Is now the time to buy land?

Acquiring that farm might seem more practical with financing through the Federal Land Bank. Land is easier to pay off when costs are amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank Loan. Your total cost of borrowing, too, can be less. Ask us for help: We know land values; we will inspect the property. We will then try to make a loan that meets your exact needs.

GRAZING SYSTEMS
By Bill Rountree

Has your pastures, large or small, had a good, several months deferment within the past two or three years? If not your range could be producing much less high quality forage than it is capable of producing. If producers realized the full benefits received from good long rests of their pastures, they would work it out and take whatever steps necessary in order to carry out a deferment program on their farm or ranch.

Animals, like people, have natural preferences in the things that they eat. As long as stock are kept in a pasture they continue to eat the more palatable plants and will pass up eating the less desirable plants. Therefore, the good grasses in pastures that seldom, if ever, receive referments are overworked, overgrazed and are in a poor and weakened condition. In this condition they just cannot produce their maximum, even though moisture is plentiful and growing conditions are just as they should be.

Producers in the district are turning to short duration grazing systems. They are finding that livestock, when given a choice, will pass up some plants in favor of others they like better. This being the case, a lot of nutritious, but somewhat less palatable grass, is not being grazed. This allows the less palatable plants to remain vigorous and compete with the more desirable plants for moisture and nutrients.

The Short Duration Grazing System helps the producer get better utilization of all species in a given pasture and can lessen the competition from less palatable plants. Under a system of this kind both palatable and less palatable plants are grazed closely for a short period of time and then are rested from the grazing of livestock for a long period of time. As a pasture is grazed closely, it is then rested as the stock are rotated from one pasture or field to another.

Stockmen are finding that this system can bring about faster improvement in range condition; more efficient use of existing grass in a given pasture; better livestock control; and increased total forage value.

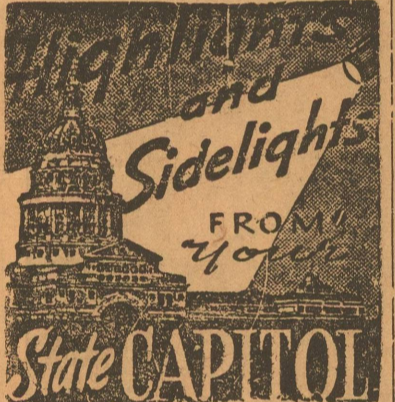

Producers need to determine whether to manage for top gains per head or manage for somewhat lower, first-year gains per head with the prospect of getting greater total animal production per acre in the future years. When a pasture is improved in condition, there is an increase in both forage production and forage quality. When the forage production is increased the rancher can increase the size of his herd. When forage quality is improved it means that weight gains from the intensively grazed pastures in good condition will be as good or even better than those from continuously grazed pastures in poor condition.

The intensive grazing system allows for better grazing distribution of pastures, better breeding success, less labor required, and less time is spent checking for sick animals or during roundup.

The success of a short duration grazing system on your operating unit depends mostly upon your intentions and ability to use it. It is not a guaranteed, foolproof system. It can be used as a valuable management tool that will help you get better utilization from your pastures. Regardless of the system used, it is management ability that spells the difference between profit and loss.

Technicians of the SCS assisting the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District will be glad to work with producers in working out their grazing system. Why not work out a deferred grazing system for your operating unit this spring? Give it a try. You will be glad you did.

Austin, Tex.—The State Board of Insurance had good news for homeowners as the new year turned.

Insurance rate cuts which will total an estimated $25 million a year in savings for coverage on dwellings were ordered effective January 1.

Gov. Preston Smith commended the board and claimed that debate on insurance rating issues during the special legislative session he called last fall figured in the reductions.

Board members first announced these reductions for extended coverage and homeowners' package policies:

North-northwest territory—30% for extended coverage and 20% homeowners' policies.
Central inland area—8% and 7%.
Seacoast "first tier" counties on the Gulf—4% reduction for extended coverage but a 4% hike for homeowners' policies.
Seacoast "second tier" counties—18% and 10% less.

Announcement of the first reductions were followed three days later by fire rate cuts for dwellings.

The statewide fire rate slashes amount to 12% for brick veneer, asbestos and stucco houses and 9% for frame dwellings. A 3% increase was directed for all brick dwellings, but the Board noted this category accounts for only 2% of Texas housing.

Budget Reform Urged

Legislators returning to work in regular session Tuesday found five budget reform proposals designed to save at least $50 million a year.

Texas Manufacturers Association unveiled the recommendations and announced a statewide campaign to win support for them.

These proposals are expected to be introduced by prominent legislators, TMA said:

—Authority for the governor, as chief state executive officer, to review state spending on a quarterly basis.

—Authority for the legislative budget board to conduct biennial performance audits of agency and program operational efficiency.

—Limiting compromise powers of free conference committees on appropriations to adjusting reasonable differences between House and Senate spending recommendations, rather than permitting addition of new items of deletion of others previously agreed on by both houses.

—Establishing a "pricetagging" system, under which the legislative budget board must project cost estimates for a five-year period on all spending legislation before committee hearings.

—Creating a two-year study by a 15-member gubernatorial commission of the practice of earmarking 80% of total state revenues, free of direct legislative control.

Penal Code Rewrite Tried Again

Lawmakers also found the 1973 version of Texas penal code revision as proposed by the State Bar on their desks at the capitol.

The new code, first proposed overall revision since 1857, was rejected by the legislature in 1971, but sponsors feel it may pass this year. Changes have been made in controversial sections, and provisions on drug laws and abortion left out.

The new code would retain the death penalty for eight classifications of murder.

Sixteen hundred sections of the old penal code have been boiled down to 246. It contains four felony punishment classifications and three classes of misdemeanors, with penalties specified for each.

Attorney General's Opinions

A San Antonio school teacher is ineligible to serve as a member of the State Board of Education, the attorney general's office held.

In other recent opinions, the attorney general concluded:

—County commissioners must be petitioned by 1% of county voters before they can call a countywide road bond election.

—An advertising scheme whereby merchants award prizes by drawings and punchcards is a lottery in violation of the law.

—A requirement of persons applying for a marriage license appearing together or separately before the county clerk may be waived, and ceremonial marriages may be performed by proxy where there is a valid marriage license issued.

—Refinery units constructed on land owned by gas companies are determined to be real property.

—A vehicle designed primarily for application of fertilizer and herbicides is an "implement of husbandry" (used for agricultural purposes) and is not required to be registered for highway usage.

Appointments . . .

Governor Smith designated V. Larry Teaver Jr. of Austin, a long-time friend and aide, as secretary of state to serve until January 16 when Gov. Dolph Briscoe takes office. Teaver succeeds Bob Bullock who resigned after January 1.

Other Smith appointments include: Judge Edward D. Coulson of Houston as associate justice of the 14th court of civil appeals; Sam Lane of Austin to Texas Employment Commission; Bob Lilly of San Antonio as chairman of Texas Animal Health Commission; David McAngus of Austin as 201st district judge; Judge Jackson B. Smith Jr. of Houston as 189th district judge. Mrs. Ruby Kless Sondock of Houston to domestic relations court no. 5 in Harris county; Murray L. McWhorter (reappointment) to the Veterans Land Board; and Bill Tippen of Abilene and Richard C. Ingram of Dallas to the Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education.

Brad O'Leary of Austin was designated executive director of the Texas Republican Party and Harrison Vickers of Houston executive director of the State Democratic Party.

Open to any male over 21 years of age, this event sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, last year drew over 200 contestants. A partnership, straight domino, double elimination affair, the tournament begins at 9 a.m. and winds up about 10 p.m. with the presentation of awards and prize money. Entry fee is $3 per person.

Some Benefits to Hike Under Social Security

"About 150,000 retired workers and their families will get higher social security payments starting in 1973 under a special minimum benefit provision of the new social security law," according to J. M. Talbot, social security district manager in San Angelo.

"People who worked over 20 years in jobs covered by social security, but had relatively low annual earnings, may be helped by the special minimum provision," Mr. Talbot said.

The special minimum benefit ranges up to $170 a month for workers who retire at 65 with 30 or more years of coverage under social security, he said. A couple can get up to $255. Benefits for people who apply before 65 will be reduced because the benefits will be paid for a longer time.

The new provision is effective January 1973.

"Retired people who will get a benefit increase under the new law don't have to apply for it. Their increase will be paid starting with checks delivered in early April," Mr. Talbot said. People already getting more than the special minimum will continue to get their regular checks.

Colds Are Prevalent During Winter Time

During this cold weather season, many of us will suffer the consequences of a cold, flu, or respiratory infection even though we may try to avoid or prevent it.

Since the chances are good to have a bout with the "cold bug" this year, it might behoove each of us to know more about what a cold is and what to do with it when you have it, say state health officials.

What is a cold? The common cold is a name given to any of a number of short-lived infections of the nose and throat. All of them are highly contagious. They have similar symptoms. Sometimes they are called by other names, which simply tell you what part of the upper respiratory tract is particularly affected: rhinitis, affecting the nose; pharyngitis, the throat; or laryngitis, the voice box.

What causes a cold? The Texas State Department of Health points out there are many different viruses which cause a cold. A virus is a disease-producing agent so small that it goes right through the very fine filter that stops bacteria. These cold-causing viruses are present in great numbers in your nose and throat when you have a cold. They are carried on the droplets you expel when talking, coughing, or sneezing.

How do you catch a cold? Though a virus causes your cold, a number of conditions seem to increase your susceptibility (science does not yet know why or how.) People appear to catch colds mainly indoors. They get more of them during the colder months. Fatigue, chilling, and poor physical condition seem to give the virus a better foothold.

What's the course of a cold? From one to three days after the virus takes hold in your body, the symptoms appear. (But other people can catch your cold even before your symptoms appear—one reason why colds are hard to prevent.) The first hint is usually scratchiness in the throat. Within a few hours, your nose gets stuffy and you have vague feelings of discomfort and illness. Usually you start sneezing, too.

Within 48 hours, your cold is in full bloom—eyes teary, nose running, voice husky, breathing obstructed, and your sense of taste and smell dulled. You may feel lethargic and achy. It's common to have a moderate headache, especially at the beginning (but a severe one may be a sign of some complication.) You may also have some fever, although that's unusual in adults.

Once the cold has fully developed, it usually continues at its peak for several days. Then there is a gradual letting up. An uncomplicated cold commonly lasts from 7 to 14 days.

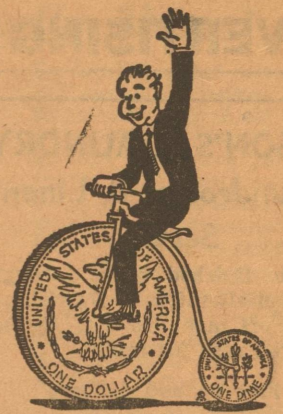

Can a cold be dangerous? In itself, no. But it can open the door to other illnesses. And it's hard to know when the door has opened, because all the viruses that cause the common cold have not yet been identified. It's very difficult to say where the simple, unperilous cold leaves off and complications, which may be dangerous, begin.

Other non-cold viruses may complicate matters by getting in their ticks when you are already felled by a cold. Or bacteria—many of which live in your body harmlessly during times of good health—may grow strong when your defenses are down. Or sometimes your body is allergic to the cold virus or the activated bacteria.

Then the severity of the cold symptoms increases, and the inflammation and mucous discharge may spread to other parts of your respiratory system. For some people, these complications may be dangerous.

Can you cure a cold? No, you can't. There is no drug known today that can cure the common cold. Antibiotics, the "wonder drugs," are effective against bacteria, not against ordinary respiratory viruses. Doctors may prescribe these drugs for the complications—the secondary, bacterial infections—but not for the cold itself.

Common Cause Cites Five Reforms Needed Randall Wood, legislative advocate for Common Cause of Texas, announced today that five reform measures to be introduced in the upcoming session of the Texas legislature will be supported by the state citizen's lobby.

The Texas membership of Common Cause has placed as its first priority the passage of legislation to open up the operations of state government to the people. We can now announce that legislation that will receive our support will be introduced in the House of Representatives," Wood said.

The bill to provide a tough ethics code will be sponsored by Representative Jim Nugent of Kerrville, Representatives-elect Larry Bales of Austin, and Ben Reyes of Houston. Lobby regulation and control bills will be sponsored by Rep. John Bigham of Temple, Representatives-elect Arthur Temple of Diboll, and George Preston of Paris.

The bill to provide for full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures will be sponsored by Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo and Representative-elect Chris Miller of Fort Worth. The bill to require open meetings of public bodies will be sponsored by Rep. Carl Parker of Beaumont and Representative-elect Gene Green of Houston.

Legislation to provide for public access to information will be sponsored by Rep. Lane Denton of Waco, Representatives-elect Hawkins Menefee of Houston, and Camm Lary of Burnet. Passage of this legislation advocated by Common Cause will lay the groundwork for other reforms. It is the belief of Common Cause membership that meaningful improvements in state legislatures cannot be achieved without reforms that open up the legislative process, the activities of public officials, and the operation of the entire system of state government to public scrutiny.

Abounding Grace

At the close of an old year and at the beginning of a new year we may fall prey to misgivings and discouragement, as to the state of the world. It is a question whether or not crime in America is increasing or decreasing. Unrighteousness and immorality are widespread. There is indifference and even hostility toward the Church and the truth of God. Paul speaks of an increase of sin in the book of Romans and we may well believe that this is so in our time.

In the face of such misgivings we may well center our thoughts on the promise of the gospel. In that same passage where Paul speaks of the increase of sin he speaks of grace abounding, all the more, "where sin increased, grace abounded all the more." (Romans 5: 20). Grace is God's favor. It is God's forgiveness in Christ. It is God's assistance in His Holy Spirit to enable us to overcome our sin and live worthy lives.

and apprehension. In the words of an old hymn it is "grace greater than our sin." "Marvelous grace of our loving Lord, Grace that exceeds our sin and our guilt, Yonder on Calvary's mount outpoured, There where the blood of the Lamb was spilt. Grace, grace, God's grace, Grace that will pardon and cleanse within; Grace, grace, God's grace, Grace that is greater than all our sin."

So at the opening of a new year let us take courage and hopefully begin a new life, based on the grace of God. Others have found this grace sufficient for triumphant living. Paul found it so even though he considered himself to be the chief of sinners. Peter found it so even though she had been possessed by seven devils. Even so may grace reign in our hearts through Jesus Christ, grace that is greater than all our sin. Today is the day of grace. "Will you this moment His grace receive?"

What Does "Totalled" Really Mean?

By Larry Schwartz

The approaching car suddenly went out of control. There was nothing you could do to avoid the impending crash. It was a real "smash up", as they say.

Your insurance company unhesitatingly declared the automobile a total loss. Adjustors said it would cost entirely too much for repairs. Finally, the wreck was towed to the junkyard.

Is this the ignoble end of your blue beauty with shiny vinyl top, the one car you truly loved? No — not really.

Before the battered frame is lifted by crane and dumped unfeelingly into hydraulic presses, a salvage team of mechanics will systematically strip the vehicle. Many basic components are thus saved for future use. Water pumps, fuel pumps, brake shoes, carburetor, clutch assembly, and the electrical parts, such as alternator, starter, generator, voltage regulator and distributor, can easily be remanufactured. And, surprisingly enough, remanufacturing of the components is performed in conformity with the original manufacturer's specifications.

Remanufactured automobile replacement parts are customarily recycled to large jobbers and warehouse distributors who in turn sell to the local garage and repair shop. Finally, these remanufactured parts once more resume the functions for which they were designed and first installed in new factory built cars.

Today, the remanufacturing of automotive parts is an industry that's growing larger every year, with present manufacturing revenues exceeding $500 million. Safeguard Automotive Corporation, headquartered at King of Prussia, Pennsylvania, is one of the leaders in the industry. The company remanufactures and recycles more than 25 million pounds of automotive parts annually.

What about recycled parts? Are they good as new? Can a car owner feel confident in them when his mechanic suggests remanufactured units? Or, should the owner purchase brand new unused parts at considerably more money?

According to Paul A. Lloyd, Safeguard Automotive president, the "best buy", in his opinion, would be remanufactured parts.

"For one thing, a remanufactured unit certainly costs much less and at no sacrifice in quality. Our engineers have developed special machines for testing quality of Safeguard's remanufactured parts. For example, compressed air is used to test remanufactured water pumps for water-tight integrity. We know that if our remanufactured water pump will hold air, it certainly will hold water."

Generally speaking, this same quality control manufacturing process is applied to all other recycled parts produced at any one of Safeguard's several modern plants across the country.

"Take auto break shoes, for example," Mr. Lloyd said. "We manufacture new linings for old shoes. There is nothing wrong with the old shoes that a good cleaning won't cure.

It's the lining that wears out and needs to be replaced. Why throw away a good old shoe? Why not take advantage of the fact that it's a perfectly usable part? Save and conserve, in essence, is the whole premise of the remanufactured automobile parts industry."

As the country's population rate continues to grow, so does the demand for automobiles. In 1971, total nationwide motor vehicle registration reached a whopping 110 million units. Based on these figures, the automobile replacement parts market might be considered huge. And, a sizable portion of this market is serviced with remanufactured, recycled parts.

Mr. Lloyd believes that the family auto becomes a candidate for replacement parts after its second year on the road. The average age of most automobiles on U.S. highways today is approximately five and one-half years. Cars grow older, parts wear out, hence the steady demand for both new and remanufactured replacements.

"In our business, we not only offer car owners less expensive, high quality replacement parts, we are also involved in the country's environmental clean-up campaign," Mr. Lloyd said. "It is our long-term aim to help eliminate those unsightly auto junkyards that continue to blot the landscape."

So, take a second look at the next car you see coming down the street. It just might be operating on those recycled parts Safeguard salvaged from the blue beauty with the shiny vinyl top.

Education Week On Smoking Is Now On

Mrs. Kaye Peterson and Dr. J. B. Brame, Big Country Area board members from Schleicher county, announced that January 7-13 has been declared National Education week on Smoking. Volunteers of the Christmas Seal Agency have been preparing new smoking games for mailing during this week. The goal is to place a smoking game into every fifth grade classroom in the 32 county Big Country Area. Developed by the State Department of Health, the game is designed to help students establish values which will guide their decisions on whether or not to smoke. For information and tips on how to quit smoking, contact your area Christmas Seal agency, P.O. Box 1022, San Angelo, Texas 76901.

All the major health, youth and medical agencies, including the Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association are sponsors of this week. These groups are part of the National Intergency Council on Smoking and Health and they have distilled the experience of 29 million Americans who have successfully given up cigarette smoking. Here are the five things they propose to help you quit: smoke less, choose a lower tar and nicotine cigarette, respect the right of non-smokers, help young people not to start smoking, and find your own way to quit. Each day of the week will be devoted to a distinct target area of activity.

GRANDFATHER'S EYES

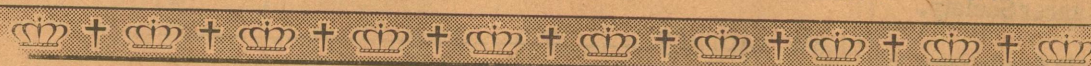

That's what Grandma always says — that I have Grandfather's eyes. It's certainly a mixed-up world, isn't it? People having other people's eyes. But they never say Grandfather has my eyes. I asked Dad about it. Although he didn't answer directly, he did say that we all have to have faith and character worth passing on to our children. That's why we go to church. Later it occurred to me: Someday, somebody will have my eyes... my faith.
