Thanksgiving Service Set

The Community Thanksgiving Service, sponsored and conducted by the Ministerial Alliance of Eldorado, will be held Sunday night at 7:00 in the Presbyterian church. Most local churches will dispense with their own services that night in order for their congregations to attend.

The complex program is given on the right center page of this Success issue

—ps—

On the subject of Thanksgiving, next week's Success issue will have that as its theme with tie-in advertising from our local public-spirited merchants. We plan to have the paper printed Tuesday night and in the mail early Wednesday morning in order to reach our readers that same day.

The Lions Club will not meet Wednesday of next week, which is the day before Thanksgiving. Boss Lion Elton McGinnes announced.

School will be dismissed at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon for Thanksgiving holidays set Thursday and Friday.

The Court House and City Hall will observe Thursday and Friday of next week as holidays, so if you have any immediate business there, it should be taken care of no later than next Wednesday.

If previous years are an indication, though, most businesses will take just Thanksgiving Day as a holiday with most people back at work Friday morning.

Shugart Studios will have a photographer at Western Auto all day today—Thursday, Nov. 16th. Their ad is on an inside page.

This Friday night, the Eldorado Eagles close out their football season by taking on the Sonora Broncos in Sonora.

For the last um-teenth years the Broncos have been state champions in their division and they have humbled the Eagles in their final game. In fact, our Eagles have not beaten the Broncos since about 1964.

For a number of years now the Broncos have been regarded as unbeatable.

But just last week the Broncos lost to Mason. Before that they lost to Ozona.

If the Eagles go to Sonora all fired up Friday night they could just possibly pull off the upset of the season.

If Mason could beat the Broncos why couldn't the Eagles?

It would be a wonderful way to close out our season!! Come on Eagles, all the way!

The Terpenings will remain in Hawaii until next March. She is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Johnson of this place.

Mrs. Norman A. Klink reports her new address as 710 E. Main, Brownfield, Texas.

Deer season is about to get under way, with Saturday, Nov. 18th, marking the opening of the six-week hunting season.

The nights and early mornings have been cold, and this week we may have had a light freeze. The colder the weather, the better are conditions for bringing out the deer.

This area is coming into its own for deer hunting, and Eldorado business people expect more transient hunters here for this season than ever before.

Last year, unseasonably warm weather in November delayed good hunting for the first week or two, and it remains to be seen how weather will be by this week end.

Granvil Hext has his deer cold storage vault ready for hunters.

It was 13 years ago, on Oct. 22, 1959, that the State Wildlife Department brought in the first load of deer as part of the game restocking program, and turned them loose in this area. About 100 head were eventually re-stocked here. For several years, hunting was banned so that the herds could increase.

Eldorado To Vote On City Sales Tax

In a legal notice on another page in this paper the City of Eldorado is calling for a special election for the purpose of setting a one-cent city sales tax which will be collected by local firms along with the 4-cent state sales tax.

City Secretary Lum Burk estimates that the tax, if approved by city voters, will provide approximately $12,000 revenue to the city each year and that this would enable the city to reduce the city's property tax as well as providing funds for additional city improvements.

City sales taxes are already in effect in many towns in this area including San Angelo and Sonora and local customers are already familiar with it.

Saturday, December 16th is the date of the election; the city fire hall will be the polling place.

Sounds like a pretty good idea.

Weather Unsettled Early This Week

For about two hours Sunday night Eldorado was on the edge of severe weather that did heavy damage in San Angelo and Brady.

From 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. Sunday this county experienced winds of gale proportions accompanied by wind-driven rain.

It was all over by 8:00 o'clock and the following day revealed that the brief storm had not harmed or helped anything. There was no measurable rainfall.

Mikeska Gin processed about five bales Monday, but hard winds prevented cotton stripping that day. Residents awoke Tuesday morning to temperature readings in the low thirties, indicating a frost.

Enrolls At Waco

Waco, Tex.—Linda Dannheim of Eldorado is a student for the fall trimester at the Texas State Technical Institute in Waco.

Linda has enrolled in dental assistants course at State Tech, the state's first technical-vocational training center.

The James Connally Campus is the hub of the multi-campus facility, now in its sixth year.

Programs include studies in technical fields, vocational skill development areas, and numerous other special training areas.

Other TSTI campuses are located at Harlingen, Amarillo and Sweetwater.

Linda Dannheim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald (Rusty) Dannheim of Route 1, Eldorado, who retired from service a while back and moved here.

220 Bales Reported As Of Tuesday

Mikeska Gin was running steadily Tuesday afternoon and the season total was approaching 220 bales.

Up to this time the gin has been operating about half a day at a time but may soon go on full time. Colder weather the last few nights is helping to defoliate the crop and will hasten the harvest.

IN SHANNON HOSPITAL

Charles Wimer was entered as a patient in the local hospital last week and Saturday was transferred to Shannon hospital where he continued tests and treatments early this week. Mrs. Tom Stewart, a daughter, flew in from Minnesota Monday night to be at his bedside.

Let's Really Rally!

Friday night—7:30—Bronco field at Sonora, Texas. That's the focal point. Let's show the team we know that, "We've done it before, let's do it again." Eldorado has beaten Sonora on Bronco Field. It was tough to do and it shocked Sonora.

There will be a pep rally, with bonfire, at 6:45 Thursday evening (tonight) on the parking lot of the old football field—between the ag barn and roping arena on Sonora Highway, and Friday at 2:10 there will be a pep rally downtown Eldorado. This gives us two opportunities to show our support, and encourage our team to "go get the Broncos."

The Booster Club had the 7th and 8th grade football boys as guests. Coach Lynn Meador introduced his team and discussed their winning ways this year. We're proud of them too.

The Booster Club invites you to "something" akin to a football game Thursday night (after the pep rally) on Eagle Field. We really aren't sure but a first aid station might be a money maker when the Jaycees and the coaches collide.

We had a good crowd to review the film and enjoy refreshments Monday night. —Rep.

Eagles To Close Season At Sonora

The game all Eldorado fans wait for all year is the game with Sonora. That game will take place Friday night, Nov. 17, at 7:30 in Sonora.

These two teams have been rivals for many years and the game should be an exciting one. Sonora lost to Mason last Friday night and will no doubt come out fighting this week but the Eagles will be ready to meet them. Everyone is urged to attend this last game and back the Eagles all the way. Rep., Patsy Tampke.

Wall Stops The Eagles

The Wall Hawks managed to win the bird battle over the Eldorado Eagles Friday night in a district 9-A conference match.

The Eagles scored first as Hunter Henderson made a four yard scamper for the touchdown. The point after was unsuccessful.

Then Wall got busy as Darryl Weishunn took a 34-yard pass from John Edwards for a score. Edwards then kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter Edwards passed to Weishunn for a 36 yard touchdown and added on the extra point.

Eldorado came back when small but efficient Tim Edmiston grabbed a six yard toss from Henderson for an Eagle touchdown. The extra two points were accomplished by a pass from Henderson to Gene Nixon. The half ended in a 14-14 tie.

The third period was the big difference. The Wall Hawks' Johnny McDonald took the ball one yard and a Hawk score. The extra point attempt failed. Then the Hawks scored again on a 60 yard pass from Edwards to Weishunn. The extra point by Edwards was good. Then Edwards passed once again, this time to Charles Halfman for 61 yards and another TD. Edwards again made the PAT.

Wall got in one more tally in the last quarter on a pitch back play from Edwards to Halfman to Leslie Plagens. Edwards again made the PAT.

Nixon made one more touchdown for Eldorado on a 12 yard pass from Benjie Jay. The PAT failed and the game ended with Wall 41, Eldorado 20.

The game gave Wall a 3-2 record in district and Eldorado 2-3.

Prussic Acid Can Kill Livestock

College Station, Tex.—Although recent summer-like weather tends to indicate that winter is still a long way off, it's just a matter of time before the season's first freezing temperatures arrive. Such a killing frost can spell danger for livestock producers that have cattle grazing on sorghum stubble or any of the sorghum-sudan hybrid pastures.

"The reason is prussic acid poisoning of the animals," points out Dr. James Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

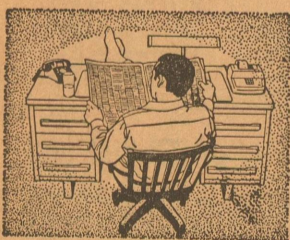

"The danger of prussic acid poisoning exists mainly in pastures and fields where sorghum stubble is making regrowth and where there is vigorous, young growth of johnsongrass, sorghum-sudan hybrids and related plants. Such growth generally has a high content of prussic acid, especially if produced under stress of dry or cool weather."

According to Armstrong, the main danger to livestock is grazing such pastures and fields immediately after a killing frost.

He advises livestock producers to wait a week to 10 days following a killing frost before allowing cattle to graze suspect pastures and fields. If only a light frost occurs, the veterinarian recommends removing the cattle until plant growth is killed by a heavy freeze.

Is now the time to buy land?

Acquiring that farm might seem more practical with financing through the Federal Land Bank. Land is easier to pay off when costs are amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank Loan. Your total cost of borrowing, too, can be less. Ask us for help: We know land values; we will inspect the property. We will then try to make a loan that meets your exact needs.

New Kwik Thrift Store Now Open For Business On Angelo Hwy

From This— Building was a familiar sight last generation

To This— Structure Completely Renovated And Remodeled
Three Day Formal Opening Starts Friday. Circular gives details

Austin, Tex.—There were 55,000 criminal trials pending in district courts and 216,000 civil cases pending on dockets in Texas at the beginning of 1972," former Texas Chief Justice Robert Calvert told those attending the Governors 4th annual Traffic Safety Public Support Conference in Austin. This "crisis in our courts" has been caused by the constitutional restrictions on the Judicial Article, Judge Calvert explained.

The "crisis is approaching a judicial scandal" he quoted Judge Truman Roberts of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals as saying.

Judge Calvert outlined problems in the present judicial system in Texas—explaining that they were analyzed by the '72 Chief Justice's Task Force for Court Improvement. The major problems are (1) docket congestion and trial delay; (2) proper administration and (3) proper election of judges.

Proposals for complete reorganization of Texas courts will be presented to the 1973 Texas Legislature," the former Chief Justice continued. "Opposition will come from elected officials who are afraid it will affect their jobs. "Judicial reform is doomed for this generation if public support does not overcome the opposition to these proposed changes in the Judicial Article of the Texas Constitution," he concluded.

A citizen's conference to gain support for the proposed judicial reform will be held in Austin on November 17—at which time specific legislative proposals will be outlined for the public and press.

Revenue Sharing Council Formed
The Texas Department of Community Affairs has been designated as the agency to provide information and aid to local governments in federal revenue sharing implementation.

Designation of the agency for liaison between state-federal and local governments was agreed on at a meeting of the new Texas Revenue Sharing Council.

Texas is expected to receive about $245 million during 1972 under the new federal revenue sharing program. About $163 million of that will go to local governments, and $81.5 million to state government.

The council, said Gov. Preston Smith, is not to interfere with individual decisions of local governments. Its purpose is to assist the local units with legal constraints and federal rules and regulations.

Council members directed the Department of Community Affairs to establish and man an Office of Revenue Sharing Assistance to local governments. The department, Texas Municipal League and Texas Association of Counties will assist the Treasury Department in completing lists of eligible governments and their officials.

The Department of Community Affairs was further ordered to plan a statewide workshop on revenue sharing for local officials.

Texas was termed "best prepared" of any state to begin implementation of revenue sharing.

Theft, Littering Controls Planned

The Department of Public Safety announced plans to combat commercialized motor vehicle thefts and to check littering on highways.

DPS has created a specialized task force to coordinate a statewide effort against auto theft. The 15-member group will investigate thefts of autos, boats, motorcycles, heavy equipment, mobile homes, travel trailers and boat power units. Members will be stationed at strategic locations over the state.

DPS patrolmen in all uniformed services, meanwhile, have been ordered to watch closely for motorists and others who throw litter on the highways or right-of-ways. Fines from $25 to $200 may be assessed for littering. DPS actually made 841 littering arrests in 1971 as compared with 225 in 1970.

About 50,000 motor vehicles were stolen in Texas last year, an increase of 17% over 1970. Losses were estimated at $35 million.

Mineral Value Up
Texas mineral production rose 6.3% last year to a value of $6.8 billion.

Texas was the country's leading producer of petroleum, natural gas, natural gas liquids, natural graphite, magnesium metal and recovered sulphur.

Large quantities of helium, lime, Frasch sulphur, gypsum, sand and gravel, salt, metallic sodium and uranium ore were also produced. Value of mineral fuels amounted to $6.3 billion, more than 93% of the total value of Texas minerals.

Permanent Rights Comm. Urged

The Governor's Committee on Human Relations urged establishment of a permanent commission to investigate alleged discrimination in employment, education, housing and other areas.

A report to Governor Smith and the Legislature noted Texas will be left without a formal agency to fight discrimination and improve human relations after next February 1 unless action is taken before that time.

Proprietary Schools Should Be Checked

The Texas Proprietary School Act was enacted by the 62nd session of the Legislature in 1971. The bill was aimed at the regulation of privately owned, profit making business, vocational, technical, and home study schools which do business in Texas. Standards are provided for the assurance of adequate facilities, equipment, curriculums, and instructors.

The Texas Education Agency, Division of Proprietary Schools is responsible for the administration of the Act. This Division sees itself as a consultative staff whose function is to work with proprietary schools in upgrading the quality of instruction. The thrust of the Act is to assure that job oriented education in private schools produces results and also to assure that the advertising of such schools is both factual and truthful.

Schools are required to post bonds to help insure that the school is financially responsible and to help defray closing costs if for some reason a school must close its doors. This gives protection to students who are enrolled in the school at the time of closing and who should receive tuition refunds. Schools must give a detailed picture of their operations to the Texas Education Agency and must meet certain standards to be certified to do business in the state. School representatives or salesmen must also post a bond and register with the Texas Education Agency. They are prohibited from giving out misleading information about their school, its courses, or job opportunities upon graduation. Salesmen are not permitted to solicit students for a school unless they have a representative permit issued by the Texas Education Agency.

There are some things, however, that you should do to help insure that a private business or vocational school that you are planning to enter is legitimate.

Ask to see the salesman's permit. If you're doubtful about the school and you're still in high school, check with your counselor. The staff at the Texas Education Agency can also be called on for information. Never sign up for a course in haste. Inspect the school yourself if it is located where you live, and talk with some of the students. Read carefully any papers before signing. Enrollment "applications" are usually contracts which call for the payment of tuition. Even if you never enter, you may be obligated to pay a "registration fee" if you signed a contract.

But if you have a complaint about a school in spite of these precautions, check your contract and review school policies to be sure your complaint is legitimate. Then check with the school director or counselor to see if your problem can be resolved. If you get no help, contact the Division of Proprietary Schools and Veterans Education, Texas Education Agency, 201 East 11th Street, Austin, Texas 78711. They play an important role in this area of consumer protection in Texas.

Skylab Chow . . .

To Taste Like Mom's Cooking

ASTRONAUT CHARLES "PETE" CONRAD (center) and Dr. Joseph Kerwin sample food prepared by Whirlpool Corporation in the wardroom of the orbital workshop, the major component of the Skylab. Conrad and Kerwin are among a number of astronauts who are participating in the crew station review of Skylab foods.

BENTON HARBOR, MICH.—When it's chow time on Skylab, astronauts who will be spending four to eight weeks in earth orbit, will have a menu which is as close to "home cooking" as modern food technology can make it.

Whirlpool Corporation, under contract to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has developed a food system which will compensate as nearly as possible for the astronauts' long absence from the warmth and delight of home cooked meals.

Dr. Norman Roth, director of Whirlpool's Life Support Systems Division, said, "For the first time, a diet will be provided (for astronauts) which is conventional in appearance, superb in taste and, yet, satisfies the rigorous nutritional requirements of space flight."

The food system is so designed that the Skylab crews will have a relatively wide range of selection from a set of conventional food items, while still rigidly adhering to the "experimental requirements."

For the first time, astronauts will prepare their meals from an assortment of frozen as well as conventional space foods similar to those carried on manned Gemini and Apollo missions.

Astronauts will prepare their own meals on a special food tray with heated compartments which conform to the food containers. The tray also keeps the containers from floating around in zero gravity.

Frozen foods will be stored in a freezer in the Skylab orbital workshop.

In addition to being the tastiest menu carried into space thus far, the Skylab food system is designed to meet the requirements and objectives of an important series of medical investigations.

Dr. Malcolm C. Smith, chief of food nutrition at the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center, explained that the medical investigations are profoundly influenced by the nature and amount of food that the astronauts consume.

The Skylab food system will maintain a caloric level between 2,000 to 2,800 calories per day. More than 70 different food items are now under consideration for use during Skylab missions. The final menu selection will be made by each crew member.

When Were These Appliances Developed?
Home Air Conditioner	1922
Electric Iron	1938
Electric Washing Machine	1899
Vacuum Cleaner	1934
Refrigerator	1912
Sewing Machine	1845
Electric Dishwasher	1908
Waffle Iron	1882

Match the appliance with the year each was developed or marketed. (Answers at the end of the story, below.)

The first electric irons, toasters and coffee makers came on the scene before 1900. A hand iron, patented in 1882, was one of the first applications of electricity to an appliance. In 1893, an electric kitchen was exhibited at the World's Columbian Exposition.

Today Americans spend more than nine billion dollars annually on large and small home appliances. This is almost double the amount spent in 1962. It is estimated the average household has more than 16 appliances of one sort or another.

Home appliances have come a long way since the early days. For example, one today's new type of iron by Sunbeam is so different, it's called "Today."

Not only is the iron suitable for regular use around the home, but is designed to be compact and lightweight for traveling. The appliance doubles as a hand steamer, and it's very economical — uses only about one half the wattage (600) of standard irons.

The handle of the new iron is two-tone blue, molded from modern, hard-to-break plastics. The iron includes Sunbeam's "Shot of Steam" feature and is available for less than $18.

Because it is approximately one half the size and weight of conventional irons, the Today iron moves easily around ruffles and buttons and is less tiring to use.

In 1952 Americans had 11 million major appliances. That figure will have grown to 30 million by the end of 1972.

Quiz answers: home air conditioner (1938), electric iron (1882), electric washing machine (1908), vacuum cleaner (1899), refrigerator (1912), sewing machine (1845), electric dishwasher (1934), waffle iron (1922).

The Alpha Delta Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met on Monday, November 13th with 9 members repeating opening and closing rituals. Plans for Thanksgiving and Christmas projects were discussed, and a special committee was appointed to plan our float for the annual Christmas parade. A portion of our proceeds from the Halloween Carnival was given to the Chamber of Commerce for our annual dues, and as a donation for the new Christmas decorations in Eldorado this year. A delightful program on the interpretation of love was given by Cathy Preston; and refreshments of lemon pie and cookies were served by Beverly Davis.

Our sorority would like to express our sincere thanks to everyone who participated in the Halloween Carnival. It was a lot of work for those who had booths but we hope everyone enjoyed it, and that next year we can all work together again for an even bigger and better Carnival. Thanks again!

Cranberry Crisis

Thanksgiving is almost here, and you know what that means—good food, good times, and goodbye good garments if cranberry stains are not treated right. Treat the stain as soon as possible.

Many stains can be removed easily when fresh, but they're difficult—or next to impossible—to remove later. Always remove stains before subjecting them to tumble drying or pressing. Heat tends to set or fix stains.

To treat cranberry stain on a washable fabric, soak the fresh stain in cool water, then wash in warm suds and rinse. If the stain remains, make a solution of two tablespoons of hydrogen peroxide to each gallon of water. Test the solution on hidden section of the garment. Then soak stains one-half hour or longer, if necessary. Rinse twice.

On dry-cleanable fabrics, first sponge stain with cool water. Immediately work a liquid laundry detergent into stain. Let stand several hours. Then test a drop or two of white vinegar on a hidden section of the garment to be sure it won't affect the color. If no color change occurs, apply a few drops of vinegar and let remain a minute or two. Sponge with cool water.

Cranberry stains are some of the hardest to remove. But if the garment is worth saving, it's worth a little extra time and effort to follow stain removal procedures.

Turkey Left-Overs

After the fabulous Thanksgiving feast is over, there is almost sure to be a lot of leftovers. Turkey leftovers can be turned into countless dishes—from appetizers to main course, from sandwiches to glamorous dishes.

First, what's left of the roast turkey must be stored properly. As soon as the meal is finished, scoop the stuffing out of the neck and body cavities of the turkey. Cool the stuffing quickly by immediate refrigeration. Later, cover the cooled stuffing. The turkey should be treated much the same way—cool and then wrap loosely to prevent drying. If desired, the meat can be cut from the bones and stored. Some prefer to wrap the white and dark meat separately.

Plan to use frozen leftover turkey within four to six weeks. One way of preparing these leftovers is making them into a turkey club-sandwich supreme. It's tops for a luncheon, supper or late-evening snack. To make a turkey club-sandwich supreme, first cover pumpernickle rye bread slices with crisp lettuce leaves. Then add layers of sliced swiss cheese, tomato slices and sliced roast turkey—both white and dark meat. Top with crisp bacon and serve with Thousand Island dressing.

For a gourmet-style appetizer, try a turkey cube and a piece of dill pickle or preserved watermelon rind on a toothpick. Serve these with a bowl of Russian dressing.

A rich, well-seasoned cream sauce containing bite-size chunks of turkey is glamorous served over biscuits, split and toasted cornbread, or crisp fried noodles. To make the dish elegant, add pineapple tidbits to the sauce.

Count Your Blessings

Perhaps we have not counted our blessings in this business of producing food and fiber.

Think of hungry nations of the world that would like to have our ability to produce agricultural goods. We worry about our agricultural surpluses. The hungry nations would consider these surpluses a blessing.

Let's just look at the stake Texas has in the business of agriculture. Consider these facts:

—Agriculture in all its phases is an $8 billion business in Texas—exceeding the mineral, oil and natural gas industry which in 1968, was valued at $5.6 billion.

—Production of crops and livestock plus government payments account for about $3.7 billion income, with another $4.3 billion coming from processing, manufacturing and distribution of agricultural products, and from businesses supplying goods and services for production of crops and livestock.

—Texas is a big producer of export farm goods, second only to Illinois. We think heavy emphasis should be placed on the Texas Food and Fiber Abundance Month scheduled for November 1972.

To city dwellers, this is to say that Texas Food and Fiber Abundance Month is your month too! We're asking you to get on the bandwagon.

It is time to stop taking our agriculture for granted!

It is time to say frankly and appreciatively to the Texas farmer and rancher—

"Mister, you're doing a grand job, and we're proud of you!"

Pesticide Safety Stressed Around Home

To complete the safe use of pesticides around the home this year, leftover quantities of pesticides and "empty" containers must be properly handled. Check all possible locations in and around the home for pesticides and "empty" containers, including the most unlikely places. Closets, cupboards, medicine cabinets, the laundry room, under the kitchen sink, the garage and other outdoor storage areas should all be included on your checklist.

Check the conditions of containers and labels of those pesticides that are to be retained in proper storage. Deteriorating containers and containers without a legible label should be disposed of along with any "empty" containers.

Dispose of leftover pesticides at a sanitary landfill, first contacting the operating authority for permission and instructions. Do not dispose of leftover pesticides in household plumbing, by pouring on the surface of the ground, or by burning. "Empty" containers can be disposed of by wrapping them in several thick layers of newspaper and then crushing or breaking them. Then place the containers in the garbage for disposal.

Aerosol cans should never be punctured or burned. Simply wrap the aerosol container and place it in the garbage can. Remember, purchasing only the amount of pesticide needed is a major step toward reducing the number of containers or leftover pesticides to be disposed.

Pesticides to be retained should be stored in a dry place under lock and key and protected from extremes in temperature. Be sure to check the label for any special instructions regarding storage. Accidental ingestion of pesticides or other chemicals cannot occur if the chemicals are properly stored. Avoid tomorrow's accident today—carry out a fall pesticide clean up campaign.

The West Texas Regional Pecan Show has been scheduled for Dec. 14-16 in Midland at the Dellwood Plaza Shopping Mall, according to Robert H. Kensing, Area Economist Management, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Kensing, the show chairman, said classes have been set up for all named varieties. Additional classes will offer competition for heaviest pecan, highest percent kernel, collection of three varieties and collection of six varieties. Native, or seedling, pecans are also grouped in a separate class.

Entries in the regional show may be either ribbon winners from county shows or open entries from growers living in areas not having county competition. Open entries must consist of a minimum of 40 pecans. Winning samples from county shows should consist of a minimum of 30 pecans. Ten nuts are processed for judging of samples.

Pecans from yard trees are eligible and have been state winners in previous years, Kensing noted. Growers are permitted one entry in each class.

Entries for the show should be sent to Charles W. Green, County Extension Agent, Box 1070, Midland, Texas 79701. Samples must be received by 5:00 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 12, for processing by the show committee, Kensing said.

In coming weeks pecans from all over Texas will be exhibited in more than 30 county shows and three regional shows. Winning entries in regional shows will be eligible for competition in the Texas State Pecan Show.

Persons interested in exhibiting pecans from this year's crop may obtain further information from county Extension agents.
