School Opens 1931-32 Term Monday Sept. 7

The Eldorado public school will open 1931-32 year on Monday morning with 16 teachers, expecting the largest enrollment and the most efficient work of the history of the school. Superintendent Holt is a capable school man with the communities best interest at heart, and has given us a good school in the past. The teachers are most all acquainted having taught here last year and are deserving of the best cooperation from the parents of this community. Not only do the teachers need your cooperation but your child needs it also. The child only has one school life and if it is neglected the loss will be felt through out life. The child is not developed enough to see and know its school needs, therefore it is up to the parents to act for the child until its free school days are over.

There is always two periods of the school days that we as parents get enthused over, one is the beginning, the other the ending. Lets make this an entire year of enthusiasm and good will toward our school and its faculty and a few cheery words for the board of trustees who are also human and need your assistance as well as your criticism. Begin Monday to act.

RAILROAD COMMISSION ISSUE OIL PRORATION ORDER

The Railroad Commission has issued their oil proration order for East Texas, and have issued it over the protest of Gov. Sterling, all three of the Commissions signing the order. The governor said, "that order won't go into effect until I put it into effect." The Governor claims that the order as issued will favor the large companies, as it is issued on well basis and that the large oil companies can drill more wells and drill them faster, than can the small companies. Gov. Sterling insisted that the order should be on acreage basis.

The Governor still has his martial law in effect and can control the situation under martial law. He will not lift martial law until he has studied the order and understands what it means.

AVOID DUPLICATION

In these days when every item of public expense that comes out of the taxpayers' pocket should be scrutinized with a high-powered magnifying glass, the Baltimore Sun makes the following pertinent editorial comment: "In the present state of agitation about the power trust it is highly desirable to have on hand for public use a full and accurate picture of the issues involved. There is no point, however, in having two Federal agencies engaged at public expense in going over the same ground in this matter. Whether such a duplication obtains to any important degree in the case of the current power investigations by the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Power Commission, which is launching a comprehensive investigation centered upon hydroelectric power companies licensed by the commission, did not bring an entirely clear reply. It was stated that the power commission intends to use the already enormous record compiled by the Federal Trade Commission in investigating the power industry in response to the very broad Congressional resolution, but will also find it necessary to go over some of the ground independently, and with reference to its own peculiar interests. Just how much duplication of effort this might lead to was not made clear, nor did it seem that anyone had been assigned specifically to the job of acting as liaison officer between the two investigations. "In times past there have been occasions when two agencies of the Federal Government worked quite independently, and one might almost safely say competitively, in investigating the same business practices. Need less to say, this has involved a waste

AN OBJECT LESSON FOR ALL

Here is something for the tax assessors to think about:

According to the Chicago Tribune, only a fourth of the owners of personal property in Cook County, Ill., are assessed for taxes and fewer than a fifth of those assessed pay anything. Those who pay are only 4.99 per cent of the owners.

In Chicago only one out of fifty owners of personal property pay. In the country town, one pays out of each five owners. Thus, of the owners of personal property, ten times as many pay in the country towns as within Chicago.

These are some of the deductions obtained from a study made of the 1929 taxes by County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough.

Rural members of the Illinois Revenue Committee have urged a vigorous enforcement of the personal property laws, while some Chicago members have urged that a strict enforcement would drive personal property out of Chicago.

If ten times as many pay personal property taxes in country towns as in Chicago, a good way for the state to collect on Chicago personal property is to drive it out of the city into the country where it could be checked up.

This tax situation undoubtedly applies in other states. Before new methods of taxation and increased tax burdens are heaped upon already over-burdened taxpayers and industries, a determined effort should be made to round up the property now failing to pay taxes but which is liable to payment under our existing tax laws.

THE MORAL BOND

THE Papers carried a little story from Long Island the other day that contained encouragement for a cynical world. It told, as you probably remember, how a Long Island man had succeeded in paying the last cent of a $400,000 "debt of honor" bequeathed to him by his father, who had been head of a chain of banks that failed and who, on his death bed, begged his son to see to it that the depositors were paid in full.

It took the son just 24 years to do the job; but he did it, and the last depositor has been paid, and the debt has been wiped out. And it occurs to us that the sense of moral responsibility which inspired this man and his father before him is less rare in the business world than we ordinarily suppose. Stories of this kind are not unusual. There are plenty of "hard-boiled" business men who realize that an obligation not binding in law can be morally binding. Business is not always the cut-throat game that some of its critics pretend it is. — San Angelo Standard.

MORE FOR THE ROAD DOLLAR

It is estimated by the Federal Bureau of Roads that expenditures for highways will reach the record total of $2,500,000,000 in 1931. We are now getting more for our road dollar than ever before, in rural localities.

There is an increased tendency toward constructing moderate cost, secondary farm or feeder roads having mud and dust proof surfaces. These have been made possible by the modern application of asphaltic road oils. Only in this way can farming regions be taken out of the mud and given good, safe roads on a large scale.

both of energy and public money. Consequently, there is much point in seeing that precautions are taken to avoid having the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Power Commission plow the same ground at public expense, and at expense to the companies investigated, which is included in the power bill paid by consumers."

FIGHTING "TWISTING" BY LAW

Every citizen should be on his guard against "twisting"—a sales approach of unscrupulous life insurance agents.

The aim of the twister is to dissuade a prospect with his present policy in order to sell him one in another company. To do this he employs half-truths and downright misleading statements, in the hope of personal gain. And in almost every instance the policyholder is the loser if he consents to the change.

The state of Texas has made twisting illegal by law, and now the Superintendent of Insurance of the District of Columbia is seeking legislation to permit suspension or revocation of the license of any agent guilty of this pernicious practice.

It is to be hoped that all states will follow these leads. The owner of a policy in any responsible company cannot gain by switching to another concern. He loses the cash value of his policy and borrowing privileges, he must often pay a higher rate because of advanced age, and the new company may not be so sound as the old one. Two millions of workers' life insurance represents the sole savings of a lifetime, and the twister should be prevented from taking advantage of those who are too ignorant or too careless to guard against him for themselves.

SUPPORTING THE RAILROADS

Recently officials of banks, trust companies, universities, college foundations and fire insurance, casualty, indemnity and surety companies met in New York and formed a committee to support the railroads in their petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates. The committee is known as the Security Holders' Committee on the Railroad Emergency.

Farmers, shippers and others affected by the increased rate structure, if it is allowed, may retort that the woes of security holders are of no importance to them. But, in reality, the railroad situation is of first importance to all of us. There is hardly a business that does not, in one way or another, depend on the railroads for existence. Millions of Americans are employed by concerns, a large part of whose business is done through sales to the lines. When the railroads face disaster the effect of it is felt throughout the nation, and in a multitude of industries.

It is said that the 15 per cent increase will give the railroads about four per cent profit, where at present many railroads are unable to earn enough to pay fixed charges alone. It will mean that railroad progress is to continue, and that the public—farmers and manufacturers, laborers and stockholders—will benefit accordingly. One can sympathize heartily with agriculture and other businesses now in a depressed state—but it should be understood that a reasonable degree of prosperity on the part of the railroads will be a mighty factor in bringing back good times to all.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Trail and daughter returned last week from a visit which carried them through California. A real nice outing was experienced and much sight seeing was witnessed by the trio.

Schleicher County had done representative at the big sheep sale at Salt Lake City last week. In person of Mr. George Williams. Mr. Williams is a fine sheep breeder and will have some of his fine sheep on exhibit at the Fair Sept. 25.

Schleicher County Fair Sept. 25, Just 21 more days. What have you to show, bring it to the Fair.

Our farmer friends are as slow as usual. We note this week from the daily press that the College co-eds have declared for woolen frocks. This shows that our sheepmen are better organized than our farmers. It should at least be divided 50-50.

The Editor and tribe opened up the dove season with a huge bird dinner and will endeavor to help the farmers out by getting a few dove out of their grain fields.

Lets make the next 60 days the best in the history of our county. Remember that our sheepmen are better organized than our farmers. It should at least be divided 50-50.

Remember that our Fair is September 25, lets have a good one, bring in the Sow, Cow and Hen.

Holding your wool, cotton and wheat from the market, trying to make a price for it is not solving the question, because another crop is here to be disposed of before the other is gone, therefore, there must be a plan of consumption brought about to strengthen the price. Lets restore our buying power, lets quit buying things we don't need and save some of which we make. We are living in a land of plenty, yet it seems we have nothing.

Below is statement from J. F. Jarrell, manager of the Agricultural development department of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Co. in regard to Texas cotton condition: "Temperatures during August were ideal for the growth of cotton, and prospects on the South Plains are the best since 1923. Elsewhere, however, there are various shades of trouble. Hot winds, drought and insect damage have caused heavy shedding and premature opening of bolls, except in South Texas, where rain and weevils have cut the crop very short. Picking is well advanced in South Texas and becoming general in central sections. Weevil and boll worm damage is heavy in the lower two-thirds of the state, and increasing after recent showers. Rootrot is doing considerable damage in Central Texas. Notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions described, production is expected to be above that of last year, the estimate being 5,018,000 bales. Many conservative authorities, however, do not expect the yield to go so high on account of the several kinds of damage described."

Mrs. T. C. Marshall of St. Paul testified that her husband hung his shoes on the hat rack and took his hat to bed, proving he was drunk.

After being taken to a town in Wisconsin 164 miles away a cat belonging to M. C. Duncan returned to its home in Chicago.

"ROLL YOUR OWN" IS SLOGAN
 R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.

A special newspaper advertising campaign in behalf of Prince Albert snuffing tobacco is being inaugurated immediately by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C. The campaign is being handled by Erwin, Wasey & Company, which also handles Camel cigarettes for Reynolds. First copy appeared Tuesday of this week in Texas newspapers and is scheduled to start Friday in a big list of Ohio papers. Both dailies and weeklies are being used, the number in both states approximately four hundred newspapers. The theme of the campaign is, of course, variations of the "roll your own" idea.

"THIS AND THAT"

By Jimminy

It was a queer turn of events that "forced" Governor Sterling to send the "Texas Natural Resource Guard" into the East Texas oil fields to snell a bunch of oil insurrectionists at a time when cotton is ready to be picked thus robbing him of the opportunity of drawing the greatest governor ever to be the $4,000 Texas offers for governors.

This same turn of events prevented General Jack Wolters from going down in history as the outstanding general ever to be engaged in "economic warfare."

Cotton is "ripe" at this time of the year and must be "plucked" or go to ruin. But cotton pickers are hard to find because cotton doesn't command much of a price and growers cannot pay enormous wages for pickers. The average picker can make about $1.20 a day if he works hard. But that's not the fault of the farmer, he doesn't set the price cotton is to be sold for.

However, had the East Texas "insurrectionists" delayed their tilt with "law and order" for a month or so, Governor Sterling might have saved his generals and buck privates to the cotton growers long enough to get the cotton to gins. It would have been a master stroke for the governor and would have provided General Jake and his braves with many thrills and adventures.

There is little doubt but what General Jake and his "boys" would have made tremendous "advances" in cotton patch warfare. The general would have been permitted to make his pajama wearing rules more stringent, and would have found more cows "in distress" than in the East Texas situation, thereby bring undying fame to himself and aides.

For the buck privates an opportunity would have been presented for the "boys" to have a field in which they could "work up"—to the end of the row. Soldiers are so accustomed to going from pillar to post that the change of going from stalk to stalk would—or might have been—a welcomed adventure. And the scale for good cotton pickers is so near the scale for good soldiers that their would have been little cause for complaint from either side.

But, alas, such a thing will never come to pass because there's a movement on foot to make it against the law to plant in 1932.

Governors, representatives of governors, cotton men and politicians met in New Orleans recently and endorsed a plan whereby cotton would be barred by legislation next year. It was pointed out that special sessions of legislatures in the different states would be necessary to carry out the proposed plan. Inasmuch as Texas has suffered one extraordinary session this year, besides the four months' regular "confusion," and is "deeper in the hole" because of them, it has been suggested to this column that the Texas solons be permitted to hold their session by correspondence—with their own stamps and on their own time. That is, if they are as "vitality" interested in the farm problem as they say they are.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow,
 Extension Service Editor

A saving of $127.50 in the feed bill for his 25 cows for June was accomplished by Oliver Person, Harrison county dairy herd demonstrator, who has a 40-acre sudan pasture. Grain was cut to 200 pounds per day and production maintained.

A gain of 90 pounds in 31 days is reported by Mildred Craighead, Mason county club girl, on her baby beef calf. It was a motherless calf put on a Jersey nurse cow and given access to a self-feeder in which was placed a coarsely ground ration of 54 per cent oats, 13 per cent each of corn and barley, 5 per cent of cottonseed meal and a commercial concentrate, and prairie hay.

Seven Bexar county 4-H club boys are weighing the milk of 59 cows once weekly and keeping feed records for the guidance of the owners.

Club boys in Childress county are learning to caponize and plan to have a solid carload of capons ready to market next January. In their first caponizing only three out of 149 birds died.

Repeated dry weather breaking on a field badly infested with Johnson grass killed the grass down to small patches in two years for W. W. Blankenship of Mosheim, Posque county, the county agent reports. Spraying with calcium chloride has removed the last live grass plants from the field.

Five head of work stock and four dairy cows have been getting plenty of grazing from a 3.6 acre sweet clover demonstration pasture planted in March by R. L. Edleman of Plainview Community, Baylor county.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method in SAN ANGELO SATURDAY SEPT. 19 at the ROBERTS Hotel From 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. Please come early.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says: The "Perfect Retention Shield" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time. The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

Bring your children. According to statistics 95 per cent recover by our method.

ATTENTION: You cannot fit yourself successfully with appliances sent by mail. It requires personal attention by an expert to obtain lasting results.

THE REAL OBJECT

Today the average person pays $5.25 annually for domestic electricity. That same average person pays $16.50 annually for tobacco.

The composite figure for cost of living is still 50 per cent above 1913 figure.

Electricity accounts for around 2 per cent of the average household budget, and if lost of service was reduced 10 per cent it would mean less than one cent a day to the average American household. It is such a fact as this that illustrates, better than any argument, the futility—not to say absurdity—of the current political attack on the electric industry's rates. It reminds one of the political statement that American families in a given year were overcharged many hundreds of millions of dollars for electric service—and then upon investigation it was found that the sum mentioned was about equal to the nation's total domestic electric bill!

It should be obvious by now that the harpooning of the electric industry has one real object—to put the government into business, to the destruction of our fundamental American principle of governing. The cost of power is really not an issue. Certain politicians want more authority, more bureaucracy, more political patronage to peddle—and the American people will have to decide whether they will curb private initiative and enterprise which has given this nation its outstanding development, in favor of political enterprise which in business has a long record of failures and created staggering tax burdens.

The umbrella which Congressman E. R. Ackerman of Plainfield, N. J., has used continuously during the past 52 years, is said to give promise of many more years of service.

Li Chingyun of Shanghai, China, says that he is 251 years old, has been married 14 times and has 180 descendants.

COTTON ON THE BARGAIN COUNTER SAID DR. A. B. COX

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 29.—Cotton is once again on the bargain counter, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas.

"The price might go a little lower under pressure, but it is considerably below bulk line cost of production and in the long run a good investment," Dr. Cox said. "A number of factors have contributed to the deplorable situation. The most important of these have been the very bad business conditions which have prevailed for nearly two years, the unprecedented supply which is the result of the coincidence of a record world carryover of American cotton of 9,000,000 bales and the very large crop of 15,584,000 bales estimated for this year, and finally the uncertainty prevailing in the cotton market itself due to many causes such as the Farm Board and its policy in disposing of its already holding, uncertainty as to the extent Congress may attempt to limit the free operation of markets, and uncertain political conditions in a large part of the world.

"The United States Government's estimates of 15,584,000 bales of 500 pounds gross for the United States was perhaps 1,500,000 bales more than was expected. That many traders were of the opinion that the estimate was too high is attested by the fact that the decline in price was not in proportion to the indicated increase in supply over private estimates. The Government estimate of production for Texas was 5,018,000 bales, the third largest crop on record for Texas.

A MORAL FOR "REFORMERS"

Those who advocate anti-revolver and pistol laws because of the prevalence of crime are on shaky ground. The sawed-off shotgun and sub-machine gun are the modern weapons whose operation involves little skill and whose destructive power is a thousand times that of any small arm.

It is not improbable that crime flourishes today partly because so few homes and offices are protected by arms. A good many cities and states have rigid anti-gun ordinances, and in others the requirements for owning a weapon are so involved that the average citizen does not go through the necessary red tape. This is not an argument in favor of all of us going about the streets armed—but it certainly is evidence of a condition which gives potential law-breakers an advantage by making it difficult for the law-abiding citizen to protect his home or place of business.

We have done many absurd things in the name of crime prevention. We have passed liberty-restricting laws, thus giving us more laws to break. We have penalized the good citizen in the hope that this ordinance or that would miraculously cut down crime. As a result, the United States is the greatest law-breaking civilized country on earth. There is a sound moral here, if the "reformers" care to look for it.

ized in the present day school. Perhaps some of these seven aims is emphasized more than is now being done. The last two aims listed are especially receiving much attention among school authorities now. Vocational preparation, or the ability to earn a decent living, is from one viewpoint of first consideration. Every citizen must first be able to earn a sufficient wage before he can maintain a satisfactory standard of living. The skilled machinist earns more than the unskilled laborer because he has prepared himself by training for a definite vocation. He enjoys a higher standard of living than the common laborer, has more of the comforts of life, and can give his children better advantages for living their own lives. The schools everywhere are trying to give training in some work which helps to fit the boy or girl for some vocation. Of course such training is not complete but it enables a pupil to find out what work he likes and then starts him out in that particular field. The local school is not abreast of the times in the teaching of vocational work. Full courses in agriculture, shopwork, and home economics should be provided. Such courses are expensive to legislate for they call for buildings and equipment in addition to that needed for the regular school work, or in addition to the room already provided. The commercial course in the local high school, (including bookkeeping, typewriting, shorthand and commercial law,) is of the best quality and is practical to the greatest degree.

The seventh aim, character education, is also now being especially emphasized. This is true not only in the schools but also in various other organizations and institutions. For example the Texas Senate only recently adopted a resolution deploring the crime wave, the general moral conditions, and juvenile delinquency, and urged parents to reconsecrate themselves anew to wholesome home life with better attention to the training of children. It also recommended that schools work more to inculcate higher ideals among children.

Thus the present-day school has a wide range of aims and functions. The responsibility which rests upon the teacher is no light thing. Education pushes forward with new ideas and ideals. Teaching children to think correctly; teaching them to serve cheerfully; teaching them to live honestly; teaching them industry and the will to conquer; developing reliability, obedience, judgement, punctuality, initiative, self-control and thrift—these are some of the tasks before the school, as well as the home. With these things come the growth of everything worthwhile in the child.

The School Needs the Support of the Home
The value of close and mutual cooperation between the home and the school is apparent to any thoughtful person. Parents and teachers are working toward the same goal and thus should work together. Those who criticize the school adversely because it does not completely the lives and actions of its pupils do well to reflect on the fact that the home has the responsibility of training the child during the first six years of his life and even after the child enters school he is in its direct charge less than one-third of his time. It is reasonable to suppose that what the child does during his few hours in school will be partly determined by what he does during his many hours outside. The welfare of the child should be the first concern of both the home and the school. Both these institutions should work together and each should recognize the needs, wishes, and problems of the other.

Greater Need for Education
Not in history has there been such keen competition as there exists today. There is competition between nations, states, towns, industries and individuals. The present unemployment situation and business depression point clearly to the need of preparation for a definite life work if the boy or girl of today is to achieve success. Achievement is seldom an accident. The lives of unsuccessful men show that some definite pain is back of success. The boy of today must more than ever look ahead and prepare to meet keen competition. Preparation begins in the public school with the fundamental subjects to be mastered. Purposeless attendance upon school is little better than failure in many cases. Parents and teachers should encourage the child to choose a definite goal and work toward it. The boy or girl who has a definite goal to achieve and then has the will power to conquer is the one who will be successful. Such a pupil in school has no time to waste, either in school or on the outside. He has studying to do at home. There has not been an easy road to education discovered, after all the experiments of mankind. The accumulated wisdom and learning of the ages are open to the one who will pay the price of study. The successful student in school may be easily found by the observant person. His actions out of school will show what he is doing in school. He is not content to merely "get by."

Pupils Should Carefully Choose Courses in High School

The Eldorado High School now holds 25 1-2 credits of affiliation with the State Department of Education. Sixteen units are required for graduation from high school and only eleven of these credits are prescribed. Thus, in the local high school, the pupil has five elective subjects to be chosen from a possible 14 1-2 subjects. Any pupil can choose the course which he wishes to take under this system. He may choose the regular college preparatory course, the commercial course, the science course, etc. By the time the pupil reaches high school he should be thinking about what he expects to do in later life and his high school course should be planned accordingly. It happens rather often that a boy applies for admission to a certain branch of a college or university and is refused an unconditional admission because his high school course did not lead up to this. If a boy is interested in engineering he should plan his high school course to that end and take all the mathematics and science offered. The pupil who drifts along through high school is not the best prepared to enter college or to take up life's work. Both parents and teachers can be of help in advising the pupils in the selection of their high school courses.

School Activities and School News

The present-day school has a wide range of subjects to teach as prescribed in the course of study by the state authorities. Music and physical education are as much a part of the curriculum as the 3 R's were at one time. All of these activities fit in with the general aims of the school and all of them are helpful in making the child into a well rounded citizen. Reports are sent to parents at regular intervals concerning the work of the child in school, taking into consideration all the activities in which the child has been engaged. Failing grades are never satisfactory to either the teacher or the parent and both should work together for improvement of such grades.

School news of interest to both parents and pupils will be published in the local paper each week. The teachers and pupils of the school have a part in writing this news. Parents are urged to read this school news as this is a good means of keeping in touch with the activities of the school. The best way to find out the work of the school, however, is to visit the school often and spend several periods in the different classrooms, observing the work that is being done. The methods of teaching change along with the changes in the subjects taught and if patrons understand clearly that the school is trying to bring the school in touch with practical life then parents can have much to do in encouraging pupils to stay in school and getting all that the school has to offer in his preparation for life.

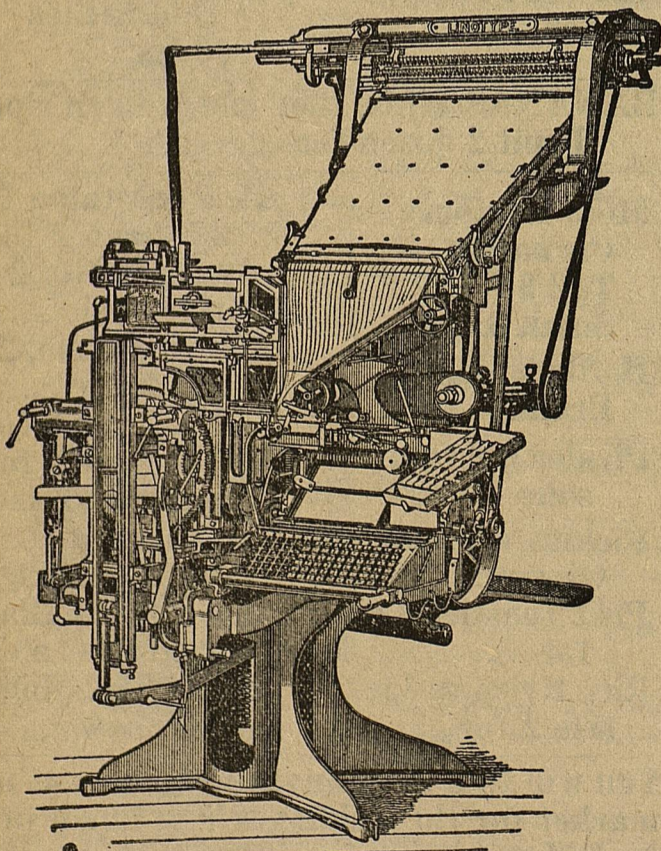

We are submitting these statements to you in regard to school work because we want you to know what we are trying to do for your children. The work of the school is far from what we would have it be, but we believe that we are making progress and are offering the opportunity for growth and development to the boys and girls of this community. May all community factors unite in achieving the reality of,

"For every child an education which, through the discovery and development of his individual abilities, prepares him for life; and through training and vocational guidance prepares him for a living which will yield him the maximum of satisfaction."

You are cordially invited to visit the school at any time and see for your self the work that we are doing.

R. D. HOLT, Superintendent Eldorado Public School.

Your true electric rate is not the amount paid per kilowatt-hour for service used on the first or top step—but the net average cost per kilowatt-hour for all current consumed. Residential customers of the West Texas Utilities Company paid, during 1930, an average of only 6.5c per kilowatt-hour—and those customers using an electric range and electric refrigerator received service at an average rate of approximately 4c per kilowatt-hour!

The statement, then, that "you can make your own electric rate" is obviously true, for the more you take advantage of the many conveniences and comforts of electric service, the more inexpensive your service will become. The addition of new Electrical Servants will reduce your average cost per kilowatt-hour and bring you new comforts and conveniences worth far more than the slight cost of the additional service required.

The average residential customer now uses fifty kilowatt-hours per month. He could increase his service to three times that amount and only increase his total bill by approximately 10c a day.

Investigate the possibilities of complete household electrification. You will be surprised to find the equipment exceedingly moderate in first cost, and the operating expense ridiculously low.
