CLOSE OF SCHOOL

Close of school has come, bringing during the last few days, much work and many social affairs. The term 1932-33 is gone, and gone are opportunities for some of the students, while some will have the opportunities of the coming years before them. These students should strive to take advantage of every opportunity that comes during next term and the next, and try to be better students than have ever gone out from this institution.

Examinations were given on Tuesday and Wednesday. Teachers tried to give thorough examinations that would completely cover all important phases of the various subjects.

We, the students and faculty of the McLean high school, bid "au revoir" to the tasks which we have enjoyed for the vacation time. Each of us thanks every patron and friend for the interest in the school affairs of this year. May every citizen of McLean strive to make this high school his chief interest during the coming term, for the boys and girls who are being trained in this institution are the most valuable things in the community.

7TH AND 8TH GRADE PICNIC

On Friday afternoon the members of the freshman and seventh grade classes were entertained by teachers and room mothers on the Fowler ranch north of McLean. Games were played and the usual "picnic pranks" were enjoyed until late in the afternoon. Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, cookies and ice cream were served.

Several of the "adopted" mothers of the eighth grade were present.

SPANISH PARTY

As the result of a contest which aroused much interest in the Spanish classes, all Spanish students were entertained by Miss Kennedy, in the home of Mrs. R. L. Appling, last Thursday evening. Table games were played and much hilarity disturbed the speaking of the language which was supposed to be used. The dainty refreshment plate was made festive by miniature Spanish sombreros. Members of the losing side furnished the refreshments.

TIGER PARTY

Coach Rush entertained the members of the spring football squad, with their friends and teachers, in the gymnasium Saturday night of last week. He was assisted in planning and conducting of the games by Miss Kennedy. The girls were to surprise the boys, consequently they met at the home of Mrs. R. L. Appling and went from there together.

Many interesting games were played. First, volley ball was enjoyed by the boys. Next, a jig-saw puzzle contest was conducted for an hour, then a rick rack contest and a tow-sack relay produced much merriment. Late in the evening a miracle was performed, for some of the Tigers who have never been known to be "stuck up" found that there was an abundance after they had eaten all they wanted of ice cream and cookies. About forty people enjoyed the party. Yea! Yea! Tigers and coach!

COMMENCEMENT SERMON

The commencement sermon which was most inspirational to all who heard it was delivered last Sunday night by Rev. W. A. Erwin. Many people who thronged to the building were unable to find seats within the auditorium. The seniors looked very dignified in their caps and gowns and were brought face to face with the fact that their high school days were really ending.

SENIOR PICNIC

The senior picnic was held on the R-L Ranch Tuesday of this week. They were accompanied by several parents, and their sponsors, Miss Abby and Mr. Rush. From the amount of food that was consumed, the sunburned complexions, and all reports, everyone who went must have had an excellent time.

AGGIE-HOME EC. PICNIC

Some of the home economics girls and agriculture boys motored to R-L Wall last Saturday to have a man who drank Lindbergh, our hero weiner roast. Everybody had a "zip roaring" time. "Rip roaring" is right. Those canyons are still ringing with the shouts. The group was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Tampke and Miss Vannoy.

THE EVIL EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL

Prize winning oration by Mary Emma Back
 The evil effects of alcohol are many. Whiskey demoralizes those who make it, those who sell it, and those who drink it. Robert Ingersoll said, "I believe that from the time it issues from the coiled worm in the distillery until it empties into the hell of death, dishonor and crime, it demoralizes everybody that touches it, from its source to where it ends."

Excessive drinking leads to the weakening of the mind, the body, and the soul. Visit the insane asylums or the penitentiaries—check the records of the inmates, and you'll find that at least 75% are there due, directly or indirectly, to the influences of liquor. Alcohol enters the stomach tissues to retard digestion, it enters the heart to bring about degeneration and cripple its moral capacities. It cuts down youth in its vigor, manhood in its strength, and age in its weakness. Then why countenance those who dispense it? Why tolerate the bootlegger, that man who would pose as a respectable, law-abiding citizen, but who under cover of darkness or bribery, would sell to the youth of our land drinks that would blur the judgment, weaken the self control, paralyze the brain and body, lower the moral attitude, and finally lead to destruction and despair! Patrons of the bootlegger are doing more to light the torch of anarchy, to spread contempt for our constitution and our laws than any communists or so called "Reds" in the land.

The drinking of alcohol has, and will, cause the downfall of individuals, families, cities, and nations. America needs every man and woman in her fight for prohibition. Our country needs your help to save herself from the dire disgrace of being a drunken nation. For the past few years you have sat idly by with eyes closed while your friends, neighbors, and neighbors' children have been rapidly swept into that maelstrom of drink that leads to the sea of despair, doubt and death. Wake up, Americans! Rouse your sleepy selves and come to the rescue of the coming generation. Rid your country of the evils of drink and the influences of the bootlegger, thereby making it a safe place in which to live, a place where family ties are sacred, and where loving mothers are not compelled to stand by and see their sons, once honest, respected, and trustworthy, led to the gallows or electric chair to sacrifice a life to the influences of liquor.

Drinking is a costly practice. No man can profit by its use. It can lift no industry, revive no interest, remedy no wrong. It not only demands a man's last dollar which his family needs for groceries, but it robs him of his self-respect, destroys his sons and daughters, and wrecks his home. Drinking of alcohol is the crime of crimes. In the words of Hall Caine, "I believe if strong drink could be wiped out of earth tonight humanity would wake in the morning with more than half of its sins and sorrows gone."

The liquor question is a moral one. Its evils should be taught by every possible means. They should be taught at home, at school, at church, and by the laws of the land. The very word alcohol means "deceiver." It deceives the inexperienced youth who has a natural desire for a good time. But a good time under the influence of liquor is not a good time after all. Moving pictures showing the evils, the expense, the crime, and the danger should be exhibited as frequently connected with the use of alcohol and as generally as possible. Pictures depicting the evils of drink should be published in papers and magazines from time to time. Advertisements should be run in our daily newspapers showing the advantage, economic, social, and moral, of the Eighteenth Amendment which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquor. Frequent radio talks on the advantage of prohibition should be heard by millions of American men, women, and children. Sunday school lessons should deal in a systematic, effective way with the liquor problem.

Scientific temperance should be taught in the public schools of our land. What school boy or girl is not interested in the views of their present day heroes? Helen Wills, the famous tennis star, says that in playing tennis one glass of wine is enough to make a difference in one's eye, coordination and balance. Knute Rockne, the greatest football coach of all time, required the young men he trained to abstain from poisons such as alcohol. Connie Mack, of baseball fame, refused to bother with a young man who drank. Lindbergh, our hero of the air, declined wine offered him in Paris after he had finished his flight from New York, saying that he did not drink alcoholic liquors.

The drinking of alcohol, according to Senator Morris Sheppard, is a national evil and requires a national remedy. In 1920 America amended the Constitution to protect her young people from this evil; and now, as an economic measure, our congressmen have placed the temptation before us again in the form of 3.2% beer.

When America went dry by the Volstead Act, her influence was felt around the world. Admiring her courage, foreign forces cried, "Hold fast, America!" But have we held fast! When they call light wines and beers not intoxicating, they overlook the fact that from the day Noah was drunken from wine of his own vineyard up till one thousand years ago, drunkenness was produced by these two drinks alone, none other being available.

Will beer restore prosperity? May be so—but to what class of people? To the ones needing it most and who will do most good with their money? No! To that class of people who would do anything for the feel of the almighty dollar between their greedy fingers. Grant that beer will bring in more money. Do we need money at such a price? Is money more valuable than peace, contentment, and happiness?

May the high school students of America, who are soon to become voters, ever respect our Constitution. May we help America to hold fast! May we, by example and influence, help to repeal the beer act! May we sustain and guard the hope of freedom, the light of progress, the radiance of all ages—our dry United States.

"The poet sings of sunny France,
 Fair olive-laden Spain,
 The Grecian Isles, Italia's smiles,
 And India's torrid plain;
 Of Egypt, countless ages old;
 Dark Africa's palms and dates;
 Let me acclaim the land I name—
 Our dry United States.

"The poet sings of Switzerland,
 Bra' Scotland's heathered moor,

The shimmering sheen of Ireland's green,
 Old England's rock-bound shore,
 Quaint Holland and the Fatherland.
 Their charms in verse relates;
 Let me acclaim the land I name—
 Our dry United States.

"I love every inch of her prairie land,
 Every stone on her mountain side;
 I love every drop of her water clear
 That flows in her rivers wide;
 I love every tree, every blade of grass,
 Within Columbia's gates.
 The queen of the earth is the land of our birth—
 Our dry United States."

"The Best for Less"

A GOOD AX TO GRIND

Go sharpen the ax
 That's found in tax,
 And cut the government's cost;
 Then bend your back
 To a strong attack,
 Before the cause is lost.

Most folks agree
 With you and me,
 That the burden's most too great;
 So it's time to hop
 On the job and chop,
 For it soon may be too late.

Refuse to moan,
 While the old grindstone
 Is ready to sharpen the ax,

ANOTHER "IF"

(No apologies to King nor Nobody)
 If you can rise at four o'clock each morning
 And milk a bunch of restless, bawling cows;
 If you can run a balky separator,
 And pour out slop to pigs and shotes and sows;
 If you can stay your hunger with a breakfast
 Of pork and eggs and biscuits hard as rocks;
 If you can smack your lips and swallow coffee
 That tastes like soapuds used for washing socks;
 If you can grab a mattock and a shovel
 And blithely set to cleaning out a ditch,
 And never stop, although your palms are blistered,
 Fossil blinds your eyes and both your shoulders itch;
 If you can dig and not be tired by digging,
 For plowing, hoeing weeds or pitching hay;
 If it's your absolute, profound convictions
 That eighteen hours is just a loafer's day;
 If you can load the back end of a flivver
 With eggs and chickens, fruit and garden sass,
 And drive to town and sell them to your grocer
 For half enough to pay for oil and gas;
 If you can spend the whole night irrigating
 And start out in the morning fresh and bright;
 If you can smile when cotton bolls are shedding,
 And when your melon vines curl up with blight;
 If you can dig up money on the mortgage,
 And taxes for the county and the state;
 If you can keep your head and not go rabid
 While listening to some oily candidate;
 If you can work and work and go on working
 Until your weary race of life is run,
 I don't know what other folks would call you,
 But I'd call you an average farmer, son.
 —Ernest Douglas, editor Arizona Producer.

Poorpay (to tailor)—"I've brought this pair of pants to be re-seated. You, know, I've had to sit a lot."
 Tailor—"Did you also bring along my bill to be receipted? You know, I've had to stand a lot."
 She—"When we go anywhere now we have to ride in a street car. Before we were married you took me wherever in a taxi."
 He—"Yes, that's why we have to ride in a street car now."

STUDY CLUB

On Monday afternoon the Study Club met in the home of Mrs. T. A. Maassay for the last meeting of the year. During the business hour new officers were elected, as follows:

THE QUICK THINKER

He had been calling every night in spite of warnings from his lady love about her irate father. This particular evening they had been cuddled together before the fireplace planning their elopement. Only the hall clock, announcing that the witching hour had been reached, broke the silence. Then, without warning, a thump and a click were heard, and the room was flooded with light. There, as big as fate, stood the old man, glowering and puffing at the terrified young caller. "Who are you?" he bellowed. The boy gulped, turned pale, and appeared on the verge of fainting. But the color returned to his face suddenly, and, rising to his feet, he said in a clear, loud voice, "I'm her brother."—Kitty-Kat.

THE OPPORTUNIST

A little boy had got into the habit of saying "darn," of which his mother naturally did not approve. "Dear," she said to the boy, "here is a dime. It is yours if you will promise not to say 'darn' again." "All right, mother," he said as he took the money, "I promise." As he lovingly fingered the money, a hopeful look came into his eyes, and he said, "Say, mother, I know a word that's worth a dollar."—Clarkson Green Griffin.

HELP FROM ABOVE

The captain realized that there was no hope for the sinking boat, and said, "Is there any one among us who can pray?"
 A meek man stepped forward. "Yes, sir, I can pray."
 "Good," said the captain. "You start praying while the rest of us get life belts on. We're one short."
 —Annapolis Log.

"And so you are an ex-slave," said the traveler in the South. "How interesting. But when the war was ended you got your freedom?"
 "No, suh," replied Uncle Rastus. "Ah didn't get no freedom. Ah was married."

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Bidwell of Tucumcari, N. M., Mr. and Mrs. D. Clark Regal of Amarillo visited the ladies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sparks Wednesday. Mr. Bidwell was enroute to the bedside of his sister at a Sayre, Okla., hospital.

Professor—"What is steam?"
 Student—"Water in a high state of prepiration."
 W. B. Upham was in Shamrock Wednesday.

PRECIOUS PAIR

A soldier went to his colonel and asked for leave to go home to help his wife with the spring house-cleaning.
 "I don't like to refuse you," said the colonel, "but I've just had a letter from your wife saying that you are no use around the house."
 The soldier saluted and turned to go. At the door he stopped.
 "Colonel, there are two persons in this regiment," he said, "who handle the truth loosely, and I'm one of them. I'm not married."—Nebraska Awgwan.

CONFIRMATION

Telephone Operator—"Is this 1749?"
 Maid (very black)—"Yassum."
 T. O.—"Is this Mrs. Blot's residence?"
 V. B. M.—"Yassum."
 T. O.—"Long distance from Washington?"
 V. B. M.—"Heh! Heh! Yassum, hit sho' is."—Alabama Rammer-Jammer.

WHY GUIDES QUIT

Guide—"The green garden snakes around here are not harmful."
 Old Lady—"Aren't they as dangerous as the ripe ones?"—Western Reserve Red Cat.
 "What caused the accident? Was the road in a wet condition?"
 "No, but the driver was."

CRUCIAL QUESTION

Teacher (warning her pupils against catching cold)—"I had a little brother seven years old, and one day he took his new sled out in the snow. He caught pneumonia and three days later he died."
 Silence for ten seconds.
 Then voice from the rear: "Where's his sled?"—Annapolis Log.

BROTHERS IN BONDAGE

Clerk—"Do you prefer a red necktie or a green one?"
 Customer—"I'm sorry, but I can't say."
 Clerk—"Shake, old man, I'm married, too."

Have your neighbors ever dropped into your home to borrow the weekly collection of circular letters, hand bills, etc., that the users think are as good as advertising in your favorite country newspaper?—Menomonee (Wis.) Falls News.

Few people realize the actual coverage of even the most modest country newspaper. Not so long ago an advertising expert was quoted as saying that careful research had ascertained that a certain well known metropolitan newspaper is read, on an average, for the space of 20 minutes, while the average country newspaper has a "reading life" of 3 hours to its credit! It is kept round the house for a week and everyone in the family takes his turn in going through its pages.

That is something for both subscriber and advertiser to think about.

This issue of the home paper is dedicated to the graduating classes and advertisers were glad to cooperate in best wishes to the graduates.

Now that graduating exercises are over, it is time to think of next year, and at least three of the pastors of the town have mentioned the fact that the commencement sermon should be held on Sunday afternoon so as not to break into regular church services.

In spite of taking particular pains each week to see that every news item is strictly correct, once in a great while someone's name is inadvertently left out of those present.

As this is being written it is the understanding that our new school superintendent will be here for the graduating exercises. This is thoughtfulness on the part of Supt. Cryer that can certainly be appreciated.

A town must either go forward or backward, and there is no secret of how a town grows; it depends entirely upon the citizenship. There must be forward looking leaders who are given full cooperation, or the town will fail.

The growth of a town helps everyone in it and knocking a town is knocking its citizens.

Mingled with the rejoicing at the end of school of those who have reached a coveted milestone in their lives, is always a feeling of sadness that one chapter has come to a close. This year the feeling of sadness persists in the minds of many of us in losing Supt. Boswell, regardless of the fact that we are glad to see him take an upward step in service to humanity.

Mr. Boswell has endeared himself to this community by his unselfish work for every progressive movement, and while he may not have pleased all of us by everything he has done, yet his good work and his good motives are all that are remembered at this time.

It is not possible to please everyone, however hard one may try, but we know that Mr. Boswell has had the best interests of the community at heart and has had a kind word for everyone who is trying to make this community a better place in which to live.

The News editor feels a disinct personal loss when any community leader must leave, for it is our good fortune to be closely connected with those to whom the community must look for guidance, and we have been particularly fortunate in our work with Mr. Boswell.

It will be a mighty long time before Mr. Boswell and his family will be forgotten in McLean and we expect to hear their names and deeds referred to by our people many times during the next decade.

JUST FOR FUN

"I wouldn't drink out of that cup," said little Willie to the well-dressed city visitor; that's Lizzie's cup, and she's particular who drinks out of it. "Oh, that's all right," said the man from the big city, as he drained the cup dry. "I feel honored to drink out of Lizzie's cup. Lizzie is your sister, isn't she?" "Not much! Lizzie is my pet pig!"

A girl from Boston was visiting her relatives on a farm in Vermont for the first time. She became very much interested in all the animals. One evening, as she stood at the back door, talking to her uncle Silas, she heard the low, mournful note of a cow. "Just listen to that poor cow," said the girl, "mewing for her little colt!"

"The minister certainly did preach a powerful sermon on vanity and extravagance, didn't he?" "Yes—and his own wife was sitting right there with a new dress and a new hat on."

"Oh, that explains it. I wondered why he was so worked up."

Phyllis—"I'm going right down to the postoffice and make a complaint." Phil—"Oh, I'll go down and attend to anything you want. What is it?" Phyllis—"I want to find out why they haven't delivered that box of candy you said you were going to send me."

Late Arrival at ballgrounds—"What's the score?" Friend—"Nothing to nothing."

L. A.—"Say, that must be a good game. Huh?" Friend—"Don't know. It hasn't started yet."

"You seem to be very feeble," said the medical examiner for the Stickfast Life Insurance Co.

"Well," explained the applicant, "the agent nearly talked me to death before I surrendered."

"Is a chicken old enough to eat when it's two weeks old?" "Certainly not."

"Then how does it live?"

Wife (tearfully)—"You have broken the promise you made me."

Hubby—"Don't cry; I'll make you another."

May 9, 1933

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

TREES

By O. L. D. Tiner

Trees have played a very important part in the operations of mankind as far back as history goes. The first tree of importance mentioned in sacred history was the tree of good and evil that Eve persuaded Adam to eat the fruit of, and ever since then woman has had man up a tree.

Old Tack wants the young married couples to start raising children. He says he wishes he had twenty Lallapalooas and Aloysius. But since he has only one Lallapalooa and his mythical Aloysius can only become his son by a process of law, he has adopted him a Pekinese.

One day there were three women, a hen-pecked man and a poodle riding a pullman. The dog weighed about a pound, hair, ribbon, and all. The women were taking on over the poodle and were in turn fondling him and kissing his pink nose.

Two dogs were seen in town the other day holding a dog conversation. One of them had a license tag and the other didn't.

"Man gone you," barked the German police, "where were you last night about midnight?"

"I was at home with the old woman and the puppies, where all good dogs ought to be," whined the flop-eared hound.

"You lie like a man. I saw you out in the alley digging up that bone I buried last week."

"You are a mad dog liar!" roared

"PHLURIA"

By P. Bosh, A. B., B. S., L. L. B., A. M., A. S. S.

"Phluria" is Greek for absolute nonsense or perfect bosh, hence the name of P. Bosh. "A-phluria" is the Greek meaning not foolishness.

"You are a mad dog liar!" roared

"Man gone you," barked the German police, "where were you last night about midnight?"

"I was at home with the old woman and the puppies, where all good dogs ought to be," whined the flop-eared hound.

"You lie like a man. I saw you out in the alley digging up that bone I buried last week."

This started the fight and just then the marshal popped his head around the corner and his gun popped a bullet into the head of the unlicensed dog, and there was one more dog gone.

Next Sunday's Lesson

JESUS ANSWERS HIS ADVERSARIES

By Rev. Cecil G. Goff
Lesson text, Mark 12:28-40. Golden text, John 7:46.

The crucifixion week really takes in eight days. On Sunday, the first day of the week, Jesus rode triumphantly into Jerusalem. He returned to Bethany that night. On Monday He came again, as we studied in last Sunday's lesson, to Jerusalem and cleansed the temple. On Tuesday He taught in the temple, and the scribes and pharisees disputed with Him. On Wednesday He remained in Bethany to rest. On Thursday He instituted the Lord's Supper and was arrested. On Friday He was crucified. On Saturday He lay in the grave. On Sunday, the first day of the week again, He arose from the dead.

All of the Gospels record the discussions of Jesus on Tuesday of this last week. Jesus evidently left Bethany early, for He had a long hard day. The Jews did all that they could to quiet Him, and to find some way that they might bring about His destruction. The entire account of the day's work is to be found in Mark 11:27-13:2. Early in the day the chief priests, scribes and elders challenged His authority to teach. Jesus asked them a question concerning the baptism of John, which, when they answered, He was to tell them by what authority He taught. But Jesus knew that they were too smart to answer His question, for in doing so they would have undone themselves. They were therefore easily silenced so far as their disturbance of the teaching of Jesus was concerned.

Jesus continued by giving three parables of warning, the two sons, the householder, and the marriage feast (Matt. 21:28-22:14). Then came the political question of the Herodians concerning the tribute money, the theological question of the Sadducees concerning the possibility of future life, and whose wife a woman would be in heaven, who had had a number of dead husbands here, and the legal questions of the Jews concerning the great commandment in today's lesson (Mark 12:13-24). Then followed the question of Jesus as to why David called Him Lord if He was his son. This question was never answered (Mark 12:35-37). The rest of the day Jesus did most of the talking. He exposed the hypocrisy of the scribes and pharisees, sorrowed over Jerusalem (Matt. 23:1-39), and immortalized the widow's gift of two mites (Mark 12:41-44). Jesus then spoke of the destruction of the temple, as He left it (Mark 13:1, 2).

The scribes and pharisees were anxious to stop the new and wonderful teacher. The hour had come when He was becoming a menace to their power. It was a scribe who put the question: "What commandment is the first of all?" According to the Jewish writings and fathers, there were 248 affirmative precepts or commandments and 365 negative precepts. The affirmative number was the same as the number of members in the body, and the negative the same as the number of days in the year, making a total of 613, the number of letters in the decalogue (ten commandments as written in the Hebrew language). Some of these commandments had attached to them the penalty of death, some lighter penalties, but all had penalties attached. It was of this number that the question was asked. Jesus quickly and deftly answered that the first commandment was that the Lord was one God, and that men were to love Jehovah with all of their heart, soul, mind, and strength. Jesus then went further and said that the second was like it, that men were to love their neighbor as themselves. These words of Jesus took in all of the decalogue, and any others that had been the commands of God. If men would so live, much of the sorrow, suffering and difficulties of the world might be avoided. For in so doing mankind would be obeying the commands of God, and in so doing God has promised to pour out so great a blessing that we would not be able to receive it; He has promised to be with us all the way when we obey, and with Him as our immediate protector we stand victoriously with Christ over sin, death and the grave.

Jesus then rebuked the scribes for saying that the Christ was the son of David. They had described Him as a mere man who was the lineal descendant from David. But Jesus points out to them that David had called the Christ "Lord," and none was the Lord of David except Jehovah Himself. Therefore, the Christ must be more than a mere man. He must be the Son of God, since David had described Him as sitting upon the right hand of God. Lord over all the human race, and all created beings. Jesus then attacked the sincerity of the service of the scribes. He describes them as men who are actually only anxious for the honors of this world and the gain that is to be had through the type of work that they did. Their real purpose was to get their greedy hands on the property of the poor, the weak, and the widows. The desire of Jesus was that men would serve Him in spirit and truth. Pretense is never acceptable to the Master, no matter in what form it is offered. God can always see through its cloak of respectability to the leprosy at the heart. The record says that it was common people who heard Him gladly, people with no pretense, but honest in all that they did.

TELLING HER SIZE

He walked timidly into the store and announced that he wished to buy a present for a young lady. The saleslady showed him some silk sport coats, but when she asked him the size he was baffled. He gazed about helplessly for a minute or so, and then, spotting a dummy figure, a smile stole over his face. Walking up to it, he encircled it with his arm. "About this size will do," he said happily.

Hinkle (timidly)—"I would like to take a little time off to go away on my wedding trip."
Employer—"How long do you want to be away?"
Hinkle—"How long would you say, sir?"

Employer—"How do I know? I haven't seen the bride, have I?"

Anna Betty was telling her mother all about the party the night before. "And Pete Gadget tried to kiss me," she said.

"How dare he!" exclaimed her mother.

"He didn't—I dared him," Anna Betty confided.

Mr. Quiggle—"She's a wonder—that quiet little woman over there."

Mrs. Q.—"Why, what's she done that's so remarkable?"

Mr. Q.—"I've told you already; she's a quiet woman."

Lawyer—"You say your wife attacked you with a death-dealing weapon? What was the nature of that weapon?"

Meek Little Man—"It was a fly-swatter."

BRIEFS

By A P ANGELLO

War! Of all wars! A milk war! That is the least sold of all wars. Nero's wife, Poppaea, kept 500 donkeys to furnish milk for her bath, but Chicago has her beat. Chicago has washed her streets in milk while thousands of youngsters went undernourished.

Mr. Roosevelt calls for peace one moment and the quick repeal of the 18th amendment the next. He desires international peace, but internal inferno, and we call a man with such a small mind and withered heart "President."

Hitler is trying to dress Germany up like a tin soldier. Even tin soldiers can easily and quickly make trouble in Europe.

President Roosevelt has virtually recognized the Russian communist government by sending his peace message to the head of that government, the same as others. That may become the most far reaching aspect of the message.

Storms and floods. There have been more places visited with desolation by these two imposters this spring than in any one spring in many years. Areas that have been saved from their destruction have been indeed fortunate.

A part of the ex-soldiers in Washington have spurred the president's offer of reforestation work. They are out of work, yet will not accept work. They are not showing themselves as very good soldiers.

The Texas legislature was asked by Uncle Sam to vote bonds to assist in the relief work that is being carried on. The legislature refused. But when Uncle Sam cut off the federal aid they got busy and voted to put a bond issue before the people. Well, as long as Uncle Sam will do it, let him do it. When he quits we will see what can be done.

Less wheat is expected to be produced in the U. S. this year than we will consume. A small crop makes a big stepping stone for prices.

BLONDS PREFERRED

A new creamery just put up in Colorado advertised for blond girls to work in the butter department. "What makes you insist on blonds?" somebody asked.

"Well," confessed the manager, "yellow hair in the butter isn't so conspicuous as black."

Soph—"Hub, the only records that dub ever broke were phonograph records."

Mr. Caudle—"But, darling, you've been talking for half an hour and I haven't said a word."

Mrs. Caudle—"No, you haven't said anything, but you've been listening in a most aggravating manner and I'm not going to stand it."
