Eldorado Bank President

Funeral For Ed Hill Held Here Yesterday

Ed Hill, president of the First National Bank and practically a life-long resident of the county, died at his home here at 11:00 p.m., Monday after a brief illness of only about four days.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Methodist church at 2:00 p.m. Wednesday (yesterday) conducted by the pastor, the Rev. C. M. Nyquist, and interment was made in Eldorado cemetery under direction of Ratliff-Kerbow Funeral Home.

Pall bearers were Raymond Hall, J. T. Jackson Jr., James Page, Leslie L. Baker, E. C. Peters, Louis B. Wade, W. S. McGregor, and William McWhorter.

John Edward Hill was born in Bosque county April 25, 1895, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hill. The family moved to Schleicher county in 1901 at the time of the land rush and Ed remained a resident of this county practically all the time from then on. He attended Schleicher county schools and later the University of Texas.

On March 6, 1917, he was married in Fort Stockton to Josephine Murchison and was employed for a while as bookkeeper in the bank at Merton. In August 1918 he was elected as bookkeeper for the First National Bank here in Eldorado and from that time he was identified with that institution. Bank directors' minutes reveal that he was elected assistant cashier in January 1919 and as a vice president in January 1926.

Mr. Hill was elected president of the bank following the death of Mr. J. W. Christian in 1952. He was a charter member of the Eldorado Lions club, a director of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, and a trustee of the Eldorado First Methodist church.

"He was always good to me," was one of the common remarks heard on the street here Tuesday when his death became known.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Jo Ed Hill of Eldorado; one daughter, Mrs. Sarah Alice McCrahey of Eldorado; his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hill of San Antonio; one sister, Mrs. Harry Meador of Dallas; and 10 grandchildren.

Mr. Hill was preceded in death by another daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Morris Whitten, who lost her life in a car wreck last year.

PAT FINLEY BUYS OLD HOUSE FROM PRESBYTERIANS

Pat Finley was successful bidder for the large frame house near the water tower for which the Presbyterian church received bids recently.

Mr. Finley will tear down part of the two-story structure and move off the rest. He expects to be at work on this job soon.

The house was given to the church several years ago by Bert Page and in early days was occupied by the Silliman family.

BEAUTY SHOP MOVED

Mrs. Rose Doyle has moved her beauty shop to the Finnigan building and invites the public to see it and have refreshments tomorrow. More details in her ad, page 3.

Post Script

Because of the funeral Wednesday afternoon of Ed Hill, charter member of the Lions club, the regularly scheduled meeting of the club was not held yesterday.

Mr. Hill was one of the three remaining members of the club who were charter members and who have kept membership in the organization in all the intervening 35 years since the club was organized back in 1928. The other two are Don McCormick and Ernest C. Hill.

The Methodist church was not nearly large enough to hold the large crowd that turned out for the funeral of Mr. Ed Hill. It was their testimony to a man who had been their banker and their friend for many years. To many Schleicher residents, Mr. Ed WAS the bank.

The rock crushing business was back in operation this week and this final coating is now being rapidly applied in the city limits.

Everyone will be glad to see the streets opened up again and it is hoped now that it won't be long.

Mrs. Mattie Roach must hold the record as the most constant reader of the Eldorado Success. She recalls receiving copies of "The Eldorado Paper" back early in the century while living near Lampasas. R. L. Carothers had established the newspaper here in 1901 and he sold out to A. T. Wright in 1906 who changed the name to "The Success" and was associated with it for a number of years afterward. When Mrs. Roach and her husband moved here in the early days, they continued to subscribe to the local paper and she has not missed a year in the nearly two-thirds of a century that the paper has been published.

When the Roaches moved here, roads leading out into the county from Eldorado were practically non-existent. There were just a few cow trails and neighbors on the various ranches were miles apart.

Mrs. Roach remembers one occasion when they were coming in for supplies and she tied red strings on the mesquite trees so they could find their way back.

The trail from their place took them by the old Vermont mill, the Whitten ranch, and the Merton to Menard road follows much of the route today.

More echoes of the recent assassination of President Kennedy:

Frank Kemble was in San Antonio the day before the President was shot in Dallas, and the Presidential motorcade passed by the hotel where he was staying.

The Lawrence Newport family spent Thanksgiving in Commerce with her father, Mr. Knight, and they came back through Dallas Sunday. They passed the site near the triple underpass where the slaying took place and reported the grassy slope strewn with sprays of flowers and bouquets.

Mary Lee Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Davis of Eldorado, works as secretary to a lawyer in Dallas and she saw the motorcade pass near the office where she works minutes before it reached the site where the sniper did his work. She wrote the Davises that there was much confusion at first following the shots.

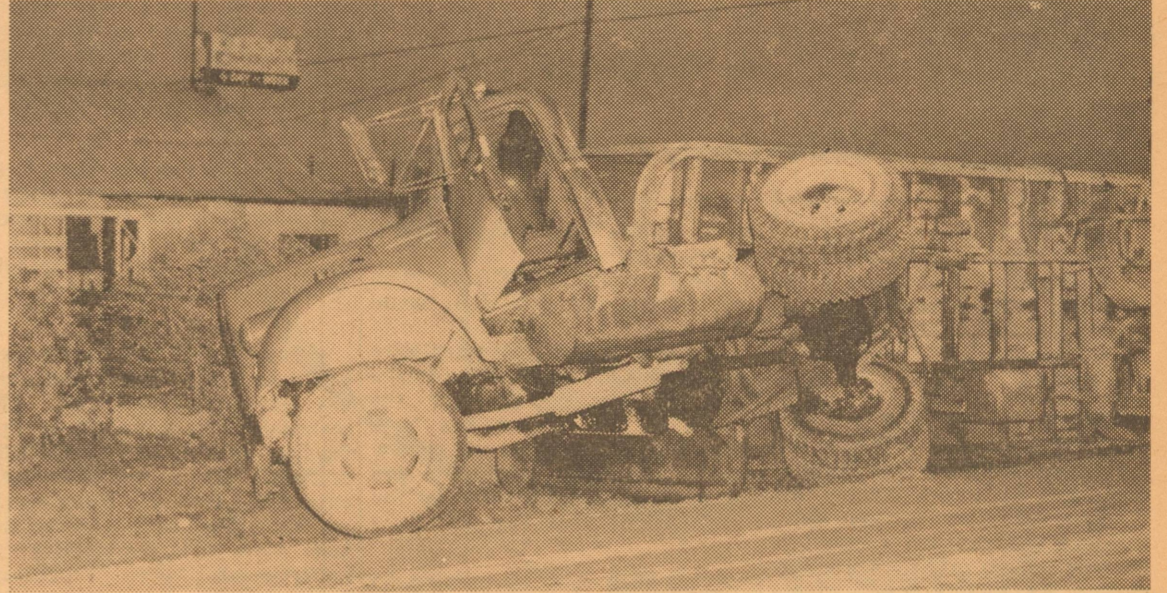

Ed Davis was a youth about 18 years old back in 1901 when word came that President McKinley had been shot at Buffalo, N.Y. Mr. Davis lived then near Junction and in those days before TV and radio, news traveled much more slowly. It was a week before complete news reports came in telling what had happened.

Life magazine reportedly paid an amateur movie photographer $25,000 for his sequence showing President Kennedy getting hit and slumping down in the car. The Dallas photographer gave the movie to Mrs. J. D. Tippit, widow of the policeman who was killed while arresting Lee Harvey Oswald, the suspected assassin. Copies of the latest Life magazine with stills from movie sequence in it sold fast here.

A Spectacular Flip, But Nobody Was Hurt

THIS BIG TRAILER TRUCK got in this position last Friday evening when it made the turn on to the detour road at the Shipman grocery corner. The road was wet and sloppy and something caused the trailer to jack-knife and this was the result. A big load of cotton seed was dumped in the ditch, but luckily Sam Gausemeier, the driver was unhurt. It was nearly dusk when the accident occurred and flares were set to keep other drivers from colliding with the wreck. Topliffe came with his winch truck and the rig was set back on its wheels after several hours' work. —Staff Photo

Cotton Referendum Vote Is Set For Tuesday

On December 10, the 1964 Cotton Referendum will be conducted in the Schleicher County ASCS office. To be eligible to vote, you must have been engaged in the production of upland cotton in 1963.

If at least 2/3 of the eligible voters approve marketing quotas for the 1964 crop, price supports will be available to growers who comply with their farm allotments and marketing quota penalties will apply to any excess cotton produced on a farm.

If quotas are not approved, there will be no quotas or penalties, but acreage allotments will remain in effect. Price support will be 50% of parity and available only to farmers who comply with their allotment.

The polls will open at 8:00 a.m. and close at 6:00 p.m. it was stated by Ronnie Mittel, county office manager. He added that wives of eligible voters are also eligible to vote.

Girls Beat Merton

The feminine Eagles bested the Merton Hornets Tuesday night 41-18 in a contest at Merton. This was a warm-up for the Girls Tournament here beginning Thursday.

After hitting a quick six points the girls hit a cold streak as they have been known to do and couldn't beg, borrow, or steal a basket. At half, the score stood 15-3. Merton too could not find the range and the game, and continued at a slow clip. The Eagles were never in danger of losing the lead but generally played without much enthusiasm.

Christy Moore against led the scoring with 26 points and in the last half Susie Scott hit four beautiful long shots to boost the Eldorado lead.

Marsha Mund contributed the other four points.

Christy pulled in 15 rebounds and Frankie Blaylock led defensively with 16 rebounds. She received assistance from Joan Griffin who had 10, Barbara Johnson had 4, Enedina Garza 1, Paula Mace 2, and Mickey Phelps 1.

Score by Quarters:
Eldorado ---- 6 9 11 15—41
Merton ----- 1 2 7 8—18

Boy Injured

Wayne Doyle, 12-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Doyle, was treated at the Eldorado Clinic Tuesday afternoon after being hurt in a motor scooter-car pickup accident. He had a bad cut on his hip which required several stitches and an injured leg.

The accident occurred at the corner of North and Highland streets where a pickup belonging to the city of Eldorado was parked. A car being driven by Jodie Wagley swerved to the left to go around the pickup and the corner, striking the boy on the scooter. They did not see each other because of the pickup.

The impact drove the scooter under the pickup; Wayne sailed over and landed on the lawn of Bob Rutledge's home. Sheriff Orval Edmiston investigated the accident. Wayne is convalescing at home.

Gustav Schleicher Monument Installed

Installed Monday on the parking lot just west of the jail building, and facing the highway, was a pink granite monument to Gustav Schleicher for whom this county is named.

Lettering on the monument states:

"County Named for Texas Confederate Captain Gustav Schleicher 1823-1879, Chief Purchasing Agent Army Engineer Department For Southern Armies West Mississippi. Bought Desperately Needed In-trenching Tools, Iron, Steel, Lead, and Turpentine. Imported Much Material From Europe Through Mexico by the Exchange of Cotton Lifeblood of the Confederacy. Established Two Engineer Depots in Texas. Designed Fortifications and Ponton Trains. Repaired Tools from Surrendered U. S. Frontier Forts. A Memorial To Texans Who Served in the Confederacy. Erected by the State of Texas, 1963."

The Schleicher County Historical Society plans to formally dedicate the monument and the medallions for the jail building and the Col Black house, at some future time with a program.

Eagles Clip Merton By Score Of 58-29

Eldorado won its second game in two starts of the basketball season with a 58-29 win over Merton.

The Eagles showed more desire and determination, but still need more work. The Eagles seem to be stuck on 58 and 18. In the Wall game they scored 58 points and 18 fouls. They got the same number of points and fouls in this game.

Richard Preston led the Eagles with 22 points. Tip Finley had 10, Lynn Meador had 8, and Mike McCrahey 8. All squad members saw action in the game.

The team hit 38% of its shots from the field, and 67% from the free throw line.

Richard Preston led the team with 20 rebounds.

Score by Quarters:
Eldorado ---- 11 11 12 24—58
Merton ----- 6 7 7 9—29

Eldorado also won the B game 43-21 with Roy Love making 15 points and Scott McGregor close behind with 13.

The Eagles go to Rocksprings for two games Friday night. Game time: 6:30.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Eighty-six members of the District 5 Sheep and Goat Raisers met in their annual conference at the Memorial Building Monday, Dec. 1 under the leadership of James Powell, president of the sheep and goat raisers.

After a barbecue lunch, a program was presented on estate and inheritance taxes by Bob Kensing, economist, Extension Service. Mr. Wallace, secretary of the sheep and goat raisers, gave a report of labeling of materials containing mohair. Mr. Jimmie Powell gave a report on the activities of the association, and of new methods of spinning of wool and mohair, improving the products manufactured from wool and mohair.

The county directors, Howard Derrick, Ed Hill, Jo Ed Hill, Edwin Jackson, Walter Pope and P. K. McIntosh deserve the credit for such a successful and informative meeting. These county directors were elected to serve another year with Morty Mertz being elected directors at large.

District 5 includes Kimble, Menard, Sutton and Schleicher counties.

James E. Nugent, representative of the 66th district to the Legislature, was a special guest of the directors. Mr. Nugent has been very actively engaged in promotion of the sheep, goat, wool and mohair industry so vital to the economics of West Texas.

A diamond is a chunk of coal that stuck to its job.

The deer season is in full swing and hunters are reminded that they, too, have a large stake in the screwworm eradication program.

Wild game is more plentiful than in any previous years. A number of factors have been credited for increase in deer populations with the screwworm eradication program at the top. Screwworms have accounted for fully three out of 10 deaths of fawns each year.

Should hunters see or kill infected deer, they are requested to bring it to the attention of the landowner of ranch owner. Infestations at this stage of the eradication program in wildlife, is more critical to the program than ranch animals—because they cannot be treated.

All cases are so important to the success of the eradication program that each case will receive special treatment, including increased release of sterile flies and spraying of livestock in infested areas.

Research continues in the insect world as entomologists and chemists have screened some 3,000 materials and found 50 of them produce sterility in insects. These materials are called chemosterilants. Field tests are being carried out with great care. Limited field tests show that populations of housefly, bollweevil, cockroach, hornfly, stable fly, mosquito, and others are controlled by chemosterilants.

Other methods other than insecticides are sex lures, attractants and gyplure.

A combination of methods of control of a specific insect or insects effecting producers will probably employ biological control in the future.

The cotton referendum will be held in the County ASCS office December 10, 1963. Mr. Mittel, office manager, states "that producers who planted cotton in 1963 or released their allotment will be eligible to vote." If this referendum carries by 2/3 vote marketing quotas will be in effect and price supports for those planting within their cotton acreage allotments. Should the referendum not carry 50% of parity will be available for those planting within acreage allotments.

Mr. Mittel states that application for wool and lamb incentives will be taken beginning the month of December and continue through January 31, 1964. He asks that all producers bring proof of sales or sales slips to support incentive applications.

A person can see both sides of a question if his pocketbook or prejudices aren't involved.

The main purpose of this banquet is to recognize the key people in Scouting, who are Den Mothers, Cubmasters, Scoutmasters, and Explorer Advisors.

"The program this year will be a most interesting one which I believe you will enjoy along with the dinner and fellowship," Pipkin stated. Tickets for the event cost $1.75 per person.

Nostalgic Settings In 'Summer Magic'

Settings and costumes reminiscent of a half-century ago with lush Technicolor, all contribute to fine family-type entertainment in Walt Disney's "Summer Magic" which will be shown Saturday and Sunday nights at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre.

Walt Disney's motion picture from Kate Douglas Wiggin's once-popular novel, "Mother Carey's Chickens" is easy to take but at times hard to believe.

The story of "Summer Magic" concerns the Widow Carey, suddenly impoverished by her husband's death, who takes her three children from their comfortable Boston home to less expensive living in a Maine village.

The cast is headlined by Hayley Mills as the daughter, along with Dorothy McGuire as the widow, Eddie Hodges and Jimmy Mathers as her sons, Deborah Walley as an upstaging cousin, Burl Ives as the kindly postmaster who lets the Careys have the house and Una Merkel as his grim wife.

The picture is handsomely mounted, as are most Disney films. There are picturesque settings and sets, the costumes are somewhat sumptuous but in keeping with the turn of the century times. There are lilting songs, of which more can be expected via the nation's disc jockeys.

"Summer Magic" has, to be quite frank, most of the elements of entertainment uncomplicated by messages and problems, social problems that is. It should be a joy to the younger set and the local drive-in should rock with youthful laughter. Older folks would certainly not be harmed by exposure to its simple story.

This is a story of bucolic life in Maine in about 1910. Presumably, the mother and three children are reduced to living on about $50 a month. Admittedly $50 was really $50 some 50 years ago, but it would still hardly buy all the elegance that the Careys enjoy in their rural retreat. This doesn't mean that Disney should have attired his leading players in rags, but the shine could have been toned down somewhat with a more convincing result.

"Summer Magic" almost becomes a musical film. Disney, never one to overlook the value of music and songs in making a film more attractive, has gone just a bit overboard in this one and the players burst out into songs at the unlikelyst times.

This situation can perhaps be pardoned by the fact that the songs are good ones, though most of them have minor places in the thread of the story. Burl Ives does especially well with a ballad-type called "The Ugly Bug Ball," during which Disney enlivens the song with film clips from some of his nature studies showing bugs, beetles and the like scurrying around as though they were dancing.

Disney again calls on his nature studies, this time for animals and such things, for a bit of background footage to Dorothy McGuire's singing of the theme song, "Summer Magic."

There is nothing wrong with using such clips as visual background for songs, but, to say the least, it is most unusual in this film.

If there is more interest in the performance of Hayley Mills, that is as it should be. This young actress, now in her late teens and showing promise of considerable beauty as well as continuing to exhibit great talent, is now stepping into ingenue roles which should lead to major starring assignments within a few years.

From her first film ("Tiger Bay") of five years ago, Hayley has shown a rare talent of being able to put across to her viewers the exact mood that the character or situation required. The passing years have strengthened this natural talent and she has certainly improved her technique.

Though inherently a comic, her teasing, rollicking attitude gives delightful flavor even to her more serious scenes.

The cast:

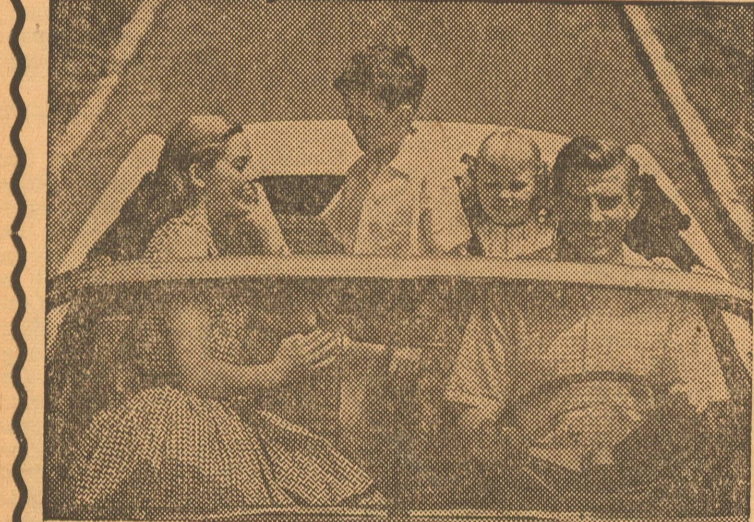

- Nancy Carey-----Hayley Mills
- Osh Popham-----Burl Ives
- Margaret Carey-----Dorothy McGuire
- Cousin Julia-----Deborah Walley
- Gilly Carey-----Eddie Hodges
- Peter Carey-----Jimmy Mathers
- Digby Popham-----Michael Pollard
- Lallie Joy-----Wendy Turner
- Maria Popham-----Una Merkel
- Tom Hamilton-----Peter Brown

PENSIONERS REMINDED TO FILL OUT REPORTS

This year's income reporting time begins again on December 1 for 9,000 disabled veterans and the dependents of some 7,000 deceased veterans receiving VA pension in the San Antonio Regional area, P. J. Mims, VA Regional Manager explained.

Along with their November 30 checks, all VA pension recipients will receive enclosed tabulating cards. They carry the words "please do not mutilate." It is important that these instructions be followed.

On these cards beneficiaries must report all income received during 1963 and that expected in 1964. Income means everything including Social Security payments except, of course, the VA pension payments themselves.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Mowrey visited here with the Eldon Calks during the holidays. They had been to San Antonio and came through on their way back to their home at McNary, Arizona.

What motivated Lee Oswald to commit one of history's most heinous crimes?

Left-wingers, using tortuous reasoning, want to connect it with racial bigotry and conservative movements, but thus far they have been able to use only their fertile imaginations.

Old Drew Pearson, the key-hole columnist, associates the murderer's motivation with opposition in Dallas to the late President. TASS, the official Russian news service, after first blaming the killing on right-wing followers and racists, flopped over after the Communist brand was put indelibly upon Oswald, and decided the latter was a Trotskyite—a type of Communist not in good favor among Communists who are followers of Lenin.

Fidel Castro, one of the world's leading Communist murderers, faced with the fact that Oswald was a pro-Castro crusader, blurted out a tirade about racial bigotry and right-wing crusades being responsible for the assassination.

Even Chief Justice Warren got into the act. He issued a statement associating the President's tragic death with "racial bigotry."

The fact is that Oswald acted as chairman of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, a well known Communist organization, in New Orleans until late August when he moved to Dallas. Following that he made a trip to Mexico City, visited the Cuban embassy there, and sought a visa to Russia via Havana, but it was either delayed or denied. Oswald was without funds and it may be that Castro's embassy didn't want to put up the money for the trip. Or the embassy may have decided they could make better use of him in the states.

The murderer spent nearly three years in Russia, returning to the U.S.A. in 1962, and in New Orleans boasted of being a Marxist-Leninist and a profound follower of Fidel Castro. Before the murder Oswald applied for membership in the Dallas chapter of the left-wing American Civil Liberties Union. After his arrest he said he wanted a Mr. Abt, a New York attorney to represent him. Abt is notorious for having represented many Communists in the past.

All of this mounting evidence is embarrassing to the Communist and left-wing crowd who are faced with the fact that one of their own gang pulled the fatal trigger. Not that they are too good to commit murder, but they don't want to be exposed to the rays of the mid-day sun. Indeed, all Communist doctrine justifies murder, espionage, treason, perjury, and any other crime that tends to serve their ends. That training in the philosophy of lawlessness and crime, which marked the career of Lee Oswald, probably made him murder-minded and fatally bent on mischief.

By Dayton Kelley

The hope we expressed in this space last time that the daughter of Prince de Polignac, the French-born Confederate general who led Texas troops in the Battle of Mansfield, be invited to participate in the 100th anniversary commemoration of that battle, seems about to become a reality.

A long letter from John Ben Sheppard of Odessa, chairman of the Texas Civil War Centennial Advisory Committee, outlined for us the rather ambitious plans for the centennial ceremonies next April 4. The plans were worked out recently in Tyler in a joint meeting with delegates from Louisiana and include a provision that the daughter and any other known descendants of General Polignac be extended an invitation to attend the ceremonies.

The General returned to France following the defeat of the Confederacy, but he and his family maintained an interest in preserving the history of the Confederacy and some of them later came to Mansfield.

Mr. Sheppard says the Advisory Committee considers Mansfield the next major observance of the centennial of the Civil War for Texas and plans to put all available manpower and resources behind it. Among the events scheduled during the observance is the erection and dedication of a Texas marker listing on one side all the Texas units that participated in the Battle of Mansfield and on the other side those that fought in the Red River Campaign, a campaign of which Mansfield was the turning point in favor of the Confederacy.

Until now no marker has called attention to the fact that approximately 40% of the troops at Mansfield were from East Texas alone and that additional Texans were present from other sections of the state. We first suggested in this space in 1961, following a visit to Mansfield as consultant to the Texas Civil War Centennial Commission, that a marker ought to be erected there.

The Battle of Mansfield commemoration, according to Mr. Sheppard, will also call attention to the part played by Texans in the entire Red River Campaign. "We plan a big Texas muster at or near the border on the morning of April 4 and hope to have descendants of many of the Texans who participated in the Campaign join us for the caravan to Mansfield," he said. Special badges for descendants containing the name of the individual's name and that of his or her ancestor are also in the offing.

"I believe a conservative estimate of living descendants within a 200 miles radius of Mansfield (in Texas) would be 10,000," Mr. Sheppard said.

Judge Newton Fitzhugh of Dallas did most of the work on the marker which will list the units from Texas which participated in the campaign. The Judge is perhaps the most outstanding authority on Texas Confederate units and did a tremendous amount of research compiling the following units for inclusion on the marker:

Infantry—3rd, 11th, 12th ("8th") 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th 19th and 22nd. Cavalry—1st, 4th, 5th, 7th, 12th, 13th Dismounted, 16th old Val Verde cannon which has been sitting on the courthouse square at Fairfield for decades is fired sometime during the afternoon. The old weapon has been fitted up with a carriage and will return to the battle scene where it saw action a hundred years ago.

Recommended Reading For this Week: Every month sees an increasing number of books on the Civil War coming from the nation's publishers. Not all of these are those we would consider worthwhile and it's quite a task to cull through them for the better ones.

Most of the better ones, of course, come from the well-known publishing houses, but some of the finest examples of local items come from smaller publishers and many are financed by local historical groups or Civil War Centennial Committees.

The State Department of Archives and History of North Carolina has just brought out an edition of the state's Civil War governor's letters, edited by Frontis W. Johnston and entitled "Zebulon B. Vance Letters." We have found this to be a collection of informative letters and compliment the state's historical division on the publication of these items. Wisconsin's State Historical Society also has a small paperback entitled "Wisconsin and the Civil War" by the eminent scholar and historian Frank L. Klement that depicts the state's role in brief but fast moving fashion. Published for the Wisconsin Civil War Centennial Commission by the Society, the booklet sells for only 75 cents and is worth much more for the buff.

The Cumberland County Historical Society of Carlisle, Penn., has two publications worth some attention in its "Dear Folks at Home," and "Civil War Miscellany," each of which is reasonably priced, and the Morrisons Cove Herald at Martinsburg, Penn., also has a reasonably priced and well written book in its "Minute Men of Pennsylvania."

The Civil War Centennial Committee of the Historical Society of Carroll County, Maryland, has just recently released "Just South of Gettysburg" by three well-versed local historians. Depicting activities in Carroll County during the War, the book was published for the Society by Newman Press of Westminster, Maryland.

Looking More and More Like a Church

FROM TOURIST COURT TO CHURCH — The facade of the Catholic Church presents a change from the building's former appearance when it was the Rock Courts.

Hard work, determination, and a will to succeed have characterized Eldorado Catholics in their efforts in recent years to convert the landmark Rock Courts building in the north part of town into new quarters for Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

Since acquiring the old Courts building and about five acres of land a few years ago, the local congregation have been busy converting the structure into suitable quarters for their church. The building has now been in use for some time, but more work remains to be done and "We'll do it as the money comes in" a local spokesman said.

Mrs. Mattie Roach, who with her family gave the altar in the new church in memory of her husband, the late Ambrose Roach who died in 1956, recalls that a mission priest came out from San Angelo to say mass at their ranch home back as early as about 1919. This was at the ranch home now occupied by W. F. Edmiston.

Later the Roach family moved into town so their children could attend school and lived in the house on the Menard highway now owned by Mrs. Evelyn Pennington. In that house, too, mass was held whenever priests were available.

Still later the small frame church was erected in Eldorado's Latin-American section, and was in use until the present building was put into use. Fred Watson bought the old church building some time ago.

At the present time, a priest, Rev. Joel Bryan of Sonora, serves the local Catholic congregation, coming up each Sunday morning at 11:30 for mass. He also comes some weeks days.

Religious instruction is given at the church each Thursday after school. Instructors have included Mrs. Roach, Mrs. Sam Gausemeier, and the San Angelo Sisters who come in the summer and at other times.

Over the years, the Roach family have given hospitality in their home to the Sisters during their terms here in summer school, and at other times they have stayed overnight. The Franciscan Fathers have also been so received.

When the Rock Courts building and land were purchased, the building committee faced a formidable task in converting it to their purposes.

C. C. West built the structure back in 1928-29, with Lark McClary doing the stone work. It was a "tourist court" in the tradition of its day, with several "cabins" along one side and common bath facilities at the end.

When built, it was hailed as a fine addition to the town of Eldorado which, with the Eldo hotel, would provide overnight accommodations for transient people coming through.

In May of 1929, the Eldorado Lions club held their first anniversary party on the premises. The Rock Courts continued in use for a number of years afterward, but as people demanded the more comfortable and modern facilities of the newer motels, the old Rock Courts fell into disrepair and had not been in use for some time when acquired for a new Catholic Church.

As remodeling work got under way, the painted cake walk could still be seen on the court's floor.

A major job was the closing in of the open wall on the south side. C. L. Martin Sr. and his son and other workers were hired to oversee the work, and Fred Smith and Jim Tom Roach laid the glass bricks. Throughout the entire project, much of the labor has been donated.

After the south wall was closed in, a forced-air heating system was installed, a tile floor was laid, and a number of used pews were found in Louisiana, freighted here, and stored in the Roach building on South Main street until they could be installed. All the pews were re-finished and now present a handsome appearance in the church.

Several partitions were removed from between the old rental units and furnishings for several classrooms are now in place along the north side of the building.

The church has already provided appropriate setting for several funerals, weddings, confirmations, and holy day observances.

Eldorado Catholics state that they will continue to improve the facilities as funds become available and as the work can be done. They plan to put further finishing touches on the front of the building, do some landscaping of the grounds, and the nearly five acres of land will allow for any future expansion that might be needed.

Bishop Drury of San Angelo has visited the church, and has given it his blessing. It is planned to invite him here at some future time to dedicate the church. The bishop is now in Rome attending the Ecumenical Conference and is expected back in San Angelo sometime in December. His diocese consists of 32 counties here in West Texas.

Whenever people drive into Eldorado from the north side, the Catholic church is one of the first buildings they see.

ALTAR in Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church was given by the Roach family in memory of the late Ambrose Roach, pioneer Schleicher county resident who was born in Ireland.

Peace Corps Test Set For This Saturday

The Peace Corps has announced that Saturday, December 7, is the last opportunity this year to take the Placement Test and qualify for the spring training programs. The non-competitive aptitude tests will be administered at about 890 locations (post offices and federal buildings) in principal cities in the United States, beginning at 8:30 a.m., including room 324 of the Federal Building in San Angelo.

For most applicants, the Placement Test will take about 1½ hours. Those who claim a knowledge of Spanish or French will be asked to take an additional one-hour language achievement test.

To become a Volunteer, an applicant must not only take the test but submit a Peace Corps Questionnaire. Those who have not done so will be asked to complete one immediately after the testing. No applicant may take the test for a second time without special authority from the Peace Corps. There are no passing or failing marks on the Placement Test. The scores are used, along with other criteria, to aid in the selection process.

Over 6,000 new opportunities in the Peace Corps are now open in Africa, Asia and Latin-America. India is asking for nurses, Thailand for English teachers, Turkey for social workers, Gabon for carpenters, Brazil wants more community development workers. Dozens of countries are asking for Peace Corps for Volunteers for hundreds of different jobs—especially in fields of engineering, agriculture, health, construction, and education.

Liberal arts college graduates, and others with no special "skills" have been found highly useful overseas in the fields of teaching and community development programs. A college education is not required. To qualify to take the Placement Test applicants must be American citizens at least 18 years old. Married couples are eligible if both qualify and have no dependents under 18.

HOLIDAY VISITORS

A Thanksgiving guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Parker was Dr. Glenn G. Gilbert of the University of Texas.

Dr. Gilbert has just completed a study of the German spoken in Gilbert and Gillespie counties and hopes to extend the project to other counties in Texas. Dr. Gilbert was particularly interested in Schleicher county, as it is the only county in Texas with a German name.

He especially enjoyed visiting with Mrs. J. F. Runge, whose husband has written several articles on the German influence in Texas.

Handsome Ripe Olive Potato Salad

Potato salad can go to a party when it's as fancy as "Danish Olive-Potato Salad."

You might chill this mold overnight the day before the party to let the ripe olives, onion, vinegar, dill weed and other seasonings blend properly with the creamy potatoes.

Versatile ripe olives sound a note of elegance in many salads, soups, casseroles and meat and fish sauces. Husky, ripe olive wedges dress up vegetables, too, such as creamed carrots or creamed spinach. And whole ripe olives as garnish for sandwich plates, or rolled in olive or salad oil for party relish trays, are practically an American institution.

DANISH OLIVE-POTATO SALAD

|------------------------|--|
| 1 cup ripe olives | 1 teaspoon dill weed |
| 1 cup chopped onion | 5 cups cooked sliced or diced potatoes |
| 1/2 cup butter | 1/2 cup whipping cream |
| 1/2 to 3/4 cup vinegar | Parsley sprigs |
| 1/2 to 1 teaspoon salt | |
| 1/4 teaspoon pepper | |

Cut olives into wedges. Cook onion in butter until soft but not browned. Add vinegar, salt, pepper and dill weed. Combine with potatoes. Carefully mix in cream and olives. Pack mixture into 5- or 6-cup ring mold; chill. To serve, unmold on serving plate and garnish with parsley. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Austin.—With a shocked and saddened nation still grieving over the tragic death of its President, Texas' Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr set in motion a court of inquiry to obtain all facts surrounding the assassination of President Kennedy—the shooting of Governor Connally—and the related crimes.

Herbert Miller, head of the Criminal Division of the U. S. Department of Justice, pledged full cooperation from federal agencies in bringing the complete story to the American people and to the world.

Dallas investigate agencies already had turned their evidence over to the FBI, which is engaged in its own extensive probe.

U. S. congressional inquiries also have been demanded.

"Because of the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, many facts concerning the assassination of President Kennedy, the attempted assassination of Governor Connally, and the murder of Dallas police officer J. D. Tippit will be left unanswered unless some forum is available to fully examine motive and evidence concerning the case," Carr said earlier in announcing plans for the Dallas court of inquiry before a justice of the peace.

Carr maintained that a court of inquiry is the only forum where local, state, and federal investigating officials can place evidence on record in a judicial manner, with witnesses subpoenaed under oath.

A decision by the Texas Supreme Court holds that a wife CAN be forced to testify against her husband IN SUCH A COURT.

Texas law long has held that a wife's testimony cannot be used against her husband in a CRIMINAL TRIAL. But the law laying down the procedure for a COURT OF INQUIRY says that "any person" may be forced to testify before such a public hearing, and if that person refuses, he can be held in contempt and jailed.

Therefore, the Russian-born wife of accused assassin Lee Oswald can be forced to testify against her husband. But any evidence her testimony may produce may not be used against her husband in a criminal trial. However, in Oswald's case, there will be no trial to follow the inquiry.

It may be that such evidence would be helpful to State attorneys when they prosecute the case against Jack Ruby of Dallas, the man accused of murdering Oswald.

Governor Connally said he hopes all investigations will be directed "toward determining the facts, conditions and circumstances that occurred" and will have as their purpose determining whether the assassination was the work of an individual maniac or a conspiracy... and development of plans for future presidential safety. He pledged his cooperation with any investigation—local, state or federal.

AIRLINE SALUTES PIONEER PILOTS

A Ford Tri-Motor in the colors of American Airways, for which it flew nearly 35 years ago, pays a flying tribute to the memorial in honor of pioneer airmen of U. S. commercial aviation. The memorial (at right) is located at Guadalupe Pass, near El Paso, Tex.

EL PASO, Tex.—Most famous of the nation's pioneer airliners, a 35-year old Ford Tri-Motor, paid a flying tribute recently past a memorial to pioneer pilots located near here.

The memorial was placed five years ago atop Guadalupe Peak, highest point in Texas, by American Airlines. Guadalupe and companion peaks, notably El Capitan, represented a formidable challenge to the early airmen who flew the mails in the late 20s and early 30s for American's predecessor companies.

The salute by the Ford came exactly five years to the day after the six ft. pyramidal monument was dedicated (September 29). The Ford used for the salute appropriately was one which actually flew for American's immediate predecessor, American Airways. It was restored by the company for eventual presentation to the Smithsonian Institution's new National Air Museum. Meanwhile, it has been making a number of airport visits and was purposely routed through El Paso to pay the tribute.

The Tri-Motor then went on to Renton, Wash., where it took part in the rollout from the Boeing Company plant of American's first 727 Astrojet. The 727 is the first three-engined airliner built in the U. S. since the 30s.

of Austin has become the nation's Little White House. Home of new President Lyndon B. Johnson, it was built by his grandfather a century ago.

It is doubtful that President Johnson, who has urged Congress to immediately pass Kennedy's civil rights and tax bills and who faces staggering responsibilities in the months just ahead, will have much time to spend in Texas for a while.

But many of the world's top national and world leaders have come to the quiet banks of the Pedernales River to confer with Johnson in recent years. No doubt he often will return to the family home he loves so well, not only for rest from the cares of his office, but for the planning of tasks ahead.

It's pretty much assured that a great deal of history will be written at the LBJ Ranch.

Major Highway Plan Announced

State Highway Commission has approved a tremendous new interstate and defense highway construction program, running into hundreds of millions of dollars... $436,700,000, to be exact. It's called the "largest work program" in Texas Highway Department history.

It authorizes purchase of all remaining right-of-way on the 3,033 mile interstate highway system and paves the way for construction of an additional 1,306 miles of interstate highways which crisscross the state.

Chairman Herbert C. Pety Jr. of Carrizo Springs says the plan assures Texas of continued leadership over all other states in miles of interstate highways and completion of its super-highway goal by the 1972 congressional deadline.

Screwworm Rate Report

Federal and state animal health authorities reporting on activities for the four weeks ending October 26 indicated a rocketing of the screwworm infestation rate in Texas from 369 samples confirmed as "screwworms" in the preceding four weeks to 1,577 confirmed samples for the report period.

The upturn was not a surprise to Dr. John L. Wilbur Jr., of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Animal Health Disease Eradication Division or to Dr. R. G. Garrett, director of the Texas Animal Health Commission.

Both had warned that damp fall climates and animal wounds laid open by calving and shearing could cause a sharp increase in the incidence of screwworms unless livestock producers exercised extraordinary precautions.

During the four weeks ending October 26, federal and state agencies, together with Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation officials, moved swiftly to combat the screwworms by releasing 347,671,000 sterile screwworm flies below an overwintering line that extended as far north as Comanche County in Texas.

Votes Canvassed

Now it's official: Poll tax repeal was defeated resoundingly by Texans in a constitutional amendment election on November 9. Only one of four proposed amendments carried.

Vote on poll tax repeal was 316,775 against to 243,120 for in the official canvass announced by Secretary of State Crawford C. Martin.

Only amendment which carried was the increase in welfare assistance payments. The vote here was 330,922 for to 192,050 against.

Proposed increase in the Veterans Land Fund authorization failed 258,433 to 250,556. The Jefferson County retirement, disability and death compensation fund program for public officials was defeated 250,415 to 218,712.

The Courts Speak

Abilene Christian College is the rightful owner of 41,824 acres in Pecos and Terrell counties, the State Supreme Court agreed.

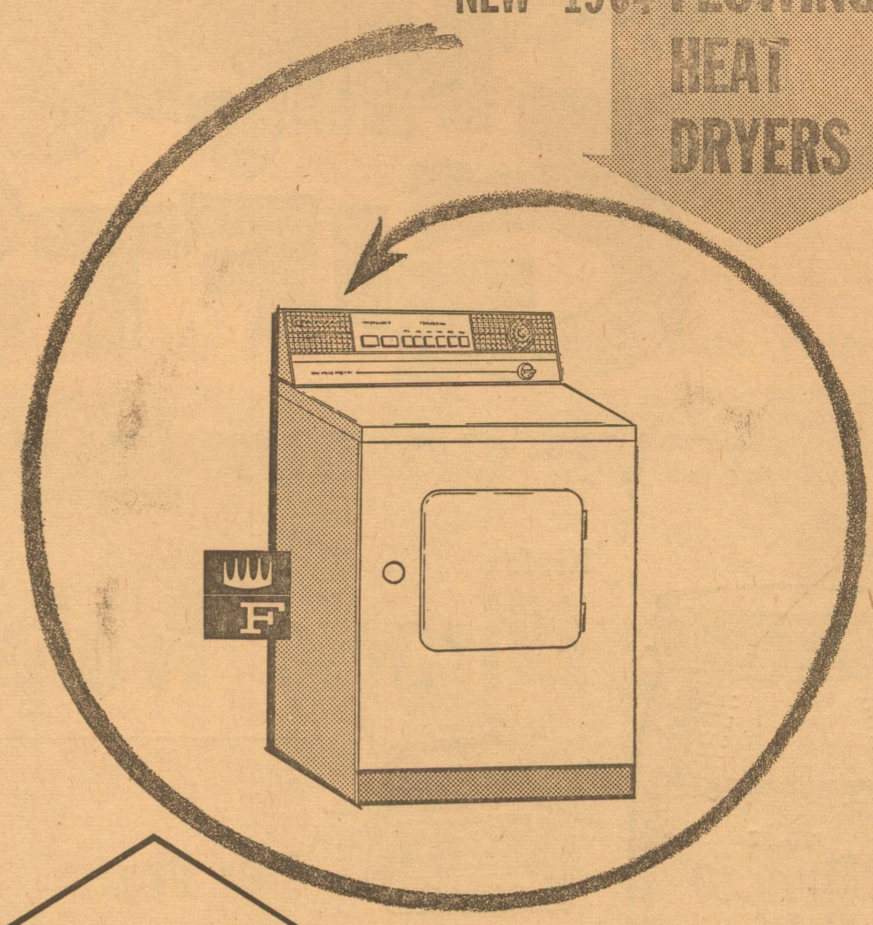

High court refused to hear the appeal of heirs of the late William M. Edwards from an adverse ruling by the Court of Civil Appeals in El Paso. Appellate court concluded there was insufficient evidence supporting a Pecos County jury's verdict that Edwards transferred the land to the college under influence of its agents.

A Houston auto salesman, Charles R. Wilson, has asked the Court of Criminal Appeals to declare Texas' new Sunday closing laws unconstitutional. "It's vague and the title doesn't refer to the penal provision," says Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Doble spent Thanksgiving in Irving with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Jack Etheredge and family.
