

One injured in $100,000 accident Tuesday morning

A San Angelo man was injured in an accident about three miles south of Eldorado early Tuesday morning on FM 2129.

The accident happened about 6:15 a.m. when a truck driven by James P. Kennedy hit some caliche piled on the road for repair work and flipped over in the bar ditch.

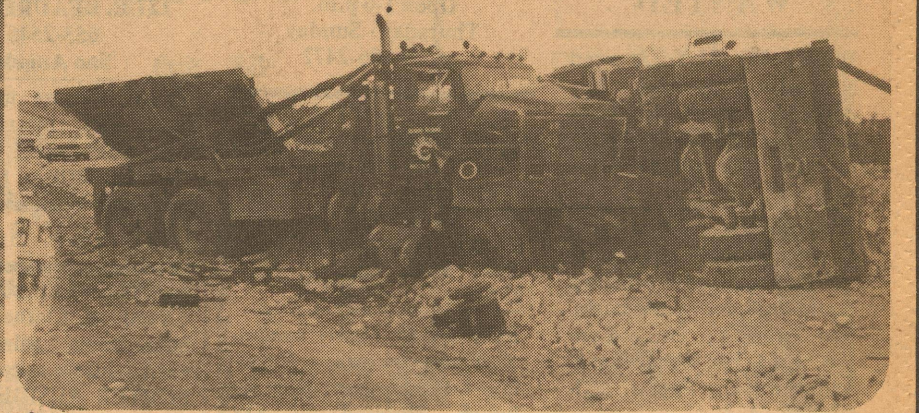

A second truck, driven by Paul G. Herode, following the first truck, collided with it. Kennedy was taken to Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital and admitted. Herode was not reported as injured in the accident. Both drivers, who live in San Angelo, were driving vehicles owned by J.E. Cox and Sons, Inc., of San Angelo.

Highway patrolman Dale Cavanaugh investigated the incident.

City approves '78 budget

by Jim McWilliams

The Eldorado City Council approved the half million dollar city budget and left the ad valorem tax at its present rate. The action came last Tuesday night in a special budget meeting.

The budget is final, but the Express News will wait until later this month to publish the actual figures. There are some minor computations that need to be made in the budget, and some minor changes may be made before the September first deadline.

The new budget will carry an increase in the trash collection rate, and a 10 percent increase in water and gas rates. The minimum for gas and water will remain the same. They are $3 for the first 2,000 cubic feet of gas and $3.50 for the first 3,000 gallons of water. However, the 10 percent raise in charges above the minimum is needed to improve the city's pipeline system.

The council decided it would be better to raise rates 5 percent or 10 percent every two years than to wait 5 years and raise the rates 30 percent to 40 percent.

The tax rate of $1.50 per $100 evaluation will remain in effect. The Council will want to re-evaluate each piece of property within the city limits. The Council feels there are some inequities in the present assessments. But they want to do a complete inspection of the tax roll before any action is taken. It will most likely come during the 1979 or 1980 fiscal year.

City employees who work on a full time or regular basis will get a 5 percent raise effective September 1. The raises will increase the city's payroll by $370 a month.

The Council will ask the Texas Highway Department to make 30 miles per hour the speed limit from city limit to city limit. They will also ask for a traffic signal to replace the flashing light at the intersection of Highway 277 and the Menard and Mertzon highways.

The Council is in the process of buying more road and alley equipment. They purchased a tractor with a front-end loader for $2750 from Walter Powell. And are in the process of buying a 2 Ton dump truck chassis from Angelo Truck and Tractor for $7,600. It was the lowest of four bids submitted to the city.

There will be a regular meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Members present were Mayor Pat Ragsdale, Alderman Bobby Sykes, Bill McCravy, Richard Kent, and Jimmy Doyle. Raymond Hall was absent.

Co-Op meeting is planned

Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative, Inc., will have its 32nd annual membership meeting and barbeque for members and their guests at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the courthouse lawn.

After the free meal, the business session will be called to order by president J. D. Strauss. Members will hear the reading of minutes from last year's meeting, and elect two directors for three year terms and hear reports on the past years activities by the co-op staff.

Nominated for the two directors were Steve Williams, Fred H. Case, William L. Brown and U. E. Rogers. However, Rogers requested that his name be withdrawn from nomination.

According to statistics listed in the annual report published by the cooperative, the average bill in 1976 was $50.19 as compared to $25.59 in 1971. The cooperative now has 3,409 miles of line as compared to 2,853 in 1971 and 1.24 meters per mile of line as compared to 1.1 in 1971.

According to the balance sheet in the report, the cooperative has assets totaling $8,226,912.

Jr. high physicals

Junior High School football boys should meet at 1 p.m. Thursday, August 11, in the High School gymnasium for their physicals.

Coach Tim Terry will be in charge of the annual checkups.

15 days... then school

Any new students who plan to attend Eldorado Elementary School for the first time should register during the week of August 8-12.

Walter Wallis, elementary principal, said kindergarten and first grade students will need birth certificates and immunization records. All other students will need immunization records as well.

High School registration will be August 16 and 17 in the high school library.

Fire calls

Bill Radle, Schleicher County Fire Chief, reported the following breakdown of fire calls for the month of July:

14 Total Alarms, 12 grass fires, 1 trash fire, 1 auto fire. Nine calls involved fireworks. Eight calls were outside the city, six were within the city limits.

Jail report is received

Schleicher County Sheriff Orval Edmiston has received a report from the recent inspection of the county jail from the Texas State Commission of Jail Standards.

The report is broken into two parts, mandatory standards and recommended standards.

According to the report, the Schleicher County Jail meets or exceeds 156 of the mandatory items and 65 of the recommended ones.

The commission's inspector found fault with the jail's wiring, lighting, ventilation, safety measures and over all facilities. The cells, bunks and room in front of the cells are not large enough. Also, the jail lacks adequate toilet and shower facilities.

The jail also needs a posted set of rules and regulations written in both Spanish and English, plans for all emergencies, an area for inspection of female prisoners, fire exits and a visitation area.

Edmiston said the county would have to try to meet the standards and prove to the commission that they are trying to comply with the set of regulations, passed in 1959 and amended in 1975.

Sunflowers may be profitable

by Paul McWhorter

Cotton, wheat, and maze are familiar crops to citizens of Eldorado; however, Billy Williams has a crop that is not so commonplace in this area. Recently Mr Williams planted his first crop of sunflowers.

Although sunflowers have a number of economic uses, the specific type Mr Williams is growing will be sold to John F. Herbzer who will ship them to Europe where they will be converted into cooking oil.

For those unfamiliar with sunflowers a few statistics are in order. The average sunflower stalk is five and one-half foot tall and the head is seven to twelve inches in diameter. The planting to harvest time is usually ninety to one hundred days, which is actually less than the growing time for maze.

When questioned about the equipment necessary for growing sunflowers, Mr Williams said, "The same equipment used in growing maze is used in growing sunflowers except that a special attachment is necessary on the combine in order to harvest the sunflowers."

When questioned about why he started growing sunflowers, Mr Williams stated, "Maze prices weren't as high as we had hoped they would be. We wanted to try a different crop and we decided sunflowers would be a good alternative."

Oh! Yes, it is true according to Mr Williams that sunflowers follow the sun across the sky from east to west each day. The only exception is the mature sunflower whose head is too heavy to follow the sun and thus simply hangs it's head toward the East.

Mr and Mrs Jimmy Doyle returned this past weekend from a trip of several days at Ruidoso.

Mrs Ernestine Hext and Mrs Viola Finnigan spent last week in Austin with their daughter and granddaughter and family, Dr and Mrs Harold Skaggs. Mrs Skaggs underwent surgery while they were there and is doing nicely at this time. Jack Earnest Skaggs, 1 year old grandson and great grandson, returned to Eldorado with the visitors for a week's stay. While packing Jack Earnest's bag, the Skagg's maid, Millie, was overheard telling Jack Earnest that he takes as many vacations as the president. We are sure glad he chose Eldorado for this vacation and hope it was a super one with grandmother's all over the place. Jack Earnest is also a great grandson of Mr and Mrs Ben Hext.

Mr and Mrs Bill Davies & Hays spent the weekend with Mr and Mrs Rance McDonald and also attended the wedding of Pam Love and Capt. Jeff Miller.

Something To Think About

by Jannette Wilkerson

TYING A ROCK ON THEIR HEAD DOESN'T WORK

"What are you doing?" -- "It's called leaving the nest, Mother . . ."

I knew this was coming but it wasn't until I saw the boxes stuffed with 19 years worth of her personal junk and treasures that it really hit me. My mind was a blur of thoughts and memories as I glanced from box to box containing remnants of homecoming corsages, her rhinestoned cat wall clock, a stack of school yearbooks and even her shaggy stuffed gorilla.

"Come on, Mom, you're not gonna tell me again what a cute baby I was - are ya'?"

Well, she was a cute baby and watching her grow to adulthood has been a joy for her father and I - but there should be an easier way to 'leave the nest'. As parents, have we prepared her to begin this new part of her life and a home of her own? She's had all her shots, she brushes her teeth regularly, she comes in out of the rain, and she can make fudge. So I guess the rest will come naturally.

She looked like an angel when she tried on her wedding dress but all I could see was a chubby, blonde, thumbsucking, dragging a 'Tiny Tears' doll by one leg, or my little girl playing 'dress-up'. These fleeting years have transformed my "Shenna, Queen of the Jungle" into a proper young lady ready to embark on the world as Mrs David Crider - and a GRAND one she'll be too. As a homemaker, she'll have no trouble -- I've seen her build a tree house in a mesquite bush - as a cook, she's got it made, because she was the MUD PIE Champion of the world. She'll be a thrifty shopper too, since cut-off's don't cost much.

There seems to be no way to keep those kids from growing up and 'leaving the nest'. But I can tell you - 'this nest' is going to seem mighty empty without Toni. Toni is special, as they all are, and the void left by her bright smile and silly giggle will be felt in our hearts, along with the good wishes and prayers for Toni and David in their new 'nest' - and that's something to think about this week . . .

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
Enclosed you will find my subscription renewal check for the new year. I would like to congratulate you on a job well done. I enjoy the paper very much. The addition of the second issue made it even better. You have made great progress in a year's time and feel confident that you will continue to grow and furnish us "out-of-towners" all the latest news in Eldorado. It is a great little town and the people are the best in the world. I have not lived there in many years, but manage a visit every year. Keep up the good work. It's great to hear from and about home folks.
Sincerely,
Hazel Doyle Bilhartz

Dear Friends,
I am enclosing a check for renewal of my subscription to your very great and newsy paper. I certainly don't want to miss a copy!
You have a great staff and I enjoy reading every item down to the want ads. I thoroughly enjoy Jannette Wilkerson's column as it gives me a lift and my "laugh for the week". She should write a book using her down to earth experiences, humor and knowledge of people.
A belated thanks to the wonderful people in "my home town" in making another Mias Amigas meeting a joyful and unforgettable event.
Sincerely,
Annie (Neill) Hogg

Dear Two Bits,
I am enclosing my check for the Express News as I sure don't want to miss a copy.
Thanks so much to you and your fine staff for such a good publication. It is such a pleasure to those of us who no longer live in Eldorado but are still interested in knowing about all that is happening there.
May continued success be yours.
Sincerely,
Sitter West Mund

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Nine mayors from Texas coastal towns made a trip to Washington to try and revive Seadock, the proposed $700 million Texas offshore terminal facility.

But major oil companies, part of the consortium which planned the facility 26 miles off Freeport to unload foreign oil, said there is little hope.

The companies claimed the federal government attached too stringent terms to licensing and made their sizable investment unsound. Gulf, Mobil and Exxon, which pledged 52 per cent of Seadock's financing, pulled out.

Advocates of the superfort believe it can save $1 a barrel on imported oil costs, permitting transportation of the oil in supertankers which are too large for most existing ports.

Meanwhile, Gov. Dolph Briscoe has signed into law legislation which would permit the state to finance an offshore terminal if Seadock folds as expected.

The bill provides for issue of revenue bonds through a deepwater port authority to build the facility. Revenue would come from users of the terminal, and the state's credit would not be obligated.

The legislation also insures that federal licensing requirements must impose no financial liability (such as for oil spills) on the state.

Tax Expanding

Revenue from 10 state occupation taxes has grown 133 per cent in the last five years—to a total of nearly $1 billion in 1976.

Bullock said oil and gas production taxes led the big increase, leaping from $305.2 million in 1972 to $793.7 million last year.

Oil and gas production taxes account for 80 per cent of all occupation tax revenue in Texas. Gas production taxes jumped 219 per cent and oil taxes 125 per cent during the five year period.

Bullock's monthly report for July showed May state revenues totalled $803.8 million, bringing total receipts for the first nine months of fiscal 1977 to $5.2 billion, a 12 per cent increase.

Sales tax collections, at $391.9 million, were 15 per cent ahead of 1976 levels.

State spending during May totalled $587.8 million. Total expenditures for fiscal 1977 are $5.06 billion, a three per cent increase. A cash balance of $1.5 billion was on hand at the end of May.

Appointments Announced

Gov. Briscoe named Judge Carlos C. Cadena of San Antonio chief justice of the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, succeeding Charles Barrow who took the oath of office last week as a Briscoe appointee to the State Supreme Court.

Court Speaks

The Supreme Court invalidated efforts of the Texas Welfare Department to collect child support payments from out of state men for children born out of wedlock.

The high court accepted for review an appeal in a Kerrville case involving school district employees' liability for injuries to students when the district is free of liability.

A Corpus Christi physician also won high court review of lower court decisions awarding community property and insurance proceeds to the children of his second wife whom he was accused of shooting to death negligently.

Still another appeal will be heard from royalty owners from lower court rulings affecting oil and gas royalties in Live Oak County. The controversy centers on wells drilled into deeper strata from the same lease.

The Supreme Court found a Baytown youth is entitled to $9,625 for a serious cut on his left arm while playing tag on a city tennis court.

AG Opinions

Home addresses and social security numbers of state, city and county employees must be made available on demand (with a few exceptions), Atty. Gen. John Hill held. In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

Immunization is the safest way to get protection for family

Immunization for the whole family is the goal of "August-Immunization Action Month"—as public and volunteer groups promote that campaign across Texas, says Carla Shearer, health education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. The danger is that immunizations are often delayed or forgotten. Childhood diseases don't seem threatening now. However, it is only by immunizing that we prevent epidemics, she says.

Here's what "immunity" is about: The body's immune mechanism—once activated—is a defense system of antibodies that fight infection.

When the body first meets a certain type of infection, it may be slow to respond in developing to the invasion more efficiently. "Immunization, then, is artificial activation of this defense mechanism.

"Once the body has produced the antibodies, it is ready for an invasion of the real thing," the specialist explains.

Check with the doctor, she suggests. Bring family immunization records up to date and keep them that way.

Few changes made in state poultry production

There were a few changes in the top poultry producing counties in Texas during 1976, but 16 counties still accounted for a majority of the state's production, points out a poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The top three broiler counties were Gonzales, Nacogdoches and Shelby. Top counties in egg production and numbers of hens and pullets of laying age were Gonzales, Shelby and Caldwell. McLennan, Bell and Mason counties led in turkey production. Total cash receipts from Texas poultry and poultry products last year were $375 million, up from $343 million in 1975.

ANTHRAX IN LIVESTOCK

CAUSE
 A germ called Bacillus anthracis. The organisms are found throughout the blood and bodies of diseased animals.

MEANS OF SPREAD
 Generally through the swallowing of germs or spores, although infection can also occur through cuts in the skin. Spores represent the dormant stage of the germs and are formed from organisms that are exposed to air through the escape of blood or body excretions from diseased animals. These spores may live in the soil for years and cause localities to be known as "anthrax districts." In the past years tanneries have sometimes spread anthrax through the handling of infected hides. Germ-bearing liquid from the soaking vats was dumped in streams to be carried to pastures. Germs and spores are also carried in grain or roughage grown on infected soil, and in some cases have been traced back to unsterilized bone meal and fertilizers of animal origin. When carcasses are left unburied, the disease may be widely spread by scavengers like crows, dogs, and wild animals. In one case an outbreak of anthrax was started by animals chewing on a piece of infected rope that had dropped off a rendering works truck. The swallowing of anthrax organisms is greatly encouraged by a combination of drouth and hot weather which leads to closer grazing and the drinking of dirty water. Anthrax is also spread by mosquitoes and blood-sucking flies that successively feed on diseased and healthy animals. Spread may also be effected through the use of contaminated instruments used for dehorning, castration, and other types of surgery.

SYMPTOMS
 Sudden death is the most striking one. Healthy-looking animals may simply drop dead or die within a few hours after slobbering, trembling, grinding their teeth and breathing fast. At other times they may live longer and show temperatures above 105 in connection with a pulse rate of nearly 100 and complete stoppage of milk production. Swellings may appear at the throat or in other regions of the body, and a bloody diarrhea is not unusual. Dark blood or bloody foam may escape from the mouth, nostrils, anus, and vulva. Dead bodies fail to stiffen in a normal manner, blood fails to clot, and decomposition sets in early. Opening a dead animal may show bloody areas of the skin and muscles, with bloody liquid in the body cavities. The spleen is commonly greatly enlarged, a fact which is responsible for the name "splenic fever." There are two good reasons why animals suspected of having anthrax should never be opened:

1. Blood and body fluids may be released to contaminate surroundings with spores.
2. Man is susceptible to this disease and is seriously endangered by handling infected material.

DIAGNOSIS

Definitely made only in the laboratory through culturing of organisms, guinea pig injection, and biochemical procedures. However, a tentative diagnosis may be made on the basis of history and symptoms shown by affected animals. When anthrax is suspected, it will be best to deliver specimens to the laboratory rather than mail them. Under field conditions anthrax might be mistaken for such troubles as lightning stroke, poisoning, blackleg, and other causes of sudden death. A veterinarian should be called promptly whenever anthrax is suspected, since an outbreak of this disease represents serious danger for human beings and animals alike in the entire surrounding area.

TREATMENT

Various antibiotics like penicillin and the tetracyclines have been used successfully in the treatment of animals affected with anthrax. However, if treatment is to be successful, these drugs must be given early in massive doses. Animals showing symptoms should be given aqueous penicillin intravenously in combination with procaine penicillin intramuscularly. Animals which react to vaccine should be treated with antibiotics.

PREVENTION

Vaccination is the most practical means in areas where anthrax is known to exist. This should be done every year a month or two in advance of the pasture season. When cattle are in badly contaminated areas, two doses of vaccine two to four weeks apart are recommended. A swelling may develop at the injection site in highly susceptible animals or older ones, and resistance in vaccinates may possibly be overcome by heavy exposure. When resistance breaks down, extra booster vaccinations may be advisable to prevent further losses. Different types of anthrax vaccines are available, and their selection should be left up to your local veterinarian or state officials who are familiar with the specific needs of an area.

In case of an outbreak, sick animals should be isolated as much as possible, with healthy ones being moved to a different location and vaccinated for protection. Dead animals should be promptly burned without cutting the skin. Body excretions of infected animals should be destroyed by burning. Premises should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected after outbreaks, and a quarantine is desirable to prevent the moving of cattle, either living or dead.

Sheep & Goat Industry News

The 62nd Annual Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association convention, recently concluded in Kerrville, brought resolutions concerning predator control, appreciation and sympathy, as well as execution of the Association's official business. All these activities were concluded during what was generally described as one of the most enjoyable sessions in recent memory.

Late in the final business session outgoing president Bill Pfluger, San Angelo, turned control of the meeting over to his newly-elected successor Bill Schneeman, Big Lake. Schneeman, a TS&GRA member for 18 years, served as a director for 15 years and held the first vice president post under Pfluger.

Convention delegates elected Sonoran Norman Rousselot to the first vice president post, and his previous position as second vice president will be filled by Martin Wardlaw, Del Rio. Prior to becoming an officer for the Association, Rousselot served as chairman of the Wool & Mohair Promotion Committee and on the Miss Wool of America Pageant Board. Wardlaw has raised sheep, goats and cattle since 1966 and is a director of the Devil's River Soil and Water Conservation District, as well as a member of the Val Verde County Commissioners' Court.

Predator-related resolutions accepted at the convention include one commending Roy McBride, Alpine, for his work developing the toxic collar for predator control, and also urging that a program be developed in order to register

Compound 1080 for us in the collar.

A related resolution requests that the president of the National Wool Growers meet with President Carter to seek modification of the Executive Order of 1972, which banned the use of chemical toxicants. Still another measure calls on the Texas Agriculture Commissioner to authorize the Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service to rewrite regulations determining the ability of predatory animal hunters to handle restricted pesticides. It was also requested that this authority be granted immediately so that testing and certification could be completed prior to institution of pesticide controls on October 21.

The Association also commended U.S. Congressman Bob Poage "for his invaluable assistance in working for extension and renewal of the National Wool Act." It was requested that sheep producers write Poage to express their appreciation of his contribution.

New Association directors elected at the convention are Jack Hoggett, Junction; Tommy Hayre, Sheffield; Karlos Kothmann, Sanderson; Dr. Paul Weyerts, Alpine; John Copeland Jr., Sterling City; T.F. Foster, Sterling City; Stan K. Horwood, Sterling City; Carl Hyde, Rocksprings; Wayne O. Smith, Lampasas; and Steve Sykes, Christoval. New directors for life will be George Tomlinson, Del Rio, Carl Pfluger, Eden and G.R. Kothmann, Junction.

BANK CENTS

From the Management and Staff of
 The First National Bank of Eldorado

Deposits in virtually all banks in the U. S. are insured up to $40,000.00 by an agency of the Federal government.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, (We call it FDIC), was created by the congress in the Bank Act of 1933, and became effective on Jan. 1, 1934 during the midst of the Great Depression.

All deposits in the bank - checking, savings, and Certificates of Deposits are covered by FDIC insurance.

The growth of deposit insurance stands as something of a yardstick to measure the savings habits of the American people. When the FDIC first began insuring deposits the limit was $2,500 per account. The limits grew steadily over the years until Nov. 27, 1974, when it reached its present level of $40,000 per account.

I recently received some information on preserving foods using honey instead of sugar. I hope you find it useful.

USING HONEY FOR CANNING & PRESERVING

Honey, more than any other form of sugar, helps to bring out natural fruit flavors. For that reason it has been used very successfully in the preservation of fruits. Fruits canned with honey keep very well. In appearance they compare very favorably with those canned in cane or beet sugar.

In using honey as a preservative and sweetening agent in canning, a syrup is made of 2 cups of honey and 3 cups water (this makes enough syrup to can approximately 2 quarts of fruit). If using the cold pack method of canning, place the fruit in the jar, cover with the syrup and process the required length of time. Honey is particularly useful in canning the more juicy fruits such as berries, and the more tart one such as plums.

Honey has a tendency to foam when heated, hence in making a canning syrup, it is advisable to boil the syrup about two minutes before adding the fruit. This will prevent "cooking over."

Honey may also be used in jams and jellies. It is usually more pleasing if used with a combination of fruits or with spices. In making preserves, the produce usually has to be cooked a little longer to obtain the desired consistency, since honey is in itself a liquid and sugar is not. Honey may also be used in the making of jelly, particularly in combination with very acid fruit juice. Plums lend themselves to this process very nicely. The proportions used are 1 cup fruit juice to 3/4 cup honey. A few seconds longer for cooking are required than when sugar is used.

Time to plan fall gardens

In the heat of the summer when most spring gardens have wilted from hot, dry weather, the thoughts of homeowners should turn to fall gardening.

"Fall vegetable gardens really produce the best tasting vegetables," contends Sam Cotner, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Growing conditions are usually better in the fall when the weather begins to cool, and the quality of vegetables is better as they mature in a cooler climate than in the hot late spring and early summer. Disease and insect problems are also less in cooler weather."

All these advantages of fall gardening in no way imply that the practice is fool-proof. "There are definite problems or hurdles, but with the right preparations, these can be overcome," says Cotner. "Usually a big problem is getting a good stand of vegetables if the seed are directly planted into the garden plot. The key is in getting the seedbed prepared properly so that the seed will germinate quickly."

Cotner recommends working the soil well and then shaping it into raised beds. Raised beds are important in providing drainage from fall rains that are often heavy. Make about a one-inch furrow in the seedbed and then water the furrow to moisten soil to a depth of two to three inches. This makes the soil ready for planting. One other step that can be a big help in improving germination is to soak the seed overnight before planting.

"After planting, cover the seed with a light layer of compost, potting soil or vermiculite," suggests the horticulturist. "Any of these materials will provide a much better environment for the seed than regular garden soil. As seedlings appear, you may want to protect them from the sun on the west side with boards, cardboard or a draped cloth. When seedlings are one to two inches high, thin excess plants to allow those remaining to reach full production." As far as which vegetables to plant, most vegetables generally planted in the spring also do well in the fall, notes Cotner. Then there are those that do especially well in the fall—lettuce, collard greens, broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage, carrots and brussels sprouts.

LET'S TAKE A GOOD LOOK AT EACH OTHER...

We know a young man just out of school has more on his mind than just a job these days. He's concerned about his world. He's looking at the future. And he's looking for a way to do something about it. We're looking at the future, too. In fact we're dedicated to it. And we're looking for people who feel the same way. You see, there's more to the Air Force than good pay and guaranteed skill training. There's also the satisfaction of doing something worthwhile and important. But that's something you'll have to decide for yourself. It's easy to get the facts and there's no obligation. The attached coupon will get you the name and address of your nearest Air Force Recruiter. Go ahead... Take a good close look at us. We'll look you over, too.

About all you can really say about the weather is . . . HOT! An relief seems to be nowhere in sight. You can't even escape it by getting out at five o'clock in the morning . . . you get used to those pleasant temperatures around that time of day and get all set for getting a lot of things done, and before you know it the sun is up and that burning sensation is with you once again. This is no time to be working livestock or people. But then there's also no other way, so you just grin through all that perspiration and go on and get the work done. I just hope that old Sun keeps rolling right on around there, and setting each evening as it should . . . if it somehow got hung up on something, say about two o'clock in the p.m., well, we'd soon find out about what all the parsons have been warning us of for some time now.

Sonora's First National Bank is in the middle of constructing a new banking facility on the site where the old McDonald Hotel once stood years ago. Things are progressing right along, and the contractor has set an early December finishing date. From appearances, it's really going to be a nice building. But the thing that caught my eye the other day as I drove past was how the building had been planned around some beautiful old trees. So help me, folks, those trees are going to be standing and growing right in the middle of the bank building. It sort of gives you a nice, warm feeling when you see Man bend to take care of God's loveliness.

All you young folks who were hoping the local school system might open up a week later can forget it for indications are that there won't be any change this year. Surely that wasn't a sigh of relief from all the Moms and Dads involved! Anyway, you can look forward to vacation time being a whole week ahead of all the late starters come next May. Anyway, time's running out and if you haven't fulfilled all those summertime plans and hopes, you've got just a few more days to get it done.

In spite of any doubts earlier this year, when the local gridiron was completely plowed up and re-seeded, it has turned into about the greenest spot of grass around. When the new grass finally took hold it really began to jump, and the field is just about completely covered up. It's going to look mighty pretty by early September, and all the effort will have been well worth the time and money spent. If the team looks as good as the field, you'll be hearing screaming Eagle fans all over the place.

I just checked a weather forecast for the month of August, and the prediction is for "wetter than usual". First thing I thought of was "COMPARED TO WHAT?"

Well, if it's not wetter than July, for example, we're all in trouble. So I'm really pulling for the old weatherman and I hope he's nailed it down good. A two inch rain all over West Texas right now would be about the greatest thing that could happen. Here's hoping we all get wet before the next time we get together. About next Tuesday would be just fine . . . that's the date set for Southwest Texas Electric Coop's annual meeting and barbecue . . . and I'll bet you wouldn't get a single complaint!

PAR-TEE NOTES

There was a lot of visiting, laughing and dancing during the 10th year reunion of the Eldorado High School class of '67 Saturday.
