SAFETY SENSE

Beautiful Advice
For a lawn and garden that are beautifully kept, many people are discovering the convenience power of a power edger. The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute has the following safety suggestions for using it.

- Carefully read the owner's manual and any tags that are attached before using the machine. Make sure you're familiar with all the controls and can turn it on and off with ease.
 - Never allow any children or pets within your working area.
 - Before attempting to touch any moving part, shut off the motor and disconnect the spark plug.
 - Always keep all shields and safety devices in place.
 - Never start the machine in a garage or closed place, as carbon monoxide fumes are emitted.
 - Never allow children to operate the edger.
- Follow these rules and you'll be edging your way to lawn and garden beauty—and safety!

FEA Must Go

WASHINGTON—One of the more cynical—but regrettably more accurate—maxims of politics is that there is no such thing as a “temporary” government agency. The National Commission on the Standardization of Screw Threads, for example, was established in 1919 for a three-year study. Though modified, it is with us yet today.

The latest and perhaps the most lamentable example of the permanence of “temporary” government agencies is the Federal Energy Administration (FEA). Only a gleam in a bureaucrat's eye two years ago, FEA has since mushroomed into an agency of 3,400 employees with an annual budget of $142 million. Like the National Commission on the Standardization of Screw Threads, it seems destined to long outlive the purpose for which it was created.

The FEA was created in early 1974 as an emergency means to deal with the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74. FEA was to develop and implement a program of controls to carry the U.S. through the embargo crisis and put us back on the road to energy self-sufficiency.

The oil embargo which spawned its creation is now over, but there are no signs of retrenchment at FEA. A bill presently before Congress would extend the life of this “temporary” agency for three more years, and nearly triple its budget.

It is difficult to find any justification for the continued existence—much less the expansion—of the FEA. When the Arab oil embargo struck, Americans were dependent upon foreign sources for nearly 40 percent of their energy. Today, after two vigorous years of FEA activity, we must import more than half of all the oil and natural gas we use.

FEA's chief contribution during this period seems to have been “Energy Ant,” a cartoon character that has provided passing amusement to third-graders across the country.

Aside from the third graders, FEA is most popular with lawyers who have mastered its 700 pages of rules, with contractors who will share in the $300 million FEA will pass out this year, and with a few companies which have profited from disparities in FEA regulations.

FEA is not so popular with oilmen who find their drilling operations hamstrung by foolish FEA regulations, by working men and women who are laid off their jobs when the drilling rigs are stacked, and by consumers who are forced to pay higher prices for energy than they would have to pay on a free market.

Its first Administrator, Treasury Secretary William Simon, has described FEA as an “outrage” and a “potential monster” which ought to be abolished. I agree. Along with Sens. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) and Dewey Bartlett (R-Okla.), I've introduced a bill to abolish FEA. Perhaps we can prove that there is such a thing as a temporary government agency after all.

Records Fall At Six Flags

Arlington, Texas.—Six Flags Over Texas has begun daily operation following the most successful spring season in the theme park's 16-year history.

During the spring season more than 399,000 persons visited the entertainment center. The figure represents an increase of some nine per cent over 1975's record pace.

General Manager Dan Howells said, “The introduction of our new parachute ride, the Texas Chute Out, was undoubtedly a major factor in the attendance boost.”

“In addition,” he said, “the public seems to be in a traveling mood this year. Perhaps it's a result of the bicentennial atmosphere, but, whatever the reason, people are definitely out on the road.”

The park will be on a daily schedule through Labor Day, when weekend-only operation will resume for the fall season.

During the summer months Six Flags will extend its nighttime operating hours and add evening entertainment features, details of which will be announced shortly.

SECOND 'CYCLE RIVER JUMP ATTEMPT TO BE PART OF '76 FIESTA DEL CONCHO

Donny Winn is returning to San Angelo for Fiesta del Concho, June 19-27, to try once again to jump the Concho River. The jump is scheduled for June 26.

It was a misty day in June of 1975 that Donny sat on his motorcycle on his specially made take-off ramp, ready to make his jump. The engine of his Honda 250 Elsinor roared, and the machine shot forward. Perhaps a trained observer could have noticed that the front wheels of the cycle sank somewhat when it reached the end of the ramp. Nonetheless, the normally landbound machine was now in flight.

Seconds later, the crowd knew what Donny already knew. The jump was in trouble. The arc was too low for the cycle to land correctly. The motorcycle luckily caught on the end of the catch ramp, which saved him from serious injury. Nonetheless, he tumbled over the cycle, impacting into the bank, ripping his Belle Star Helmet apart, something Donny says is almost impossible.

In a recap of what happened that June 28, 1975, Donny says that something was wrong with the ramp. Apparently, some of the 2 x 4's at the end were already cracked, had not been properly checked, and gave under the weight of the cycle. Donny was to have cleared the ramp at approximately 50 m.p.h., but because of the crack, his speed was slightly reduced. Even one mile hour, according to Donny, can be the crucial difference between whether you make it or not.

How did a 20 year old ex-Californian get into professional motorcycle jumping? Donny said, "My parents were originally from Texas. My dad, who is an engineer, was working out in California before we moved back to Fort Worth."

There Donny became an amateur motorcycle racer and over four years ago turned professional, at age 16. A little over two years ago, in Lubbock, promoters asked Donny if he would jump. "I told them," says Donny, "that for $300 I would jump 15 motorcycles in an indoor coliseum." Donny was surprised. "They came back with the offer, why don't you jump over four vans and we will pay you $600 and build the ramp. I said I would, but I didn't hear from them for a while. One of them called me up and said they had a jump for me on Saturday. The jump was in conjunction with a race. They were still working on building the ramp while the race was in progress. They finished in time and I made the jump without ever being on the ramp before."

Since then, Donny has made over 100 motorcycle jumps in such places as El Paso, Tucson, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas, as many as 12 a month. He has had two crashes, one in San Antonio and the other in San Angelo, both in June. "I said I would never jump again in June, but here I am again going to give it another try. The first time in San Antonio, I broke my back. The crash in San Angelo hurt it again, but the damage was not permanent."

Donny admits that his interest was sparked by other motorcycle jumpers. He has a high regard for Evil Knievel. "I wasn't in agreement, however, with his jump over the Snake River. I thought what he used would be more like a motorcycle. Really the jump over Snake River was not the longest motorcycle jump. It was the shortest rocket jump."

Donny has also noted that jumps over rivers have been generally unsuccessful. Evil Knievel did not make it over the Snake River. Bob Gill, one of the greatest motorcycle jumpers, is paralyzed from the waist down after trying to jump a river.

Donny noted that his family backs and follows his career. The San Angelo jump was the first my father ever saw me make, he said. "Both my mom and dad were scared to death when they saw me crash. They have since seen me, however, in successful jumps."

Donny's cycle is basically the same Honda 250 Elsinor that anyone could buy. The only basic differences are that it has special heavy shocks with custom built wheels and tires. "You have to be a professional to stay alive in this business for almost three years. I am going to jump in Oklahoma next week and we have my motorcycle completely broken down going over every part getting ready."

Donny's goal is to set the world record which is 123 feet. Donny has almost met this goal already. He is working with the Ford Company to jump over 25 Pintos, which would be a distance of 145 feet.

Donny is looking forward to being back in San Angelo and believes that this time he will make it.

Q. Is there any way for terrorists to turn nuclear power plants into bombs?

A. There's no way that anyone could cause a nuclear explosion with today's nuclear power plants — no matter how hard he tried. There is neither the concentrated nuclear material nor the conditions needed to initiate such a reaction.

BICENTENNIAL BRIEFS

THE LAST BATTLE

Most American school children know that the last battle of the Revolutionary War took place at Yorktown in 1781, but few know that our closest allies, the French, were right there when the British Army surrendered.

In fact, it was the wily French general, Lafayette, who kept the British forces surrounded there until he was joined by Washington's army. To commemorate this old Franco-American alliance and to celebrate the Bicentennial of the United States, Jas. Hennessy & Co. has produced a special cognac that is a reproduction of the full-bodied brandies American and French soldiers drank during the American Revolution.

REDDY'S HELPFUL TIPS

- ★ Your air-conditioner will operate inefficiently if filters are not cleaned regularly. Dirt and lint, collected on the filters, restricts air flow to the coils. Clean filters every two weeks.
- ★ Let nature help you save energy by shading your home with trees and shrubs to help cut down on summer cooling costs. Draw draperies against afternoon sun.
- ★ Remember to keep outside doors, windows, and fireplace dampers closed. If you have window units, close the heating vents near the floor, as cool air falls and can escape through vents.

SPURRING HIM ON
Most wives seem to have an uncanny sense of just the right way to nudge their husbands into action. Certainly this was true of the women who used to live in the Border part of Scotland just north of England.

The Borderers, constantly at war with their English neighbors, were also very accomplished cattle stealers.
One famous Borderer was Old Wat Scott. One day Old Wat came into his castle for his dinner and sat down at the table. In came his wife carrying a big covered platter. She lifted the dish-cover and all that was lying there was a pair of spurs.
Old Wat took the hint. He buckled on the spurs, gathered his men and rode off on a cattle raid.
Teacher's Scotch Information Centre says it's understood that Lady Harden didn't need to serve spurs to her husband again to get provisions for the castle.

'Moo-ve' On Over For Dairy Month!

June is Dairy Month!
So why not celebrate by brushing up on the nutritional value and proper storage of milk and milk products? Properly stored, milk products contribute a wide variety of delicious and economical treats that can be enjoyed by the entire family.

Man has been aware of the value of milk for centuries. A basic food throughout one's lifetime, milk and milk products provide the best food sources of calcium available. Calcium is necessary, of course, for building and maintaining strong bones and teeth. But milk has a lot of other things going for it, too — such as other minerals, important vitamins, and high quality protein.
And it's good to know there's some form of milk for everyone: whole milk, two-percent milk, and skim milk. Two-percent milk offers everything whole milk does, except that all but two per cent of the milk fat has been removed. Good news for weight-watchers is skim milk which contains all the essential nutrients of whole milk, but less than 0.5 per cent milk fat.
Dieters may also enjoy buttermilk. Usually made from skim milk, it offers nearly everything regular milk does, but with fewer calories. Whatever form of liquid milk you choose, remember it is very perishable. Once purchased, it should be hurried home and refrigerated immediately.
One of the most overlooked bargains in the market is nonfat dry milk. Just add water to give yourself a low-calorie, high nutrient drink at a cost much lower than that of regular milk.
Once dry milk has been opened, it may get lumpy and the flavor may change. It is best to transfer it, upon purchase, to a sealed plastic container. After mixing, non-fat milk can be stored in Tupperware's 1 or 2-quart Beverage Container.

For those who prefer to "eat their milk" rather than drink it, there are many milk products to choose from which supply the same amount of calcium and high quality protein as the milk from which they've been made.
The following foods contain a calcium content equivalent to the one 8-ounce cup of milk. They are also best stored in the refrigerator or freezer in appropriately sized sealed plastic containers.
2 1-inch cubes cheddar cheese
1 cup plain yogurt
1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
1 1/2 cups vanilla ice cream or ice milk
There are, of course, many other ways of obtaining milk's nutrients. Use it on cereals. Make a custard. Add it to soups, sauces, mashed potatoes, and other cooked foods.
Above all, remember to store your milk and milk products properly — and celebrate National Dairy Month in style!

WHEAT GERM CASSEROLE BREAD FOR BEGINNERS

If you've been reluctant to try your hand at making yeast breads, here's a recipe to get you started. All you need is one bowl, the ingredients, a 1-1/2 quart casserole and an oven. If you have an electric mixer, you can use it for most of the heating and save your own muscles.
The recipe makes one loaf of Wheat Germ Casserole Bread. This is a batter bread which means it does not have to be kneaded. The first step consists of measuring some of the dry ingredients and mixing them with active dry yeast. Then add very hot tap water and give the batter a thorough beating. This helps to develop gluten in the flour which gives structure to the loaf. Add the remaining flour, stirring well. Cover the bowl and let the dough rise for 45 minutes.
You'll note there are two separate risings in the recipe. The first one takes place in the mixing bowl and the second after the batter has been stirred down and transferred to the casserole for baking. Baking time is 45 minutes which seems like an eternity to a beginner waiting to sample a first creation. One further delay, it's a good idea to turn the loaf onto a wire rack to be cooled before slicing as it will slice easier. But is most rewarding step of all is slicing and sampling. The next time you make it Yeast. Add softened Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Add softened Fleischmann's Margarine. Gradually add very hot

Wheat Germ Casserole Bread (Makes 1 loaf)
2-3/4 to 3-1/4 cups unsifted flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup wheat germ
2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
2 tablespoons softened Fleischmann's Margarine
1-1/2 cups very hot tap water
2 tablespoons molasses (at room temperature)
In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1 cup flour, salt, wheat germ and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Add softened Fleischmann's Margarine. Gradually add very hot tap water and molasses to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1/2 cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff batter. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

Stir batter down. Beat vigorously, about 1/2 minute. Turn into a greased 1-1/2-quart casserole.
Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 45 minutes, or until done. Remove from casserole and cool on wire rack.

THE BICENTENNIAL KITCHEN

Chicken Pilau Is Colonial Favorite Of Charleston

The low country of South Carolina, centered around Charleston, is much different from the rest of the state. It is in these marshes by the sea that the first plantations took form, when landowners discovered that the marshy lowlands along the banks of the Ashley and Cooper Rivers were ideal for growing rice. Few foods seem so fitting to South Carolina as pilaus. No doubt, the idea of this rice dish came to South Carolina by early traders from India in the days when Charleston became a great seaport. Southern cooks changed the ingredients from oil to tomatoes, and cooked it so that the dish came out dry and greaseless.

Rice, of course, is the main ingredient in a Pilau—pronounced pelos in Charleston. From there the ingredients vary greatly. There are pilaus with squab or okra, with tomatoes or eggs, with shrimp or chicken.

This version of Charleston's Chicken Pilau is a hearty, economical meal-in-itself. The chicken and rice, cooked in chicken broth, are flavored with celery, onion, green pepper, tomatoes, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Versatile stick Blue Bonnet Margarine is used for sauteing the vegetables and adding rich flavor to this tempting rice dish.

Accompanied by a hot bread such as corn bread, Chicken Pilau is ideal for family meals.

CHICKEN PILAU

- 1-1/2 cups sliced celery
- 3/4 cup coarsely chopped onion
- 3/4 cup diced green pepper
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 1 can (1-pound) tomatoes, undrained
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 (2-1/2-pound) broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces
- 1-1/2 cups uncooked rice
- Chopped parsley

Saute celery, onion and green pepper lightly in margarine in Dutch oven for about 5 minutes. Stir in chicken broth, tomatoes, salt, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Add chicken. Cover; cook over medium heat until chicken is partially cooked, about 20 minutes. Stir in rice. Cover; cook over low heat for about 25 minutes. Remove cover; cook until rice and chicken are tender and liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Arrange chicken and rice in large serving dish. Garnish with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

The best way to keep foods cold on a picnic is to use a good, well-insulated cooler. Use plenty of ice (not dry ice). Don't open the cooler unnecessarily. Leave it in a shady spot.

When two hands are joined in the expression of friendship, love, marriage — that's a clasp.

Of course, we have another word: grasp. Little affection implied. Determination to seize, to control. To a sensitive mind grasp suggests GREED. And does clasp, to a sensitive mind, suggest CLING?

It was Our Lord who said of marriage that "a man shall leave his mother and father and cling to his wife, and they shall be one."

The Church provides the spiritual resources to strengthen marriage, to make firmer the bonds of family.
