OUR RETURN.

The Editor and tribe returned Monday night from a five days absence from the busy cares of life, our journey led us by Mason an inland town and county seat of Mason county, next we visited Llano the town of native granite and county seat of Llano county then went to Burnett the county seat of Burnett county from here we visited Georgetown the county seat of Williamson county and the home of the Southwestern University one of the best colleges of the state. Georgetown is a real school town, after spending Friday with J. H. Dismukes and family at Georgetown we, accompanied by them, spent Saturday at Austin our state capitol together with many other state institutions, after going through the Capitol building from bottom to top, we visited the other state institution, when we reached the University, we found our friend, Miss Mourine Wilson, who is now completing her second years work including two years of summer school, she went with us through the University building and to the Insane Assylum we was truly glad to meet her, other girls from our city were there but we did not find them. After spending most of the day at Austin we motored to San Marcos where we spent a pleasant evening with Mrs. Kellam, and took an evening drive over San Marcos another school town the home of San Marcos Normal Sunday morning we started west again and came over the Devils Back Bone into the ancient city of Blanco where our only aunt on our fathers side resides where we feasted at the home of Editor Brown, which is the home of aunt Cattie, we were compelled to leave early after dinner for Fredericksburg where we were delayed until Monday at one o'clock on car trouble, but arrived at home Monday night at 10:00 all safe and sound, short of nothing but cash and time, so if we do not get out this week with all the news, just over look our shortness for we really did enjoy our trip more than words can express.

It does a fellow good to get away from home once in-a-while and see what the other fellow is up against, and home will seem more pleasant when he returns. There is no place like home.

All loyal Methodist should visit the Southwestern University at Georgetown and they could see the need of the great Christian Educational movement and would contribute to this cause. The Southwestern is needing some repair that it must have.

A number of families left Tuesday for the Pecos to catch fish, among whom were Sam and Tom Jones, T. F. Nix, G. C. Crosby, Lamar Wilkerson, Hugh Espy, Earnest Sweatt and wife and H. T. Finley. Sam Jones carried a rope a long to string the fish on, he's after big'uns this time.

SIMPSON-SWEATT.

On Sunday afternoon, June nineteenth, Mr. Earnest Sweatt and Miss Dixie Simpson accompanied by Dogie Finley and Miss Ebba Jones motored to the Tom Womack ranch in the quest of the judge. They were marriage in the quiet, sweet way that always seems most sacred.

The bride is the only daughter of J. G. Simpson of Brady, but has resided with her aunt, Mrs. Sam Jones for several years. Dixie is remembered having once had the pleasure of talking to and being with her. She is loved by the children for her kindness, by the young folks for her captivating ways and by the older people for her modesty and sweet, tender respect for them.

The delicate lavender organdy-gown displayed her youthful charm as no other could.

The groom is the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Sweatt of Eldorado and is well known having been reared here. Earnest is a representative of the kind of men with which we should like our country to be filled. He always has a smile and encouraging words for every one he meets and we love him most of all for his deep affection and devoted love for "mother". Because of this one thing we know Dixie has a modle husband.

We wish them many prosperous blessings in their married life which will be happy of the great love that binds their hearts together.

THIS MAN DREADED TO SEE NIGHT COME.

Was So Restless He Couldn't Sleep And Daylight Was Always Welcome.

"With the exception of a little milk toast, which comprised my diet for more eight weeks I could not eat anything," said Capt. Geo. W. Womble, residing at 105 Jennings St., Knoxville, Tenn., a highly respected citizen of that city.

"I am now able," continued Captian Womble, "after taking two bottles of Tanlac, to eat practically anything. I had a bad form of stomach and intestinal trouble for a long time and for months my condition had been such that I suffered agony. I got so I could not eat the simplest food, I tried doctor after doctor and all kinds of medicine but nothing that was prescribable for me seemed to do me any good. I had a terrible pain in the side in my breastst over my heart and for weeks I got no relief. "I finally got so nervous that I actually dreaded to see night come as I could not sleep and was always restless that I would rejoice to see daylight come. I was also constipated all of the time. In fact life seemed a burden and I was so miserable that I was almost on the verge of despair. Several of my neighbors told me about Tanlac and advised me to try it.

"I am personally acquainted with Mr. Dan M. Chambliss, of the firm of Kuhlman & Chambliss and when I told him of my condition and how I suffered he advised me to begin taking Tanlac without delay and that it had relieved hundreds of the best people in Knoxville. I have now taken two bottles of Tanlac and am giving you this testimonials in the hope that it may induce others to take it. Since taking that medicine I actually feel like I had been made all over again with the youth energy and ambition of a sixteen year old boy.

Tanlac is sold in Eldorado by L. M. Hoover. (Adv.)

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XIX.—INDIANA

IT WAS the French flag which first floated over Indiana. In the middle of the seventeenth century La Salle's explorations brought him through the wooded wilderness of Indiana. Shortly thereafter followed Jesuit missionaries from Quebec and in their trail came adventurous rangers and fur traders. French forts and trading posts were soon established. In 1763 the British took possession of this territory after the French and Indian wars, and remained in possession until the Revolution.

One of the boldest campaigns of the Revolution was that of Clark's little army, whose indomitable courage and audacity finally defeated the large British garrison at Vincennes and won the Northwest territory for Virginia. Pioneers from the East and from Kentucky made their way into this new territory, and among these was Abraham Lincoln's family. It was in 1816, the year that Indiana became the nineteenth state, that Lincoln attained citizenship in Indiana. With the increase in population by 1800 Indiana Territory was formed, extending from the Ohio border west to the Mississippi and north to Canada. Vincennes was selected as the first capital. In 1804, when the Louisiana Purchase was made, the government of Louisiana was placed in the hands of the Indiana Territory officials, so that for one year the capital of Louisiana was also at Vincennes in Indiana.

Although nicknamed the Hoosier State, from the old southern slang for rough backwoodsmen, Indiana, with its 38,254 square miles, its fifteen Presidential electors, and containing as it does the center of population, is considered of utmost importance politically.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XX.—MISSISSIPPI

THE State of Mississippi derives its name from the river which forms its western boundary.

The word itself comes from the Algonquin misse-sepe which means "great river." It is popularly supposed to mean "Father of the Waters" but this interpretation is incorrect. The state is also known as the Bayou State from the many bayous which are formed by the shifting river. In this connection it is interesting to note the uneven course of the Mississippi river. Though the extreme length of the state from the Gulf to Tennessee is 330 miles, the western border, due to the winding of the Mississippi river, extends for nearly 500 miles.

The rivers play an important part in this state. They are so numerous and the country so subject to flood that the river bottoms cover nearly one fifth of the area of the entire state.

The early history of Mississippi is yoked up with that of Louisiana of which it originally formed a part. Discovered by De Soto in 1539, it was not until La Salle sailed down the river and claimed this territory, which he named in honor of his French king, Louis XIV, that a permanent settlement was established.

In 1763 the territory east of the Mississippi was ceded by the French to the English. For a while the lower portion of the present state was called West Florida. After being captured by the Spanish and later returned to the United States, the Territory of Mississippi was extended to its present size of 46,865 square miles and in 1817 it was admitted as the twentieth state of the Union. At the time of the Mexican war, although called upon to supply one regiment of volunteers, Mississippi responded with enough men for two. One of these regiments was commanded by Jefferson Davis, who later was the president of the Confederate states.

Since its readmittance to the Union in 1870 Mississippi in national elections has been a Democratic state except in 1872, when it voted for Grant.

CORNELL RELEASED ON BOND.

The best information obtainable as we go to press in regard to the killing of W. T. O. Holman at Del Rio, by Judge James Cornell, is that the two had had several quarrels during the past ten years, but the latest one was over a boundary line between the two ranches, and that Holman had threatened Cornell life. The men had gone to Del Rio to be at the Sheep and Goat Raisers Convention that was to open Tuesday, where Judge Cornell was on the program for an address in response to the welcome address. They met on the street and both reached for their gun about the same time, according to by-standers, but Holman's gun got hung in his clothing and he never got it out, and never fired a shot. Cornell shot five times, four hitting Colman and one hitting a bystander in the leg. Holman staggered into the street and fell dead, he was accompanied by a small grandchild. Holman was about 69 years old, his remains were brought to Sonora for burial.

Judge Cornell surrendered to Nat Jones, a ranger, and was taken to Bracketville his home town and was released Tuesday on a $5,000.00 bond.

Many efforts have been made by the friends of both men to quell their differences but all failed to bring reconciliation.

BALMY PEACE

"IN THE sylvan solitudes," said the wild man of the woods, "a man doesn't see any magazines and doesn't receive any bulletins from the health authorities, so he enjoys a peace that is never known in the busy haunts."

"There a man simply has to subscribe for a lot of magazines, as a matter of self-defense. Canvassers are after him all the time. Some of the canvassers are lone widows with many children to support, and others are energetic young men who are trying to work their way through the veterinary college.

They are deserving people, and you feel it a duty to help them along, so the first thing you know your mail box is jammed full of literature. Having paid for it, you feel that you ought to read it, and your life is ruined thereby.

"When I was young, the magazines tried to entertain people. They had good stories and a Poet's Corner, and a department devoted to timely jokes, and another to household hints and domestic recipes. There was some sense in reading a magazine then, for it soothed and sustained you. But nowadays the magazine editors consider it their duty to harrow your soul and make your hair stand on end like quills upon the porkful freckle, or words to that effect. They are always viewing with alarm, and trying to convince you that you take your life in your hand every five minutes.

"They have a lot of health specialists writing for them, and these health sharps point out that pretty near everything you eat and drink is a deadly poison. They didn't scare me to any great extent, for I am a most intrepid man, but they soon had my wife so rattled she didn't know whether she was going or coming.

"I always was passionately fond of a good cup of coffee, and my wife could make the best coffee, you ever heard of. She went to work at it like a learned apothecary compounding a prescription. There was no guess work about it. She took an honest pride in it, and her coffee was a revelation to every consumer. I used to lie awake at night wishing it was breakfast time, so I could have my morning cup of coffee.

"But one morning when I went to the table the coffee was missing. In its place there was a sickly beverage I had never seen before. I asked an explanation, and my wife said that no more coffee would be made in our house. 'The wonder is,' said she, 'that we still live and move and have our being, for coffee is a rank poison. If you read Dr. Zinkfoogle's article in the Junkopolitan Magazine, you will see that coffee contains a large percentage of tannin, which is so deadly that if you place a drop on the tongue of an alligator, it will roll over, dead.'

"I told her that I had no alligators on the premises, and consequently could not try the experiment, but I assured her that I didn't care anything about the poison. I wanted my coffee at regular hours. She said I'd have to keep on wanting. She thought too much of me to send me to an untimely grave. And, anyhow, she explained Dr. Zinkfoogle had told how to make a substitute for coffee that was perfectly wholesome. She had followed his instructions, and the result was before me. Perhaps it didn't taste as good as coffee, but it was wholesome. It would fill my veins with red corpuscles and restore hair to my bald head. It was made of marrowfat peas which had been carefully roasted in a hot oven.

"In order to get a cup of coffee after that, I had to make a sneak to the chop house, and the kind dished up there made me old before my time. My wife cut out all my favorite dishes because Dr. Zinkfoogle or some other magazine writer denounced them, and finally I was living on roasted peas coffee and boiled spinach, and I concluded that if I had to feed like the cows I'd live like them, so I came to the forest fastnesses."

"Marriage Breaker" Busy.

One of the deplorable results of bolshevik misrule in Russia is the installing of a "breaker of marriages" in Petrograd, who is said to be granting more than 500 divorces a week.
No investigation is necessary, the only requirement being the signature of the person desiring freedom from marriage.

A Helpful Hint.

"Ar-r-r-r!" growled a hypercritical customer in the rapid fire restaurant.
"This confounded piece of meat is so tough I can hardly eat it!"

"Get it down on the floor where you can put your foot on it when you gnaw it," briskly returned Heloise, the waitress.—Kansas City Star.

The Difference.

"A good housewife is very different from a good husbandman."
"How so?"
"She is always sewing tears."
