Indictments Made

A 51st District grand jury here returned two felony theft indictments Monday. Indicted were James Haskell Brown and Glenn Brazier, both of San Angelo. Brown and Brazier are charged with the reported theft March 17 of two drill bits and a barrel of oil from Caraway Drilling Co. The grand jury passed action on two other cases.

Post Script

Now that local elections are over we are all squared away for the Democratic Primary in May.

There are four candidates for Commissioner in Precinct One, and four in Precinct Three.

Also our county-wide race for County Attorney.

Practically all of these candidates have ordered cards and you can expect visits in the next few weeks.

The Success has already received orders for printing ballots. We are at work on them and they will be ready in time for absentee balloting.

—ps—
In addition to our county offices the ballot gives you a choice in state and district offices—for instance Governor.

As a West Texas newspaper the Success is on record as favoring Dolph Briscoe for Governor. But he is going to need all the help he can get from West Texas to overcome the heavily populated areas in East Texas.

We hope Schleicher county gives Mr. Briscoe a handsome majority.

—ps—
In a letter at the bottom of this page, Mr. McGinnes lists a number of useless and unnecessary laws which makes a person remember recent speeches of George Wallace who has been castigating the ever growing "Washington bureaucrats."

While we don't expect that George Wallace will ever become the Democratic candidate for President in November, he talks on things that find favor with thousands of middle-class people.

People at present are luke-warm about the 11 candidates now trying to get the Democratic nomination in Miami in July. Many seem to think the convention will result in a stalemate with no candidate receiving a majority. And then there is a possibility of a last-minute dark horse. Usually mentioned is Edward (Chappaquidic) Kennedy.

But what the Democrats really want is a candidate who could beat Nixon.

By now many people honestly think there is only one life-long Democrat of sufficient stature who could do it, and that one man is our former Texas Governor JOHN CONNALLY, now serving as Secretary of the Treasury in Nixon's cabinet.

As a Democrat in a Republican cabinet he is already well known as a fighter. He would be a strong President and one who would take no guff from George Meany and other national union leaders, who have been crippling the country with their nation-wide strikes.

Some Democrats say that Connally is too conservative, but what this country needs today is a call to sacrifice.

This is just one voter's forlorn hope but if John Connally could be drafted as a last-minute dark horse Democratic candidate for President in 1972, a luke-warm American electorate would suddenly be on fire.

Oh, brother, that would be an election!

Bessie Gandy won the $28 in the drawing held Monday morning, under sponsorship of the local Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber members reported good response during the three days last week that the coupons were placed in collection boxes over town, and it is planned for the drawing to be a monthly affair. Bill McWhorter drew the winning ticket.

The first quarter of the year '72 has come and gone, with just .60 of rain reported by the SCS office. January rainfall average was a big fat zero, followed by February's .50, and March's .10. It has been a dry winter, but maybe we can expect more rain from April on into later Spring.

—ps—
The referendum sponsored by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association in 73 counties March 27-31, failed. About 54.3% approved the proposal, but two-thirds was necessary for passage. The measure would have provided a 20 cents per head assessment for predator control.

BACK FROM HOSPITAL
W. C. Parks Jr. returned recently from a stay in Santa Rosa hospital in San Antonio, where he spent five days following surgery.

Just A Tenth Inch Of Rain Reported In March

Lloyd Johnson's average March rainfall comes to only one-tenth of an inch.

His figures for the first three months are: January 0.60; February 0.50; and March 0.10.

That makes 1.20 inches for the year, and this is similar to last year's first three months.

If history is supposed to repeat itself we should look for some rains in April. Last year 3.31 inches fell in April.

Mrs. Otto Mund Dies

Mrs. Otto Mund, 68, sister of a San Angelo man, died in her home at Clyde at 9:30 a.m. Monday of an apparent heart attack.

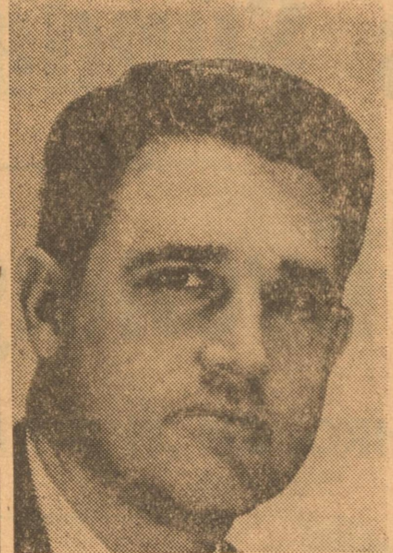

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in Dublin in the Harrell Funeral Home with burial in Dublin cemetery.

Born Feb. 18, 1904, in Bell county, she was a school teacher and nurse before being married to Otto Mund May 25, 1930 in Colorado City. She had lived in Snyder, Dublin and San Angelo, moving to Clyde from San Angelo in 1960. She was a Baptist.

Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Lloyd (Eunice) Cokendolpher of Burkburnett; four brothers, Woodrow Herbert of San Angelo, R. M. Herbert of Odessa, Vegell Herbert of Stamford and W. J. Herbert of Del Valle; four sisters, Annie Herbert of Dublin, Mrs. Ralph Anderson of Irving, Mrs. Gus Frithiof of Austin and Mrs. Leslie Greer of Corpus Christi, and three grandchildren.

The Pat Wester family spent the holiday week preceding Easter camping in the Garner State Park and near Fredericksburg. When they returned home, they found that Marilyn had come down with the mumps.

Woman's Club

Program Theme: Some Should Not Go To College.

Mrs. L. D. Ochsner was the featured speaker at a meeting of the Woman's Club on March 28. Mrs. Ochsner, who is a director at Mayer Hall, Angelo State University, and formerly a president of the Woman's Club, spoke to the group on Educational Needs of Young People. She said that in her opinion every student should not try to get a college education—that for some young people it was simply a waste of time. She thinks that a course in a vocational school or a technical degree would better equip some young people in earning a good living. She stated that the world needed plumbers, bricklayers, carpenters, farmers, ranchers, etc., people who liked to work with their hands, and that quite often they can earn more money than the person with a liberal arts degree.

The Club, in conjunction with the Commissioners Court, is re-decorating and re-furnishing the Club Room. Other clubs, or organizations or individuals who would like to contribute to this project may do so by contacting Mrs. Vernon Rogers, president of the club, or any club member. Any contribution will be appreciated. Some have already contributed and to them the Club says thanks.

The next meeting of the club will be on April 25 when Mrs. Ford Oglesby, Mrs. J. L. Neill and Mrs. Edwin Jackson will talk on their experiences in foreign countries and different parts of the U. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Doyle and children of Pearsall visited during the Easter holidays with Jerry's mother, Mrs. Bessie Doyle, and with the Jim Doyles.

Further details of this tournament may be obtained from your tournament committee.

Due to a very generous gift from Mr. Fleming of Industrial Electric Company in San Angelo, we will in the near future be able to improve the present watering system at the golf course. Mr. Fleming endowed us with about $2,000 worth of electric gate valves that will be used in making the present watering system automatic. This was certainly a very useful and elaborate gift for which each of us at Eldorado Golf Club is grateful. In extending our sincere thanks to Mr. Fleming we urge him to make use of our golfing facilities in Eldorado for "FREE" and hope that he will visit us often. If you happen to be at Industrial Electric ask for Mr. Fleming and tell him how very much we appreciate his generosity, and maybe buy him a cup of coffee.

From what I hear when you play with a certain golfer of the local club, it might be to your interest to wear a safety helmet. Of course nobody gets hurt as long as the ball hits a window pane or the bill of your opponent's cap, but then who knows what tomorrow may bring? The rule book doesn't say how—just how many! Right Crip?

Don't forget to qualify for the Men's Club Championship tournament Saturday and Sunday, April 8-9.

Use Of Antibiotics On Livestock
It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is seriously concerned about the problem of drug residuals in food-producing animals.

A letter recently received from one of the leading manufacturers of veterinary drugs points out the fact that since research by their laboratories indicated that when the product "Longcil Fortified" was used by subcutaneous injection all traces of penicillin will disappear from the tissue by 30 days after injection in beef cattle. Treatment is also limited to two doses. Cattle injected with this product should be withheld from slaughter for food use for 30 days following the last treatment.

Livestockmen should read all labels carefully. The fact that this product should only be used subcutaneously and not more than twice is important. Many of us

Letter to the Editor Deplores Introduction of Unnecessary Laws

Every day complaints are being registered and each one generally represents one personal point of view. This one will be no different in that respect, but, from what I hear around West Texas these days, I believe it is a complaint subscribed to by the majority of the people.

My main concern at the present is the Occupational Safety & Health Act of 1970. It, like many other moves to protect man from himself, is well intended, but it is too vast in its coverage and in some areas is an insult to average intelligence. It attempts to provide safeguards for everything from heavy industrial machinery to personal sanitation.

Would you believe that this act contains 29 pages of fine print dealing with regulations on scafolds, platforms, and ladders? Believe it or not, it does.

Would you believe that it prohibits cooling water in any manner in which the ice comes in direct contact with the water?

Would you believe it prohibits expectorating upon the walls, floors and work places or stairs of any establishment?

That toilet facilities must be provided within 200' of the employees work area and the employee must not be required to climb stairs to get to these facilities?

Read it. It is all there.

It even specifies the location of toilet tissue hangers. I'm surprised that it didn't direct which hand to use and the number of sheets of paper required for proper cleansing.

This act, I believe, and hope, was well intended, but you cannot legislate safety or sanitation. Certain rules are required, but when anyone attempts to cover every area of life with legislative safeguards, he will find it is an operation in frustration.

The Occupational Safety & Health Act of 1970 dwells at such great length on so many minor details that I believe it is a hazard rather than a safeguard. The enforcement of all the minor rules and regulations will prove to be so time consuming that administrative and supervisory people will spend all their time and thought looking for minor hazards, or tending to the reporting required, that the major hazards, the welfare and morale of workers, and the main business will be neglected. This is also another hard blow to individual initiative and this is a badly weakened area in our country now

If you are interested in how this act will affect you, get a copy of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 and read it for yourself. Then write your Senator and Representative and give him your candid opinion on it.

Don't just shrug your shoulders and say there is nothing you can do about it! This attitude is what has allowed many things to happen to us that should never have occurred. If enough people write their national political people, something will be done. This is still a government of the people, by the people and for the people—if the people, you and I, are willing to act.

"No waste of irrigation water or water from rainfall from this leveled field."

During the drouth of the 1950's farmers in the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District began drilling irrigation wells where by they could apply the water needed to their crops. The opinion of most all experienced farmers was to be sure there was good moisture in the soil at planting time and a good crop could be made. Irrigation was not to take the place of water received from rainfall, but to add water to fill the soil to full field capacity before crops were planted. Water needed from irrigation, after crops were growing, would depend on rainfall received and the kind of production desired by the farmer.

Irrigation brought about need for changes in farming operations. Land had to be prepared whereby irrigation water could be distributed throughout the field being irrigated. The topography of the field being irrigated was one of the controlling factors in how hard or easy the field would be to irrigate properly. The more nearly level the field was the easier it was to irrigate properly. Fields with steep irregular slopes proved to be the most difficult to irrigate.

Since irrigation first began in the district several farmers have land leveled some of their irrigated land. The purpose of land leveling was to alter the topography of the land whereby efficient use of irrigation water could be achieved; to make efficient use of rainfall, prevent erosion, and facilitate proper soil and water management.

Land leveling eliminates the side movement of water permitting the water to be applied to the same depth across the area being irrigated. This eliminates the waste of water that occurs when the lower side of each area being watered gets too much water and the upper side doesn't get enough water. With little or no difference in the elevations in land leveled fields, water depths will be nearly the same throughout the entire width and length. A more efficient application of irrigation water can be obtained on level land. Also, any rainfall that is received is held and distributed evenly over the field. Thus, better use is made of rainfall.

"Probably the most important factor effected by land leveling is the opportunity time of irrigation water as well as rainfall," states Lloyd B. Johnson of the Soil Conservation Service. The opportunity time is the time water has to go into the soil at each point along the area being irrigated. To get a given amount of water in the soil, water must be held on the area for the time required to get the water into the soil. Soils that take water slowly and are not leveled, need more time to apply the water needed to reach field capacity. Most soils in the Eldorado Divide S.C.D. require a long opportunity time to get the needed water into the soil.

By managing irrigation water and water received from rainfall whereby it is held on the land for crop use, and where all needed conservation practices are applied and maintained, maximum potential yields can be attained.

Sympathy appeals are another door-to-door selling trick. Some companies actually organize and train crews of people to use sob stories to make sales. So don't fall for the old "I'm working my way through school and supporting my invalid mother" line unless you check out the story first.

Be especially on the lookout for the "inspectors" who come to your door offering phoney "free" inspections. Ask for both identification and authorization credentials. If they don't have them, don't let them in without checking with local authorities about their identity. Home repairs, like fixing roofs or furnaces, or termite exterminations, are favorite projects for this kind of racket. Don't agree to repairs or other services without it.

getting another estimate from a local serviceman.

To protect yourself from falling into door-to-door selling traps, take time to fully consider any purchase. A reputable salesman will be happy to come back. Before buying, compare prices of similar merchandise in your local stores. You might find a better price.

Don't sign any papers obligating payment unless you know the total cost. High interest, credit insurance and other service charges can greatly increase the total price of merchandise.

Remember, buy only what you need. Above all, never be afraid to say no! You can always decide to buy later, but once you make your purchase you are stuck with it.

Door-To-Door Selling May Be Fraudulent

"Hello, I'm here to take a survey. I don't have a thing to sell." And with those opening lines the high-pressure sales pitch begins.

While not all door-to-door salesmen are con men, there are numerous door-to-door rackets. Although there are an infinite number of variations used by the door-to-door salesmen, knowing some of the basic types of approaches can help you protect yourself against being duped.

Phoney surveys are a favorite way for gypsters to get their foot into your door. If someone claims to be taking a survey, insist upon seeing their credentials before letting them in. If they don't have proper identification, say you're not interested in participating. You may save yourself from an unpleasant high-pressured sales pitch.

Acquiring that farm might seem more practical with financing through the Federal Land Bank. Land is easier to pay off when costs are amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank Loan. Your total cost of borrowing, too, can be less. Ask us for help: We know land values; we will inspect the property. We will then try to make a loan that meets your exact needs.

Byron Tunnell Announces for Railroad Commission

BYRON TUNNELL

Byron Tunnell, vigorous young Chairman of the Railroad Commission of Texas, has announced for election to his second full term on the Commission. His election last year as Chairman established him as the youngest presiding officer of the agency in Texas history.

Tunnell is a graduate of Tyler public schools and Baylor University Law School. Prior to his Commission service he was a practicing trial attorney in Tyler. The candidate is a Navy Air Corps veteran of World War II.

This East Texan has already made a mark as one of Texas' great advocates of conservation of the state's natural resources. Tunnell, in accepting the Chairmanship of the Commission, pledged the full force and effect of the agency to conservation for the economic and ecological welfare of all Texans.

Austin, Tex.—State lawmakers polished off billboard control and primary election finance legislation in a three-day special session, and added far-reaching procedural reform rules for good measure. They will be back to work in June on budget and tax matters. In their "mini-session", the legislators—many anxious to get back to the campaign trails—logged these accomplishments: —They provided for emergency state financing of the May and June primary elections and set aside $2 million to pay the bills. Another long-term primary finance measure will be necessary next year. —They moved to meet federal highway beautification requirements by outlawing billboards within 600 feet of major highways and providing for screening of junkyards. The measure will cost the state about $5 million a year in condemnation costs for five years. But it will prevent a $24 million loss of federal highway construction funds for non-compliance with regulations. —Both House and Senate adopted joint rules including sharp limitations on powers of conference committees to write new legislative matters without majority permission. —The House also accepted rules installing a limited seniority system for committee assignments, reducing the number of committees from 46 to 25 and providing for electronic recording of House and committee proceedings. —Legislators also made Texas the eighth state to ratify a proposed federal amendment guaranteeing equal legal rights for women. Highlight of the opening day was election of Rep. Rayford Price, 35, of Palestine as new speaker of the House. Price won 77-65 over Rep. L. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi. He succeeds Rep. Gus Mutschler who resigned after his conviction for bribery conspiracy.

Allowable Adjusted Texas Railroad Commission decided to hold the oil allowable for the big East Texas Field to 66% during April instead of the 100% fixed for the rest of the state. An increase for the East Texas Field was postponed pending completion of a study. Chairman Byron Tunnell said the nation has "far too much at stake" in East Texas "to risk reservoir damage through excessive production rates." For the first time since 1948, the Commission fixed a 100% production factor for this month.

Courts Speak Major sections of Texas vagrancy laws were held unconstitutional by the State Court of Criminal Appeals which said the act makes it a crime to be unemployed or poor. Texas Supreme Court declined to order two aspiring candidates' names placed on the May primary ballots. One failed to post a filing fee or petition of candidacy. Another was refused a ballot position because he was already a member of a utility district board. The High Court set for May 10 a hearing on an appeal involving the City of Amarillo's power to tax a Masons' Lodge building and three lots owned by the order.

Attorney General's Opinions Texas Air Control Board can pay court costs in civil penalty pollution control suits from its operating expense fund, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded: —It is unlawful to hunt deer with dogs in Shelby county.

—Texas National Guardsmen from other states are eligible for resident tuition status in state-supported colleges and universities.

—A person who holds a voter registration certificate is eligible for a junior college district trustee office if he lives in the district.

—A criminal conviction for traffic violations would not qualify as a "hearing" subjecting a person to requirements of the Texas Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act. —The legislature cannot appropriate funds to pay primary election expenses incurred by local political parties in the past.

Insurance Hearing Put Off A scheduled March 29 hearing by the State Insurance Board on a proposed increase in home insurance was indefinitely postponed amid talk of compromise.

Board Chairman Larry Teaver sought a year's delay in applying a rating factor providing for rate additions due to inflation and rising construction costs. He had been out-voted by two other Board members on postponing use of the inflation factor.

"The Board is taking a thorough look at all of the factors involved with rating and working toward solutions to complex and complicated problems that arise when considering rate adjustments," Teaver said.

Teaver contended the Board's refusal earlier to suspend the inflation trend factor would cost Texans an additional $27 million in premiums next year, when a $14 million reduction could have been made under his own recommendations.

Traffic Toll Revealed A total of 3,594 persons died in Texas motor vehicle accidents during 1971, according to Texas Department of Public Safety tabulations.

DPS Director Col. Wilson E. Speir said the death toll represents a 1% increase over 1970, when 3,560 died on the streets and highways.

Speir noted that vehicle miles driven increased from 63 billion in 1970 to more than 70.7 billion for 1971—a 4% rise in driving. At the same time, the number of licensed Texas drivers rose by nearly 324,000 to a total of almost seven million. The death rate per 100 million miles of travel actually decreased 3% from 5.2 in 1970 to 5.1 in 1971, Speir said. The death rate in 1966 was 6.2. Of the 3,594 deaths in 1971, 2,184 occurred on rural roadways and 1,410 in urban areas. There were 2,993 fatal accidents and 394,166 total accidents last year. Speeding and driving while intoxicated were listed as primary violations in fatal mishaps.

Events Calendar Published

Texas Highway Department lists nearly 950 "happenings" in its Calendar of Events from April 1 to September 30.

Old and new events include the 104th Washington County Fair in Brenham, the First Annual Howdy-Roo Festival at Marble Falls and the First Annual State Arts and Crafts Fair at Kerrville.

Tourist bureaus of the Highway Department reported that many of the 1.36 million tourists who stopped for services in 1971 requested information on events.

Among new listings are the First Statewide Folklife Festival at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio; the annual slingshot championships at Carrizo Springs; the state frog-jumping contest at Refugio and the SpringH-Festival at Lampasas.

Fire Ant On Rampage

Imported fire ants are migrating from East Texas to the Dallas-Fort Worth area and south as far as Corpus Christi, warns State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

The fire ant is now found in 55 Texas counties and infests 16 million acres, White reported. White said future of the only bait used to control the ants—Mirex—pending before the Environmental Protection Agency. The Agriculture Department now distributes the bait to designated officers in infested areas.

An Open Letter To The People Of Texas

Dear Voter: I'm a candidate for attorney general of Texas because I believe it's time for a change in the office. Crawford Martin is seeking a fourth term. It's the first time in the history of Texas an attorney general is running for a fourth term. Campaigns should be run on the issues and I don't like to inject personalities and personal relationships into a political campaign. But, the relationship between Frank Sharp and Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin cannot be swept under the rug. The new book about the Texas stock fraud scandal, "Texas Under a Cloud," tells about that relationship. On page 128 the book says: "Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin, . . . got some free newspaper publicity when it was revealed in October, 1971, that he received a 'stock tip' from Frank Sharp — while Martin and his family were Sharp's ranch guests late in 1969 and again at Sharp's Houston office early in 1970. "Sharp was trying personally to sell National Bankers Life stock to Martin, although the attorney general said that Sharp never mentioned the possibility of Sharpstown Bank loans to buy the stock. "Martin said that he turned the stock offer down because it would have cost too much, because NBL was in 'shaky' condition, and because he did not buy 'speculative' stocks. "He did not comment on the ethical aspects of a state official's accepting a stock tip of that sort — perhaps, because Martin, as attorney general, had ruled in favor of Sharp on a key legal issue about Sharpstown State Bank only two and one half years before Sharp made the stock offer to Martin. "Martin's ruling had the effect of increasing the bank's capitalization dramatically and thus its ability to make large loans, ultimately giving Sharp the financial resources he used in the manipulations charged by the SEC." As you know, hundreds of Texans lost their life savings because of Sharp's stock manipulations and it probably wouldn't have happened but for Atty. Gen. Martin's legal opinion. Don't you agree, it's time for a change in the office of attorney general of Texas? Just so you'll know what you'd be changing to, I'd like to tell you a little about John Hill. I'm a native Texan, grew up in Wink and Kilgore, was national debate champion at Kilgore Junior College and graduated from the University of Texas Law School. I served in the Navy during World War II, practiced law much of the time in courtrooms in Houston, and was secretary of state from 1966 to 1968. I certainly would appreciate your support. It is time for a change.

John Hill

April Plentiful Foods List
The April spotlight shines on eight foods in unusually good supply. Eggs are the featured item on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's April plentiful foods list.

Milk and dairy products are in the listing, along with potatoes and potato products. Make the list complete by adding canned cranberry sauce and cranberry juice cocktail, canned and frozen concentrated grape juice, canned applesauce and apple juice, prunes and prune juice and canned pears.

Spring remains the traditional time for plentiful supplies of milk and dairy products, and they're familiar items on the "plentiful" list of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service this time of year.

So, you'll want to keep a good supply of whipping cream and ice cream on hand for special spring time desserts.

An abundance of eggs is always good news to the busy homemaker. Utilize the ample stocks by featuring a variety of out-of-the-ordinary egg dishes on the menu.

Through its plentiful foods program, the USDA keeps consumers and all segments of the food industry informed about foods expected to be in abundant supply and in need of marketing aid.

The monthly list is compiled by USDA commodity specialists from fact-finding sources available in government and the food industry.

Texas Grapefruit
Color counts when choosing grapefruit. You'll be a winner when you buy Texas grapefruit, whether the white or the Texas Ruby Red or Texas Star Ruby variety. Color makes a slight difference in the taste and in the nutrient content of the fruit. Both red or white grapefruit furnish 80% of the homemaker's daily vitamin C need.

But it's a different story when vitamin A content is compared. There isn't a great deal of vitamin A value in grapefruit. But red grapefruit does have more than 50 times the amount found in the white. And vitamin A is the vitamin that helps eyes adjust to dim light.

For adults the recommended daily allowance for Vitamin A is 5000 units a day. A red grapefruit furnishes about 10% of this daily requirement. Vitamin A is stored in the body and a grapefruit a day adds to this reserve of the nutrient. A russet or bronze color on the outer skin of grapefruit usually doesn't affect its quality. But the Texas-grown red varieties are especially tasty and attractive in appearance.

With grapefruit still in the prime of its season, you can't miss on vitamin C with either a white or a red one. But for a bonus of vitamin A, think pink.

Early Control Reduces Black Spot In Roses

For beautiful roses in your lawn or garden this summer, take steps now to control black spot. Black spot is the most serious rose disease problem encountered by rose growers. It is caused by a fungus which leaves a black spot with an irregular margin surrounded by a zone of yellow tissue. In addition to the unsightly black spots on the blossoms, plants may also shed their leaves.

Begin control measures by raking and burning all fallen leaves in the spring and removing all old leaves from the rose plants. This will reduce one source of fungus spores that can cause new infections. At the same time, prune the tops of infected roses to eliminate over-wintering infection sites on the upper stems.

In spite of cultural methods, chemical protection will also be required for most hybrid teas. Begin fungicide applications when the first leaves are 1/2 inch long. Repeat applications at regular intervals according to label directions. Direct sprays so that both surfaces of the leaves are covered. The degree of black spot control will be no better than the coverage obtained.

Effective spray materials include Benlate, Daconil 2787, Dithane M-45, Phaltan and Zineb. Other fungicides may also be available at your local garden or supply store. Sulfur dust, an old "standby" fungicide, is still used by many growers and is an effective material. However, its use should be discontinued after temperatures reach 95 degrees F or the leaves will bronze.

Check Ornamentals For Aphids

Check ornamental plants for aphids during warm weather. Aphids thrive on new plant growth when nights are cool and days are moderately warm.

Most ornamentals are susceptible to one or more species of aphids.

Spring flowering bulbs, mums and roses are just a few that these insects attack. Aphids cause loss of plant vigor, stunted growth, deformation of buds and flowers, and curling or puckering of leaves.

Aphids pierce the plant with their needle-like mouth parts and feed on plant sap. The insects create a sweet sticky substance called honeydew which attracts ants, flies, wasps and lady beetles and provides a medium for mold growth. Infested arborvitae, as well as pines and other trees drip the honeydew on sidewalks and patios.

Aphids can be many different colors, including black, green, yellow, pink, red and gray. These pests cluster in large groups on buds, stems, leaves and the bark of willows and arborvitae.

Daily spraying with a strong stream of plain water will discourage light infestations. However, young, tender growth can be broken and buds knocked off.

Diazinon, Meta-Systox-R, dimethoate or malathion sprays give excellent control of heavy aphid infestations. When spraying, wet the entire plant with a fine mist. Choose a warm, still day to apply insecticides.

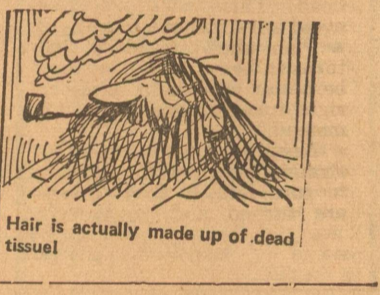

Dry systemic insecticides in granular form or in fertilizer mixes are also effective against aphids and certain other sucking pests.

However, these should be used as a preventative measure applied soon after annuals become established or when perennials are growing vigorously. If a systemic insecticide is applied to the soil, a heavy watering should follow to distribute the chemical in the soil.

If aphids are present, four days to a week may be required for control depending on the size and vigor of the plant. Another insecticide application may be required in five to six weeks if re-infestation occurs.

Read the labels on pesticide containers and follow all directions and precautions.

THE STEERING COLUMN

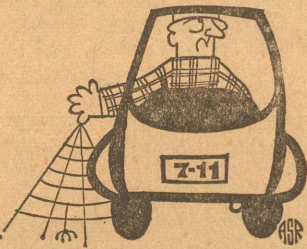

Q. Are there any "secrets" to safe driving in heavy traffic?
A. There sure are, says the American Trucking Industry—and they're all based on good old common sense. For example, here are some heavy traffic driving tips relayed by Clark Equipment Trailer Division and the ATA Foundation. They're based on the experience of professional truck drivers, who are experts on the subject:
 • Plan ahead. At intersections with much left turning traffic, get into the right lane well before traffic prevents you from changing lanes.
 • If your car overheats while sitting in heavy traffic, increase its idling speed to improve the cooling power of your fan and radiator.
 • Keep an eye on the traffic ahead of you, not just the car ahead. That way you'll know what the guy in front will do even before he does.
 • Learn to talk to your passengers without turning your head. This will help you avoid an earful of windshield!
 • Plan ahead to avoid left turns in heavy traffic; it may be better to make a series of right turns around the block instead.
 • Keep your wheels pointed straight ahead while waiting to turn left. If your wheels are turned and you're hit from behind, you'll be shoved into the path of opposing traffic!

Q. Our cities are much too crowded. How can more and better highways help relieve such people congestion?
A. Overcrowding is definitely a problem. Today, 70 percent of the American people live on 2 percent of the land, creating such social ills as pollution, poverty, crime and drug addiction.

Many people believe the solution may be a more even distribution of people and jobs. Good highways can help manufacturers have fullest access to their markets and, at the same time, enable people to find employment beyond congested centers. In this way, good transportation can help lessen crowding of our cities.

Former Eldoradoan Was Married March 31st In Church At Big Spring

MRS. JACKY RAY WILLIS

the former Marcelane Anne Faught

Marcelane Anne Faught, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Faught of Big Spring, was married to Jacky Ray Willis on Friday evening, March 31st at the Berea Baptist Church in Big Spring. Wedding was performed by Bro. Mack Alexander of Elbow.

Formerly of Eldorado, the bride is a grand daughter of Mrs. A. J. Faught of Eldorado. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Willis of Forsan.

Following a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

The bride is a graduate of Forsan High School where she was identified in many school activities. She is now attending HCJC employed on campus and active in the Hawk Players.

The groom is also a graduate of Forsan High School where he was distinguished in sports, being football captain and all-district line-backer.

A reception was held at the church following the ceremony. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. A. J. Faught of Eldorado and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Barrington of Santa Anna, grandparents of the bride.

Generation Gap Of The Present Day

College Station, Texas.—"I remember when . . ."

"When I was your age . . ."

Statements such as these and other nostalgic glances into the past don't have a place in childbearing, according to family life education specialist Dorothy Taylor.

Miss Taylor, who works for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, explained that parents who apply solutions that originated in their childhood to present situations simply aren't in tune with today's world.

"True, some things haven't changed," Miss Taylor said. "These are basic interpersonal relations, learning how to get along with people, ethical concepts, honesty and dishonesty and religious training. People also still need to acquire certain basic skills such as learning how to cook or fix a flat tire, sharing experiences and telling children about safety."

The specialist said that the same can be said for educational opportunities.

"They're still important," she explained. "For the parents these were probably limited—even more so for the mother. So, many parents just don't feel comfortable with the thought that their child isn't going to college. In fact, they're horrified."

Yet many young people today desire to enter a trade and become a craftsman. The child believes (and rightly so, according to many experts) that America has quickly become top heavy with intellectual brain machines and has a critical need for intellectually endowed craftsmen and people who operate in a practical world.

If a son or daughter goes off to college, many parents aren't comfortable on today's college campus—especially if either of them attended the same school.

"I remember when this was a small, quiet campus. Look at it now," they say.

Another aspect the parents can't solve with yesterday's solutions involves the appropriate amount of spending money on miscellaneous activities.

"Stop and consider what your teenager spends money for," Miss Taylor advised. "Most of the activities weren't even thought to be possible 25 years ago."

Other areas of possible conflict include how youth feel about the draft, civil rights, styles of dress, personal appearance, authority, pressure to get good marks in school and the position of the female in society.

The specialist said that "I remember when . . ." may work in some cases, but before applying it or using it as a solution to a problem today, consider if the problem you're trying to solve is really the same as it was when you were a child or whether anyone even thought this situation would ever occur.

ENDANGERED PLANTS FISH AND WILDLIFE

Have you seen a Texas pistachio tree, an Attwater prairie chicken, or a Texas wildrice plant lately?

Probably not, because they are scarce.

But they are some of the rare and endangered species that will be discussed at an interagency conference in Austin early this month.

Called by the USDA Soil Conservation Service, the meeting is being attended by representatives of state and federal agencies, universities, and various organizations interested in preserving Texas plants and wildlife.

Clyde W. Graham, state conservationist for SCS in Temple, said the purpose of the meeting is to prepare a correlated Texas watchlist of rare and endangered species of plants, animals, fishes and birds; to discuss the kinds of measures important to their habitat; and to discuss the possibility of setting up a monitoring program.

Objectives of a monitoring program could be to obtain advance warning of actions and conditions that could further endanger these species. Appropriate action could be taken to protect them.

The Secretary of Interior annually issues a list of rare and endangered fish and wildlife species in the United States. This list includes several species found at least part of the time in Texas including the Attwaetr prairie chicken, golden checked warbler, ivory billed woodpecker, whooping crane, American alligator, red wolf, and the Houston toad.

Trees Efficient In Environment

"The next time you pass a group of young trees, you ought to salute with awe and respect," says Jack Foxworth, president of Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Company. "Those trees are our most efficient users of energy and our best deterrent to air pollution."

Foxworth, who is also president of the Lumbermen's Association of Texas, gives these additional facts about trees. "As an anti-pollution device, an average acre of growing young trees in a commercial forest consumes 5.6 tons of carbon dioxide a year, gives off 4 tons of fresh oxygen, and produces 4 tons of wood. That is better than anything man has come up with so far."

"Further," says Foxworth. "Nearly half of all living organic material is in the world's forests and they are the basic underpinning of the world's food. As an air conditioner, a young healthy tree not only purifies the air but has a net cooling effect of 10 room sized air conditioners operating 20 hours a day. Air may be as much as 20 degrees cooler under a canopy of trees."

"Nature has kept the forest restoring process going and man merely modifies the process to his advantage by controlling fire, by removing trees infected with insects and by harvesting mature trees," Foxworth concludes with a final salute to trees. "In addition to all the functions mentioned, there are the important environmental benefits of wildlife habitat, watershed and erosion control and the recreational use and scenic values."

Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Company has long supported forestry conservation and wise use of wood materials. The April sale going on at 32 stores in Texas and New Mexico is a contemporary display of wood end products for man's continuing efforts to better house himself and his family. "This is our 71st Anniversary," says Jack Foxworth, "and we hope the community around our local stores will visit us and see the many modern building materials and home items that are available."

GOD SPEAKS TO YOU NOW

God speaks to your mind and heart now, but you must tune in. There is music all around you in your car as you drive along, but you will never hear it unless you tune in to its source. So it is with God; you must tune your heart and mind to make the vital connection. A loving Father does not force you to listen. You must have the desire. A sincere desire to hear God's message will bring you in tune.

A gracious Heavenly Father gives you definite instructions for a good life here and eternally. He sent his Son to show and tell you how to live. He speaks to you today by his son.

"God, who at sundry times and divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son." Hebrews 1:1-2.

In Matthew 17:5 God spoke from heaven in these words, "THIS IS MY BELOVED SON, IN WHOM I AM WELL PLEASED: HEAR YE HIM."

Matthew 28:18 Jesus speaking.
"All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth."
Another rendition:
"I have been given all authority in heaven and on earth."
You must tune in to Jesus to get God's message to you

Easter Seal Society Last Minute Appeal

A last minute appeal for support of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its program of services to the handicapped was issued today by Mr. Raymond Hall who is the Easter Seal Representative in Schleicher county.

The Easter Seal Society provided treatment and services for over 22,000 physically handicapped children and adults in Texas last year, he said, and this program needs to be expanded. Many people are going without services that would increase the productiveness of their lives and make them happier. With increased growth of the Easter Seal Society, more and more of these people will be reached, he added.

The Society is carrying out a continuing program to seek out the disabled who are doing without services and see that they receive the help they need. As Easter Seal Representative, Mr. Hall is the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society.

The Easter Seal Society of Texas helps support 19 treatment facilities in Texas where crippled children and adults are treated, regardless of their ability to pay. Physical, occupational and speech therapy are offered to help the handicapped overcome their disabilities. A complete referral program to ensure equal rehabilitation services to every person in Texas is included in Easter Seal Society services.

An adding machine performs accurately for anyone who uses it correctly. Each person may record a different column of figures. Answers will vary accordingly but each will be correct.

Life also registers what we give it . . . produces results correspondingly. Sometimes we are so hurried and hurried with whirling activities we forget to include worship.

When we do clear our minds for understanding and prayer with God, good results follow.

The Church has accurate answers for modern problems. Let it help you find correct solutions.
