Tom Palmer Entertained.

At the ranch home of Tom Pal mer Tuesday night, a few particular friends were entertained. Among them were Brice Dabney, John Rea and Pomp Watson. The boys were late reaching the ranch and as our friend Tom has never to this late day intered the path of Matrimonial, it became his duty to prepair the reception room for the invited guest, Tom then started a fire in the cook stove and invited his guest to the kitchen as this is the reception room f r the Psimer ranch. After a de licious supper had been served, they cleared away the dishes and began playing games of all kind and to numerous to mention, they then discovered the latness of the hour and it being near twelve they retired for a night repose, the next morning the guest returned to their respective homes by votein. AN EDITOR'S SONG OF WOE. DEDICATED TO THE FREDONIA KICKER By The "WRONG MR. WRIGHT."

Melancholy days have come, A fact without a dout, There's frost upon our whiskers, The seat of our pants is out.

Our old straw hat is full o' holes, We still ware our summer frocks, Our shoes need new half-soles, Our feet winter socks.

This makes things look kind o' shakey, As the winter's blasts begins to blow, But the Lord is good and merceful, He'll liston to our song of woe,

He'll send us thoe delinquents, Who were ne'er known to beat, To pay up their back subscription, To this little rag-time sheet.

We'll then sing and shout hallejah, And jine the shouting ranks; We'll move down on Easy street, And put our money in banks.

We'll buy our "devil" a winter suit And lay aside our old sky-scraper: We'll buy ourself a new pair of pants And in them cut a caper.

Yes, strangers, we'll do thes things, And other stunts galore, There's nothing mean about us We only lack the "dough."

Then listen, Lord, oh, do listen To our solmn song of woe, And send along those delinquents To pay us what they owe.

We notice Sunday that some of our little Misses between the age of 10 and 16 had their cheeks tles in all. Today I am well of a painted, now girls we believe that bad stomach trouble, -MRS.
