Many At Iraan For Opening Of New Highway

Hot weather, speeches, band performances, and barbecue at noon were the order of the day Saturday when the new highway east of Iraan was formally dedicated in a program which drew a delegation of about 30 cars from Eldorado, as well as the school band.

The program was held at the new Pecos river bridge on Farm-to-Market Road 1980 which now links Iraan with Eldorado. The new route gives Eldoradoans a more direct way to Fort Stockton and other points west.

Highlight of the program came when Herb C. Petry, Texas Highway Commission chairman, cut the ribbon to formally open the bridge and road.

The ribbon cutting followed several speeches made from a truck-bed speaker's platform. Officials were on hand from counties served by the new road and included Judge W. R. Bearce of Schleicher county who is president of the Eldorado Lions club which began promoting the highway dedication several months ago.

During the dedication the Eldorado Eagle Band played under direction of Robert Jay, and the Iraan band also performed.

Following the program, the motorcade was led into Iraan by E. H. Topliffe driving his 1917 Maxwell automobile. The barbecue was served at the football field by the Iraan Lions club.

The 30-mile road link east of Iraan has been under construction for the past three years. It called for making cuts and fills for the roadway which are among the largest such jobs ever done on Texas highways.

The new road gives motorists almost a straight-as-an-arrow drive to Eldorado from Iraan. At Eldorado the new road connects with State 29 and there are plans for obtaining a State 29 designation for the new road which would be an extension from Eldorado. There also is a chance that the new road might carry a dual designation—State 29 and US 190, which would be an extension from Brady where US 190 now terminates.

Post Script

Eldorado is still talking football after the brilliant performance of the Eagles last week when they topped the Sonora Broncos in a 19-0 upset here before a capacity crowd of stunned spectators.

How come the highly favored Broncos were unable to make a better showing?

Everyone has his own explanation.

Some say the Broncos had the same trouble that the Eagles had last year. Billed in advance as top dogs they were over-confident and expected to win without working hard.

As they were leaving the field at the end of the game one disappointed Sonora fan was heard to mutter, "Maybe this will teach 'em a lesson."

That's one side of the picture. The other is this year's Eagles.

They are a younger and lighter team than last year and with less experience. But they came on the field with a burning desire to win, and they put everything into it.

However you account for it, the Eagles beat their long-time arch rival and Eldorado fans feel that they have already had a successful season. As one fan expressed it, "I don't care if they never win another game, just so long as they beat Sonora."

Just before the game Sonora fans on the sideline were offering to make wagers on their own team and give the Eagles as much as 21 points, and no one from Eldorado was willing to take them up. (Ye of little faith!)

One party returned from San Angelo about 10:00 o'clock Friday night and they asked the first person they met how the ball game came out.

"Nineteen to nothing."
"Well, that's not bad—I thought they'd beat us worse than that."
"Beat us—my eye! WE WON!"

An Eagle mother is the only one we heard of who had confidence beforehand. She said the next day, "Why, I knew all along we'd win." We're not mentioning her name, but she is a business "girl."

—ps—
Eldorado and Sonora have always been good neighbors. We use their hospital and golf course; we attend their famous Fling-Ding, and at night their cafes are generously patronized by Eldoradoans. It's only when it comes to football that friendship is put aside. We are killed when they beat us, and jubilant when we win.

Now, that that's over and we've got the Broncos out of our hair for another year, it is only fair to hope that they DID learn something from their defeat last week, and that they will go on and win in their remaining games.

—ps—
And now a word to the Eagles: Don't sit down and rest on your laurels. Don't take it for granted that Eden will be a pushover here tomorrow night. Coach Browning of Eden would like nothing better than for his boys to upset you, and you can be sure he is going to do his dead level best to have them all fired up.

Sonora's Defeat By Eldorado Here Friday Night Stuns Both Towns

By Peyton Cain

The Eldorado Eagles thrilled a capacity crowd Friday night on Eagle Field with a thrilling 19-0 upset of the favored Sonora Broncos. It wasn't supposed to happen that way—but it did. Game statistics reflect the latent strength of the Sonora team:

Eldorado	Sonora
5 First Downs	11
105 Yards Rushing	145
4 of 10 Passes Completed	1 of 10
2 Passes Intercepted	0
0 out of 1 Fumbles Lost	3 out of 4

It was the kind of game that fans get to see only once in years. When the smaller, younger, less experienced boys catch fire and out drive, out hustle, out think, and out play their favored rivals, it's always a fine experience. Particularly when they throw in as a bonus team unity and combined effort. Such experiences are good for team, school and town. Friday night's game was such.

Eldorado's three captains, Senior Dennis Jurecek, Senior John McGregor and Junior Lynn Meador again demonstrated the "follow me" technique of leadership, and the support their team mates gave them was thrilling.

Down in the front line trenches where there's a bruise on every play and nobody has time to hear the bugles or the band, boys like Larry Blair, Ellis Loden, George Draper, Jackie Mackey, Bill Lester, Clyde Thackerson and Ray Ballew who plays offensive end and defensive left corner, followed Captain Jurecek in outcharging a ponderous Bronco line that outweighed the Eagles as much as 20 pounds to the man. This superior tonnage was well as a year or so of age was readily apparent when the Broncos drove between tackles; but the Eagle linemen resisted so bitterly that the Broncos could never tie their gains into a relentless grind and on into Eagle scoring territory.

Eagle Captain Lynn Meador and his "executive officer," Ray Ballew with their "missile interception service" in the zone of interior and their "ground sortie suppression service" when the Broncos did manage to get through the Eagle breastworks and second line defenses, along with the able assistance of second and third line defenders such as McAngus, McGregor, Blair and Williams, racked up any venturesome and fortunate Bronco that managed to get back that far with violent and unerring tackles. In the missile intercept business, Captain Meador latched on to a Primo Gonzales pass and outpaced the slow moving Bronco some 75 yards for the third score and ultimate Bronco disaster. This tally, along with McGregor's driving intercept in mid-field, and the Halbert-Thackerson recovery of a Primo Gonzales fumble deep in Bronco territory on which McGregor scored, blasted Bronco hopes and left them despondent and sluggish.

Captain John McGregor, in charge of Eagle offensive operations called the play that shook Meador loose on the Eagle's first touchdown. Meador started right, picked up a jarring Ronnie Williams elimination of a would-be tackler, whirled and twisted loose, and reversed his field, and sped some 50 yards with the first Eagle score. Meador's capture of Gonzales' pass has already been told. McGregor also took advantage of the Halbert-Thackerson fumble recovery to utilize another Ronnie Williams block and skirted the left side of the Bronco defense for the second Eagle touchdown to add six more glowing points to the scoreboard.

For once McGregor's talented toe flunked two of its three extra point tries as he succeeded in kicking only the first of the three extra point tries.

An examination of who got the tackles reveals just how effectively Captain Jurecek's stonewall squad met their foes. Bobby Halbert, playing offensive center and defensive linebacker chalked up 13 tackles. Captain Jurecek came next with 12, and big Jackie Mackey followed closely with 11. Thackerson and Loden hauled down 9 and 8 Bronco respectively. Second line defenders pulled down their share also with Mac McAngus collecting 9 while Blair hauled down 9. Geo. Draper, seeing mostly offensive action still had time to pull down three. Captain Meador with 5 and Ray Ballew with 6 tackles from their twin safety posts demonstrated that their "ground sortie suppression service" could strike.

The Eldorado partisans who entered the stadium doggedly, expecting a long night of bitter humiliation from an arch rival, could hardly believe their eyes. And it was a tough night for Sonora fans to have the anticipated cup of victory so rudely and unexpectedly dashed from their hands.

It was a good ball game. Penalties were few. Boys obviously tried not to pile on.

Coach Earl Barnett commented the following day that it made him feel humble and thankful to be affiliated with a team of boys who could rise up and illustrate the best in educational values of football in team work and determination and still win a brilliant victory.

There are a few almost inescapable conclusions: First, the area soothsayers will have to switch to a different brand of tea, clean the crystal balls, or something. Second, if the Eagles continue their teamwork, spirit and determination, it may yet be a surprising season; and lastly, it was the most football for $1.00 most fans will see again in a long, long time.

Cotton Harvesting Progressing Slowly

At 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, a report from the Mikeska Gin revealed that only 97 bales had been processed up to that time.

It's been coming in lately at the rate of 8 or 10 bales a day, according to the gin manager.

Some irrigation farmers were still poisoning this week.

Polio Shots Postponed

The drive to immunize the entire population of Schleicher county against polio by means of oral vaccine, which was scheduled for this coming Tuesday, September 25, has been indefinitely postponed. The announcement came this week from Dr. E. L. Dyer, county health officer.

Reason given for the postponement was the slight question of safety in giving a "live" vaccine.

Bailey Ranch Mail Route Patrons Have Gathering

More Fun Again . . . The Bailey Ranch Mail Route Patrons gathered for their fourth time Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hext.

This was a covered dish supper with no one knowing what the other person was to bring, but when we got all the food together we had a well balanced meal, such as fried and baked chicken, beef roast, vegetables, and plenty of "sweets" for dessert.

We had a very enjoyable evening. We heard some make the remark: We should have these get-togethers more often. We meet once a month.

We had the following who wanted to join our group: They are, the Peyton Cains, Arch Mittels, Robert Nixons, and the C. B. Sudduths. We were most happy to have them.

The C. N. Shaws were unable to attend because of Mr. Shaw's illness. We are happy to report that he is back from the hospital and doing nicely.

As guest, we had Mrs. Mary Harvey from Houston. She is a sister of Mrs. A. J. Stevens.

Our main goal in these meetings is for us to check up every once in a while and make sure we haven't lost the things that money can't buy, a good neighbor and friend. —Rep.

Reservists To Meet

San Angelo, Eldorado, Junction, Ozona and Sonora United States Army Reservists will perform all their September training in an 8-day period this time beginning Tuesday night, September 18, including Sunday, September 23, and ending Tuesday night, September 25.

The Reservists are scheduled for a full day of training Sunday, beginning at 0745 hours in the morning and ending at 1700 hours or 5:00 o'clock that afternoon. A short period of infantry drill will be followed by a four-hour period on map utilization, after which a full half-day of maintenance will take place.

Lt. Arlan L. Fenner, officer in charge of the Sonora unit, said that Sunday afternoon would be spent in maintenance of individual equipment followed by a thorough going over of unit equipment including the huge M-46 tank, all this to be ended by a thorough inspection before 5:00 o'clock.

Lt. Fenner concluded that as usual a regular noon meal would be served by Reservists at 12:00 o'clock. Eldorado's Master Sergeant Domingo Pina has been pressed into service as a mess sergeant for the occasion as well as for other Sundays on the training schedule.

MERRY MAKERS MEET

Mrs. George (Ruth) Williams was hostess when the Merry Makers "42" club met last Thursday afternoon in the club room of the Memorial Building. She served gingerbread topped with whipped cream and tea or coffee to the three tables of players which included four guests: Mrs. Riley Alexander of Ft. Stockton, Mrs. Ben Hext, Mrs. Lynn Alexander and Mrs. Jack Griffin.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Arch Crosby was elected president of the club to serve during the new club year.

Austin.—A campaign to pass the water conservation amendment on which Texans will vote this November (No. 4 on the ballot) got under way at a meeting of the Statewide Water Committee in Austin. Committee is composed of just about everybody who is interested in water conservation and development.

Proposed amendment would permit the State Water Development Board to acquire storage space in reservoirs built either by local or Federal agencies and conserve storm and flood waters for beneficial uses.

Gov. Price Daniel addressed the meeting and thanked the committee for its "dedicated efforts" in promoting Texas' water program.

John Vandertulip, the State Water Commission's chief engineer, reported on the broad plan for meeting the State's water needs in 1980. Marvin Nichols of Ft. Worth, chairman of the Development Board, discussed the lending program through which water projects have been financed. And Joe Carter, chairman of the Water Commission, explained the proposed amendment in detail and emphasized the need for its approval.

The Statewide committee urged its members to back the amendment and approved the Water Commission's proposed budget. It also commended Governor Daniel for his "courageous, bold and dynamic leadership" in bringing about "the greatest and most comprehensive water resources conservation program in the history of Texas."

Ben Carpenter of Dallas was named chairman of the finance committee for the conservation amendment campaign.

Traffic Safety Week Governor Daniel expressed deep concern over the dangerous upward trend in traffic deaths among Texas high school and college students," as he proclaimed September 17-21 as fifth annual Texas School Traffic Safety Week.

He noted, however, that the 25 Texas traffic deaths in the 3-day Labor Day holiday were the second lowest toll since 1951.

Schools

The men and women who run the schools—board members and administrators—come to Austin on September 30 for their annual conventions. They plan searching looks at the problems of schools, many of which sum up into five letters—M-O-N-E-Y.

Overhaul of the ad valorem tax system was proposed by a series of clinics held by schoolmen earlier this year.

Problems of textbook selection and teaching Americanism will be aired.

The textbook panel will review recent criticisms, as well as prospective legislation which may be recommended by a study committee.

Blonde House

The Texas House of Representatives is becoming a blonde.

Eleven coats of varnish, applied over the years since 1888, have been peeled off the oak woodwork in the House chamber. Earlier, workmen had done the same peeling job on paneling on the ground floor of the Capitol.

Beauty of the original wood was thus restored. So a new light blond look has taken over the Capitol.

Lower Chamber also is getting new flooring and carpets. The House gallery, where so many Texans have sat in hard chairs watching legislation move through the House, is getting new upholstered chairs to make the taxpayers more comfortable. Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont, whose Rules Committee chairmanship puts him in a general supervisory position on the work of the State Board of Control, thinks it will be finished by November 1.

What It Costs

Texans who pay taxes to the state government got an idea of what the new school and welfare programs are costing when Comptroller Robert S. Calvert added up costs for the fiscal year which ended August 31.

State aid to public schools and colleges came to $533,541,099, up nearly $100,000,000 over the $431,974,434 of the previous year. Welfare spending went up from $188,875,904 to $212,765,629. Increased Federal aid for welfare paid most of the increase.

Highway construction and maintenance totaled $371,870,298. This is about the same as the previous year.

In all, the state spent $1,307,623,666, up $115,000,000 from the previous year.

1900 Hurricane Story

Gov. Price Daniel and a group of prominent Austinites got together early this month to do some reminiscing about the 1900 hurricane which destroyed Galveston.

September marks the 62nd anniversary of that big and disastrous hurricane. One casualty of that hurricane was the South Texas Baptist College at Waller, the school which the Governor's father was attending.

Mrs. Stuart Purcell presented the Governor with a photo of the 1900 graduating class, of which M. P. Daniel was a member.

Quite frequently this department receives inquiries from readers who ask us to refer them to a book or other type of material containing information on one of their ancestors who fought in the Civil War. Other readers simply ask us to recommend a book or manuscript that they might read to better inform themselves on a certain aspect or phase of the war.

We have tried to answer these inquiries by tacking a recommended reading list to the end of our column every week or so and have received a number of letters from readers who tell us they particularly appreciate these lists. Others write to ask about a reference and say "just put it in your recommended reading list" when you have space.

For the benefit of those who have wanted something on the newer and more interesting publications with a Civil War theme, we have this week devoted the entire column to this subject. In doing so we have tried to choose from the better books of fiction that we have seen recently and have even included choices for our younger readers. We have also divided the selections of non-fiction into Confederate and Yankee categories for the benefit of our partisan readers.

Probably the major Civil War novel of this year will be Doubleday and Company's The River and the Wilderness, the 764-page masterpiece by Don Robertson. This is the third Civil War effort by Robertson and by far his most ambitious. The others, both published by Prentice-Hall, are The Three Days and By Antietam's Creek. Robertson's latest novel is reminiscent of Gone With the Wind, not only in length but in the way it catches the spirit of men and women involved in the great struggle which almost tore the Union asunder. Instead of two main characters in the persons of Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara, however, the reader of The River and the Wilderness will find dozens of main characters, without whose presence, the story would somehow be incomplete.

Another well known Southern writer is Clifford Dowdey, whose Last Night the Nighthingale also bears the Doubleday label. Mr. Dowdey's latest is set amid the ruins of the Confederacy in the days following the surrender at Appomattox and depicts faithfully the struggle of Southern aristocracy to preserve their heritage in the aftermath of defeat.

Though they are not brand new publications, young Civil War fans will enjoy two books which bear the Holiday House label. These are Rebel Mail Runner by Manley Wade Wellman and Bar Pilot by Zachary Ball. Each of the authors is an accomplished writer and each has a number of books for young readers to his credit.

Houghton-Mifflin Company has two books about Robert E. Lee that are rewarding reading for the youngster who likes the Civil War touch in his reading. Robert E. Lee by Henry Steele Commager and Lynd Ward are both highly recommended.

For the Confederate partisan there is no lack of books to inform him on the several aspects of the War. For example, the University of Texas Press has just brought out in paperback form Dr. Frank E. Vandiver's study of Josiah Gargas and Confederate Ordnance, Ploughshares Into Swords. First published in 1952, the hard-cover edition has long been out of print and what a welcome the paperback bound will receive from Civil War buffs who have long hoped for its reappearance.

Another University Press which has been quite active in Civil War publishing is Louisiana State University Press whose Confederate Strategy From Shiloh to Vicksburg by Archer Jones re-evaluates the grand overall strategy of the Confederate High Command in the Western Theatre of operations and does it in such a way that the account is both highly readable and informative.

And for the Yankee partisan, LSU Press offers Warren W. Hassler, Jr., describing by use of biographical sketches the actions of the Army of the Potomac. Entitled Commanders of the Army of the Potomac, this book is recommended also for Confederate admirers of Gen. Robert E. Lee, for each one of the seven Union commanders of the Army of the Potomac faced the "Gray Fox" who took their measure one by one until he faced Gen. Grant at Appomattox.

Begun by Benjamin P. Thomas, the literary giant who created what has been called the best one-volume biography of Abraham Lincoln, "Stanton: The Life and Times of Lincoln's Secretary of War" has now been completed in an admirable way by Harold M. Hyman who took over at the time of Dr. Thomas' death. Here is a volume that will, in the years to come, take its place with the great classics on the Civil War.

All 4-H ers and FFA boys and parents and others interested are invited to this demonstration.

If you cannot do great things yourself, remember that you may do small things in a great way.

Cotton boll weevils will feed on almost anything that has been dipped in a newly discovered extract of the cotton plant. The substance that makes cotton squares appetizing to bollweevils was found in water extract for the first time by U.S.D.A. entomologists.

The extract is called an "arrestant" and when applied to cork stoppers, green beans, wood and other substances attracts weevils that feed upon cotton squares and bolls.

Tests are under way to see if the substance can induce the weevils to feed and lay eggs on plants other than cotton, because weevils have rarely been known to survive on any plant except cotton.

Then too, there is the possibility of making this "arrestant" synthetic. Plant breeders will also be busy producing a variety of cotton which does not contain this substance.

The bollweevil has added 5 to 7 cents per pound to produce cotton for the years 1961-62 in Schleicher county.

Every producer in the county has a vital stake in conservation of soil and water. If you own land in zone 4 of the Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation district, you have the added responsibility of electing a supervisor on October 2 to help administer the affairs of

The ELDORADO SUCCESS

Home Demonstration Agent's Column
By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

It takes a strange but real form of courage to figure the cost of living these days, but if you have what it takes, ponder these figures.

Suppose, for instance, that you want to buy a home. To want to own your own home is a good, worthy ambition, but before you get carried away with the idea, do some checking on how much it will cost and then make your decision.

On a $12,000 mortgage at 4 1/2% for 15 years, you will have to make payments totaling $19,224. If you want to stretch it out for 30 years you will finally pay $27,302.40.

Or — suppose you have to pay 6% interest. The $12,000 loan for 15 years will cost $20,928 and again if it is stretched out for 35 years it will cost you $35,040.60!

If you think you would like to do it the hard way but save some money by doing it, do a little subtraction on these figures. The lower interest on the shorter term will mean $15,816 to the person who chooses it against the higher rate, longer term plan.

It's getting about time for the uncooked relish recipe but to save those who can't stand the idea of that recipe appearing one more year—call me at 22592 and I'll mail you one.

Take it easy with the soda in the cornbread. Too much soda destroys most of or sometimes all the thiamine in the corn meal. Thiamine is one of the B vitamins and of great importance in the diet. Thiamine is necessary for normal growth and a deficiency is accompanied by loss of appetite, fatigue, loss of weight, discontent, and irritability. Because thiamine is so closely tied up with a healthy nervous system it has been called the "morale" vitamin.

Come to think of it—it just could be that lots of people are getting too much soda in their cornbread these days, especially when you look again at that list of things that can go wrong when it happens.

And speaking of cornbread, try some of the one dish meals which are becoming increasingly popular these days.

"Sausage Corn Bread Supper" is one example. Add a tossed green salad, milk and fresh fruit, and you have a quick easy meal ready.

To make this tasty dish follow these directions. Brown a pound of sausage links in a skillet over low heat. Drain the drippings. Arrange 10 sausage links over 6 apple rings in a platter or in the bottom of a skillet. Save the extra sausage links and cut into pieces to blend in with the batter.

For the corn bread, sift together 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 4 teaspoons baking powder. Add one egg, 1 cup milk and 2 tablespoons sausage drippings. Beat with a rotary beater until smooth, about one minute. Blend in the chopped sausage links. Pour the batter over the apple rings. Bake at 425 F. for 20 to 25 minutes. Invert immediately. Serve with warm apple sauce. Serves 6 to 8.

NIGHT CIRCLE MEETS
The business womens nite circle met Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. Sadie Davidson.

Mrs. Jake Spencer presided over the short business session. Mrs. Vernon Rogers taught the last two chapters of the mission book, Enrollment for Missions, by Helen Fling.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to the five members present and two guests, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Ruth Finnigan.

New power, durability in 1963 Chevrolet truck line

Two new, modern, more efficient six-cylinder engines lead a long list of improvements in the 1963 Chevrolet truck line. Other features include a new front axle and spring design in medium- and heavy-duty series for excellent ride and durability; generally heavier frames; easy-riding independent front wheel coil springing in light-duty models; narrower front sheet metal width for easier handling in close quarters on many models and improved body and sheet metal mounts for softer ride.

'63 Chevrolet Trucks Are Now Being Shown At Eagle Chevrolet-Olds

New lighter weight, more efficient six-cylinder power, addition of an economical four-cylinder engine; significant suspension redesign for most favorable ride, durability, and load capacity, and new frame designs tailored for specific load requirements head a broad list of improvements offered in the 1963 Chevrolet truck line, at the Eagle Chevrolet-Olds here in Eldorado.

"These advances represent the most extensive chassis changes in our history and combine the best of the time tested and proved Chevrolet features with the latest truck design innovations," J. E. Conlan, assistant general sales manager for trucks, said in announcing the new line.

Outlining new developments in the 1963 truck line, Conlan cited: New 230 cu. in. seven-bearing, six-cylinder engines of 140 and 165 horsepower.

Availability of the proved 153 cu. in., economical 90 horsepower, five-bearing, four-cylinder engine in 1/2-ton forward-control models, the first Chevrolet four-cylinder truck engine since 1928.

Coil spring independent front suspension replacing torsion bars on most light-duty models.

Two-stage coil rear springs and optional cantilever leaf type auxiliary rear springs in conventional 1/2- and 3/4-ton models.

New front suspension in medium and heavy-duty series combining the excellent ride characteristics of variable-rate leaf springs with the load capacity and durability of I-beam axles.

Ladder-type, channel section frames on most 1/2- and 3/4-ton models for easier mounting of special bodies. Throughout the line, frame gauge thickness and support members are revised for maximum strength and precise tailoring to load requirements.

Over-all width of most medium- and heavy-duty models reduced more than seven inches for better maneuverability in narrow roads or alleys.

Shear-type sheet metal and rear body mounts on most models to provide softer over-all ride and improve durability of cabs and components.

Alternating current generators standard equipment on all but Corvair 95 series.

Self-adjusting brakes on all Corvair 95 series.

Positive crankcase ventilation system and improved exhaust system durability on all models.

Fuller Roadranger transmission available on heavy-duty diesels and all models with 409 cu. in. gas engine.

The Engine Story

The new engines are of overhead-valve design, precision cast for reduced weight and with internal reinforcements to assure rigidity and durability. A particularly important feature is use of main bearings between each crankshaft arm, resulting in exceptional rigidity, durability, smoothness and quiet operation.

The 292-cu. in. engine incorporates additional durability features for heavy-duty use. They include forged steel crankshaft, aluminum inlet valves, stellite-faced exhaust valves equipped with rotators, and heavy-duty premium-alloy bearings.

The four-cylinder engine will be used only in 1/2-ton forward control models. The 230 six will replace the 235.5 cu. in. six in all former applications, except four-wheel drive models, and similarly the 292 will replace the 261 six.

Chassis, Suspension Improvements

Independent front suspension, with its unexcelled riding qualities, is retained in light-duty conventional models, but coil springs replace torsion bars formerly used. A notable innovation in light-duty rear suspensions are two-stage coil springs which combine driver comfort, cargo cushioning, and high-load capacity in one unit.

In medium and heavy-duty models, combining the excellent riding qualities of variable-rate springs with a solid axle provides a rugged, stable suspension with high-load capacity and eminently satisfactory ride.

Other Improvements

Ammeter and oil pressure gauges replace tell-tale gauges in the instrument cluster of 1 1/2- and 2-ton models to give direct readings on rate of generator charge and oil pressure, particularly important in operations involving long periods of engine idling.

Adoption of alternating current generators across the line, except for the Corvair 95, assures electrical output even at long periods of engine idling.

Another safety feature is the relocation for better visibility of front directional signal lamps from the hood panel to the side face of the cowl on all medium and heavy-duty models, except tilt-cabs.

VISIT IN McCAMEY

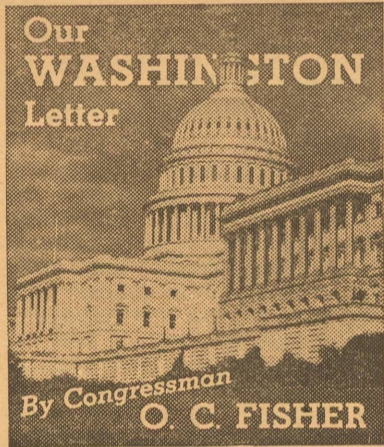

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gunstead and daughter, Gwendolyn, attended the dedication of the new road at Iraan Saturday, and then went on to McCamey to visit the Russell Heaner family.

Mrs. Heaner was notified that day of the death of her father, Mr. Bearden, in the Sealy hospital at Galveston. Funeral services were to be held Tuesday in Galveston and the Heaner family planned to attend.

BACK TO A&M

Ernest K. Nimitz came in over the week end to visit his parents here and has gone on to Texas A&M where he has enrolled as a 2nd year student in veterinary medicine.

During the summer has been employed by the Federal Bureau of Land Management in the Arizona St. George, Utah. The district extended to the north rim of Grand Canyon, and his field work covered an area of 3 1/2 million acres.

Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Negro Congressman, recently engaged in a notorious European junket, accompanied by two female secretaries. As chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, Powell was able to finance the trip to drawing upon counterpart funds at various embassies overseas.

These funds are generated by foreign aid money which, with local contributions from the respective countries affected, is set aside for use in financing various projects. The money, by agreement, cannot be spent outside the nations where it is set aside. And chairmen of congressional committees are permitted to draw upon that source for the financing of expenses considered necessary in the discharge of official business by the committee or its members and employees. Committee chairmen are granted the discretionary right to determine when such use is justified.

Powell claimed his mission was to make a study of equality of opportunities for women as practiced in the countries where he visited.

But the press reports indicated he was using the money for a multitude of purposes not related to official business.

It is obviously the responsibility of the Congress to prevent such abuses of this privilege. I have introduced a bill to prohibit the use of counterpart funds by any committee, member or employee for any purpose. As I see it, about the only way to prevent such misuse of funds is to stop the practice in its entirety.

There's a chance for an international wool textile agreement to protect producers against increases in imports.

With the blessing of Secretary of Commerce Hodges, something along this line is due to be considered at a meeting of the International Wool Study Group in London this fall. The objective will be to obtain agreement among various exporting countries that in the future there will be a fixed limit on the amount of wool textiles shipped to the U.S.A.

'B' Squad Downs Ozona

Thursday night, September 13, saw two kid football games played on Eagle field. Coach Guy Whitaker's elementary lads downed Ozona elementary boys 28-0; and Coach Douglas Jung's high school B group racked up a convincing 28-0 win over Ozona B.

The Eldorado B team members greatly enjoyed compiling the following game statistics:

Sam Henderson carried the ball nine times for an average of three and one-half yards; David Whitten carried twice for 10 1/2 yards; Monty Montgomery, 11 times for six yards each; Roy Love, seven times for five yards per carry; Scott McGregor, four times for three yards per try; and Ronnie Griffin, six times at 10 yards each. Enthusiastic offensive blocking by offensive linemen as well as determined running by the backs paved the way for the gains.

Scott McGregor also flung 11 passes, four of which were complete, netting 74 yards. Monty Montgomery also ran back Ozona's only punt for 20 yards. The Eldorado lads fumbled twice, losing the ball once.

Eldorado ground out 11 first downs to five for Ozona. Eldorado penalties totaled 70 yards of lost territory for eight offenses, three of which were 15-yarders.

The Schleicher B's got pretty worked up defensively and posted the following record for stopping Ozona runners: Gary Donaldson, Roy Love, Sam Henderson, and Jody Wagley each stopped one Ozona lad, this low figure due to the fact that they played principally offensive ball. Ronnie Griffin, Monty Montgomery, and Bob Lester collected two each, also because of defensive chores.

But in the defensive platoon, the boys had more time and prided themselves on the number of stops each piled up. Joe Phillips and Wayne McGinnes posted records of four each. Charles Nixon, five; Steve Blaylock, Jimmy Belk, Richard Preston, and Stanley Calcote, got a little grim about the matter and each lad tabbed eight tackles. Beep Cain and Roy Swain got carried away and recorded 10 tackles each.

The teams were not disproportionately matched as for size, Ozona, if anything, appeared somewhat heavier. But the Schleicher lads seemed to be moving at slightly higher velocity.

An unusually large crowd witnessed the two kid games. Possibly the reason for this is that these games which should be the appetizers for the high school game the following night might have to serve as the main course in view of powerful Sonora's impending visit.

As it developed, the two games Thursday night and the Eagles upset 19-0 triumph Friday night turned the week end into a festival.

Coach Barnett and Coach Jung will accompany their lads to Big Lake tonight. It remains to be seen if they can maintain their happy pace.

Here's why Martha puts laundry in the freezer

A woman's work, especially the ironing, is never done. Sometimes Martha just has to take time out for shopping or visiting during the day. But sprinkled clothes can't be left to sour or mildew! So Martha pops them into a plastic bag and into the freezer they go. When she gets back, they'll be ready for her to start ironing again. Isn't it amazing how many ways women have learned to use flameless electricity to make living better ... and, it costs so little, you can use lots of it.

FREEZER TIP... Sprinkle your clothes and place in Freezer for about 10 minutes and they will be ready for ironing.

Tough new '63 Chevrolet Trucks are here!

...THE ONES THAT WHIPPED THE BAJA RUN...TOUGHEST UNDER THE SUN... TO SHOW THE WORTH OF NEW ENGINES, FRAMES AND SUSPENSIONS!

Round trip from Detroit to the end of the Baja Peninsula is over 8,000 miles.

Millions of years ago nature fashioned a proving ground for trucks that man can never duplicate. Today it is known as the Baja (bah' hah) California Peninsula, Mexico.

These pictures give you only a bare idea of the place. The road is fine for 140 miles below the U.S. border. Then the beating begins. Rocks and hard-baked ruts bang, jab and jerk the trucks from stem to stern. Loose sand makes them struggle and strain. Dust chokes them. Heat roasts them. Rivers drench them.

The Baja Run took this Chevrolet truck caravan 17 days to go the 1,066 miles.

All the trucks performed magnificently. Not one was forced to drop out because of mechanical difficulty.

Trucks that can take this kind of beating can take on your toughest truck jobs. Come in now and see tough quality-built '63 Chevrolet trucks with all their new improvements.

Sometimes the caravan crept along for hours in low gear. It took 17 days to go 1,066 miles! This is the road near Loreto.

See the "New Reliables" now at your Chevrolet dealer's!

H. D. Club Members At State Meeting In Dallas

Mrs. Wayne Mikeska, Mrs. Charlie Warnock, Mrs. J. Tom William, and Mrs. Duwain Sauer, members of Schleicher County Home Demonstration clubs, left for Dallas last Tuesday.

The occasion for the trip was to attend the 36th annual meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association Sept. 19 and 20 at the Baker hotel in Dallas. More than 1,000 delegates and visitors from all over the state will be in attendance.

Mrs. Florence W. Low, assistant director for home economics with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at the A&M College of Texas, and president of the American Home Economics Association, was to deliver the keynote address on "Facing the Challenge of Today's Tasks." State Rep. Jim Nugent Sends Out Questionnaire

JAMES E. (Jim) NUGENT

An opinion questionnaire is being mailed out to voters in the 66th legislative district of Texas by James E. Nugent of Kerrville, representative of the district.

Mr. Nugent stated that he would make results of the survey available to all newspapers in the district as soon as the questionnaires are received in his office and tabulated.

Mr. Nugent's questionnaire seeks "your opinion on some of the major issues confronting our district and the State of Texas." It provides check spaces for yes, no, and no opinion.

Pointing out that the State of Texas is now in the first year of collection under its new General Sales Tax Law, the form asks: Do you favor this type sales tax over an income tax? Also: Are you in favor of the repeal of the State Ad Valorem Tax in order that our local governmental units may have this source of revenue?

Subsequent questions have to do with whether or not the citizen favors Federal aid for school construction and teachers' salaries, making San Angelo college a four-year school, state "right to work laws" which provide that a worker does not have to join a union to hold a job, and requiring labor unions to conform to anti-trust laws.

Also: spending state money nationally advertising Texas in order to build up tourist business, additional state expenditures to improve state parks, limiting the governor to two terms, regulating Loan Sharks in Texas, and requiring proof of financial responsibility for every driver or owner of an automobile in Texas before being allowed on the public highways.

Mr. Nugent's questionnaire concludes with the invitation to add comments on how he can better serve the voters of the 66th district.

Also asked for are opinions on how the State of Texas can best reduce expenses and how the State Government can be improved.

Any local voter who did not receive a copy of the questionnaire in the mail, and who wants one to fill in, may obtain it by dropping a card or letter to:

'State Fair' Is Showing Sunday And Monday

Times change but state fairs or, rather, "State Fairs," go on forever.

A sprawling American Odyssey, "State Fair" has been around for a generation. This third filming, with "the largest annual exposition in the United States" as its backdrop, is the costliest and most spectacular.

It is in CinemaScope and Deluxe color and will be shown Sunday and Monday nights at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre. It was filmed mostly on the grounds of the State Fair of Texas at Dallas.

The Frake family of the pictures once included Will Rogers, Louise Dresser, Lew Ayres and Janet Gaynor. In 1945, when Rodgers and Hammerstein put songs to it, the Frakes were Charles Winninger, Fay Bainter, Jean Crain, and Dick Haymes.

In 1952 and farm gentry of a mythical Banning, Texas, the Frakes consist of Tom Ewell, Alice Faye (coaxed out of a 17-year retirement), Pamela Tiffin and Pat Boone.

Rugged and prosperous individualists, the Frakes care nothing about federal subsidies. Pa Frake merely wants a prize for "Blue Boy," the grandest hunk of lard on the hoof. Ma Frake has modest hopes for a plaque after entering her jar of mince-meat, doubly-spiked with liquor.

Son Frake expects to triumph in a dangerous race with a garage-built hotrod. Daughter Margie is merely restless in a nice adolescent way and doesn't know what she wants. She gets Bobby Darin.

The most ingratiating new number by Rodgers is "It's the Little Things in Texas," sung in sensuous contralto by Miss Faye with frog-voiced Mr. Ewell.

Pat Boone, teamed with the Swedish-born Ann-Margret, have a fresh goody, "Willing and Eager."

More the scrubbed, milk-fed type is Pamela Tiffin who doesn't have the blight of most ethereal screen personalities, lapses into coarseness. She warbles early, "It Might As Well Be Spring," the Academy Award tune in the 1945 version, which comes out torchy, choppy and scenic.

Both Boone and Darin have strong numbers. An oldie from 1945, "Isn't It Kind of Fun" is turned into a big production number.

The most durable song of the score, "It's a Grand Night for Singing," is staged perfunctorily.

Photographically, "State Fair" does handsomely by the Dallas freeways, the Dallas skyline, and the Midway by night.

It is peculiar how the "State Fair" tale lingers in the literature. The late Phil Strong wrote it as a novel in 1932 as something of a "heads-up" story for the miseries of the depression. Twentieth Century Fox filmed it a year later with the late Will Rogers as Farmer Frake, Louise Dresser as Mother Frake, Norman Foster, Lew Ayres, Janet Gaynor, and others.

In 1945, it was converted, given Rodgers and Hammerstein musical numbers after "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel" had made the pair hotter than Gilbert and Sullivan.

This latest "State Fair" had its premiere showing in Dallas last April with a number of the actors and other dignitaries on hand.

Man against the sky

The telephone lineman is another active symbol of service at General Telephone.

He climbs a pole with spur-like "climbers" strapped to feet and legs, and is silhouetted against the sky held firmly by his safety belt.

With the tools hanging from his belt he installs new wires and cables, and repairs lines when storms, wind and ice damage them.

He is one of many folks at General Telephone who suggest the convenience of another telephone in your home, now that the busy Fall season is here. They save steps, are available in many colors, cost pennies a day. Call the Business Office now.
