U. S. Extends Its Neutrality Patrol To Protect 'Aid-to-Britain' Shipments; Germans Drive British From Greece; Lindbergh Resigns Air Corps Post

U. S. ATTITUDE: Toward War

In this country the reaction to the loss of the Greek campaign was sharp.

The forces of the isolationists immediately took to the air, held a giant mass-meeting in New York, which was marked by violence outside the hall, and, paced by Charles A. Lindbergh, took an "I told you so" attitude, urging the nation to believe that British defeat of the Nazis was not only impossible, but that British loss of the war was a certainty, and that if America gave "all-out" aid to Britain that we, too, would suffer through this defeat.

President Roosevelt, frankly infuriated by this attitude and these utterances, had Secretary Hull and Secretary Knox take to the radio and prepare the way for a statement by the President which ripped the "defeatists" up the back, and made it plain that the government would have none of this attitude.

The administration, they said, was frankly committed to "all-out" aid to Britain, and would go its way toward this goal. Instead of retrenching on this policy, as urged by the Lindbergh coterie, it was boldly announced that the government would extend its aid still more vigorously.

Singling out Lindbergh especially for administration ire, the President, in a press conference, characterized him as an "appeaser" and "defeatist" and used the word "cooperhead" in making a comparison with earlier days in American history.

Aftermath of the President's remarks regarding Lindbergh was the news that he announced his resignation as a colonel in the U. S. army air corps reserve. He said he was "greatly disturbed" at the implications made by the President regarding his loyalty toward the United States. He had been an officer in the reserve air corps since 1927, year of historic flight to Paris.

tion as a colonel in the U. S. army air corps reserve. He said he was "greatly disturbed" at the implications made by the President regarding his loyalty toward the United States. He had been an officer in the reserve air corps since 1927, year of historic flight to Paris.

PATROL: Extended

The navy, said the President, now was engaged in extending the neutrality patrol 1,000 miles out into the Atlantic, and that its protection to American shipping, especially to vessels carrying aid to Britain, would know no boundaries on the seven seas.

This brought the question of convoys out into the open, which the President had simply leaped over in his statement, taking the stand that discussion of convoys was beside the point, as he considered it the navy's job to keep the waters 1,000 miles off the American coast safe for all shipping.

At the same time he made the rather cryptic statement that he had information that the Nazis already were setting foot on Greenland and that the United States would deal with this phase of the situation, which indeed brought the war mighty close to this country.

In the meantime newspapers took another poll of the senate on the question of convoys, and found that body to be in favor of convoying supplies to Britain, though only by a vote of 50 to 45. If convoying meant active participation in the war, as many claimed, the informal canvass of the senate showed the temper of congress, at any rate.

Included in the tentative list opposed to convoying were 25 of the senate's 28 Republican members. The only official act connected with the subject of convoying was the Tobey resolution, and they were seen as supporters of this measure. Adding to this the non-intervention Democrats, and some other scattering votes, and Tobey's resolution, which would forbid convoying, could only look for 45 votes.

The Tobey move, however, was not considered so vital by some senators, these holding that President

SECRETARY OF NAVY KNOX
He "took to the air."

Roosevelt's executive power as navy head would permit him to put a convoy plan into effect by executive order, with no sanction by the senate or house asked or needed.

GREEKS: 'Out'

Closing days of the Greek campaign were stirring. The British made a noble stand of three to four days at Thermopylae pass, historic rendezvous with heroism of Leonidas in ancient days, only to lose the pass after heroic resistance and after inflicting admittedly heavy casualties on the invading Nazi hordes.

The second great stand was made on Mount Geraneia, the British high command, after a careful advance study of the terrain, finding places to defend that the Germans had claimed were impossible.

There was hardly a question even in British and Greek circles of making a successful stand, but the valiant Australian and New Zealand soldiers fought a rear-guard action that military men said would live in history.

Main objective of the British, after the port of Piraeus was shown to be impossible as an evacuation port, was to gain the southern portions of Greece and make the final stand on Crete and other islands.

The flight of the government from Athens prepared the Greek people for the eventual occupation of the historic capital by the Nazis. Yet the Greeks, with unswerving devotion to their cause, seemed not dismayed by the loss of their capital, but seemed willing to fight on to the end, as did the British.

Churchill had prepared the British for the bad news of the Greek campaign, and toward the close Athens dispatches frankly admitted that the final stages of the fighting were simply rear-guard actions.

While there was again raised in England among the people the cry of "too little and too late," the people of Australia seemed little inclined to criticize, but on the other hand seemed proud of the achievement of their armies.

The loss of the Greek campaign was more of a shock to those in the United States who had been hoping that American aid through the lease-lend bill might turn the battle.

Yet from more considered sources came the word that the Greek defense should not be viewed in that light, but rather from the standpoint of a general harassing and delaying action against Germany.

The cost to the Nazis of having to transport food and men and munitions for the final weeks almost entirely by plane must have been enormous in fuel alone, which Germany was unable to spare.

The surprise expressed by King George of Greece at the sudden surrender of the army of Epirus which precipitated the close of the Nazi Greek campaign and just preceded the flight of the government to Crete caused the commanders later to tell part of the story.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in U. S. Defense news

Administrator Henderson of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply requested manufacturers of farm implements not to increase the prices of farm machinery at this time. Mr. Henderson pointed out that in announcing the steel price schedule he had stressed the wide range of finished products of which steel is a part and the importance of maintaining stable prices in these finished products.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced an agreement setting up a fund of $50,000,000, contributed by the U. S., and $20,000,000, contributed by Chinese government banks, to stabilize Chinese currency. A joint statement by Mr. Morgenthau and Dr. T. V. Soong of the Central Bank of China, described the agreement as a "co-operative agreement between friendly nations that are working together in many ways."

'We, the People'

Here is a poster being issued by the Office for Production Management of the Defense Commission in Washington for use in street cars, busses and subway trains, etc. It calls attention to the government's rearmament drive and urges Mr. Public to heed that: "WE, the people," ARM FOR DEFENSE.

STRIKE: Situation

President Roosevelt rolled up his sleeves and sailed into the coal strike personally, bidding fair to handle this as he had other problems.

Under his personal urging negotiations were resumed, and a settlement finally reached.

In the midst of all this particularly when the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) threatened to shut down 60-odd plants of General Motors, engaged in nearly half a billion of defense orders for motorized equipment, came a vigorous outburst against Secretary Perkins.

The rumor was published that Miss Perkins' resignation was on President Roosevelt's desk, and one senator urged that if it were not true that Secretary Perkins should resign, and that if it were true the President should accept it.

What was needed in that post was not a woman, but a two-fisted man "with the intestinal fortitude" to deal with labor troubles. This outburst against Miss Perkins was almost immediately followed by her prompt certification of the threatened auto strike to the mediation board, thus practically washing her hands of the matter.

The company held that a work stoppage of non-defense portions of factories would naturally and inevitably result in full stoppage. Faced with this evidence, Miss Perkins dictated and signed a statement which started:

"The dispute between the General Motors corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America threatens to burden and obstruct the production or transportation of equipment and materials essential to national defense and cannot be adjusted by the commissioners of conciliation of the department of labor."

The mediation board promptly sent this message to both corporation and unions affected and set an early date for a hearing. This had the immediate result of producing a union agreement to call off the strike pending some effort by the board to make adjustments.

NAVY: Buys an Airfield

For an undisclosed sum, believed to be about $9,000,000, the navy bought Floyd Bennett airfield in New York, intending to establish on its 387 acres the nation's biggest naval air base.

The deal, it was announced, would still permit the use of the field as an emergency landing field for commercial aviation if LaGuardia field was closed.

The field, with 62,500 square feet of hangar space, will be put into service at once, and will, navy officials pointed out, bring naval aviation closer to the most important scene of its activities, the North Atlantic.

At present the chief naval air bases in this country are Pensacola, Fla., on the East and San Diego, Calif., on the West coast. The need of an important base of greater size than Anacostia, close to Washington, D. C., brought about the deal with New York city, and brings the navy in force to the air above Long Island sound.

MISCELLANY:

PIRAEUS: The Haras, formerly one of Harold Vanderbilt's yachts, was sunk by a German dive bomber as it was seeking to evacuate a large number of civilians trying to return from Greece's mainland to their island homes. One bomb burst in the vessel's hold and practically the entire passenger list was lost.

TOKYO: In the role of an Axis salesman back from a "trip to the factory," Foreign Minister Matsukata of Japan informed the Japanese people through the press that the lot of the worker in Germany is a happy one, and that the people of that nation like the system that takes complete governmental control of all their activities.

NEW YORK: Fritz Kreisler, master violinist, was victim of a traffic accident near his home, as he was on his way to luncheon. He was struck by a truck and his skull fractured.

Linen Assumes Important Role As Fabric for Summer Wardrobes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN ASSEMBLING the new summer wardrobe, don't overlook the importance of linen for all-occasion wear. There really is no material that more faithfully holds its own than handsome Irish linen. With women of discriminating taste, fine linen is a tradition, and now, because of scientific processing, the new linens are rendered practically non-wrinklable.

Aside from the practical view, which ranks linen high because of its complete washability, crease-resistance and adaptability to any type of wearing apparel, style experts are suggesting linen because of the beautiful colors in which it may now be purchased.

A trend this season is the combining of linen with another fabric. You'll see many linen dresses with wool coats, lined and collared to match the dress. Linen also may be combined with silk or rayon prints very effectively. Often a monotone linen coat is lined with the print of a matching frock. In these instances, the linen used is one of the heavier, sturdier weaves, either plain or with self-plaid woven into the fabric.

A fashion highlight this season is the newly styled longer jackets of solid colored linen, worn over bright gingham checks or printed cottons. The attractive ensemble centered in the photograph illustrates the idea. The jacket, of deep green linen, is cut as expertly and fits as suavely as any painstakingly tailored wool. It tops a black, white and green checked dress which follows carefully the lines of a classic shirtwaist frock.

The use of linen in two-toned combinations is a this-season theme that stresses the popular contrast-color vogue. Two shades of Irish linen, a rich tan and a deep green, combine to dramatize the South American influence shown in the simulated bolero of this good-looking dress. This is a fashion designed by Schiaparelli for gay young folk.

It's "three cheers for the red-white-and-blue" when the classic shirtwaist dress shown to the left in the group marches along in the fashion parade. The dress is of blue wrinkle-resistant Irish linen. The double blue-and-white collar and cuffs are edged with red rickrack, and the chic crocheted belt also combines the three colors.

A fashion that women will welcome is the redingote that is styled of linen in handsome dark monotones. This is worn over print frocks very effectively and over line dresses of a contrasting shade. A practical as well as smart item in any wardrobe is the linen suit that is fashioned with the longer jacket. In navy or dark green or toast brown it invites many uses, for the jacket may be worn over casual frocks when not worn with its matching skirt.

The young set glories this season in the new line midly blouse fashions. As summer advances, dance floors will boast linen dinner dresses. On beaches, dressmaker bathing suits in linen will take to the water and many play suits and beach dresses of Irish linen will be worn by vacationers.

Dramatic Bags

Dramatic bags, with swank shoes of shiny perforated leather to match, are smart as can be. In the under-arm bag designed by Jenny which the young modern pictured is carrying, shiny black patent leather is cleverly used to form wings of ruffled and perforated patent. This bag is roomy but compact and is styled with all the "last word" improvements. You will find it the perfect complement for your new tailleur and particularly chic carried with the now-so-voguish black faille jacket suits. By the way, the topknot that surmounts the pretty head of the young lady here posing is a very new-fashion chapeau.

Newest wrist watches are square, made of pink gold, set with diamonds and rubies and fastened with a maroon wrist cord.

White-Ground Prints New

In Summer Fashion Picture It is the white-ground prints that have the coveted "new" look. The black-on-white combination is especially smart. Wear with these black-and-whites one of the very voguish large Milan hats, carry a patent bag matched with pumps, splash a dash of red or yellow in gloves and your boutonniere—the sum total will be "style."

Blue on white is also new and the prints that pattern red or yellow on white are exceedingly chic.

Handknit Apparel Enjoys Increase in Popularity

There is a large demand for hand-knit apparel. Even the machine knits have been brought to such a point of perfection that they have the handknit look. Dresses are so expertly fashioned that they do not miss any of the styling details that give distinction to fabric treatments.

Sweaters and cardigans abound in unique trimmings, such as wool yarn fringe, dangling tassels, embroideries and knitted skirts are now made with pleats or gores.

Low-Cut Necklines Call For Bra to Match Dress

Necklines are on their way down and down, almost to the waistline. With this type of dress, comes a bra to match. You can fasten the open point high or low, as you wish. The latest blouses have open-throat colored necklines that may be adjusted at will.

Brim Large, Small

It's a far cry from the tiny little flower topknot milliners are pleased to call hats to the wide, wider, widest brims that are forecasted for wear with summer frocks. A properly equipped wardrobe of headgear should include both. The cunning fancy hats have captured women's fancies to the extent that they will continue in the picture for a long time to come, but from now on they must share honors with the stunning big pompadour brims, Mexican gaucho felts and the face-framing "covered wagon" types.

Star Dust
STAGE SCREEN RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

TWO April weddings in the Hollywood movie colony are still topics for conversation, one because it was so conventional, for Hollywood, the other because it was so unusual for that colony and just the accepted thing anywhere else.

The Yuma marriage of Constance Bennett and Gilbert Roland was Hollywoodian. It was Miss Bennett's fourth marriage, they drove to Yuma by themselves and the clergyman had to supply witnesses. The other, Deanna Durbin's marriage to Vaughn Paul, was a big church wedding, very beautiful, and motion picture stars who were friends of the bride and groom were invited but not featured as part of the performance. An achievement, in Hollywood!

Rudy Vallee is ready to chuck his career and undertake a new one at the drop of a megaphone. Now appearing in Columbia's musical picture, "Time Out for Rhythm," with Ann Miller, Rosemary Lane and Allen Jenkins, he's ready to drop acting and singing if he can get a chance to direct pictures. He's even bought a home in Beverly Hills to be near the center of the movie business.

During the next few months there will be a virtual parade of film players to the Latin-American countries. Spencer Tracy and Eleanor Powell are slated for good-will visits; Douglas Fairbanks Jr. will be a sort of good-will ambassador, and Marsha Hunt plans on spending six weeks in South America after she's finished "Blossoms in the Dust."

"Citizen Kane," Orson Welles' first RKO Radio production, aroused plenty of controversy long before it was released, and will be one of those pictures that people will argue about years after they've seen it. It may not be the best picture ever made, but certainly it is one of the best—but there are those who maintain that it should never have been made at all. Welles himself scores superbly as writer, actor and producer; the rest of the cast is so good that you forget that they're acting.

Orson Welles

The first day she appeared on the "Manpower" set Marlene Dietrich announced that she'd take whatever punishment the script asked George Raft to hand her. That included his slapping her twice across the face, knocking her down a flight of stairs, then leaping after her and hitting her across the mouth with the back of his hand.

But George hit her harder than he intended, Marlene tumbled down the stairs (as per script), but wound up by severely spraining her ankle (which the script did not call for!).

Two more well known stage and screen players—Martha Sleeper and William Harrigan—have joined the cast of "We Are Always Young," Mutual chain's star-studded serial. That cast probably includes more "name" actors than any other serial on the air, among them are Jessie Royce Landis, Linda Watkins, Margalo Gilmore, Joe Laurie Jr., Horace Braham, Bert Kelton, George Coulouris, and William Janney, who's starred.

Andy Hardy's own, a squadron of RAF fighters, will soon take to the air. Mickey Rooney, the Hardy series "Andy," received a letter the other day from a young RAF flier who wrote "We're all young fellows in this squadron and we all think you're an o. k. sort of lad, so we've nicknamed our squadron (soon to see action) for you."

Stirling Hayward lost Madeleine Carroll in "Virginia," but he's slated to win her in "Dildo Cay." As originally planned, it was Dorothy Lamour whom he was to win, but she will be unable to finish her current assignment in "Alma of the South Seas" in time to appear in the picture.

ODDS AND ENDS—Mutual's new analyst, Wythe Williams, is sponsored on more stations than any fellow analyst has 100 stations. Robert Donat has leave from the British army to make "Pia the Younger" in an English studio. Warner Bros. have bought a story called "Coffin for Dmitrios," and Columbia is making one called "Obituary"—and trying to think up a new title for it. As soon as Abbott and Costello finish "In the Navy" they'll begin "Ride 'em Cowboy." Shirley Temple will have a brand new hair-do when she returns to the screen, and her hair, growing darker as she's grown older, is brown instead of golden.

Goodbye, Seniors
 By Marian Wilson

Seniors, your time is almost up. In a few days you, as students, will leave these halls forever. Behind you, you are leaving a record, good or bad, of your own making which will probably follow you the rest of your life. If you intend to further your education, your high school record will be investigated. If you seek a paying position, your record will directly influence the kind of job you will be able to obtain. As you leave, our best wishes go with you.

HAVE YOU HEARD THAT

W. C. Simpson was seen dancing with a broom? Wonder if he can't get anyone to dance with him or if he was only practicing?
 Bill Carpenter's mother lets him quit working in the yard long enough to get a haircut?
 J. B. Waldrep has him a little widow now?
 Some of the junior girls can hardly wait to become seniors, so they will have a chance at an engagement ring, too?
 Carl Sullivan gets mad if another boy just looks at Bobbie Crisp?
 Ruth Humphreys and Willis Ledetter are certainly getting serious?
 Paul Miller, Eugene Smart and Maso Pugh are going to start a sewing circle. They know all the latest fashions.
 Marsha H. and John D. are getting out way again?
 Colleen B. is certainly working hard for a spelling medal? I guess Erey would know.
 Bob Sherrod just lacks a few more girls having gone the rounds?
 Joyce D. walked down the hall the other day without Kenneth D?
 Joyce F. might loan Thomas B. to Mary Alice Ledgerwood for the junior-senior banquet?
 There is to be no parking without the car lights turned on, after the senior-senior banquet?
 J. M. M. has made up his mind for sure?
 Dale B. says he just won't pay any attention to these notes and hints?

IT WILL BE NEWS WHEN

Monroe Combs starts picking on someone his own size.
 Bob S. comes to some kind of a decision.
 Betty Jo B., Jewel L. and Billie B. quit fussing and fighting.
 Marian W. makes up her mind about Erey F.
 Dale B. quits getting those sweet notes.
 Maudie W. gets her a fountain pen and keeps it.
 Maxine G. finds out just who is telephoning her.
 Hazel S. stops telling a certain boy if she can't be the bride she sure won't be a flower girl.
 We get the facts on Lu Lu and Charles Ed.
 Loyce W. stops writing such sweet notes.

HOME EC. STUDENTS TAKE TRIP

Four home economics girls, Bobbie Crisp, Maudie Dale Woods, Loyce Kester and Hazel Smith, with their sponsor, Miss Idell Gadberry, went to the home economics state rally in San Antonio last week. The girls left McLean April 30, and returned May 4.

THE GIRLS VISITED AUSTIN AND WENT THROUGH THE CAPITOL AND GOVERNOR'S MANSION. THEY WERE GREETED BY MRS. W. LEE O'DANIEL IN PERSON.

A very interesting trip was enjoyed by all and many interesting sight-seeing tours were conducted for them while they were in San Antonio. They saw the Alamo, Breckenridge Park, San Fernando Cathedral, Randolph Hotel, the governor's mansion in San Antonio, the sunken gardens and many other things.

HONOR STUDENTS AT MHS

Honor students were announced by Mrs. C. A. Cryer Monday morning in assembly at high school. The following students will be member members of the McLean chapter of the National Honor Society. Their names will be framed and placed in the halls of McLean high school. Jewel Allen, Paul Bond, Marian Wilson, Evonne Floyd, Duella Woods, Joyce Fulbright, Frances Sitter, Ernest Sheburne, Juanita Campbell, Erey Fulbright, Joe Cooke, Virginia Blackerby, Mary Alice Ledgerwood, Oran Back and Robert Gibson. This is an honor that any student would be proud of, and high school is proud of these students.

SNOOPER SNOOPIN'

Kenneth McMullen, we hear you don't have such a hard time getting your "fair lady" but it's keeping her that involves all of the psychology that you possess.
 Kenneth Dyer, you'd better watch where your footsteps are leading you—some day you are going to break your neck and someone else's too, just trying to get to Joyce's locker between periods.
 So activity period is a swell time to pitch woo in—ah, Johnny W.!

Who is this mysterious "Tiny" that has been writing mushy notes to Dale Burch?
 Jewel Allen, Snooper has been trying to get the low-down on just who your boy friend is.

Maxine Goodman, why is it the boys won't ever tell their names when they telephone you?
 Well, it does seem as though the Back-Corts romance has definitely gone on the rocks—not even publicity can help that affair.

Bobbie Crisp, why don't you invite Carl up to dinner some evening instead of going to the cafe—or was that just Friday night special?
 Leo McDonald, are you too bashful to ask for a date—or is she going steady?

Snooper is slow catching on, but the news has been reported that Betty Lou McMullen likes Bunk Sargent.
 Bill Carpenter, why don't you bring the dame out in the open once in a while?

Wonder who the guy was in the '38 Chevy that Oma Lee Hardin was courtin' at noon. You would hold out on us, Oma Lee.

Loyce, why didn't you give us poor girls at home a thought when you were sporting all those soldiers around San Antonio?

Betty Jo Bailey, we hear your latest heart throb is none other than Ralph Wyatt.

Jimmie, it seems to me you are doing all right as far as the soldiers are concerned.

Madge Burrows, you and Jack Crockett don't like lilacs and the rain much, do you?

Tommye, just what could you mean wearing a pin with the name Herman engraved on it?—and we hear it is from Mobeetie. Another theatre romance?

Buddy, do you like sport roadsters? Or could it be the girl?
 Frances Hudzietz, how does Kay Kyser, night clubs and J. D. F. mix? From what we hear it must have been colossal.

Bill Hill, so you and Florene Matthews get along all right in English class?

Girls, don't you think maybe we had all better visit San Antonio if there are soldiers living in tree tops?

MONEY
in the ground

Billions of barrels of Texas oil reserves mean money in the bank for you as a Texan.

On constant deposit in underground vaults, they assure continued wages for Texas workers, lease and royalty payments for Texas farmers and ranchers, and tax revenues for our State and local governments.

Nearly 11 billion barrels of known oil reserves are on tap in 161 counties of our State. Texas oil men are now searching for new fields in 90 additional counties. They discovered last year almost three times as much oil as they produced.

These oil reserves can be cashed only through their production and processing by Texas workers.

As a means of safeguarding this backlog of economic security, you as a Texas citizen can and should expect:

(a) Sound conservation practices, (b) A reasonable taxing policy by State and local governments to permit healthy development without loss of employment through abandonment of properties, (c) Increased use of this great fuel source through creation of new Texas industries.

These oil reserves provide security for you and every other Texan

Library News

By Mrs. Lady Bryant

The public library was presented with five volumes of Readers Guide to periodical literature, which is an index to articles in magazines from June 4, 1940, to Feb. 17, 1941. For anyone who wishes to refer to any article in these magazines, it can be easily found at the library, as these articles are listed by author, title, subject, day, month, year and page.

Friends of the library have been so generous that we have complete files for last year of many of the magazines covered in the index. The library is now subscribing for the following magazines, which are also on file: Hygeia, Liberty, Woman's Home Companion, American, Readers Digest, American Girl, Popular Science, Your Life, Children's Activities, American Boy, Christian Herald, Good Housekeeping, American Home, Better Homes and Gardens, Country Gentleman, Wilson Bulletin, Life, National Geographic, Collier's, and Wee Wisdom.

Captured Officers

Under the terms of the Geneva convention of 1929, officers captured in war have their salaries paid by the power detaining them as prisoners. Each officer receives the pay made to officers of his rank in the country in which he is held captive, but it is provided that such pay shall not be greater than he received for that rank in his own country.

In other words, he cannot get an increase in pay by virtue of being a prisoner of war.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorders of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination, sometimes with disturbed kidney function. You may suffer recurring backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting-up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous all played out.

The Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

LAW MEETS SCIENCE

Scientists say—and if a scientist says it it must be so—that every part of the human body replaces itself within a seven year period. This means—and our informant is an ordained minister—that when you take the hand of your wife on your tenth anniversary it is not in any part the same hand on which you bestowed the wedding troth.
 Now, this really has some complications. If the scientists are right—and who could dispute a scientist—then any agreement or contract made seven years ago might be legally disavowed on the grounds it was some other assortment of flesh and brains that put the ink on the dotted line.
 Under this acceptance, then any appointment made for a period longer than seven years would have to be reaffirmed to make it legal. A man could take the pledge today and jump off the water wagon before 1950 without violating it a single drop. He could even discount his own installment notes on the furniture without reflecting on either his personality of the third decade or his new one of the fourth—CAPS and lower case.

UNCLE SAM PAYS

The engineering problems of building the Parkside homes were about as involved as those to be encountered in building a chicken coop. Yet this government housing project, finished in 1938 at Warren and Conner, had to be partially rebuilt six months ago because of faulty construction. This, it has just been revealed, cost $32,456.
 But it's perfectly all right! Secretary Edwards of the Detroit housing commission, assures Detroit's common council that Detroit does not have to pay for it.
 The United States housing authority has paid all the bills, so there is no criticism to be visited upon anybody.
 Certainly not! Uncle Sam pays the bills.

QUAIL BATHES IN FLOWER POT

Leave it to denizens of the wild to find a way to do things. The area surrounding Houston has had much rain over a period of several weeks and there were few dry places left in the countryside. However, that didn't deter a quail on the ranch of Bill Freeman. The bird discovered a large flower pot on the porch of the Freeman home and was observed by Mr. Freeman, outdoor editor of the Houston Post, and a state game warden, taking a dust bath on the front porch. The bird, according to Mr. Freeman, uses the flower pot regularly.

'POT LIKKER' AND VITAMINS

The best-fed mouth in America is the kitchen drain. That's where an alarming percentage of the nation's vitamins go, according to Melva Bakkie, director of Nutrition, American Red Cross.

Miss Bakkie refers to "pot likker"—the vitamin-rich water left in the kitchen utensil after cooking vegetables. When the average housewife discards "pot likker" she is throwing away the family's best source of vitamins and essential minerals.

Though its nutrition classes throughout the country, the Red Cross hopes to show America how to put "pot likker" to work. With a bit of culinary ingenuity, the housewife can use it as a base for soups, sauces, and even serve it up in mashed potatoes.

For a piece de resistance, the Red Cross recommends a "pot likker cocktail." Its base is the water left over from spinach, peas, carrots or any vegetable of high vitamin content. Here's the recipe: take one part "pot likker," three parts tomato juice, one part evaporated milk. Mix milk and "pot likker," then stir in tomato juice; beat with an egg beater and season to taste. Chill before serving.

Liquids from canned foods, also containing a high vitamin count, can be put to similar use, Miss Bakkie points out. If vegetables are cooked with soda, their color will be retained, but many of the vitamins will be destroyed, she adds.

For a balance of vitamins, housewives can mix together several different "pot likkers." If more "pot likker" is on hand than can be used at the moment, it may be kept under refrigeration in a glass jar.

Miss Bakkie warns, however, that "pot likker" has its paradox. Properly cooked vegetables should be timed on the stove so that all water has evaporated when they are sufficiently cooked. Cooking in this manner leaves the vitamins in the vegetables. But if "pot likker" is left over, put it to work, don't pour it down the drain.

THE TAX BURDEN

The billions upon billions of dollars that are being laid upon the backs of the taxpayers today are much more the concern of the young people than of older people. Those billions must be paid in future years—if they are ever paid. The young people of today will, of course, have to help pay them. This fact is finally brought home, to some extent, to some Libby young men at this time. The income tax exemption rate has been lowered to $800 for unmarried people. That means that many more young people must pay income taxes this year. It is said that a number of Libby young men are having to pay from $40 to $60 in income taxes. And that is only the beginning—News, Libby, Montana.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—Back in the calm, untroubled days of February, 1939, with one more spring not far behind, a famous economist, returning from Europe, told the ship news men that this war scare was all paper talk. Responsible statesmen of Europe had things well in hand.

On this same day, there was a little item, back in the dustbin of the newspaper, reporting that, in certain minor changes in the army, the President was putting the "accent on youth." One Brig. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, a youth of 51, was upped to the post of chief of the army's mobile general headquarters air force. Five or six other youngsters were similarly elevated.

The other day, the quietly effective General Emmons was given direction of a new organization of possibly 500,000 or 600,000 civilian air raid spotters. Four brigadier generals will assist him in recruiting and training his volunteer observers.

Back in 1916, we thought of airplanes as primarily useful for observation, and it was the signal corps, our only flying service, that the then Captain Emmons entered. He adapted himself quickly to the fighting as well as observing uses of planes, became a keen technician in the art of plane development and flying, and, in 1920 and 1921 taught flying at Harvard university. He is a native of Huntington, W. Va., and graduated from West Point in 1909.

MISS MABEL BOARDMAN, tall, regal, tireless and alert, is a born co-operator and commander. Her 40 years with the Red Cross is a timely citation, not only in the aftermath of the tragedy of London, but in her current Washington announcement that the Red Cross is geared for swift emergency action. In this connection, she mentions the fact that it sent more than $23,000,000 to Europe last year, and gives other details of its expanding and intensifying organization.

Miss Boardman is secretary of the American Red Cross. During her service, its membership has grown from 300 to 15,000,000, with much of the credit for this increase assigned to her. Born and reared in Cleveland, with abundant means and distinguished family antecedents, she was a Washington society bud. In 1900, a friend made an unauthorized use of her name as one of the incorporators of the new Red Cross.

Miss Boardman accepted the call and has helped guide and build the vast organization with unflagging energy and administrative and organizing ability. She is straight as a ramrod, serene and at ease, but with a touch of military alertness, —an ever watchful evangel against all the plagues of the litany.

LAST October, Major Edward Bowes, of radio fame, gave his Westchester estate to the Lutheran church. Then, in November, he gave his 62-ton yacht and his 29-foot speed-boat to the navy. Previously he had given to St. Patrick's cathedral four huge English elms and eight Schwedleri maples. And now he is giving to St. Patrick's an Andrea del Sarto painting, masterpiece of the Florentine painter, done in 1515. It is "The Holy Family With St. John and Ste. Elizabeth."

The major started on a grand garrison finish, along in his fifties. This writer remembers him as a genial evangel of real estate, and a crusader against crime in San Francisco, many years ago. Even in that day he had imposed on a grammar school education the smoothest diction in those parts.

It was in San Francisco, a most theatrical town, that he moved into the theater. It was in 1917 that he built the Capitol theater in New York and thereafter his career was a pleasant upward ride on a gold-plated escalator.

Off and on, he has been radio's best magnet for fan-mail and his "take" has been put down at around $25,000 a week. He started his amateur hour in 1934 and it quickly blazed into a four-eleven conflagration. He lives abstemiously, as to food and drink, but sports a $38,000 car, with venetian blinds, a refrigerator and gold-rimmed dishes, and he provides plenty of Lucullan trimmings for the entertainment of his guests. He gives things away on the slightest provocation and wouldn't possibly have come from anywhere but San Francisco.

Fire Demon Takes Heavy Toll in East

Damage estimated at about $2,000,000 was caused in the Ocean Bluffs, Mass., area as the result of a fire that destroyed a church and leveled more than 450 cottages. Only a timely shift in wind saved hundreds of other houses. The above photo shows a row of cottages burning fiercely when the fire was at its height.

U. S. Loan to China

Signing of a stabilization agreement involving the purchase of Chinese yuan by the U. S. stabilization fund to the amount of $50,000,000 was another important step in the monetary co-operation between the United States and China. Photo shows (seated) Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, and T. V. Soong, representing China. Standing: Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador.

GOOD PASTURE REQUIRES 'REST'

Planned Control Increases Profits on Livestock.

By F. V. BURCALOW
(Extension Agronomist, University of Wisconsin)

Good pastures that provide an abundance of nutritious and succulent forage throughout the grazing season also help the farmer who has them to produce livestock and dairy products at a profit.

Present pasture grasses and legumes will not remain productive under continuous close grazing during the entire season. In most areas a planned series of pastures is needed to provide an abundance of succulent forage throughout the entire grazing period.

Available permanent pasture should be used as the basis of a planned pasture program. Permanent pastures need to be improved and most of them will respond to an improvement program.

Many have been taken too much for granted and are now weed infested and unproductive. Depleted soil fertility and continuous over grazing are two important factors causing this condition. Most of these pastures are hungry for nitrogen and need to be fed. Soil and climatic conditions determine whether the nitrogen should be fed in forms of commercial nitrogen fertilizers or through the use of legumes which can make atmospheric nitrogen available for use by the grasses. For pastures in which the grasses normally used are subject to periods of drought dormancy, nitrogen is most economically provided by use of drought resistant legumes.

The old adage "Take care of the legumes and the grasses will take care of themselves" could well be used as a rule for the improvement of permanent pastures, especially those which periodically suffer from drought. A good program would consist of replenishing the soil with adequate supplies of lime, phosphate, and potash for the growth of legumes, working these minerals into the soil and preparing a seed bed so that legumes could be established.

The improved area should then be fenced so that grazing can be regulated to aid in establishing and maintaining the stand of legumes.

Protein Supplement Helps Beef Cattle Gain Finish

Sam L. Williams, assistant extension animal husbandman of N. C. State college, has an answer to the question: "Can beef be produced without a protein supplement?"

This is what he has been telling beef cattle breeders and feeders who have asked the question in recent weeks: "In my opinion it can be done, but it is neither practical nor profitable."

Then he goes on to explain that the important thing to the cattle producer is how much weight and finish he can put on his cattle and how long it will require. Efficient production is essential to greatest profit in any business, and this is especially true in the cattle business.

Some of the more common protein supplements are cottonseed meal, soybean meal, linseed meal, and corn gluten meal. All of these are about equal in feeding value.

Williams explained that the economy of feeding a protein supplement lies in the fact that such feeds are responsible for more efficient utilization of feed, larger gains, higher finish, and a greater selling price.

Insurance on Wheat Reaches New High

A record number of crop insurance contracts—420,077—has been written as protection on the 1941 wheat crop in 36 states, according to Leroy K. Smith, manager of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation.

This number exceeded by 41,917 the 378,160 contracts written on both winter and spring wheat last year. The 1941 contracts guarantee growers a total production of 110,591,202 bushels of wheat from 10,946,284 insured acres.

"This is the third successive year that the federal crop insurance program has shown consistent gains in the number of contracts guaranteeing wheat growers protection from all unavoidable hazards," the manager said.

Care for Parasites

A drug called phenothiazine will aid the farmer in ridding horses, cattle, swine and other domestic animals of internal parasites, according to Carrol E. Howell, manager of the University of California's W. K. Kellogg institute of animal husbandry.

It was found that the treatment completely eliminated stomach worms in 37 of the animals and was from 78 to 95 per cent effective in the other eight.

EVERY line and detail of this charming basic is flattering to slim figures—the sweetheart neckline, the soft bodice drapery, the tiny corset waistline and graceful skirt fullness. For this, choose silk print, flat crepe, taffeta or sheers.

THE SMOKY YEARS

By ALAN LE MAY W.N.U. Release

INSTALLMENT 8 THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches which stretched from Texas to Montana. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, undertook to break Thorpe's power.

His first step was to start a cattle war in Texas. He made this decision against the opposition of Lew Gordon and the fearful pleading of his sweetheart, Jody Gordon. The raids upon Thorpe's herds were successful at first, but resistance was soon put up which caused Roper's men to leave him, one by one. Cleve Tanner, manager of Thorpe's Texas holdings, appeared not to feel the losses inflicted upon him. Roper's resources were dwindling low, and he seemed doomed to failure.

He was surprised to hear her say that. He had no way of knowing how much she had heard, or what she had heard, about his shoot-out with Cleve Tanner.

"A notch? I hadn't thought anything about it."

All her bitter contempt of the lonely-riding men of violence came into her voice. "Isn't that what the gunmen and the cow thieves always do?"

He was motionless a long time. Then he drew the skinning knife that always swung at the back of his belt in a worn sheath. Its blade was lean and hollowed, worn almost out of existence by a thousand honings. He stood looking at the knife; he tossed it in the air, and caught it by the handle again.

"I wouldn't go cutting marks on the handle of a gun," he said at last. His voice was thick. "Nobody cares what anybody does to the handle of a gun."

Roper stepped forward, and with the keen blade cut a notch clean and deep in the left arm of Dusty's cross.

When he looked at Jody she was staring at him strangely, almost as if she were afraid.

All through the afternoon Jody Gordon had ridden the barren trails above Ogallala, on a pony that forever tried to turn home. Thaw was on the prairie again, and the South Platte was brimming with melted snow; in the air was something of the damp, clean smell which had marked another spring, in this same place. But it was now more than six months since Jody had seen Bill Roper; and she found it no help that she was forever hearing his name.

It was with reluctance that she at last rode up the rise upon which it stood, unlighted, in the dusk.

She unsaddled her own pony, booted it into the muddy corral, and threw the forty pound kak onto the saddle-pole with the easy, one-handed swing of the western rider. As she turned toward the house she was trying not to cry.

Then, as she walked through the stable, a figure rose up from the shadows beside the door and barred her way.

Jody Gordon's breath caught in her throat. She said, evenly, "Looking for someone, Bud?"

The spare-framed visitor took off his hat and held it uneasily in his two hands. "Well, I tell you, Miss Gordon—could I speak to you for just a minute? I'll tell you the fact of the matter. I'm a Bill Roper man."

Jody Gordon's heart jumped like a struck pony "Bill sent you to me?"

"I haven't seen Bill Roper. But—I've seen Ben Thorpe. Miss Gordon, tell me one thing: Is your father backing Bill Roper? I mean, is he backing this plowing into Ben Thorpe?"

"My father," Jody Gordon said, "has quit Bill Roper in every way he possibly could."

"That's what I thought," Shoshone Wilce said. "Only trouble is, people that don't know the difference, they don't none of them believe that any more."

Jody Gordon interrupted him sharply. "What's happened?"

"Miss Gordon, your father is in a terrible bad fix. I'm afraid—I'm afraid he's going to die before this thing is through."

"What do you mean?"

"Most people think Lew Gordon is backing Bill Roper—maybe you know that? Well, now there's a feller rode to Ben Thorpe from Miles City—a feller that was a foreman with Thorpe's Montana outfits under Walk Lasham. Maybe this feller had some kind of fight with Lasham—I don't know nothing about that. But this feller swears that Thorpe that Lasham is letting the Montana herds drain away to the Indians, and to the construction camps, and Ben Thorpe never seeing a penny of the money from beef or hide."

"Is Bill Roper gutting the Thorpe outfits in Montana?"

"Don't know, myself. They say he's swarming all over Montana, with a bunch of kid renegades behind him, riding like crazy men, and raiding night after night. Some say nobody knows how hard Lasham is hurt, Lasham least of any; and some say Lasham has sold out to Bill Roper, or your father—or both."

"What does Thorpe himself think?"

"Thorpe thinks your father has bought Walk Lasham. Just the same as he thought your father bought Cleve Tanner in Texas, until Bill Roper gunned Cleve down. And Thorpe is fit to be tied. A man like him—he's terrible dangerous always, Miss Gordon; but now he's ten times more dangerous than he ever was in his life."

"You mean you think Ben Thorpe will—will—"

"Miss Gordon, I know. Ben Thorpe is going to kill Lew Gordon, just as sure as—"

Bill Roper holstered his own smoking forty-four.

It blew a hole in the street as Tanner's gun stubbed into the dust.

Bill Roper holstered his own smoking forty-four. He had fired twice.

Dry Camp Pierce was at his elbow again. "Here's the horses. It's time to ride. By God, I knew you could take him, kid."

Roper was feeling deathly sick.

CHAPTER XII

It was well into the summer as Bill Roper once more rode south out of Ogallala toward the pile of stones that marked the grave of Dusty King. Jody Gordon rode with him. In the few days he had stopped over in Ogallala he had hardly seen her at all. At first she had refused to ride with him today; but at the last moment, as if on an impulse, she had changed her mind.

Roper, studying her sidelong, thought that Jody seemed to have aged several years in one. Impossible now to find any trace of the irrepressible, up-welling laughter that had been so characteristic of her a year before. Her eyes were unlighted, and a little tired-looking; her mouth was expressionless except for a faint droop at the corners, which suggested—perhaps resignation, perhaps a hidden bitterness.

She didn't have much to say; but finally she asked him, "What did my father decide?"

"He says now that I'll never have another penny out of Dusty King's share until—until he's able to dictate to me what I'm going to do with it; or, that's what it amounts to."

"Did you quarrel with my father?"

"No. He said some kind of bitter things, but I didn't say anything. I asked for certain things—five camps in Montana, mainly. Of course, that was a waste of breath."

"But you'll go on, and throw yourself against Walk Lasham in Montana?"

"Yes; I have to go on."

They were silent after that; and presently they sat, almost stirrup to stirrup, but somehow infinitely far apart, looking down at the stacked boulders from which rose the wooden cross that Bill Roper had made, nearly a year and a half ago.

For a little while he stood looking at the cross which he had made of railroad ties. He said, half aloud—"One down. Dusty . . ."

"I suppose," Jody said, "you'll be cutting a notch on the handle of your gun, now."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE HOME REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 6:4-7; Jeremiah 35:5-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Proverbs 22:6.

The responsibility of the home regarding liquor is primarily that of providing a place for children to grow up under proper principles and practice. That means that the home should be a Christian home, where both parents follow Christ in life as well as profession. Young people about to establish a new home should give themselves without reservation to Christ. Those who began their home as a Christian home, but who have drifted through carelessness or unbelief, should renew their devotion to Christ. America needs many things, but first and foremost stands its need of real Christian homes.

I. Preparing to Meet Temptation (Deut. 6:4-7).

Temptations will come, and when they do it will be too late to prepare a defense against them. We are all "defense conscious" these days. We have seen in the sad events of the last year that there must be adequate preparation in advance if we are to withstand the enemy. That is doubly true in the realm of the moral and spiritual. We must build moral fiber and appreciation of spiritual things into the lives of our boys and girls from their infancy. How? 1. By a Consistent Example (vv. 5-6). Only the father (or mother) who loves the Lord with all his being and who has permitted God's Word to enter into his heart will set the right example. It is well to know something about child psychology, about the principles of rearing children, etc., but these, without a right relationship to God, are cold and powerless. But let the parents walk before their children in earnest Christian living, let them honor God's Word in their lives and in the home, and they will lay the finest foundation for Christian character in their children.

2. By Correct Teaching (v. 7). The parent should make the teaching of God's Word to children a matter of first importance. It is to be expected that the children will be in church and Sunday school with their parents (notice the word "with"—it's not enough to send them), but that is not sufficient. Blessed and fruitful is that home life in which the Word of God is a normal and easy topic of conversation, where spiritual things are discussed intelligently and without restraint. Every home can be that kind of a home, if the parents will do what they know they should do about it.

II. Standing in the Hour of Temptation (Jer. 35:5-10).

As a protest against the heathendom, the infemperance, and corruption of the city life of his day, Jonahab instructed his house or tribe to live an itinerant life and, above all, not to touch wine.

We are not called to imitate in detail their way of living, but rather to learn from them the principles of consistent temperance.

1. Remembrance (vv. 6, 7). Jeremiah was sent to test the Rechabites (not to tempt them to fall) by offering them wine, but to them it was a real temptation. They met it promptly and without fear, because they had in their hearts and minds the teaching of their "father" Jonahab.

Blessed is the boy or girl who in the lone and trying hour of temptation is not confused by the negative or unchristian example of parents, but who at once has a vision of a God-fearing father and mother, and a remembrance of their faithful teaching of God's standards of life.

2. Obedience (vv. 8-10). Here again is a lesson which must be learned from the tender years of babyhood, but which bears glorious fruit in the days of young manhood and womanhood. The parent who does not tactfully, kindly, but withal, firmly, teach children to obey has undermined their life in advance.

The Rechabites loyally obeyed the word of their founder, and passed their hour of testing with flying colors. They had his example, they knew his teaching, and life itself had proved to them that they were in the right way.

A closing word. The liquor interest is concerned because the consumption of beer is rapidly falling off and because most of their customers are "elderly or middle-aged." They are spending tremendous sums in advertising to "get the beer drinking habit instilled in thousands, almost millions, of young men who do not at present know the taste of beer."

That is their avowed aim. Shall they be permitted to put it across? Not if Christian people will put the influence of the American home squarely where it ought to be—against the liquor traffic.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Two tablespoons chile sauce or catsup poured over top meat loaf when half-baked gives a good flavor and rather crusty covering.

A teaspoonful of vinegar added to any boiled frosting before spreading will keep it from becoming brittle or breaking when it is cut.

If sugar is added to water when making flavored ice cubes, the cubes will not freeze clear or solidly.

Before baking potatoes, let them stand in hot water for 15 minutes. Then rub with butter or lard and put in oven. They will bake in half the time and will not shrink.

To keep the inside of a gas range in good condition, remove rust that may have accumulated with coarse sandpaper, then rub over entire surface with olive oil.

Many kitchens have a bare, unused wall space that could be usefully and attractively transformed into recessed shelves.

Coarse Foods Can Result in Serious Trouble

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

AS CONSTIPATION is due in the majority of cases to a slow-acting or lazy bowel, home treatment for many years past has been the eating of coarse foods. This is good treatment because coarse foods such as whole-wheat bread, bran muffins, nut and fruit bread, oatmeal, tapioca, and bran all have much roughage. It is this roughage that slightly irritates the walls of the large intestine, causing more action.

While the above foods are excellent for the lazy bowels, they have the opposite and a harmful effect on a bowel that is constipated because of spasms. These spasms, caused by spasms or contractions of the muscles of the bowel, partly close it so that the wastes cannot pass onward out of the bowel. The individual is usually of the nervous or emotional type whose stomach and intestine are easily upset or subject to spasms (spastic). To give coarse foods in this case will cause spasms and constipation, and also diarrhea due to the great amount of irritation caused by the rough foods. This condition of a spastic bowel, with constipation alternating with diarrhea, is spoken of as a spastic colon and colitis.

Coarse Foods Aggravate.
While most of these cases are due to nervousness, or at least nervousness is the underlying cause, the condition in some cases has been greatly aggravated by coarse foods being eaten in large quantities in an endeavor to cure constipation. Some cases are kept in almost continuous spasm because, in addition to coarse foods, harsh purgatives are used. In acute cases of spastic bowel or colitis, nothing but milk or other liquids are used for a few days. In the usual or chronic case diet consists of cream, soft-boiled eggs, strained cereals, cottage cheese, butter, custards, plain cookies, white bread, orange juice, strained vegetables, cream soups, beef, lamb, chicken, and baked fish.

Remember, coarse foods are helpful when bowel is sluggish, but harmful when bowel is overactive with spasms.

QUESTION BOX
Q.—Could you suggest a remedy for nose bleed?
A.—Most cases of nose bleed are due to a small vessel being near the lining surface of the nose. Blowing nose is often sufficient to cause bleeding. Nose bleed can be due to other conditions of the body.

Q.—Where there is an exudative retina condition and a small part of the vision is lost, can it be restored?
A.—Your own physician can best answer your questions or could refer you to any eye specialist.

Q.—What is the symptom of adrenal deficiency? 2. What is the most satisfactory cure for a fingernail fungus infection?
A.—Adrenal insufficiency—Addison's disease. Great weakness of muscles, nerves, heart, pigmentation of skin, stomach and intestine disturbance, thin blood. 2. Remedies containing formaldehyde or ordinary coal oil are usually effective.

Q.—What causes my muscles to twitch?
A.—Twitching could be due to nervousness or emotional disturbances. You do not give your age.

Benefits to Our Readers

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

Kennedys Wedding Anniversary Today

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Kennedy are celebrating their 57th wedding anniversary today (Thursday). They were married on Thursday, May 8, 1884.

Mr. Kennedy admits that his wife had to remind him of the occasion this morning, but believes he would have thought of it some time during the day, had she not called his attention to it so early in the day.

MCCARTY ADVANCES TRAINING

George C. McCarty of McLean has completed almost two-thirds of his flight training, and will report shortly to one of the advanced flying schools for the final ten-week period of training.

McCarty reported at Moffet Field on Feb. 11, following completion of the ten-week primary training period at the Ryan School of Aeronautics at San Diego, Calif., one of the Air Corps' civilian elementary flying schools.

Prior to his acceptance as a flying cadet last November, McCarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McCarty, attended McLean high school, Altus (Okla.) Junior College, Amarillo Junior College and New Mexico State College at Las Cruces. Active in sports, he won letter-sweaters in basketball and football. He was captain of his high school basketball team, and is a member of Phi Beta Theta.

PRESBYTERIANS ATTEND MEET

Miss Maxine Goodman, Kenneth Goodman, Earl Humphreys, Jeff Coffey and Rev. J. W. Myrose attended the meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Young People's League of the Presbytery of Amarillo, in Amarillo Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Coffey attended the evening meeting. The Speaking Choir from Texas Tech, of which Jeff Coffey is a member, took part in the evening service. The meeting concluded with a Communion service led by Rev. Myrose.

WHISKEY ELECTION THURSDAY

An election to determine if intoxicating drinks may be legally sold in the McLean justice precinct will be held Thursday of next week. The precinct is dry at present.

The ballots will read: "For legalizing the sale of all alcoholic beverages." "Against the sale of all alcoholic beverages." Voters will mark out the one they do not want.

ALEXANDER CHILD DIES

Funeral services were held April 28 at the Goldston school auditorium for David Leon Alexander, aged 1 year and 14 days. Services were conducted by Revs. Porch and Willard. Womack Funeral Home of McLean had charge of arrangements.

The child is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Alexander, and a three-year-old sister, Jo Ann, of Goldston. He died from drinking rat poison, death occurring before medical aid could be given.

"DEAR BILL: I don't think I care to go out with you again. Most of last evening was wonderful, Bill. But the drive home spoiled everything. You behaved so nicely and acted so considerably up till the minute you got your hands on the wheel and we headed home. Then you suddenly were transformed into what seemed to me a bad-mannered and irresponsible gorilla. You yelled at people who had just as much right on the road as you. You disregarded white lines and signs put there for your safety. You scared my wits out by going at an absurd speed. That might have been considered smart once upon a time, but I assure you it's silly and childish today. Call me steady and prudish if you like. But I don't relish dying quite yet. Nor do I want to get in one of those accidents where I am not hurt. I have sense enough to realize that you and the rest of the boys wouldn't be ringing my phone if my face and body were unexpectedly rearranged by a smash up in your automobile. So I don't think I'll go out with you again, Bill. At least not until you've grown up enough to behave decently as a driver, and not until you realize that you owe a certain responsibility to the person you ask to share your car with you."

Shopping Guides

The Kroger Grocery & Baking Co., operating approximately 4,000 retail stores in the Middle West and advertising regularly in some 1,000 daily and weekly newspapers, is to be commended for its stand against shopping guides and other free distribution sheets.

Recognizing the fact that these shopping guides are a potential threat to the existence of newspapers, Kroger has adopted a policy of abstaining from advertising in shopping guides.

All other stores could well afford to follow Kroger's example. For the newspaper is a valuable community enterprise. The shopping guide is not.

The newspaper gives as well as receives. The shopping guide receives only. The little news it publishes is usually worthless trivia. It is generally published to gratify personal vanity and is likewise conducted largely on a "swap out" plan. As a rule its responsibility to the community ends when its few copies are laid on merchants' counters to clutter up floors and streets.

The newspaper, on the other hand, is a standing worthy service to the community. To render this service the newspaper is dependent upon revenue from advertising. Any reduction in advertising means a corresponding reduction in the service rendered.

The newspaper covers the trade territory. Why handicap it by diverting advertising patronage to some medium that doesn't circulate beyond the city limits?
