MEDITATIONS

By The Editor

Won't somebody send that auctioneer, Nelson Johnson one of our papers where we said that there would be no exaggerations by us. It is our opinion that he should have read The Success Meditations before the auction, when he put up for sale Success subscriptions to be auctioned off and said it contained all the local news and probably some that never happened.

Since he was such a good auctioneer and sold The Success to two different people we are going to forgive him.

As to the rain we still claim credit for it even though Rev. Curtis, who spoke here last week, claims the credit, saying that each time he has delivered the Alaskan address it has rained.

However, we feel that Joe Pouns, Coleman editor, expresses this rain campaign business in a very creditable manner:

He says:

"But you can't possibly please everybody on one of these campaigns. No, siree! Take Elbert Evans at Talpa, for instance. He was afraid a rain at this time might cause death or injury to the lamb crop on the bigger ranches of the county. And since he is one of our veteran sheepmen of the county guess we will have to make a note of that for our future rain campaigns.

Of course, we might order the rain to come just in the day-time so that the ranchmen could more easily round up those lambs and take them to shelter. Or, at least, could keep them on the move."

Seriously, the rain of last week was just like music from a melodious pipe organ. We all should be thankful to the Creator for sending it at this time.

Now that we have the rain let's not be like the little boy we are about to describe, but come out to the various revival meetings that are being held and are to be held during the season.

The little boy, inspecting a big house that was under construction, had climbed up on the roof. He suddenly lost his hold and began sliding. He exclaimed: "Oh, Lord, save me, save me; Lord, save— never mind, Lord; I'm hung on a nail."

Well, we'll see you one week nearer victory— next week.

Rain Brings Grass And Smiles to Schleicher Co.

To Conduct Revival

Shown is State Evangelist G. B. Bradshaw, McKinney, Texas, who will be here in a 15-day revival to start at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

CREAM SUPPER HONORS PVT. GLENN GREEN

An ice cream supper was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Steward of Bailey Ranch Community Friday night of last week, honoring Private Glenn Green, who is spending a ten-day furlough with his mother, Mrs. T. F. Green.

The supper was sponsored by the Bailey Ranch Home Demonstration Club.

Seven tables of progressive "42" was enjoyed during the evening. About seventy-five guests were present for the occasion.

Baptist Revival to Begin Sun.; Evangelist to Be Here

With first services to begin Sunday morning, the First Baptist Church is this week distributing advertising material announcing the opening of a revival meeting that will continue through Sunday, April 18.

Rev. J. M. Hays, local pastor, has worked hard in preparation for the revival and has announced that State Evangelist G. B. Bradshaw will be here to conduct services twice daily. Present schedule for the services is: Morning services to start at 11 o'clock and evening services to begin at 8:00 o'clock.

Evangelist G. B. Bradshaw,

Slightly more than 1.12 inches of rain fall was recorded here last week when rain, for the first time in many weeks fell in the county. It has been reported from various sections of the county that about an average of one inch fell.

Leslie H. Jones of Fort McKavit was a caller at The Success office renewing his subscription Tuesday, and stated that the rain there was fine and of about one inch fall.

An appreciative feature of the rain was that it was slow and comparatively warm for the time of year, and was not considered at all hard on livestock.

The moisture came at a very opportune time, as the range and farm lands, as well as garden spots, were parched and the feed situation was becoming critical. Warmer weather was welcomed and much benefit derived from it in handling of young lambs; several reports coming to this office that where losses had been heavy, they were now practically nil.

Many of West Texas' old-timers say that there is very little chance of March rain due to continued high winds and other atmospheric conditions. Anyway, March has come and gone, we got a good start of moisture, the grass has greened and filled out unbelievably fast; the weeds are beginning to flourish, and indications have been the last few days that more moisture will come.

Among other evidences of the rain and solutions to the feed problems are the broad smiles and jovial dispositions of farmers and livestock men we have conversed with since the beginning of the participation.

whose home is McKinney, Texas, comes to Eldorado highly recommended as a very gifted and talented speaker and as a consecrated man, and it is anticipated that much interest will be maintained throughout the 15-day meeting. Sermons and topics for services are to be based on present-day religious needs, with much spiritual inspiration in manifesting, and a revival for the spiritual interest of Eldorado is the aim of the meeting, stated the Rev. Hays this week.

A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend these services the pastor said.

ELDORADO MAN AT KANSAS AIR FIELD

DODGE CITY AIR FIELD, Kan., March 31.—Newly arrived from Waco Army Flying School, Texas, to do his part at this new Transition Flying School of the AAF Gulf Coast Training Center is Pvt. Manuel S. Frutoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Frutoy of Eldorado, Texas. He is a member of the Medical Detachment here.

SCHOOL SCHEDULE TO BE CHANGED

Beginning Monday, April 5, all classes in both Grammar and High School will begin at 9 o'clock instead of 9:30. Students will be dismissed for lunch at 12:30, classes to be resumed at 1:20; classes are to be dismissed at 3:45 in the afternoon.

The change is being made due to longer daylight hours, stated Supt. C. A. Reynolds this week.

PALOMINO RANCHO MAKES ANOTHER SIGHT-UNSEEN HORSE SALE

J. E. Jones, operator of Palomino Ranch, this week sold "Texas Barb", to Vincente Peralta, San Francisco, Calif., Counsel to President Villa Camacho of Mexico.

Sale of the 4-year-old breed of Tennessee Walking, was made in a sight-unseen transaction as has been several other transactions by the Eldorado horseman, who is becoming nationally known for his production of Palomino horses.

Mr. Jones informed The Success this week that he has entered 16 head of stock in the Colt Show to be held in San Angelo, April 4. A Standard-Times story recently stated that his would be the largest entry in the show.

April 4 to 10 Is Proclaimed Clean-Up Week In Texas

In an hour when this nation and allies need every possible aid in waging a global war against dictators and in the defense of democracy, we must not neglect home security. Losses suffered by reason of careless fire are inexcusable. Destruction by fires in America delays the march of our fighting men on the battle fronts.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson has designated the week of April 4 to 10 as our annual Spring Health and Clean-up Week in Texas. He has earnestly solicited our support in this campaign.

Let's co-operate with the local fire department in helping to eliminate fire hazards.

Following is Gov. Stevenson's Proclamation:

WHEREAS, America stands at the crossroads in the most critical hour in its history, engaged in a supreme effort to maintain high standards fundamental to a free people; and

WHEREAS, every loss of food, supplies, production facilities, property and life weakens the resources of this nation; and

WHEREAS, the preservation of the health of our citizens and the preservation of property from destruction by fire is of vital importance to the support of our men engaged in the battles of a global war; and

WHEREAS, the Texas State Health Department and the State Fire Insurance Department have, for a number of years, sponsored an annual Clean-up campaign in the interest of better health and fire prevention;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Coke Stevenson, Governor of the State of Texas, designate the week of April 4-10, 1943, as HEALTH and CLEAN-UP WEEK in Texas, and most respectfully call upon municipal officials, public health authorities, fire departments, civilian defense units, schools, clubs, civic organizations, the press, the radio, and citizens individually to take an active part in the observance of Health and Clean-up Week.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of State to be affixed hereto at Austin, Texas, this twentieth day of March, A. D., 1943.

(SEAL) Coke R. Stevenson, Governor of Texas.

City Election To Be Held Tuesday

As The Success goes to press no information is available as to whose names would appear on the ballot in the April 6 election.

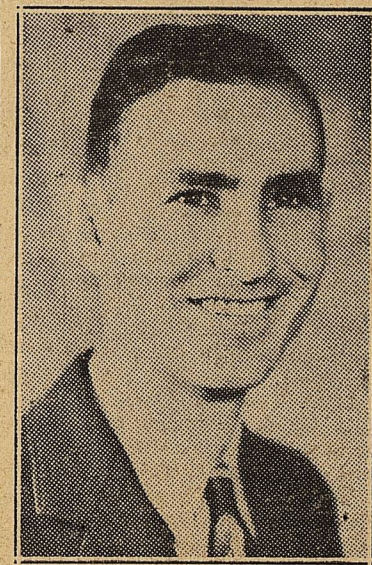

A mayor and three aldermen are to be elected on the date set.

It is the duty and privilege of all who are eligible to cast their vote in these elections to do so, and since we have never been through a local election this writer knows nothing of the interest shown in such matters.

A new type of respirator for soldiers operating in either dusty or smoke-filled areas has been developed and has already been issued in quantity to our forces fighting on desert fronts.

The Success wants your news.

No Lawns To Mow

Smiling defiance at The Success editor, is Jerry Pennington, above, who was the fine-imposer on the editor, and is the one who was wished to have to mow lawns of dissatisfied spectators at the Red Cross benefit ball game last Friday evening. There were no reported dissatisfactions, hence no corns in Pennington's hands.

McGinnes Reunion Last Sunday At Home

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGinnes enjoyed having their family together for a reunion on Sunday, March 28th.

Those present were Pvt. Elton McGinnes, who is in the Air Corp Division of the service at Laredo; Pvt. Albert McGinnes, here on sick leave from Harcing Field, Louisiana; Miss Laura McGinnes of San Angelo; Mrs. Elton McGinnes, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Law of Menard, parents of Mrs. Sam McGinnes and Floyd McGinnes, a younger son of the Sam McGinnes.

School Flying "Schools At War" Flag This Week

"Schools At War Flag" is being flown in the Eldorado High School because the "Buy a Bond or Stamp Contest" among all the students for the month of March is 100 percent. The student body under the able leadership of Superintendent C. A. Reynolds and other instructors, is to be commended for their patriotism and loyal support on the home front.

Requirement is that an average of 90 percent for each class in the school to be able to fly the flag, however, in taking the count recently it was found that every student had purchased stamps or a bond during March, making the school 100 percent.

SPRING CLIP MOHAIR BEGINS TO MOVE

Spring clip mohair is beginning to move in this section and good prices prevail with grown hair bringing 56 cents and kid 76 cents, it was reported this week.

Yields are reported to be good and the quality high.

Near $1,900 Reported In Total Collected

Highlighting the news this week is the glad tidings we are able to print about how Eldoradoians and Schleicher County citizens put the Red Cross War Fund quota "over-the top."

The County quota had been doubly assessed, making the amount to be raised this year $1,500. This was met and more, the grand total reported Monday to The Success was $1811.07.

Expressions of gratitude and thanks were written over the faces of those in charge of the drive to raise this quota the last of the week. Our men in the armed forces will also be glad to know that this quota was raised; that they are being backed on the home front by the ones who are left here to carry on and to help supply them with the essentials that this fund will provide for.

Beginning Friday evening at the Lions' ball game the fund began to swell when a good crowd attended and the entire proceeds applied to the fund. Many came and gave checks for far more than admission prices and said: "Keep the change"; likewise in paying admission in currency and silver, repeating the same "keep the change."

Saturday afternoon the auction sale proved to be a success as well as an amusement center, when Nelson Johnson, San Angelo auctioneer keep the crowd laughing and bidding fast for the articles supplied for the purpose by donations. Frying chickens brought $1 each, goats of a very low value ran up high bids, were donated back and resold several times; a spirit of sportsmanship and patriotism prevailing at all times and everything from canned goods to Success subscriptions and butter paper, to chickens, sheep, goats

CRISIS IN MANPOWER

Today's problem of manpower means as much to the farmer with one hired hand, or the merchant with a single clerk, as it does to the industrialist who employs a thousand persons. It is all a matter of proportion.

The war program has reached such a stupendous size that the proper distribution of manpower assumes as much importance as the right use of steel, oil, rubber, or any other essential material or product.

It has been such a short time since there was more manpower than industry and agriculture could absorb that we may be a bit slow in waking up to the fact that today each man and woman who can be used to help in the battle of production is needed, and needed badly.

For the benefit, then, of farmers whose crops and livestock will suffer this year if manpower is not replenished; for the benefit of the armed services which have set their sights at possibly 10 million in uniform before 1944; for the benefit of the factories which must turn out ammunition, shoes, clothing, supplies and processed foods in ever-increasing quantities for fighters, civilians and allied nations, a careful stock-taking of manpower is required.

Where Manpower Is Wasted

Our new Congress must make sure that those in charge of this task, in Washington, cast about to see where able-bodied people are being needlessly employed. And in that city of Washington these authorities are now rubbing elbows with thousands of clerks, auditors, stenographers and others who could be used elsewhere without interfering with the war effort in any measure.

Recent figures showed that there were 2,606,300 persons on the civilian payroll of the federal government. This is not only a million more than were in our armed forces in foreign lands at the time the President made his address at the opening of the present Congress, but it is three times as many as were on the government's civilian payroll during the first World War. Of course this is a bigger war, but that only furnishes an even greater reason why the government should lead in conserving manpower for our farms and factories.

The "Renegotiation" Law

A single measure, introduced in Congress last year, would require thousands of new payrollers to carry out its provisions. This was the act providing that the Army, Navy and Maritime commission should each check its war contracts so that renegotiation could be demanded in cases of excessive charges.

The purpose of this legislation—to make sure that the government was not paying too much for its materials and supplies—was not questioned. But the proposed method of rechecking all war contracts called for the hiring of such a large number of new federal employees that amendments to the bill were quickly demanded.

Although the bill has been rewritten and amended, it still places upon the Army, Navy and Maritime commission so much of the responsibility for re-examining their contracts that thousands of new auditors and accountants would be needed. This violates the principle that united war effort calls for the placing of every available man and woman in productive work, at the same time helping to keep the taxpayers' federal load as light as possible, consistent with wartime demands.

An acceptable amendment to this law—not yet adopted—would leave it to the Department of Internal Revenue to uncover instances of excess profit. By using this established checking system, the other departments would not have to hire extra people to wade through the 95 per cent or more of war contracts which are honestly and conscientiously executed.

Here is but one example of how manpower can be conserved in these days when the efforts of all must be directed toward winning the war.

NEED FOR UNITED EFFORT

To win this war we must have unity of effort. "The do-as-I-tell-you-not-as-I-do" attitude will never mobilize national power or bring speedy victory.

This need for united effort was emphasized by the President in his recent call for a 40 per cent reduction in the use of government automobiles. Take the use of tires and gasoline by various federal agencies. A report of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures says:

"Despite the growing automobile crisis, both in tires and gasoline, the investigation of the committee indicates that for the first four months of the present fiscal year the various agencies of the government, exclusive of the Army and Navy, continued for the most part to use as many passenger cars, to drive as many miles, and to consume about as much gasoline as did these agencies in a comparable period of the previous year, notwithstanding the efforts of the government to reduce the consumption of gasoline and conserve rubber.

Same Standard for All

"The committee believes that the same standard of strictly essential driving should be applicable to government employees as now applies to individual citizens."

The committee gives figures upon which its conclusions are based. In the last fiscal year the government owned 17,305 passenger automobiles, exclusive of the Army and Navy and exclusive of trucks and motorcycles. It now owns 18,953 passenger automobiles.

In the last fiscal year the cost of operating these automobiles was $4,243,602. According to the use of the first four months of the present year the cost will be $3,924,069. In the last fiscal year these government-owned cars traveled 203,550,280 miles. According to the first four months of this year, government-owned cars will travel, this fiscal year, 197,830,930 miles and consume 12,853,533 gallons of gasoline.

The report also quotes from a statement of the Director of the Budget, indicating that "until now government cars have had an average of six and one-half tires each." The Committee's finding "that the same standard of strictly essential driving" should apply to government employees as is applied to individual citizens is too downright sensible to require discussion.

Why More Payrollers?

Another example of the need for united effort is found in the problem before Congress as to whether excessive profits on war contracts require new bureaus and additional payrollers or whether the Department of Internal Revenue can do the job.

The average citizen struggling with high taxes and a shortage of manpower answers: If necessary, amend the Internal Revenue Act for this purpose.

To win the war we must spend money and use materials wisely. We have enough manpower to do our essential jobs, but we have neither the manpower nor the taxes to hire special payrollers to do work that can be done better by established agencies.

I Give You Texas

By BOYCE HOUSE

Without regard for the legislature, which had set the salary, the executive director of Old Age Assistance has received a $1,000 increase a year and other officials of the department have received pay hikes too—and it was 11 months before anybody on the outside found out.

Rep. Ennis Favors' committee also has discovered that one man has been holding two State jobs and drawing two State salaries at the same time—$250 a month as director of appeals and complaints in the Old Age Assistance department and $7.50 a day as Senate parliamentarian by appointment of Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith.

While all this salary-grabbing has been going on, the pension checks to the old people have been cut $3 a month.

All these facts taken together are sufficient to turn the stomach of a decent citizen.

When your columnist was editing a "country weekly" for a year up in the northeast corner of Arkansas, a traveling man told me about a fellow in the neighboring state. Passenger fare in Missouri was 3 cents a mile—but, on lines less than 100 miles long, 5 cents a mile could be charged, so this chap built more 99-mile railroads than anybody in the history of the world.

He wasn't so much concerned for a fast operating schedule for his trains as he was to hold down construction costs—so, instead of tunneling through a hill or bridging it, he would build around it. Of course, the distance was much greater but he saved a lot of money.

There was a spot on one of his lines where a "jog" of several miles was made to miss a range of hills. Traveling salesmen, knowing this, would drop off the slow-moving train, walk across and be waiting to climb back on board when the train got around the hills—just to make the train crew mad!

In spite of his economies, the railroad owner had plenty of financial troubles and would get behind in meeting the payroll. One day in Cape Girardeau, he had quite a few drinks and was walking unsteadily along the street when his heel came down on a barrel stave. The stave flew up and hit him in the back of the head. He turned around on wobbly legs, held up a hand and said, "Hold on, boys; I'll pay you off right now."

Always, in the past, whenever a legislator has tried to do something about the loan shark evil in Texas, somebody would say, "The Constitution won't permit that." Well, there's a constitutional amendment pending that will permit something to be done and now we will see whether those who always talk about the barrier of the Constitution support the amendment and show that they were sincere in the past, or whether they fight the amendment and thereby show that they just don't want to do anything but are willing for the loan sharks to go ahead and plunder war workers and soldiers. It's as simple as that.

My favorite wolf story is the one that Baron Munchausen related. This great traveler—and liar—of several centuries ago said he was driving across the Russian steppes in a sleigh when a ferocious wolf gave chase. The baron lashed his horse into a run but the While few lawmakers have any quarrel with the principle of broadening social benefits after the war, many contend vigorously that those included in the recent recommendation of the National Resources Planning Board should be derived from the development of a sound industrial system unhampered by government interference in managerial functions.

The Board's recommendations for legislation to effect far-reaching and revolutionary economic reforms were paced before a Congress already beset by many pressing wartime problems involving a possible draft of all labor, war taxation, inflation control, and other issues incident to winning the war.

Despite the furor caused by the presentation of the Board's opus and the President's enthusiastic endorsement thereof, there appears little likelihood that Congress will do anything to place such a pro-wolf gained ground until his foaming jaws were so close that Munchausen could feel the animal's hot breath on the back of his neck.

Just as the wolf leaped the baron ducked and the animal went over his head and, landing on the horse's flank, ate clear through the horse and right into the bits—"And," concluded Munchausen, "I drove the wolf on into Moscow."

gram on the statute books at this session, in whole or in part.

Admittedly the Nation's No. 1 current problem is whether to try to solve the manpower problem by voluntary methods or by a compulsory draft of men and women such as is provided in the Austin-Wadsworth Bill. The Senate Military Affairs Committee which is continuing its study of this legislation has heard numerous witnesses who advocated approval of this measure to conscript the nation's man-and-woman power which some Congressional opponents privately described as involuntary servitude.

It is reported that Manpower Chief McNutt and War Production Chief Nelson have agreed that an armed force—Army, Navy, and Air of 10,800,000 could be raised, equipped and supplied, and an effective force transported to world battle fronts this year. Their reported agreement meant that they are now drawing up plans to file the dwindling ranks of farm and industry.

While another aspect of the manpower situation—reduction of productivity stemming from unwarranted absenteeism—contin-

When a Feller Needs Another Hand

Butch is in a predicament... one that isn't covered by military training. While he certainly could use another hand, we're betting that Butch will find a way to handle the situation.

In fact, most every businessman, farmer, stockman... every producer in West Texas today... knows just how he feels. They, too, need another hand.

Your Electric Servant has the same problem. Right now, we're being called on to balance good service and low rates against fast-climbing operating costs and shortages of material.

We're doing it, too. Filling every wartime order ahead of schedule in addition to your normal peacetime needs. And besides that, we're balancing a big plate of taxes.

Don't get us wrong. We know the necessity of heavy wartime taxes. We're proud that ours was a sizable portion of the $620,000,000 in taxes paid last year by America's business-managed electric companies. That was 23c out of every dollar paid for electric service. The total of $620 million dollars was enough to outfit 1,687,762 soldiers like Butch.

We're proud, too, that there has been no rationing of electricity... and no increase in cost to you!

How is it possible to do this... pay heavy taxes, overcome shortages of material and manpower?

Well, the credit goes to sound, well-balanced business management. And because our trained and experienced organization of men and women are working together as a team.

But while America's electric companies, under business management, are doing all this, government and municipal (politically operated) power systems are not paying a penny in taxes to help win the war.

Shouldn't every one do his full share?

"O'KEEFE, upstairs!"
Patrolman O'Keefe dropped his dissembled pistol on the assembly room table beside the rags and cleaning oil and hot-footed it up to the lieutenant's office. He knew what the lieutenant would say. The lieutenant would say: "O'Keefe, what are you mooning about? You're slowing up."

O'Keefe would reply: "Lieutenant, do you know Miss Polly Cudahay that lives at 400 North Woodbine?"
And the lieutenant would say: "No, O'Keefe. Tell me about her."
Then Patrolman O'Keefe would go on to say how a woman could trouble a man by deliberately ignoring his brass buttons and his tall blue-coated figure of authority.

And when a woman like that had dove's eyes and hair like the pale amber fire in honey under sunlight and a nose that rivaled the poetry of her mouth—why it was nothing less than unnecessary risk and exposure. He would ask the lieutenant's advice.

"O'Keefe!" the lieutenant snapped when the patrolman had saluted, "get set for a quickie in your district tonight. You're going on duty now. Dust out to Woodbine and Hamilton. Hide in the grocery store there and do your duty."

O'Keefe's mouth closed over his private troubles with the abruptness of a sprung trap. It was probably the mob from Philly, who had been hitting a different grocery in town every Saturday night. They were raiders, "quickies" who swooped down and carried off the day's receipts.

"O'Keefe," the lieutenant was saying, "a good piece of work on this job will get you a promotion."
"Yes, sir," replied O'Keefe, even while his will power struggled to submerge the disconcerting influence of Polly Cudahay. It was the more difficult because unfortunately she lived just across the street from the store.

When he got to the corner he paused on the curb for one last look around before entering the store. It was not entirely necessary, but his bright blue eye had fallen upon the alluring face of Polly Cudahay and he thought it would be a swell idea to ignore her officially.

Accordingly he paused there by the waterplug and, glancing unconcernedly about, straightened his belt with just that unstudied touch that makes efficiency a pleasure.

He wanted her to get a good look this time at a fine looking policeman and evidently she did because she seemed to be looking him up and down without seeing him at all.

He was burrowed among boxes and bags in the grocery three torturous hours when they came in. Three of them. O'Keefe studied the men from the black shadow of his vantage point. It wasn't much of a place to shoot from. His hands twitched under the strain, but there wasn't anything to do but wait.

The trio fiddled around until the last customers left the store and then at a signal they pulled their guns. It was all done in the flick of an eyelash. Now it was time for O'Keefe to act. But someone else was acting.

With the suddenness of a squall a riot squad had come pouring in through the front and side doors, shooting as they came. In ten seconds the place was a madhouse of staccato shots. Cans of vegetables began to leak over everything.

Patrolman O'Keefe was in the thick of it then. The stumbling figure of a riddled gunman crashed into him. He grappled with the bandit and took his gun. Then he did some effective shooting with it. It gave him a thrill to shoot the robbers with their own weapon.

Afterward when everyone was congratulating him he became more and more indignant. It was something that had come up to gnaw within him and to embitter his triumph. And when he could get away it took him no more than a split second to reach Polly Cudahay's door. He wanted to ask her if she thought he was so weak and wan that he needed help on that little job. And what business was it of hers anyway?

He didn't expect her to deny it, but she did. She denied with flashing eye she had anything to do with calling the riot squad. He could see then that if he ever kissed her it would have to be a delight separate and remote from any subject that happened to be up for discussion.

"And you didn't wonder what I was doing on the curb?" he growled.
"I did not," she said. "Police-men stand around on curbs all the time, like the braggarts they are,

The Importance of Housekeeping

Have you stopped to think how vital homes are even in war time? It takes five men for every hundred in the United States Army just to keep the troops supplied with food and clothes and the every-day services, such as washing and ironing clothes, and sewing on buttons. It takes another big crew of men to prepare and cook the food for this vast, hungry crowd. All of them, home-makers' jobs, that we women carry on every day in the year seldom realizing how important they are.

But listen to what the Quartermaster General of the Army says about these housekeeping duties: "We know, as Hitler and Hirohito know, that the soldiers with the best supplies are going to win and we know as they are learning that in a supply war the United States can give them the pick of the cards and still win hands down."

For the United States is the country where mass production of home equipment has reached its highest level; where the average housekeeper works with tools unknown in many countries and known only by the rich in others.

Mrs. Johnny Leucecke and son, Mickey, from Rock Springs, spent the week-end here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Isaacs.

Albert McGinnes, Miss Marie Brooks and Mrs. Sam McGinnes, are visiting relatives in Bahlmore and Fort Stockton, this week.

all brass and buttons."
"It's the uniform, Colleen," he informed her with dignity. "It isn't the man. The badge on the tunic and the gun on the hip—they clothe a common man with the authority of the law."

"Oh, yes?" said Miss Cudahay with a belittling eye on his right hip. "Well, you've practically been a nudist for hours!"

With that Patrolman O'Keefe clapped a dismaying hand to his heavy service holster and found it as empty as his pride.

Don't Gamble Guard Against Trouble from Minor Injuries—Cuts, Scratches, Burns

Be wise. Guard against infections which may "lay you up." Cleanse wound instantly. Then apply effective, inhibitory antiseptic OIL-O-SOL. Used for over 40 years in thousands of factories, garages, industrial first aid stations, fire departments and homes. Pleasant to use. Combats infection; quickly helps relieve pain. Only 50c at your druggist's. Must satisfy you or your money back. Get Mosso's OIL-O-SOL today.

So it's to be expected that the Quartermaster Corps of our army should have the finest stoves, the most efficient washing machines, and the best brooms and brushes and milk cans and soap and sealing wax and safety matches—just to mention a few of the items they must keep on hand! And the food dished out for our boys on the fighting fronts measures up to the kind of food we used to give them when they were still eating at home under our watchful eyes.

Housekeeping in the Army is done in a big, highly organized way. But its purpose is the same as the housekeeping you and I do; to keep men comfortable, and healthy and wellfed. It isn't the main job of the Army, of course, but it's essential. You know what happens to soldiers cut off from their supplies and you know what happens when your own men come home to a cool, dark house with no food in the kitchen.

So chin up and snap to attention if your job is housekeeping! It's vital work these days and stands behind every man and woman on our vast war production line just as the Quartermaster Corps stands behind every man at the front.

I hope all of our people will remember that our meeting will start Sunday. Dr. Bradshaw will be here for the first service Sunday morning.
The service Sunday evening will be an ordination service. Our church has elected two of our members to be ordained deacons. Roy Davidson and Alton Clark. The ordaining council will be composed of Rev. R. R. Cumbie, the deacons from the Bailey Ranch church, Rev. G. B. Bradshaw, and the local pastor and the deacons of the local church. The pastor will ask the question, Rev. Cumbie will deliver the charge, both to the deacons and the church and Rev. Bradshaw will preach the ordination sermon.
We urge every one to attend Sunday school and church Sunday. Sunday school is at 10:00 and preaching at 11:00.

May I further insist that all who can, be in regular attendance for all services through the entire meeting.
We are happy to report that our collection for Home Mission Sunday amounted to $90.22. We are so grateful for such a generous spirit and I feel sure that the good Lord will bless all of our people for it.
Our ladies met at the church Monday for a clean-up day. They served lunch at the noon hour, and all in all, they had a great and busy time. We too, feel so grateful for all of it.

HERE'S GOOD
"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"

Following is a story sent in to The Success by Mrs. T. P. Russell, Menard, Texas, and is a good one too, we believe.

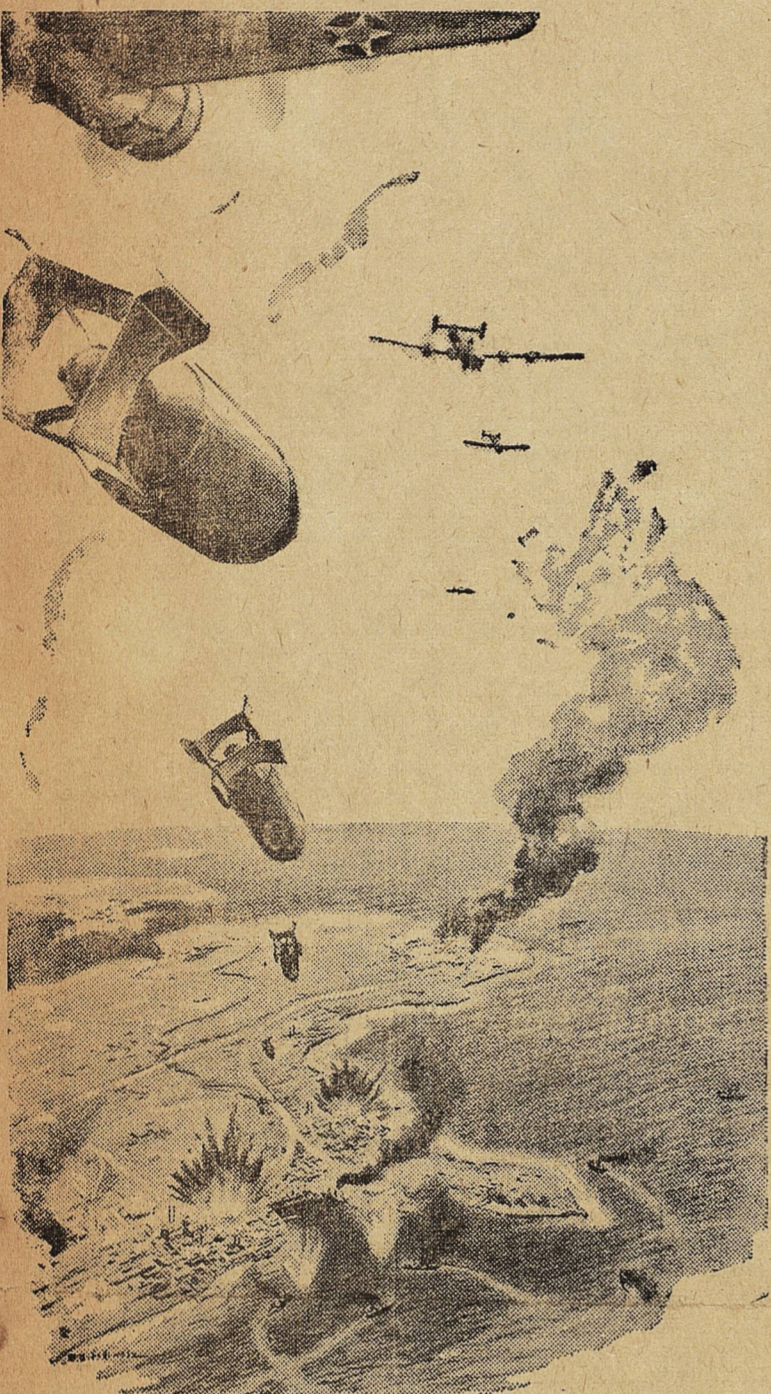

John Umphres, working on the T. M. Hunt ranch, leased by John L. Lattimore on the northeast side of Schleicher County, killed during February and March, six eagles, measuring from six to nine feet wing spread.

Mr. Umphres located their roost at night; slipped up, turned his automobile headlights on and shot them.

For proof, the six birds are hanging on the fence just as you enter the Joe T. Callan ranch on the Fort McKavett and San Angelo highway, states Mrs. Russell.

This might give some idea to others interested in exterminating the pests how to go about doing so.

The Low-Down From Hickory Grove

The way ideas are pouring in on my contest on "what this country needs less of versus more of," is surprising. If you just listen on the radio and read things they say we all gotta have done for us, you will think we are destitute and helpless.

But the ones saying all this and wanting to save us, and sending it out from the old show grounds there on the fix-everything-pretty Potomac, I guess they figure we are mabe halfway pixilated or balmy. But in the contest, the answers coming in give you a different feeling. The folks who have their feet on terra firma are still going ahead in the old and quaint manner of looking out for themselves. If somebody wants to get himself elected or something, just on talk, let him spout off. But nstead of waiting around for somebody to throw in a flimsy life preserver, it is safer to brush up on your swimming—and put away a few more war bonds.

The folks coming over on the Mayflower had iron in their blood—they didn't lean on somebody.

Yours with the low down,

Farm Families to Receive Awards

Shown above is a reproduction of a certificate for all-out food production which will be awarded to farm families who have enlisted in this year's Food for Freedom program.

The Success has been advised that the 11x14 inch certificate, which has been signed by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, will be presented to farm families by local county USDA war boards after the completion of the 1943 farm sign-up campaign.

The 1943 farm plan, which farmers and ranchers now are filling out in all sections of the state, will be the basis for making the award. This drive, aimed at obtaining maximum production of food and feed from each farm and ranch was to have been completed during March.

"It is a simple word of appreciation and encouragement to the fighting units of the food front, the nation's farm families," B. F. Vance, chairman, Texas USDA War Board, said in explaining the purpose of the certificate. He pointed out that for three years in a row farm operators and their families have broken all production records with emphasis on the war-needed crops and meats.

Although working under handicaps, such as shortages of labor, machinery and transportation, goals of many commodities have been set still higher for 1943 than they were during 1942.

"In spite of these handicaps, if the weather is generously favorable, I believe Texas farmers and ranchers will reach new goals and break production records once more," the chairman said.
