VATICAN

Few people realize that the Vatican, the residence of the Pope at Rome, is the largest and richest palace in the world. It contains 11,000 rooms of all sizes, including halls, chapels and living apartments. There are 80 grand staircases and 200 smaller ones. Nobody can estimate the value of the treasure stored in this building, but they include all of the gifts of jewels and precious metals which have been made to the successive Popes by devout Catholics for the past 1,500 years. There are tens of thousands of paintings and art objects each worth a fortune.

"Roskefellar himself could hardly pay for the tapestries and paintings in the Vatican and Henry Ford would be bankrupt before he had half finished, if he started to purchase these treasures at their actual value," says James T. Nichols, who recently returned from Rome.

GRENFELL

The young college men who have been assisting Dr. Grenfell in his medical mission work among the deep-sea fishermen of Labrador are on their way "out." The ice is closing in behind them and for the next nine months the man who has given his life to helping others will be isolated from the world, as he has been every winter for nearly forty years. Grenfell was a young doctor in London. Dwight L. Moody, the famous American evangelist, was speaking there. Happening to pass the hall, Grenfell dropped in, heard Moody's message, stayed to talk, decided that from that night on he must devote his life to the service of others. The medical mission to the fisher folk was the result.

Great Britain has honored her native son by conferring knighthood upon him. He is Sir Wilfred Grenfell now in his old age. America has given liberally of money and man-power to aid in the work. The example which this self-sacrificing doctor has set has led and still has a quiet but powerful influence on thousands of other young men who are trying, in their own selected sphere, to emulate Grenfell.

GAMES

Human nature demands play. In time of stress and worry, play is the best relief from nervous strain. That accounts for the sudden and immense popularity of the newest outdoor game, "Tom Thumb golf." It is estimated that, even in this financially difficult year of 1930 more than one hundred million dollars has been spent in building and equipping Tom Thumb golf courses. They are everywhere, and attract tens of thousands who have never played real golf.

Cotton-seed hulls dyed green are used for the fairways and greens of these miniature golf courses.

Another current sport is the revival of the old game of backgammon. For years nobody heard of backgammon; the younger generation didn't know what the curious design on the back of the checkerboard meant. Now fashionable society has taken it up, books on backgammon are being published, rules and instructions are being broadcast by radio and newspapers are starting backgammon columns.

CHINA

Civil war in China is not so serious as newspaper dispatches suggest. China is a huge hountry, roving almost half as much ground as the United States and having three times our population. Disturbances in one region have little effect on distant parts.

It is surprising, nevertheless, to read in the U. S. Commerce Reports that new apartment houses from 7 to 20 stories high are being built in Shanghai, that a commercial broadcasting station is under construction and another of the Nanking government, and that other new enterprises are being undertaken.

China is far from being paralyzed by its internal wars, and may come out of them stronger than before they began.

Cotton Crop To Fall Far Below That Of Last Year

The 1930 cotton crop in Schleicher County will fall far below the yield of the 1929 crop. It will probably not reach the 2,000 mark this year compared with something over three thousand last year.

The gins report a ginning of approximately fifteen hundred bales up to late and there will probably be about two hundred more bales in the fields yet. The recent rains did very little damage to the cotton that was still in the fields, due to the slow falling and with practically no winds at all.

A great deal of winter grain has been planted and the rain of last week will bring the grain up in a short while. The stock farmers depend largely on the winter grain for grazing purposes during the winter and spring. It will keep down the feed bills during the winter considerably.

OZONA VOTES $170,000 SCHOOL BONDS

At an election held Saturday at Ozona, $170,000 in bonds were voted by a vote of 215 for the bonds and 16 against. Ozona already has a fine school building and this additional building fund will make them rank among the lead in West Texas.

The Parent Teachers Association requests the presence of all patrons of the school to the meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock in the High School Auditorium. The program consists of the following numbers:

"Teaching the Child Respect for the Law": By Mr. W. O. Alexander

Piano Solo: Miss Lucille Oglesby

"How Should Boys and Girls spend their Leisure Time?": By Dr. W. I. Gray.

Reading: Mrs. Jarvis.

WITH OUR EXCHANGES

Lonnie Johnson, colored, stabbed his wife to death in Brady according to The Heart O' Texas News, Johnson is in jail.

The Christoval Observer complains about the game law being violated says turkey and quail are being killed.

The Menard Messenger reports that 22 rattle snakes were killed there last week with one shot.

Misses Mary Childress, Lucille and Eleanor Ingham, and Mrs. Hugh Childress, Jr., were in San Angelo Tuesday. Mrs. Mary Perner accompanied them as far as Eldorado where she spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Doty visiting her infant grandson Samuel Stephens Perner, Jr.—Ozona Stockman.

ROADS

The newest thing in road construction is to build them of iron. The first iron highway of importance is under construction in Sangamon county, Ill., near Springfield. An iron trough is laid on the flattened highway surface, the corrugated sheets of the bottom of the curbing at either side. This trough is partly filled with a layer of sand mixed with a mastic binder, to form a cushion for the surface, which may be concrete brick or some other paving material.

Road building in America is still a new art. Old methods useful in horse-and-wagon days are useless for motor roads. In time the ideal road will be discovered and used everywhere. Meantime, every new idea is worth trying out.

Scouting

By Chairman Scout Committee
J. A. Whitten

In going through my files recently I found my first Boy Scout membership card which was given me after the organization of Troop No. 18 of Eldorado. 32 Boys were in the troop and to me they were as fine a bunch of boys as could be found in America.

I had the pleasure of instructing and passing on their examination in their Tenderfoot and second degrees. I watched their development in Scouting and felt proud of them as I could see the principles of Scouting Craft as is taught in the twelve scout laws. Scout work and develop in their character which is necessary in the lives of every good and worthy citizen.

It is very true that every boy scout in good standing with his roop is a good boy, and is safe to say, will become a good man and a good citizen. They have the constant precept and example of men inspired by high ideals and noble purposes, such as Washington, Adams, Jefferson, also Lincoln and Wilson. President Roosevelt was a great Scout as is our now President Hoover who is greatly interested in the work of Boy Scouts.

If every man could and would be a boy scout in heart, our jails would soon be empty. Our peace officers would need no firearms and our criminal courts not have such heavy dockets.

What is said of Boy Scouts in the man can be truthfully said about the Girl Scout and Campfire Girls who are to organize here soon.

I hold membership in quite a few organizations and believe the work that is being done in the Boy and Girl Scout organizations will compare favorably with that done by any other organization in the country.

I am for the Boys and Girls realizing that they are the men and women upon whose shoulders this Government is soon to rest and this is their training period. So it is not only a pleasure to be their associates but in a small way help them prepare for the great responsibility which lies just ahead.

Let every member of Troop No. 18 be on the job.

Just received another shipment of Ladies House Dresses fast color, guaranteed, for $1.69.

Sonora Superintendent Dies After Ten Years Of Service

In the death of Superintendent M. O. Britt, of Sonora, the school of that city suffers a great loss. A fine Christian gentleman and an excellent School man and a citizen of the highest type was to be found in Mr. Britt. He was 52 years of age and survived by his wife and one brother. The remains were carried to Rosebud for interment. He has been Superintendent of the Sonora School 10 years, and was also Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School there.

R. S. (GOVERNOR) STERLING FROM HIGHWAY COMMISSION

Governor Moody, upon the resignation of R. S. Sterling, governor elect, from the head of the State Highway Commission appointed D. K. Martin of San Antonio to his place on the Board, and W. R. Ely was elected Chairman of the State Highway Commission.

FOUNDATION BEING DUG FOR McWHORTER BUILDING

L. B. McClary who has the contract for the building of the W. L. McWhorter building began digging the foundation this week. The building will be a modern up to date building, thirty by one hundred feet and will be occupied by the Palace Barber Shop after its completion.

CHURCH NOTICE

Dr. W. B. Gray, Pastor of Presbyterian church here has been appointed by Brownwood Presbytery to install the new pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Brownwood Sunday morning. Dr. Gray will return to Eldorado Sunday afternoon and will preach here Sunday night. His subject will be "Getting a Heart of Wisdom."

Eldorado To Play Lakeview Here Saturday

The Eldorado Eagles will take up their seasons work next Saturday in defending their home grid iron against the fast Lakeview team. The game scheduled at Sonora last week end was called off due to the death of the Superintendent there.

The game Saturday promises to be a hot contest as the Lakeview team boasts a strong team and played the reserves of San Angelo to a nothing tie. The Eagles have won one and lost one and their strength is beginning to increase considerably. The strong team at Menard scratched out a one touch-down defeat against the much lighter team but the defeat was a moral victory for the home guard.

OIL DRILLING IN SCHLEICHER SLOW

The tests for oil that are being put down in Schleicher county have been slowed up considerably lately. Some of the wells have reached their depths of contract and awaiting for other companies to take them deeper, while the Whitten test has been abandoned for good. Quite a bit of testing is being made around the well in the Whitten ranch, trying to determine the direction of the vein of oil that has been struck there in several places. No information has been given out as to the direction, and from all indications, of other information there will be none given out later.

Practically all of the test in the county are closed down, some having trouble and others waiting for major companies. No active drilling is being done at the present.

WRIGHT'S PARAGRAPHS

Well at last, Grand Old Schleicher is wet and sloppy, had we ordered it ourselves it could not have been more perfect.

The man who lives on the highway can always get to town to hear the town gossip when it is too muddy to work in the field. Good Highway is what we need in every section of the county.

And now since "Uncle Kelp" has become Grandpa he has bought himself a "Goofy Golf Course" and spends his evenings playing golf.

From the looks of some of the lakes in this section some of our farmers will need a motor boat to harvest their crops, the lake beds were the prolific portions of the fields during the dry summers and now they are fine hunting grounds for ducks. Either too much or too little.

We note that the Film Censors of Ohio have ruled not to let the film "The Big House" be displayed in Ohio. We are glad to see some of our American people waking up. They have bonded all "racketeering and gangland films." When a young child sees killing on the screens from early life and that the one who does the killing is made a hero, teaches his young life a wrong impression of greatness. No picture with taking the life of another person should be allowed to be shown in the border of these United States.

We noticed our friend Silas Isard out here last week as though he thought some of his friends out here had started to death and needed a tomb stone.

MRS. A. P. BAILEY ENTERTAINS WITH BRIDGE

Mrs. A. P. Bailey entertained a group of friends at her home Friday October 3, at 2:30 o'clock.

After the arrival of the guests six games of Bridge were played and refreshments were served to twenty-four guests. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jim Hoover, high; Mrs. B. B. Brittain consolation, and Mrs. Seth Ramsay high cut.

Those present were: Mesdames Jim Hoover, Van McCormick, H. T. Finley, Melvin Crabb, Lewis Ballew, V. G. Tisdale, Joe Williams, Tom Henderson, J. N. Davis, Muller, Seth Ramsay, G. C. Crosby, J. C. Crosby, L. T. Barber, Ed Reynolds, Sam Lloyd, Luke Thompson, B. B. Brittain, Terry Crane and Misses Annice Putnam and Agnes Wright and Messers Melvin Crabb and Albert Bailey and hostess Mrs. A. P. Bailey.

Seven Inches Of Rain Received Over County

The gloom of the livestock industry has been washed away in West Texas, when rainfall amounting to as much as ten inches in sections. Schleicher county received from five to seven inches, which fell slowly for three days and nights. Plenty of water has been placed in the large lakes over the county and the winter grass and weeds, after a few days of sunshine, are sticking up all over the ground.

Much confidence has been placed in the ranchmen since the recent rain. Much gloom hovered over the stock industry and the low price received caused by the ranchmen being forced to sell on account of the drought and to prevent a large feed bill. But since the rain and much winter grazing promised the stock business looks considerably better and at least the ranchmen are feeling better.

Rain Slow and Steady

The rain fell slow and steady, with every drop going into the ground and doing the most good. The lakes over the country are level full, the other spots are soaked completely and a better rain could not have been hoped for and at a more needed time.

Hunters Feel Good Over Rain

The sportsmen are feeling good after the rain. The lakes that for many winters was the feeding ground of thousands of ducks and other game birds were dry and the prospects for a good season of duck hunting was beginning to look dark, but now the hunter is planning on many hunts during the season and are only waiting for the season to open and a stiff norther to bring the game into the county.

ELWIN GERRON TO PRACTICE LAW IN ELDORADO

Elwin Gerron, of Waxahachie will begin law practice in Eldorado this week. He will have his office in the J. A. Whitten office until a more suitable place can be located. Mr. Gerron represented the 100th District in the Legislature, being a member of the Forty First.

He comes here well recommended by the Live Stock Sanitary Commission in which Judge J. A. Whitten is a member and has done much for the organization in getting their bills passed. He is well qualified, having several years of experience in the law practice and we wish him well in our little city.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Troop 18 is again back to business. We met in the basement of the First Baptist Church Friday night. Everyone joined in the game of broom fight while we were waiting on Mr. Brooks. Then several patrols had their patrol meeting. Everyone reported fine on their one hundred points of being gotten this month. There were thirteen old members present and six who were voted into the troop Friday night. They were Jack Meadow, Jefferson Nixon, James Page, Frank Bradley, Cecil Moore and Charles Ratliff. After the reports of the patrols were made we were dismissed.

MRS. MARY ANNA FINNIGAN

Mother Finnigan who was 71 years of age was visiting her son Ed Finnigan on the ranch 6 miles north of Eldorado for the past six weeks from Brady Texas, died Saturday afternoon after taking seriously ill Friday. She had been in failing health for some time but suddenly became worse Friday.

The remains were carried to Brady for burial, her home for many years, she was the mother of nine children and a devoted christian mother.

STERLING SHIPS 25,500 LAMBS THIS SEASON

J. T. Davis prominent stockman of Sterling City estimates that 25,500 lambs have been shipped from Sterling this season.

J. H. Rodgers was in Brady Sunday and Monday and saw the big flood. He reports that the water depth and flood damage has been over estimated. Practically all business houses were inundated, and many old timers say that it was the worst flood in the history of Brady.

EUROPEAN POLITICS

There is something puzzling to the American mind, to read the reports of the recent election of members of the German Reichstag or Congress. No less than thirteen parties elected members. We think American politics is confused, but what would we think if we had thirteen political parties sufficiently strong to elect members to Congress? There have been rare occasions when there have been three parties represented at Washington, and once there were four, for a single session. But our whole political system is based on the two-party plan. Minor differences are swallowed or compromised in party programs and platforms.

The most striking thing about the German election is the sudden jump of the National Socialist of Fascist party, from 12 seats to 107. Added to the 143 seats held by the regular Socialist party, and the 76 seats held by the Communists, this apparently puts rampant radicalism in the saddle.

That may have significance to the rest of the world. The policy of the Fascist party calls for the unification of Germany and Austria, annulment of the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain, equality in military force with every other European nation and the restoration of Germany's colonies, along with many items for internal democratization. If the dominant force in the new Reichstag undertakes to put any such program into effect, another European war would seem to be inevitable. The safety in the situation lies in the improbability of any two radical groups agreeing on the same program.

IMMIGRATION

This is a good time to check up on immigration, and the report of the State Department made to President Hoover indicates that the authorities at Washington are doing everything possible to prevent foreign labor from coming into the United States at a time when not all of our own people can find employment.

In normal times, a person who is able-bodied and intelligent is not regarded as "liable to become a public charge," and so is admitted, if his other qualifications are all right. Now the consular service is instructed to make certain, in every case, that the intended immigrant is going to be able to live for a considerable period in the United States before he gets a job.

Mexican immigration into the United States has practically ceased. The State Department reports as a result of this restriction, Canadian immigration has fallen off materially. Unless a foreigner has relatives in the United States, which entitle him or her to preference, he is having a harder time than ever before to get into this country.

That is as it should be. Our first duty is to our own people. Likewise, the policy announced by Governor Roosevelt of New York, of employing only citizens on public works, is in accord with the needs of the times.

DIRECTNESS

YEARS ago it became necessary to discharge a man from a certain company with which I happened to be associated. His short comings did not reflect upon his character or ability; he was just temperamentally out of place.

Everybody liked him. Nobody wanted to hurt his feelings. Hence many conferences were held.

It was suggested that we might get some other company to offer him a position. Or he might be given a years leave of absence, in the hope that he would not come back. Or we might persuade some one to speak to some one else who could suggest to him in a round-about way that he ought to resign.

Meanwhile, time drifted on.

Finally it occurred to us that in scheming around to find a way to be kind to this man we were actually being very cruel. We were allowing him to waste precious days in a position where he could have no future. Where upon we sent for him, drew a long breath, and spoke as follows:

"Joe, it is necessary to tell you that you are through—Now that's over, and we don't need to talk about it any more. Let us, therefore, sit down to a serious discussion about your future plans, because every man in the company wants to see you happy and successful."

We helped him find the proper environment; he is today prosperous and contented, and I believe that he counts us all as among his very good friends.

The incident was recalled the other day by a conference in aid of an important charity. The question was how to obtain a large donation from a certain rich man. All the usual expedients were suggested. We might "approach" him through his bankers. Perhaps some one could induce some one to speak to his wife. It might be possible to have a good friend of his in Los Angeles put us in touch with a friend of his in Chicago.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

LAND-MARKS OF THE BODY

A farmer and stockman came to consult me some days ago, saying that his right kidney was giving him almost unbearable pain—could not walk for pain, like toothache! I had him point out the exact location of greatest severity; he removed his tobacco and placed his thumb just within the entrance of his right hip pocket; "there's where she's givin me the devil right now," he declared.

This of course was the right "sciatic notch." The great sciatic nerve from its origin in the lumbar spine, emerges and comes fairly near the surface here I explained his mistake at once; if the patient stands erect, and draws a line horizontally around the body at the level of the umbilicus—the right kidney's lower extremity would touch the line; the left kidney is above that level. The pressure of the liver on the liver on the right, causes the slight difference in level.

The "small of the back" is below the kidneys. There is, almost never pain in either kidney, because of the lack of sensory nerves there. Practically all backache is due to abuse of muscles or nerve-fiber of the lumbo dorsal, lumbar, or sacral regions.

Every one should know the "sciatic notch." The big nerve-trunk that occupies it—and the path of this nerve down the outer-rear quadrant of the thigh, branching at back of knee, and on to ankle and foot. If you have had sciatic neuritis, you will know without my telling you. This affection is not rheumatism.

Every woman should know the pelvis, and its landmarks. It's a bony ring, the ancients likened it to a basin. The sacrum is a segment of the spine, shaped like a keystone, center, rear; the "coccyx," (cuckoo's break) terminates the spinal column below. The public arch is center, front. Within this basin many organs of great importance are situated—well worth serious study.

AS GOOD AS THE BEST

WIVES

ONE could draw many interesting lessons from the recent biography of the great English barrister Sir Edward Marshall Hall.

For instance, it furnishes a striking commentary on the difference between our method and the English method of administering justice. Sir Edward appeared in most of the celebrated trials of his time. Any one of them would have dragged on for weeks over here. The longest of them lasted only eleven days in England. A majority were wound up in less than a week.

We are ahead of the English in most departments of modern business. We are even with them in medicine, in science, and, perhaps, in literature. In the law we are woefully, shamefully and inexcusably behind.

But at the moment I am more interested in one very human little incident in Sir Edward's life which occupies only a paragraph, and was perhaps overlooked by most readers.

He had just been elected to Parliament and had prepared a speech with which he hoped to dazzle the House and make his reputation. Again and again during the long night session he tried to catch the Speaker's eye, but each time he was overlooked in favor of some older member. So he went home with the speech still undelivered, its ringing sentences still ringing in his head.

There in bed lay his little wife, who had been asleep for hours. But Sir

Edward, so much disappointed and so on fire with his own oratory, could not let her sleep. Forthwith he woke her up and assisted that she listen to the whole long speech.

Is there any wife in the world to whom something of the same sort has no happened?

I knew personally one of the leading men of the last generation. For years he had gone home every evening and detail by detail—told his wife the whole story of the days proceedings: what he did, what he said, and what other men had done and said to him. When she died at a ripe old age, the husband seemed organically sound and good for another ten years at least. Yet he followed her to the grave within a few months. Life had no more zest for him. He had lost his audience.

Go into a restaurant and watch the couples at their meal. See the man expanding under the encouraging smile of a girl, talking along, showing what a great fellow he is. And she, asking questions which are much dumber than they need to be, deliberately concealing her own wisdom in order to make him appear the wiser.

They are a great invention, these women, and particularly those of them who do us the honor to become our wives. Whenever any one tells me that with the increasing wealth of the country, the wives are growing more idle, I contend that they still earn their living handsomely.

And would continue to earn it even if they had to do nothing but listen to us talk.

"A BARGAIN IN EVERY PURCHASE"

TEXAS AND TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes
Austin, Texas

"All Texans for all Texas"

School Attendance Increased

The largely increased attendance in the schools of Texas is gratifying to those who like to think the State is going forward along education and cultural lines, but must be most disheartening to the croakers whose main line of talk is "hard times." The attendance in all kinds of schools from kindergartens to universities, from private, public and church school is larger than ever before. This indicates that the people are either better able to send their children to school or else are more interested in having them educated—perhaps both. There is every reason to believe that the prosperity or adversity of the people as a whole is largely mental. The worst pessimists are the folks who are most in need of education. It is a pity they can't be sent to school awhile.

Corpus Christi Cotton Receipts

Cotton receipts at the Corpus Christi port during the first three months of the season far exceeded those of the entire last season. The only grievance that South Texas has about the cotton is the low price. The only way to overcome that is to decrease the yield. There is some sentiment in Texas for another called session of the legislature to pass a law that will bring about reduction of acreage. It is doubtful whether farmers would favor such legislation or whether such a law could be enforced. Past efforts to induce cotton planters to reduce crops have been futile. If heavy drosses year after year do not prove effective heavy fines for over-planting would hardly do it.

Uvalde Not Depressed

Uvalde correspondents are telling the world there is no "depression" there. The varied resources of that section keep times good all the while. They include irrigated and diversified farming, asphalt, trap rock, pecans, honey, cattle, sheep, goats, wool, mohair, cedar timber and a lot of other things. If Uvaldenas could just about live at home and there are hundreds of other Texas owns of which the same thing could as well be said.

Temple Gets Refinery

More than a half million dollars is to be spent at Temple in the building of an oil refinery by the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Companies, the work to be started immediately. Temple has always had a way of going after things that bring results. It is not a "magic" city, but is the result of its go-getting citizenry, which is nearly always to be found at work as a unit for enterprise for the advantage of Temple and its surrounding territory.

Plum Growing Increased

Laredo having become famous for growing Bermuda onions, is going in strong for citrus fruits and plums—especially plums. Thousands of trees are to be planted during the winter and spring. There is no good reason why plums should not be grown with profits in many parts of Texas, except that the trees are not planted and cultivated extensively enough to attract buyers. The Laredoans, after much bitter experience with independent marketing, have learned the lesson of co-operating.

Scenic Highway

A borderway along the Rio Grande from Brownsville to El Paso has been a dream of many Texans since about 1914. The dream is gradually becoming a realization. Long stretches of the road have been built along the route, but there are still many gaps that must be filled to make it attractive to tourists. Work has been started on the Maverick county link, a stretch of 34 miles. Improvement is under way in Dimmitt and Webb counties. Most of the route is now fairly good for all weather travel through Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr and Zapata counties.

McCulloch Roads

McCulloch is among the counties that is not depending altogether on Federal and State governments for good roads, although it will become such help. A million dollars bond issue is proposed for permanent construction of Federal and State roads and county laterals so routed as to accommodate the greatest number of people of the county. Brady is co-operating heartily with the other towns on the route for the completion of Highway No. 10 from Fort Worth to Del Rio.

Almost Free Fair

Coleman is taking a middle position in regard to admission charges to its fair, making the charge only 5 cents for children and 10 cents for adults. Most of the community fairs and many of the county site fairs charge no admission, the expenses being borne by public subscriptions and donations of prizes by merchants. Whether admission is free or the usual price is charged, Texas county fairs are drawing record crowds this year and are giving creditable shows.

Hays County Farm Agent

Hays county has been without a farm demonstration agent for some time, but has arranged to secure the services of a trained expert to assist the farmers with their problems. Hays has been a little backward in taking this progressive step, all the adjoining counties having farm agents and some of them employing from two to four men and women in agricultural extension and home economics work.

Sodding Roadsides

Sodding some 2,000 miles of right of way along State highways is being "discussed" by the State Highway Department as a means of preventing they obstruct the views of the country from the highways and should not be permitted to mar the landscape. A large part of the pleasure of driving is in seeing the scenery and it is exasperating to have the best views hidden behind advertisements.

Canning Factory Survey

A survey is being made to ascertain if a canning factory at San Saba can be made profitable. While there may not be enough vegetables and fruits going to waste to justify building a factory there, there would unquestionably be a large increase in production if growers could be assured of the ready markets at fair prices that a canning plant would insure.

erosion and of beautifying the roadways. Bermuda grass is being considered for sections of the State where it thrives. Some civic organizations in the State are planting trees and flowering shrubs at the edges of roads to add to their beauty. Every community should take pride in making its roadways more beautiful.

Helping The Old Man

Miss Anna Davis, daughter of the much loved Fletcher Davis of the Hondo Anvil-Herald, having won her A. B. degree with honors and having inherited a talent for journalism, she has returned home to "help the tired old man to 'carry on' with the work that has become the biggest part of his life—publishing this paper," to quote the words used in making the announcement. She will be the "editor," Mrs. Roberta Davis will be the "assistant editor," and "old man Davis" is to be fooled into thinking that he is "managing editor." He is lucky to be so coddled.

Where Cows Are Cows

Of forty-one yearling cows in the 40 pound list in the entire United States, according to 48 state agricultural college tests, three are in Brown county, Texas, there being one other in this State. The record holder in the State belonging to Shelton Brothers, Brownwood, tested 993 pounds of milk and 46.37 pounds of butter fat in 30 days and at the time was only one year and eight months old. Texas climat, Texas grown feed and the best strains of pure bred cattle are combinations hard to beat.

"This New Home Comfort Rate Makes Electric Refrigeration Even Cheaper"

"You've more than likely wanted one of the modern Electric Refrigerators but have hesitated because of operating costs. Let me explain how cheaply you can use electric refrigeration under the schedule of the new Home Comfort rate.

"The average five-room house without an electric refrigerator, electric range, or water heater uses most of the service included on the initial and second rates, so you would simply connect the electric refrigerator on the lighting circuit, use the one meter, and practically all of the additional service for refrigerator or other use would be recorded on the new low rate of 4c per kilowatt-hour—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking. This means that you could use an electric refrigerator at about one-third the initial rate.

"Many other appliances will be just as economical to operate. I'm going to explain some more for you next week."

And Remember—You Can Make Your Own Average Rate

Initial rate 12c
2nd rate 7c
Low rate 4c or 3c

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Giles Chittenden swears to avenge the death of his young half-brother Rodney, driven to suicide by the notorious Julie Farrow who had spurned his love. He will make Julie love him, then throw her aside as she threw Rodney. He meets her in Switzerland, goes with her to the hotel on the St. Bernard Pass, and succeeds in winning her love. To his amazement, he discovers that he has fallen overwhelmingly in love with her himself! And he is married to an American girl with whom he has nothing in common.

Then he discovers that the girl is not the same Julie Farrow who ruined Rodney, but her cousin of the same name. She scorns him when he confesses his love and his inability to marry her. They meet later in London where she is going the place that kills another man, Lawrence Schofield, who wants to marry her in spite of her wild life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

In the morning he rang her up. Bim Lennox answered: "Julie? Oh, I'm sorry—she's not up yet. Who is it?" "Lawrence Schofield. She told me I might ring."

"Oh—well—if you will wait a moment. May I give her a message?" "I want her to lunch with me if she will."

"I will tell her." It seemed an eternity till Bim returned.

"Julie will be delighted. Will you call for her at half-past one?" "I shall be delighted also." So that was that!

Schofield felt a boy as he turned away from the telephone. Nearly fifty! Nonsense! He was a young man, and in love for the first time.

He might have been less elated had he heard Julie's comment when his message was conveyed to her.

"Schofield! who on earth—don't know the man."

Julie was half asleep still; her head was splitting, and there was a queer dread in her heart.

"He was here last night. He brought you home," Bim said patiently. "He wants you to lunch with him. He is waiting on the phone."

"Oh—well, say what you like—anything."

Bim went away without answering and when she returned Julie was still sitting up in bed, her hands clasped round her knees, a little frown of pain between her eyes.

"What did you say?" "I said you would be delighted to lunch with him and he is calling for you at half-past one."

Julie scowled. "I told you to send him away."

"You didn't. You told me to say what I liked, so I said you would be delighted. I like that man."

"Go with him yourself then."

"I would have done if he had asked me."

Julie lay back on her pillows. "Where's the tea?"

"Just scolding. Is your head very bad?"

"The very devil," Julie followed Bim to the door with envious eyes. "How on earth do you manage to look so fresh at this ungodly hour?" she grumbled.

Bim turned round with a faint smile. "I don't drink too much for one thing," she said lightly.

Schofield came for Julie in a big car. "It's awfully good of you to come," he said nervously.

"It's awful good of you to ask me," Julie said. She looked at him and was touched by the genuine pleasure in his eyes.

"Are you living in town?" she asked. "I am only staying in an hotel at the moment," Schofield answered, and then added: "I think I told you last night."

Julie had forgotten everything about last night except those little cameos of pain in which Giles Chittenden had featured.

He was so anxious to please, so attentive and kind.

"Are you a married man?" Julie asked impulsively, and he flushed and shook his head.

"No—my wife died—not long ago." She drummed her slim fingers on the table, conscious of Schofield's eyes upon them.

"You—you are not married?" he asked. "Good Lord no," Julie laughed. "No, thank you," she said again loudly.

"Why do you say that?" She flushed and looked away.

"Why? Oh, I don't know. I prefer independence, I suppose."

"But if you met some man who—some man who thought the world of you—some man who would be kind and—and devoted."

"Are there any such men?" she asked cynically.

"There is one here," Schofield said. She turned her head slowly and looked at him in blank amazement.

"I beg your pardon," she said at last.

Schofield's honest eyes met hers unflatteringly.

"I said there was one here," he repeated. "I suppose you are surprised I have not forgotten that we met last night for the first time, but directly I saw you everything was changed for me. I have never—never felt for any woman what I felt for you last night."

I daresay you think it presumption on my part to have said as much as I have done, but some day if there is no other man you care for—"

Julie gasped. "You're not—you're not asking me to marry you?"

"Some day I want to ask you if you will."

Julie felt as if she were dreaming. She broke out desperately: "But you know nothing about me—nothing!"

"I know you are the woman with whom I could be perfectly happy."

She laughed derisively. "That is a bold statement. If I were to tell you—"

He just touched her hand with his. "Nothing would make any difference. She felt her eyes wet with sudden tears.

"Are you just—joking?" she asked. "No."

She looked at him for a long moment in silence; she felt as if she saw him now for the first time. He was not young, as he had told her, and he was, not good-looking but there was something in his face—a steadfastness and sincerity which was like balm poured into her aching heart.

"I don't want you to say anything now," he was telling her. "If you will just let me see you—often! and be your friend."

"I don't know why are so kind to me."

"I am being kind to myself." She looked away, winking the tears from her lashes.

He was so simple and sincere. He was like a breath from her old peaceful life. Lately she had seen so little of simple honesty and sincerity. Some times she thought she had left all those things behind her on the snow-capped mountain tops.

"Where have you been hiding all these years?" she asked impulsively. He told her quite frankly.

"I've lived in a country town—I've just been a nobody, a junior partner in a highly respectable firm of solicitors. My wife died—she was never very strong, and then a distant relation died too and left me some money—quite a lot of money."

"Lucky you!" Julie said. "Yes," he answered, "I think I was very lucky," and his eyes were on her face. "I hope my luck will continue to hold," he added.

"I think you deserve that it should," Julie said. You are the kind of man who would spoil a woman terribly," Julie said.

"It would give me great happiness if I had the right to spoil you."

She laughed rather sadly. "It's such early days. Soon—perhaps quite soon—you will know me better, and then you will wonder why you ever thought me nice at all. I've got all sorts of rices."

"I don't believe you." They spoke of the others who had been at the Faun. "I tell you who I did like," Schofield said. "That tall fellow—what was his name—Chittenden?"

me." "He detests all women."

"Nonsense! a man like that—" Julie broke in excitedly: "I tell you he does—ask any one who knows him! he's a woman-hater."

"Then there must be a good reason for it."

"Conceit I should think!" Julie said flippantly. "He imagines that all women are running after him."

Schofield looked surprised at her vehemence.

"It sounds rather as if you dislike him."

Julie shrugged her shoulders. There was a little hard look in her pretty eyes.

"I don't dislike him," she said, "I'm just quite indifferent."

Since his introduction to Doris at the Faun, Giles saw a good deal more of her than he wished to see. At first he had accepted her invitations in the hope that perhaps Julie might also be included, but he had always been disappointed.

Once when he had mentioned her name to Doris she had frowned.

"Oh, Julie! I think I've shown her at last that her room is preferable to her company. She's really too impossible. You know who she is running about with now?"

"No." "Lawrence Schofield."

"I don't know him."

"You do. You were introduced at the Faun one night. He's harmless sort of man with heaps of money, but his wife has only been dead about a month, and it's a bit soon, don't you think?"

"Soon for what?" "To get married again."

There was a little silence then Chittenden asked quietly: "Is he to marry Miss Farrow, then?"

"So people say. He's year's too old for her, of course, but he seems absolutely devoted and she says it's only his money she wants and as it's what we all want, I suppose you can't blame her."

"I suppose not! though I understand Miss Farrow to say that she never intended to marry."

Doris laughed. "It was the next day his mother telephoned him. He could not go with her. Giles wondered as he hung up the receiver, what his mother would have said had he told her that his engagement was to meet the other Julie Farrow whom his brother had loved. The invitation had come about in quite a casual way.

Only the night before Lombard had called in at the hotel where he was staying.

"Will you come along and have some dinner with me this evening? Quite a small party," he had said.

"Ladies?" "Two—one of them Julie Farrow—the real Julie this time," he added rather maliciously.

Giles frowned. "Did you tell her I was coming?"

"I said I should ask you if I could find you."

"And she made no objections."

"None. I think she was entertained at the thought of meeting you."

There was a little silence which Chittenden broke.

"There's one point I can't get quite clear," he said. "This Julie—the famous one—sn't she a married woman?"

"She was. There was a divorce."

"I see, and she still calls herself Farrow?"

"It was her maiden name. She went back to it when the case was over."

Giles laughed shortly. "It seems to be the fashion," he said, and he remembered that Sadie had done the same thing after he and she had agreed to each go their separate ways.

"Well, I'll be there at eight," he said.

"And—Chittenden—"

"Yes." "What about—do you ever run across the other Julie?"

"I have met her once or twice." Lombard looked relieved.

"I'm glad to hear that. I thought well—you seemed so upset when we were in Lausanne—"

"What the devil are you driving at?" "Oh, nothing, nothing—only you cut up rough with me if you remember. You cut up rough over that mistake I made. And it was quite pardonable on my part. You'll see for yourself to-night. They're very much alike—especially if you don't know them very well."

It was quite true. Giles found himself unable to keep his eyes off the "other Julie" when they met at dinner that night.

Did you ever try to MILK a LAWNMOWER?

--not as foolish as it sounds, for many dairymen quit feeding concentrates in the summer and expect their cows to exist on pasture alone. Such cows expend their energy in GRAZING instead of PRODUCING MILK--and a lawnmower could do that job better.

You know, of course, that a 1,000 lb. cow requires about 30 lbs. of solid food to produce 35 lbs. of milk. But do you know that if she must obtain these solids from grass alone, she must graze over about ONE-TENTH of an ACRE and eat about 175 lbs. of GRASS?

Your cows are worth more as milk producers than as lawnmowers. Pasture is fine and will help reduce your production cost—but ONLY when supplemented by a high quality concentrate such as RED CHAIN 24% Dairy Ration.

MEANING OF THE TITLE,

"HI-DIVIDE" Because of their isolation, farm fires attract little attention. It is said that the gross income of the American farmer is about ten billions of dollars annually. It is estimated that his net income from this is one tenth or one billion. The fire loss is equal to one seventh of the farm profit.

When the next generation of boys and girls are reared we hope to have instilled in them a "fire conscience, and to see that a fire hazard is a thing of the past."

EAGLES PLAY LAKE

The game that was supposed to be played between Eldorado and Sonora was postponed on account of the death of Superintendent M. O. Britt of the Sonora High School. The game is put off until November first.

Lake View is coming here tomorrow to play us, and we expect to have a good crowd out at the game. The two teams are evenly matched, although the Lake View boys will out weigh the Eldorado team. The prices are twenty five (25c) for children and fifty cents (50c) for adults.

The game tomorrow will be the Eagles' third game and if you ask us, we're going to bring home the bacon.

The prospects for this game are very good, so if you want to see a real football game, come out and watch this one. The Eagles have won one game and lost one, but everybody come out and watch us make it "Won two and lost one."

CHEMISTRY CLASS

Mr. Williamson seems to be well pleased with his chemistry class. This is a small class and only two girls. The class is also well pleased with their teacher. Mr. Williamson is a very interesting instructor who has a method of teaching which makes the course very easy. He instructed the chemistry class of this school two years ago.

At the beginning of school Mr. Williamson divided the class into groups of two. This was done in order that the experiments might be formed more rapidly and accurately. To each couple he assigned a locker with a complete line of apparatus used in their laboratory work. It seems that each student enjoys the laboratory days, Tuesday and Thursday of each week, and are always anxious when these days come.

One of the most interesting experiments was found the hydrogen was very light and a very explosive gas. The students enjoyed very much when the instructions asked for a glowing splinter to be thrust into a bottle of this collected gas. The unexpected "pops" caused many "jumps" during this period. On these days the second period is used to write up the experiment. This is not quite such an enjoyable work but each student is always willing to perform the duty as that is where the grade comes in.

It is almost certain that his will be a successful class at the end of the year and everyone hopes that Mr. Williamson will continue to be pleased with the work of his students.

JIM DAN HILL

By Hollys Alexander

After spending one Summer vacation on the seas in Merchant Service as Quartermaster he took high measure study and examination for Third Mate Seaman and won an interpreter on a Warship at one time and loved to travel always saying it is easy to find a friend in any Country or in any language.

At present Mr. Hill is engaged in writing his dissertation for his Ph. D. degree upon the subject, "The history of the navy of Texas during the Texas Revolution." He spent the past summer months in Austin and in Mexico City collecting material on this interesting subject which has been discussed in Texas history.

IMPROVED ROADS BRING CHANGES

North Carolina's Experience Typical of What Has Happened All Over the Country

By Caleb Johnson

Thirty years ago there was not a mile of hard-surfaced road—brick, concrete, asphalt or any of the other familiar road surfaces of today—anywhere in the United States outside of the limits of a city or incorporated municipality. Today 600,000 of our 2,000,000 miles of public highways are hard-surfaced. This year of 1930 has been the biggest road-building year in our history. By the end of the year we shall have spent close to $2,000,000 000 for new highway work.

Who pays it? And why? The taxpayers pay for the roads and we pay for them because we want smoother travelling for our automobiles.

About half the money comes from the Federal and State treasuries, the other half from county and town taxes. And there is no other expenditure of tax funds which we begrudge less, unless it be the taxes we pay for schools.

It was not always thus. In the beginning of the motor era, when the automobile was a rich man's plaything the last thing in the world the farmer or other small town business man would have consented to be taxed for was roads for motor cars to run on.

The average farmer would not even pay for better roads for his own travel to and from town. Every sort of pressure was brought to bear in the effort to educate the people of the country to the economic value of good roads, even in the old horse-and-wagon days but all of those efforts got practically nowhere until the advent of the cheap automobile put motor cars within the reach of everybody.

As soon as the use of the car became general, good roads became a necessity which everybody recognized. And when the Federal government, in 1912, adopted a policy of paying a quarter or more of the cost of main highways road building began in earnest.

The result has been revolution in our own time, in so many lines of business and industry that it would be difficult to enumerate all of them. But nowhere has this new era of good roads and cheap cars had such a revolutionary effect as upon the farmer and the small town business man.

There are many cities in which the principal part of the milk supply is brought in now by motor trucks, instead of by train as formerly. And in every country town, dealers can get new supplies of merchandise, in by truck much more speedily and more satisfactorily than they ever did by railroad.

One day during the summer just past I was driving from New York to Philadelphia. At a filling station where I stopped for gas three large trucks heading the other way were drawn up. The drivers were all obviously farm boys, and they betrayed their Southern origin in the accent with which they spoke to each other and the filling station man.

"What part of Virginia do you boys come from?" I asked one of them, a venture. My guess was pretty close. They were from North Carolina, and had started out the previous morning with their trucks loaded with potatoes and fresh vegetables for the New York market. They would reach New York that night, after a 600-mile trip, and turn their produce over to the whole sale distributor about three days earlier than it would have reached the same market by rail. They told me that they made the trip several times a year, bringing in the products of a cooperative group of North Carolina farms, and always got prices away above the standard market quotations because their goods were fresh and had not been handled between the farm and the terminal market.

One of the most interesting examples of what good roads have done for a single state is that of North Carolina whose road-building program has been one of the most progressive and comprehensive. Between 1919 and 1926 North Carolina built $125,000,000

"ARGOTANE WAS JUST WHAT I NEEDED," SHE SAYS

"I Got To Where I Couldn't Eat Anything And Wasn't Able To Rest At Night. But Am Relieved Now" Says Brownwood Woman

Mrs. L. A. Brandenburg, of 505 Nelwood Street, Brownwood, Texas in her statement regarding the benefits received from Argotane, said:

"I have just taken one bottle of Argotane and am greatly pleased with the results in my case. I just haven't felt like myself for several years. I scarcely had no life or energy about me, and my appetite was very poor and suffered terribly from indigestion. I just got to where I couldn't eat anything without suffering and having intense pains in my stomach afterwards. Gas would form on my stomach and I felt depressed and down-hearted and just had to force myself to do my work. I had nervous sick headaches, and at times couldn't get any sleep at night. I felt that my condition was getting worse and needed something to build me up.

"Argotane was just what I needed to bring me out of it. It seemed to go right to the spot and I could tell a change in my condition after the first few doses. I'm not nervous like I was and get plenty of sound, refreshing sleep every night. I eat anything I want now, and am not bothered with severe pains in my abdomen any more. I seldom have a headache, and feel like doing something, and have more vim and energy. Argotane is a good medicine and I am glad to recommend it because it has given me relief."

worth of highways. In that period the number of farms in the state increased by 13,000 at a time when the number of farms in the whole nation was decreasing.

Forty cooperative farm marketing associations were developed in the state, shipping thousands of tons of poultry, eggs, hogs, fruits and vegetables which the state never before grew for out side sale. Roadside markets and city curb markets—the immediate result of the good roads—stimulated the growing of truck produce and formed an outlet for the farm surplus; with the cash thus obtained, the farm women put modern conveniences into their homes, dressed themselves and their children better, painted their houses and beautified their yards—thus creating substantial business for a variety of merchants. The true value of North Carolina property multiplied eight times between 1900 and 1926 while the entire United States was increasing the true value of property by four times. Through the new roads, the State was enabled to relover its "lost provinces"—those sections to the far east and west that were formerly foreign to the State so far as transportation connections of any kind were concerned. As a direct result of the growth of the new good roads North Carolina built consolidated rural schools valued at $35,000,000. At Asheville there was a 200 per cent increase in dollar business between 1919 and 1926—the period during which the good roads were built. In the Winston-Salem trade territory, the retailers reported a 65 per cent increase in purchasing power per capita. The Greensboro Chamber of Commerce testified that the good roads widened the retail trade territory of the city to an irregular area extending from 15 to 50 miles. The fine roads have given a simply tremendous boost to the State's tourist traffic. In 1920, North Carolina itself had about 140,000 motor vehicles; now it has not less than 485,000.

Here we see concrete proofs of the business benefits from highways—not idle theories, but outhentic and attested facts.

The modern motor road has given to the business man, as an individual a wonderful freedom of movement—an ease and flexibility in the scope of his activity—which he never enjoyed in other areas. It has relaxed all kinds of once-rigid commercial bonds. It has helped to make business fluent, copious, easily impelled and diffused, swift to reach its goals—and vastly more complex than anything our fathers knew.

ASSEMBLY

Wednesday, October 8, a very appropriate program was rendered as the week of October 5 to 10 is Fire Prevention Week. Miss Allen the English teacher was in charge of the program and Jess Ella Johnson was the announcer.

W. B. Gibson first gave a brief summary of the loss of lives and property every year by fire. The students body noted that this was a very large amount.

Bonnie Sue More then led in aayer. Lucille Iglesias then gave a piano solo, that was appreciated by all. R. L. Sample then gave a very interesting reading.

The student body was then intertain ed by "Fred Logan and his Harmonica He played "It ain't Gonna Rain No More" and "The Wreck of Old 97".

Annie Ruth Spurgers then gave a few of the rules for Fire Prevention and Mary Lee Davis told of the value of Fire Prevention as being a reason why every one should take caution. Mr. Holt for the first time this year finished the program with a few of his announcements.

FALCON FEATHERS

By Hassel Ratliff

A policeman walked up to a table in a restaurant and said with great dignity: "You rear awais without." Coach: "Without what?" Policeman: "Without lights; your name and address please."

Mr. Holt: "Where were the first doughnuts fried?" John I: "In Greece I think sir."

Albert Martin: "The horse you sold me last week is a fine horse but I can't make him hold his head up."

Albert Williams: "Oh, its because of his pride. He'll hold it up when he's paid for."

While one of our most learned students was in France an accident was brought on him. While crossing the street he was hit by a car.

Frenchman: "Parla you fran sa?" Brownie Bullion: "Naw, it was a Chevrolet coupe."

Another joke is: We noticed that two of the Seniors, Joe H. Moore and Eli McAngus were in from the country the other day. They came dashing into town with out their shoes and their pants rolled up to their knees and were spreading the good news that they got good rains out their way.

Miss Allen: "Who can give me a sentence using the word fundamental?" Albert McGinty: "Mine sister went out horseback riding and ven she came back she had to eat fundamental."
