Pipe Will Be Used To Replace Old Shell Line

SHOWN ABOVE, stored on Derl Griffin's lot in the north part of town, is a new pipe belonging to Phillips who plan to replace some nine miles of line in this county. According to John Edward Meador of C. C. Lease, Phillips is planning to replace part of the old 10-inch Shell pipe line which was laid down in 1928. When Phillips is ready to go to work, they will probably send in their own construction crew.

Girl Scout Event Held In Mason

The Eldorado Girl Scouts and Brownies were in Mason over the week end attending the Camporee held at Camp Gene Ashby 10 miles south of Mason.

The activities set up for Brownies consisted of relays and other games of their own. The older girls Junior Scouts participated in fire building, cooking, and the noon meal. Then after lunch the girls were divided into patrols to participate in the "Wide Game" that was based on outdoor skills such as knot tying, fire laying, use of compass, knowledge of trail signs, use of knife and simple carving, camp hiking, songs, first aid, and nature identification.

Saturday evening was filled with a campfire with girls singing and putting on skits and receiving awards. The Eldorado Girl Scouts put on the flag ceremony on Sunday morning which was then followed by breakfast and a "Scout Own" after which the troops were dismissed to go back to their home towns.

Brownie Troop 50 also attended the Mason Camporee on Saturday and returned to Eldorado that night. Those girls attending were Lori Patton, Linda Gentry, Sue Ann Buchner, Patricia Trimble, Shelly Squvres, and their leaders Mrs. Kay Patton and Mrs. Lola Squvres. Mrs. Kay Patton spent the night and returned with the girls in Troop 25 on Sunday morning.

Junior Troop 225 attended the camporee in Mason over April 27-29. Girls attending from that troop were Kara Homer, Jeanie Redwine, and Betty Barajas, Mrs. Karen Homer, assistant leader; and Mrs. Jeanette Kreie. Sandra Kreie and Judy Reynolds also helped with these girls. The troop took first place in cooking and got the Top Cook Award.

Junior Troop 216 also attended the Mason camporee. Girls making the trip were Sigrid Head, Lori Griffin, Laura Gentry, Jolynn Jay, Gwendolyn Gunstead, Libby Stark, Brenda Hastings, and Judith Hernandez. They were accompanied on the trip by their leader, Mrs. Charlene Gunstead, and Mrs. Barbara Rieken.

Junior Troop 25 also attended the camporee in Mason. Those girls attending were Debbie Patton, Cindy Holsey, Angela Fay and Joan Lozano, and the assistant leader, Mrs. Lavonne Holsey.

Eaglettes Win Regional Track

The Eldorado Eaglettes scored 79½ points to win Region II championship honors. Ten of the 11 girls that made the trip to regional contributed points to the win. Wally Joiner placed in five events at Abilene while Debbie Page scored in three. Placing in two events were Rosellen Maness, Kathy Page, and Carolyn Page. Teresa Scott, Irene Garcia, Terri Garlitz, Charlene Warnock, and Sharon Garlitz each placed in one event.

Not only did the Eaglettes win the meet but they set two new records in the process. The 440 relay team (Debbie Page, Carolyn Page, Wally Joiner, and Kathy Page) ran a 49.5 to better the old record of 50.5 by one second. The 880 relay team (Teresa Scott, Carolyn Page, Rosellen Maness, and Kathy Page) erased the old mark of 1:47.5 with a new record time of 1:46.8.

The mile relay squad also won this event in a time of 4:10.3. Squad members include Debbie Page, Wally Joiner, Irene Garcia, and Rosellen Maness. Since all three relay teams won 1st in regional the members have qualified to run in the State Meet in Austin's Memorial Stadium on May 11th and 12th.

Terri Garlitz just missed a trip to state as a freshman when she placed third in the shot put. Charlene Warnock was only two places away from Austin when she finished 4th in the 880 yard run. Sharon Garlitz also added points to the Eldorado cause with a sixth place tie in the high jump.

Wally Joiner's best performances of the year in the broad jump (16'), triple jump (33'), and 220 dash (26.6) were not quite good enough to earn the chance to participate in these events at state. However Wally will run on the 440 and mile relay teams in Austin.

Debbie Page also turned in her best performance of the year in the 60 yard dash (7.4) to place fifth in the finals.

It was a good team effort that won regional and sent three relay teams to Austin.

Mrs. Ray Smith Dies

Services for Mrs. Ray (Eula Estes) Smith, 75, of San Angelo, were held at 2:30 Thursday in the local cemetery. Mrs. Smith died Wednesday morning in the Clinic-Hospital in San Angelo.

The Consumer Alert

by Attorney General John L. Hill

Austin, Tex.—A desire for relief from the 8-to-5 treadmill and the humdrum of daily life, heightened by a nationwide fear of population explosion, is causing many Texans to join the "Great American Land Rush."

Aware that most of us inherited our pioneer ancestors' dream of a plot of land to call our own, where the grass is greener and the air is sweeter, many legitimate developers have had the vision to prepare places where those dreams can be purchased with a down payment. Texas can be proud of the many fine developers in this state who are providing for the increased recreational needs of our citizens with real quality developments tailored to fit a variety of desires and pocketbooks.

But there also are unscrupulous speculators who are advertising the stuff dreams are made of, without any intention of backing up their claims.

They flood the mails, and tie up telephone lines, and some disappointed consumers have registered complaints about them with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

One abuse which has caused this office to take action is the "free vacation" gimmick in which prospects were offered free "vacations" in return for visiting a project, but later discovered that they had to travel at their own expense, buy their own meals, and had nothing to see but a bare lot.

That comes under the heading of false and misleading advertising and some speculators have been obliged through court-approved voluntary compliance agreements to stop that practice.

Recently, my staff gained a permanent injunction against one entrepreneur who attempted to lure people to a lake "development" by the use of highly deceptive advertising. The developer was ordered by the district court to cease making these fraudulent claims.

Too often, consumers do not complain—because they do not know they can, or they are ashamed to admit they took the bait.

Did you ever receive one of those mailings which include a $500 "check," advising you that if you bring the "check" with you, it will reduce the lot price by that amount?

It is not uncommon for valid developers to sell their first lots at a lower price, so they can acquire more capital for improvements. But no sensible businessman is going to mark his property down to less than it is worth, and buyers who carry the $500 "check" can find out too late that the property was worth $500 less than the advertised amount all along.

Many of the schemes we hear about are located out of state, but sold by mass advertising, and too often, the paying customer does not find out how he has been bilked until he finds the time for an on-site visit. Then, it is too late.

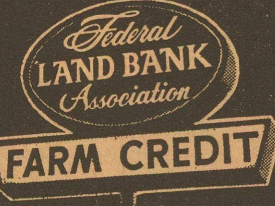

The Texas Real Estate Commission advises prospective land buyers always to check out the developer's claims carefully; talk with long-time residents in the area; make an on-site inspection, and—before you sign anything, show the contract to your attorney.

It's good to have a dream. It's even better to make your dream come true. But be as certain as you can that it is a dream—not a nightmare.

Doctor Shortage Affects Texas

By U. S. Senator John Tower

One of the great paradoxes of our day is the ever-increasing critical shortage of health manpower in the midst of the most affluent society in history. The simple fact is that there are not enough physicians, dentists or optometrists to meet our country's demand for health care. It is conservatively estimated that there currently is a shortage of 48,000 physicians, 20,000 dentists and over 10,000 optometrists nationwide.

This shortage is especially felt in hard-pressed rural and urban-core areas, including many Texas counties, which do not normally attract medical personnel. For this reason I have introduced a bill in the Senate to provide a special tax incentive for health professionals to locate in these doctor-short regions.

Congress passed the Comprehensive Health Manpower Training Act some 18 months ago. This legislation was designed to increase the number of health professionals, and to develop more efficient methods of utilizing their services. While this program has helped to increase the number of health professionals, it has done little to alleviate the great disparity in the geographic distribution of health manpower. While the nation as a whole still has a shortage, some areas such as rural and urban low-income areas often have few, if any, health personnel to provide essential services.

A good example of shortages in rural areas is found in a recent study in the eight-county region surrounding San Angelo. The study found that this area of Texas, which is larger in size than the states of Massachusetts and Connecticut combined, has only 83 doctors of all kinds, with 76 of them located in the single county of Tom Green. There were no doctors at all in Concho or Irion County which have a combined population of nearly 4,000. The report states further that the isolated locations of many of the smaller towns in West Texas mean that too many people lack convenient access to the services of physicians.

This is typical of many rural areas across the nation. Although the nationwide physician-population ratio is improving, the number of physicians serving rural areas has declined six times faster than the population has decreased in those areas. There still are 134 counties in the United States without a practicing physician, and unfortunately, 24 of these counties are located in Texas. The latest census figures for those counties show a total population of 56,753. In addition, there are 148 counties in Texas that have been designated as physician-shortage areas. Of this latter group, 95 are low-income rural counties. But such urban counties as Hidalgo, the ninth largest in the state, also suffer a shortage.

The need of these communities for dentists and optometrists in order to provide essential health care is just as great in many instances. For example, fewer than half the people in the country have dental exams or treatment in any given year. The present ratio of dentist to population, one to 2,100, is less favorable than it was 15 years ago. Generally, urban centers have a lower ratio than do rural areas. But there are shortages, too, in some of the more congested regions.

In Texas alone, there are 42 counties which do not have the services of even one dentist. The total population of these counties exceeds 150,000 persons. There are 90 Texas counties in which the dentist population ratio is almost double the national average.

The nation's need for adequate vision care is just as acute as these for medical and dental care. A recent study found that nearly all school children who fail the first and second grades do so because of reading difficulties, mostly associated with impaired vision. Most of the 700,000 students who drop out of school each year are two or three years behind their age group in reading skills.

While the entire nation has a shortage of optometrists and other vision care specialists, the geographic distribution is even more acute in some regions. In Texas, there are over 65 counties that have no optometrists, and another 165 where shortages exist.

Thus we find shortages in all three of these crucial medical care fields. The legislation which I have introduced in the Senate is specifically designed to attract medical personnel to these shortage areas. Briefly, the bill proposes that the first $20,000 of the adjusted gross income from sources of their medical practice be tax-exempt for the first taxable year of practice in a recognized shortage area. The incentive would continue for five years on a downward sliding scale. This bill further requires that the health professional practice at least two years in the shortage area.

Fad Diets Should Be Avoided

Despite the rich bounty provided to us by the land, Texas and the nation are described as nutritional illiterates.

Nutrition is a relatively new science. For this reason there is room for misunderstanding, and even intentional misrepresentation. Although much malnutrition is the result of poverty, a full pocket doesn't mean a nourished body, says the State Health Department.

Focus on the high price of meat has made Texans more aware of their eating habits. But one group of individuals—the food faddists—are willing to pay through the nose (and sometimes through their health) for items no better than those offered in supermarkets.

Like hobbysox, beeboppers, and pointed toed shoes, ponytails and rock 'n roll, fads come and go. But for some the memory may linger on since food fads can affect health and quality of living for a long time.

A big fad at the moment is the weight reduction kick, which is tied in by food faddists with better health and some particular foodstuff which they say can cure all the ills of the believers. Some reducing diets, when followed too long, can lead to permanent health problems.

Nutritionists say there is no one particular cure-all food, and they have scientific proof. Faddists, on the other hand, push hundreds of different contradictory food systems, including the current "organic" food theory.

Dr. Linus Pauling advocated great amounts of Vitamin C to prevent the common cold. Research has failed to substantiate his claim.

The State Health Department says you can get all the required nutrients, including Vitamins C and E, through a wise selection of foods. Selecting foods properly will also insure efficient utilization of the food dollar—something that can shrink rapidly in today's supermarkets. Supplements generally are expensive and unnecessary, unless prescribed by a physician.

The Nutrition Services Division of the State Health Department says the basic food groups still are the best guide for the average person who needs strength and vitality to meet each day's challenges. These are divided into the milk group, meat and alternate protein group, fruits and vegetables group, and the bread and cereal group. While giving you sufficient energy, these groups also supply the trace elements of minerals which your body needs.

If these basic food groups remain unscientifically challenged, why do people succumb to faddism?

Nutritional quackery appeals to desperate people who want to believe in the impossible and the incredible. In the case of weight-reducers, they want to believe in something simple and easy, in a cure-all calling for no effort on their parts. Traditional calorie counting is too slow, too limiting for their appetites. People with illnesses want a miracle to help them.

"Compared to the exotic nutritional advice, which borders on the occult or is rendered with spiritual fervor, normal everyday nutritional education lacks pizzazz," writes an Ohio State nutritionist. "That is why the voices of the home economists—the dietitian—the nutritionist—food technologist—are not heard when they contradict the often untrue and sensational health claims being made by those who so avidly degrade the American food supply."

Crop Reports From Farmers Needed

During the last half of May, some 24,000 Texas farmers will receive a crop acreage questionnaire from Charles E. Caudill, Agricultural Statistician-in-Charge of the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Austin, Texas.

This information will be the basis for determining the planted acreage for the State of Texas and for each county. There are 254 counties in Texas, and reports are needed from many farmers so that each county will be well represented. Accurate estimates are of great importance to farmers in planning production and marketings and in providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture.

The Texas Legislature has provided a program of estimates for each county. Texas covers such a wide area that state totals alone do not provide adequate information on Texas' most basic industry: agriculture. This is a cooperative effort of USDA's Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Aphids Come With Spring

Fruit and vegetable growers and home gardeners should be especially watchful now for aphids. The small sucking insects enjoy warm days, cool nights and juicy new plant growth. Sometimes called plant lice, aphids come in a variety of colors and attack almost every kind of plant. Aphids often go undetected until they have started causing extensive damage. They are difficult to see because they are small, don't move around unless disturbed, and are often the same color as the plant part they are feeding on. Their presence can be detected by honeydew, a sweet, sticky substance they secrete. The honey dew attracts fungi, molds and insects and also makes the mowing and baling of aphid-infested alfalfa difficult.

In mid-summer, pecans, American elms, boxelders and globe willows infested with aphids will rain little drops of honeydew. Numerous black and orange lady beetle larvae also indicate the presence of aphids. Aphids usually feed on the undersides of leaves or in unfolding shoots. Their feeding may cause the leaves to curl around them. Aphids can be effectively controlled by several insecticides. These include dimethoate (Cygon), Meta-Systox-R, diazinon, malathion, naled (Dibrom), lindane and phosphamidon as sprays and disulfoton (Di-Syston) and phorate (Thimet) applied to the soil. Make sure the chemical is registered for use on the particular crop or plants that are infested. And use only the recommended amount. Overdoses are expensive and can damage the crop or result in excess residues at harvest. When using an insecticide, always read the label first. This is especially critical where food crops and home use are concerned.

Wins Recognition At Baylor University

KATHY ROBINSON

Waco, Tex.—A Baylor University coed from Eldorado, Kathy Robinson, was one of about 100 women receiving special recognition during recent Women's Day activities on the Baylor campus.

Miss Robinson was one of 20 Baylor coeds named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. A total of 36 young men and women from the 7,500-member Baylor student body received the Who's Who designation.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Robinson, Miss Robinson was cited during an awards banquet that highlighted the special day of activities.

Awards were presented to the women students, faculty and staff members for their scholarship, leadership and service achievements.

Sponsored annually by Baylor's Laurel Chapter of Mortar Board, Women's Day is an attempt to recognize the achievements of outstanding women at Baylor and also to place emphasis on the role of women in society.

Miss Robinson is a member of Mortar Board, the national honorary organization for outstanding senior women.

Woman's Day this year featured an address and seminar by Judge Lisa Richette. Mrs. Richette, a juvenile authority, is judge of Philadelphia's Court of Common Pleas and author of "The Throwaway Children," a book based on her experience in juvenile court.

Mrs. Richette, in a campus-wide address, said the best movements for women's rights, counter culture, educational reform and better juvenile treatment are trying to improve the quality of life in America.

"The women's rights movement should be about personhood," she said. "You don't gain your rights by denying someone else's rights."

Miss Robinson, a 1969 graduate of Schleicher County High School, is a senior oral communication and English major at the Baptist university.

Recognized for her outstanding leadership, academic achievement and character, Miss Robinson was selected for the honor by the student-faculty committee from students nominated by members of each class or school represented.

Mrs. Virginia Crump, associate dean of students and chairman of the Who's Who selection committee, said:

Final approval of Miss Robinson and the other Baylor honorees was made by the national Who's Who office in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Her name will appear with those of her fellow students in the 1972-73 edition of the national listing of America's most outstanding campus leaders from more than 1,000 institutions of higher learning.

Named to the Dean's Distinguished List for superior academic performance, Miss Robinson is a member of Alpha Chi, national honorary scholarship fraternity, and Alpha Lambda Delta, national freshman women's honorary scholastic society.

Miss Robinson also is a member of Zeta Phi Eta, professional organization for women in the field of speech; Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity; and Kappa Theta, a women's social club at Baylor.

She is immediate past secretary of the Baylor student body, and has served as elections chairman of the Student Congress. She was a delegate to Baylor's Leakey Leadership Laboratory for outstanding students.

Miss Robinson has participated in religious activities at Baylor, serving on the Baptist Student Union Publicity Committee, as an invincible summer missionary and as a Sunbeam leader and choir member at her church.

She also has been a member of the Baylor A Cappella Choir, traveling to Israel to perform at Christmas.

Miss Robinson is to receive a bachelor of arts degree during Baylor's spring commencement exercises next month on the Waco campus.

Saffron, The Most Expensive Spice

What spice sells for roughly $391.68 per pound? It's saffron. The world's most expensive spice comes from Spain, and fortunately a tiny bit goes a long way.

Available in some grocery and specialty stores, it's usually sold as a little packet inside a bottle. The 1/16 ounce size generally sells for about $1.53. In contrast, other spices are packaged and sold in weights and 1/2 to 1 1/4 ounces. Saffron is expensive because it comes from the stigma of a crocus-like flower. Each flower has three tiny, delicate orange-yellow stigma filaments. These stigmas must be picked by hand, requiring 224,000 to make a pound of saffron.

Definitely a special occasion spice saffron's flavor is unique, softly bitter yet delightful. In addition, it adds distinctive, appetizing yellow color to foods. Some cooks use it in various kinds of baking, especially rice, chicken and fish. For a delectable-flavored, yellow rice, boil a pinch of saffron in water for a minute. Then add rice and cook as desired.

Do-it-Yourself Decorating Projects

Do-it-yourself projects, satisfying yet economical, are valuable decorating aids. One of the greatest rewards is feeling pride and satisfaction from creating an attractive, useful object. Projects include everything from refinishing old furniture to constructing original items from common materials. The following are examples of such projects. Instead of purchasing a new desk, buy a used one and "antique" it. Or make a desk using low filing cabinets and plywood. Cut a piece of plywood the desired size, paint it and the cabinets. Then place plywood atop cabinets, leaving enough room for a knee-hole. Adhesive-backed, plastic-coated paper features a wide variety of colors and designs while offering an alternative to paint.

As for bedroom furnishings, "do-it-yourselfers" find constructing headboards easy. Simply cut plywood the size needed and cover with fabric. Fasten covered board to wall behind the bed. Another possibility is a fabric backdrop—either fashioned like draperies or hung full width of the bed. Hang backdrop from a decorative drapery rod or pole for an attractive headboard substitute. Addition do-it-yourself projects include creating and hanging pictures. For these make an attractive background from a large piece of lightweight construction board. One board provides enough room for one large or several small prints. Paint the board or cover it with fabric. Mount picture or pictures, and frame with ordinary moulding—mitering corners for best effects.

Handy Reminders

Most people need some system to remind them when to do things. Systems vary from one person to another. Bulletin boards, calendars, files, diaries and date books are popular. Note pads and pencils near telephones, in the kitchen and other "date or idea places" also call 2459.

help. Bulletin boards—seen around many homes—provide space for daily reminders and occasional or special events. After the event is over, remove the reminder from the board to avoid clutter.

Calendars—either large or small—also are useful tools. Simply circling dates reminds some people of coming events. Larger, more convenient calendars have enough space for special events.

In addition, diaries and date books are available, in sizes ranging from desk-size to purse-size. Another possibility to help keep track of upcoming events is a file. All appointments, reminders, etc., are recorded on cards and filed by month. Just before the first of each month, the cards are pulled and information transferred to a monthly calendar or bulletin board for easy reference. Cards with recurring dates are refilled. File cards also serve as gift suggestion cards. When a person expresses a desire, it's noted on his file card as a possible gift. Each individual should use the method that comes most naturally. It will work best for him.

Keeping The FAITH

"And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him."

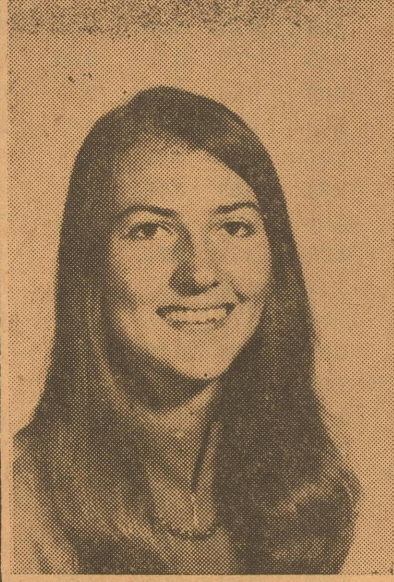

St. Matthew 5:1

The Sermon on the Mount is the acknowledged statement of the ideal Christian life. However, when studied, there may well be a lack of understanding as to exactly what our Lord set down as the proper way of life. For example, are the beatitudes to be taken literally? When the Lord said: "Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven," did he mean renunciation of material wealth? It should be noted that a strange tradition of parting with one's possessions has frequently been thought of as the mark of Christianity. Is this part of the meaning of that beatitude?

An Australian minister, the Rev. R. H. Teed, who has spent over 60 years in the ministry, has written a detailed explanation of the sometimes puzzling Sermon on the Mount. In clear language which is easy to understand, Mr. Teed unfolds the lessons which have so much meaning for modern man. Famous phrases such as "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" are explained in their fullest meaning. That statement along with "judge not lest ye be judged" needs careful study in light of the context. Too many of us read without recognizing the depth of meaning in passages. To fully understand what the Lord meant by those phrases which occur in the same sermon, we need to know the underlying truth.

In his 89 page book SERMON ON THE MOUNT, Rev. Teed makes the limitless truths easy to comprehend. In a world torn by wars, social upheaval, and industrialization, this little book can be a profound source of strength—a "light in darkness." SERMON ON THE MOUNT is available for only $1.00 (postpaid) at the Swedenborg Foundation, Dept. SM, 139 East 23rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10010

Where the Deer and the Antelope Play

I should have known everything would be all right when I took Bob home to the ranch during spring break. One of the nicest things about our falling in love has been finding that we agree about almost everything under the sun.

Bob won Mom's heart the minute we got there. Laurie, my little sister, asked, "Come see my bird's nest?" "Sure," Bob said, and away they went. Mom beamed. She thinks anyone who likes children and birds is all right.

Later, Bob played basketball with my brothers and tinkered with the tractor, getting black and greasy right along with Dad. Everybody loved him.

Sunday we all went to church. Standing there, singing with Bob, my family close by, I thanked God for His goodness.

I'm glad that God and His Church have been an important part of my life and of Bob's. Our life together will be enriched by this shared reverence.

Your church offers joyous fellowship. Why don't you go—and take your family with you?
