

Carolyn Mayo and Hymen Sauer look over the poor condition of the city's Christmas decorations.

Progress Council Sets Goal For New Decorations

Christmas lights in June? Yes, the Christmas light committee of the Schleicher County Progress Council, Hymen Sauer, Nancy Lester, and Carolyn Mayo, met with J.D. Williams of Valley Decorations of Waco last Wednesday. Due to business response and community complaints over the condition of the lights the city has been using for the past few years, the Council named the Christmas lighting program as one of its projects.

Pat Wester with West Texas Utilities and H.G. White with Western Auto were in charge of buying the lights purchased in 1969. They were used when purchased, reported Mr. Williams, so they are approximately 15 years old. Due to weather conditions and general use, the lights have deteriorated greatly. Volunteer personnel have worked on the lights each year, trying to replace bulbs and secure trim. Volunteer personnel have installed the lights and taken them down each year and it looks like Eldorado will not have any lights this year unless new ones are purchased. The volunteers are receiving complaints of the lights not working, and they only put them up each year.

Mias Amigas Preparations Near Completion

Plans and preparations are in the advanced stages for the 50th annual meeting of the Mias Amigas to be held Friday and Saturday, June 27-28.

Registration for the gathering will be 5 p.m. Friday afternoon in the Memorial Building. A sandwich supper and entertainment will follow at 7:30 p.m. on the courthouse lawn. The old school bell will be rung at 9:30 a.m. Saturday and the group will re-convene at 10 a.m. for the business meeting and special recognitions.

Special guests for this year will be the classes of 1929-30 and 1959-60.

A barbecue will be held at noon on the courthouse square and a program will be held at 2 p.m. Advanced tickets for the barbecue are $4 and may be purchased from Jimmie West or Becky Mund Moore.

Due to the cost of postage only out of town invitations were mailed. Eldorado residents eligible to attend the meeting are invited.

Tax Valuation Meeting Set

An educational meeting to answer questions on the new tax valuation legislation is planned for June 25 at 3 pm in the Memorial Building. This is a program that will affect everyone in the county.

Ken Graeber and Robert Kensing will present the program.

The program agenda will be: introduction to legislation on tax changes, Graeber; discussion on guidelines, Graeber; fair market value determination by Graeber; theory of productivity valuation, Kensing; determination of net-to-land values, Kensing; sources of reference data, Kensing; taxpayer rights, Graeber.

All Schleicher County residents are urged to attend this informative meeting.

According to spokesmen for the Christmas light committee, an all out effort will be made before July 1 to obtain funds or pledges toward the purchase of at least six lights. If the lights are ordered by July 1 and eight percent discount will be received in addition to avoiding the price increase to go in effect July 1. Also, a two percent discount will be given if the lights are paid for within ten days of receipt (sometime in August). Therefore, time is important so that Eldorado can enjoy the spirit of Christmas with downtown lighting.

The lights being considered are eight feet tall and are bright green trees with red garland and a gold star on the top. These are considered 'econo' lights; however, they will cost approximately $160 each after all discounts are taken. The Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative will furnish men and machinery to install any new lights purchased at no charge to our community.

Donations to this worthwhile community project may be made at the First National Bank, Jerroll's El Dorado Restaurant, Eagle Dairy Mart, W.T.U. and City Hall. The Council is also accepting pledges from those persons and businesses wishing to make contributions during July and August. The Progress Council must have adequate community response before July 1 to meet this deadline and take advantage of the prices on these decorations.

The Christmas lighting project will be discussed along with further plans for the Schleicher County Days at the noon meeting of the Council today (Thursday) at the Eagle Dairy Mart.

SWTEC Plauded For 4-H Week

Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative of Eldorado was recognized for outstanding service to the 4-H program during the 1980 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University June 3.

Elton McGinnes, manager of the cooperative, received a special plaque from the Texas 4-H Foundation, 4-H's State Service Organization, and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the parent organization of 4-H.

Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative has supported county and district 4-H programs and activities for more than 20 years.

CITED FOR SERVICE--Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative of Eldorado was recognized for outstanding service to 4-H during opening ceremonies at the 1980 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University June 3. Elton McGinnes, center manager of the Cooperative, was presented a special plaque by Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, left, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Bob Hillery, chairman of the board of trustees of the Texas 4-H Foundation.

The cooperative annually buys livestock at the Schleicher County Livestock Show, provides financial support for the county 4-H swards program, and provides transportation for county participants in State 4-H Roundup. Last year it also provided financial support to a county 4-H'er who took part in the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative has also provided financial support for the annual District 7 4-H Adult Leaders Association recognition dinner, and this year is apportioning the expenses of two 4-H members who want to take part in the national 4-H Citizenship Short Course and Heritage tour in Washington, D.C.

Through the longtime support and influence of officials of the Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative, the 4-H program in Schleicher County and the surrounding area has been expanded to involve more youth and adult leaders.

Sewer Line Approval Given For Subdivision

Eldorado City Council granted permission to Charlie Niblett to lay sewer lines under the old Mertzson Road to service the new Magnolia Street sub-division at the regular meeting June 10. City Superintendent's specifications to handle 14 residences will be required. The council discussed with Niblett that a manhole and cleanout would be required on the sewer line so proper service could be restored in case of stoppage. Then foot easements will be granted with the sale of each lot for city service in front of the homes. An easement on the old Mertzson

Road will be obtained from the county.

The council discussed guidelines for consideration with regard to the television franchise renewal. The city secretary was asked to make inclusion of the items and forward to the city attorney, Charles Sherrill, for his review and suggestions.

The city will reimburse Polo Cervantes $221.25 for plumbing bills because the sewer problems at the mobile home park were in the city sewer line.

City Superintendent Hal Whitten reported to the council of laying 262 feet of polyethylene gas line. He was authorized to proceed with replacing other lines as soon as possible.

After discussing the ditch witch purchased by the city in 1974, the council agreed to advertise the equipment for bids. The advertisement will run in the San Angelo paper only.

The county's request to close the street in the West addition was discussed. All property owners in blocks 19 and 20 will be contacted to determine if there is any opposition to the closing before it is done.

The city granted permission to superintendent Whitten to purchase suction pump with 20 feet of line.

The city discussed the landfill and of obtaining Gavino Castro, to keep the landfill open seven days a week changing the opening time from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. if Mrs. Yocham is in agreement. The locks will be changed periodically. A letter from the Department of Health was also reviewed. Action on remedying dumping will be withheld until further action is received from the Health Department. Regulations governing the landfill were discussed with a request made to obtain information regarding salvage of tires which can't be burned.

The contract from Producers Gas Company was distributed to council members present for review. The contract will be referred to the city attorney for his viewpoint.

Rev. John Robinson Fills Methodist Post

Rev. John A. Robinson has recently been appointed as minister of the First United Methodist Church of Eldorado, filling the vacancy left by Dan Adams.

Rev. Robinson and his wife Dorothy moved here from Eagle Lake, near Houston, two weeks ago. He pastored a church there for one year before moving to Eldorado. Prior to that Rev. Robinson and his family were in Falfurrias for seven years.

Rev. Robinson is originally from Houston, graduating from high school there, graduated from Southwestern University in Georgetown and Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. He has been pastoring churches since early 1961.

Ric and David live in Houston, Stephen is in the Navy at Mare Island Naval Ship Yards in California, and Bridget lives at home and will be a senior this coming fall at Eldorado High School. All the children are single.

When asked how they liked West Texas and Eldorado, Mrs. Robinson said it was like a dream come true, because she has always wanted to live in this part of the state and is very glad to be here.

WHAT WE REAP

GALATIANS 6:7--Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.
 8--For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.
 9--And let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.
 10--As we have, therefore, opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith.
 People will reap what they sow; if they sow sin, they reap corruption. If people will have their mind and thought on the Lord and sow in the Spirit, they will reap everlasting life.
 We know what we sow in the Spirit or in the flesh, just as the farmer knows what he sows in the fields.
 People, don't be weary in well doing because there is a reaping day that will be worth it all.

Schleicher Nursing Home News

We were entertained last Tuesday evening by the Kountry Kousings square dancers. Refreshments were served by the auxiliary. We always enjoy the square dancers. Just getting to look at the pretty outfits is nearly as much fun as watching them dance. We appreciate them coming and we hope they will come back soon. Things are running smoothly at the nursing home. Billy Kelsey left us Sunday to go home with her daughter, Betty Wilson. We all want Billy to know she will be missed and we really enjoyed having her in our home.

A going away party was given for Dr. Paul Rhodes. He left last Tuesday to return to Houston to continue his studies. We enjoyed having him with us all last month.

Food, Family And 4-H

Most food prices will rise this year, of course, but not as much as the past two years, and we may even see a price decline for pork, poultry and eggs, according to US Department of Agriculture economists.

In general, expect an eight percent rise as tops, they say.

Economists view this as better than last year's 11 percent rise and the 1978 rise of 10 percent, but they caution us about one 'hitch'--weather.

If weather plays a damaging role in farm production, then we might see the same 11 percent rise in food prices as we saw last year.

Why do prices keep rising in spite of plentiful food supplies generally?

Inflation and the rising costs of energy and transportation account for the bulk of the sharp increases and the farm-production side adds another one percent.

Here's the forecast from USDA economists on specific food items:

Look for the biggest price rises on cereal and bakery goods, beef and veal, fish and seafood, fresh vegetables, processed fruits and vegetables, other prepared foods, dairy products, sugar and other sweets.

Look for smaller increases on other meats--even a price drop on pork, poultry and eggs.

Other items that will reflect smaller increases are fresh fruits, fats and oils and non-alcoholic beverages.

HARVEST, HANDLE VEGETABLES PROPERLY

For high quality, nutritious produce, harvest garden vegetables at peak quality handle and store them properly, advises a food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Use care not to bruise or cut vegetables and discard any that have decay or rot. Wash them in cold running water immediately after harvest to remove dust and soil and to help lower the temperature as quickly as possible. Proper cooling and good air circulation are important for keeping vegetables fresh.

FRESH PRODUCE SEASON--The season is at hand for fresh fruits and vegetables, so now is the time to visit local roadside markets, says a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Good buys are available from local producers who sometimes sell for less than supermarkets. The produce is often much fresher because it comes right out of the field or orchard. Watch for peak production sales and be prepared to can or freeze some home-grown vegetables and fruit.

ORNAMENTAL PEPPERS FOR SUMMER COLOR--Ornamental peppers fruit early in pots and can be used successfully as home garden border plants says a landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. 'Holiday Time' is a 1980 All-America medalist that is a dwarf variety which displays a wide variety of colors. Ornamental peppers are tough plants and are best set off when planted with a contrasting background, such as white petunias, dark bark or mulch.

From The Horses Mouth

From the Horses mouth. Galls, or abnormal swellings, caused by various insect pests, interfere with normal plant growth, explains Jerry Swift, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Most insect galls are formed by tiny wasps, flies, aphids, and phylloxera. Taking characteristic sizes, shapes and colors, galls commonly appear as stem swellings, smooth and hairy balls, blisters, pouches and tubes, explains Swift.

Galls begin when adult plant pests lay their eggs in plant tissue or when these eggs hatch. In either case, chemicals are thought to be secreted by special glands in insects' bodies. In turn, these secretions interact with plant chemicals, producing abnormal growth.

During its development, the pest feeds on and is protected by gall tissue. Once galls reach maturity, they stop draining the host plant of its nutrients.

Current research suggests insect or mite-induced galls do not noticeably injure plants. However, this does not apply to nematode-induced galls, which seriously damage plant root systems.

There is no sure method of controlling gall insects or mites. Several species of wasps parasitize these pests. And certain stem and trunk galls may be removed by hand. In some cases, host plants may be removed and replaced by resistant species.

Chemicals will not reverse or stop gall growth, says Swift. Unless they are applied when pests are laying their eggs, chemicals offer no effective controls. Also, insecticides kill beneficial predators and parasites, reminds Swift.

If you choose chemicals, spray with malathion or carbaryl (Sevin) just as the new growth begins, suggests the county agent. Continue spraying at weekly intervals until leaves are fully developed.

Additional information is provided in two publications--L-1299, 'Insect-Induced Galls on Ornamental Plants,' and MP 1315, 'The Mealy Oak Gall on Ornamental Live Oak in Texas'--available at the county extension office.

Equine Vaccination Urged

Professor Crawford and Dr. H.D. Anthony, Director of the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory, Kansas State University, encourage owners to vaccinate their horses against Equine Encephalomyelitis. They recommend routine vaccination prior to the "mosquito season". When Equine Encephalomyelitis is reported, all unvaccinated horses in the area should be vaccinated immediately as the disease spreads very rapidly.

Birds are the initial carrier of the disease. They introduce Equine Encephalomyelitis to an area via mosquitoes parasitic to birds. Then, other mosquitoes, especially Culex tarsalis, transmit the Sleeping Sickness from birds to horses, or humans. The buildup and concentration of infected birds, combined with large numbers of the vector (mosquitoes), intensifies into explosive Equine Encephalomyelitis incidence.

Once infected with Equine Encephalomyelitis, the horse exhibits various symptoms including fever, extreme nervousness, loss of appetite, blindness and paralysis. Of the three principal strains of Sleeping Sickness--Eastern, Western, and Venezuelan--the Eastern is the most severe variety for it usually results in death within two to four days following the onset. The Western form often leaves horses brain-damaged after a prolonged course of illness, treatment and "apparent" recovery. Sleeping Sickness is a disease that affects the horse's brain and spinal cord. No antiviral treatment is available and permanent damage may result if the horse survives. The only means of preventing Equine Encephalomyelitis is by vaccination. After the initial immunization, only a annual booster is needed. For more information on the prevention of Equine Encephalomyelitis, horse owners should consult with their veterinarians.

Alcohol & Water Don't Mix!

A lot of drowning occur because people who drink like fish cannot swim like them afterward.

Alcohol can kill even good swimmers because it affects balance, coordination, vision and reasoning powers. It is easy to see why someone who has been drinking can fall out of a boat, lack the coordination to swim well, swim the wrong direction (some even swim down instead of up in dark water) or make bad decisions and die, the Texas Medical Association says. This scene is so common that 60 percent of the deaths related to water recreation involve alcohol, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department estimates.

The drinking boat driver is as dangerous to himself and others as the drinking driver. The wide-open lake offers no safety because the drinker must cope with fuzzy vision and impaired judgment, plus the normal hazards of boating. The drinking boater faces further hazards because alcohol may impair the ability to distinguish red and green which are the colors of boat safety lights.

If a crash between boats does occur, the drinker has decreased survival chances because studies show that even people who can swim when sober do not perform well at all when drunk. One tragic example is the case of a healthy young water show worker who drowned in a swimming pool after drinking at a party. The safe thing to do after a day of mixing hot sun and cool drinks is to let someone else handle the boat. Or better still, go easy on the alcohol and enjoy the other attractions of the water. TMA says.

ASU Offers Windmill Course

A short course on windmills will be offered July 14-18 at ASU's Management, Instruction and Research Center.

Sponsored by the Division of Adult and Continuing Education, the week-long session is open to ranchers and farmers who use the windmill as a source of energy.

Enrollment is limited, and interested persons are requested to sign up by June 20. The ACE office is located in the Houston

Harte University Center, and the mailing address is ACE, P.O. Box 11022, ASU Station, San Angelo, Texas 76909.

Registration fee is $125 per person and that figure includes lunch, breaks, materials and supplies.

Course instructor is Stan Anderson of Scottsdale, Ariz., a windmill specialist for the Wind Baron Corp. Other windmill manufacturers and distributors have been invited to attend the sessions.

Class participants will erect a tower, install a mill and have ample opportunity to learn how to repair many components of the windmill, according to Don Hale, ACE director.

The course will consist of one-half day classroom and one-half day field work. Also, windmill history, storage and distribution is included in the class outline.

More information is available by calling 915/942-2339.

Sun's Rays Can Prove To Be Harmful

What does your doctor think of sun tanning? He's against it.

If you should ask your doctor whether there is any health value to sun tanning, he would have to answer "No." If you asked him whether sun tanning might hurt you, he would have to reply "Yes."

Sunning, overdone, can cause severe burn. Sunning, done modestly, can produce a golden tan that gives an illusion of health and well being. But that golden tan often leads to premature aging and wrinkling of the skin, to premature "age spots" on the hands and neck, and to skin cancer.

So, once again, the American Medical Association advises Americans everywhere against suntanning.

But, your doctor also is well aware that millions of Americans will ignore this advice this summer. They will flock to the swimming pools and beaches through the warm months to bask in the sun. They will stretch out on the grass in the back yard, or on the roof terrace, or in the nearest park.

If you insist on getting a tan this summer despite medical advice to the contrary, here's how to do it without burning.

On the first day of sunning, allow 15 minutes on each side. The second day 20 minutes. The third day 25 to 30 minutes. By the third day the skin should begin to brown. Thereafter proceed at the best pace for your own skin to tan without burning. At the first sign of redness, get out of the sun.

It isn't easy to confine sun time to only half an hour on the first day at the vacation resort. But you can't stretch it very much. If you try to double the exposure time to hurry the tan, you'll burn. And then return from vacation with a peeling skin instead of a tan.

Time of exposure also should be adjusted to time of day. The sun's rays are hottest between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. After 5 p.m. you aren't likely to burn much.

There are creams and lotions that screen some of the rays and reduce danger of burning. But if the cream should screen all rays, there would be no tanning. You can still burn through creams if you stay out long enough.

Also, water in the pool or perspiration washes away much of the cream in a short time.

Tanning removes most of the natural oils from the surface of the skin and many sunbathers find it helpful to use a cream or oil to relieve dryness.

Enjoy the outdoor life of the summer months. Don't overdo the suntanning.

Airport Improvements Made By Flying Club

The Eldorado Airport has received several improvements and a general 'face lift' since last fall when the Eldorado Flying Club was organized.

Work has been done on the small existing building, a small portable building was moved in beside it and a hallway is being constructed to join the two buildings together. White siding will cover the metal building and the hallway. The buildings are being used as rest areas, waiting rooms, and map and chart rooms.

Hanger doors were rehung and made uniform with the exception of one hanger which has no door, a telephone was installed, the 'welcome to Eldorado' sign was completely redone approximately a month ago and a new beacon light was installed last week. The light can be seen 40 miles from the air on a hazy night. The windsock will be replaced by the flying group in the near future.

All improvements have been made by participants of the organization and all done on a voluntary basis. All the money spent and materials used have been donations. The County repaved the runway last year.

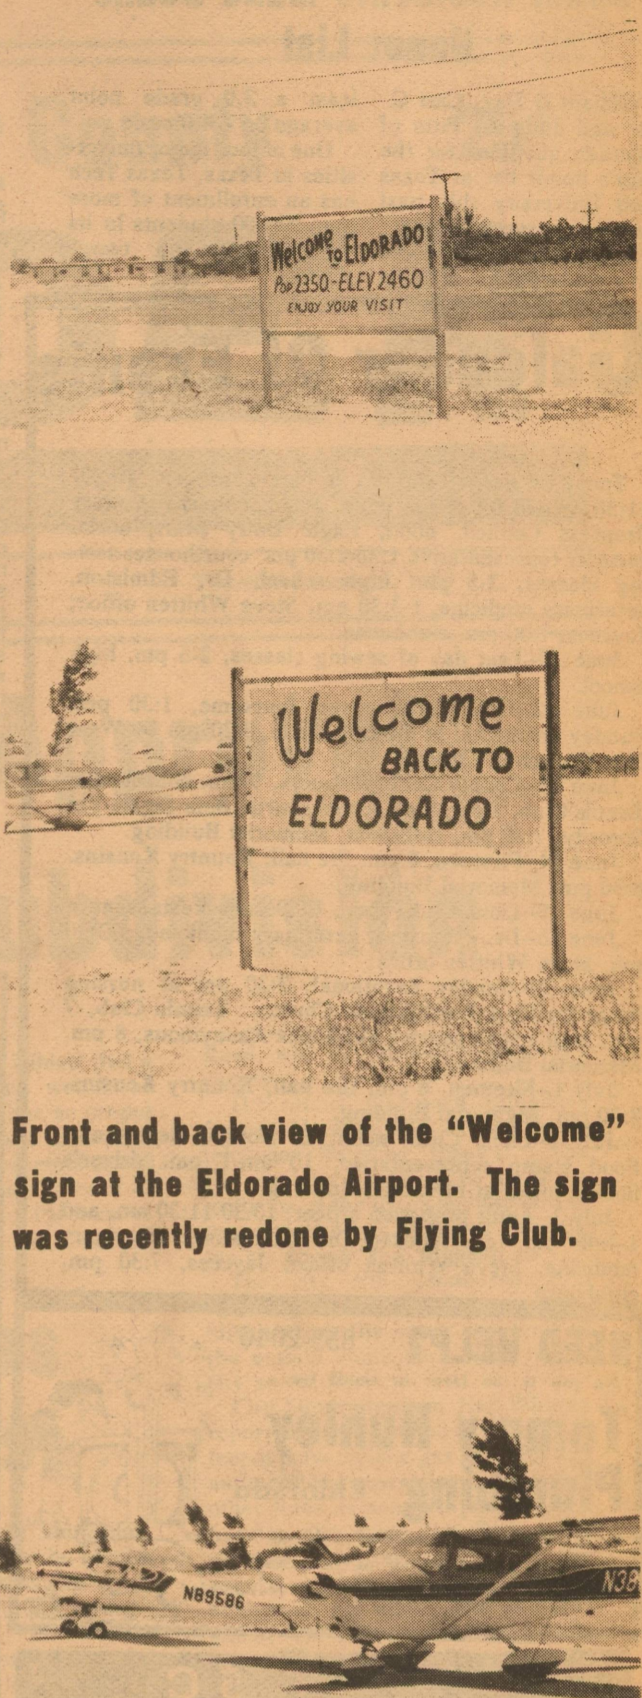

Hanger space is at a premium and several permanent planes are unprotected from weather. Jimmy Doyle and Starley Lenamon have received permission from the county commissioners to build a standard hanger, 30 feet by 40 feet, just north of the existing hangers. Another local resident plans to meet with court in the near future to obtain permission to build a hanger also. This will still leave several local planes with no hanger space.

The Flying Club would like for the residents of Eldorado to be made aware of the traffic being handled by the airport and the need for expansion and improvements.

Flying instructions are being given by Starley Lenamon, aerial photography and crop spraying are done by Bert Bruton, and oil companies, business men, ranchers and local people fly in and out of Eldorado every day on business and pleasure. At least 15 transit planes fly into Eldorado each week. At the present, the airport has seven permanent planes hangered.

The Eldorado Flying Club has approximately 30 participants with Charlie Kincheloe, president; Barry Hale, vice president; Jerroll Sanders, secretary-treasurer; and Howard Derrick, president of airport authority. Anyone interested in joining the group in their effort to improve and expand the Eldorado airport may contact one of these men. No dues are required to join the organization.

FOREIGN AID: IT'S TIME TO BE HARD-NOSED AND TIGHT-FISTED
For too many years, America has tried to buy good relations with countries around the world. For too many years, we've been shortchanged. Economic and military aid to those countries whose interests coincide with ours, and who have proven their friendship, is one thing. American aid to countries such as Nicaragua, in the grip of a military junta, which has made no bones about its affection for Marxist doctrine, is an entirely different matter. American tax dollars are too limited to be squandered. They would be if Congress gives final approval to an aid package totalling some $75 million to Nicaragua. Debate on the controversial assistance package has been raging in Congress for months. It still continues. The reasons to oppose lending American support to the Sandinista-controlled government are compelling. The successful revolt against the Somoza regime last year, after months of fighting, had the support of businessmen, members of the clergy, and democratically inclined leaders in the country. But the overthrow was staged by the Sandinista National Liberation Front, leftist in its leaning, and thus posing a serious question mark as a future American ally. While moderates do sit on the five-member ruling junta, it is clear where the power rests. Congress very narrowly in February passed a $75 million authorization bill for economic aid to Nicaragua. Those of us who ardently opposed that bill -- both then and now -- doubt that money would achieve its expressed objectives. Too many questions were unanswered then. Too many remain unanswered now. There were promises from the Sandinistas for democratic elections. But no dates were firmly set. They still have not been set. Evidence that Cuban influences are present in the educational system and in the labor unions is widespread. The Sandinistas have restricted press freedoms. They have also nationalized certain industries, including the banks, which would be responsible for disbursing American aid money intended to build up a crippled economy. While the authorization bill has mustered enough support for passage, final action will not be determined on the aid package until its appropriations have been voted upon, later this summer. Since the authorization bill passed, however, those of us who opposed it, on May 28, were successful in deleting $5.5 million in military aid to Nicaragua requested by the President in his foreign aid authorization bill for the next fiscal year. I believe this represents a significant shift in attitude among House members that aiding a country such as Nicaragua is an unwarranted gamble with American tax dollars. There are no assurances the government will not end up as an outright Communist dictatorship. And I reject the argument that withholding American assistance will be handing over the country to the Communists on a silver platter. Providing American dollars now would only be rewarding a Marxist-dominated government, which came to power through violent revolution. There is plenty of time to assess the value of American assistance, once elections have been held, and the government demonstrates its conviction to democratic reforms. I believe it's time for Congress to be hard-nosed and tight-fisted with its foreign aid. Wishing for democracy in countries throughout the world certainly will not make it happen. Nor will money alone. Effective foreign policy rests on the strength of our leadership and military superiority, not on taxpayer supported hand-outs which buy us nothing but contempt. The sooner Congress realizes this, the better.

Social Security Offers Answers To Questions
The Social Security office receives inquiries from people who ask if they should have an insurance policy to supplement Medicare. They also ask which policy they should buy. The Social Security office cannot answer either question. Only the individual knows his financial situation and whether he needs a supplemental policy. Social Security can inform you as to what Medicare pays and does not pay. The Social Security office can also give you a copy of a new pamphlet titled "Guide to Health Insurance for People with Medicare". The pamphlet includes some basic things you should know, supplies you with hints on shopping for private health insurance, lists types of private health insurance, and answers questions as to what Medicare does and does not cover. If you need more information about Medicare benefits or eligibility for Medicare you should contact your nearest Social Security office or Health Care Financing Administration. For information about private insurance to supplement Medicare, check with your State Insurance Department or State Consumer Protection Agency.

DRIVELINE
Well, Back To The Drawing Board: West German engineering students designed a special, torpedo-shaped three-wheeler car that got a fantastic 1,580 miles to the gallon! Unfortunately, the "car" was only a foot high, held one person, and averages six MPH on a gently banked oval track... Save 15 Cents a Gallon! The U.S. Dept. of Energy estimates the average driver can easily save up to 15 cents on every gallon of gasoline, just by following some good driving tips: Slowing down from 70 MPH to 55 can save 6 cents. Keeping your car properly tuned saves another 4 cents. Using radial tires and keeping them properly inflated save 5 cents. (You save because you are using less gas and making each gallon go further.) Slow Down! Snake Crossing... Twice a year in the Shawnee National Forest, the U.S. Forest Service closes a two-mile stretch of highway so the local snake population can migrate to and from their winter and summer home. Rattlesnakes, copperheads and water moccasins wiggle fown from the hills to summer in the swamps, then charge uphill again for winter...
