Austin, Tex.—The row over medical malpractice insurance has landed in district court here.

Argonaut Insurance Companies, one of the largest carriers of malpractice insurance, filed suit to enjoin the State Insurance Board from freezing rates at the June 3 level.

Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie charged insurance companies appeared to have inflated their rates when a new law required them to file with the Board.

"It's beginning to look like the classic case of weighing the butcher's thumb along with the hamburger," Christie said. He said one company nearly doubled quoted mid-May rates after the legislature ordered filing with the regulatory agency.

A Board order of June 27 put companies on notice that only premium rates in effect June 3 may be charged for renewal of policies for doctors and hospitals unless a 90-day notice of increase is furnished the insured.

Argonaut went to court and got a temporary restraining order effective until a July 10 hearing, blocking the 90-day notice provision.

The provision, Argonaut attorneys claimed, imposed a past duty they could not have anticipated. They also contended that re-issuing policies at pre-May rates even though inadequate would "result in irreparable damage" to companies.

Press Buy Protested

Texas printers are strongly protesting a proposal by Secretary of State Mark White Jr. to explore purchase of large web-offset printing press to print copies of the proposed new state constitution.

White said press dealers informed him the state could save $150,000 by doing its own printing of the document and the new official "Texas Register."

Printers, backed by an auditor's letter, claim the press purchase would cost the state far more than commercial printing of the constitution and register, and would lead to additional government competition with the printing industry.

Austin State Sen. Lloyd Doggett requested an attorney general's opinion on constitutionality of the purchase. Printers threatened a lawsuit to stop it.

White said no purchase will be made unless bids clearly show money can be saved.

Five and a half million copies of the constitution document must be mailed to voters by October. About 100 editions a year of the Register will be printed, containing official state orders, proposed regulations, notice of hearings and attorney general's opinions.

Jobless Payments Drop

Jobless benefits dropped $1 million—to $22 million—in Texas during June, according to Comptroller Bob Bullock.

But a total of $118.7 million in unemployment benefits have been paid January-June, compared with $79.1 million in all 1974.

Short Snorts . . .

Former Gov. John Connally will be honored at a statewide non-partisan dinner in Houston July 31.

A $1.37 million federal grant has been received to assist economic development of Laredo.

Ten meetings are being conducted July 7-25 to brief local officials on the Texas First program to locate 15,000 new jobs.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported a 12% reduction in Texas cotton acreage this year.

Eight hundred cities and towns received $28.8 million in city sales tax rebates for the second quarter of 1975.

Two commercial colleges in Austin and Dallas agreed to refund $239,000 in tuition to former students within 90 days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Phelps of Odessa visited here Sunday with Mrs. R. T. Wagoner.

When Your Freezer Stops

Occasionally food freezers stop operating normally and foods may be thawed or partially thawed before the situation is discovered. What can be done when this happens?

Refreezing Food

You may safely refreeze foods that have thawed if they still contain ice crystals or if they are still cold—about 40 F.—and have been held no longer than 1 or 2 days at refrigerator temperature after thawing. In general, if a food is safe to eat, it is safe to refreeze. If the odor or color of any food is poor or questionable, dispose of it. The food may be dangerous.

Foods that have been frozen and thawed require the same care as foods that have not been frozen.

Meat, Poultry, Fish

Meat, including ground meat and poultry that has any off-odor or off-color should not be refrozen and should not be eaten. The eating quality of red meats is reduced less than that of other foods.

Shellfish, Vegetables, Cooked Foods

Bacteria multiply rapidly in shellfish, vegetables and cooked foods and often spoilage in these foods cannot be detected by odor. Do not refreeze any of these foods when they have completely thawed. If ice crystals are still in the food, refreeze immediately. Even partial thawing and refreezing reduces the eating quality of these foods. If the condition of these foods is questionable, dispose of them.

Fruits

Fruits usually ferment when they start to spoil. A little fermentation will not make fruits dangerous to eat, but it may spoil their flavor. You can refreeze thawed fruits if they still taste and smell good. Or you can use them in cooking and baking or for making jams, jellies and prepared foods.

Emergency Care

Generally, a fully loaded, non-functioning freezer will stay cold enough to keep foods frozen for two days if not opened. In a freezer with less than half a load, food will remain frozen for about one day.

If power fails or the freezer stops due to mechanical failure, keep the freezer closed.

Refreeze Food Quickly

Clean your freezer before refilling. Freeze thawed foods quickly. Use refrozen foods as soon as possible.

To refreeze food at home, turn the adjustable temperature control, if your freezer has one, to its coldest position. When the current comes on again, the freezer will run continuously and food will refreeze quicker. Place the warmer packages against the refrigerated surface if possible, but place them so air will circulate around them. After the food is well frozen, turn the temperature control to its usual setting. If the freezer is too full, move some of the colder packages to the refrigerator, and return them gradually to the freezer.

PAR - TEE NEWS

Around 30 players turned out for the July 4th play day. The course had dried out quite well.

Taking first place was the team of W. G. Crippin, Billy Donaldson, W. L. Kinser and Eddie Kinser with 4 under par.

After a play off between three teams coming in three under, the team of John Nikolauk, Jim Squyres, Marilyn Short, Lynn Whitaker and Arch Mittel, came in to take second honors.

Taking third place after 4 holes on sudden death playoff was the team of Granvil Hext, Gladys Mittel, Ben Hext and Ricky White.

Closing the Fourth of July week end was another Special Play Sunday afternoon. Twenty-eight players turned out for the fun and excitement and there was plenty of each as three teams came in tied again after the same thing occurred on July 4th.

Winning first place with 4 under par was the team of John Callison, John Pitts, Larry Mitchel, Ben Hext and Lynn Whitaker.

After a sudden death play off of nine holes, the team of W. G. Crippin, Sandy Donaldson, Tom Miner and Lum Burk took second place over the team of Bob Bland, Raymon Mobley, Steve Sykes, Lit Gray and Bob Bradley.

Everyone had plenty of golf for the week end. Guess what, this Sunday, July 13, will be regular Mixed Foursome so clean up your clubs and come on out.

See you at the golf course.

Q. I always used to enjoy films about gentlemen jewel thieves until I became co-starred as one of their victims. While my wife and I were vacationing her favorite pearl necklace was stolen. It was valued at $600, but our insurance company only reimbursed me for $500. I thought my homeowners policy covered me for losses like this. Am I wrong?

A. You are not wrong. Your insurance company did cover you but not for an unlimited amount. Your homeowners policy covers your belongings, even if you are away from home, in the amount of $500 for jewelry and $500 for furs, both in the aggregate.

We suggest that the next time you are taking along more than the homeowners policy covers, you take out a floater policy to provide you with the extra coverage you need.

FANCY THAT! BY THOMPSON

Basic natural resources such as gas, oil and timber have for generations provided energy to light and heat cities and homes across the country. These raw materials also have been used to produce flexible packaging materials that have added safety, protection and convenience of goods bought in stores and supermarkets today.

Now municipalities, environmentalists and industry have found methods of recapturing the energy potential from these packaging materials. These packages that provide a service to the consumer also could, in the future, serve as an energy source. This would make dual use of the natural resources.

All over America, cities and communities are realizing the energy potential from taking such discarded flexible packaging items for use in resource recovery. They are establishing systematic solid waste recovery programs that take the new resource, burn it and convert it into electricity.

Annually 2 billion pounds of flexible packaging material is produced. If turned into energy by resource recovery methods, 840 million gallons of imported oil could be saved annually, and over 3.5 billion kilowatts would be created.

Bran Adds Fiber To Shortcake

Recent research has shown the importance of fiber in the diet. NABISCO 100% Bran Cereal is an especially good source of food fiber. Of course, bran is good for breakfast, but it can also be used in many recipes. In this shortcake shell, bran adds a delightful, nutty flavor and chewy texture. Fill with colorful, juicy fruits and serve with sour cream sauce.

FRUIT SHORTCAKE

- 2/3 cup butter or margarine
- 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup NABISCO 100% Bran Cereal
- Rice or dried beans
- 1/3 cup apricot preserves
- 4 cups chilled fruit, well drained
- 2 cups dairy sour cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Grease a 2-quart oblong baking dish. Line with wax paper, allowing paper to extend 1 inch above pan. Grease paper. Beat butter, cream cheese and 1/2 cup sugar until fluffy. Blend in next three ingredients. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add with bran to cream cheese mixture. Spread evenly on bottom and sides of prepared dish to form a shell. Line with wax paper, pressing carefully into corners. Half fill with rice or beans to hold in shape. Trim paper to within 1 inch of pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375°F.) 20 minutes. Carefully lift out paper and rice. Reduce temperature to 350°F. Bake 15 minutes longer. Cool in pan on wire rack 30 minutes. Lift out and cool completely. Spread bottom with preserves. Fill with fruit. Blend together last three ingredients; serve as sauce with shortcake. Makes 10 servings of about 2 x 1 1/2- inch pieces shortcake and 3 tablespoons sauce.

Water Rights Threat

WASHINGTON—Federal regulations are being drafted that could strangle the liberty and prosperity of millions of American farmers and ranchers with miles of bureaucratic red tape. I'm doing what I can to remedy this situation.

Under proposed rules being prepared now by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the rancher who wants to enlarge his stock pond, the farmer who wants to deepen his irrigation ditch or plow a field, or the mountaineer who wants to protect his land against stream erosion could be required to get a federal permit first.

The proposed regulations constitute "a harassment to farmers and ranchers trying to grow this nation's food supply," according to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

"Millions of people, as they now operate . . . could be fined up to $25,000 a day and imprisoned for one year for violations" of the new rules, Butz warned.

The proposed regulations were drafted in response to a federal district court decision last March in a suit brought by environmental groups against the Corps of Engineers and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The decision of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia expanded federal authority over "navigable waters" to include virtually every river, stream, brook, lake, wetland and irrigation project in the United States.

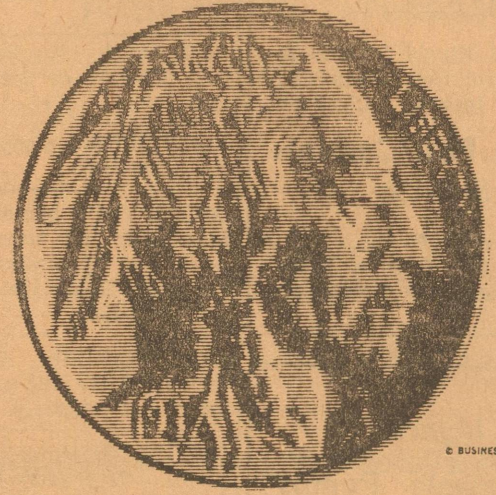

The district court decision is judicial usurpation of the worst sort. It would expand the jurisdiction of the Corps of Engineers far beyond anything possibly imagined by Congress. It would effectively strip the states of their authority to administer those resources which traditionally have been theirs to administer.

What is more frightening, the court decision would require the Corps of Engineers to assume control over the activities of a great portion of our nation's farmers, a further deterioration of the private property rights of individuals. At a time when private farmers are already reeling under economic pressures, the possible expansion of federal control would be an intolerable additional burden.

I have introduced one bill, and cosponsored another, that would negate the effect of the court decision. My bill would amend the federal Water Pollution Control Act to make it clear that federal authority over "the navigable waters of the United States" would be limited to those involving interstate commerce.

The bill I have cosponsored with Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas would go even further to protect the rights of individual property owners and the several states from federal encroachment.

I am hopeful that one or both of these measures will be passed before any Texas farmers suffer from that nefarious court ruling.

Reddy's helpful tips for your Room Air-Conditioners

- Set air-conditioner to maintain a slightly higher temperature than you might normally; each degree cooler than 78 uses substantially more energy.
- Clean the filter regularly.
- Close draperies, blinds and use shades or awnings on all windows exposed to sun.
- Use appliances that give off heat (ovens, dishwashers, dryers) during cooler times of the day.
- Remember to keep outside doors, windows, and fireplace dampers closed. If you have window units, close the heating vents near the floor, as cool air falls and can escape through vents.

Q. My neighbor came up with what seemed to me a pretty sensible idea. He suggested I buy term insurance and invest the money I would save by not buying whole life insurance. How does that strike you?

A. It isn't so much that the idea is wrong - it's just that there are a few "ifs" in this type of arrangement which you should be made aware of.

*If you regularly invest the money you "save" by buying term insurance instead of whole life.

*If you don't use this money for other purposes.

*And, if your investments work out favorably.

Financial markets do go down as well as up, as recent events have made clear. The benefits in a whole life policy are guaranteed to you, no matter what happens in the economy, and this policy has additional values that cannot be duplicated by any other financial arrangement.

Rain Washes Out Part Of Dist. Horse Show

Just as the halter classes of the huge District 4-H Horse Show began Saturday morning at the San Angelo Fairgrounds, heavy rains turned the arena into a muddy lake and washed out the five performance classes scheduled in the afternoon.

After a dreary and wet move of horses, youthful contestants, gear and trailers from the Open Arena to the Sheep Barn, Buck Owens of Barnhart and Rusty Jones judged the six halter classes and the showmanship class, and named the grand champion and the reserve grand champion mares and geldings.

The 130 contestants, and their parents and adult leaders in San Angelo Saturday from the 20 counties in District 7 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will begin here at 3:00 p.m. July 8 to complete the performance classes of western horsemanship, western pleasure, reining, pole-bending and barrel-racing.

Not until the July 8 contests are finished will District Extension Agent Allen E. Turner be able to name the 20 riders to represent the district at the State 4-H Club Horse Show, July 23-26 in Fort Worth.

Karen Crosby of Tom Green County won the showmanship class Saturday, and Scott Kurtz of Tom Green showed the grand champion mare. Kathy Wilson of Coleman county showed reserve champion mare.

John Ben Cawley of Schleicher county showed grand champion gelding, and David Avants of Coleman, reserve champion gelding.

Placings in Class 2, registered mares younger than 5 years: Bill Cawley of Schleicher, 1st.

Class 5, registered geldings 5 years or older, John Ben Cawley had 1st and Sally Cawley 4th.

Class 6, registered geldings younger than 5 years: Todd Swift of Schleicher placed 8th.

Class 7, grade geldings, Shanna Swift of Schleicher placed 5th.

Small Grain Residue Most Effective. Small grains are among the highest residue producing crops of the semi-arid farming sections.

"Summer Residue"

Summer residues—the practice of leaving residues (small grain stubble) at the ground surface—help conserve moisture by protecting the land from the hot sun during the summer months, controls erosion, reduces runoff and increases crop yields.

Cooperators with the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District have realized increased yields on crops that were planted on fields which had been protected through the summer months the previous year by small grain residues. Farmers using this practice according to the needs of their land consider it essential in obtaining maximum yields.

The right use of summer residues can be one of the most important of all soil and water conservation practices in use today. Its greatest value is perhaps in areas such as Schleicher county where rainfall is limited, where both wind and water erosion are problems, and where soil-improving crops are not a part of normal farming operations. However, the organic content of soil under any climate can be maintained or improved through the use of summer residues. The organic litter in or on the surface of the soil serves as a barrier to soil removal by any force. It cuts down the rate of evaporation, serves as a protective coat to soil against extreme temperatures, and keeps the soil open for free movement of air, water and plant roots.

It is recognized that the primary benefits from these residues come from the physical effects of organic material on the land as influenced by climate. The organic content of the top five inches of the soil is greater where residues are left on the surface as compared to residues completely turned under.

Small grains are among the highest residue producing crops of the semi-arid farming sections. The residue from these crops has several advantages over most other crops in that they produce an abundance of residue; the plants are uniformly distributed over the land; they are comparatively fine-stemmed, making it more readily decomposed; and, they do not seriously interfere with subsequent tillage operation that follow the management of residue.

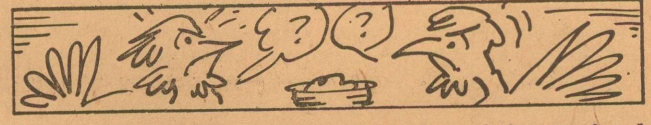

There is a great need for and a fine opportunity for conservation farmers in the District to include this important practice of making the right use of their summer residues in their conservation plan.

CANNING WITH CHEF'S TOUCH

Home canning is expected to enjoy a great boom this year. If this is your first time, or if you are a seasoned canner, you must follow some new rules. For instance, due to new varieties of fruits and vegetables, produce is not the same as that used for old recipes. Many tomatoes now are less acid than earlier varieties. With the exception of jelly, everything should be processed.

Three methods are used in canning. The boiling water bath is used for high acid foods such as fruits and pickles. A water bath canner is a large kettle with a lid and a rack, and deep enough to allow for 2 inches of water over the jars without boiling over. This method will bring the temperature of the food to 212°F., which is high enough to destroy the bacteria, mold and yeast in acid foods.

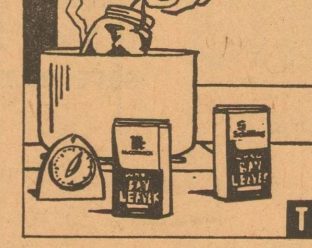

For low acid foods, such as almost all vegetables, meat, poultry and seafood and some soups, the steam-pressure method is used. It processes food under pressure at a temperature of 240°F.

The open-kettle method is used only for jelly making. Take an inventory of equipment you need. Use only jars made especially for canning. (Mayonnaise or peanut butter jars won't do. A good seal is often not achieved, and also they could break during the processing.) Discard any with nicks, cracks or rough edges. The dome lid and ring are the most popular caps. Rings may be reused, but never use the dome lid more than once.

Other essential equipment includes a wide-mouth funnel, large measuring cups, a long spatula for removing air bubbles, and a jar lifter for removing the hot filled jars.

Be sure your spices are fresh to complement the fresh produce. McCormick/Schilling has been rushing spices to the grocers so that the demands for the pickling season can be met. To check for freshness, first look at the spice to determine if it has lost color. Next, taste and smell it. If you don't get an immediate impact of aroma and flavor, it should be replaced.

Some of the more popular spices used in pickles are turmeric, mustard seed, celery seed, whole cinnamon, whole cloves, whole allspice and a blend called whole pickling spice. A general rule for making pickles is to tie the darker spices such as cinnamon, cloves and allspice in a cheesecloth bag and remove the bag before packing the pickles. This prevents the pickles from turning dark. Spices used in fruit butters include the sweeter ones such as ground cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, allspice and mace.

Perfect for a Party Luncheon . . . Avocado and Chicken Salad

Avocado and Chicken Salad is a superb taste treat you'll want to share with guests.

When you are planning a luncheon, here is a delectable avocado and chicken salad your guests will rave about. Chicken salad nestles in a lush, golden green avocado half-shell making this a party perfect dish.

You'll be happy to know avocado half-shells are really very easy to prepare. Just halve avocado lengthwise and twist gently to separate. Then remove the seed with a spoon and use with or without the skin. To keep the avocado a pretty golden green until your guests arrive, simply brush the cut surface with lemon or lime juice.

The delicate, sweet tasting chicken salad combined with the mild, nutty flavor of avocados is just made for a glamorous and exotic Polynesian theme. Using this delicious recipe even makes planning decorations easy.

Now, relax and enjoy your luncheon preparations knowing your guests will share a superb salad taste treat—Avocado and Chicken Salad.

THERE'S MORE TO LIFE THAN A PRETTY BALLOON!

A bouncy red or yellow balloon is the symbol the world over of good fun and happy feelings. There's rarely a festival, a fiesta, or a fair held anywhere without the familiar balloon vendor strolling through the crowd, selling happiness for a few pennies. Parents buy them for their kids and young men present them with a flourish to their girl friends. Just why a balloon is so much fun isn't clear, but one thing is certain — the pleasure never lasts. The air leaks out, balloons unexpectedly pop, careless fingers send them soaring away forever. But there is a far greater pleasure to be found that will last for an eternity. It is the happy pursuit of a Christian life and you can find out all about it this Sunday — in church.
