Enochs, 89, a resident of Eldorado since 1901, died suddenly in the Schleicher County nursing home Sunday at 7:20 a.m. Services were held at 2:00 p.m. Monday in the First Baptist church here with the pastor, the Rev. Gene Stark, officiating. Burial was made in the Eldorado cemetery under direction of Ratliff-Kerbow Funeral Home.

She was married to Jeff Enochs Jan. 29, 1909. The couple farmed and ranched near Eldorado until 1920 when they moved into town to buy and operate the waterworks system.

Survivors include five sons: William O. Enochs, Jeff P. Enochs and Holvey H. Enochs, all of Eldorado, A. R. (Bus) Enochs of Austin and Tom W. Enochs of Midland; three daughters, Ethel Ethledge of Eldorado, Fae Belle Harzke of Brady and Wenona Isaacs of Breckenridge; nine grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren; one brother, Jessie F. Smith and a number of nieces and nephews. Grandsons served as pall bearers.

R. G. Trentham Dies

Funeral services were held September 20 in Lake Charles, La., for Raymond Gilbert Trentham, 48, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Trentham of Eldorado.

Mr. Trentham died Sept. 18 in Lake Charles where he was employed by Teledyne Moveable Off-shore Co.

He was born in Stafford, Texas, July 15, 1926, and was a veteran of World War II.

Ann Hefferman of Eldorado, Mrs. Jessie Ruby Jenkins of Athens, Texas, and one grandson, Michael Wayne Broussard of Lake Charles.

Soil Conservation District Election Slated

Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District Chairman Voy Lee Butts, of Route, Christoval, Texas, announced this week that there will be a district directors election, Oct. 5, at 11:30 a.m. at the Shady Lane Park at Christoval.

Butts said the director elected from sub-division 1 of the district, which is composed of land in the north-east part of Schleicher county, and the land in the south-east part of Tom Green county, will represent the sub-district of the board of directors for the next five years.

The Tom Green County Extension agent, will be in charge of arrangements for the election, and he and Barney Jefferson, District Conservationist, at San Angelo, are to work out the program.

Voy Lee said both men and women living in the sub-district are eligible to vote in the election.

"I would urge every landowner in this zone to come to the election with someone in mind who is able and has time to serve them as a district director," Butts said.

A soil and water district is not a Federal agency, he said, but a governmental subdivision of the state of Texas.

"For this reason," Voy Lee said, "it is important that people turn out for these elections and keep the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District strong, because it can be no stronger than the support it receives from the local people."

Post Script

As an alert patient in our local hospital for five days last week, I was able to observe the comings and goings of friends and relatives during that time.

As for me I was not too bad off, just a falling accident early Wednesday morning. As soon as my son heard of it he came and put me in the hospital. After a number of x-rays and medication, I was treated for five days and allowed to come home Sunday afternoon.

One of the first visitors I had was Elton McGinnes, who informed me that his wife, Mary McGinnes, was in a room nearby. There were a succession of visitors there.

Another accident victim was Mrs. Otto Sauer, 88, who had crushed her hand in an electric wringer which she shouldn't have tried to do. She was in the hospital and was being visited by all her children in the county, her sons, Victor, Clemens and Edgar, and daughters Cora, Irene and including Winnie Sauer; and other relatives.

During the time I was there I was somewhat crippled in my knees and was advised not to walk. But I was assigned to a bed where I had a roommate, Homer Bryant of Mertzon. He and I had a room together back in January. He is a stock farmer near Mertzon.

Bobbie Killebrew, who is in charge of meals for all the patients, delivers a tasty platter at each meal and she is a pleasant person to get along with.

When I asked her if it wasn't a big job to prepare plates for all the hospital patients, she answered, "Shucks, now! I've got 40 more plates to be prepared for the Nursing wing!"

By the way it was being reported last week that there was only one vacancy left in the nursing wing.

Has anyone ever brought up the idea of building another new wing?

The local Medical Center was put into use about 5½ years ago and the nursing home wing has been added onto once already.

Time To End A 40-Year 'Subsidy'

There are no farmers in Congress any more. There are lots of lawyers and some doctors; there are representatives who understand what it's like to be an actor, an athlete, a school-teacher or a military man. There are some congressmen who own land that is farmed by somebody else. But now here on Capitol Hill will you find any dirt-under-the-fingermails sod-busting farmers any more.

That means that American farmers—all these men and women across the wide sweep of the ninetieths of this country that's still country who have been subsidizing the rest of us for 40 years—are suffering governmental taxation and regulation without representation in government.

You want to know why the White House and the Congress are so all-fired with "urban problems?" It's not because the "need" is any greater in the ghetto than it is in some of our leached-out dirt farms—it's purely and simply because of all the votes that are crum-packed into big cities.

A handful of congressmen from farm districts tried to close ranks and mount some clout. But the 22 who formed the Congressional Rural Caucus represent 16 states with a combined total constituency of only 10 million people. We have more people than that in Chicago. Only 5% of America's voters now live on farms.

And most congressional districts have been redrawn in such a way that each is never more than one-third farmers.

Yet these 3 million farmers have been feeding all of us and then some. Further, they have been directly or indirectly prospering 80% of our nation's basic industries; and if you consider only the towns of less than 10,000 where most farmer do their buying, their efforts are directly responsible for the economic survival of one-third of our nation's total population.

No industry is more important to our nation's physical health and economic wealth.

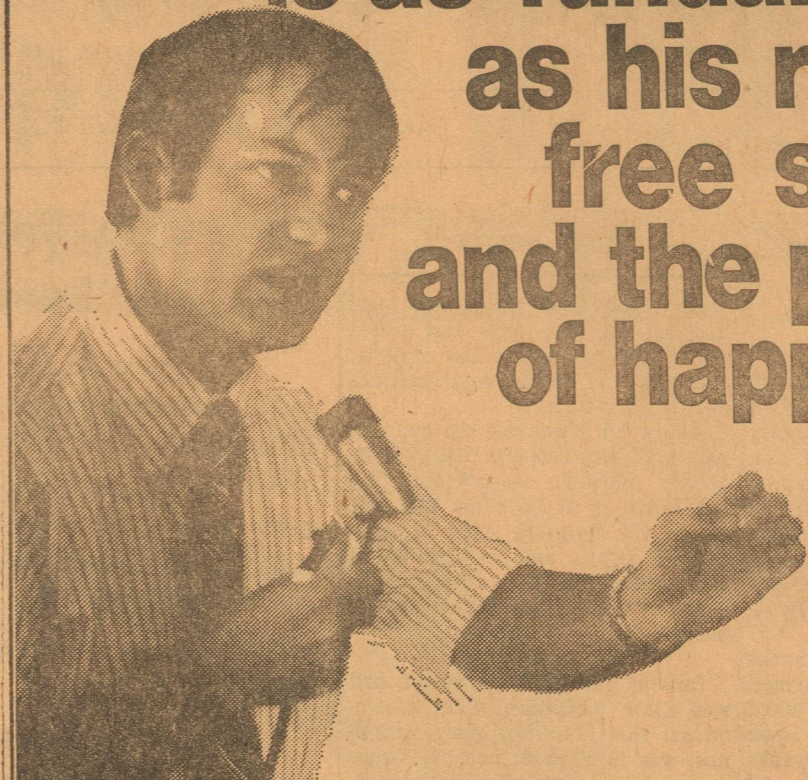

Yet it gets from Congress only what crumbs that bunch of city dudes let fall off the table.

Now you can see why Agriculture Secretary Earl Buttz has had to raise his voice and ruffle some feathers; without him farmers would have no voice at all!

The other day, on the most flimsy evidence, the Environmental Protection Agency ordered the destruction of millions of Mississippi chickens. Gov. William Waller said he wouldn't understand it.

Scouting Re-Emphasizes Patriotism . . .

Patriotism has played an important role for nearly 65 years in the program of the Boy Scouts of America, but now there's a re-emphasis for the 167 Cub Scout Packs, Scout Troops, and Explorer Posts in this area.

John P. Smith, Council president of the Concho Valley Council, that serves 23½ counties in West Texas, cites "the greater need today for emphasis on patriotism as our Nation goes through a period when some of its basic foundations are challenged."

Each Scouting unit and member is being encouraged to find new ways to "demonstrate love and affection for our country," Smith said, and during the bicentennial period to demonstrate new and more dramatic expressions of national pride.

The coming year's bicentennial emphasis which begins this month for the Boy Scouts of America is Be Prepared for Life: Be Safe, Be Fit. Local activities for the next 12 months will include Explorer Road Rally, Explorer Olympics, Council Camporee, Summer Camp, Bicycle Safety Month, and Unit Physical Fitness, contests.

Scouting, as an educational movement, requires a boy to live up to a standard or a code of laws which insures development of character, Smith said.

Building terraces can help control erosion and hold water where it falls, at least for a while. But how terraces do their job depends on how they are farmed.

So says Lloyd B. Johnson, Soil Conservation Technician of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service at Eldorado, Texas.

"Unfortunately, too many farmers plow across their terraces or fail to maintain them properly," Johnson said. "Gradually, the terraces lose their capacity to intercept runoff water. Then when heavy rain strikes, many terraces are broken."

Since the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District was established 33 years ago, there has been very few years that terraces did not receive necessary maintenance. However, for a time now some terraces have not received maintenance when needed. This is due in part to farmers changing method and equipment used in preparing land. Since many farmers no longer use the one-way plow in preparing their land that is terraced, the terraces do not receive maintenance as often as in past years.

The amount of water that can be held by good terraces should be proof enough that proper terrace maintenance is needed. Water that can be safely held by a terrace is dependent on several things. However, for each foot of effective height of terrace water can be backed up the slope for about 100 feet. Each foot of terrace length would hold 374 gallons of water above it. In this case a terrace 1760 feet in length would hold 658,240 gallons of water that equals 24.24 acre inches. The area above the terrace would be 4.04 acres. All the water from a 6 inch rain could be held on the 4.04 acres.

Johnson said SCS has published a new booklet "Farming Terraced Land," which describes ways to farm terraces so their original capacity is maintained. The illustrated publication gives step-by-step methods for plowing terraced land with a minimum number of trips.

Free copies of "Farming Terraced Land" can be obtained from the local SCS office on the third floor of the Schleicher County court house.

Avoid Needless Appliance Service Calls

A cartoon in a recent national magazine pictured a middle-aged woman kneeling beside her bed, hands clasped in prayer, saying, "Dear Lord, while we are financing two college educations, please keep our major appliances in A-1 running order."

It brings out in a poignant way the gnawing fear nearly every homeowner experiences in these days of rising prices: that an unexpected appliance repair bill could push an already-strained family budget into the red.

Nonetheless, it is not uncommon for a service technician to be called into a home only to discover that the "broken" appliance is merely unplugged or that a fuse has blown. Experiences such as these are not only embarrassing to the homemaker, but costly as well.

Quality appliance service is not inexpensive. Each General Electric and Hotpoint service technician, for example, maintains a "warehouse on wheels" of about 2,000 replacement parts to avoid, whenever possible, the necessity of making two trips to repair an appliance instead of just one.

To help you avoid the cost of an unnecessary service call, GE suggests you first check your owner's manual for possible reasons for the appliance's malfunction.

If you've misplaced the manual, here's a quick checklist of some common service problems:

- ✓ If the appliance operates on electricity, make sure it hasn't been unplugged inadvertently. If it's a gas appliance, be sure the pilot light is lit.
- ✓ Check for blown fuses or tripped circuit breakers.
- ✓ Be sure doors are securely closed on the appliance. Some appliances, such as dishwashers, clothes dryers, and trash compactors, have electric safety interlocks which prevent them from working if doors are not fully closed.
- ✓ Are the controls set properly? More than one homemaker has set the control to "Off" while cleaning the refrigerator interior and forgotten to turn it back on.
- ✓ If the dishwasher or automatic clothes washer will not fill with water, check to see if the water supply has been turned off.

If all these checks fail to produce results, it's time to call in the service technician. Just how long it will take to get the serviceman to your home depends on your proximity to the serviceman and how adequately his shop is staffed.

General Electric, the nation's largest appliance maker, has factory service in 114 major metropolitan areas, complemented by more than 5,000 factory-trained franchised servicers.
