Wouldn't it be nice to get an unexpected check in the mail during the Christmas shopping season? With that in mind, we answered a recent Internal Revenue Service questionnaire that promised to send us the names of all the people in the McLean-Alanreed-Lefors area who have refund checks that have not been delivered. But, alas, no one in McLean or Alanreed is among the lost recipients. We received one name-Roger L. Price of Lefors-on the list of taxpayers who have a missing refund check. If you know Mr. Price, tell him to write the Internal Revenue Service, 1100 Commerce Street, Mail Code 151-A, Dallas, Texas 75242, and give them his current address, and they will mail him his check...maybe in time for Christmas.

One of the factors which caused the Great Depression in 1929 was the people's loss of confidence in the economy. Times were bad and frightening, but the depression really got bad when those people with money decided to play it safe and hang on to every dime. As the fear and panic reached every segment of the population, the economy just got worse and worse.

I have not made a study of the newspapers of that day, but I can't help wondering how much the news stories and the treatment of those stories added to the panic, and the eventual collapse of the economy.

During the last few weeks I have noticed the way in which various area newspapers have treated the news about the economy, and it made me wonder if those editors realized the impact of their headlines. One recent story about the slight downturn in an economic indicator carried a large blaring headline saying "Recession Worsens; Depression Near?" The story, however, contained nothing as dramatic or as frightening as that headline.

What happens when the public casually reads headlines like that, or listens to newscasters predict that this Christ-

Icy Roads, Poor Visibility Cause Several Thanksgiving Wrecks

Snow-hampered visibility, icy roads, and heavy Thanksgiving traffic all contributed to a series of wrecks investigated by McLean's Department of Public Safety troopers John Holland and Ron Shank last week. Several of the wrecks occurred on a one-mile stretch west of McLean on Interstate 40. Trooper Shank said there was no unusual road condition at that spot that might cause the wrecks.

The first wreck occurred about 10 p.m. Nov. 24 2.3 miles west of McLean on Interstate 40 when a 1981 Subaru driven by Carol Ann Lapp of Oklahoma City ran off the road and turned over, landing on its wheels off the paved portion of the roadway. According to the DPS reports, Mrs. Lapp was traveling at a rate of speed that was unsafe for the road and weather conditions. Mrs. Lapp's daughter, Shawnda, a Mrs. Kirk-Patrick and two of her daughters, were in the car. All suffered minor injuries and were taken to the Shamrock Hospital.

At 11:30 p.m. the same night 1.7 miles west of McLean on I-40, Linda Gay Chennauh of Riverside, California, traveling west on I-40, lost directional control of her vehicle and hit a Toyota which was parked on the shoulder of the road.

Both vehicles came to rest in the west lane. Ms. Chennauh was alone in her car. She suffered minor injuries.

On Nov. 25 at 12:25 a.m., 1.6 miles west of McLean on I-40, James Seal of Oklahoma City lost control of his vehicle and ran off the road, hit a delineator post and came to rest in a ditch at the left side of the roadway. The driver had minor injuries but refused treatment.

At 8:10 a.m. that same day in about the same location, the most serious wreck of the period occurred. Jerry D. Hickman of Oklahoma City suffered serious injuries when the 1981 Oldsmobile he was driving went out of control and hit the rear of a 1982 Kenworth truck driven by Steve Paul Christanson of Claude, Minn. Hickman was transported to Shamrock by McLean Ambulance, and then taken to Amarillo.

Also injured in the accident were his wife Cynthia Hickman and son Jerry Hickman Jr. Another passenger Vince Leonard was not injured.

On Nov. 27 at 5:55 a.m. four miles west of Alanreed Arthur Dobos Jr. of Oklahoma City, driving a semi-truck, left the roadway. When his tires hit the mud on the soft shoulder, the truck turned over on the median. The driver was not injured.

On Nov. 27 at 1:31 p.m. Thomas G. Richardson of McLean pulled away from a stop sign to cross I-40 near the Wil-Mart, and struck a 1982 Ford Club wagon driven by Charles N. London of Columbus, Ind. There were no injuries in that wreck which occurred during the wet, snowy weather.

On Nov. 28 at 2:20 a.m. Larry Rosson of Stillwater, Oklahoma traveling east on I-40, hit an icy curve at a high rate of speed. He lost control of the 1978 Chevrolet Monza and crossed the left hand lane of traffic and hit the guardrail on the north. The vehicle then came back across the lanes of traffic and hit the guardrail on the south side of the road. The driver suffered minor injuries.

The Hunter Vs. The Land Owners - A Texas-Sized Problem

By Linda Haynes

The early days of Texas were marred by range wars between the cowman and the sheep herders or between the rancher and the homesteader, but a new type of range war is smoldering in the Texas panhandle in 1982-a conflict between the land owner and the hunter.

Each year as hunting season opens around the McLean area, law enforcement offices are flooded with complaints from land owners about damage to fences, destruction of livestock, and other types of disturbances caused by hunters. Just as the early-day range war involved two sides, equally convinced of the justice of their cause, so does this "war" have two factions.

GAME WARDEN BUCK Williams explained some of the penalties of hunting violations in an interview Tuesday. (Photo by Linda Haynes) each convinced that the other is wrong.

The hunter would like to pursue his sport, but finds that fewer and fewer land owners are willing to give permission to hunt. The land owner would like to let his friends and neighbors hunt, but finds that too many hunters are taking advantage of his hospitality and refusing to respect his property.

In this "war", the law is clearly on the side of the land owner, according to Gray County Game Warden Buck Williams. A hunter caught trespassing with a firearm can be charged with a Class A misdemeanor, which carries a maximum penalty of $2,000 fine and one year in prison. A hunter trespassing without a gun can be charged with a Class B misdemeanor, which carries a maximum penalty of $1,000 and six months in prison.

"However, a hunter rarely violates just one law," Williams said. "If, for example, a hunter stops on the roadside and shoots across a fence at a quail, he can be charged with discharging firearms on a public roadway, hunting from the road, trespassing by firing onto private land, and killing game in a closed season, since the season is never open for shooting from the road," he said. Williams said that if the violator was a habitual game violator, he would "stack" the charges as much as possible. "If it's some guy who just got excited by the sight of a bird, and the man has no other violations, I would probably just file one charge," he said.

The last session of the legislature gave the game wardens some better tools to prosecute violators. Williams said. "We have seen a decrease in the number of hunters fined since the new laws went into effect," he said. "Most of the guys who are breaking the law are aware of the stiff penalties," Williams said.

Williams explained that a game warden in the state of Texas is a law officer with special responsibilities. The game warden has the power to make arrests and file charges just like any officer. He also has the right to search anything except a suspect's home (without a search warrant). Williams said that if he stopped a suspicious vehicle, he could search the car and the hunter for illegal game, etc.

So the battle lines between the hunter and the land owner are clearly drawn.

Most of the ranchers I interviewed worry about the situation as much as the hunters do. "I'd like to let people hunt," a rancher who lives south of town told me. "But the bad hunters ruin everything for the good sportsmen," he said. Most land owners complained that their hospitality was abused. "I let one guy hunt, and the next year he came back with his cousin, and the next year the cousin came back with four friends, and the next year each of those four guys came back with four more, and it just gets out of hand," one rancher said.

But the problems with hunters involve more than rudeness. Land owners report all kinds of hunters. Pat Stubbs who lives near Alanreed said that they had had fence wires cut, and some hunters had run over a fence pole to get onto their land. Other land owners report a general disrespect for their property. "We pick up trash and beer cans that illegal hunters have dumped on our land, and it's taken us a long time to clean that mess up," one rancher said. Another land owner said that night hunters had released coon dogs on his place, and the dogs had killed a mare. "I'm sure that the hunters didn't intend for that to happen, but the animal is still dead," he said.

A rancher north of McLean reported that he had a registered Hereford calf shot by over-eager deer hunters. Other ranchers report livestock pot-shot by coyote hunters who mistake the cattle for their prey.

McLean Residents Get Ready For Annual Christmas Contest

McLean residents and businessmen are beginning their Christmas decorating in preparation for the annual Christmas Decorating contest. The annual affair, sponsored by the McLean Chamber of Commerce, will feature prizes of $50, $35, and $25 for first, second and third place prizes for the homes. A $25 first-place prize will be given to the best decorated business.

Judges from the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will come to McLean the evening of Dec. 21 to judge the exterior decorations around town.

To be sure that each decorated home is not missed during the judging, residents are asked to call Chic Wood at The Potpourri and give their address. "Homes need not be entered to compete in the contest, but to insure that no one is missed, each person should call and give us his name and address," Mrs. Wood said.

The judges will choose

Christmas Desserts To Be Judged

The chance to sample the best products of McLean cooks will be given to the public Dec. 11 when the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Bake-Off contest is scheduled. Those cooks who entered their recipes in the contest will bring their dish to the Lions Club building at 10 a.m. for judging by out-of-town judges. The first place winner will be awarded $150, with the second place winner receiving $100, and the third place winner receiving $75, all in "McLean Bucks" (money which may be spent in any store in McLean which is a member of the Chamber of Commerce.) Following the judging, each dish will be served to the public, with each serving costing $1. Cookbooks containing each of the entered recipes will also be on sale at the Bake-Off for $1 per copy.

Several ranchers report encounters with hunters when the land owner felt his own physical safety was at stake. "I've approached armed men at night and told them to get off of my land, and wondered how smart that was," one rancher told me. An incident a few years ago between a local rancher and a hunter resulted in severe injury to the land owner when the hunter became angry and struck the rancher in the face with a pistol.

Another rancher reported that a grass fire on his place had been accidentally set by hunters. "If I lived in the city, I'd like to have a place to hunt, too, but we have an investment to protect," he said.

What should a land owner do if he catches someone hunting on his land without permission? He should obtain identification if possible a license tag, the hunter's name and he should call Williams at 669-3062 in Pampa. "I have a radio at my home, so I can usually be reached," Williams said. He recommended that the land owner call Jim McDonald or Jimmy Shelton to detain the hunters until Williams can arrive. "My territory covers 1800 square miles so I might be an hour away when I'm needed," Williams said.

And, to look at the other side of the question, what can the dedicated sportsmen, the avid hunter, do to pursue his sport? He can check with friends who own land, according to one rancher. "Most land owners will let a man hunt if he knows he is a careful hunter," one man said.

However, since most of the land owners around McLean already accommodate as many hunters as the game will allow, the hunter should contact the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in Austin. "There are all kinds of public lands available for hunting if a man really wants to hunt," Williams said. A list of public hunting lands can be obtained by writing the Texas Parks and Wildlife Agency, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744, according to Williams. "The hunter should request the list in July, well before the hunting season. The list contains public hunting areas where the hunter can enter a drawing for permits to hunt, and that should be done well before hunting season begins," he said.

Although there are no public hunting lands in Gray County, there are places to hunt on public lands within a short driving distance. "The Gene Howe Game Reservation near Canadian has over 5,000 acres of public hunting. A drawing is held early in the year for deer-hunting permits, but the preserve allows quail hunters on week-ends on a first-come, first served basis at $5 a day," Williams said. He also said there were public hunting lands near Matador, and over 70,000 acres of public hunting lands by Dalhart.

"The dedicated sportsman can find a place to hunt without trespassing," Williams emphasized.

Firemen Battle Blazes

McLean firemen were called to the Johnson Ranch Monday afternoon to fight a fire in a compressor motor on machinery owned by Winrock Production Co. The firemen put out the fire, and kept the blaze from spreading to the surrounding grasslands, according to fireman Clifford McDonald.

The McLean Fire Department also assisted Shamrock at a house fire. See FIRES, Page 2

A Different Viewpoint

by Lisa Patman

For the past year I have, as a reporter, covered each monthly city council meeting in McLean. I have watched as frustrated councilmen, hampered by low city revenue, try to give McLean citizens the best services available at the lowest possible cost.

I have seen our McLean city officials grapple with the spiraling increase in gas prices, trying to find a formula which would not hurt McLean citizens, yet would still allow the city to break even on gas costs.

At the last council meeting, board members turned down a proposal by some of our local senior citizens that the gas rates for the Young-At-Heart Club be lowered. I watched as the council studied the proposal, tried desperately to find a way to accommodate the group, and finally decide that it could not be done fairly.

For the city council realized that there are many groups in town which most certainly need answers to the rising costs of the most basic needs for survival. Indeed, in a city where the majority of the population is of retirement age, where many rely on social security as their only income, a decrease in any cost would be most welcome.

But among those needy organizations and individuals is the city itself, which carefully walks a financial tightrope each year. Therefore, the proposal was, quite simply, impossible.

So it is with a great amount of confusion that I listen to those who criticize the city for its inability to reduce costs for a special few. To those critics I offer these suggestions:

If you care about your city, take the time to attend the council meetings. Listen to the problems the council deals with. Offer suggestions if you have solutions. And try to make judgments only after you have heard all sides.

Just once I would like to hear a criticism based on solid fact, proven evidence, and clear judgment. If you are the kind of person who makes a judgment by these standards, you would make an excellent candidate for the city council or the school board. And I guarantee you'll be welcome to join the ranks of those frustrated public servants.

ELEVATOR BONDING

AUSTIN -- The recent defaults by two Texas grain elevators has again brought the problem of commodity warehouse bonding to the forefront. However this is not a new issue to us, as the Senate Subcommittee on Agriculture, which we chair, has been studying this subject for well over a year now. The following is a summary of that subcommittee's findings.

Bonding of commodity warehouses, or elevators, refers to the bonds that warehouse operators must buy to back up the commodities they store. The money in these bonds is used to pay off the producers who deposit their products in the warehouse in case of default.

Producers and warehouse operators alike agree that the depositors should have full protection for their stored commodities. This means that the producer, or the owner of the commodity, should receive 100% market value of their stored commodity if the warehouse should go under.

However, as it now stands, at times of peak capacity the bond's value is only 10% or less of the market value of the produce stored. Upon default in this situation, the owners stand to lose 90% of their commodities value.

We heard many suggestions on how to change the current system so as to provide the desired levels of protection. These included installing a 100% bonding requirement and a pooling system like Oklahoma's.

A 100% bonding requirement is agreed upon to be totally unworkable. This would involve the elevators buying enough bonds to equal the market value of the commodities they store. This would easily cripple the system as only a few large warehouses could afford such bonds.

Oklahoma has a system where the warehouses pay a small amount per bushel into a permanent monetary fund. When this fund reaches a level where it can sustain itself, the bonding requirements will be dropped and the depositors will be paid 100% market value for their stored commodities upon default. After visiting Oklahoma and talking to Texas warehouse operators, we have our doubts about such a system. We don't feel that the 99% of Texas warehouses that operate soundly and efficiently would like to pay for the 1% that don't.

At this time we feel that the best method to protect the depositor from possible loss is for the depositor to only deal with honest, reputable warehouses. They are not hard to find.

In the last decade there have only been about 10 warehouse defaults in Texas. Considering the poor economic conditions during that same period, we feel that the Texas warehouse operators have an excellent record.

Even though we have not found the solution that will provide the 100% of the market value protection desired without overburdening any one sector, we have not given up trying. We have already started working closely with the Texas Department of Agriculture Commissioner-elect Jim Hightower to find a plan that will be both workable and widely accepted. But until such a plan is formulated, the Subcommittee suggests continuing with the current bonding requirements.

If you have any opinions on elevator bonding, we would like to hear them. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711.

Anyone Who Can't Walk a Straight Line Can't Drive One

It's amazing how some people who can't even control their feet think they'll be able to control their cars once they get behind the wheel.

Statistics show they're dead wrong.

According to government studies, a person with 1/10 of 1% alcohol in his bloodstream (legally intoxicated in Texas) is six times more likely to have a serious accident than someone who's had no alcohol at all.

That's why we, the people who make and sell alcoholic beverages, are offering a pocket chart called "Know Your Limits" (below). It can help you judge whether you're approaching, up to, or past your own personal drinking limit.

Get one at your participating restaurant, bar or liquor store. Or write 205 San Jacinto Bldg., Austin, TX 78701. Because the worst time to find out you can't drive a straight line is when you're on the wrong side of one.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

In this day of televised debates, cold wars, and summit conferences, it sometimes seems that we common folks have lost the art of private arbitration. So it's nice occasionally to find a fellow who handles matters on his own. The following story is an excellent example:

A few weeks ago a Baptist pastor in a West Texas town was faced with a trying problem. It seems this gentleman ministered to a large Baptist church which was located across the street from an equally large church of another denomination. This other denomination's congregation was known for its loving and expansive beliefs. In this case, the congregation loved the Baptist's parking lot, and expanded into it every Sunday morning.

Unfortunately for the Baptists, the other denomination's services began half an hour earlier, so that there was no room for Baptists in their own parking lot. Alas, they were forced to park several blocks away in order to attend church. You can see the problem.

Now the Baptist minister was a good, Christian man, so his problem was vexing. How could he kindly eject these intruders from his parking lot? He couldn't very well report it to the local papers and make a big issue of it. He couldn't slash the tires of the irritating vehicles. He could hardly sue for trespassing. He couldn't even give a sound kick to the tires without betraying his Christian principles.

The poor man thought and thought, and watched each Sunday as members of his own congregation became tired of trudging the long way to the sanctuary. Attendance was down, spirits were low, and his patience was about to hit bottom.

I assume he prayed for a peacable solution. And the answer came to him, for as we know, God answers all prayers, even if the answer is not always what we had expected.

The next Sunday, as expected, the other congregation's cars filled the Baptist lot. The kindly Baptist preacher, smiling and humming all the time, proceeded from car to car, applying small strips of paper to the bumper of each non-Baptist vehicle. The solution was simple, and it worked, for the following Sunday the lot was clear of other congregation's autos, making plenty of room for proper Baptist parking.

The miraculous strip of paper? Oh nothing special, really --- just a simply designed bumper sticker which read "I Am Proud To Be A Baptist!"

Let's all give a loud "Amen" to that peacable Baptist minister with the great sense of humor. Amen, brother, Amen!

GRASS FIRES

We are having several grass fires around the area and I predict that we will have a lot more this winter unless everyone is very careful.

Generally speaking, we grew a lot of grass this past growing season and a good amount of this remains as a source of fuel for fires.

Our extreme dry Fall weather has left everything ready to burn-just a careless match, cigarette, a vehicle with a catalytic muffler or any other source of a spark could cause a raging grass fire have been having a lot of wind this Fall and if a grass fire should get started on a real windy day, it will be difficult, if not impossible, to stop until it comes to a natural barrier.

Therefore, I urge everyone who travels, hunts or works out in the rangeland area to be very careful. I can visualize that maybe the most concern needs to be vehicles with our modern catalytic mufflers-most of us do not think about how hot these get and what would happen if we should drive through or park on an area of good grass.

TEXAS CROP REPORTS

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will begin contacting farmers and ranchers across the state in mid-

November for final 1982 crop acreage, yield and production totals and end-of-year livestock and poultry inventories.

State Statistician Doug Murfield reported that with low prices depressing farm incomes and the severe weather cutting crop production in the northern part of the state, producers are depending on this information for an accurate picture of the 1982 agricultural situation.

Murfield explained that the confidential interviews, conducted by mail or in person by field enumerators, provide information used by farm organizations and legislatures in planning and developing farm programs; by extension economists and management consultants in advising producers; and by exporters in planning and promoting sales of Texas agricultural products.

Without these reports, farmers and ranchers would have to rely on other sources of information for crop and livestock prospects.

The end-of-year crop and livestock surveys should not be confused with the 1982 Census of Agriculture which is being mailed in late November. While the census is a more detailed accounting of Texas agriculture, the two-page questionnaire is short and can be completed in a matter of minutes.

To reduce survey costs, farmers and ranchers are urged to return the mailed questionnaires as soon as possible. The reported information will be combined for state and county estimates.

Annual county estimates are published for livestock, dairy, poultry, cotton, field crops, small grains, fruits and pecans, vegetables, and cash receipts from the sale of farm products.

Copies of these bulletins can be obtained by Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, P.O. Box 70, Austin, Texas 78767.

FARMER'S TAX GUIDE

1982 Farmer's Tax Guides are now available in the Gray County Extension Office, Courthouse Annex. The book explains how the federal tax laws apply to farming. It gives typical farming situations, and discusses the kinds of farm income you must report and the different deductions you can take.

Use this book as a guide to figuring your taxes and filling out your farm tax return. If you need more information on any subject, you should get the specific IRS tax publication that deals with that topic. Many of these free publications are referred to throughout the book. You can order them, along with any forms you may need, from the Forms Distribution Center for your area. Forms Distribution Center addresses and publication titles are listed on the back cover of this book.

For your free copy, call or come by the Gray County Extension Office.

KKI Sees Makeup Demonstration

Beta Chi Conclave of Kappa Kappa Iota met in regular session in the high school library at Lefors on Monday.

Norma Lantz, president, presided at a short business meeting. Norma Tarbet, Mary Kay Consultant of Pampa, assisted by Pat Youngblood, and Virginia Acher as model, presented a demonstration to nine club members and the following guests: Vada Smith, Celia Smith, Mae Wyatt, Sandy Sissel, and Lena Cain. Other members in attendance were Laurie Salmon, Maria McGill, Geneva Lisenbee, Ardelle Briggs, Pauline Phillips, and Marie Julian.

The next meeting will be January 10 at 4 p.m. in the library with Mr. Lee of The Cut Above, styling a member's coiffure.

Boys Choir To Appear

Texas Boys' Choir will be a headline attraction during the Shamrock Community Concert Season of 1983-84, president Boyd Williams announced this week following a meeting of the association directors.

"We had the Boys' Choir a few years ago," Williams said "and the program was so well received we engaged them once again when it developed they had an open date during March of 1984."

Other programs selected for the 1983-84 season include a piano duo team of Tostal and Schaffer, two artists from England who won popular acclaim following their concert tours in this country in recent years. They appeared this season in Pampa and proved to be personable and talented entertainers. Rounding out the season will be Emily Mitchell Harpist, an outstanding musician who presents an unusual program or contemporary and classical music. "Dates for these programs will be announced later," Williams said. Mrs. Mary Lloyd of Jefferson City, Mo., representing Columbia Artists, attended the meeting, giving reports of the new artists now under Columbia's management as well as availability of requested programs.

Directors set the membership drive for the 1983-84 season during the week of Sept. 26-30. Mrs. Lloyd will assist in the campaign.

In the current concert season, the next concert to be heard in Shamrock will be the Robert DeCormier Folk Singers next January 21, 1983. The program will be in the Shamrock High School Auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

The third and final program of the season will be Robert Carpenter, pianist and singer who will be presented on the evening of April 7, 1983.

Tigers, Tigerettes Begin Season Against Wheeler

McLean Tigers and Tigerettes began their official basketball season Nov. 23 with losses to the Wheeler teams. Both McLean teams were hampered by the loss of starters. The Tigers are playing without the services of 1981 all-district player Kevin Nicholson, and the Tigerettes are playing without Teresa Woods, who broke her leg in an accident with a horse. Nicholson broke a bone in his leg during the first basketball practice. The Tigerettes played an even first quarter with the Wheeler girls, with that period ending at 11-9 for Wheeler. In the second quarter, Wheeler outscored McLean 22 to 8 and then hit 24 points to McLean's 18 in the second half. The game ended 57 to 36 for Wheeler. Scoring for McLean were Maria Eck with 12, Eva Anderson with 8, Sharla Todd with 7, Melanie Billingsley with 6, Angie Wilson with 2, and Kristy Thompson, 1.

The varsity boys lost 51 to 28 to Wheeler. The first half score was 20 to 10 in favor of Wheeler. Scoring for McLean were Scott Stubbs with 5; Randall Wynn, Martin Gately, David Adamson, and Robert Swaner, each with 4; Andy Eck with 3; and Daniel Via and Dewayne Adamson with 2.

The JV boys lost 30 to 13, with Dominic Via and Donnie Smith each scoring 4 and Jerry Money scoring 3.

Cubettes Beat Lakeview In First Game

The Cubettes won their first game of the season Nov. 22 when they played Lakeview in McLean. McLean held Lakeview scoreless through the first half, allowing only two points in the third quarter. McLean led the game at 15-2 at that point, but the McLean junior high girls only scored three points in the fourth, and allowed Lakeview to score 12 to bring the final score to 18 to 15. Scoring for McLean were Jem Ann Rice with 9, Angie Reynolds with 6, Le Milam with 2, and Dedra Watson with 1.

The Cubs lost to Lakeview 26 to 19. Although Lakeview led through most of the game, McLean tied the score at 15 all in the third quarter, but was not able to maintain the momentum. Scoring for McLean were Darren Johnson with 7, Keith Christopher with 4, McCarty, Watkins, and Anderson, each with 2; and Harris and Parker, each with 1.

In The Kitchen

by Linda Haynes

Since we Texans are such big beef eaters, I am always on the look out for new, tasty recipes for this staple. If you have your own beef processed, you probably have several packages of beef ribs that you're not sure what to do with. This has been my problem several times, so I began searching for some recipes to use those ribs. Here are a couple that are relatively easy, and taste great.

STICKY BONES
1 cup vinegar
1/2 cup honey
2 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup catsup
1 tsp. salt

1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. paprika
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
4 lbs. beef ribs
Combine vinegar, honey, Worcestershire, catsup, salt, mustard, paprika, pepper, and garlic in saucepan. Cover, bring to boil, reduce heat, and simmer 15 minutes. Place ribs in a single layer in baking pan, cover with hot marinade, and let stand 1 hour. Drain off marinade, then bake ribs at 325 degrees for 1 hour, turning and basting often with marinade.

BARBECUED BEEF RIBS
8 lbs. beef ribs

1 cup chopped onion
1 tsp. instant minced garlic
1/4 cup oil
2 tsp. prepared mustard
1 cup tomato puree
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 cup white vinegar
2 bay leaves
1 tsp. hot pepper sauce
1 tsp. barbecue spice
2 tsp. salt
Arrange beef ribs on a rack in baking pan. Sauté onion and garlic in oil until golden. Add mustard, tomato puree, sugar, soy sauce, vinegar, bay leaves, hot pepper sauce, barbecue spice, and salt and simmer about 15 minutes. Strain. Brush barbecue sauce generously over beef ribs, covering them thoroughly. Bake at 375 to 400 degrees 45 minutes, basting frequently with sauce until ribs are tender and well done. Store any remaining sauce, covered, in the refrigerator.

Vegetable Oils Not Diesel Substitute

COLLEGE STATION — A farmer could pour a bottle of plain vegetable oil into his tractor's diesel fuel tank, but a researcher studying the substitute fuel says he wouldn't recommend it. At least not yet.

"There are several reports in the literature that vegetable oil off the grocery shelf has been used successfully as a substitute for diesel oil for short periods of time," said Dr. Cady Engler of the Texas A&M University Food Protein Research and Development Center. "But we don't know what the long-term effect on the engine will be."

"Also, the same type of oil will work in one engine but not in another. A given diesel engine may work with one oil, such as sunflower, but not with oil from another crop," Engler said.

Lights and Sights

Producing more energy from less ... makes the difference.

Their discovery would shake the worlds of communication, medicine and defense, but Charles Townes and Arthur Schawlow knew only that they had discovered an entirely new source of light. They called it an "optical maser." Today we know it as the "laser."

Their discovery was a light beam so concentrated it could produce power densities millions of times as intense as those on the surface of the sun — a light source so dense, the energy produced was greater than the energy required to produce it.

Arthur Schawlow and Charles Townes

This principle of more energy from less applies to the High-Efficiency Add-On Heat Pump — more units of heat than units of electricity needed to produce that heat. And while the Add-On Heat Pump works with your existing furnace to heat your home during the winter, the Add-On Heat Pump functions with the same efficiency to cool your home during warm weather.

As partners, Townes and Schawlow made a significant difference in our world with their work on the laser. As partners you, Southwestern Public Service Company and the Add-On Heat Pump can make the difference managing electricity in your home. Call SPS to see what your savings could be.

From Fiction To Fact

Nearly 120 years ago, author Jules Verne "predicted" both the name and the material for America's first space shuttle.

In his novel, "From the Earth to the Moon," written in 1865, Verne's unnamed fictional spacecraft was fired into space from an immense cannon he called "Columbiad." The spacecraft was aluminum, although the metal was virtually unknown to readers of Verne's day. In a discussion between the fictional characters designing his spacecraft, Verne described the aluminum:

"This valuable metal possesses the whiteness of silver, the indestructibility of gold, the tenacity of iron, the fusibility of copper, the lightness of glass. It is easily wrought, is very widely distributed, forming the base of most of the rocks, is three times lighter than iron, and seems to have been created for the express purpose of furnishing us with the material for our projectile."

The space shuttle's external fuel tank, as well as the frame of the Columbia itself, are aluminum. The shuttle boosters use aluminum powder as part of their solid fuel. Most of the aluminum for the external fuel tanks on the shuttle launches to date, as well as much of the aluminum in the frame of the Columbia, was produced by Reynolds Metals Company.

Full Moon Spells Ulcer Woes

If your dog wakes up the neighbors each time there's a full moon, don't punish the pooch: He may be barking because his ulcer is biting.

Some scientists believe that there is a magnetic interaction between the earth and the moon which may help bring about emotional and physical changes in man and beast. A researcher at the University of Illinois Medical Center in Chicago has found that there is a possible relationship between the phases of the moon and such things as childbirth, anxiety, aggressiveness and response to drugs. His findings, cited in the Journal of American Medical Association, also indicate that ulcers are most likely to bleed just before a full moon.

Future research into the fascinating area of gravitational and electromagnetic field changes may eventually explain why ulcers tend to flare up in the spring and the fall—one of the many remaining mysteries surrounding ulcer disease.

Meanwhile, there is plenty of help for America's 400,000 ulcer sufferers. Over the past ten years, the introduction of fiberoptic instruments has aided doctors in diagnosing ulcers and medications are available on prescription which can speed ulcer healing.

The newest among these is Carafate® — also known as sucralfate — which acts in a rather unique way. The medication does not enter the bloodstream where it might cause troublesome side effects. Instead, it goes directly to the digestive tract and combines with proteins in the ulcer crater. The result is a chemical barrier which protects the ulcer against the action of the digestive juices, allowing it to heal.

An ulcer is simply an open sore. There are many types of ulcers ranging from cold sores to leg ulcers. Holes in the lining of the digestive tract are known as peptic ulcers. Most of these develop in the duodenum, the first portion of the small intestine.

If you suspect that you might have an ulcer, don't wait for the next full moon to find out if it gets worse. See your family doctor as soon as you can and get proper treatment. With Carafate®, most ulcers heal in six to eight weeks.

A French inventor patented the first practical synthetic fiber in 1884. He called it artificial silk. We know it today as rayon.

FIREPLACE FACTS

Winter months may bring thoughts of snuggling up to a warm, crackling fireplace. While many people are looking forward to enjoying the warm glow of their fireplaces this winter, the glow may be the warmest part of a standard masonry fireplace.

The average masonry fireplace delivers only five percent (5%) of the heat generated by the fire to the home. The other 95 percent goes up the chimney. In addition, the fire, when burning properly, draws between 500 and 600 cubic feet of air per minute. That air, enough to empty a 1,400 square foot home in about 20 minutes, is drawn into the home under windows, around doors and through cracks in the floors of even the finest homes. The result is that a fireplace can actually hinder, rather than help your heating system.

GETTING THE FIREPLACE IN SHAPE

If you use a fireplace, arrange for a chimney checkup annually. Hot gases that escape through cracks in a fireplace can harm you and may even cause a fire. Check the chimney for loose bricks and mortar and the flue lining (the passage through which the air and gases travel) for cracks.

Make repairs before using your fireplace. Be sure that the damper at the top of the fireplace closes tightly; otherwise, warm air will escape when the fireplace is idle. Soot and creosote accumulations should be cleaned from the flue each year. A chimney rated as Class A by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., among the safest chimneys available, will withstand temperatures up to 1700 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Temperatures in a creosote-caused chimney fire can reach 3000 degrees. Therefore, soot and creosote accumulations should be cleaned from the flue each year. Do this by pulling a weighted sack of straw up and down the flue.

REMOVING BLACK SOOTY STAIN

Black, sooty stain on the fireplace face is usually caused by overloading the fireplace. Whether brick, stone, or other masonry products are used, soot deposits may be removed by washing with either two solutions: (1) one-half cup vinegar or acetic acid, one-eighth cup detergent, and one gallon water; (2) for more stubborn stains, use one to two cups trisodium phosphate, one-half cup household bleach, one-eighth cup detergent, and one gallon water. Seal the front of the fireplace before you begin to keep the mess contained. Apply cleaning solutions with a stiff (natural or plastic bristle) scrub brush. Wear gloves and protective clothing to avoid skin irritation. Once the stain is dislodged, rinse well with clear water. When masonry is completely dry and free of stain, a clean masonry sealer may be mopped or sprayed on to prevent deep penetration of stains.

TIPS TO ADD TO ENJOYMENT OF A FIREPLACE

Since a cold chimney will not draw as well as a warm one, hold a lighted-rolled-up newspaper toward the top and rear of the fireplace to warm the chimney and help prevent smoke from backing up into the room when the fire is started. Allow ashes to accumulate to at least an inch deep on the hearth since they act as insulation and will help the fire burn more efficiently.

Add new logs to the rear of the fire where they will reflect light and heat into the room.

Use screens or glass doors in front of the fire to prevent sparks from falling onto the carpet or floor. Glass doors can double the efficiency of a fireplace, which means going from a 5 percent efficiency to a 10 percent efficiency. Glass doors also can be closed when the fire is unattended or at bedtime and will help keep home heat from escaping up the chimney. Installing and using an outside air source directly into the fireplace can also help its efficiency.

Stamp Collections Are Gift Ideas

The Postmaster today invited holiday shoppers to consider several stamp collecting items available at the post office for their gift-giving lists.

The Postmaster said that the post office has the ninth edition of The Postal Service Guide to U.S. Stamps, as well as the 1982 Mint Set which contains all 29 commemorative and special stamps issued during the year.

The 280-page The Postal Service Guide to U.S. Stamps is priced at $3.50 (the same as last year) and contains full-color reproductions of all U.S. stamp issues and the most current values assigned to each one. The book, designed to provide interesting philatelic information for both the novice and the experienced stamp collector, also includes many stories and philatelic articles about the stamp.

The Postmaster said this year the mint set is designed to be used as an album. Individual plastic mounts are included for mounting and protecting each stamp issue, subjects and designs.

The 1982 Mint Set, priced at $6.50, is the latest in a series of annual sets of commemorative and special stamps released by the Postal Service each year prior to the holiday season. The cover of the colorful set features a montage or artwork related to the stamps inside.

NEW GRAPE LITERATURE

Two new publications are available for anyone interested in learning a lot about grape production. Texas Vineyard Guide and Growing Grapes In Texas were published through a special grant from the Employment and Training Council of Texas to assist commercial vineyard owners and managers in training vineyard workers.

New prospective grape growers, hobby grape growers and home gardeners can purchase these publications for $3 each by ordering these from George Ray McEachern, Extension Horticulturist, Room 303, Plant Science Building, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843. Checks should be made payable to TAEX Grape Publication 2011. In reviewing these publications, I find they have a lot of very useful information and should benefit anyone interested in learning more about producing grapes.

GIFT IDEAS FOR GARDENING FRIENDS

Along with this time every year, the thoughts and attentions of most of us have turned away from lawns and gardens to the approaching holiday season. If you're like most of us, you'll still be hunting that "very special gift" right up until Christmas.

Here's a list of gift possibilities for the green thumbs in your family:

Plants are always welcome. Perhaps the lady of the house would like something in bloom for the holidays. Christmas cactus, kalanchoe, azalea, mums, and the traditional poinsettia (no, they're absolutely not poisonous), are available at local nurseries and florists.

Foliage plants are welcomed by almost everyone, and there's a tremendous variety from which to choose. Some good low-light requiring plants are Chinese Evergreens, Janet Craig Dracaena, Cast Iron Plant and Philodendrons. Don't overlook hanging baskets, hanging containers, and macrame hangers. Bonsais, sand paintings, terrariums and dish gardens also make excellent gifts.

Although they are seldom considered, what's wrong with outdoor specimen plants as Christmas gifts—the choice is practically limitless. Flower and vegetable seeds are also pleasing to gardening enthusiasts.

Other gift suggestions for the zealous gardener would include a subscription to a gardening magazine or a gift certificate from a bookstore. Or, if you prefer to make the gift selection, books on any gardening topic you can imagine are available in the gardening section of your local bookstore.

How about garden accessories, such as a garden sculpture, a wind chime or bird feeder? Or maybe someone would like a fancy container for a favorite houseplant? Patio furniture may be useful, and any gardener who likes the outdoors would appreciate a hammock for moments of relaxation.

For the weather buff, there's a rain gauge, a sun dial or a thermometer. Minimum-maximum thermometers are useful outdoors or in the greenhouse to tell how cold it got or how hot.

Or how about a work certificate, such as "I promise to cultivate the vegetable garden," or "I'll water the lawn six times," or "This certificate good for season long lawn mowing and edging." There are many possibilities for gardeners who need encouragement.

The card reminds your child you're only a phone call away.

Follow Directions To Insure Safe And Timely Arrival Of Christmas Gifts

With the Christmas mailing season just ahead, the Postmaster is offering tips for customers to assure that their cards and packages arrive on time and in good shape.

In addition to shopping and mailing early, customers, are urged to properly address cards and packages with the name, house number and street (or post office box number), and the city, state, and zip code reserved for the last line.

It is also a good idea to put a slip of paper with the recipient's name and address and your return address inside parcels, and be sure the addressing on the outside of the parcel includes your return address and zip code.

Customers are also reminded to check the size of their envelopes before mailing Christmas and other holiday cards. Letter size standards require that envelopes be at least 3½ inches high and 5 inches long to be accepted for mailing.

The Postal Service is also asking customers to put an ounce of extra care into preparing parcel post and other packages for mailing. Parcels will arrive at their intended destination in good shape if mailers will follow a few simple suggestions:

CUSHION: Make sure contents are well cushioned and there is no empty space in the box. Use crumpled newspaper around the item—including all sides, top and bottom. Commercially available foam shells or air-pocket padding also make good cushioning materials.

DON'T OVERWRAP: Just use your carton. Brown paper and twine cord are not necessary. Paper can rip, and twine can become entangled in processing equipment.

SEAL: Close your parcel with one of the three recommended types of tape: pressure sensitive, nylon-reinforced kraft paper, or glass-reinforced pressure sensitive.

AVOID: Use smudge-proof ink for your addressing.

POSITION ADDRESSES PROPERLY: Put the recipient's address in the lower right portion of the container. Put your return address in the upper left hand corner. Remove all other labels from the box.

USE ZIP CODES: Be sure to include the zip code in both the recipient's and your return address.

TIME IT RIGHT: Mail early in the month and early in the day.

USE THE RIGHT SERVICE: Irreplaceable items, such as cash, and other valuables, should be sent by registered mail.

sent by registered mail.

IF YOU RUN OUT OF TIME: Priority Mail affords First-Class handling for packages weighing over 12 ounces and up to 70 pounds. Priority Mail can be sent from any post office, station or branch or through rural carriers to any address in the U.S. Delivery of Christmas Crafts . . .

Christmas Is More Jolly With Presents That Are Fun To Make

Have fun this Christmas making gifts from tile. There's nothing as special and personal as the gift you make yourself. It says you care enough to give your time and creativity, plus you can enjoy yourself in the comfort of your home and save money at the same time.

Tile is easy to work with, versatile and beautiful. Your nearby Color Tile Supermart offers ceramic, mosaic and decorator quarry tile, all in a variety of patterns and sizes. Brick, cork and beautiful mirror tiles are also available.

Here are some beautiful and unique gifts that are fun to make and useful to receive. All projects are built with ¼" plywood, various sizes of ceramic or mosaic tiles, ¼" x ¼" or ½" x ¾" quarter round wood trim, lattice molding for framing, grout and ceramic adhesive.

Basic Steps
1. Decide on size of gift item
2. Cut base and frame to desired size
3. Apply tile to base in desired pattern

4. Apply framing, decorative trims
5. Apply grout and sealer
6. Paint trim if desired

Planter

1. Make base by cutting 4 pieces of ¼" plywood 7½" x 7½".
2. Build a box by nailing sides together.
3. Apply 4 pieces of Quarry Tile to the sides with a ceramic tile adhesive (such as Color Tile 990W Ceramic & Mosaic Wall Tile Adhesive).
4. Fill corners with ¼" quarter round wood trim.
5. Glue lattice molding to top rim.

Wine & Cheese Board

Use: One 12" square of teakwood parquet and your choice of ceramic mosaic tile. (We used six ¾" squares of mosaic tile.)

1. Cut plywood frame.
 2. Apply tile to frame.
 3. Apply lattice molding.
 4. Grout between ceramic/mosaic tiles and between tile and wood tile.
- You can also make trivets/hot pads using same steps and omitting teakwood.

Mirror Tile Ornaments

Use a glass cutter to cut tile into small square shapes to look like packages. Sandpaper the edges. Glue two pieces together, back to back, with a loop of string between—your ornament will turn and move on the tree reflecting the lights. Glue decorative items on your tiles, such as: ribbon, sequins, buttons, beads, or maybe enclose a family photo with parland.

For more detailed instructions, and the materials you need to build these projects, clip this article, and take it with you to your local Color Tile Supermart, the sales people will be glad to help you gather the products you need for your project. Also, ask about our Christmas Gift Certificate program.

KNOW YOUR LIMITS.

There's Another Limit You Should Know: Your Own

Everyone knows it's best not to drink before driving. But everybody also knows that most people drink, and some occasionally drive afterwards.

So, many safety officials now say: "If you do drink before driving, know your own limit."

PROPER HUMIDITY WARMS HOMES

If you try to conserve energy this winter by lowering your thermostat, but every one complains about being chilly, then maybe your home has a humidity problem.

The term "relative humidity" is the amount of moisture actually present in the air, compared to the maximum amount it can hold at that temperature. Relative humidity of 50 percent means that the air is only half-saturated.

Most heated homes without a humidifier have an average relative humidity of about 13 percent all winter long, compared with the recommended 30-35 percent.

It's understandable, then, why so many families feel chilly, even when their thermostats read 72 or even 75 degrees. The dry air is evaporating the water from the skin too quickly.

shrink, causing open spaces which let cold air in and heated air out. The result: drafts and increased fuel costs.

If any of these complaints sound familiar, you should consider installing a central humidifier.

Before selecting a humidifier, check with your local heating and air conditioning dealer on five key points: capacity, control, operational efficiency, ease of maintenance, and ease of installation.

For your copy of an informative booklet on relative humidity in the home and how to choose a humidifier, call toll free: 1-800-356-9882.

Perhaps you've noticed other clues to low humidity in your home. Loosening of glued joints in furniture, cracking of walls and ceilings, excessive static electricity, unusually dry noses and throats... all are signs of a humidity problem.

What really happens in the wintertime to alter the moisture content of the air?

Whenever outside air is heated by any method, its capacity for holding moisture increases rapidly. Air heated to 70 degrees can hold 22 times as much moisture as air at 0 degrees.

However, if your home doesn't have proper humidity, dry air steals moisture from everything in it, including you. This thirsty air evaporates moisture from your skin, a cooling process that makes you feel chilly even at high thermostat settings.

However, if your home doesn't have proper humidity, dry air steals moisture from everything in it, including you. This thirsty air evaporates moisture from your skin, a cooling process that makes you feel chilly even at high thermostat settings.

What really happens in the wintertime to alter the moisture content of the air?

Whenever outside air is heated by any method, its capacity for holding moisture increases rapidly. Air heated to 70 degrees can hold 22 times as much moisture as air at 0 degrees.

A lone holdup man driving a brown car with brown vinyl top robbed the J. R. Glass service station in McLean Sunday night and left in the direction of Amarillo. Meanwhile, the search goes on across the Panhandle for the man who asked the station attendant for change, then showed him the butt of a gun in his waistband, and asked for "all the green stuff". The station employee, a high school youth, was not injured.

The McLean area and the rest of the Panhandle received more snow this past week. Snow moved into the area on Friday, but was clear over the weekend. On Monday afternoon snow once again fell in the area and again on Tuesday night. This is very unusual for this much snow in November. It has slowed down harvest and is keeping farmers out of the fields, when they should be getting in their cotton.

Dicky Crockett, sophomore full back, was the choice of the coaches for another back position on the offensive team. Receiving honorable mention were Quarterback Don Woods, Eddy Windom as a linebacker, and Jim McCarty as defensive halfback.

The little daughter, Ethel, of Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver, had a narrow escape from death by drowning on last Monday morning, when it fell into the stock tank at the Weaver home. Two of the children, Ethel and Alta Mae, were playing near the tank when the youngest one fell backwards into the water. Alta Mae made a grab for her, caught her by the leg and in some unaccountable manner, she being very little larger than Ethel, pulled her out. The tank is eight or ten feet in diameter and three feet deep. It was full of water.

Figs Are Good For Low-Sodium Diets

LOW SODIUM DIETS
Most people are salt-watching. And with good reason, when you suspect that too much salt in your diet can lead to cardiovascular and hypertension disorders. But there is one food that can be enjoyed without fear of sodium overload—dried figs! You get an average of only 34 milligrams in one-half cup (about 3/4 ounces) so feel free to feast on dried figs as part of your health program.

Special Bonus in Potassium. Most sodium foods also contain potassium, a mineral you need to maintain good heart health. So when you limit sodium foods, you also deny yourself needed potassium. How to make up any shortage? Try dried figs. The same one-half cup gives you a whopping 640 milligrams of potent potassium which is needed for health of your muscles, nerves and, of course, heart. And dried figs are one of the rare foods that are low-low in sodium and high-high in potassium. It's your "must eat" food on your salt-watching program.

Vitamins, Minerals, Energy. Nature's package of goodness contains Vitamins A and C and is a prime source of calcium, magnesium, copper, iron and phosphorus as well as important carbohydrates. They boost your total health and give you vibrant energy at the same time. So who says a salt-watching diet can't be tasty good? With dried figs, your body never had it so good!
