65TH YEAR

ELDORADO—SCHLEICHER COUNTY, TEXAS (76936) Thursday, March 10, 1966

NUMBER 10

Albert Smith Is Candidate For 65th District

MILDRED (MIMIE) SMITH

The candidacy of Albert R. Smith for State Representative of the 65th District has been announced by his daughter Mildred (Mimie) Smith, who says:

"My daddy loves me—I can see it in his eyes. I will be going to school someday, and there will be changes as time goes by. That is why my daddy is interested in little girls like me and you, and little boys, too. That is why he wants to go to Austin and do his best to see that we'll have the best. He wants good teachers—willing, patient and true. He wants them well-paid for the good work that they do."

"He is for a life that is fair and just, and a home for all of us. He will work for every good thing that his counties need, because he will represent all of us. He is a believer in the county running the show, and if the government does it out the county should say where it will go."

"My daddy is a qualified man. He knows the language of the working man—the store keeper, the rancher, the oilfield worker, the real estate broker and the theatre, too. He has owned and worked in all of these and his experience will help him to decide how to vote. These fields can help be his guide, for he can talk on the levels of them all."

"My daddy is getting a little old and he knows the thoughts of the old. Their pensions are too small to have a decent life; therefore, he wants them all raised to buy the good things of life. He is a believer in a strong and united America—a free society for every man—free enterprise for us all, and to quit worrying about DeGaulle. We have given away billions, so let's give ourselves a few million to see how it feels, like a bronc kicking up its heels."

"Free from fear and want is every man's goal, so let's work together—it's good for the soul. The good things of life all of us need, but you can't have this by just planting the seed. It takes time, toil and sweat to enjoy this life—and, above all, a good wife. My Mommy is good to Daddy and me. She goes to church where the candlesticks burn and she burns one to shine up on our Christ in our house at night. It looks real nice."

"My daddy believes there is good in every man—he just needs our helping hand. So please vote for my daddy if you can. I know he will make you a good man."

Post Script

Last week we were interested in reading about the big blizzard in North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota. The latter area happens to be my old stomping ground. At 6:00 o'clock Saturday night we turned on the TV for the news and they showed snow scenes in Thief River Falls, Minnesota. I worked as a printer on the Thief River Falls Times 45 years ago and my home town (St. Hilaire) is in the same county. I have nieces in Thief River Falls and other relatives scattered around in that county, so I called one of them—Mrs. Kermit (Dorothy) Hanson. Kermit has a paint and body shop in that city and Dorothy is a kindergarten teacher in the school system.

Dorothy proved to be a good reporter and said they had been snowed in for three days. Kermit had managed to get to town on foot by walking across the river. Schools, of course, were all closed and there was no traffic moving at all on highways. Only snowmobiles, little motorized vehicles on tracks, kept going. She said they were running all over like crazy.

We asked about the rest of the family in the county and she reported they were all snowed in but not suffering.

Her brother, Bob Gunstad is a dairy farmer about seven miles south of the county seat. She said he had made his way out to the barn but snow drifts were so high he was unable to open a barn door. He finally got a ladder and entered the hay loft door, and then made his way down into the barn so he could take care of the stock.

It seemed that they were all taking the blizzard in their stride. In fact Dorothy declared it was quite "exciting!"

Talking about snow, the 6 inches we had here in February was nothing to compare with the snows farther north, but it was an unusually big snow for us—the biggest in many years.

Everyone was jubilant about it. Moisture-starved Schleicher residents commented on how it would melt and all go into the ground, that it was just as good as an inch of rain.

But now they're discouraged again. By the time the snow melted the winds came. In traditional March fashion it has blown from the north—from the west—from the south. Constant winds have dried up all the little moisture the snow provided, and at least one farmer declared his pasture is as bare now as it was in the big drought. Some are selling off livestock to avoid expensive feed bills. The only redeeming feature of the situation is that livestock prices are high.

To sum it up, farmers and ranchers are facing a gloomy year if abundant rains don't come soon.

Brakes Fail To Hold; Plane Hits Another

A freak accident took place at Eldorado airport last week when Ben Keel cranked up a four-place plane belonging to the E. Y. Murphy Flying Service of San Angelo.

Brakes failed to hold and the plane coasted off and headed straight into a hangar and crashed into a two-place plane parked there. Both are badly damaged to the extent that competent observers declare they are practically a total loss.

The parked plane is owned by Lee Box, a Sinclair employee who lives in Eldorado.

Insurance adjusters have checked the damage, and further investigation was due by a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Fortunately no one was injured.

Rehearsals Now On For Community Cantata

Under direction of Dale Ellis, a Community Choir is rehearsing each Sunday afternoon for an Easter cantata to be presented in the First Baptist church for all the community, the night of Palm Sunday, April 3rd.

Mr. Ellis, who is in his Senior year at Howard Payne college in Brownwood, is commuting here each week end to his job as music-education director of the First Baptist church.

Plans call for cantata rehearsals to be held each Sunday afternoon at 3:30 between now and Palm Sunday.

Singers from all churches, both men and women, are urged to assist with the presentation and to attend the rehearsals each Sunday afternoon.

Presentation of the cantata the night of Palm Sunday will be sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance of Eldorado, and most local churches will dispense with their own services that night in order for their congregations to hear the cantata.

Local firemen were called out at 2:20 Sunday afternoon to a grass fire at Wallace Joiner's.

All 41 Tickets Sold Out For Special Bus To Houston Game

Ticket Deadline Tomorrow Noon

At meeting Tuesday night, it was decided to set Friday noon (tomorrow) as a deadline for ticket applications for the Houston trip, according to Jack Jones.

"We already have enough to fill the 41-passenger bus, besides a considerable number on the waiting list," said Jones. "If we were to get about 15 more applications, we'll charter TWO 29-passenger buses."

But the deadline is definitely at 12 noon Friday at which time the book will be closed.

On Friday afternoon the committee will call Houston and make reservations for motel rooms and game tickets.

We are going to ask for ground-level seats behind the first base dugout, and we have to get our request in early."

Applicants should see or call Jack Jones, Bob Bradley or Jerroll Sanders.

Lions' Queen Program Set Week From Tonight

The Eldorado Lions club will present the 30 candidates for Queen in a special program a week from tonight in the school auditorium. The program will start at 7:30.

The 30 nominees are each being sponsored by a local business firm or club. Winner of the contest will be the representative from the Eldorado Lions club to the District Queen's Contest to be held in connection with the District Convention in San Angelo in April.

The local Lions club will pay most expenses of the Queen nominee at the District Convention.

Plans for the contest were announced at the meeting yesterday of the Lions club, with Charles Wimer presiding.

The program committee making arrangements consists of Bill Rountree, Jack Bell, and Guy Whitaker.

In other business yesterday, it was reported that Lions E. W. Brooks, John Stigler, and Bill Rountree, with three men from the local Latin American community, attended a meeting of the West Side Lions Club in Sonora Tuesday night.

Plans are still going on for a local Latin American Lions club to be organized, and further arrangements are to be made Friday night when several district officials are to be here. The old pool hall in the local L.A. section of town is being worked over to provide a meeting place.

For the program yesterday, Joe Kreklow and Rusty Meador rendered several piano selections.

IOWA VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Olson of Dolliver, Iowa, visited here for two days this week with Fred Gunstead and Mrs. Rose Lyon. They expected to be back in Iowa by the first of April.

At the meeting last Friday night Deputy Sheriff Jack Jones signed up over 30 passengers for the chartered bus trip to Houston to see the Detroit Tigers play the Houston Astros, and by Tuesday of this week he reported that all seats were sold out.

In addition to the following list, Jack has also signed up several "alternates" who are ready to join the trip in case there should be a last-minute cancellation. Here is a list of the 41 passengers already signed up:

According to the latest plans the group will spend one night in Houston and will take in two games—one night game on Friday, and one day-time game on Saturday. It is expected they will leave here at 6:00 a.m. Friday, April 8, and return home after midnight the following day.

Motel reservations for the group are being made at "The Continental Houston," a garden type motor hotel located at Main and Frankling streets in the heart of Houston. The Detroit Tigers will also be staying at this hotel and the group may have a chance to see their home town, Norman Cash, who is the Tigers first baseman.

In addition to the 40 traveling by chartered bus, Mr. Jones reports that probably that many more are intending to go by family car. The trip comes the last week end before Easter Sunday and many families expect to make the trip accompanied by Easter Sunday visitors.

In view of the enthusiasm shown Mr. Jones thought it would have been possible to charter two buses, but time is running out for getting motel reservations and reservations for reserved seats at the Astrodome.

Two Lumber Yards At Sonora Combined

Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Co. has purchased the assets of National Building Centers, Inc. lumber yard (formerly Cameron's), and is now located in the former NBC yard on Concho Street.

W. J. Thompson, manager, said that the Foxworth staff would include Herman Smith, Lupe Espinosa, Jesse Esquivel, Ernest Castro, Louis Castro, and Hut Moore. The total years of lumber experience for Foxworth employees is now over 100.

Besides the neighboring West Texas yards in Winters, Eldorado, Ozona, and many other yards over Texas, Foxworth-Galbraith operates lumber companies in California, Arizona and New Mexico. — Devil's River News, Sonora.

Austin, Tex.—Texas' first big free voter sign-up is under way. But top state officials still are "fighting mad" because F.B.I. agents were assigned to keep an eye on registration procedures in selected counties.

"It's an insult to every public official and every citizen of Texas," wrote Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr in a letter to U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach about the F.B.I. check.

Gov. John Connally agreed and further charged the U. S. Department of Justice with intentionally "instigating trouble" among stormy state political factions.

A three-judge federal court granted Carr's request for a 30-day stay of its order abolishing the poll tax as a voting requirement. Stay was granted in order to allow time to put the new registration law into effect. Therefore, the old poll tax requirement will apply through most local elections this month.

All indications are the initial 15-day free registration (March 3-17) is going smoothly. Interest varies from county to county. Intensive registration drives are under way in the major counties, with all factions trying to sign up more voters who reflect their own views.

Connally and Carr have called on local tax assessor-collectors, who are voting registrars, to provide as many sub-stations and deputies as necessary and to authorize all the overtime needed to assure the widest possible opportunities for voter qualifications.

This is in keeping with instructions of the federal court which conceivably could lengthen the 15-day period if it feels all voters who wanted to register were not given sufficient opportunity.

Carr, meanwhile, has appealed the poll tax invalidation order to the U. S. Supreme Court. However, few feel it will be reversed.

Reversing earlier instructions, the attorney general said Texans over 60 years of age in cities of 10,000 or more who failed to get exemption certificates before January 31 still can sign up free.

Reliable estimates of the number of new voters who will qualify by March 17 have been raised to around 500,000.

Cigarette Imports Tightened

State and federal inspectors are clamping down on imported sales that resulted when the state per-pack tax jumped to 11 cents.

Travelers are being warned that they can bring back no more than two packs of untaxed cigarettes from across the border.

State comptroller's agents, liquor control board inspectors and customs officers are making close checks in an effort to enforce the limit.

Comptroller's figures show the total cigarette tax collected for February as $8,500,000. This is nearly a $2 million increase from February, 1965. Actually, however, last month's stamp sales meant 77,778,963 packages of smokes were purchased. This compares with 83,451,387 at the old rate in February, 1965.

Before the last three-cent-a-pack increase, sales sometimes went to more than 100,000,000 a month.

"We're looking at every avenue we can to protect the revenue of the state," commented Albert Brown, head of the excise and store tax division of the comptroller's office.

Texas Joins Compact

Texas will be one of the first states to participate in the interstate Compact for Education, Governor Connally has announced.

Compact aims to strengthen the voice of states in formulation of alternative nationwide educational policies.

Connally has indicated he is making a bid for location of the compact's central office in Texas.

An interstate commission composed of seven representatives from each member state will develop alternatives in educational policies, gather data on enrollments, conduct research, exchange information with other groups and recommend proposals for financing education.

Two Selected

Amarillo and Beaumont were selected as the sites for two $450,000 pilot Mental Retardation centers sought by 20 Texas communities.

State Board for Mental Health and Mental Retardation said the cost will be shared by state and federal appropriations.

Other cities considered for the centers were Abilene, Austin, Dallas, Brownwood, El Paso, Galveston, Edinburg, Longview, Midland, Odessa, San Antonio, San Angelo, Tyler, Texarkana, Temple, Victoria, Wichita Falls, and Waco.

Attorney General Speaks

A Childress County constable who accepted a $1-a-day job as a deputy tax assessor-collector for a single day during the poll tax drive put on by the Junior Chamber of Commerce did not vacate his office, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held in an official opinion.

In other opinions Carr concluded: —A driver's license is automatically lost on felony conviction for driving while intoxicated, but is not so forfeited when a person is convicted of misdemeanor DWI and placed on probation (unless probation is revoked).

—Driver of a pickup, panel truck, carry-all or station wagon of 2,000 pounds or less capacity does not have to have a commercial operator's license even if vehicle is operated in combination with one or more trailers.

—Texas Water Rights Commission is governed by article setting $1,500 maximum for water use permits (and $200 top for additional use under same permit). Request originated with Sulphur River Municipal Water District and City of Irving applications to take water from Cooper Reservoir.

—Workmen's Compensation law does not have permissive application to county-line independent school district (Goose Creek Consolidated ISD) under jurisdiction of a county having population of 1,200,000 or more unless it is wholly located or situated in the county.

—A warrant on Texas Water Rights Commission's appropriation to pay for paper used in printing special engineering reports necessary to state water plan is a legal expenditure.

Highway Improvement Planned

State Highway Commission initiated plans to make U. S. Highway 271 a multi-lane facility from Paris northward to the Red River and the Oklahoma border.

Facility will connect with a multi-lane highway planned by the state of Oklahoma to extend southward from McAlester to the river.

Among other projects ordered by the commission was completion of a highway loop around the city of Lufkin.

Devil's River Bridge on U. S. Highway 90 west of Del Rio received the American Institute of Steel Construction "Oscar" at a commission meeting here as the best of its class constructed in '64.

Courts Decide

State Supreme Court held for the typographical union in action requiring the Houston Chronicle and Houston Post to reset in their composing rooms advertisements placed by a local firm through a local advertising agency. Arbitration board held that "national" advertising does not have to be reproduced by the newspapers, but "local" advertising does.

Supreme Court turned down the appeal of Mayor Morris L. Newnam of Ranger to be included on the Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for state representative in the 63rd District (Eastland, Palo Pinto, Stephens, Callahan and Shackelford counties). Lower courts held Newnam ineligible to run for the Legislature because he's now serving a term in a "lucrative public office." Actually, he draws no pay.

Policy Changes

Writing of general liability and automobile insurance policies will be changed by July 1. But the "average driver" won't be affected.

Big change will be introduction of a "jacket" plan which will be common to several types of insurance. Under the "jacket" plan, the agent will insert standard insurance parts, such as fire protection, auto protection, etc.

Basically, the change is designed for business enterprises rather than for individuals. Family policies will not be under the "jacket" plan.

Under the new method, "an insured now will be covered by liability for injuries to others arising out of his use as a passenger of a land public conveyance, such as a taxicab or bus."

A second area for increased protection is for "the insured's liability arising out of watercraft powered by outboard motors in excess of 24 horsepower."

Most significant change in the general liability plan as it relates to automobiles and other vehicles is that the policies will be written on a "per occurrence" basis with no additional charge.

Short Snorts . . .

Parks and Wildlife Commission in an unpublicized meeting added nearly 400 acres to 245 previously designated as Lyndon B. Johnson State Park near famed LBJ Ranch.

State Securities Commissioner William M. King has taken action to prohibit the sale of securities issued by Atlas-American Oil Corporation, Dallas.

Texas Department of Public Safety is now tied in with a multi-state high speed police teletype network to carry information on crime and traffic.

More than 1,000 are expected to attend the Governor's Conference on mental retardation here March 17-18.

Texas Education Agency accreditation team probably will re-visit the troubled Eagle Pass school system in April. School was warned its accreditation will be discontinued in July unless "substantial progress" is made.

Pioneer amphitheatre complex in Palo Duro Canyon State Park will be expanded, according to Parks and Wildlife Commission Chairman Will Odom.

H. A. Belk Jr. recently made the dean's list at Texas Tech, Lubbock, where he is in his senior year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Belk of this county.

There are two schools of thought concerning good managers. Some say a person is a born manager, while others think that the management process can be taught. Read what the authorities have to say on the subject and then answer the question in your own mind. How do you think a person becomes a good manager? And keep this in mind—the money angle is not the only angle to be considered.

Management Tips and Thoughts

Management is a flow of learning throughout life. Gaining of knowledge can be compared to a river as it flows along picking up particles of sand and rocks.

Management is socialization—getting along with others.

Management is communication—interaction with others.

Good management means a happy family, a satisfied family or smooth sailing for the family.

Good management is being aware of total resources and being able to use them to reach goals.

Good management means reaching family goals.

Every human being has a place in society, with unique functions to perform. How well he is able to perform his function depends on the quality of his management.

Management is the responsibility of the whole family.

Your attitude determines the way you think, the way you feel and the way you behave. Your attitude determines your management.

This little poem points this out very clearly.

Telling On Yourself
by Wilburt T. Diddle

You tell on yourself by the company you keep,

By the very way in which you speak,
By the way you spend your leisure time,
By the use you make of dollars and dime,
You tell what you are by the things you wear,
By the spirit in which your burdens you bear,
By the things that make you laugh,
By the songs you play on the phonograph,
You tell what you are by the way you walk,
By the things on which you delight to talk,
By the way in which you accept defeat,
By so simple a thing as how to eat,
By the books you choose from a well-filled shelf—
In these ways and more, you tell on yourself;
So there isn't really very much sense
In an effort to keep up false pretense.

Refrigerators On Air

It's no dream. It's available now. A refrigerator that floats. An air cushion device, activated by fingertip control, floats the refrigerator a fraction of an inch above the floor, so it can easily be moved. Other refrigerators now come with wheels for easy moving. Other things to look for in the year ahead, according to the recent Agricultural Outlook Conference, are refrigerators with seven-day meat keepers and adjustable, many-position shelves. Also, all but the least expensive models will be frost free.

The automatic ice-maker was in about 90,000 units sold last year; it is estimated that more than 175,000 units will have this feature this year.

Did you ever make a lemon pie filling and have the whole thing become thinner and thinner and thinner?

Add lemon juice to cornstarch egg mixture AFTER it is cooked—this keeps the filling from getting thin.

The job of feeding the children, like Old Man River, just keeps going on and on. This is not the whole answer to keeping 3 square meals always simmering and ready but it will help out on the cookie needs.

This is a time-saving cookie mix to help you keep ahead of the game, from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. You'll be able to make 4 batches of about 24 cookies each from it.

Rolled Oats Mix

4 cups flour
4 cups rolled oats, quick cooking
3 cups instant nonfat dry milk
¼ cup baking powder
1 tablespoon salt
1½ cups shortening.
Stir dry ingredients together until well mixed. Cut in fat until well blended. Place in a glass jar or tin can. Keep tightly closed in a cool place. Use the mix within a month. Makes about 10 cups mix.

Oatmeal Cookies

(Using Rolled Oats Mix)
2½ cups rolled oats mix
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg beaten
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sugar
1/3 cup raisins.
Combine all ingredients and stir just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Drop the dough by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 F. (moderate oven) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 24 cookies.

You'll find this recipe a money-saver as well as a time-saver. The use of nonfat dry milk helps cut costs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Richardson were here Tuesday visiting. They lived in San Antonio until recently where they operated a trailer park. They had been in Florida and on their way here visited the Mardi Gras at Mobile and other points of interest in the South. Mrs. Richardson visited her brother, W. C. Evans in San Angelo, and then left to visit other relatives in California.

What is the best time of the year to prune trees? This depends on the reason for pruning.

Deadwood can be removed from trees at any time without injuring them. Spring pruning, however, is recommended when doing correctional pruning, since the wounds heal faster than at any other times of the year.

If your objective is to increase fruit and bloom set, prune before the blossoms form in midsummer. If, on the other hand, you want to decrease the number of blossoms, prune before they bloom after the blossoms have set.

Pruning trees during early fall tends to reduce plant hardiness and, in general, is not a good practice. Evergreens should not be sheared in late summer or fall as the cut ends will not heal over until spring.

Dead branches can be removed any time.

Good management of pasture and range lands is an important factor in preventing livestock losses from poisonous plants. Approximately 80 species and varieties of poisonous plants are found in Texas.

The losses from such plants, he adds, are a major economic problem since a study of numerous reports indicate the annual loss to the state's livestock industry ranges from $50 to $100 million.

Research and field studies in Texas and elsewhere indicate that the poisoning of livestock is more commonly the result of management, range conditions or kinds of animals rather than the presence of plants concerned. Poor range condition from overgrazing or other conditions resulting in a lack of palatable forage is commonly the cause of poisoning. The real danger is whether or not the toxic species is grazed.

Many species are seldom eaten, but some are relished by certain animals and may be taken in preference to other forage. Many poisonous plants are green at a time of the year when other plants are dormant. Too, frequent cases of poisoning occur when hungry animals are turned into new pastures or are given access to poisonous plants near pens, watering places or along trails. Most poisonous plants are eaten because the animal is hungry and the toxic one is readily available.

In order that stockmen may have readily available information needed to assist them with the solution of the problem, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have recently released a new publication on the subject: B-1028, "Texas Plants Poisonous to Livestock." Copies are available from the offices of local county agents. The publication not only lists the plants of economic importance but also gives the area or areas where they are found, a description with many of them shown in illustrations, poisoning symptoms, kinds of livestock effected, and suggestions for management and treatment.

Social grace is the ability to yawn and not open your mouth.

A son or daughter in a 4-H club provides numerous opportunities for parents to plan, share, and work with youth.

One of the most valuable contributions parents can make is to counsel with their children in the selection of projects or demonstrations. From the wide variety of projects or demonstrations available under the Texas 4-H Club program, youth from 9 to 19 years of age can find a suitable and practical project. Parents with their knowledge of the home situation and the youth's interests and abilities can help in this choice.

The 4-H Club programs have been and are being continually broadened to include training in the new fields of science. Too, programs are now available which include special training in business and are listed under the heading of Town and Country Business programs, and there are others including money management and the like.

Parents can also assist the 4-H program by serving as local adult 4-H leaders or by assisting leaders with club events and activities. They can also encourage their children to attend meetings regularly and take an active part in the program and business meeting.

4-H is the youth phase of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service's continuing educational program and that all youth, regardless of whether or not they live in the country or an urban area, are eligible to participate.

A special invitation is extended to boys and girls and their parents to visit the county agents' offices for more details on what membership in a 4-H Club can mean to the family members.

Broadmindedness has been defined as highmindedness flattened by experience.

Consolidation Vote Carries At Robert Lee

The consolidation election held last Saturday at Robert Lee and Silver carried, declared County Judge W. W. Thetford this week after the commissioners court canvassed the votes. Robert Lee went for the merger of the two schools by better than 100-1, while the proposition barely squeaked thru at the Silver polling place. —Robert Lee Observer.

After losing the 14-B battle, Labor is mobilizing its resources behind several of the Great Welfare Society's priority measures. One is an increase in the minimum wage and expansion of coverage. While AFL-CIO favors a $2-per-hour minimum, the Administration seems to favor $1.60, on a graduated basis. The House Labor Committee reported a bill calling for $1.75, but is now watering it down a bit.

The same bill calls for expansion of coverage to include an additional 7 million workers, including farm workers, laundry and restaurant employees, and a dozen other categories not now covered.

This legislation is due to cause considerable unemployment, but the pressure is on for a bill to be enacted at this session, and the issue seems to be on the form it will take.

A second labor-backed bill, H. R. 8282, would provide minimum federal-dictated standards for unemployment insurance, extended coverage, pump Federal money into State plans, and tax employers to pay for it all. Under this proposal Texas employers alone would have to pay an additional $100 million per year in unemployment insurance. This measure is so expensive and burdensome that the Administration, which proposed legislation on the subject, is reported to be worried about its impact. With a subservient Congress, however, a bill on the subject is likely to be enacted. It may be watered down.

A third major reform being pushed by Labor deals with situs picketing. Designed to reverse a 15-year-old Supreme Court decision prohibiting a union from picketing a construction site, which prevents other unions not involved in the dispute from going to work on the job. In other words, even in plants where there is no dispute, the unions want to be able to picket such plants if supplies, materials, etc., from such plants are being used at another plant where there is a current dispute. This legislation is highly unfair and unsound, but a liberal-oriented Congress may enact a bill on the subject at this session. The outcome will depend, in no small measure, on how much pressure is applied from the White House.

These are but three of Labor's pet bills—all with various shades of Great Welfare Society support..

State Fair To Be Held At Dallas, October 8-23

"Exposition of Young America" will be the theme of the 1966 State Fair of Texas October 8 through 23 in Dallas.

Through means of special attractions, shows, exhibits and activities, the October exposition will offer both the fun aspects as well as the deeply significant views of today's younger people, said Joseph B. Rucker Jr., executive vice president and general manager, in announcing the theme.

"Exposition of Young America will present an opportunity for projecting the exhilaration of the youth and young adult world into the deeply rooted but ever-changing appeal of the State Fair," Mr. Rucker said.

"It is our strong desire to highlight the many positive contributions of Young Americans and we know that in so doing we will be able to offer an exciting exposition to fair-goers of all ages," he added.

The 1966 Exposition of Young America will mark the 80th year for the State Fair of Texas, the nation's largest annual exposition in terms of attendance.

"Fiddler on the Roof" will play 22 performances in the State Fair Music Hall during the 1966 State Fair. It is winner of the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award as Best Musical of the year.

Driving up and down roads and highways in the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District, one can see pastures with a good cover of vigorous grasses growing in them, but adjoining pastures show bare ground and very little vegetative cover. Could it be that it rained on the pasture with the cover of grass and didn't on the pasture showing rocks and bare ground? Or, could it be that the pasture showing no grass or cover had more stock in it than it had grass, so they ate all the forage produced during the growing season before winter months arrived?

Like someone has so ably said, "You have to keep your plants up if you don't want your bare ground to show."

People depend upon grass for their major subsistence; livestock harvest and process the range forage crop for human use. Grass, then, must have an opportunity to grow and thrive so that maximum animal products can be produced.

The successful range manager triumphantly displays his knowledge over those who mismanage their grasslands. Sound grazing management may bring about as big a boon to animal production as do the different breeds of animals. Grazing animals will kill out the best plants unless more of them are available than the number of stock in a pasture can eat. The instincts of grazing animals do not cause them to save part of the year's growth for winter. Animals select the most palatable plants because these plants are the most nourishing, and eat them to the exclusion of others. With continuous use, these plants either die or become so depleted that they fail to yield much. Then stock turns to the next most desirable kind. Plants that survive heavy grazing are usually the least palatable, and often the least productive as well as the least drought resistant.

The success of a ranching operation depends upon having enough grass or forage to meet the year-long needs of the animals on the range. If the grass shortage occurs in spring, summer, or fall, plants may be grazed so heavily that they will die.

Soil Conservation Service technicians, working with Conservation ranchmen in the district, find that they have learned that cover on rangeland is essential to maintain a satisfactory condition for continued plant growth and to provide yearlong grazing.

The term good cover is very broad. In the case of cover on our ranges, all stems and leaves from current year's growth are considered in determining if some two thousand pounds of vegetative material is available to provide sufficient cover.

These conservation ranchmen have proven for themselves that a good cover on the rangeland is a number one requirement to prevent excessive soil and water losses—that bare ground does not slow up raindrops. The rain drops pound the soil, on bare ranges, into a mud puddle. Thus, valuable topsoil and water needed for sustained plant growth is lost. Ranges that have strong vigorous grass cover will protect the soil from the pounding raindrops, and slow up the runoff of the water, resulting in a higher per cent of water soaking into the soil for grass production.

Cover also provides a blanket that reduces evaporation and maintains a relatively even temperature during hot dry months of wide fluctuation. A temperature from 75 to 90 degrees is the ideal temperature for plant growth, with plant growth practically stopping when the soil temperature reaches 130 degrees.

Often, when the thermometer reaches 98 degrees in the shade, the ground temperature under poor cover reaches 135 degrees while ground under a good cover of grass will not exceed 87 degrees.

To establish grass seedlings cover is essential. Cover provides a natural seedbed, prevents extreme fluctuations in soil temperatures, protects the young seedlings from pounding raindrops and helps save important moisture for use to help the young plants in getting well established.

The logical and common-sense way of maintaining a good cover on rangeland is to use the grasses properly. Observe the grass stand and move the stock to another pasture or reduce the herd when half the grass has been grazed.

Remember that half of the grass produced on good range is more than all of the grass produced on poor range.

Good, palatable, perennial grasses will die if grazed to the ground year after year. Grass that's left returns to the soil as humus and food for plants to use later. This makes a richer and more favorable condition for higher and more nutritious grass production. To do this job effectively it has been proven by research and experimentation that about 2,000 pounds is needed.

Return Of The Square

Back in Mark Twain's day, one of the finest words in our language was "square". You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. And you gave him a square meal when he was hungry. You stood four-square for the right as you saw it and square against everything else. When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellowman square in the eye.

Then a lot of strange characters got hold of this honest, wholesome word, bent it all out of shape, and gave it back to our children. Convicts gave it the first twist. To them a square was an inmate who would not conform to the convict code. From the prisons, it was flashed across the country on the marijuana circuit of the bopsters and hipsters. Now everyone knows what a square is. He is the man who never learned to get away with wrongdoing. A Joe who volunteers when he doesn't have to. A guy who gets his kicks from trying to do something better than anyone else can. A boob who gets so lost in his work that he has to be reminded to go home. A fellow who laughs with his belly instead of his upper lip. A slob who still gets choked up when the band plays, "America the Beautiful."

His tribe isn't thriving too well in the current climate. He doesn't fill too neatly into the current group of angle players, corner cutters, sharpshooters and goof-offs. He doesn't believe in opening all the packages before Christmas. He doesn't want to fly now and pay later. He's burdened down with old-fashioned ideas of honesty, loyalty, courage, and thrift. And he may already be on his way to extinction.

He and all the rest of us are living in a country today that is quite different from the one that we were taught to love. Parents have successfully defended in court their children's rights to ignore the flag salute. Faculties have found it distasteful to publicly take an oath of loyalty to their country. And the United States Military Academy has found it necessary to place a sign beside its parade grounds at West Point reminding spectators that it is customary for men to remove their hats at the passing of the banner that was once unashamedly referred to as "Old Glory."

What has happened? I think we have changed from an exporting country to an importing country. I do not mean that we have let the world drain all our gold away, although that is bad enough. I do not mean any imbalance of trade, as threatening as that may be. I mean that we have been importing, instead of exporting, ideas. The United States of America was once the greatest exporter of ideas the world has ever known. We created and sold abroad the idea of individual dignity, responsibility, and freedom. We created and sold the idea of government of the people, by the people, and for the people—an idea that is still being bought today. We exported the idea of freedom of worship, the idea of unfettered press, the idea that those who are taxed should be represented.

It's hard to find a basic idea that America has recently exported. We have bought in the bazaars of Asia Minor the idea that an honest man is either a fool or a liar. From our most mortal enemy we have bought the idea of a strong government for the weak people. We have bought abroad the ideas of "Let George do it," or "what's in it for me?" and the gesture of the neatly-shrugged shoulder.

But most significant of all, most of us have been gullible patrons of the export firm of Sigmund Freud who has sold us the idea that all men are born feeble, that we should abandon our ancient disciplines as too stark for the poor souls that we are and seek our salvation through group support. Freud's discovery that man was not adjusted to his world, and could never truly be adjusted, seemingly justified the lazy cynic and condemned the square. For if you can not win, what is the use of trying? And here was the first great authority who said, "You cannot win."

This country was discovered, put together, fought for, and saved by squares. It is easy to prove that Nathan Hale, Patrick Henry, Paul Revere, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, and almost anyone else you care to include among our national heroes, were squares. This can be proven by simply thinking of what they might have said had they not been squares.

Nathan Hale: Me spy on those British? Are you trying to be funny? Do you know what they do with spies they catch? I'll give you a news flash, chum. They hang them.

Paul Revere: What do you mean, me ride through every Middlesex village and town? And in the middle of the night, yet! Why pick on me? Am I the only man in Boston with a horse?

Patrick Henry: Sure, I'm for liberty. First, last and always. But we've got to be a little realistic. We're a pretty small outfit. If we start pushing the British around, someone is going to get hurt.

George Washington: Gentlemen, I am honored. But I do wish you would try someone else. Let's say, General Gates. I'm just getting things organized at Mount Vernon.

Benjamin Franklin: Who we really need for Ambassador to France is a young man. I'm 70 years old. It's time a new generation took over.

It is perhaps a significant fact that what such men actually did say has been quietly sneaked out of our school books. This Week magazine made a survey of school history booklets issued before 1920 compared with those issued since. That Nathan Hale said, "I regret that I have but one life to lose for my country," was in 11 of the old texts, but in only 1 of the new.

Patrick Henry was quoted: "Give me liberty or give me death!" in 12 of the 14 earlier texts and in only two of 45 recently-published ones.

But John Paul Jones set the record. His once-famous reply to a British demand for surrender: "I have not yet begun to fight," is in nine of the old books but in none of the new ones.

Today, our country still has a choice. I believe it has already begun to make that choice. I believe it is going back to its beliefs in such things as ideals, pride, patriotism, loyalty, devotion, and even hard work. We have a new set of heroes. Their names are Glenn and Grissom, Shepard, Carpenter, Cooper and Schirra. They are named Crews, Bock and Twining; Smith, Sorile and McIntosh; Knolle and Hoover.

These lads apparently lived too far from the big cities and grew up to be squares. For who but a square would volunteer his life for his country's good? They are not even ashamed of their feelings.

John Glenn says he gets a tingling feeling down inside when he sees the flag go by. Imagine that! He is proud of his small town and proud of his small college. He is proud that he belongs to the Boy Scouts and the YMCA. I hope that some of him rubs off on the next generation.

The forces of conformity are still strong. Too many of us are still sitting it out instead of sweating it out. Too many of us haven't got the guts to stand up straight and dare to be square. Because the opposite of square is round, and being round is much simpler. Responsibilities and problems roll off nice and easy. And we can just roll down the path without any bumps, being careful to stay in the middle, because that's where the most comfortable ruts are.

How shall we fight for personal independence? How shall we avoid the group poop; the vortex of mediocrity; the great nothingness of cynical sophistication and bored nonparticipation?

I suggest that we all join the S.O.S. The S.O.S. is the Society of Squares. It doesn't exist, but it could. Not a left-wing organization. Not a right-wing organization. Just an organization with wings. We might have to go underground for awhile to avoid being trampled to death by the coast-to-coast ratpacks of cynical saboteurs and the canned wit commandos whose devotion is to destruction. But we would come out. We might even have a secret handshake—grabbing the other guy's hand as though we really meant it and looking him squarely in the eye.

We would be for participation and against sitting life out, for simplicity and against sophistication, for laughter and against snickering, for America and against inst her enemies, for the direct and against the devious, for the honest way and against the easy short-cut, for the well-done job and against the goof-offs, for education and against the tearing down of ideals.

We have, at least, the satisfaction of knowing that our problem is not new. When Benjamin Franklin was told that the war for independence was over, he said: "Say rather the war of the revolution is over . . . the war for independence has yet to be fought."

And today, years later, this war has still to be fought. —By Charles H. Brower, now Chairman of the Board, Batton, Barton, Durs-tine and Osborn, as a speech to the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.
