Austin, Tex.—The House of Representatives may be returning to Austin before September 1 to consider the first impeachment proceedings in more than 40 years.

A select House committee already has directed its staff to draft several articles of impeachment against 229th District Judge O. P. Carrillo of Duval county.

Committee members rounded out their examination of the record in their inquiry into allegations against Carrillo last week in closed-door session.

They will vote in open session on the proposed articles.

If a majority of the 11-member panel vote to press any of the articles, the House must be called into session to consider them on the third Monday following the committee report.

The constitution further provides that the Senate must try impeachment charges brought by the House against certain state officials, including district judges.

A two-thirds vote in the Senate is required to convict.

Fewer than a dozen serious impeachment proceedings have been brought in a century. Only one of these—the 1917 case against then Gov. James E. Ferguson—actually resulted in a removal from office.

Raids Continue

Comptroller Bob Bullock led more raids against sales tax-delinquent firms in the Dallas area which, he said, owe more than $200,000 to the state and city.

The Comptroller's agents locked a restaurant, closed a concrete manufacturer, took inventories and equipment from a photo shop, appliance shop, air conditioning firm and microfilm service company.

Property seized will be sold at public auction to satisfy tax claims unless owners pay up, Bullock said.

He scheduled an auction July 21 in San Antonio for nearly 15,000 cases of whiskey, wine and beer taken from three discount liquor houses whose owner owed $405,000 in delinquent sales taxes.

Short Snorts . . .

John H. Poerner of Hondo has been named director of the new Commission on Education Resources to assess school district financial capabilities.

Governor and Mrs. Briscoe and their two daughters are on an 18-day European vacation.

State government will have a $27 million balance after spending $12.1 billion during the next two years, according to Comptroller Bullock's latest calculations.

Texas labor's new legislative goals will be drafted at the AFL-CIO's state convention in Dallas July 23-26. An agency shop or right to contract bill is expected to be among them.

A court hearing on the State Insurance Board's medical malpractice insurance rate freeze was postponed until July 17.

Texas' economy will soon "ascend more prosperous heights," according to a University of Texas Bureau of Business Research writer's prediction.

ANNUAL TEXAS BLOCK PARTY COMING UP IN SAN ANTONIO AUGUST 7 THRU 10

Fifty artists and craftsmen have been selected for the fourth annual Texas Folklife Festival in San Antonio, August 7-10, one-third introducing new and unusual modes to funlovers at the statewide celebration sponsored by the UTSA Institute of Texan Cultures.

"How-to-do-it" demonstrations to entertain and inform visitors are the heart of Texas' "Biggest Block Party" that also features ethnic foods, music, dances, games & contests on 15 acres around the Institute.

Each booth will be manned by demonstrating craftsmen with helpers to let visitors purchase the objects they can see made before their eyes.
 Robert Lee Herndon, or Aransas Pass, will prepare his coiled and striking mounts of rattlesnakes, some 7 and 8 feet long, sharing his reptile taxidermy skill. Six-year-old Conn Herndon will begin by skinning and stuffing snakes with sawdust and display his two harmless pet hognoce snakes. Onlookers can then see a longer lasting process using borax for curing the fleshed hide and styrofoam for forms.

Assisting will be Aurora Herndon, age 13, and Nan Ruth Herndon, who will deep fry fresh rattlesnake meat for visitors to sample.

Only at the state festival can one find lye soap made with coon oil, a demonstration by lye soap maker Doris Riedel, Austin, and coon processors Mr. and Mrs. "Trapper" Max Deike, Kerrville.

The Deikes survived the Depression of the 30's trapping coons and stretching hides. They will render coon oil; the lightest oil for gun use; medium weight oil for cookie baking; heavier oil tossed in the pot to make lye soap bars.

Richard A. Clifford of Ft. Worth will prepare handmade paper, a process invented by the Chinese about A. D. 105, using fermented and beaten mulberry bark fibers. Until the Civil War most paper was handmade.

Clifford specializes in making paper from native Texas plants and flowers: Johnson grass, sunflower, thistle, cattail, dotus or your garden celery, onion, lettuce, peas and parsley. He will produce by hand special festival paper from chili plants.

Other new faces include: Susie Melissa Cherry, Dallas, calligrapher; Edward Huff, San Antonio, silversmith; Gene Murray, Houston, pen and ink wildlife drawings and Richard O. Cook, Fredericksburg, Western bronzes.

Jeanie McMordie, Austin, will introduce Cathedral Window Quilting while husband Joe McMordie initiates the Festival Whittlin' School for children.

Alice M. Allen, Fritch, will do spinning on a stilk using the hand spindle or Navajo spindle. Rebecca Munro, president, Austin Weavers Co-op, and a crew of 20 will spin and weave on spinning wheels and various looms.

Ms. Lee Rose, San Antonio, will do batik; Mrs. Betty Smith, Lancaster, bread sculptures; Cynthia Schwab North, Helotes, Baker's Clay Creations, a German kitchen craft.

Lonita Straus, Melvin, will make silhouettes and Mrs. Lee Ann Stubbins, Beeville, papier mache.

The artist of the Confederacy, Bruce Marshall, Austin, will present historical painting.

 Pioneer crafts will be preserved and demonstrated; Emil P. Schandaa, Fredericksburg, tinsmith; Michael Davenport, Leander, copper-smith; Sherrille Stroud, Devine, blacksmith; Jim Barbee, Ft. Stockton, knifemaker; Eddie Norhan, Kyle, furniture maker; Johnny Neal and Rowdy Pate, Pearsall, rawhide and leather rope and quilt makers; David Chohlis, Natalia, potter; and Joseph N. Pyle, Odessa, hand blown glass.

Visitors can enjoy various ethnic crafts by Polish, Mexican, Indian, Japanese, Chinese, German, Wendish and Spanish Texans.

It's organized pandemonium including constant entertainment on seven stages, the foods of 24 nations, and dozens of games and contests to observe or jump in and participate.

Regular admission is $2.50, adults; 50 children under 12. Discount tickets are $2, adults and 35c, children, available until August 2 from the Institute, P. O. Box 1226, San Antonio, TX 78294 for the August 7-10 party.

To share the heritage and fun of the many kinds of Texans visit the Texas Folklife Festival in San Antonio, August 7-10.

Bob Krueger Chairs Energy Hearings

Washington, D. C.—Congressman Bob Krueger today (July 8) began chairing four days of hearings on the adequacy of Outer Continental Shelf Energy Research and Development. The hearings, conducted by Krueger's Subcommittee on Energy Research, Development and Demonstration, will receive testimony from representatives of government, industry, universities, and both professional and labor groups. Krueger opened the hearings by declaring that "our country's energy situation requires full utilization of our national resources. As onshore sources of oil and gas are depleted, the offshore domain offers the greatest promise for increased production. Offshore resources are publicly owned and the government must act as public trustee for all the people. We must guarantee the protection of the marine environment, the equitable treatment of the Coastal states, and the establishment of a fair amount of industrial competition as these resources are developed."

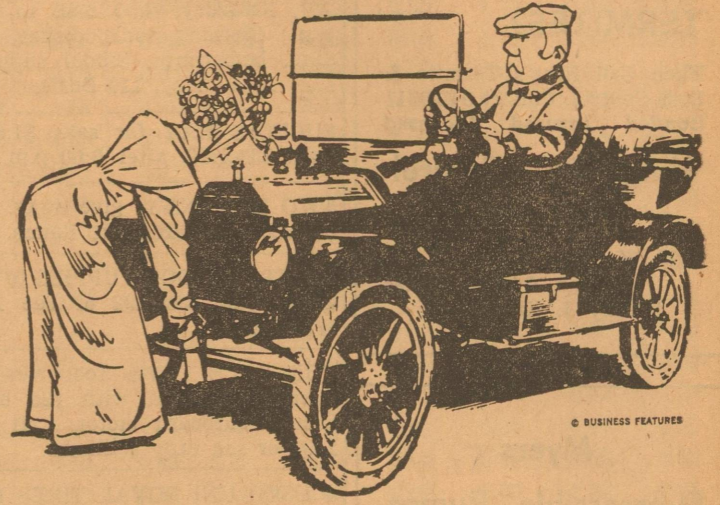

The New Braunfels Democrat noted that "in the past, offshore problems such as pollution and untested technologies have simply meant delay; in the world of cartel-dominated energy, the strategy of delay must be abandoned. Instead, Americans must meet the technological problems head-on." New technologies that will be discussed during the hearings include automatic shut-down systems in case of oil spills, subsea drilling technologies, systems of improved geological evaluation, and safer, more efficient pipelines. In addition, the adequacy of manpower training efforts will be investigated, as will the possibility of training to alleviate human error, the primary source of oil spills from offshore drilling rigs. Present technology recovers less than half of the offshore oil. The hearings will also investigate methods of increasing recovery of this offshore oil.

Krueger noted that the creation of a federal oil company to develop offshore resources "would be an economic disaster." He was disturbed by "government leasing policies that may have resulted in the concentration of offshore production in a handful of huge oil companies. We must insure that the ability to develop these resources is distributed among enough companies so that monopoly practices cannot occur. Monopoly in any form is bad enough; monopolistic blackmail of the American consumer using our own public resources is intolerable."

Bronze Medal And Stamps Honor...

Paul Revere And The Minuteman

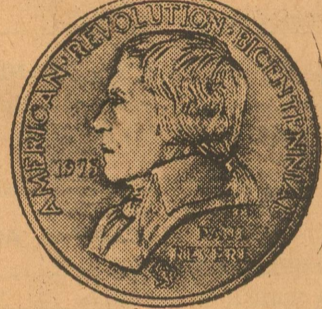

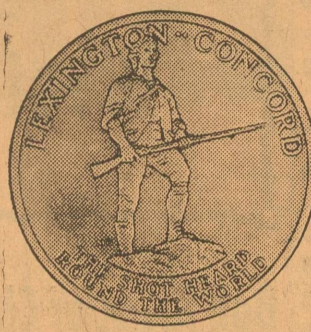

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Two hundred years ago Paul Revere made his famous ride, Minutemen fired "The shot heard round the world", and the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were founded.

To mark these events, the official 1975 Bicentennial commemorative stamp and medal set will be available to the public during the months of July and August, 1975.
The fourth in a series of Philatelic-Numismatic Combination packages, called PNC, is offered by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA), in cooperation with the United States Mint and the United States Postal Service.
While everyone is not a stamp or medal collector, the ARBA points out that the PNC is an official commemorative of the Bicentennial itself and may well be a keepsake desired by all citizens living during this unique moment in history.
This year's Bicentennial medal honors Paul Revere, patriot courier, who galloped through the Massachusetts country on the night of April 18, 1775, warning Minutemen that a British force had set out from Boston to find and seize arms and ammunition stored by the Americans in anticipation of conflict with their mother country. The other side of the medal remembers the first engagement of the Revolution, a skirmish on the village green at Lexington, Mass. Today, a statue of a Minuteman, which is reproduced on the medal, marks the spot where the first Amer-tional grassroots observance," John Warner, Administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA), said recently. The ARBA is using the proceeds from the sale of the Congressionally approved medals and the licensing of Bicentennial commemorative items in accordance with the public law "to help fund the many state and local Bicentennial efforts in all parts of the country."

The presentation envelope in Buff and Blue, the color of George Washington's uniform, bearing the stamps and containing the medal will be postmarked Washington, D.C., July 4, 1975. It is prized by collectors, and offers a fine opportunity for any American who wants to remember his country's beginnings to have an attractive memento of those stirring times.

icans died in the war that eventually set the colonies free.

The commemorative stamps on this year's first day cover, which will be postmarked July 4, 1975 from Washington D.C., will commemorate the foundings of the four armed forces that helped win the Revolution and which still exist. Although there is no longer a militia as such, the concept of the citizen-soldiers ready to defend their country lives on in today's National Guard. The stamps show a man from each of the Armed Forces, in the colorful uniforms of the period.

The price of the combination is $5.00, and they may be ordered by sending a check or money order to American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, P. O. Box 16 H, San Francisco, CA 94111.

Grecian Delights From Ancient Times

As one of the first centers of civilization, Greece and its food culture has a history traceable to antiquity. The ancient Greeks loved food, dined lavishly and handed down recipes from generation to generation.

Today, Greek cuisine includes variations of recipes surviving centuries of history. In these aged recipes there is wide use of grapes, lemons, sauces and vegetables. Greeks use both the fruit and leaves of their large grape crop. The tender leaves are stuffed with ground meat and spices to make a delectable main dish.

John Englezos, manager of the Holiday Inn restaurant in Selma, Ala., and a native of Cyprus, serves an abundance of Greek foods in his dining room. Here, he shares his recipe for stuffed grape leaves drenched in another Greek favorite, egg/lemon sauce. Lemon is an indispensable ingredient in Grecian cookery and is used regularly in the preparation of meats, fish, vegetables and poultry.

To accompany the grape leaves, Englezos suggests boiled zucchini sprinkled with lemon juice and oil. The Greeks' passion for good food is surpassed only by their love of wines, so be sure to include a good rosé or red wine for sipping throughout the dinner. Top off the meal with a light, satisfying rice pudding and a hot cup of rich coffee.

Stuffed Grape Leaves
1 large onion, chopped
3 tablespoons butter
2 pounds ground steak
1½ cups cooked rice (this amounts to ½ cup uncooked rice)
½ cup chopped parsley and mint, mixed
2 teaspoons salt
pepper to taste
50 grape leaves, fresh or canned
Fry chopped onion in melted butter until golden. Remove from heat and combine with meat, cooked rice and seasonings.

GRECIAN DELIGHTS—Ancient Greek dishes like stuffed grape leaves drenched in tangy egg/lemon sauce, steamed zucchini and fluffy rice pudding are finding their way to more and more modern tables.

Wash fresh grape leaves thoroughly. If canned leaves are used, rinse in water to remove excess brine.

Place one tablespoon of meat mixture in center of large leaf, or two small ones (shiny side of leaf should be on outside when rolled). Carefully fold over top and sides and roll up. Place a few coarse leaves in bottom of Dutch oven or heavy kettle. Carefully arrange the balls atop leaves, side by side and in layers until all filling and leaves are used. Add two cups water and a little butter and salt. Cover and simmer for 30-45 minutes. Serve hot with egg/lemon sauce.

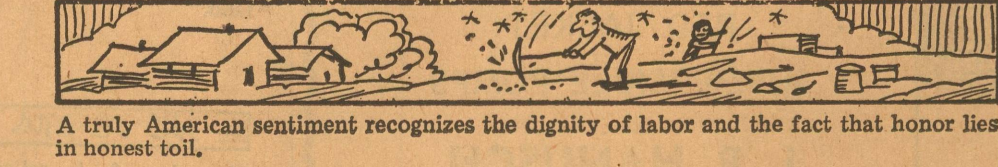

Egg/Lemon Sauce
3 eggs
juice of 2 lemons (6 tablespoons lemon juice)
5 to 6 tablespoons liquid from kettle used to cook grape leaves

Beat eggs slightly. Add lemon juice and beat well. Add liquid from kettle one tablespoon at a time, beating constantly. Pour over stuffed grape leaves. Serves 6.

Greek Zucchini
2 pounds zucchini (about 4 ounces each)
½ cup salad oil
6 tablespoons lemon juice
Cook washed zucchini in boiling salted water until tender, about 3 to 5 minutes. Drain; slice in half lengthwise. Arrange in shallow dish. Combine salad oil and lemon juice; shake to blend. Sprinkle over zucchini.

Rice Pudding
1 cup rice (uncooked)
4 eggs
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
Milk
Cook rice according to package directions; 1 cup uncooked rice should yield about 3 cups cooked rice. Beat eggs; blend in sugar and vanilla. Turn rice into 1½-quart buttered casserole. Pour egg mixture over rice, being careful to cover all grains on surface. Add just enough milk (about ¾ cup) to bring liquid to surface. Bake in 325° oven until solid.

A truly American sentiment recognizes the dignity of labor and the fact that honor lies in honest toil.

An ancient Greek medical text advised a person in a flea-infested area to cry, "Ouch! Ouch!" and the fleas would not bite.

Many homemakers are busy these days making pickles. Listed below are some common pickle problems and the reasons for them.

Bulletins on pickles are available at my office. Come by and pick one up.

Soft or slippery pickles: using too weak brine for curing; using too weak vinegar; not removing scum on surface of brine; not keeping cucumbers covered with brine; storing pickles in too warm storage area; use of hard water; using cucumbers with blossom attached.

Shriveling: Allowing too much time to lapse between gathering and pickling; placing cucumbers in too strong brine at beginning of curing; using too heavy syrup or too sweet pickling solution; using too strong vinegar solution.

Hollow pickles: faulty growth; improper curing; cucumbers standing too long before being processed; high temperatures during fermentation process.

Dark pickles: minerals in water, especially iron; cooking utensils (do not use copper, brass, galvanized or iron); ground spices (such as cloves); cooked too long with spices; low nitrogen content of cucumbers.

Dull or faded color: poor quality of cucumber; sunburned; overmature; grown under unfavorable conditions; cucumbers not graded.

White sediment in bottom of jar: use of table salt; bacteria that grows during fermentation; temperature not controlled.

Causes of spoilage: Non-pasteurization; using ingredients that have deteriorated; not using standard jars and new lids.

Reasons for lids not sealing or release seal, using recipe that does not require heat; using off-standard jars; using Open Kettle method and not having pickling solution boiling hot; filling jars with large cold cucumbers and pouring hot pickling solution over several jars at a time; several jars filled before lids are placed on jars and bands screwed firmly tight (fill and cap only one jar at a time); not processing filled jars a short time in boiling water bath. USDA recommends processing all pickles and relishes in boiling water bath.

It is possible to go wrong in many ways, but right in only one. The former is thus easy and the latter difficult.

Many of us grew up with pictures of caravans crossing the sands of the Sahara. Those in the West know that the desert has many faces. One of our common mistakes in life is to assume that trees make a forest, flowers a garden, clothes a man... that appearances promise reality. One of the invaluable influences of Christianity upon society has been its distinction between the facade and the truth. Christ taught that men must be known by their faith. Lack of spiritual concern is the surest way to make the world a desert of trees... a society of people without a sense of responsibility. Wastelands cry out for reclamation. The Church Christ founded is reclaiming our society for Him. You need its Message.
