Eagles Host Rocksprings Here In Season's Opening Game Tomorrow

By PEYTON CAIN

The Eldorado Eagles open their 1963 season tomorrow night on Eagle Field against a 40-year opponent, the Rock Springs Billy Goats. Game time is 8:00 o'clock.

But then, the football wars open all over Texas tomorrow night, and a colossal "donnybrook" is inevitable. And as usual, all crystal balls, tea leaves, and various other prediction devices are being earnestly examined as to outcomes of the 450 or more games on tap. The possible result of the Eldorado - Rock Springs game is well up on the curiosity roster.

Each year before the first game, coaches and interested patrons experience a habit forming and extraordinary anticipation. The question is: Can those last year's "ragnot 'B' teamsters" and sophomores fill in so that the stalwart veterans can operate properly and can these same lads withstand the powerful thrusts of strong and determined opponents? The shoes of last year's graduates suddenly seem large indeed to the lads who have striven for the right to fill them. For instance, who could imagine that John McGregor, Dennis Jurecek, Ray Lewis Ballew, Ellis Loden, Jim O'Harrow, Corky Hodges and Clyde Thackerison could have had such big shoes?

A consolation here is that the folks in Rock Springs are doing the same soul-searching also. Coaches Earl Barnett and Douglas Jung, when queried, concerning the Billy Goats joined in saying that there was only one thing for sure and that was if Rock Springs did not try to beat any other team in the country, they would do their utmost against the Eagles Friday night.

Coach Barnett said that both the Billies and the Eagles had lost about half of last year's starting teams. He continued that Rock Springs had lost an outstanding boy in the person of Dave Thurman but that they have some fine youths returning such as the fine linebacker, Eddie Sweeten, 11-men Jim Rudersil and Teddy McKnight, Quarterback James Eagle, and Halfback Ken Nunally.

Both Coach Barnett and Coach Jung pointed out that a bitter struggle could be expected as for example last year's muddy battle in Rock Springs in which the local Eagles barely nosed out by a 15-14 margin. Both coaches concluded that they hoped to win and possibly would if the Eagles demonstrated the spirit, desire and hustle that they have exhibited in the three weeks of workouts to date.

Consensus of local sideline coaches and work-out spectators is that the Eagles will be tough but such conclusions are not enough to build a solid prediction on as of now.

At any rate, Rock Springs' starting line-up will consist of the following lads tomorrow night:

No.	Name	Pos.	Wt.
66	Gorden Sweeten	LE	145
60	Marty Croftin	LT	195
50	Eddie Sweeten	LG	185

32	Ken Nunally	LH	185
30	Tootie Whitworth	RF	155
33	Mike Grooms	FB	170
13	James Eagle	QB	160

Meanwhile Barnett and Jung will detail two groups of Eagles tomorrow night: one group to penetrate the Rock Springs' defenses, and a second group to contain the Billy Goats raids.

Coach Barnett said that the probable offensive starters are these:

No.	Name	Pos.	Wt.
83	Larry Blair	LE	160
71	Rex McCormick	LT	175
75	Jim Belk	LG	150
50	Bobby Halbert	Center	160

14	Ronald Griffin	LH	135
21	Ronnie Williams	RH	145
37	Mack McAngus	FB	175
15	Lynn Meador	QB	150

The defensive team reflects a change in position assignments and a switch or so in personnel for reasons of aptitude, weight, or need in a given situation:

No.	Name	Position	Wt
73	Jack Mackey	LG	210
55	Beep Cain	RG	190
80	Richard Preston	LT	170
64	George Draper	RT	165

Game time is at 8:00 o'clock with the Eagle Band making its 1963 debut at the half under new Bandmaster Eddie Pace, Veteran Drum Major Paula Mace, and Twirlers

COACH EARL BARNETT

COACH DOUGLAS JUNG

Jane Sanders, Kay Sanders and Rita Rozean.

Ballinger Scrimmage
Interesting note is that Eagles journeyed to Ballinger the afternoon of August 29, for a shake-down cruise against the burly 2AA Bearcats. Coaches Barnett and Jung said that the afternoon's activities were classed strictly as a scrimmage session featuring many combinations of plays and players. They continued that the Eagles showed up better than expected, although Ballinger showed superior manpower. Both were pleased at how quickly and well the Eagle defense adjusted to the many offensive formations the Bearcats presented.

Coach Barnett said that the Eagles though scored upon were able to score themselves. Lads exhibiting fine ambitions on offense chores were Lynn Meador, Ronnie Griffin, Mack McAngus, Larry Blair, Ronnie Williams, Jack Mackey, Richard Preston, and Monty Montgomery. The Eagles' hope for speedy backs seemed somewhat justified since they scored twice on long jaunts of more than 50 yards. These same lads along with Tip Finley, Bobby Halbert, Beep Cain, George Draper, and Mack McAngus showed some defensive stubbornness which the coaches appreciated.

A surprisingly large number of patrons and fans accompanied the Eldorado lads who made the trip by school bus. The scrimmage gave Coaches Barnett and Jung definite areas for consideration in the weeks to come beginning with the usually rugged Angoras tomorrow night.

586 Enrolled At School First Day

School Supt. A. M. Whitis announced that total of 586 students enrolled in the local schools the first day of the new school year getting under way.

The total included the following:

Elementary	340
High School	152
Junior High	94

Mr. Whitis stated that these figures were for the first day of school and would be subject to slight variation during the first week. The 586 total is about normal for this time of year.

Area Meeting Here

The Eldorado Masonic Lodge will be host to an area work shop meeting at 7:00 p.m. Monday, September 9, 1963 in the Memorial Building.

All officers are urged to attend and all members are asked to be present, if possible.

CARBON PAPER at the Success.

Post Script

Football breaks out tomorrow night . . . from now on drought and short crops take a back seat as a subject of conversation.

Nearly everyone from Schleicher county will be out at Eagle field tomorrow night to support the local boys.

Incidentally, Sonora will be playing at Iraan, and Ozona will play McCamey at McCamey. Big Lake and Sanderson both have open dates—they'll probably have some scouts here.

Lee Halbert announces that she has reopened her popular snack bar, located across the street from the school. Of course the street that separates her from the school is mortally torn up with road work but we're sure the kids will find their way across.

C. L. Martin was in charge of a group of workmen at the Lone Star Theater building which Tom Ratliff is converting into new office quarters for his insurance business. A new roof was put on the building last week.

Mr. Martin and C. L. Jr. recently painted the exterior woodwork on the three Mattocks rent houses here.

Workmen from Water Tank Service Co. were continuing work on the city water tower this week. They sand-blasted the tank recently and now have the painting under way. They have put red-orange primer paint on the rusty places and will finish with aluminum paint.

Erratic water pressure of the past several days has been due to not having the large tank in use, and the city expects to have water back in it by tomorrow.

People moving: W. E. George to Roy Andrews house;

Ernest Dupre to Griffith house; R. M. Geldard to the Ebba Stone house (he is replacing Jack Mills here with Shell);

Robert Wimberly to McDonald house; Bill Gunstead to Mattocks house west of the school vacated last week by Cecil Mackey.

C. J. Zly, who operates the C. R. Keeney irrigated cotton farm near town, said last week that he had between 40 and 50 bales of cotton already open, and that he was desperately in need of pickers. He explained that this cotton was the "bottom crop"—the bolls near the bottom of the stalk being the ones that open first. He said the bolls were large and clean and was expecting it to bring a high grade. He was on his way last Friday to assemble a crew and no doubt, by this time, he will have them on the job.

After the bottom crop has been gathered his plan was to use a stripper on the upper bolls which open later in the season.

A picture post card of Mt. Hood in Oregon came to our office last week from Anna MacTaggart, who is vacationing at Salem, Oregon. She mentioned that she had traveled in Canada and Washington State, and was leaving for Colorado Sept. 3rd. "Will be back home," she concluded, "when Texas cools off."

If there were any accidents in Eldorado on Labor Day they were not on Main street. It was completely deserted except for a group of cars near the pool hall. Coffee was available at the cafes and gas at the filling stations. The Success crew spent most of the day setting type and chalking up one cash sale—15c worth of envelopes.

News Of The Sick

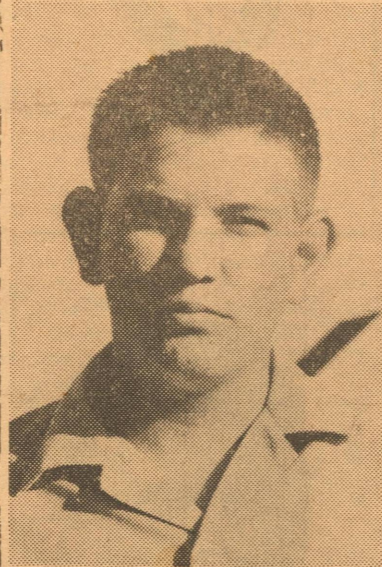

Little Regina Haines of Odessa, 5-year-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Clark, underwent ear surgery on both ears and a tonsillectomy last week in Odessa and is doing nicely. She can even hear a faint whisper now.

C. N. Clark returned home Monday after spending a week in St. Johns hospital in San Angelo, and is doing fine.

Ernest Finnigan was brought home Monday from the Clinic hospital and is continuing convalescence at home.

RECOVERING

Friends of Mrs. J. W. (Buck) Davis may be interested to know that she is recuperating from major surgery in an Austin hospital. Her children, Fae, Jewell, J. W. and Mae Ellie are with her and she is progressing nicely. She is scheduled to leave the hospital Sept. 1 and will go to the home of her daughter Jewell at 2605 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas, where she will convalesce for a time.

'Son of Flubber'
Stars F. MacMurray

Most of the bounce remains in "Flubber" as its sequel, "Son of Flubber" hop-skips across the Eagle Drive-In Theatre screen Sunday and Monday night.

"Flubber," you may recall from the recent gem of the thing, "The Absent Minded Professor," is something the Walt Disney studios let Prof. Fred MacMurray invent as the chemistry genius of hungry Medford College, which sure as shooting needs a genius.

Flubber is a substance which, when affixed to the soles of shoes, permits the wearer to leap house high over any obstacle. Dramatically, it provided the great climax of the Medford-Bear Wallow basketball game. A flubber-shod center could jump above the basket and drop in the ball. It was the freest-throw ever invented.

MacMurray took it, via a flubber fueled Model T, to the Pentagon where the guardians of our defense agreed to look it over between golf games.

"The absent-minded professor" is merely waiting on Washington in "Son of Flubber." Having nothing else to do he scrapes the bottom of the flubber barrel and comes up with flubber gas.

This suggests a change in intercollegiate sports. The gas inflates both football uniforms and footballs.

The Defense Department is not all of Prof. MacMurray's worries. Keenan Wynn, as Banker Hawk, is still eager to close down Medford and cut up the campus into subdivisions. Wicked Eastern industrialists are anxious to flubberize the nation commercially and go at it by offering the professor's wife everything from a mink coat to a $1 million check.

The Internal Revenue Department, represented by actor Bob Sweeney, gives MacMurray, dead-broke, just 48 hours to pay $800,000 income tax on money he has not yet received from the government.

"But I haven't been paid," ex-postulates MacMurray.

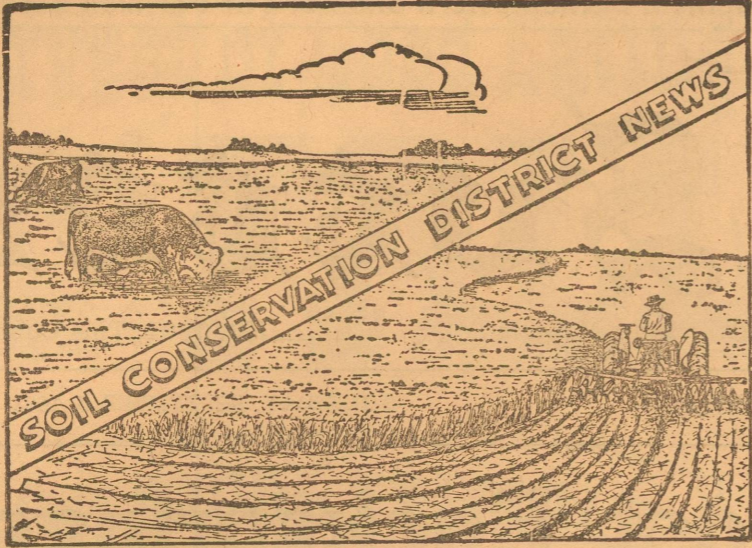

"That's your problem," says the smiling Sweeney.

After kidding around joyously, "Son of Flubber" does put the miracle substance to a use that counts. A 105-pound halfback inflated with "flubber-gas" can soar over the line and secondary, of a football team twice the brute-strength, scoring a 98-yard touchdown.

This enables MacMurray's school Medfield College to score a sensational upset victory over the nation's "most powerful gridiron machine."

Between touchdowns and over-size lemons, Medfield can meet the Pentagon, even if the Pentagon can't afford to forget Medfield.

But there is a tarnished bright lining. Keenan Wynn's 76-year-old father, the great Ed Wynn, has a

The harvest of grain sorghums in the Eldorado Divide S. C. D. will soon be completed on this year's crop. The question as to how much will that field of maize make, whether dryland or irrigated, will soon be answered. Regardless of how close or how far off the guess may have been, the net profit or loss will not be effected. After any crop is ready for harvest the yield per acre can not be increased.

What will next year's maize crop yield per acre? Some might say it is too soon to make any kind of guess. But, is it too soon to make a guess? Each farmer that plans to plant grain sorghums next year is anticipating or guessing that a profit will be made from the crop. If a profit is not anticipated from a given crop, fewer acres or none at all would be planted.

What chance does each farmer have, that made an average of 1800 lbs. or more maize per acre this year, of making the same or more next year? Rainfall will be one of the major factors that will effect the yield from all crops. However, rainfall alone has never assured good yield. If rainfall alone governed the amount of yield, then all farmers in the same rainfall area would produce the same per acre. It is often said that our hind-sights are easier to see than our fore-sights. If we know what contributed to this year's good yield of maize, as well as good yields in past years, and use these same practices next year, we would expect about the same yield. The reasons given for good yields this year by district co-operators are numerous. Level closed end terraces is one of the main reasons given, by District co-operators, that attributed to good yields. How the land was used last year, the amount of crop residue left in past years, and the crop rotation followed in the years past were reasons given that effected this year's yield. How much rainfall received and when it was received also effected this year's crop yields. However, nothing can be done to change when and how much it rains.

From observation and from information obtained from District farmers, by Lloyd B. Johnson of the Soil Conservation Service, all crop yields have been effected by a combination of soil, water and plant conservation practices. Whether or not next year's yield will be the same, with the same rainfall, will depend on whether or not better use is made of the rainfall that is received.

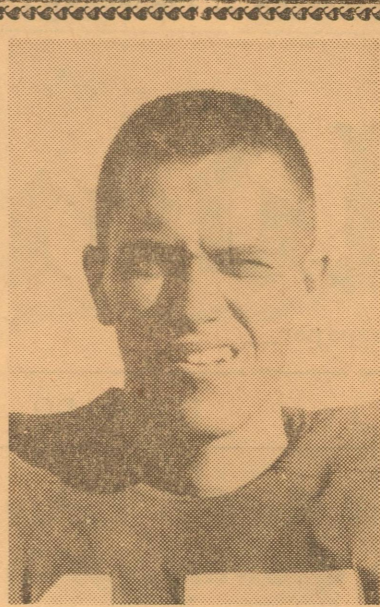

Now is the time to begin applying practices on this year's maize land that will benefit next year's crops. The order in which these things are done can also make a difference. By plowing to kill this year's maize stalks along with weeds in the field, moisture that is being used now can be conserved for the next crop. By using sweep type implements a big percent of the stubble is left on the surface to help prevent water loss by evaporation and run-off. The amount of stubble (crop residue use) left on a field and how it is left on the soil is a major factor in soil and water conservation.

The amount of crop residue is usually related directly to the amount of grain combined. Checks made this year on maize stubble that produced 1850 lbs. of grain per acre was 2000 pounds per acre excluding the roots. By leaving all the residue, regardless of how much it might be, and by leaving most of it on the surface, maximum benefits can be obtained.

Conservation practices applied or maintained before next year's crops are planted could make the difference in a profit or a loss. As soon as this year's crops are harvested is the time to apply the needed conservation practices. With all the needed soil, water and plant conservation practices applied and being maintained, it is still a guess as to how much each crop will make. However, it is no guess that all the water, or all that is feasibly possible, will be held on the land where it falls.

Our WASHINGTON Letter
By Congressman O. C. FISHER

Pressures to increase immigration to this country have been shaping up in recent weeks. President Kennedy sent a special message to Congress which, if enacted, would enable more than a half million more to be admitted annually from southern and eastern European and Afro-Asian countries. The President's request calls for abolition of the National Origin System, which for 40 years has been the basis for our quota limitation laws. After five years, under the President's proposal, the total increase per year could approximate one million.

Last June the President promised the American Committee on Italian Migration that he planned to ask Congress to liberalize our immigration laws, and his special message followed.

Despite our present restrictions, which do not apply to the Western Hemisphere, total immigration runs about one million per year now. The line against pressures to liberalize admissions has been held, largely due to the efforts of the late Congressman Francis Walter, Chairman of the Committee handling immigration laws in the House. Walter's death two months ago has caused proponents of more liberal immigration laws to step up their efforts.

This move is unfortunate for many reasons. In the first place, the increase would add to unemployment and housing problems. And, it is believed by many observers that with the scrapping of our National Origins System on the average a more undesirable class of people would be admitted.

Pressures for abolishing present restrictions stems from many foreign-born organizations in this country. These groups are often referred to as blocs, and their votes are often sought by politicians.

In any event, the Congress may have to come to grips with this proposal soon.

Home Demonstration Agent's Column
By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

The home maker's friend, Heloise, has been around for a much longer time than many of us know. In fact about a year ago, Marseleine Patterson Clarke (Mrs. Neville), of Dayton, Ohio, wrote and said that some one had given her a book of ideas compiled by Heloise.

I think Heloise is wonderful and enjoy her column very much, but I think that we have as much inventive talent in the home makers of our county as she finds anywhere. Don't misunderstand, I'm not going in competition with Heloise but if you have a slick way of doing some household job, just call me and by way of this column I'll pass it on. If you would care for the credit I'll give the source; otherwise I won't. Or, if you have a question which might be answered to the interest of others, drop it in the mail. And as always holds, names will be withheld by request.

I do not have all the answers; I don't even have all the questions, but with the aid of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Home Economics division of the Texas Extension Service, somebody is bound to have an answer.

So—speaking of slick tricks let me name off a few which I remember having heard at club meetings. Mrs. Edgar Spencer offered this dandy: Save empty egg cartons. Where an egg has been place a charcoal briquette. A dozen briquettes will just about do a chicken or four or five hamburgers. Set the carton on the grill and light it. As the carton burns the charcoal catches fire and will continue to burn. The best part about this arrangement is that the briquettes are easily stored and they are clean to handle—all boxed up. And of course you can use as many dozen as the meat load demands.

My mother, Mrs. L. Moore, has devised a system to take care of small trash around the sewing machine. She hangs a plastic litter bug bag (small size) on a knob of a sewing machine drawer. Once you get accustomed to a certain place for scraps and bits of thread throwing them away becomes automatic.

Another idea picked up at a cleaning work shop: to clean and shine all the chromium which shows up on new stoves, cars, refrigerators and any other place for that matter, simply dampen a small piece of cloth or cotton with ordinary rubbing alcohol. Cleans like magic and is easy, easy.

Use a piece of sheer wool as a press cloth for pressing woolen garments. DO NOT dampen the wool cloth—if more moisture is needed that a steam gives, a cotton cloth, evenly dampened, may be placed over the wool cloth. Always press the fabric on the grain. On the grain means staying with the way the material is woven; warp threads run lengthwise the cloth and the filler threads run across.

All the "Dennis the Menace" things don't get printed in the paper. Not long ago Jim Bob Edmiston was in my office and we heard his mother call him. (For those who may not know, Jim Bob is the pre-schooler son of Sheriff Orval and Charlene Edmiston.)

Jim Bob didn't answer and Charlene called him again. He realized that he had to go. With the grimness that only a little one can muster, he said, "I'll be glad when I start to school—then they won't know where I am all the time."

The ceremony will begin at 3:30 in the library. Mrs. W. N. Ramsay, Mrs. Virge Tisdale and Mrs. Luke Thompson will present the two-color certificates. Certificates were earned by members of the Texas Reading Club for reading a minimum of 12 books on each members reading level. Last year Eldorado Library issued 32 certificates to graduates of the Texas Reading Club, sponsored by Texas State Library and the Eldorado Public Library.

Also surviving are one brother and two sisters and grand parents Mr. and Mrs. Amos Taylor of Santa Anna; in addition to his wife and daughter Susan of Whitney, Texas.

Lions Hear Coach

Earl Barnett, coach of the Eldorado Eagles, gave the program at the meeting yesterday of the Lions club. Introduced by Dan Sebesta, program chairman, the coach discussed this year's Eagle varsity team and how they stack up against the other teams of the district. There are now 40 boys out on the high school team, including both the varsity and the B team, the coach pointed out, with possibility that one or two more may get on it. Coach Whitaker's Jr. High team has 23 members.

Main rules changes in effect this year include four time-outs instead of five during each half, requiring all players to wear mouth-piece for protection (although the local gridders have used them for some time), and making the quarterback eligible for a forward pass. The coach's talk was well received by the club members; the Eagles open their season's play tomorrow night when Rocksprings comes here.

C. J. Hahn presided at the business session and reminded members of the 35th anniversary ladies night coming up at Ballinger the night of Sept. 16th. A few local Lions may attend. Hahn appointed Elton McGinnis Granvil Hext, John Murr and Ronnie Mittel to the tables and chairs committee for the ladies' night honoring the school faculty the night of Sept. 17th.

By Dayton Kelley

Just 100 years ago Sunday, 40-odd Irish Confederates from the Houston docks turned back a Federal Navy invasion fleet of several thousand men at Sabine Pass in one of the most brilliant victories achieved by the Confederacy during the entire Civil War.

On Saturday, to commemorate the remarkable feat, representatives of that same Navy will lay a wreath at the feet of the statue of Lieutenant Dick Dowling, the leader of the Confederate defenders, which stands in a park overlooking the Pass below Port Arthur.

It will all be a part of the centennial observance of the Battle of Sabine Pass being planned and carried out this week end. The wreath will be placed by a landing party from the destroyer U. S. S. Wren which will be stationed in the Pass Saturday and Sunday in honor of the occasion.

The Saturday afternoon ceremony at 3 o'clock in the Sabine Pass Battlefield Park will follow a Friday night meeting of the Texas Civil War Centennial Advisory Committee, a Saturday morning roundtable discussion of "Texas Coastal Defenses During the Civil War" and a 12:30 luncheon featuring Attorney General Waggoner Carr speaking on "The Significance of the Battle of Sabine Pass."

The two-hour long round table discussion, to which all Civil War buffs are invited, will feature outstanding Texas Civil War authorities speaking on various aspects of Texas coastal defenses during the War. This has been described by one historian as "the most brilliant chapter in the history of the Confederacy."

Speakers will include such authorities as Judge Newton Fitzhugh of Dallas, Alwyn Barr of Austin, Bob Glover of Tyler, Peter Wells of Beaumont, and Mrs. D. M. Parmelee of Monahans. About half the time will be devoted to a discussion periods for other Civil War buffs present.

Master of ceremonies for the statewide luncheon will be John Ben Sheppard of Odessa, former Attorney General and now president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee and chairman of the Texas Civil War Centennial Advisory Committee.

One of the highlights of the luncheon will be a rendition of some of the songs inspired by the Battle of Sabine Pass. Sheet music to several songs has been acquired among them "To the Davis Guards" "Sabine Pass," and "True Irish Valor."

Mrs. Bruce A. Davis and Mrs. Samuel Simon, both of Port Arthur will render their version of one of the Sabine Pass songs and State Representative J. D. Weldon, also of Port Arthur, will lead a Rebel yell.

And after all the enthusiasm generated by such goings-on really gets up steam, we wouldn't be surprised if there is talk of trying to keep the Federal Navy out of Sabine Pass.

In fact, one state official says Texas had to promise not to fire on the U. S. S. Wren when she heaves to in the Pass on the anniversary of the battle that sent the Navy reeling back to New Orleans.

Footnotes and fan mail: This department has a personal interest in all the plans for Sabine Pass because we sort of laid the ground work while working as special consultant to the Texas Civil War

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Etheredge and Jackie and Greg are spending their vacation in Eldorado with their parents, the Claude Doyles and the Jack Etheredges.

Mrs. Vester Hughes of Mertzon and granddaughter Mary Ellen Pool, had lunch with Mrs. W. T. Whitten last Friday.

Buddy Mercer will leave Tuesday to enroll for the fall term at McMurry college at Abilene.

Mrs. Ada Pennington of Lufkin is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Burton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Biggs visited relatives in Zephyr and Denton the first of last week, then came back by Abilene and visited their sons, Glenn and Truman. A grandson, Brian Biggs, came home with them Thursday and stayed until Sunday.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrews Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Beckley of San Saba.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrews were: Mr. and Mrs. Tony Kerr and Tracy and Leslie of El Paso; Mr. and Mrs. Rony Kerr and Rhonda of San Angelo, and Mrs. Happy Kerr.

Centennial Commission during the summer of 1962. We went to Sabine Pass to talk up the observance with folks in Beaumont and Port Arthur, laid out the overall plans and set the wheels in motion for the whole thing. Now it is pleasing to see some of our suggestions becoming a reality.

Then too, we've been asked to serve as a member of the State Civil War Centennial Advisory Committee and to preside at the Saturday morning round table discussion, a task which gives us much pleasure also.

One of the features of the luncheon Saturday will be a display of the Dowling family silver service and other momentos of the valiant Irishman.

Note to those who have sent stamps for copies of the Gettysburg Centennial program which we brought back to Texas with us: We're mailing out the copies as fast as we can in our limited time. We still have plenty of copies of the official program containing all the events and will mail copies to readers who send stamps with their request.

We also still have a few copies of a little booklet containing Currier and Ives prints of the Civil War. Readers who wish one of these may send a stamp for it.

Recommended reading this week —Frank X. Tolbert, Dallas Morning News staffer, is scheduled to receive an award of merit from the Centennial Commission in Port Arthur this week end for his "Dick Dowling at Sabine Pass" which McGraw-Hill brought out last fall. We recommended the book to our readers then and do so again because of the timeliness of its subject.

Two Wacoans are also scheduled to receive awards of merit for their work. These are Col. H. B. Simpson for his study of McLennan County and Waco in Hood's Texas Brigade entitled "Gains Mill to Appomattox," published by the Texian Press of Waco and also recommended in this space; and Bill Morrison, Waco publisher, for his Confederate unit history reprints.

We recently had the privilege of examining two of these reprints, one originally published in 1911 and the other in 1925. The first, "Reminiscences of the Civil War" by Ralph J. Smith, Co. K. 2nd Texas Infantry, was published in San Marcos, and the other, "History of Company M, First Texas Volunteer Infantry, Hood's Brigade," was first published in Groveton by its author, Sgt. D. H. Hamilton.

These two volumes should be of interest to readers looking for accounts of how Texans fared in the War.

And as for new Texas items relating to the Civil War, always few and far between, the latest and by far the best thing we've come across in a good while is Herman Toepperwein's "Rebel in Blue," published two weeks ago by William Morrow & Co.

A novel of above average stature, "Rebel in Blue" is based on the activities of the German colonists around Fredericksburg who remained loyal to the Union during the War. The author is a native of the area and a descendant of the early founders of Fredericksburg and so the territory and its history is well known to him.

Manufacturing Of License Plates Big Job For Hwy. Dept.

Austin.—License plates for Texas as motor vehicles are produced at the lowest comparable cost of any state in the Union, the Texas Highway Department said recently.

State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer said a report compiled by the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators showed that Texas' delivered price on its 1962 license plates was only 14.2 cents a pair—lower than any other state making two plates per motor vehicle. ("Delivered price" includes both manufacturing and freight charges needed to get the plates to County Tax Assessor-Collector offices all over the state). The 1962 figures are the latest available.

The Highway Department supervises the production of license plates, which are manufactured by prison labor at the Huntsville State Prison. Forty other states also use prison labor to make license plates.

The Highway Department derives a net profit for the highway fund of more than 97% of the revenues it receives from license plates, Greer said. Only about 2 1/2 % is required for administrative cost.

The Eldorado Success

Highlights and Sidelights FROM your State CAPITOL

Austin.—Texas' new Parks-Wildlife Commission has reclassified its personnel in keeping with the $3.5 million budget set by the Legislature. Reclassification will result in an additional $10,000 in salary expenses.

Commissioners voted to keep all personnel from the old Parks Board and the Game and Fish Commission on the payroll.

Howard Dodgen, former executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, will be retained as a Consultant to the Board until January.

Commission also approved Executive Director Weldon Watson's recommendation that the state parks system be managed through the five regional offices used by game officials. Regional headquarters are located in LaPorte, Rockport, San Angelo, Tyler and Waco.

New Trend?

There seems to be a new trend toward refusing federal aid: The Irving School Board spurned an offer of an $11,000 grant because "of the growing danger of federal control of the school curriculum."

But most school systems still accept educational assistance from the U. S. government. Texas Education Agency, looking at preliminary figures for the 1962-63 school year, found $33.7 million was paid to Texas schools by federal programs.

In some cases, however, acceptance is selective: Both Houston and Dallas, which have local programs geared to prevent student drop-outs, refused cash grants for a similar federal program.

Houston and Dallas also are among the Texas towns which reject federal funds for school lunch programs. Others include Odessa, Goose Creek, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Henderson, Longview, Borger and Alvin.

U. S. Aid

Abilene turned down a $446,730 offer of aid for a $3 million sewer treatment plant from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Federal grants for $3 million worth of sewer treatment improvements in Texas are recommended and administered by State Health Department officials.

Funds refused by Abilene were distributed among the following towns: Fritch, Gonzales, Graford, Hidalgo, Markum, Mineral Wells, Richland Hills, Smiley, West Columbia and Windom.

Texas' Tax Take

Although the Lone Star State accepted less federal money than many other states during the fiscal year that ended on June 30 it received slightly more than it paid out, according to a survey by Congressional Quarterly.

Texas paid about 4.26 per cent of all taxes received by the federal government. It reaped 4.81 per cent of the $10 million-plus federal grant total, or $500,295,000.

National average of federal aid received was $56 per capita. In Texas, the assistance averaged $49 per citizen. Alaskans were high with a per capita average of $226. Low was New Jersey with $34 per capita.

Schools and sewage systems were just a few targets of federal aid. In fiscal 1962, this state received $128,734,600 for highway construction; $31,120,182 for unemployment insurance; $62,832,854 for agricultural conservation; $139,252,153 for welfare assistance, and $13,350,583 for the national guard as well as aid in other fields.

Venison Popular Food

State Parks and Wildlife Department has a booklet available for free distribution which should be of interest to ranchers, hunters and just about everyone.

Its title is "Texas Deer Herd Management—Problems and Principles." Booklet was written by James G. Teer, wildlife biologist formerly employed by the state. In his research, Teer found that deer herds of Texas provided more than 6,000 tons of meat for family consumption last year.

Another bulletin, newly-revised, also can be secured without cost. It's called "Poisonous Snakes of Texas and the First Aid Treatment of Their Bites."

Sales Tax Receipts Soar

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert announced that sales tax revenues for the fiscal year which ended on August 31 will exceed his expectations.

Earlier, Calvert predicted sales tax income for the state would total $177,975,013. Now he says it will be $2,141,429 more, or a total of $180,116,442.

Construction Increase

Residential construction accounted for $81.6 million of the $142 million worth of construction authorized in the state in July. It was the highest July and the third highest monthly level in 17 years. So reports the UT Bureau of Business Research.

Gas Bills Vary

A study of records, which the Texas Railroad Commission keeps on municipal gas rate structures, reveals a wide variance in gas rates across the state.

Lowest average year's bill paid by individual consumers in 1962, among the 22 cities on the commission list was $41.50. It was paid by citizens of a Corpus Christi suburb.

Highest average annual gas bill was paid by residents of Dallas. One of the lowest average bills was that paid by Amarillo residents. Their average bill for the year was $53.43.

Lawmakers' Retirement Pay

Members of the House of Representatives who have served four two-year terms and state senators who have served two four-year terms, now are eligible for retirement pay under a new law, effective September 1.

When a legislator has completed eight years of service, he receives a $100 a month retirement check. It increases $10 a year as long as he remains in the Legislature.

Parker - Shannon Vows Exchanged

MRS. RICHARD A. SHANNON—NEE MISS MARY PARKER

Miss Mary Parker and Richard Arthur Shannon of Austin exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony before a small gathering of family and close friends Thursday, August 29, at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. The Reverend Lea Roy Aldwell, priest, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Parker and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Shannon of La Feria.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a blue frock of peau de satin fashioned with a floor-length bell-shaped skirt and fitted bodice. A matching satin leaf halo hat held a face veil of illusion, and she carried white Frenched carnations and chrysanthemums.

Miss Ruth Parker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The best man was Donald Goodson of Austin, and the usher was Robert Oglesby.

Mrs. R. Q. Harris, Jr., of Sonora, was organist and Sam M. Oglesby, III, served as acolyte.

The bride's parents were hosts in their home for the reception which followed the rites.

After a wedding trip to Colorado and New Mexico, the couple will make their home at 411 East 31st Street in Austin.

The bride, a senior at the University of Texas, will receive her bachelor of arts degree in the fall when she will begin graduate study. She was named to Alpha Lambda Delta, national honorary fraternity for freshmen women, and to membership in the Junior Fellows Program, an honorary society at UT. She is a member of the University chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society dedicated to the unity and democracy of education. In April she was elected to junior in course membership in Alpha of the UT Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Mr. Shannon holds a B.A. and a law degree from the University of Texas and its School of Law. He has studied at the Law-Science Academy, Crested Butte, Colorado, under a Law-Science Institute of America scholarship. He is a member of Omicron Chi Epsilon, national economics honor society, and Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity.

The Rev. Aldwell was celebrant at the nuptial Eucharist held for the couple on Wednesday morning.

Among the prenuptial courtesies for the bride were a coffee given by the women of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, in the home of Mrs. Ernest Nimitz; a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Roy Phelps; a rehearsal supper given by the bridegroom's family, and a dinner party on the day of the wedding in the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Runge of Christoval.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. H. A. Shannon and Mrs. E. F. Shannon of La Feria; Austin guests were Mr. Marion Shafer, Frank Oatman, Jr., and John L. Rowlett.

Penny dislikes school...

but she'd like it less if she studied by a kerosene lamp per granddad's era. In present day education Penny doesn't realize how much importance is placed upon adequate school lighting. Unlike her superiors she is unaware that Reddy Kilowatt is her silent friend, protecting her precious eyesight by lighting up the pages for faster, easier and more accurate reading. When Penny grows up she'll realize how fortunate she was to be able to study under modern electric lighting.

... adequate study light is important in the home too.
