NATURAL GAS LINE REACHES ELDORADO CITY LIMITS WEDNESDAY

Farm Loan Ass'n. Will Meet Here Saturday Night

Members of the Eldorado National Farm Loan Association will hear Secretary-Treasurer H. F. Meador and the Board of Directors report on the association's progress, at a meeting to be held at 7:00 September 16, 1939, at Hotel Eldo. This association now has 126 Federal Land Bank loans in the amount of $830,295.00 and 51 Land Bank Commissioner loans in the amount of $159,700.00. In addition to reviewing the operations of the association, the members will elect a director to serve for the ensuing year.

Judge Carl Runge, General Counsel for the Farm Credit Administration of Houston, will be present for this meeting and will be the principal speaker. There will be a banquet in the dining room of the local hotel.

A special effort has been made to insure a large attendance at this most important meeting. Previously the meetings were held in January, but often inclement weather prevented many members from attending. Attendance at the annual meeting of the association, Mr. Meador pointed out, affords members the opportunity to have a voice in the management of their own cooperative lending institution.

Hamburger Bill Passes 13 Years In Eldorado

For 13 years "Hamburger Bill," W. R. Ward, has been satisfying hungry appetites of Eldorado citizens. September 13 marked the 13th anniversary of the business. Mr. Ward came to this city in 1926 from Sonora and has been making good hamburgers ever since, for which he has become widely known as "Hamburger Bill."

In an ad in this weeks issue of the Success, Mr. Ward expresses his appreciation to his many regular customers and others in Eldorado who have given patronage and support through these 13 years, and invites the continued visits from the people.

Uniforms Purchased For Eldorado High School Band

Uniforms for the Eldorado High School band have been ordered and are expected to arrive within the next week or two, it was announced this week by Superintendent Dave Williamson.

Gold uniforms with black trimming have been purchased for 30 second-year band members. A large plume hat will decorate the head of the band major while the director will be attired in a uniform of solid white. Approximate cost of the uniforms is $480, and they are expected to arrive in time for the first conference football game with Sonora on October 7.

A mothers and fathers band club was organized Friday night of last week, with a purpose of promoting and assisting the high school and in carrying on its work. Officers elected by the club include Mrs. Tom Jacoby as president, Mrs. Jeff Enoch as Vice President and Mrs. G. L. Ballev as secretary and reporter.

Pipe lines to convey natural gas from the Bert Page field, nine miles southeast of here, to be used by Eldorado consumers, reached the city limits Wednesday according to Terry A. Hornaday, construction supervisor. Construction of lines throughout the city to serve customers will be pressed forward as rapidly as possible and it is believed that the lines will be in most parts of the city the end of this month.

Fred A. Hornaday, in charge of local building and preliminary work, stated this week that the gas distribution plant was being installed with the anticipations of Eldorado's growth for many years to come. The plant will be capable of supplying a town five to six times the present size of Eldorado. Pressure maintained in town mains will vary between 3 and 7 pounds and will be reduced from the property line to burners at 4 ounces, in compliance with laws governing domestic consumption of natural gas, Mr. Hornaday said.

To insure safety and to comply with state laws, gas from the local plant will be odorized. This odor will be detected only from leaks in the line and not from the burning gas, Mr. Hornaday said. There will be no danger of the gas smoking, if appliances are properly adjusted, it was advised. The transmission line leading from the Bert Page field, will be laid on the surface part of the way. Those in charge of construction stated that the gas will not freeze in any way, during severest cold weather. A temperature of 180 degrees below zero would be necessary to affect the gas, Mr. Hornaday pointed out.

The gas rompany has purchased lot 26 on the depot road on the outskirts of the city where a regulator station will be installed. A small building of stucco construction will be erected on the site.

Friday night gas from the line will be ignited for a brief period to demonstrate the tremendous volume of gas available. The flare will be visible for miles around Eldorado and will light up the whole country side.

Pep Rally Tonight As Gas Lighted For First Time

Tonight natural gas will be ignited in the city of Eldorado the first time. A huge blaze will burn for a brief period on the outskirts of the city, east of the Fundamental Baptist church, demonstrating the tremendous volume of gas available to local gas users and in celebration of the success in obtaining a natural gas system for Eldorado.

Under the glow of the bright gas flame, the High School Pep squad, under the direction of Miss Opal Stribling, and the school band, will stage a pep rally in anticipation of Saturday's opening football game.

The huge blaze will attract people from every part of the city and will be visible from farms and ranches for miles around.

A large crowd is expected to assemble to witness the demonstration that will surpass any previous performance ever held in Eldorado. The event will take place at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Electrification For Rural Areas Of Co. Sought

The first move toward Rural Electrification for Schleicher County was taken when a meeting was held at the Court House in Eldorado recently by a few representatives people with L. C. Clark of Austin present, who as a member of the Lower Colorado River Authority explained the necessary steps to be taken by the Rural residents to obtain Rural Electrification from the Government.

Mr. Clark came to Eldorado by request. He pointed out the fact that the Government set aside $40,000,000.00 for this project and since several other Counties had taken advantage, it might be well worth the time and trouble for the rural residents of Schleicher county to make a trial for it. The line is supposed to pay for itself in 30 years by the revenue it takes in. A customer must: (1) agree to first pay a $5.00 membership fee which will be refunded if there are not enough customers (2) Agree to wire his house. Which in most cases will cost $10. to $20 (Continued on last page)

Concho Valley Association To Meet At Christoval Tues.

Worker's conference of the Concho Valley Baptist Association will meet Tuesday, September 19 in the Christoval Baptist church, according to a report by Rev. C. T. Aly this week. The meeting will begin at 10:00 a.m. and close at 2:30 p.m.

The remainder of the program includes talks by Ray Rozell, A. D. Foreman, Jr., of the First Baptist of San Angelo, R. A. Scranton and H. D. Martin of the Bailey ranch community. Special music will be furnished by the Christoval church.

Capacity Crowd Is Expected

In the initial football game of the season for both teams, the Crane Cranes will visit Eldorado Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, with the intention of taking away a football victory. Interest is high in Eldorado as the popular sport gets underway for another promising season for the local high school squad. It is being predicted that the grandstand will be filled to capacity Saturday afternoon, provided weather conditions are favorable.

The visitors boast considerable weight advantage but short of reserves. There are only eighteen players listed on the roster but most of these boys are veterans with as many as three years experience. The weight ranging from 180 to 205 pounds. Crane is being touted as menace to Wink the coming season. Wink has been king among the footballers for the past few years. Wink and Crane play in the same district and considerable weight is being placed on this game.

Among the eighteen players on the Crane squad, fourteen are letter men and three of these were All-District last year. They were Ralph Howard, End, James Woodfin, center and W. J. Davis, tackle.

At the center position the visitors will have 35 pound weight advantage but this weight will not be used directly against the center position, due to the shifting defense used now. The guards will be more evenly matched. More weight will be picked up at the tackle slots. Eldorado tackles ranging from 158 to 181, Crane 162 to 205. The ends, an all important position will be in favor of the visitors by several pounds. The backfield will be evenly matched.

The coaches have not given out their starting line ups but from information received from Crane and the positions practiced on the Eldorado squad the probable line-ups will be as follows:

FEAR OF GOVERNMENT

Whatever else may underlie our economic troubles, it can hardly be denied that fear of government on the part of business men, both large and small, has been a serious obstacle in the path of all efforts to restore confidence in the future.

An almost endless parade of legislation and bureaucratic edicts, continually changing the rules under which business must operate, can not promote business and industrial expansion, which is so necessary to creation of permanent jobs for the unemployed.

Wasteful governmental spending—national, state and local—with its attendant excessive tax burden, is likewise one of the most serious deterrents to national recovery.

In a letter to committees of Congress, the Investment Bankers Association, which is making deturmed efforts to promote a larger flow of idle capital into business channels, said, in part:

"The Federal government should balance the budget. Both taxes and regulations should be made as simple as possible. Regulations should be changed infrequently, and only when absolutely necessary. If business interests knew exactly what to expect, that certainty in itself would help restore confidence."

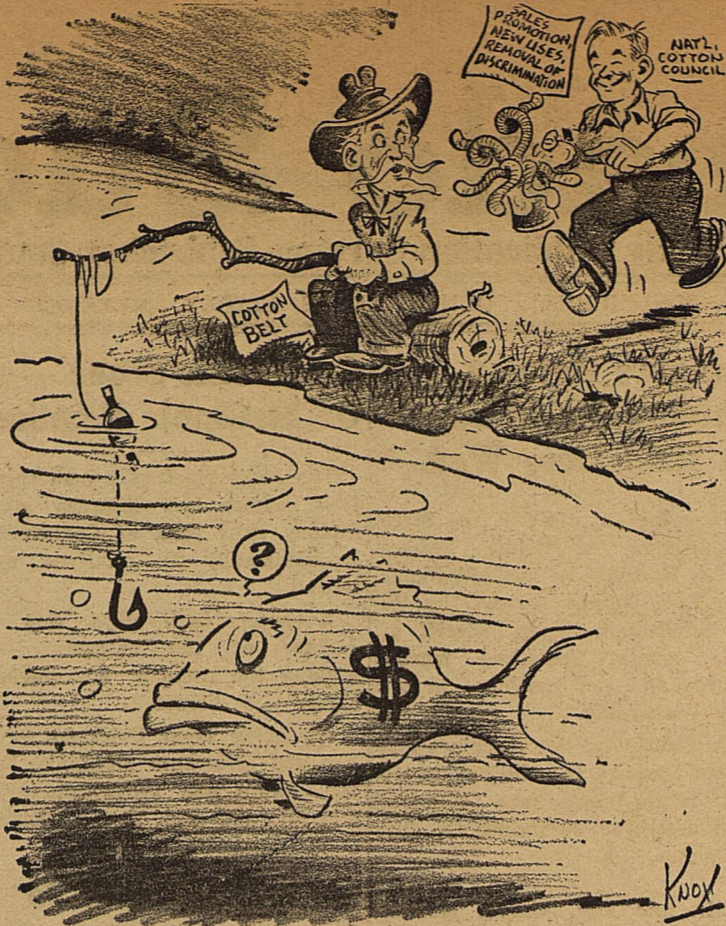

These seem to be practical, common sense suggestions. By heeding them Congress might largely allay the fear of government which has gripped the business community so long.

EDITOR'S NOTE—We wish to express thanks and appreciation to those who assisted in getting out paper last week in the absence of the Editor and Society Editor who were called away due to the illness and death of their sister in North Carolina. The paper was made possible through the efforts of Mrs. W. M. Davis who efficiently handled news and others who were liberal in turning in news items. We also appreciate the leniency of business men who might have been inconvenienced due to delay in getting printing from the plant. Our entire crew is again active and production is back to normal. We sincerely appreciate the thoughtful assistance in this emergency, which is typical of the excellent spirit of friendliness and cooperation of this progressive West Texas town.

Ransom Thomson, who served eight years for embezzling $1-250,000 from a packing company, still faces a judgment for double that amount. He is working as a farm hand at $30 a month.

Dr. A. S. McKittrick of Elyria, O., recently received $50 and an apology for the delay from a man whose son he treated 22 years ago.

L. H. Pulfer of Montrose, Calif., stopped a runaway horse with his car, but when he tried to ride the animal to a nearby stable it threw him and broke his thumb.

AUSTIN—The war in Europe has brought no changes in Texas' state governmental setup to date, although there are several "war" angles which promise to affect many Texans directly. The first of these probably will be the expansion of National Guard units and activities in all states as authorized by President Roosevelt in connection with his executive order, placing the country in a state of alertness, to preserve American neutrality. The active and efficient Texas national guard units probably will be recruited to full strength, and additional training activities inaugurated shortly, as the first step in preparations to guard this state's participation in the nation's neutrality policy.

Texas Oil Important

Oil is as essential as gunpowder to modern mechanized armies, and with a goodly share of the whole world's potential supply under Texas oil naturally Texans will immediately face new situations and conditions with respect to supplying oil to the warring nations and to non-participating neutrals.

Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler over the week-end wired the Federal Bureau of Mines, asking a revised estimate of market demand for Texas oil for the hearing scheduled for Monday. Sadler expressed belief the declaration of war, made since the Bureau's last estimate for September, would materially change the figures. He wanted the information in connection with study of data for a new statewide order, which admittedly will call for an increase in East Texas production and a reduction in other fields, in compliance with a Federal court decision. At the same time, Ernest Thompson warned against increase in the allowable beyond a figure that will conserve pressure, and a similar warning came from Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, the tireless advocate of Federal control of oil. Ickes indicated he was ready to take advantage of wartime conditions again to push his movement for U. S. Control, which virtually all Texans oppose.

Farmers Are Warned

The war will bring no great increased demand for food products, Washington farm officials warned, and there is no occasion for farmers to expand their production of cotton, wheat and other basic food and fabric products. They pointed out high surpluses of these commodities already on hand, and warned that whatever expansion may be needed if a long drawn out war ensues can be quickly obtained, with modern mechanized farming methods. There will be no war boom in farm products, these officials pointed out, such as followed in the wake of the world war of 19-14. Cotton prices generally will suffer, most agricultural experts pointed out, due to upset exchange and falling off of world demand. They pointed out there is a year's supply for the entire world now on hand, and no need to expand acreage.

Johnson Heads Pension Setup
Adam Johnson, former member of the board of control, ex-city manager of Austin, and director of State relief during the depression period, is the new director of the State Welfare Board, which will administer pensions, aid for children and needy blind.

The pension authorities have been adding pensioners to the roll, under provisions of the new "liberalized" pension act of the last session, so extremely slowly, that the additional names have so far made little difference in the pension payments. Approval by the San Antonio office of the Social Security Board of the September roll showed less than 2500 new names added, and a slight increase in the average payment, to a few cents over $14 per pensioner. However, repayment of the bank loans made by the pension fund, and substantial increase in the number of pensioners added during the next month, may hasten the crisis in pension finances which is inevitable, in view of the fact no pension revenue was raised by the regular session. Many legislators, visiting Austin, are asking for a special session, but so far Gov. O'Daniel has given no indication he will call one.

SPORTS

SECOND GLESSING
(By L. T. Barber)

There is usually a time for all things and I suppose that this is the time for me to take a bow to the editor of the Success. Last week he tossed a very large bouquet in saying that I was an authority on football. I appreciate very much his confidence in my judgement, but there are probably a lot of sport fans around these parts that would contest this statements. Whether right or wrong, I have a little book that will clear up any argument that might come up. Last Sunday at the rules interpretation meeting in San Angelo, Coach Carruthers, Huggins and myself pooled our nickels, and bought this small book of "Questions and Answers for Football". Up to date I have received the greatest good from it, as I have had it in my possession.

There seems to be varied opinions as to the showing made by the Eagles in their scrimmage with the Bobcats at San Angelo last week. Some say, "they looked all right". Others say, "Very ragged" I did not see this scrimmage and can not form my own opinion but I could almost swear that they were in some of the rough work by the scratches and bruises they were wearing.

The rail birds are getting more numerous at the practice field this week. With only a few days left before they will see their Eagles in action. Saturday is the day the Crane team blows in to town. We do not know just what the outcome of this game will foretell but from the dope from the oil field, they will pack lots of dynamite. Some say they are as good as Wink was last year. We will predict "NOT". We still have a cold from the breeze they left in passing.

The Cranes carry a weight advantage of some twelve to fourteen pounds to the man, but they only have eighteen men on the squad and it is very hard for a young boy to stay in there and pitch for sixty minutes of hard football. The Eagles carry the larger number of reserves and in this way might offset some of the overweight. Even though they are much larger, they are only human and a good fighting team can sometime overcome a great handicap.

We do know that there will be no time for loafing and every man is going to have to turn on the steam and not depend on his team mates to carry any of his load.

Coach Carruthers is very reluctant in his opinion as to the outcome of the game Saturday. He does not know just how he is going to smooth out all the rough spots in such a short time. However, he is of the opinion that the opponents will not be to far ahead in their teamwork.

Watching the workouts during the week you can see some very good football at times, then terrible letdowns when some of the blockers are taking care of themselves. They may be saving themselves for the game Saturday but it is a good time to get in the habit in practice and not wait until game time.

Eldorado is being represented on many football fronts this year. George (Jiggs, Williams is trying his hand at the big time at A.&M. and was mentioned this week in the Texas Aggie as one of the promising sophomore packs. He has plenty of competition but you can bet your last dollar that the competition will have to be plenty rough to keep him off the Aggie team. Jiggs will long be remembered in Eldorado for his hard play and his leadership during the '37 season when he lead a great high school football team to Regional honors.

Johnnie Clements will attempt to make more headlines for the S.M.U. Mustangs again this year. He was recognized last year for his passing ability and is being picked among many sports writers and others to be a real star before he leaves Southern Methodist. Johnnie is only a junior.

Joe Turner Hext and Felix Susan are making themselves standouts at Howard Payne. Joe Turner will captain his team this fall and Toar will be in there dealing the opposition plenty of trouble. Joe is a senior, while Felix has another year.

Richard Bruton and Earl Bryant have entered San Angelo Junior College. The team there will be an unknown quantity until after the season starts. This is the first year for the San Angelo School but from the prospects, they are destined to be very rough. Both boys were standouts during their time in High school here and if I do not miss my guess, they will get better all along. Bryant had a hard time making up his mind but finally settled near home. He traveled so fast in three or four days, that even Hugh Welch, sports writer for the Evening Standard lost track of him.

The late workout Monday irked some of the players dads quite a bit. The boys report they missed their milking time.

Captains Hill, Williams and McCormick appeared to enjoy the rules meeting at San Angelo. At times they seemed to get rather muddled during some heated arguments but when Ray McCullough, Southwest Conference Football Official would get his explanation over, things would clear and a very satisfied look would appear on their faces. This was very good for the boys, as they will be called on to make many decisions during the coming season and a misunderstanding of rules at times could possibly cost their team much trouble. Not only captains

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS!"

. . . Remember that? And the next line, "Dear old golden rule days?" . . . Well, that's the line we want to talk about. . . For at this time of year, with the youngsters on their way to and from school, the Golden Rule is a pretty good thing for motorists to keep in mind. . . Whenever you see a group of boys and girls crossing the street ahead of you, whenever you see a school-crossing sign, whenever you see a school-bus slowing to a stop, remember that somewhere, some other motorist may be meeting your own children in like fashion: shift your foot from the accelerator to the brake—slow down—stop if a stop is indicated. . . The safety of those children is actually in your hands; they are absorbed, they are careless from their concentration on the moment, no telling when one of them may dart right out into your path. You, the adult motorist, must think for them when they're thoughtless, must see for them when they're looking the other way, must make your own alert attention take the place of their young distraction. . . Slow down for children—it will give you a whole lot of satisfaction every time you do.

ONE THING And THEN ANOTHER
By Fred Gipson

It is the wee dead hours of the night when I wake up. And I've got a dirty taste in my mouth, like mabe I'd been sleeping with it open and some wet rats had crawled in and bedded up. And my frame of mind is dirtier.

And way off out yonder somewhere, an old hound dog howls a mournful song to the blackened out doors. And when an old hound dog howls like that, I'm always depressed. And I immediately start thinking.

I think of old and bitter loves, long gone now, married and with children. I think of young and more bitter loves, washed up, yet still vivid in my mind. I think of loves I've laughed at and passed up, while seeking the non-existent Great Love.

I think of the time I accidentally shoved a rock off the stone fence at home and it fell on my little sister's hand and made the blood come and Papa got mad and wore out a peach sprout on the seat of my pants, while I howled and tried to tell him I didn't mean to do it.

And I think of that bicycle Mama never would let me buy. And I think of what a hard go I had of it in school, working too many hours, trying to make a living, so I could attend classes I never had a chance to study for. And I think of my unfulfilled longing for travel.

I think of the war. I know I'll have to go. I can see myself shot all to pieces, my life wasted.

I feel mighty sorry for myself. Then I remember the time I twisted the Little Brother's arm until he cried, because he wouldn't drive home the cows, so I could go swipe a watermelon. And I remember the time I threw rocks at the little Coats girl and then lied about it.

And in swift succession, there marches across my mind all the sordid events and experiences of my life, many too cheap and repulsive to put into print.

And I squirm and twist and tumble and roll in bed, with the thoughts of the miserable existence I've led.

"Did man ever have more on his conscience?" I ask myself.

I shut my eyes and try to forget it all and go back to sleep—and get wider and wider awake and get more and more depressed and feel meaner and meaner by the minute.

When thoughts of suicide begin to enter my mind, I know it's time something was being done, so I start desperately to counting sheep.

But counting sheep reminds me of food. And I get up out of bed to search the room for it.

If course, searching for food in a hotel room is a very futile thing. But I search, nevertheless. I turn on the light and dig into my suitcase. I remember having dropped a chocolate bar in it about a month ago.

I don't find the bar. But I do knock the suitcase off the table. And the wobbly-legged table tips over, too. And I'm caught off balance and step into the middle of the pile and fall flat on my face. And the resulting crash brings excited sleepers to doors all up and down the hall.

But at the time of my fall, I see an apple roll out of the overturned suitcase, along with a shoe and some dirty underwear and a couple of fishing corks. I'm digging it out from under the dresser when the landlady knocks and sticks her head inside my door.

"Just looking for an apple," I tell her. And I hold up the apple for her to see.

But she doesn't. She just slams the door and leaves. And I remember that I'm sleeping in my shorts and nothing else.

I sit on the bed and eat my apple and contemplate the work of cleaning up the heap in the floor. And I immediately get sleepy. I don't wake up until 10 o'clock the next morning.

Which just goes to show it wasn't my conscience keeping me awake. I just needed food and exercise and excitement.

"Precautions should be taken in cleaning house", said Miss Stewart. The quality of equipment, brooms, brushes and mops, should be of the best. Old shoes should be stored in convenient closets.

Favor on refreshment plates were tiny pastel colored bonnets filled with mints. Visitors present for the meeting include Mrs. A. J. Atkins, Mrs. Sam Jones, Mrs. B. Page, Mrs. Owens and Mrs. W. N. Ramsey.

Meeting Tuesday

In a demonstration on "House Cleaning Made Easier" Miss Margaret Stewart, C. H. D. The demonstration was given on Tuesday afternoon when Adams Home Demonstration club members met for their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Slias Burk.

"Select cleaning equipment with care," stated Miss Stewart. In giving household hints she suggested using a small cloth sack over the broom to keep down dust and to keep from leaving dust streaks in cleaning walls, etc.

One visitor, Miss Ruth Baker, was present for the meeting. Members present were Mrs. Will Isaac, Mrs. Will Montgomery, Mrs. M. M. Reynolds, Miss Lottie Reynolds, Miss Stewart and the hostess.

GO TO CHURCH

Hebrews 10:24-25. "Let us consider one another, and provoke unto love and good works; not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is."

Note that the writer says—"As the manner of some is." There were people in his day who did not go to church. The problem of church attendance is not a modern problem, it is as old as the church itself. But the very fact that church attendance, or attendance upon public worship, has continued through all these centuries and occupies the place in the life of the world that it does, is proof that there is a place and use for such a custom. It meets some need or supplies some service important to the life of man. And the good ends that this custom serves in the life of man will be furthered for the good of all it more people followed the custom. A great multitude in America never go to religious services; many people in our community seldom attend.

To you, at least, who are Christians, I urge that you be regular and faithful in this matter, as the writer to the Hebrews wrote to the Christians of his day—"Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together."

I I urge if first upon the ground of that authority to which we always turn,—the Word of God. God's word sets before us the example and the teaching of religious assemblies. From the time that the children of Israel gathered at Mt. Sinai on throughout the remainder of the Bible we find God's people gathering in religious assemblies. There were the feast days and religious festivities connected with the tabernacle, and later with the temple. There were the services held in the synagogues every Sabbath day in the time of Christ. Of Christ it is said, "And as His custom was He entered into the synagogue on the Sabbath day". Christ knew more than the religious leaders; He was a far better man, and more religious than they; and they were not friendly towards Him; but when the sabbath day come He was found in the place of public worship with them. Through the remainder of the New Testament we find the early Christians came together on the first day of the week for simple worship services. And the one who wrote the Hebrew Christians urged upon them the continuance of the practice and the importance of each one being present.

It is very plain that the Scripture teaches us to follow the practice of public worship and religious instruction.

But today there are plenty of people that greet with impatience that statement—"The Bible teaches us should." It has little force with some. So we do not rest the case simply on what has been said. May I go on to say that the Bible is the most reasonable and practical book, and it teaches what it does because there are sound moral and practical reasons for it.

It teaches attendance upon public worship—

1. Because it is a mark of honor due to God. He has made us and provides for us. For His goodness to us and for the excellence of His being, He is altogether worthy of our worship and grateful acknowledgement, and of our hearing His will. It is most fitting that there should be set times when we come together to render Him this tribute. We have definite times to attend to things that seem important to us. We go forth with definite intentions to work. We go forth at other times with definite purpose of pleasure. And as God is a reality in our lives, One in whom we live and move and have our being, we should go forth at definite times with the definite purpose of worshipping and thanking Him.

Men may, and should, have definite periods of private worship and devotion, but it is the very ones who do this that are the ones who understand the fitness of public assemblies for worship and are most faithful in attendance.

When a highly esteemed benefactor comes to town, those who admire him pay their personal respects to him. But very often those same ones feel that is not enough. He is due more honor. So they arrange a banquet, or public reception, at which time all his admirers may collectively demonstrate their respect.

And God, the giver of every good and perfect gift, is full worthy of our united worship and praise being offered him publicly at regular times.

it is a mark of honor and gratitude due God, and no person should neglect it.

2. The Scriptures teach it because it is good for the worshiper. He needs to humble his soul before his Maker. Man gets so accustomed to mastery over things about him, that he needs that recurring reminder of how frail and helpless and dependent he really is in this universe.

His soul needs to give expression to that thanksgiving and adoration it feels. Only by such expression will these emotions live and bring into our lives the healthy influences they exert.

His mind needs to be refreshed and re-impressed with the reality and importance of the things of the spirit.

He needs the strengthening of his faith, the encouragement for Godly living, the quickening of his interest which participation in worship with his fellow Christians will impart to him.

In the winter I open the front of the coal stove and I see there a bed of glowing, live coals, at white heat. I stir them up and they get brighter. Some of them drop through the grate, separated from the others. In a few moments they are dark, cold, and useless, while the others which are together above are still alive and hot, radiating their warmth. This is a simple picture of the effect on a man who ceases associating himself with his fellowmen in public worship.

3. The Scriptures teach it because it testifies of God to those who remain away. The purpose of a church building is known to all in a community. And those who attend that house of worship are testifying to those on the outside, perhaps in a silent but still effective way, their belief in the God and man's responsibility to Him. As I heard a layman say—"We ought to go to church even if we go to sleep while we are there; we are at least letting the other fellow know what side we are on."

I am sure there are people in every service who are there because some one else is there. Somebody's custom has led some one else to go. And there are many who are not there because others are not there.

May I give you this quotation from Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, "A Christian owes it to the community to move through the streets on Sunday morning leaving an impress on the life of the town."

If no one went to church and every one glued his ear to the radio, public worship would vanish, and spiritual Christianity would gradually fade away. Religion is a social thing and in its Christian form it is impossible for it to survive if men hold aloof from one another. "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together," is an old exhortation which all the generations will do well to heed.

I think it was Voltaire who said that he despaired of destroying the Christian religion as long as Christians observed the Sabbath.

4. Now in the last place, I am sure the Bible teaches the observance of regular public worship because of the effect it has on the morale of the whole group of believers. The church has a work to do in the world today. It is a great work and a tremendously important work. It is a needed work. When attendance at services is good, then interest is high. When poor, then interest lags, and the work suffers. This truth is confirmed by the emphasis all organizations place on the attendance of members at meetings. It needs no discussion. But here are a few lines that are true about church attendance, "A fellow's attendance is worth more to the church attendance, "A fellow's at-pew is the worst enemy the Church has right now. It knocks the church. It lambasts the preacher to his face. It makes the congregation feel mean and wish they had not come. It ruins the sermon so that it fails in its mission. If a stranger happens in, that empty pew tells him he has made a mistake in being there, and he must not repeat it. It's voice reaches out to the whole community, talking about the emptiness of the Christian religion. It tells everybody that the religion of Jesus Christ is not worth even a man's attendance at church worship. That empty pew is mean. Yes it is. It is contemptibly mean. When that empty pew comes to the judgement throne it will have a hard time making excuses for its emptiness."

Friends, public worship is God's due. It is the soul's need. It is testimony of faith to unbelievers. It is the life of the church. Let us not have to give account for an empty pew. "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together."

H. Pendleton and Lon Wallace Are Leading Citizens

Mr. H. Pendleton and Mr. Lon Wallace of the Texas Trading Co. are those substantial type of citizens upon whom this community depends a great deal for leadership and guidance. They have in the past and no doubt will continue in the future to give more than their share of time and energy for the welfare of others than themselves. They are the type of men who make friends and friends once formed by them are never broken by an unfriendly action on their part. Their success in business is directly attributed to their application of these principles which guide their business dealings. They spare no efforts in order that their services to the people of this community shall be commendable.

Mr. H. Pendleton and Mr. Lon Wallace have never been known to inject themselves into a situation for the mere purpose of gaining publicity. They proceed in a calm, unostentatious manner and accomplish their object with a quiet dignity. For that reason the true estimate of their worth is sometimes missed.

This newspaper sincerely wishes to offer them this small evidence of heart-felt esteem.

G. W. and Morris Jennings Are Constructive Citizens

The City of San Angelo has assumed its place of importance in state affairs because of the efforts of the far seeing business and professional men who have advanced and extended the trade advantages of the locality. Two of the citizens who have taken a very important part in all progressive movements are G. W. and Morris Jennings of the Jennings Wrecking Co.

They have devoted a great deal of time and energy to the general welfare of this district and it is fitting at this tie that we attempt to express in a small way our appreciation for their unselfish contributions to the general welfare.

They are citizens of wide acquaintances, whose many friends admire and respect in them those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. Their upright business methods are a credit to their high sense of honor. We congratulate Mr. G. W. and Morris Jennings on a splendid record of service and wish them continued success.

J. T. Houston Has Many Friends

San Angelo may well be proud of the citizens who have made the city and the surrounding territory so favorably known. In mentioning some of these men we could not in common honesty omit the name of Mr. J. T. Houston of the Houston Music store.

Mr. J. T. Houston, a leading business man, cannot be praised too highly for his great achievements. His main interests have always been building up of a greater San Angelo. The value of such a man to the community cannot be over estimated when taking into consideration he has accomplished that have been an asset to San Angelo and West Texas.

Mr. J. T. Houston is wholly deserving of our sincere praise, and these few words of commendation are but a just recognition of the many activities he has conducted for the general welfare of the community as a whole. The honest and successful conduct of his business affairs is but a reflection of his character.

We trust Mr. J. T. Houston and J. T. Houston Music store shall continue to serve San Angelo and our readers for many years.

Mrs. Alex Shockley and son of Beard will arrive next week to visit some time with Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Humphrey. Mrs. Shockley is a niece of Mrs. Humphrey.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

(3) Agree to pay $2.50 monthly (minimum) which pays for 25 kilowatts (10c per kilowatt) which in many instances is all a small residence will use in a month but in case more is used the price drops considerably, (3c kilowatt for the next 25 kilowatts and 2c per kilowatt for the 3rd kilowatts.

The government in this project expects to build 100 miles of line with 2 paying ($2.50 each) revenues per mile or $5.00 per mile revenue. The Government builds tap lines from the main lines for a distance of 1000 feet (being nearly 1-5 mile). If a customer is farther than the above distance from a main line the Government will build it to houses at 10 cents per foot and the customer will have 30 years to pay for it in monthly payments which will be plus his regular $2.50 per month regular minimum payments for Juice. As an illustration: A customer lives 2000 feet from the main line; then $2.50 per month minimum rate, would apply to first 1000 feet, then the other 1000 feet would cost an additional 10c per foot or $100.00. This $100.00 to be paid over a period of 30 years which will amount to 28c per month. Thus the customer minimum rate would be $2.50 plus 28c or $2.78 per month.

Mr. Clark suggested that another meeting be held soon and 10 or 12 people be selected to canvass the county and get interested customers to sign up the agreement mentioned above. Then with the information at hand Mr. Clark will return and tell whether or not the project could be carried out.

Mr. Clark also stated that it would be a good idea to get this information as to the number of customers together soon, as the allotments are being used by different counties at the present time and the allotment might become exhausted.

The Schleicher County Rural Electrification Committee, organized this week to carry out a canvass of this county on the project, asks the rural residents who are interested in rural electrification please call at the County Agent's office and sign up required agreements. This will greatly facilitate the project as the committee only has a limited amount of time to get on this year's program. If married, husband and wife will be required.
