Horse Sale To Benefit West Texas Boys Ranch

Bill Shaw, 1973 West Texas Boys Ranch Roundup Chairman, has announced that a special horse sale will be held in Brady at Brady Livestock Commission Company, on Thursday, August 2, to benefit West Texas Boys Ranch.

Miers Johnson has said that all horses consigned for sale with proceed to go to West Texas Boys Ranch will be sold without Commission charges. Shaw has requested that anyone who has any horse that can be hauled, ridden, or walked to the sale that you would like to donate to the Ranch, be donated at this time. If you would like a horse picked up ahead of time, you may call Benny Friend at West Texas Boys Ranch, 949-1936. Shaw said the special horse sale is a new feature of Roundup this year and urges everyone who wants to get rid of a horse to consider donating it to West Texas Boys Ranch. Such gifts are tax deductible and are badly needed now.

Horses, mules, and colts donated to West Texas Boys Ranch will be sold at the auction right after the regular sale of tack and before the regular Thursday horse sale gets under way. Johnson said that this way the buyers will be present and the horses donated will bring more money for the Ranch.

Willard Jordan, champion auctioneer, will handle the selling of the donated horses. Anyone wishing more information can contact either Bill Shaw or the West Texas Boys Ranch office.

Consumer Cleaning Guide

This handy guide provides solutions to common everyday cleaning problems we all run into from time-to-time.

You can remove some rust spots with a typewriter eraser... Before starting a dirty job in the house, wrap a sheet of paper toweling around the telephone receiver and secure it with a rubber band. That way, if the phone rings while you are working, you can answer it with dirty hands and keep the receiver clean, too.

During the summer months, keep clear plastic wrap over hot air registers. This keeps dirt off ducts and filters... When painting, cover door-knobs with plastic wrap. It will save cleaning off spatters later.

To clean window and door screens, go over them with a wire brush in all directions and on both sides. Then go over them again with a vacuum cleaner attachment to pick up loose bits of dirt.

Bathroom Cleaning Made Easy

For bathroom cleaning jobs, never use steel wool scouring pads or abrasive powder cleaners as they dull and mar finishes. A non-abrasive foam cleaner works best and can be used on fiber glass, porcelain, chrome and other fixtures. The chemical action of the foam lifts soil and soap scum easily without surface damage. Auto polish may be used to remove scratches on plastic surfaces.

A newly formulated lemon-scented cleaner, which disinfects as it cleans, was developed by Dow Chemical research. It prevents the growth of staph, strep, mold and mildew.

... And Still Ideas

When using oil paint, soak a new paint brush in linseed oil before using. It will be easier to clean after painting... Empty tennis ball cans are excellent for cleaning paint rollers. They're just the right size.

Pick up lint and thread from rugs by brushing with an old toothbrush. Use lemon-scented aerosol spray oven cleaner to clean outdoor barbecue grills quickly and easily... Soap pads last longer if they are used dry.

Tack or staple a small sponge to a yardstick. It can be used for cleaning under and behind large appliances and furniture without moving the object... Wax a dustpan and dirt will slide off much easier.

Coffee spills usually clean up nicely if you blot up the excess liquid and rub the spot with a solution of detergent, vinegar and water...

To clean chewing gum from fabric, first harden the gum with an ice cube. Then scrape it off with blunt knife.

Program Review Schleicher County

Soils of Schleicher county was the subject recently of a review by two soil scientists of the Soil Conservation Service, Bill Rountree, District Conservationist of the SCS, announced. They will look at every soil type in the county as they check progress of the soil survey that has been going on here since July 1, 1972.

C. L. Girdner, Field Specialist Soils, SCS, Austin, Texas, and Clarence Wiedenfeld, area Soil Scientist, San Angelo, made the review.

Each soil type fits into a natural classification scheme, Rountree said adding, "and the group examined the surveys that had already been made to see that all soil types fit this grouping. Actually this survey was a part of the cooperative soil survey going on all over the nation. When completed it will give a complete picture of the nation's soil resources."

Actual experiences of farmers on the different kinds of soils are included in the final information that is assembled from the survey.

When Schleicher County was organized into a soil conservation district in 1941, soil surveys were made on individual farms and ranches as they became cooperators with the district. Since that time some 500,000 acres have been surveyed.

Every farm on which a soil conservation plan is made is first surveyed to learn the kind of soil, the degree of slope, and the amount of erosion that has occurred. This, and other information, is used by the farmer and the technician as the basis for the final conservation plan.

Plans of this kind take into consideration all that can be learned about a soil in order that the farmer or rancher can make the best use of each part of his operating unit. How deep the soil is, how well drained, how tight or crumbly, the steepness of the slope, and many other characteristics of soils are of vital importance in using the land so that it can withstand wind and water erosion and stay productive for all time.

The reviewing party was only in the county for one day. Because of the need to cover the county as quickly and with as little lost time as possible, they did not spend time talking to land owners.

"They did not intend to purposely pass up a visit with the owners but tried to save time and make the review as efficiently as possible," Bill said. But any producer who has any questions about his soils should not hesitate to contact SCS technicians assisting the Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation District.

TO CONDUCT SERVICE SUNDAY

The service this Sunday afternoon, July 22nd, at the Nursing Home will be under direction of the First Presbyterian Church, of which Gordon Garlington is pastor.

Kate Adele Hill's New Book Cites Founder of Harlingen Area

For Texas, the leap into the 20th century was characterized by tumult, change and rapid growth. Men of exceptional vision and energy led Texas during this era, and one of the most influential was Lon C. Hill, the founder of Harlingen. He saw the soil—and imagined acres of fertile crops; he gazed upon the gulf—and dreamed of a harbor teeming with ships; he perceived the role of the railroad in an area's economic growth, and was largely responsible for the line which ran through South Texas.

LON C. HILL, 1862-1935, LOWER RIO GRANDE VALLEY PIONEER, published by The Naylor Company of San Antonio, Texas, is the story of this man's achievements. The experiences of this colorful pioneer have been portrayed by Kate Adele Hill, Ph. D., a fourth-generation Texan of San Angelo, Texas. Dr. Hill is a native of Texas. She spent her youth on ranches over the state, including one in Schleicher county.

Born in Travis county, Lon H. Hill was raised on a plantation and educated at home and in a one-room schoolhouse. At the age of 29, upon obtaining law degrees from the universities of Texas and Virginia, he established a prominent practice in Beeville. Eight years later, he and his family moved to Brownsville, where they remained until 1903, when rumors of a typhoid epidemic prompted a move to the country.

The undeveloped land which Hill cleared became the townsite of what is now Harlingen. In order to irrigate the rich soil, a principal source of the community income, he organized the Harlingen Land and Water Company and designed an extensive system of irrigation canals. Furthermore, he helped frame the state law establishing the Cameron County Irrigation District.

As the state was swept up with the nation's rapid industrialization, Hill felt that transportation by sea was essential. Hence, he planned the intracoastal canal system linking Harlingen with the Gulf at Port Isabel.

Transportation by rail was at an all-time peak, as industries shipped their goods all over the country. So that Harlingen would be included in nationwide commercial activities, Hill helped raise the money to bring a branch of the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexican Railway into the Valley.

Succeeding generations of the Lon C. Hill family have also been noted participants in civic, state and national affairs. His son, Lon C. Hill, Jr., was lauded in the Congress of the United States on March 14, 1970, as proponent of the International Falcon Dam on the Rio Grande River.

The author, the great-niece of Lon C. Hill, is equally prestigious. She spent her youth on Texas ranches, and earned undergraduate and doctorate degrees in home economics and sociology from Texas Woman's University, and a master's degree in agricultural economics and sociology from Texas Technological College. For 30 years, she was employed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Listed in Who's Who in Texas, Who's Who Among American Women and Who's Who in the Southwest, she holds membership in many state and national civic and professional organizations. In 1962 she was named Distinguished Woman of Texas by the TWU Alumnae Association. She has previously published three other books. She now makes her home at the Cactus Hotel in San Angelo, Texas.

school revenue problems, the Legislative Property Tax Committee may be asked to bring in expert witnesses to discuss taxing of intangible property like bank accounts, stocks and bonds.

Pollution Plan Aired
Texas Air Control Board held a series of news conferences in five metropolitan areas to air information on the federal government's plan to impose transportation controls.

The Board was told by its executive secretary proposed anti-pollution controls are unreasonable and would cost Texans $500 million for auto emission controls that affect only 1% of the pollution problem. The Board balked on a staff motion to test in court federal power to control auto pollution in the state.
Meanwhile, the federal Environmental Protection Agency scheduled July 17-19 public hearings in Texas to get reaction. Controls would go into effect August 15, involving gas supply, parking, car pools, anti-pollution devices and special road lanes for buses.

Short Snorts . . .
House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. directed his Human Resources Committee to conduct a full investigation of all child care, education and child guidance facilities. State Welfare Board gave unlicensed child-care facilities notice of a new law requiring them to get licensed or face fines and possible jail terms.

Texas Animal Health Commission slapped fever tick quarantines on portions of Maverick, Dimmit, Zavala and Webb counties, including Governor Briscoe's big Catarina Ranch.
Texas Daily Newspaper Association will be briefed on work of the Constitutional Revision Commission at Lakeway in Austin July 26. Texas Press Association and Texas Association of Broadcasters will be briefed on Friday, July 27. A full Commission meeting will be held July 27-28-29.

It's nice to see a headline about a good kid—because that's what most of them are.

Of course, his parents worry about him. That's one of the reasons he is a good kid. He's had plenty of opportunity to learn how much they love him . . . how much they care.

They have given him many things, some at considerable sacrifice to themselves. Fortunately, though, their giving didn't end with material gifts.

They have given him ideals . . . standards . . . principles. These are the intangible treasures that you aren't likely to acquire if you didn't find them at home.

And they have given him a faith. It was their faith first. At home and in church they shared it with him. Out of it the ideals and standards and principles naturally grew.

Yes. He's a good kid—due to the Lord.
