Post Script

Good crowds continue to come out every night for Little League games. A howl went up last week from the Red Sox when this paper came out putting them behind the Tigers and Red Sox, who had a two-way tie.

Their manager said that it actually was a THREE-way tie.

We got our figures from Sherri Yates and she got 'em from the record books which she keeps at the games. No doubt Sherri has heard about it, too, by now and will come up with a report this week that will be satisfactory to all four teams.

Mrs. Allen Kuykendall reports wonderful results from the little write-up in Post-Script last week. She not only found homes for the two kittens but had calls for many more and has promised five from the next litter. Tulisha, the mother cat, is happy too. She got out of having an operation.

Two Accident Victims Return Home

Mrs. Lester Henderson returned home over the week end from Menard where she had been at the bedside of Calvin and Freddie Henderson since their wreck on June 12th.

Calvin and his two-year-old son have also returned home after being in the Menard hospital for over a week. Mrs. Calvin (Freddie) Henderson remains in Menard hospital where she is under traction for a broken neck and other injuries. Friends returning from her bedside report that she is now out of danger but that complete recovery will be slow.

To Shake-Down Camp

Buddy Calk is leaving early Friday morning for Camp Fawcett to join the contingent of Boy Scouts who are going to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge in July. The jamboree-bound Scouts participate in a "shake-down" camp until late in the day Sunday to acquaint themselves with the camp gear and tents they will use.

July 12 is the departure date for the Jamboree Scouts and their leaders. Their itinerary includes the World's Fair at New York, and places of interest in and around Washington, D. C., as well as the Jamboree itself at Valley Forge.

Buddy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Calk and will be the only Scout attending from Eldorado. He is 13 years old.

Girl Scouts Are At Camp

A group of local girls are attending Camp Jo Jan Van near Barksdale this week and next week.

Those attending the camp include Genie Newport, Marchia Gault, Claudia Meador, Peggy Hill, and Ginger Wright.

Firemen Called Out

Firemen were called out Tuesday morning at 9:35 to the trailer house of Jerry Jones parked near the E. H. Sweatt house.

Gas which escaped from a jet became ignited. Prompt action by the firemen kept damage light, mostly limited to slight smoke damage.

Firemen were called out yesterday afternoon to put out a small smoldering fire inside a wall in the residence of Mrs. Lucille Doyle. Firemen had difficulty getting at the source of the blaze which they thought may have been caused by faulty wiring.

RAINFALL MEAGER . . . SO FAR

We give credit to Soil Conservation men for supplying the accompanying rainfall figures for the first 5 months in 1964. Add 'em up and you'll find we have had only 4.84 inches in these months.

We don't know what is in store for the remaining days in June, but up to yesterday the June total was one-quarter of an inch.

Tigers Are Leading In Little League Play

Thursday Night
While the Cougars again lost their game Thursday night, the young boys are gaining experience and improving their game. They were no match for the White Sox who won by a score of 9 to 3. High point in the game was when White Sox catcher Bob Page slammed a home run over the fence—the first in two years.

Friday Night
During the first half of Friday's game the Red Sox and Tigers were going neck-and-neck, but gradually the Tigers began pulling ahead. They executed two snappy double plays which helped put the Reds in the hole. Then they began hitting and the Reds made some wild overthrows and it ended with the Tigers 11 and Red 1.

Monday
The Red Sox moved up a step and the White Sox dropped back one as result of Monday night's game, which the Reds won by a score of 7 to 6.

The Reds were first batters up and ran in 3 scores in the first inning. (Announcer Joe Wagley calls 'em "endings.") They maintained a comfortable lead throughout the game and it was not until the last half of the 6th inning that the White Sox threatened to tie it up. With two men out the Whites broke loose with several long safe hits and ran in 3 scores. The last batter was thrown out at first when he knocked a grounder to 2nd.

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6
White Sox	---	0	1	0	0	3

Tuesday Night
The Christoval "Underdogs" played the Tigers Tuesday night and lost by a score of 10 to 6, but it was a better game than the score indicated. Young and inexperienced as they are the Cougars held the Tigers to a narrow one-run lead for four innings.

Tigers ran in four runs in the bottom of the first inning and the Cougars came back with three runs in the second. That was all the scores until the bottom of the 4th when disaster struck. The Tigers had three runners on base and two out. The next batter hit a line drive toward first which the Cougar first basemen failed to handle. This fielding error and three overthrows allowed the Tigers to clear the bases and cinch the game. In the 6th inning the Cougars brought in two runs and also had the bases loaded, but the batter fanned for the third out.

Score by innings—

	1	2	3	4	5	6
Cougars	---	0	3	0	0	1
Tigers	---	4	0	0	4	2

Team Standings
At the close of play Tuesday night the team standings were as follows:

	W	L	%
Tigers	4	1	.800
Red Sox	3	2	.600
White Sox	3	2	.600
Cougars	0	5	.000

Three Games Coming Up
Tonight ----- Christoval-Red Sox
Friday ----- Tigers-White Sox
Saturday ----- All-Star Game

Friday's game will be a crucial one. If the Tigers win they will be undisputed champions of the first half of the season. If the White Sox defeat the Tigers it will put them in a tie for first. And it will be a three-way tie if the Red Sox in the meantime defeat Christoval again tonight.

HOUSING WANTED
The Mayor is still looking for a 3-bedroom house with 2 baths as living quarters for the new doctor. If you know of such a place Mayor Calk will appreciate it if you bring it to his attention.

ELDORADO, TEXAS

On The Screen . . .

'Four For Texas' Is a Western In Color

There really are "four from Texas" in the new motion picture scheduled for a showing Friday and Saturday nights at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre.

However, the four from Texas—Janet Keith of Dallas, Gayle Baker of Fort Worth, Kay Coleman of San Antonio—are, in a way, just window dressing for the four stars of the film who, for the sake of the movie, become temporary Texans.

These "4 for Texas" are: Frank Sinatra, who appears as a gun-slinging gambler with a good deal of verve and a great deal of interest in the ladies.

Dean Martin, a swaggering, but likeable gambler, gunman and lover.

Anita Ekberg, Sinatra's feminine lead opposite him in her first Hollywood motion picture in six years.

Ursula Andress, a riverboat gambling saloon owner with one eye on the cash box and the other on Dean Martin.

The action in "Four For Texas" reportedly takes place in the 1870's in a City of Galveston which is referred to in the Warner Bros. publicity as "gay and wicked."

The name of Robert Aldrich figures prominently in the production as producer-director. The screenplay is by Aldrich and Teddi Sherman from a story by Aldrich.

The Aldrich story of Galveston some 90 years ago is a complicated one with a sort of tongue-in-cheek quality of comedy. Involved is a plot to get Sinatra killed, a missing $100,000 and an attempt to steal a whole cargo of cotton. The denouement of these factors finally forces Martin and Sinatra to join forces to foil the plotters.

Among the interesting sidelights in and from the picture are Miss Ekberg shaving Sinatra with a straight razor, and Aldrich buying his wife a diamond and ruby brooch, for a 22nd wedding gift, copied after the boutonniere worn by Sinatra in the film.

GOING TO SCOTLAND

Dr. and Mrs. Spencer Kent and sons, Tommy and Jay, of China Lake, Calif., are visiting friends and relatives in Texas this month before their July 10th departure to Scotland for a two-year tour of duty with the United States Navy. They and the doctor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kent of Midland, came to Eldorado last Friday to visit relatives here before they leave. Those visited included the Stanfords, Spencers, Blaylocks, Mrs. A. E. Kent, and others.

Mrs. Edgar Pierce and daughter Candy of Victoria visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Shaw.

Irving, Texas. She received her Associate of Arts degree from Cisco Jr. College, May 22, 1964.

Mr. Whitten is a 1962 graduate of Schleicher County High School and is a Sophomore at Cisco Jr. College. The couple plan to continue their college education at Cisco Jr. College in the fall.

They plan a wedding trip to San Antonio, then will make their home in Eldorado for the summer, where Buren is employed with Sinclair.

The public is invited to the wedding on July 11th.

Austin.—U.S. Supreme Court's decision ordering both houses of state legislatures be selected on strict population basis will have a far-reaching effect on the Texas Legislature, particularly the Senate.

In the upper house, no county presently is entitled, by the Texas Constitution, to more than one senator. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith noted that under the new ruling five of the heaviest populated counties would be entitled to 12 of the 31 state senate seats, leaving 19 senators for the other 249 counties. This would create some senatorial districts 300 miles wide. Senate districts now vary from 147,454 to 1,200,000 population.

"The high court's laudable aim of equal representation for all citizens cannot be maintained in such circumstances," the lieutenant governor said. "Equality will be theoretical only. No senator could serve such a great area as adequately as three or four senators (or even one) can serve a single county."

Lt. Gov. Smith promised to ask other lieutenant governors to petition Congress for a review and "practical relief." A similar resolution may be brought before presiding officers of House of Representatives by Texas House Speaker Byron Tunnell. However, it is doubtful how Congress could intervene except by submitting a constitutional amendment spelling out authority for states to have real bicameral (two-house) legislatures if they want to.

A Texas legislative committee already is at work determining how best to comply with a prior Supreme Court decision ordering congressional districts be formed on the basis of population only. Its work may be expanded to include a look at legislative districts as well.

Oil Production Rolled Back

July oil production will be cut back to the lowest level since March, 1963, by order of Texas Railroad Commission.

In response to purchasing forecasts by 13 major companies, the Commission set July maximum production at 27 per cent potential, or 2,788,685 barrels daily, compared with the present 2,845,571 barrels.

Presidents of five Texas producers associations declared the decision, "regrettable", and said it would hamper attempts to get the U. S. Congress to effect a "very substantial reduction" in oil imports.

Commissioners also scheduled a July 16 hearing on the 1947 yardstick for fixing oil field allowables.

Tax Revision Recommended

Texas Research League proposes the state's unemployment compensation tax on employers be more closely related to benefits paid former employees.

Benefit payments to unemployed have exceeded revenue for five of the last six years, a League study for Texas Employment Commission shows. However, the Texas

Trust Fund, from which payments are made, cannot go broke, because a surtax is imposed on all taxpayers any time the fund drops below $225 million on October 1.

League recommends extending "experience rating" of employers to lessen the threat of having a flat rate surtax applied.

Highways

Texas highways are now valued at $4.5 billion, Chairman Herbert C. Petry Jr. of the Highway Commission announced.

Petry said every effort must be made to maintain a balanced system of highways, from the farm-to-market roads to the interstate highways, to serve all sorts of traffic.

Securities Sales Hit Peak

Issuance of permits for sale of securities in Texas reached a high peak for 1964 during May, with $37,062,966 authorized to 58 corporations by the State Securities Board. This was the highest monthly total since November, 1962, when $42,510,619 worth of permits were granted.

Tourist Record Set

Large Texas cities attracted a majority of the record-breaking number of tourists who visited the state in 1963, Texas Highway Department reported.

Out-of-state visitors totaled 11.7 million, some 26% over the previous year. They spent $532.2 million to show a 12.8% increase over 1962.

Dallas was the stated destination of some 15.8%, while 14.1% were heading for Houston-Pasadena; El Paso drew 9.8% and San Antonio 9.6%.

Highway Department recently released this information in a colorful 16-page brochure available to the public. The booklet described results of the annual survey on the Texas Tourist Industry, and the cover depicts scenes from the state's outstanding recreational areas.

School Ruling

School boards have the right to make rules about students' clothing, State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar ruled in an appeal against an Andrews school board policy.

Mrs. Kenneth King of Andrews made the appeal which led to the ruling. Mrs. King contended that her third grade daughter, Vickie, should wear trousers to school to protect her health.

In upholding the school board, however, Edgar advised that the policy be clarified, and that clear provisions be adopted so the clothing regulation could be suspended for a student whose doctor prescribed trousers for medical reasons.

Commission Studies Plan To Beef Up Industry

Texas Industrial Commission and the Agriculture Economics Department of Texas Tech have made a contract to study the feasibility of increasing the meat packing industry in Texas, with the hopes a solution can be found to alleviate beef import problems faced by Texas producers.

Findings will be available in the fall of 1965.

Civil Service Schools

Austin Postmaster Oliver Bruck advised the public against paying fees to civil service schools. It costs nothing to compete in civil service examinations, he said.

There is no school operated in connection with civil service by the Federal government, and no school is given advance information which his not available to the public without cost, Bruck stressed.

Gov. Connally appointed Dr. Buford M. Sanders of Tyler and Dr. Joseph R. Ordle of Fort Worth to six year terms on the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners.

Texas is working on a plan to increase park acreage seven times in 35 years, according to W. M. Gosdin, assistant parks director.

Texas Water Commission reported water conservation storage in Texas reservoirs was 63% of capacity at the end of May and only Abilene and Wichita Falls had normal rainfall during the month.

Nursing Home construction in Texas is increasing. State Department of Health reported. A total of 186 homes went under construction in 1963. By June 1 this year, 94 more were under way. Department spokesmen said the needs for plush nursing home facilities have been saturated, and urged people considering construction of a nursing home to contact health authorities for guidance.

Texas Constitution Party representatives held a closed door meeting with the executive secretary to Alabama Gov. George Wallace, giving rise to some speculation the party may support Wallace for presidential nomination.

U. S. Bureau of Reclamation's regional director reportedly will recommend a pipeline to San Antonio from a proposed reservoir at Cuero.

DALLAS' BIG 'MAIN PLACE' PROJECT. Located in the center of downtown Dallas, the model above shows the three major buildings which will be constructed in several stages on the ten-acre Main Place site. Estimated to cost $120,000,000, the first stage will be the 34-story, $41,000,000 office building in the center of the picture. Later phases will include the massive second office building on the left, which will straddle Main Street, and on the right, a large department store with a 400-room motel on top. The development is actually one big, ten-acre "super block" tied together with outdoor plazas for pedestrian traffic 15 feet below ground level.

Highway Program Is Serving All Of Texas

Austin.—Herbert C. Petry, Jr., chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, today reaffirmed the Commission's belief in "a balanced program of highway construction to serve all Texans."

Petry described the state's urban and rural highway problems and traced the avenues which the Texas Highway Department must follow to effect their solution.

"As long as we put millions more people on wheels each year—we add a quarter-million vehicles annually in Texas alone—no highway program ever can be expected to reach a static phase," Petry said.

He stressed that the principal potential stumbling block in highway planning and construction today rests in complete public understanding both of the problems involved and the steps being taken for their elimination.

"An attitude of do-it-for-me-first-and-forget-the-other-guy will not serve the best interest of the state or the highway user who pays the bill," Petry declared.

He addressed his remarks to the annual meeting of the Texas Section of the Institute of Traffic Engineers, an organization composed principally of engineers working on urban traffic problems.

"The urban commuter sees the newly-constructed freeways clogged with home-bound traffic, and has little sympathy with our primary, Interstate or farm-to-market road programs," Petry said. "He wants to know why we don't build more and bigger and better urban freeways—and right now!"

He added: "At the same time, we must not forget the farmer who must move his produce to processing centers, the small-town manufacturer or businessman who needs a market for his goods, the inter-city traveler. These highway users cannot understand why we do not spend all our time, engineering talent and money on upgrading travelways linking urban centers."

Petry said that the Highway Department is "fully aware" of the complex traffic problems in the cities of Texas. He added: "Yet, it would be a folly to level all our resources upon these piecemeal concerns to the detriment of a total highway system of 65,000 miles."

The Commission Chairman pointed out that Texas is a "contradictory state."

"More than half the counties in Texas have more rural residents than urban. We have 22 metropolitan areas—more than any other state—yet we rank fourth among states in rural population."

"Only a balanced program of highway construction—favoring no single element—can hope to cope with such disparities," he declared.

"Our city people cannot realistically decry Farm-Market roads," Petry said. "Cities are the 'markets' served by these roads. What is more, the 2.4 million rural residents of Texas represent a sizeable market for goods made and distributed from our cities."

Additionally, the Commissioner said: "Many farm to market roads ultimately become thoroughfares primarily serving cities. A system of secondary highways encircling Houston, for instance, comprises the state's first rural highway belt for regional interurban and bypass traffic. And a farm to market road (FM 528) is the principal highway directly serving the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center in Harris County."

Petry said that about $3 million in Farm to Market Road funds now is committed to current construction and advance planning of routes vital to Houston's future growth.

Total value of the Texas highway system today is approximately $4.5 billion, according to Petry.

He pointed out that the cost of building Farm to Market Roads averages just $25,000 a mile in Texas, compared with a $610,000-a-mile average for Interstate Highways throughout the state, and costs often exceeding $1 million a mile for Interstate Highways in cities.

Petry said Texas has spent about $1.2 billion on Interstate Highways to now, and will have spent some $2.2 billion on them when the 3,031-mile Texas Interstate system is completed.

"The bulk of this money has been spent deliberately to give priority to the relief of critical traffic conditions in the metropolitan areas," Petry said.

He declared: "From the standpoint of engineering, financing, and safety—and, especially, need—it has been imperative that the Interstate program be completed first in the urban and certain rural areas."

Petry said the Texas Highway Department is "right on schedule" in building its allotment of Interstate Highway miles.

"We've built more miles of these highways than any other state—and we've built them more cheaply. We'll have the job completed in 1972, just as we promised when the program was initiated in 1956," he declared.

The Commissioner pointed out, however, that Interstate highways are "no panacea for all our traffic woes. These highways pass thru only 78 of the state's 254 counties."

He explained: "We must not neglect our basic city-connecting primary highway system of U. S. and state-numbered roads. This system carries more traffic than all other systems collectively in Texas. This network must be systematically upgraded as our inter-city traffic volume continues to explode."

Texas motorists now drive more than 50 billion miles a year, and they are increasing this mileage at the rate of approximately 5% annually, the Commissioner said.

Illustrating how the Highway Commission's "balanced programming concept" works to benefit metropolitan complexes, Petry pointed out that the Highway Department has spent $309.3 million since 1917 on highway construction and maintenance in Harris County.

"This is more than has been invested in highways in any other county," Petry said. "But it makes good sense. After all, Harris is our most populous county."

He emphasized: "And that's what we mean by 'balanced programming.' It's a way of giving all highway users an equitable share in the highway system."

"As realists we build highways for the next 20 years. We do not know all that the Space Age may hold in store, nor the needs it may create. We must work together—state, cities, counties—on the problems of today and face tomorrow boldly and imaginatively."

"With an ideal of 'total road service for all the people,' we have met all needs of the past. Together we will do it in the future."

July Plentifuls Present Good Food Story

College Station.—A good story can bear telling more than once. And the good story for July—for consumers, that is—is that beef once again is plentiful, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Record production of fed beef is keeping cattle and beef prices at the lowest in several years. Beef is the perfect choice for July—the "Picnic Month."

Also featured are fresh plums. Forecast of a record-large 110,000-ton California crop should result in large shipments of this fruit into local markets, supplementing local supplies.

Other July plentifuls, as compiled by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service, include turkeys, early summer vegetables, watermelons, canned pink salmon and vegetable fats and oils.

A 10% increase in July marketings of turkeys should provide ample supplies of this popular meat. The turkey industry is again celebrating its Summer Turkey Time promotion, this month.

Such vegetables as sweet corn, tomatoes and onions from local gardens will supplement large shipments from distant commercial producing areas.

A 3% increase over last year in watermelon production more than likely will result in prices favorable to the consumer. Most of the increase is due to 6,000 more acres of watermelons being planted this year in Texas.

Stocks of canned pink salmon should remain large, along with huge supplies of edible vegetable oils.

Two Local Girls To Twirling School

Abilene.—Two girls from Eldorado have been accepted as students to attend the 17th Annual McMurry College Band and Twirling School, July 12-25.

Maureen McCravery will receive specialized training in playing the saxophone and Susan Mobley in playing the flute. Both girls will be instructed in twirling as well.

More than 200 students have enrolled for the two-week summer band school with over 400 students from all over Texas expected to attend the band school for specialized training.

Dr. Raymond T. Bynum, director of the band school and director of the McMurry College Band, and several other band directors and twirling specialists will be the instructors for the school.

Classes will offer specialized training in individual instruments, conducting, marching, stage band, theory, concert band, twirling and drum majoring.

Besides the band training, several other sponsored activities will be held for the students attending the school. Many of the students will live on the campus of McMurry in dormitories during the two-week school.

FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Loy C. Higgins had a family reunion at their cabin on Lake Granite Shoals, at Kingsland, Texas, last week.

Those attending were all of their children and families: Harold and Wilma Higgins and children, Cliff, Eva and Tommy from Salina, Kansas; Eugene and Claudine Harlow and their children Pamela, Stevie and Krysti from Oklahoma City; Marvin and Pat Gausemeier and children Terri and Patti from Midland; Jerry and Willa Perry and children, Ricky, Jeannine and Dale from Ozona, Texas; Johnny and aCrol McKenzie and children Gayla and Karen Kay from Seminole, Oklahoma.

They enjoyed the time while there boat riding, skiing, swimming and fishing. The biggest catch was a 5 3/4 pound black mouth bass caught by Loy Higgins.

The grandchildren spent week attending Bible School at the First Baptist church at Kingsland. Everyone arrived home safely for which we were all thankful.—Rep.

Visiting recently with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Neill was their daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Spurlock and her two girls of Mineral Wells. They all visited on the Moore & Neill Ranch below Sonora.

Clerk Resigns At Sonora
At a special meeting of the County Commissioners held last Friday morning, the resignation of F. L. McKinney as clerk of the county court was accepted effective June 30. McKinney and his family have moved to Kerrville.

The commissioners appointed Mrs. James D. Trainer to serve as temporary clerk until the November general election.—Devil's River News, Sonora.

The Supreme Court's recent ruling that a Virginia county (which had previously closed down all public schools to avoid integration) must reopen its public schools and levy taxes to support them, has set loose many imponderables of just how much power the Supreme Court has under our form of government.

School children are taught that our check-and-balance system is composed of three separate branches—the legislative, the executive, and the judicial—the one to make laws, another to execute them, and the third to interpret them.

Yet now, for the first time in American history, the judicial branch has ordered a legislative act—that is, the levy of taxes and the collection of them. This despite the fact that the Constitution says it shall be the duty of the legislative branch to levy and of the executive to collect taxes.

The wisdom of the Virginia county's action in closing its schools to avoid integration may be open to question. The concern relates to the precedent established in the Supreme Court ruling, of the power of that court to usurp the powers lodged by the Constitution in the legislative branch.

The court intimated that if need be it may proceed to levy and bring about the collection of the taxes to support the schools.

Just where is the line to be drawn? This decision appears to be usurpation of power, at its worst. Guided by this precedent, just what may the court do next?

Is Thomas Jefferson out of date? Generally regarded as the father of the Democratic party, the author of the Declaration of Independence has been toasted through the years in class rooms, at Jefferson Day dinners and at 4th of July celebrations. But Jefferson, joined by George Washington, was a staunch defender of the rights of the states, as opposed to the powerful central government concept, which Hamilton espoused.

Clearly the Jefferson concept has for years been a source of embarrassment to the modern day liberal who favors big government in Washington. They scorn the idea that the states retained all powers not expressly delegated to the central government by the Constitution.

Not long ago Jefferson's ideas about states' rights were attacked by Prof. Arthur Schlesinger Jr., the well-known Harvard-ADA liberal and one of the late President Kennedy's White House advisors.

"Jefferson is today remote and irrelevant," said Schlesinger, "a figure not of present concern but of historical curiosity." Had the U. S. remained faithful to Jefferson, said the professor, "we would be today a feeble and impotent nation."

It is just such tommyrot as this that causes people to wonder what the future may hold for our great country.

FROM EL PASO

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Kerr of El Paso and their two girls, Tracy and Leslie, spent part of their vacation with relatives here over the week end of June 13. They had a big fishing trip on Llano river where they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrews, Roy Lynn Love, Happy Kerr, and Bill Edmiston. The CIVIL WAR CENTENNIAL

By Dayton Kelley
Mary Hardin-Baylor College
Belton, Texas

Probably the biggest centennial commemoration of this summer will be the Battle of Kennesaw Mountain due to take place in Georgia during the week of June 22 through 28.

Not only will there be a re-enactment of the historic battle of 100 years ago, but officials have planned almost a week of festivities and activities leading up to the battle. Beginning on Monday, June 22, there were conducted tours of Kennesaw Mountain National Battlefield Park, tours of ante-bellum homes in Marietta and Roswell, exhibits, a parade, and other events, all designed to call attention to the battle.

Among the Civil War sites to be visited are Stone Mountain Memorial Park, Atlanta's "Cyclorama" depicting the Battle of Atlanta, and Fort Walker nearby.

The parade through downtown Marietta Friday afternoon will precede memorial services in the Marietta National Cemetery and in the Confederate Cemetery. The Battle itself will be re-enacted at 3:30 p.m. Saturday afternoon and the final activity of the week-long commemoration will be the Commander's Ball Saturday night.

Personnel taking part in the activities are the Kennesaw Mountain Centennial Troops, commanded by Brig. Gen. John K. Williams III of the Georgia Militia and General Donald A. Ramsay of Nashville, Tennessee, commander of the Confederate High Command.

Following the Battle of Kennesaw Mountain on Saturday, the Battle of Orangeburg, will be re-staged in nearby Orangeburg, N. C., with some of the same personnel participating in that commemorative program.

FOOTNOTES: Arthur MacArthur, Jr., 18, adjutant with the 24th Wisconsin Infantry won his Medal of Honor at Missionary Ridge on Nov. 25, 1863. His citation reads: "Seized the colors of his regiment at a critical moment and planted them on the captured works on the crest of Missionary Ridge." His son Douglas followed in the family tradition with his medal on April 1, 1942, at Bataan.

Richard W. Fuller, of the remote Atlantic, volcanic island of Tristan da Cunha, served with a Massachusetts regiment from July 1861 to July 1865. He got to New Bedford on a whaler and enlisted soon after he arrived. He reached the grade of sergeant, was pensioned in 1912 and died in 1915.

Recommended Reading for This Week: Outstanding biographies of Civil War personalities are few in number but the biography of Lucius Fairchild of Wisconsin, written by Sam Ross and published by the State Historical Society of Wisconsin for that state's Civil War Centennial Commission is one that is long overdue and superbly done.

Entitled "The Empty Sleeve," the book at last brings a measure of fame to a man who has long been neglected by historians; a man who played so many important roles in American history and yet is scarcely known today.

Viking Press, in the tradition of fine book publishing for which it has become known, has brought out "Black Cargoes," a history of the Atlantic Slave Trade by Daniel P. Mannix and Malcolm Cowley that traces the infamous practice from its beginning until its end after 1865. Although not entirely devoted to the subject of the Civil War, the book has enough about "yankee slavers" to hold the interest of Civil War readers.

And for our younger readers we suggest "Birch Coulee" by Bernard Francis Ederer, Published by Exposition Press, this novel of the Minnesota Indian uprising of 1862, is a fast-moving drama that will entertain while informing the reader of a little known incident of the War years.

The Mesquite Tree Story by Leonard Kent

Texas ranchmen are losing over a million dollars a year to mesquite trees growing on their land. There are approximately 93,500,000 acres of rangeland in Texas, of which 55,000,000 acres are robbed of precious moisture and plant nutrients by mesquite trees.

Ranges produce more forage for livestock when mesquite is controlled and good range management is practiced. This is understandable when you consider that mesquite trees require about four times as much water to produce one pound of foliage as the native grasses. There are many woody plant problems other than mesquite, but the scope of the problem, the annual loss, and the wasting of precious water makes it the number one brush problem in Texas and throughout the Southwest United States.

Texas ranchers and farmers are spending approximately $10 million annually for different methods of controlling mesquite. Roughly 45 per cent of all the land in Texas, three times the amount of harvested cropland, has this mesquite problem. This loss of productive land is costing land owners a minimum of about $40,000,000 a year.

One of the most critical factors contributing to this large cost of brush invasion is loss of water. For example, mesquite requires 1,700 to 1,900 pounds of water to produce 1 pound of dry plant material while only 300 to 400 pounds of water are necessary to produce 1 pound of many desirable grasses. Not only do brush and weeds use scarce moisture, but they limit nutrients, sunlight and space for grass production. Stock handling problems, disease and special management programs add to the cost of production.

There are two major ways of controlling mesquite and they are mechanical and chemical. The mechanical methods include the chains, cutter and shredders, root plows, bulldozers, and the grubbing hoe. The native grasses usually survive chemical treatment better than mechanical treatment. The chemical methods of controlling mesquite include contact killers and growth regulators. These methods have been developed through research carried out by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The most effective contact killers are kerosene or diesel oils, and when applied properly can get a 60 to 90 per cent kill. The oil should be applied to penetrate the lowest underground buds.

Herbicide methods of control are practical and economical over a large area of rangeland infested to varying degrees with mesquite. From the various herbicides tested, one material has been developed which is 2,4,5-T. The low-volatility ester of 2,4,5-T, the currently recommended herbicide for mesquite control, is not toxic to man or livestock and will not kill grass when used at prescribed rates.

In 1961 one million was appropriated for agricultural research on brush and weed control in the United States. Even though the cost of research is high in both money and hours put in by top researcher, the results will justify expenditures. An example of beneficial results from research can be seen in a 14-year study at the Spur Experiment Station which indicated that steers grazed on treated pastures made about 5 pounds more gain than steers grazed on untreated mesquite pastures. Individual steer gain per year was 28 pounds more on the treated pastures.

The farmer and rancher who takes advantage of new ideas presented to him by researchers is usually in a better position to produce better crops and livestock and make more money. The returns that ranchers receive when treating their pastures for mesquite are as follows: (1) less labor required for working livestock, (2) livestock more tame, (3) less screw-worm cases, (4) fewer breeding males required, (5) less mesquite bean poisoning, (6) percentage off-spring crops usually higher and (7) increased carrying capacity.

Newell Lucas Marries

The bride's home in Kermit provided the setting for the wedding June 6th of Miss Wanda Kay Mills and Newell Jack Lucas, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hahn of Eldorado.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mills of 270 Van in Kermit. The Rev. Bill Rhymes of Grace Temple Baptist church officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Eighteen guests were present and a basket of orchid and white flowers adorned the room.

She carried a bouquet of white carnations with orchid and white streamers on a white Bible.

Mrs. Tommy Snipes of Abilene cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Ronnie Stringer of Kermit was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the home.
