It's A General Holiday
Today, Thursday, November 25— is Thanksgiving Day and is a general holiday. Most local offices and stores are closed for the day.

Establishments remaining open include service stations, convenience food stores, and a few cafes who will serve people who don't care to fix a big dinner at home.

Jerrold Sanders' El Dorado Restaurant will serve a Buffet on Thanksgiving Day. Menu is given in the ad on page 5.

Anna's Inn is also open to serve Thanksgiving dinner.

School turns out at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon for a four-day week end and will reconvene Monday morning.

Most other working people will be back at their jobs Friday morning.

Initiative Is Thanksgiving Tradition
The historical background of Thanksgiving Day reminds us that initiative is one of the vital keys to success.

The hardy Pilgrims of Plymouth Bay Colony demonstrated that opportunity was there for those willing to work for it. The Colonists withstood the privations of an untamed wilderness. They used muscle and perseverance to work out their destiny. They did not push a panic button for the "old country" to bail them out.

Just as incentive was the motivating force of our forefathers and freedom their goal, so should these be uppermost in our minds today.

Yes, we do have a different world. We have come a long way in social, educational, technical and scientific progress. But we must have a profound dedication to freedom to spark our initiative to work and prosper.

Let us have more incentive to perpetuate this freedom, so we can continue to prosper, under Divine guidance, profiting by the Colonists' example.

The weather outlook for mid-November to mid-December, according to the Weather Service for Texas predicts it will be cool and wet. They predict that temperatures will be below normal and rain will be above normal.

As for Schleicher county, we have already known that.

Nursing Home Notes

Everything moved along smoothly in the Home last week.

All of the residents were well, for which we are all thankful.

There are a few who move about in a wheel chair and all the others are able to walk and are very happy that they can.

On Monday mornings we gather in the Dining Room and have Happy Hour. During that hour we do some exercises that help in keeping us with good use of our hands. Then we sing old familiar songs which we enjoy very much.

Mrs. James Page comes in and plays the piano for us while we play and we appreciate her doing this for us.

On Tuesday mornings we have Arts and Crafts. We are now making Christmas decorations. On Wednesday mornings we play Bingo. On Thursday morning the ones who enjoy playing dominoes meet in the Dining Room and play several games.

On Friday mornings we play Bingo again.

The Bingo winners last Wednesday were: Beulah Harris, two games; Elva Daniels, one game; LaVita Brooks, three games.

The Bingo winners on Friday were: Lizzie McAngus, Erna Rexroat, Elva Daniels, Beulah Harris.

Cotton Coming In But Slowly

Monday of this week, 23 bales of cotton had been ginned at Mikeska Gin, which serves the county. About 20 bales of cotton in trailers were waiting in the gin yard.

Wayne Mikeska stated that if the weather stays dry, a lot more cotton will come in.

Earl and David Lloyd and Steve Williams have already brought in cotton for ginning, and maybe Whip Faulk has had some ginned; at any rate this year's cotton season has been a real problem to the cotton farmers. Last Spring started off dry, and rain at the wrong time has added to the problem.

Bill To Change Primary Law

Legislation to revive and extend an altered version of a presidential preference primary in Texas has been prefiled in the House of Representatives.

The bill by Reps. Sarah Weddington of Austin, Luther Jones of El Paso and Lance Lalor of Houston would establish a proportional primary system. Delegates would be selected by state political party conventions in proportion to the state wide popular vote (for candidates receiving more than 6% of the total).

State Democratic Executive Committee is expected to come up with its own version of primary legislation after a special committee study.

Rites At McCamey For Slain Trooper

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in McCamey for Sammy Long, an 18-year veteran of the Texas Highway Patrol, who was shot Sunday night near Rankin after stopping an unidentified driver on a traffic violation. The driver shot Long, and then was himself shot by a deer hunter who was stopped a short distance away at a roadside park.

That deer hunter was unidentified and apparently wanted his name to remain unknown, but he was considered a hero in the Rankin area.

At the time of Long's funeral, lawmen and lab technologists were trying to identify the body of his killer from fingerprints and other sources.

Oil Allowable Reduced For State

Austin, Tex.—Texas oil supplies are decreasing, and the Railroad Commission is sending out the alarm.

The commission last week, for the first time in more than four years, reduced the statewide production allowable—from 100% to 99%.

Although the cut is small, it is designed to get big results by gaining Washington's attention.

About 40% of U. S. crude oil is produced in Texas.

In 1975, the total for the state came to 1.2 billion barrels, but outflow is off 26 million barrels in 1976.

"Whether this will be good, bad or indifferent, I think it's time that the people in Washington begin to realize that the capacity of Texas to continue to produce crude oil and natural gas with the declining incentives to do so is having a diminishing effect upon our natural resources in Texas," said Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon.

Commissioner Mack Wallace said new steps must be taken to alert the nation to "the very severe problem that continuously approaches us without any activity on the part of the congress to alleviate the problem."

The change in the allowable will lower estimated crude oil production only about 7,500 barrels a day to 3,124,500 barrels.

Commissioners stated the production trim would save oil for possible emergency use.

The East Texas Field again was restricted to 86% production.

Mr. McDonald served as Percussion Judge for the All-District try-out.

The three band members participated in a band concert that evening. At that time all members and their directors were recognized.

Jim Bob, Willie, and Lisa are now preparing to attend Region VII All-Region Band try-outs to be held December 10-11 in Ballinger.

Jim Bob, Willie, and Lisa are very appreciative of the time and effort that Mr. Mac has given. —Lisa Smith.

$1,377.34 Paid City Of Eldorado

Austin, Tex.—Comptroller Bob Bullock announced that his office mailed checks totaling $13.2 million Monday to 640 Texas cities as their November rebate of the 1% city sales tax.

Bullock said this raises to $252.2 million the amount that the cities have received in rebates this calendar year, an increase of $28.5 million—or nearly 13%—over the same period a year ago.

"This increase in consumer spending is a good sign that the Texas economy is on the right track," Bullock said.

The city sales tax is collected along with the state sales tax by retailers. The Comptroller's Office rebates to the cities their share on a monthly basis.

The City of Eldorado was rebated $1,377.34.

Tour Set For December 5th Of The James Hunt Home In Sonora, Texas

The Sonora Womans' Club is sponsoring a benefit Home Tour of the James Hunt home in Sonora December 5, 1976 from 4:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Tickets will be $2.00 per person and can be purchased from Eldorado Ticket Chairman Mrs. Bob Sykes, telephone number 853-2628.

Tickets will also be available at the door that day. This event is for the whole family.

This home tour is to benefit the Sonora Womans' Club Library. The Sonora Library is supported solely by the Sonora Womans' Club.

At the Open House, the Hunts' home will be decorated in typical Williamsburg Christmas decor and Early American Christmas goodies will be served, with the ladies conducting the tour wearing costumes of that period.

If George Washington, or Ben Franklin or Thomas Jefferson came back to visit the United States today to see what had happened during the past two centuries, they probably would feel most comfortable in the home in Sonora of James and Linda Hunt.

The new "old" house of the Hunts is a gracious step backward to a time of large, sweeping rooms and candlelight reflected by popular "looking glasses" of the day. It spurns today's inelegant trend of having one huge multi-purpose room and precisely recreates the days of formal rooms, libraries, sitting rooms and informal "day rooms."

The Hunts began plans for their dream house with their marriage 16 years ago.

All the furnishings and fixtures in the house are either original antique pieces or are faithful reproductions. Not one detail of the house or its contents differs from the 18th Century time period.

"The house was completed the first of February," Hunt said proudly, adding, "We thought it was fun to complete it in the Bicentennial year."

The two-storey brick home contains ten main rooms. Downstairs, there is a spacious entry to the left and a formal living room to the right. The entry ends past the staircase in the back of the house in what the Hunts call the "morning room." Behind the formal dining room is the kitchen and pantry, and behind the living room is a library-study, guest bedroom and a guest bath.

"We love our home. It's our hobby," Mrs. Hunt said. "We liked this period best, the 18th Century, the time of Williamsburg, Va., and Deerfield, Mass. We would always go to those places when we went on vacation. We learn something new every time we go back. We studied the period and are still studying. I think we knew if we ever built a home we would want an Early American home."

Decorating elements for colonial homes were simple and tasteful, as a look around the Hunt home will tell you. Dried flowers were used as much back then as they are today. Bird cages were widely used for decoration, and many of them were decorated with ivory.

The Hunts say their house exterior is a scaled down center section of Westover, a James River plantation house located near Richmond and Williamsburg. The interior is typical of that day, with the entry hall and formal rooms to each side.

Hunt, a rancher, and his wife say that the most flattering thing a visitor can do is forget that their house is new.

The Prospects For The 94th Congress

(by Congressman Bob Krueger)

Now that the elections have passed, we have a new President, and the Members of Congress are beginning to return to Washington in order to prepare for the coming year, speculation naturally turns to what sort of Congress it will be and what kind of legislation it will produce.

The new Congress reflects some basic changes in the way our government functions. First, nearly a third of the Members will have served one term or less. Second, many of the more powerful committee chairmen are retiring, so there will be a new leadership, and newer Members will have an opportunity to participate fully in representing their constituencies.

Although the Congress will be more receptive to new ideas and innovative policies than it has been in the past few years, I would not expect to see any sweeping changes immediately. As Jefferson said, "Great innovations should not be forced on slender majorities." President-elect Carter has indicated that although he wants to lead the government in some new directions, he will move cautiously, carefully considering each move. This type of "businessman's perspective" should be a welcome change in Washington.

I will be working again in this Congress to help direct our nation toward a national energy policy which is sensible and does not depend too heavily on foreign energy sources. Similarly, I intend to pursue steadily the goal of a balanced budget and will, wherever possible, vote against wasteful spending.

On the basis of the agricultural research tour which I took in October, I will be looking for new ways to encourage and support agricultural research. My hope is that with a farmer in the White House, this will be an idea which is warmly received.

Other matters such as health care and our national defense will require careful consideration. The world will be looking to the United States for guidance, and I will work to see that the decisions which we in the Congress make will be in the best interests of our nation and the world.

The Congress will face a number of difficult issues in the next year, and I think all of us in Washington are committed to doing what is right, what is best for our constituencies and for our country. In achieving that worthy goal, we will need the support, advice, and guidance of the people we represent. Working together, I am optimistic that we can, in the words of our new President, have "a government as good as our people are."

Ellington Funeral Held In Houston

Franklin Hopper Ellington, Jr., 84, of 5806 Hornwood in Houston passed away November 13, 1976.

He was a retired rancher and a veteran of World War I. He was a member of the American Legion.

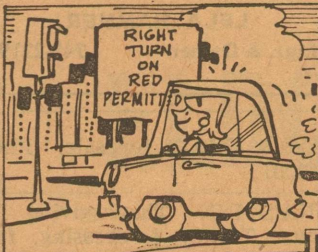

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Berta Ellington, Houston; sisters, Miss Mae Ellington, Miss Norine Ellington and Miss Thelma Ellington, all of Sugar Land; a brother, Carl D. Ellington, Sugar Land; nieces, Mrs. Mary Stickler, Kingsville; Mrs. Lilla Smith, Houston; Mrs. Ruth Whitfield, Denison.

Funeral services and burial were held Nov. 15th in Houston. Submitted by Mae Ellington, 515 Kyle St., Sugar Land, Texas 77478.

Let your neighbor park his parking problem in your driveway. When he's planning a party and you're not using your car, offer the space for company.

If you are scouting around for a project, why not work with your local Boy Scout or Girl Scout group?

Support laws (you can even write to your congressman) that will help the country. For example, lots of people and groups, including the American Trucking Associations, want to pass a law permitting cars and trucks to make right turns on red signals and left turns on red signals on one-way streets. The practice, according to the ATA spokesman, would lower motor carrier fuel consumption, save the industry money and substantially reduce fuel emissions. It would also save delivery time, enhance safe operation of motor vehicles, and reduce intersection congestion.

Stark To Work On Advanced Degree

Rev. Gene Stark, pastor of the First Baptist Church, has been accepted by Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Ft. Worth to begin work on the school's Doctor of Ministry Degree. Southwestern Seminary offers two degrees on the doctoral level. The seminary's Doctor of Philosophy degree is designed primarily to prepare persons for teaching in specialized areas of religion, as well as providing breadth in education and training.

The Doctor of Ministry degree program is advanced professional education for the practice of Christian ministry. The program is designed to correlate studies in basic ministry which are informed by the classical theological disciplines with opportunity for the development of professional skills in ministry. This program provides training for both the traditional and emerging ministries of the church. The program is designed for students of superior academic ability who give promise of excellence in ministry. It is so structured that students can continue their present ministry, even at a distance from the seminary, and pursue the D. Min. degree.

Mr. Stark will attend seminars during the months of February, July, and October. He will be at the seminary during the week and at home on weekends during these three months. While in between seminar periods, Mr. Stark will be completing seminar requirements before beginning another series of classes. After completing all seminar work, Mr. Stark will work on his chosen professional project. When all requirements for the degree are completed, he will graduate after a course of study involving approximately three years.

Requirements for admission to the program involve a minimal grade point average of 3.00; a satisfactory score on the Graduate Record Examination and the Miller Analogies Test; a ten page personal essay reflecting the candidate's view of the Christian ministry and his role in it; and a personal interview with a representative of the seminary's Committee on the Doctor of Ministry Degree.

First Baptist Church, in a special called business conference, last Sunday, voted to allow Rev. Stark to pursue this course of study while remaining pastor of the church.

Americans And Ice Cubes — Twentieth Century Love Story

Americans born in the last half of the 20th Century take the availability of ice in their homes for granted.

But, in reality, ice for food preservation, treating hangovers, chilling liquids, and numbing aches and bruises is a fairly recent phenomenon.

Man has known about the benefits of ice for millenniums, but throughout much of recorded history only those living in cold, northern climates were able to take advantage of it, and then generally only in the winter months. In warmer climates, ice at any time was almost a miracle, although not necessarily unknown to the wealthy. In the First Century A.D., for example, the Roman Emperor Nero dispatched sprinters to the tops of nearby mountains to bring back snow to help him keep cool.

In this country, in Colonial times, many homeowners developed the practice of cutting winter ice on northern lakes and storing it beneath layers of sawdust in caves, cellars or ice houses. Eventually, commercial distribution of 25, 50 and 100 pound blocks of ice, door-to-door began in large cities, and as the demand escalated natural ice was supplemented early in the 20th Century by artificial ice produced in ice factories by mechanical refrigeration systems.

The iceman continued to visit most "modern" American homes right up until World War II, although his days began to be numbered a generation earlier when several manufacturers introduced small home refrigeration systems consisting of condensing units with external motors located in the basement and refrigerant lines leading to the existing ice box in the kitchen.

Household refrigeration received its biggest shot in the arm when General Electric in the late '20's introduced the famed Monitor-Top model, with a hermetically sealed motor and compressor.

Early refrigerators had tiny compartments for making one or two trays of ice cubes, a process that often took overnight. The first two-door refrigerator, with a separate zero-degree freezer compartment, was introduced in the late '40's, markedly speeding the process of ice making.

The pace of appliance development has been rapid in the past two decades. The automatic icemaker was pioneered in 1953, and today such units are available for most refrigerator-freezers and can make upwards of 160 cubes in a 24-hour period.

In the '60s, General Electric developed the Custom Dispenser — a feature which permits the consumer to get ice cubes, crushed ice, or ice water from a dispenser in the freezer door, without ever opening the door. Later, Hotpoint introduced a pull-down ice bucket in the freezer door which is constantly replenished by an automatic ice maker, and last year added a chilled water dispenser to two such models.

Ice — at one time unavailable at any price, particularly in the South — is today at the fingertips of most American homemakers for just pennies per week.

Fire Truck Request Given to Commissioners

At a recent meeting of the County Commissioners, Jerry Richards representing the fire department requested the Court consider future purchase of a fire truck. It would be used as a grass fire truck with pumping capabilities. The truck would have 2½ ton chassis, a 600-gallon tank, and a 200 GPM pump. Estimated cost of the equipment $30,000. How's Your Knowledge Of Economics?

Surprisingly, fewer than one-third of all students completing the 12th grade will have had a separate course in economics.

Only one state in the country requires its high school students to take any economics course.

And, in a simple test administered to more than 21,000 high school students, over half of them did not know the United States economy is based on the free enterprise system.

ECONOMICS CLASS

Surprising Statistic—Many high school students do not know our economy is based on the free enterprise system.

With these grim statistics it's not hard to understand that when Americans get frustrated and unhappy by business misconduct and economic problems they tend to seek government intervention to relieve the problems and provide solutions. This in turn causes regulatory agencies to get together with business, congressmen to support anti-business legislation, and government to extend its regulations outside its normal province.

Many economists feel that this type of reaction will harm the free enterprise system which has made our country so great.

The author heads a company that is known for its product development. Among its many new products are a line of "E-plus" energy efficient motors designed to achieve higher efficiencies and power factor.

Pork Good Meat Choice Now
Pork fits all needs now. It's plentiful, nutritious and moderately priced in most markets. Pork supplies are considerably larger than last year's 40-year low and are expected to increase throughout the first half of 1977.

Since most pork comes from young animals, tenderness and flavor are fairly consistent. Be sure to read the label on prepackaged cuts. Labels show the name of the cut and its price per pound, weight and total price.

We advise consumers to look for these high-quality characteristics:
—Lean meat, delicate rose or grayish pink in color, smooth, fine-grained and velvety, marbled with fat.

—Fat, firm and white.
—Bone, pink in center.
In some markets they are trimming off part of the outside fat before packaging pork cuts. Producers are trying to grow pigs that have less fat, too. These practices are making pork better values.

Dark green color sometimes present on the outside of the yolk and white of hardcooked eggs is harmless. It is caused by heating too long or at too high a temperature.

Consumer Food News . . .
College Station, Tex.—Sharp price drops make frozen chicken livers a "star attraction" at Texas grocery stores currently.

"Excessive supplies" of frozen chicken livers stem from several factors, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, says.

Less demand for them by fast-food outlets, which buy more and more chicken without giblets—and the fact that the U. S. Department of Agriculture provides poultry without giblets for school lunches—are two reasons for the abundance, she said.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

At other meat sections, beef and pork prices are lower than at this time last year.

"Many cuts are featured at special prices, so it's a good time to buy at the freezer," Mrs. Clyatt advises.

Bacon's lower prices are an added highlight on the pork-buying scene.

At vegetable counters, most economical choices—at top quality—are collards, mustard, turnips and greens, dry yellow onions, cabbage and carrots, the specialist reported.

Other top choices include white potatoes, cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts, she said.

"Also, two hard-shell squash varieties, acorn and butternut, are lower in price, making them a good choice."

Tangelos and apples top the quality-economy fruit supply list, while bananas, pears and grapes are other economical choices.

Forecasters predict a near record crop for Navel oranges and grapefruit—which should mean reasonable prices and a real taste treat for those items, the specialist said.

Dairy features are more numerous—with special emphasis on milk, half and half, sour cream, whipping cream and a variety of cheeses.

Consumer Watchwords: In buying pears, remember that after they're bought, usually they need a few days' ripening at room temperature.

OIL NEWS

Schleicher county gained a discovery and a re-entry operation recently.

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1 W. E. DeLong, re-entered dual Pennsylvanian conglomerate and Canyon gas producer in the Velrex, Southwest field of Schleicher County, 11½ miles northwest of Eldorado, has been completed as a Strawn gas discovery for a calculated, absolute open flow of 4.8 million cubic feet of gas daily.

Production was through perforations at 7,257-301 feet, which had been acidized with 6,000 gallons.

Originally drilled to 7,473 feet, it was finished June 1, 1966 from the Canyon for a calculated, absolute open flow of 1,030,000 cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 37,900-1, through perforations at 6,655-657 feet; and June 8, 1966 from the Pennsylvanian conglomerate (identified by the firm as Strawn) for a calculated, absolute open flow of 6.2 million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 53,100-1, through perforations at 7,385-410 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the north and 1,320 feet from the west lines of 6-TT-TCRR.

Re-Entry Slated

Discovery Operating, Inc., Midland, will re-enter and clean out to 6,831 feet for recompletion attempt as a ¾ mile west-southwest extension to the Cody Bell (Canyon gas) field at the former Dr. W. M. Dow No. 1 Mosher-Roach, 6,839-foot failure eight miles north-northwest of Eldorado. It is the No. 1-A J. T. Roach.

Slated as a stepout to the Case (Canyon) field, it was abandoned Aug. 3, 1966.

Location, exception to Rule No. 37, is 660 feet from the north and 1,320 feet from the east lines of 10-TT-TCRR.

It is a north offset to the firm's No. 1 J. T. Roach, re-entered 6,682-foot failure 7/8 mile southwest of the Cody Bell field, 1,420 feet from the north and 1,320 feet from the east lines of the same section.

Scheduled to clean out to 6,850 feet, it was abandoned July 23 by Joseph I. O'Neill Jr., at 6,682 feet.

Schleicher County gained a prolific oil discovery last week.

Tucker Drilling Co., Inc., San Angelo, No. 1 Jeanette Wheeler, Schleicher County Harkey sand discovery, 5/8 mile east of the recently opened Page, East (5150) field and 9.7 miles east-southeast of Eldorado, was finished for a calculated, daily open flowing potential of 264 barrels of 40 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,600-1.

Potential was based on a 12-hour flow of 132 barrels of oil on a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 4,617½-624 feet. Completion was natural.

The Palo Pinto was topped at 4,490 feet and the Harkey sand at 4,612 feet on Kelly bushing elevation of 2,249 feet.

THANKSGIVING DAY

This is the time for feasting with family and friends and for offering thanks for our many blessings. As our Bicentennial year draws to a close, let us offer thanks for the blessings of freedom. And, let us also remember our forefathers who celebrated Thanksgiving in a new and undeveloped land more than 350 years ago. It was they who established the tradition of setting aside one day of the year to offer thanks for their bounteous harvest, their freedom of choice and for their homes. It behooves us, in 1976, to make every effort to preserve these freedoms for which they so valiantly fought.

1. The dried flowers, fruit and leaves of trees, weeds and grass are yours for the collecting. They make beautiful dried arrangements for winter time use.
2. Clean up leaves and dried fruit around trees, shrubs, and vegetable gardens as these are excellent overwintering places for insect and disease problems.
3. Check those bulbs you are chilling in the refrigerator for disease and dehydration.
4. Daffodils and Dutch iris may be planted this month. Choose only healthy, sound bulbs and plant in well prepared soil with good drainage.
5. Time to clean and repair garden tools before placing in storage for the winter. Rub a light coat of oil on unpainted metal surfaces to prevent rust. Sand any rough spots on wooden handles then dress with linseed oil.
6. Any power equipment needing repairs should be tagged and if possible sent to the shop now rather than waiting until the Spring rush.
7. Mulch plantings to protect against winter cold. Pine needles, clean hay and straw make excellent insulation against the cold.
8. Plant Spring-flowering annuals and perennials, including pansies, snapdragons, pinks.
9. Still time to transplant iris, daylilies, shasta daisies and other Spring-flowering perennials.
10. As a temporary cover to hold soil over winter, plant ryegrass seed at the rate of 5-10 pounds per 100 sq. ft.
11. Check plants brought into the house or greenhouse for spider mites, mealy bugs, aphids, scale, and white fly. Don't allow these pests to get a head start.
12. Just because frost has turned the grass brown, don't neglect to water evergreen trees and shrubs during those winter dry spells. Plants beneath the roof overhang are extremely vulnerable to drought induced cold injury.
13. Don't be in a hurry to prune trees and shrubs unless you are transplanting them; wait until January and February.
14. Continue to watch for Brown Patch in St. Augustine lawns. Terraclor is the recommended fungicide.
15. Be prepared to protect the tender plants in your garden from that first frost. We often have several weeks of good growing weather after that first frost if we can protect them.
16. If the plants you moved indoors don't appear happy, it may be because the area is too dark. Your hand can serve as a means of determining light intensity in the home that works reasonably well. Pass your hand over the plant and in front of the light source. If you see a sharp, clear shadow, the light is considered high in intensity. A soft diffused shadow indicates medium light while a faintly discernable shadow means a very low light intensity.
17. If you don't have enough window space for all your potted plants try growing them under one of the many fluorescent lights made especially for plants.
18. If you like birds in the landscape, provide some winter feeding stations to attract them.
19. Resist the impulse to purchase that attractive plant until you are sure you have a place for it are sure you have a place for it

Onions For The Home Gardener

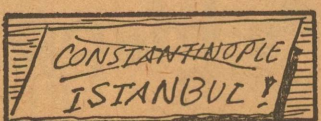

Onions are a welcome addition to any culinary dish, and they make a welcome addition to any garden or an unused corner of your flowerbed.

Planting onion seed now in a sunny corner of the garden will produce an added spice for Christmas festivities or shortly thereafter. The timing of your onion crop is important. For small, bunch onions, harvesting can begin several months after the seed is planted while the onion is still in the immature stage.

For bulb onions, allow the plants to grow another three to four months. The reason for the correct

Heed These Holiday Safety Tips

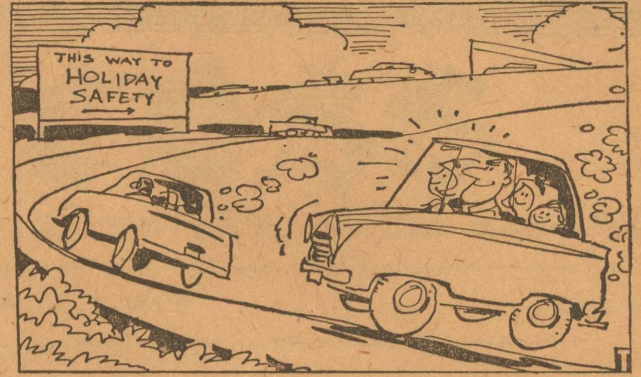

Every year millions of Americans take to the road to share traditional holiday dinners and cheer with friends and loved ones. Unfortunately, some visitors never return home. Travel is only three per cent higher over holiday periods, yet the death rate averages 14 per cent higher.

During last year's extended Thanksgiving weekend, 496 people were killed on the nation's highways, and, during the 1975 Christmas holiday, 204 people met with the same fate. It doesn't have to be this way, reminds Royal-Globe Insurance Companies.

When driving always use safety belts, keep within posted speed limits and reduce speed on snowy, icy or rain slick roads. You may arrive a little later, but you will arrive.

If fog develops, slow down, and put your lights on low beam, so those in front and behind can see you. Low beams make it less likely that you will be blinded by the bright reflection from your own lights.

Winter weather conditions in many parts of the country make driving hazardous. When you leave for holiday festivities, be prepared!

Take the time before your trip to check your cooling and heating systems. Make certain there is adequate antifreeze in both your radiator and windshield washer reservoir. Examine windshield wipers, battery, front and rear defrosters, head and taillights, directional signals and other accessories that will ease the task of hazardous winter driving. You should also carry an emergency first aid kit, and when you find it necessary to pull off the road for any reason, place a set of flares around your car to alert other motorists.

If you must use snowy or icy roads, be equipped with snow tires or tire chains. A bag of sand in the car and a shovel may also be helpful. For slowing or stopping in snow, ice or rain, motorists should pump the brakes lightly, thereby increasing traction and lessening the chance of skidding.

Alcohol continues to be the cause of many fatal accidents. If you must drink, don't drive. If you must drive, don't drink.

Motorists should also be alert for pedestrians, especially when winter days become shorter. Remember that slippery conditions also make walking more difficult.

When leaving home to visit with friends and relatives this holiday season, use your head. Think ahead. Think about returning home safely.

From its beginning, this nation has been blessed in so many ways . . . in its land, in its people, and in its government. It is only right that we take time from our busy lives to acknowledge the source of all these blessings, our Creator.

The Highway Gobbler

The highway gobbler is the driver who acts like he's the only one on the road. He's always driving a little faster than the speed limit, passing to get a little further ahead, or tailgating when he can't pass. This Thanksgiving weekend, there's no room for the Highway gobbler.

Don't gobble. Just eat turkey.
