standing on dry land.

The strange series of events which sent the "Merrimack's" crew to shore duty began with the fall of Norfolk on the ninth of May. With her home port gone, the famous old ironclad could do one of two things: go down fighting, taking as many Union vessels with her as possible, or lighten her load so she could ascend the James river where she could be preserved for future service.

The ship drew 23 feet of water, but if she could be lightened to draw only 18 feet, she could then move upriver to a safer anchorage.

The choice was left to the crew who gave three cheers and set to work tossing everything overboard except powder and shot. By nightfall she drew only 20 feet of water but her hull below the iron shield was exposed. At midnight the pilot told the crew that the strong west wind would not allow the ship to move upstream at all.

So now the "Merrimack" could neither run nor fight and all that was left was to destroy her. She was run ashore near Craney Island and set afire. The crew made their way upriver to Richmond and were ordered to Fort Darling atop Drewry's Bluff, now the only thing between the Confederate capital and the Federal fleet sailing up the James.

And down on the strip of land between the York and the James rivers, the only thing standing between the Federal army of General George B. McClellan and Richmond was the determined Army of Northern Virginia commanded by General Joseph E. Johnston. McClellan's forces were moving slowly but surely toward the capital city in what was being called the Peninsular Campaign.

The crew of the "Merrimack" and the other gunners at Fort Darling did not have long to wait, for on May 15 the Federal fleet, led by the "Monitor" and another ironclad, the "Galena," moved into position below the bluff. For three hours and 20 minutes they bombarded the fortifications, rattling windows in Richmond just eight miles away.

The "Monitor" was the first to retire from the fight. She was unable to elevate her guns enough to bring them to bear on the batteries atop the bluff. The "Galena" took 28 hits and lost 13 of her crew killed and 11 wounded before retiring downriver.

The Confederate gunners cheered wildly, especially those from the "Merrimack." They had driven off their old foe, the "Monitor," along with the other Union vessels and Richmond was delivered—at least for a time.

It was now up to the Army of Northern Virginia to keep the Yankees out of the Confederate capital, a task which they accomplished almost miraculously under the leadership of Joseph E. Johnston and Robert E. Lee.

Bill Jones of Appomattox, Virginia, a ceramic artist and Civil War buff whose specialty is the Navy of 1861-1865, has depicted the battle of Drewry's Bluff in a bas-relief wall plaque to match the two other plaques sent this department earlier.

The earlier plaques depict the scuttling of the Confederate ship "Star of the West" and the meeting between the "Monitor" and the "Merrimack" in what the artist calls "The Passing of Wooden Ships." The three together portray graphically three important events in the history of the Confederate navy.

A few weeks ago, we pointed out the fact that the "Merrimack" was losing the "k" in her name since some writers were spelling the word some way and some another. Warren B. Cochran of McKinney first called our attention to the two different spellings and asked this department to clarify the situation.

We checked the spelling in the "Index to Official Records of the Union and Confederate Navies in the War of the Rebellion" which most Civil War historians consider to be THE authority on Navy matters. Although the "k" is dropped from the spelling of several other ships of the same name which saw action in the War, the Confederate ironclad's name is spelled throughout the "Records" as "Merrimack." The "Index" which we consulted is an exact copy of the "Index" first published in 1927. The reproduction by photographic processes has been brought out by the Antiquarian Press in a limited edition because of the scarcity of copies of the original. To it have been added a new introduction by Phillip Van Doren Stern and several useful references not found in the original.

Most useful of all, perhaps, is the summary of the contents of the 30 volume in the "Official Records of the Union and Confederate Navies."

DORSEY HARDEMAN

Senator, 25th District
 SAN ANGELO, TEXAS

May 30, 1962

I am respectfully asking the people of my district to vote for Preston Smith for Lieutenant Governor in the Democratic runoff June 2.

Having served with him in the Texas Senate, I am in a position to say that Preston Smith is a man of ability and integrity who can be counted on to do the right and fair thing. He is the only candidate who has had experience in the Senate. He is the only candidate who has served in both Houses of the Texas Legislature. In my opinion, he will be an outstanding presiding officer of the Senate.

Preston Smith is the man with whom I can work, closely and with mutual confidence, for the benefit of our district. I recommend his candidacy to you without reservation.

Sincerely yours,
