

ELDORADO-IRAAN CHAMP GAME TO BE PLAYED ON HOME SOIL

On The Divide

In commenting on the rain this week, J. A. Whitten, long-time Schleicher county stockman, stated that range conditions are looking best they have since 1918. These fine rains this fall have already begun to reflect their benefits—Schleicher county citizens might pause and give thanks for the rains.

Strikers and their friends took a novel means of annoying a laundry involved in a labor dispute at Wichita, Kansas, by continually calling on the telephone, so that customers were unable to get connections. About 5,000 "phony" calls were made in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Whitten and son were here last week end from Fredricksburg to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Whitten.

SECOND GUESSING

(By L. T. Barber)

The game last week-end was supposed to give some idea as to the strength of the opposition we will have the bi-district game. Grandfalls had held the Iraan and Big Lake teams to tie games, but lost on penetrations. The Eagles defeated the Grandfalls team 22-0, which looked as if we might be able to win. But, Friday night the Iraan team knocked off the Big Lake Owls 26-0. Now what are we up against? It looks from this corner like a real battle here on December 9.

The school officials, fans and school board members got their heads together Monday and decided to try to have the game played here. A subscription was taken, it was surprising as to the amount subscribed without any argument. The officials of the two schools met in Ozona and Eldorado got the site for the game. It is now up to the Eagles to get the game.

Most of the time in West Texas, the people are praying for rain. Well, next week we had better pray for a pretty day on Saturday.

The ball totting looked very good against the Grandfalls boys. With some real blocking by linemen, who have much to do with the gaining department, the backs had a real day. Hill got 65 yards in 5 tries. Williams came up with 82 in eleven attempts. Halbert scampered for 97 in seven runs. One of his being for 69 yards. Jones, running from the blocking position did no ball totting, but from the way he was helping in opening a path, he did his share and receives lots of praise. Hill was having toe trouble. His kicks were not getting away as usual. His average was for only thirty yards. In games before he has averaged as high as 46. A pretty fair brand of booting.

SANTA WILL VISIT LOCAL CHILDREN

No child in Eldorado will be forgotten by Old Santa this year, if plans of the local Lions club materialize.

Through the co-operation of ladies' clubs of the city, every child who otherwise would not be visited by Santa, will awaken on Christmas morning greeted by a well filled stocking.

Plans are being worked out by a Lions club committee composed of N. P. Wilkinson, Tommy Barrow and Robert Carruthers.

Although definite arrangements have not been completed, there will probably be a show staged in the near future to benefit the Christmas chest. It is being discussed that admission to the show will be something that could be used to brighten Christmas for some Schleicher county boy or girl. Announcement will be made in the near future.

MOVED TO ARIZONA

Mrs. C. M. Boyce left Friday for Coolidge, Ariz. with Mrs. J. T. Hallmark of that city who has been visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Boyce are moving to that city.

Mrs. H. L. McDonald of Menard visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cheek last week end. Mrs. McDonald is a sister of Mrs. Webb and an aunt of Mrs. Cheek.

Rains Fall Over West Texas

Slow rains fell over West Texas Tuesday and Wednesday of this week bringing further moisture to benefit farms and ranches of the sector. The rain fell slowly during the two days and was estimated at from 1 to 2 inches.

So far this fall, several good soaking rains have fallen on farms and ranch lands of Schleicher county. Some old-timers say that the prospects for a good season are brightest in many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Etheredge and children left Wednesday for Crain to visit a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Millar.

1940 AGRICULTURE PROGRAM WILL BE VOTED DECEMBER 9

Marketing Quotas Will Be In Effect Only If Approved By At Least Two-Thirds Of The Cotton Producers Voting In The Referendum on December 9.

BY W. G. GODWIN County Agricultural Agent

If you produced cotton in 1939 you are eligible to vote in the 1940 cotton marketing quota referendum, December 9. Producers are not only eligible to vote, but are urged to vote. The important thing is to get as many of the eligible voters as possible to the polls so the results will be representative of cotton farmers' wishes. Any cotton farmer who fails to vote on Marketing Quotas is not as interested in his own business as he should be. The outcome of the referendum means a lot to the individual farmer as well as farmers as a whole, and each vote will have its effect on the result.

The 1940 marketing quota for a farm will be the cotton acreage allotment multiplied by the actual or normal yield, whichever is the larger, plus any carry-over cotton which could have been marketed

IRA WOOD FREED ON GAME LAW CHARGE

Ira Wood was found not guilty on charges of violating state game laws in Justice Court here Monday of this week. J. P. Robinson was presiding judge.

Woods was found not guilty by a jury, on the basis that the statute under which he was charged set out that it shall be unlawful to hunt morning doves, white wing doves, or any migratory bird, or any other game bird of this state with a shotgun larger than 10-gauge, that is capable of holding more than 3 shells.

Climaxing a successful and interesting football season, the Eldorado Eagles will meet the Iraan team on the local grid Saturday, December 9 to close the 1939 conference.

Champions of District 8-B, the local boys will battle the 7-B top rankers for the Bi-District pennant.

School officials and local sports fans, put their heads together this week and went after the football game to be played on home soil. They did the job and this year, Eldorado will be host to the visitors. The battle will draw the largest crowd of the season and promises to be the best football game local fans have been privileged to witness in several years.

Eagles Defeat Cowboys

Showing much improvement from previous games, the Eldorado Eagles scored early in the game at our Fair Park field last Friday, and then settled down to a defensive game, to beat the Grandfalls Cowboys 22-0.

The first score, a 28 yard run by Captain Jo Ed Hill climaxed a 70-yard drive which began the first time the Eagles gained possession of the ball. Taking the ball on their own 20 yard line, a series of line smashes and sweeps and reverses gave the Eagles a first down on the Cowboys 28-yards. From here, Hill drove off tackle side-stepped and shook off the would-be tacklers and then, behind perfect interference and blocking went across.

Williams' kick from pacement was good and the Eagles were leading 7-0 before the first 5 minutes were past.

Grandfalls received after the score and a penalty and fumbles put them back in the shadow of their own goal line. An attempt to punt out was blocked by Joe Luckett. Eagle center, the ball going out of bounds in the end-zone and giving the Eagles a safety.

Late in the 3rd quarter the Cowboys punted out on the Eldorado 31-yard line and on the first play from this point Halbert took (Continued on back page)

JEWELRY OF STEEL

Two new methods of treating steel to produce improved products have been announced within a month, both of which are said to be of great commercial importance. One of the new methods was developed at the Westinghouse laboratories, the other at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The first is a hardening process in which the steel is heated to a temperature of as high as 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit in an operation which requires four hours, using a new type of hardening furnace. Then, by a special method of cooling, the metal is finished without distortion. After this treatment the metal emerges with an extreme hardness approaching that of a diamond.

The second is a process for producing an improved stainless steel, using titanium tetrachloride which is the chemical employed for military smoke screens and smoke bombs. This was added to an acid bath in which stainless steel was placed, during experiments designed to make the steel completely impervious to corrosion.

An amazing result was obtained, as the surface of the steel thus treated scintillates as if studded with minute gems. In fact, Institute scientists declare that the effect is so beautiful that the new steel may be used in the manufacture of jewelry as attractive as that made of precious stones.

U-BOATS IN WORLD WAR

In comparison with the enormous losses inflicted on shipping by German submarines during the World War, the losses of the present war have been almost insignificant so far. For between 1914 and 1918 about 5,860 British merchantmen, totalling approximately 13 million tons, were sent to the bottom by German U-boats.

The loss of Allied shipping other than British is estimated at considerably more than three million tons, while neutrals lost about two million tons. The grand total of vessels sunk thus reached about 18 million tons.

Total submarine sinkings during the first 10 weeks of the present war have been only about half a million tons. How many submarines have been destroyed in the meantime is not known, but the Allies appear to take an optimistic view of the situation.

During the World War, the German records show that they lost a total of 199 submarines, of which 178 were sunk at sea, 7 were interned at neutral ports after being damaged, and 14 were blown up by the Germans themselves to prevent their capture.

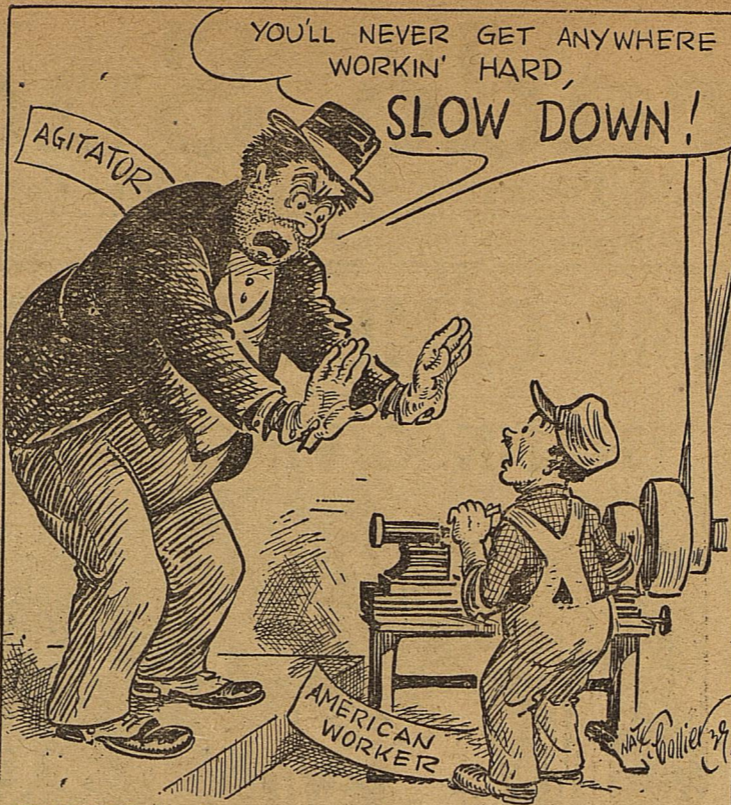

At the outbreak of the World War Germany had only 20 submarines in commission, but additional ones were built rapidly. The greatest number ever in service at one time was 140, and about 120 were in commission at the end of the war.

Timely Topics

Professors at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, better known as Auburn, have a habit of sticking to their jobs a long time. At present 22 faculty members have served more than 25 years. Two of them, Dr. George Patrie and Dr. John J. Wilmore, have taught there more than 50 years.

The decisive defeat of fantastic old age pension plans in California and Ohio in the elections of November 7 may discourage promoters of such wild schemes in other states. Everyone wants to see the lot of the aged made easier, but it should be done with some regard for sound economics.

Nobody's Business

By Julian C. Capers

AUSTIN—Prospects of a special session of the 46th Legislature to finance social security have become so remote, as a result of recent developments, that there now seems little chance of a session at all and that there will be none before Spring is virtual certainty. Failure of House members numbering 81, who endorsed "in principle" an omnibus tax bill, to impress Gov. O'Daniel with the prospect of a successful special session apparently gave O'Daniel a thoroughly sound political alibi for not calling a session.

The fantastic proposal of Rep. Bailey Ragsdale, of Crockett, that the House convene itself, either by petition of the members or on call of the speaker, and vote impeachment of O'Daniel, then pass a tax bill, and rescind its impeachment action thus restoring the Gov. to office, was regarded as so unsound that observers here did not seriously consider it. Under the statutes, the governor is automatically suspended from office when impeachment is voted by a majority of the House. Ragsdale's plan would require cooperation of the Speaker, the Lieutenant Governor, and a majority of the Senate. Both the speaker and the lieutenant governor have indicated pretty plainly that they favor the plan of writing a sales tax into Constitution, putting a ceiling on taxation of natural resources, and writing in a top contribution of $20,000,000 for social security, the plan favored by O'Daniel. And most important of all a majority of the Senate has indicated on numerous occasions that it sympathizes wholeheartedly with the constitutional sales tax plan, so ardently favored by the governor and the oil, sulphur and utility companies. So, Ragsdale's wild scheme would hit a snag in the Senate, if it ever got that far, and nobody here believes the House would go for it.

PEOPLE APATHETIC

The truth is the people of Texas generally are apparently as little concerned about the social security program as they are with the state of the weather in Alaska, except for minority pressure groups. O'Daniel seems to have sensed this, and social security financing is certain to be the principal issue again in a gubernatorial campaign next year. Closest observers here think O'Daniel will win re-election, unless the situation changes radically from what it is today. If the campaign develops opposition which O'Daniel thinks might jeopardize his chance for re-election, he undoubtedly will call a special session for political purposes, and since the governor has done so much better job of politicking than the leadership in the Legislature has so far, students of the situation in Austin think whenever he calls a special session it is pretty sure to do nothing, and will find itself further behind the political eight-ball than the Governor has it already.

The truth of the matter is that inspired and able leadership is necessary to consolidate the widespread sentiment against O'Daniel and his sales-tax scheme. And so far that leadership has not appeared. Whether it will appear before the primaries next July is a question only time can answer.

TAX REMISSION

The spectacle of Harris County, largest and richest in Texas, so menaced by floods that it constitutes a public calamity justifying the remission by the state of state ad valorem taxes, outlined by the legislature in the preamble to the Harris tax remission bill, didn't impress Attorney General Gerald Mann very strongly. He got out his copy of the State Constitution, read it, and hand down a ruling that the tax remission bill will not stand up. A court test probably will follow. Meanwhile in Dallas County, where a court test of Mann's opinion declaring void the general county tax remission bill was started, District Judge John Rawlins, ruled in favor of the county, and the case will go at once to the Fifth Court of Appeals. Mann intervened to defend his ruling. The appeals court will certify questions to the Supreme Court, in order to hasten a final decision on the matter. Final chapter in the State's anti-trust suit against the cement companies was written when two additional San Antonio cement factories paid $50,000 penalties each, and agreed to an injunction restraining them from further violations of the law.

Previously, four other concerns paid in $100,000 each. The first of the year will bring cold weather and formal announcements of the various candidates for State office. Hot contests for governor, railroad commissioner (Lon Smith's post), and probably State Treasurer and State School Superintendent are already in prospect, with possible other contests to develop later.

Mrs. Julia Flinchbaugh and Mrs. Louise Weaver of Denver are twins, and both are widows of Civil War veterans, with whom they went west in covered wagons in 1879. On their recent 95th birthday they frowned on suggestions for a celebration of the event, saying it was nothing to make a fuss about.

1. Producers who plant within their cotton acreage allotments: (a) Will receive full conservation payments. (b) Will receive price adjustment payments.

2. Producers who unknowingly overplant their cotton acreage allotments. (a) Will receive conservation payments with deductions. (b) Will not receive price adjustment payments.

3. Producers who knowingly overplant cotton acreage allotments. (a) Will not receive conservation payments. (b) Will not receive price adjustment payments.

Marketing quotas have no effect on the cotton acreage allotment or normal yield for any farm nor in the rate of conservation of price adjustment payments.

Quotas may be used to forestall increase in our already large cotton supply, and to protect each producer's fair share of the domestic and foreign demand for American cotton. Marketings in excess of this demand lower the income of all cotton farmers and tend to defeat the efforts of those trying to produce and sell the amount needed by the world.

The Cotton Situation and The World War.

Farmers are in a better position than at any time during the World War to deal with a farm emergency. They have had several years of experience in working together and in adjusting agriculture to emergency situations.

The Present Cotton Situation. The world supply of American cotton, due mainly to overproduction in 1937, is about 26 million bales, as much as we ordinarily consume and export in 2 years.

Cotton; Now Compared With 1914. The world supply of American cotton is more than 8 million bales larger than at the beginning of the World War, but consumption is not likely to be as large as it was in 1914-1915.

Out of a crop of about 12 million bales this year is considered fairly small, but our carry-over of 14 million bales is the largest on record.

The Turtle Mocked

By IRVIN S. COBB

ONE of the oldest stories in the known world—and in my humble judgment one of the best ones as well—deals with three actors—an aged negro, an itinerant conjurer and a twelve pound snapping-turtle.

The most popular version runs in this wise: It is a hot day in a Mississippi countryside. The conjurer, who is making his way across country afoot, is sitting alongside the dusty road, resting. There passes him an ancient negro returning from a fishing expedition. The undertaker has yielded no fish but the dandy is not going home empty-handed. He has captured a huge snapping-turtle. He is holding it fast by its long tail, which is stretched tautly over his right shoulder so that the flat undershell of the captive rests against his back. He has delectable visions dancing in his mind of turtle-soup, turtle-steaks and turtle-stew. He bids the recumbent stranger a polite good-morning and trudges on. He has gone perhaps twenty feet further when an impish inspiration leaps full-grown into the magician's brain. In addition to his other gifts he is by way of being a fair ventriloquist. He throws his voice into the turtle's mouth and speaking in a muddy, guttural tone such as would be suitable to a turtle if a turtle ever indulged in conversation, he says sharply:

"Look here, nigger, where ar you taking me?" The old man freezes in his tracks. He rolls his eyes rearward. There is the look of a vast, growing, startled bewilderment on his face. "W-h-who—who dat speakin' to me?" he asks falteringly. "It's me speakin' to you," the turtle seemingly says, "here on your back. I asked you where you were taking me." "Huh, boss," cries the old man, "I ain't takin' you nowhars—I'se leavin' you right yere!"

(American News Features, Inc.)

sumed about as much cotton as usual, but our exports were only 3.3 million bales, the lowest in 60

This year's supply of all cotton is 50 million bales, only about 1-2 million bales less than the world's record supply.

Before the World War we supplied 65 percent of all the cotton consumed in the world. Now we furnish 42 percent.

Cotton consumption in this country during the war increased about 1 1-4 million bales per year.

War and a large crop caused cotton to drop from 12 1-2 cents in July 1914 to 6 1-2 cents in November that year. Two years passed before it reached 12 1-2 cents again.

Every effort is being made to expand the American and foreign markets for our cotton but supplies are now far in excess of demand. This means that the markets we have should be shared equitably by all cotton producers. Marketing quotas offer assistance in doing this.

Marketing quotas can be used only when supplies are excessive. The farm program, of which quotas are a part, provides assistance toward helping cotton farmers to:

1. Get a fairer share of the nation's income.
2. Produce the food and feed needed for home use.

3. Maintain and improve the productivity of their soil.

4. Provide consumers with ample supplies of food, feed, and fiber at fair prices.

5. Expand domestic and foreign consumption of cotton.

ODDS and ENDS

Mrs. Kate E. Robinson, in business here since 1902, is one of those delightful persons we could converse with forever. She seldom visits any more but she has many callers, and no wonder. We must confess she taught us something about our own home state.

Mrs. Kenneth Cheek tarts sides with the turkey when it comes to killing and dressing. She tackled her first bird this year and we think she must have battled with the rebellious fellow all afternoon. Now she advises, "Don't ever try dressing a turkey".

Quite a few local ladies have taken to needle-point in a big way. Don't fail to see the lovely work of Mrs. Wiley Ratliff.

Eldorado seems like home once more since all the enthusiastic Collegians are seen around again.

Speaking of Students, one would be more likely to mistake Mrs. Ernest Finnigan for one of them instead of the mother of a popular College band sweetheart.

AMON CARTER, President

Let's Be Thankful for Electric Service, too!

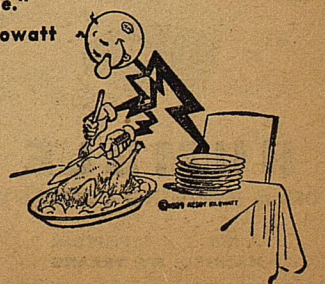

"I am thankful for my electric range. It's so much easier to prepare Thanksgiving Dinner."

Electric Service is something we've all come to accept without much thought. That's because it's so very, very good and dependable. We simply needn't worry about it at all. So it's fitting and proper that we pause at Thanksgiving time to give a moment's thought to the marvelous value—nay, bargain—we get in return for the few pennies a day that we pay for Electric Service. Light is only one of the many items of service included in the monthly statement. Refrigeration, Cookery, Radio, Sweeper, Coffee-maker, Washer, Iron—all these and more cost less today than our grandparents paid for light alone! To use this Service, we need only turn a switch. And behind the switch are a thousand men and women whose constant labor and research make Electric Service both dependable and economical. Jobs thus are created—a $1,300,000 payroll in this West Texas area. Taxes are paid—almost a half million dollars annually for the support of local, county, state and federal governments. We can well be thankful for modern Electric Service.

"I serve all the people."

And Then the B'ar had to Hibernate

By IRVIN S. COBB

POMPEY and Ike were draped over the fence behind the cabin swopping yarns.
"Has I ever tole you, Ike," said Pomp, "about one time I got chased by a big grizzly b'ar?"
"No," said Ike, "how wuz 'at?"
"Well," said Pompey, taking a deep breath, "it was lak this: One day I wuz strollin' along up a mountain side and there wuz a deep hole between some rocks and I went an' I stuck a stick in 'at hole and whut come 'ar'in' and tearin' out but a big black b'ar. Wid that I started runnin' down that mountain side an' that big black b'ar he wasn't two feet behind me. Well, I kep' runnin' an' runnin' and the b'ar he kep' runnin', too. And pretty soon he got so close I could feel his hot breath on my laigs. And it was a terrible hot day and the sweat was a' purin' off me in rivers but I couldn't stop to wipe it off—I had to jes' keep a'runnin' an' a'runnin' wid that big black b'ar almost a' techin' my heels. Well, I kep' goin' cross lots hell-bent-fur'lection but I couldn't gain none on the b'ar—he was jes' ez nigh ez ever an' a little nigher. But jes' then I had a piece of luck. I come to a river an' the river wuz all froze over. So I snatched a pair of skates out of my pocket, that I happened to have along an' I clapped 'em onto my feet an' I skated off across the river an' the b'ar he started acrost too, but the ice was too thin for him an' the first thing he knowed he fell in kerplunko ant woz d'owned—an' I wuz saved. Wasn't that a narrer 'scape?"

Ike batted an eye.
"You 'spect me to believe that yarn?" he asked scornfully.
His friend's face took on a hurt expression.
"Course I 'spect you to believe it."
"Hur!" returned Ike. "That yarn is a big lie an' I knows it!"
"How come you say that?"
"Well," said Ike. "You sez fust off, 'twas a powerful hot day, ain't you?"
"Yes," admitted Pompey. "Twuz terrible hot weather when that bear took out after me."
"An then you sez," continued Ike, "that w'en you come to this river 'twuz all froze over an' you skated acrost. How come this yere river froze over in such terrible hot weather? Ain't that a doggone lie?"
Pomp looked staggered—but only for a moment. He recovered.
"Oh, say, Ike," he said gently, "I reckon I forgot to tell you that this yere b'ar he kep' a chasin' an' a chasin' me till he chase' me frum July way up into December!"

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

"Why will ye die?" Ez. 18:31.
Marvin Williams, Pastor
This question is to set the will to work. There is always a way of escape from temptation. Therefore, we cannot accuse God, or Satan, or nature, or circumstances. The blame rest with ourselves. God does not regard the terrible fate of dying men with indifference, as though it were no concern of His, after the manner of an epicurean divinity. He sent His son to save the world from sin. If we will but look up we can see Him lamenting over the cities of all the earth saying still, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wing and ye would not!"

Subject Sunday Morning
"Christ in Christianity."
Subject Sunday evening, "By the River Brink."
Special music both services, on Sunday.
All leagues meet 6:30. Notice: Preaching in the evening at 7:00.

Second Guessing

from the looks of the score. Eldorado 20, San Angelo 0. This is their last game for the year. They have won three and lost two. Some of the boys go up to high school next year and might be good ball players soon, but we do not look for them to tear up much for at least two seasons yet.

Quite a few games for the regular Thanksgiving day are on docket. We only batted 500 last week and possibly will do worse this week. Writing on Wednesday we can attempt to guess the Thursday games. Coach Bible has told his team that they have a chance to win at College Station. There is always a chance and a possibility but here not much probability. Barring a muddy field, it will be a ball game. The Aggies having a much stronger team from comparative scores should win by three or four touchdowns but do not give this much away. It will be much closer. A. & M. after a great battle. Arkansas winds up her season against Tulsa. Very much in and outers, the Razorbacks should take this one without much trouble. Baylor will sock Rice deeper in the cello of the conference. SMU and TCU meet at Ft. Worth for their annual grudge fight. Last year the Frogs tore the Mustangs apart. SMU does not have the strength of the last years Frogs, but will get revenge Saturday.

Thomas H. Sherman of Attleboro, Mass., who died a short time ago at the age of 96, believed he was the last survivor of the Ford theater audience who witnessed the assassination of President Lincoln on the night of April 14, 1865.

the ball on a single reverse around his own left end and raced 69 yards for the second touchdown. Williams' try for extra point was wide and the half ended a few minutes later with the Cowboys trailing 15-0.

The Eagles scored early in the third quarter for another 6 points. Williams' try for extra point was good and a new team was sent in.

The extra line were outstanding on the defense with Reynolds, Henderson and Newling going through and stopping the Cowboys for some oses, Wall, Cozzens and McCormick showed up well permitting few gains through the line.

The backfield exhibited the best blocking of the season and also showed great improvement on pass defense.

The lineup follows:
Willard Newlin—R.E.
Joe Reynolds—R.T.
Wallas Cozzens—R.G.
Joe Luckett—C.
Roy Wall—L.G.
James Henderson—L.T.
Lyndon Isaacs—L.E.

S. E. Jones—R.H.
Joe Ed Hill—L.H.

Pep Squad and Band Formation

The formation Performed at the half of the Grandfalls, Eldorado game by our band and pep squad proved to be very impressive.

The band started under one goal post and the pep squad under the other. The band played while the pep squad, lead by Venita Davis, Marched single file down the field to the front of visiting team's grandstand. They stopped here and made a "rope". Meantime the band had marched down the field and were at hand to "roll" the drum while the girls dimoned so the "rope" would be more distinct. The girls then stood up and gave the yell: "Bo-oma-lacka Booma-lacka ciss bo-oma-bah, Roping cowboys, Rah, Rah, Rah." in honor of the visiting team. The band and pep squad then marched across the field to the Eldorado grandstand. While the band played the pep squad made a spirial, a circle winding in and out, and then marched off the field. The band remained on the field and made another spirial lead by our band sweetheart, Kathleen Crosby. They then marched off the field.
