o your new he above life Terrific Fighting Marks Nazi Thrust Into Jugoslavia and Greek Territory; British Lose Bengasi to Axis Forces But Capture Addis Ababa in Ethiopia

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BALKAN DRIVE: Under Way

With Adolf Hitler's charge to "carry the war to Britain wherever she may be" ringing in their ears, the Nazi soldiers that make up his armies smashed across the frontiers of Jugoslavia and Greece.

Early reports of the fighting in the Balkans were vague, scattered, incomplete. Nazi claims indicated that their movements were on schedule. Greek sources at first claimed the Nazi heavily armored machine was bogging down.

One of the first objectives by the German forces was reached when armored troops and parachutists reported they had broken through to the Aegean sea in eastern Greece. This movement was said by military experts to cut off Greece from her potential ally, Turkey.

Even as the German troops moved toward the Jugoslavian and Greek borders announcement was made that Russia and Jugoslavia had signed a new "non-aggression" pact. British were hopeful that this was further indication of what appeared without a struggle. This capture to be a trend of Soviet movement away from the Hitler sphere of in- of hard fighting to smash Italians

In Jagoslavia before the fighting began there were last minutes moves to placate Berlin," and a last-minute notice from Berlin that these peace overtures "came too late." But Jugoslavia apparently was standing for something far bigger and wider than her own narrow physical confines. Jugoslavia was becoming a byword for courage and daring throughout a jittery world.

Particularly was this noticeable in shaky spots like certain South American countries which saw in the sudden reversal of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes against the government which had signed up with the Axis a sign that Nazi Germany might not have a sinecure in conquering Europe.

They saw that even in the midst of the Nazi-dominated Balkans a certain country, surrounded on four sides by enemies, could have the bravery to stand up to these enemies and to defy them, with all their superior power, to cross their rocky

Not that anyone figured the Jugo-Nazis, in fact, the Nazi position was none too good, for most of the terrain held by them was hostile, and Britain, with 10 to 15 divisions of men, well provided with armored equipment and airplanes, were dug in just south of the Bulgarian border.

the White House after calling upon President Roosevelt to thank him for his message to the boy monarch of Jugoslavia, ready to give Jugoslavia and Greece more than lip-service if, as, and when the attack should come.

What part the United States was playing could not be said, although President Roosevelt said that leaselend aid was being sent to "more than one country," which might include Britain and Greece, or Britain and Jugoslavia, or all three.

Just before the statement from the White House was made, however, the President had conferred with the Jugoslavian minister.

How well prepared Jugoslavia was seemed to be a moot point. Food was short, but so it was in all the Balkans—in all Europe, for that matter. The numbers of the army were large, estimated at from 1,200,000 to 1,500,000, but these figures the Battle of France showed might mean much

There were many who believed that the Jugoslavs, who have the advantage of having the crucial Danube river run through a portion of their country, the part of the river which is so rapid and hemmed in by n is so rapid and inclination in the same ship-mountains that a canal bears shipping at that point, might explode huge charges of TNT in the mountainsides and render river and canal unfit for shipping for many months. Already they had blown up many important bridges in the valley of Vardar, and had shown a grim determination to make a fight out of the Nazi invasion at all points.

BRITISH:

Lose Bengasi

The evacuation of Bengasi, capital and port of Libya, was admitted by the British, who reported that the withdrawal was "according to plan' and that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell was merely "picking his battle-ground" on which to meet the Nazireinforced Fascist troops.

Later dispatches seemed to indicate that the Australia-New Zealand army in Africa had halted the Nazi-Italian drive, for it was said that 'the situation was well in hand,' and the shooting down of six German planes and the damaging of two others was reported officially.

However, on the same day came war office warnings to the British public not to be surprised if there were further withdrawals, saying that it was officially doubted if the "halting" of the German-Italian ad vance was permanent.

Better news for the British however was the announcement that the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa had been taken from the Italians came as a climax to eleven weeks vessels. African empire to bits.

Previously it had been hinted in dispatches from London, passed by. the censor, quoting Soviet circles in London as saying that it was believed the coup d'etat was inspired by the Axis, and that the objective was going to be the establishment of Nazi air bases in Iraq.

This naturally was disquieting to London, as if carried out it would place Nazi airplanes in a position of dangerous proximity to the Red Sea and the Suez canal, the defense of which had been going well for Brit-

STRIKES:

Mostly CIO

The calling of a strike against the plants of "Big Steel," the United States Steel corporation, by C.I.O. unions proved that the labor situation was still acute, although the soft coal strike was settled, and the men went back to work digging the important fuel out of the ground.

Just 48 hours before the settlement was reached, four men were shot to death in Harlan, Ky., a bloody center of previous strike rioting. Just before the settlement of the bituminous coal strike, it was estimated that 530,000 men were out of work in the United States as the result of strikes, adding considerably to the number of man-days lost in the national defense.

Philip Murray, head of the C.I.O., called the strike against U. S. Steel, declaring that the companies had refused to heed a demand for a 10cent an hour wage increase. The company has 261,000 wage earners. The C.I.O. also wants a closed shop.

The Ford strike had closed the biggest single industrial plant in the nation, employing 86,000 workers. Its gates were marked by many scenes of violence as pickets battled Back of these front-line scenes were back-stage battles. The Ford counsel obtained an injunction against the strikers, and the strikers promptly subpoenaed Henry Ford, Edsel Ford and Manager Bennett to appear in court.

The next move saw Ford Attorney

AFTERMATH:

Of Seizure

The ordering back to Italy of Naval Attache Alberto Lais of the Italian legation was a sensational aftermath of the seizure in American harbors of Italian and German

The first step was the seizure of the vessels and the jailing of 875 members of the Fascist and Nazi crews. This was closely followed by the revelation in the state department that Lais would be declared "persona non grata" to the American government and that his return to Italy would be demanded.

Lais had previously described himself as more than 75 per cent American and he is married to an American woman and their handsome daughter lives with them in Washington.

But Secretary Hull's report, which gave no details, showed plainly that Lais' "25 per cent Italian" heart had prevailed on him to participate actively in the attempted sabotage of the Fascist vessels. This, the secretary said, was an unfriendly and illegal act, and for that his recall was demanded. Mr. Hull also revealed that the United States had sent a flat and uncompromising "No" to the Axis demand that the ships be returned and the crews released. Yet it was not expected anything would be done with the vessels until ne incident had had time to cool down. It was not the only serious naval reverse for Italy, the British having claimed that they had practically put Il Duce's fleet out of commission in the Mediterranean, declaring that nine vessels, including two battleships, had been sunk, besides others believed put out of action due to damages suffered in the naval

CONVOY:

Big Issue The question of whether or not

American naval forces should convoy war shipments to Britain was becoming very much of a moot question in congress, with indications that the anti-convoy vote would lose. It had been confidently predicted that American naval ships would convoy shipments to Britain "at least halfway across the Atlantic." Senator Tobey, chief opponent of this plan, even during the debate of the lease-lend bill, had a bill to ban convoys slated for consideration before the senate foreign relations commit-

But a poll of the committee showed that only 8 out of 23 committeemen would support the meas-

Yet President Roosevelt said discussion of the matter, in press conferences "was premature." It still seemed, however, likely that the Tobey resolution against convoying would not be allowed to die in committee, as many members felt that a senate vote would be the only way of settling the question once and for Chairman George of the committee had repeatedly said that he would not favor American convoying unless the nation was actively and formally in the war. Senator Pepper, an ardent advocate of aid to Britain, had taken the stand that other methods, giving of convoying ships to Britain, ought to be tried before convoying is resorted to.

The mere appearance of the ques-tion out in the open air, however, showed that a probable campaign of preparation of the public mind for onvoying was going on.

This attitude of bowing to the administration's lease-lend powers was expressed by Senator Gillette, Iowa, who said that while he did not favor convoying himself, he was un-willing to stand in the way of the President's full administration of

While the lease-lend bill states can be construed as giving the President the authority to order Amerident ifically that nothing in the bill can convoying, legal authorities in Washington said they were of the opinion that he has that power as head of the army and navy.

Tailored Silk Suits, Dresses Reflect Beau Brummel Styles

silk faille. There is a refinement and ladylikeness about these tailleurs that women love.

There is a patrician look about the suavely fitted, smartly detailed silk costumes in the illustration. You will be hearing much during the coming weeks about the Regency period fashions to which contemporary designers are turning for ideas or new inspiration. Our style creators are translating these costumes of the "dandies," who gloried in molded waistlines, peplum flared coatees, wide picturesque cuffs, fastidiously frilled waistcoats and wrist lingerie frills, into practical contemporary fashions, such as are here shown.

The black silk faille suit to the left in the picture reflects the Regency influences of the Beau Brummels of the past in its neat slender waistline, accented by a peplum silhouette, flared collar and cuffs and beruffled lingerie accents. The enormous felt hat is especially chic in that it typifies a smart, new millinery trend. These hats are particularly pretty in pastels, worn with either navy or black spring cos-The simplicity of the silk crepe dress to the right in the trio is a master stroke in costume design as interpreted this season by foremost designers. Note the new longer waistline. It is just this type of dress that invites lingerie accents. With a gown or coat dress of this sort, you can change it entirely with new accessories. Note the white frills in the sleeves.

Black wool and silk faille adapt well to the lines of the dressmaker suit centered in the group. The jacket features the new dropped shoulder yoke, with bracelet length sleeves and unpressed pleated peplum. Unpressed front pleats introduce new skirt interest. The blouse is of white mousseline de soie.

Another type of silk costume suit that is a leading fashion is the redingote ensemble. The great advantage is that the redingote can be worn either with its companion dress of faille or crepe or with print frocks. Many of the new redingotes are strictly tailored in straight slim lines. Others depart from the straight and narrow path by introducing front pleats and sometimes back yokes to give freedom across the shoulders.

Very smart, too, are black or navy silk coats, elaborately braided down the fronts. Also, a striking new note are glittering jeweled buttons, fastening the jacket of simple black or navy silks. Many flower buttons in realistic colorings are used on the new silk tailleurs.

Print-Bow Trim

大學起

The ingenious use of print with plain is outstanding fashion news for spring. Especially attractive and chic is a new print silk bow technique used in jacket and bodice fastenings, as illustrated. The black, white and golden yellow silk print is striped horizontally for the dress, with the stripes applied in bands to the black wool jacket. Unpressed pleats give subtle fullness to the skirt. This model shows that the idea of print with plain is being used with refreshing originality.

Shades of Deep Purple

Seen in Spring Fashions Purple and violet and kindred shades are color features being highlighted this spring. Many suits and cape costumes are tailored of purple or violet-toned tweeds this spring. Topped with a fetching little straw chapeau, trimmed in violet, with violet boutonniere to match, this ensemble sings fashion's spring song.

The new lavenders and purples go charmingly with navy. Lots of white frills on a navy suit, navy or violet felt hat with violet flower trim and you're ready for the sun! Lavender veils or light green ones are accessory "musts" with purple ensembles.

Bright Red Colors

Red is registering one of the biggest color triumphs of the season. Young girls "dote" on the new red coats and jackets, some of which fasten with military brass buttons.

Prints with red backgrounds are creating a sensation. Some are patterned with navy or black or beige and green motifs. You really must have a red print frock.

It's the fashion to match hat and handbag this season. Try carrying out the idea in red straw or fabric, and don't forget to add a red veil. You will like red accents with your navy suit or redingote ensemble, and red accessories will add an exotic touch to your new beige outfit.

Chinese Hats

A custom among Chinese maidens is to wear clusters of flowers at each is to wear clusters of flowers at each side of the head. It is this pretty headdress which has given inspiration for a new fashion that some predict will develop into an important vogue during the coming months. A noted American millinery designer has devised a band that curves to fit the head. This is that curves to fit the head. This is covered with ribbon, and at each side flowers or ribbon bows are at-tached. You wear this fitted bandeau like little girls used to wear round combs. This is a real help to those who prefer to go hatless.

VOICE OF FIRESTONE

AS THE TWIG IS BENT

Andrea Reynolds, popular young school teacher in the story "As the Twig Is Bent," meets Frank Harrison, school board head, unexpectedly at the Jack O' Lantern rally for crippled Tommy Fields, opponent to Harrison's son in the school elections. Harrison immediately takes up the issue of his son with Andrea Reynolds, but she shows her independent spirit by walking away from the mighty figure. These and many other interesting sequences are found in "As the Twig Is Bent." sponsored by General Foods, Monday thru Friday, 9:45 to 10:00 a. m.

EXPERT BUYERS

 In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves at many dollars a year.

O It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world; the feeling of being advantable presented. dequately prepared.

When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence, it is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows litted as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Resolved, to live with all my might while I do live. Resolved, never to lose one moment of time, to improve it in the most profitable way I possibly can. WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON dated Features-WNU Service.

NEW YORK.—If Lord Halifax has been homesick for England, he no doubt feels better after his weekend at Unionville, Chester County, Halifax Heard No has been

American Accent saved for

In Pack's Baying him, as a gesture of gracious hospitality it would seem, a tiny spot of old England as authentic as diligent effort could possibly make it. Chester county comprises the fox-hunting domain of Lord Halifax's host, W. Plunket Stewart, and so faithfully has Mr. Stewart adhered to the British tradition that Chester county is often called the Leicestershire county of America, with its hunts comparable only to the Melton, the Mowbray and the Quoin of Leicestershire-the

In 1911 Mr. Plunket-a banker when he isn't riding to hounds began searching for the perfect hunting domain. He found it in Chester county. The terrain was sufficiently broken to give the fox a break, but open enough for some slam-bang, tallyho riding, with woods, streams, stone walls and all the required hazards and lures, without too many people to get in the way. Mr. Plunket bought a large tract and thereafter, it appeared, banking was somewhat of a sideline.

same comprising all the superlatives

of fox-hunting in England.

He and his brother Redmond had bred a pack of hounds and built the famous Green Spring Valley hunt, of Glyndon, Md. Hence, knowing all the ins and outs of fox-hunting, he proceeded rapidly to recreate the Leicestershire of the Eighteenth century. Gilbert E. Mather, already established in Chester county as a fox-hunter, was moving eastward in search of new territory. Mr. Stewart bought his English foxhounds and began importing others from England, along with hunters of ancient pedigree.

There is in Mr. Stewart's hunt the most careful observance of all ancient traditions of British fox - hunting, particularly dress. The master and his staff wear searlet, with crimson collars and the every-day dress is searlet with crimson facings and scarlet velvet collar.

Mr. Stewart is a native of Maryland, related to European royalty. He was in the army remount service in the World war. Incidentally, the natives of Chester county have co-operated enthusiastically in the fox-hunting, and real estate values have risen.

as of his recent appointment. There is historic precedent for his finding a hole in the line, weaving through a broken field and planting the ball on the other side of the goal posts.

That was in the famous "crap game" session between the Army and Navy in 1900. With less than a minute to play, "Jerry" Land, as his shipmates always called him, in the backfield for the Navy, blocked a kick and made one of those Frank Merriwell zig-zags down the field, winning, 11 to 7 for the Navy, just a few seconds before the whistle blew for the finish. Such doings are pretty much in his horoscope.

In the World war he was in the navy bureau of construction and repair and got the Navy cross for building submarines and for his work in the war zone. In 1919 he turned in the most comprehensive and searching technical study of German submarines the navy ever got, along with a study of what they might do or try to do in the next war. He retired in March, 1937, but got only a month's lay-off, as President Roosevelt got him back on the job as a member of the maritime commission. When Joseph P. Kennedy retired to become ambassador to Great Britain, Land became chairman of the commission, and within two weeks the same was shaking a leg as never before.

The admiral, a small, wiry, eager man, with a touch of the mule-skinner about him when he's driving things through, lost no time in putting to work the first congressional allotment of $400,000,000 for building r merchant marine.

He is a native of Canon City lo., and a cousin of Charles Lindbergh. At Annapolis, he was tops not only in football but in several other sports, and rowed the bow ear on the academy crew. He was he successful conciliator in that ong-drawn-out Army and Navy athetics row of a few years ago.

The coffin represents the Allis-Chalmers company. It is perched on a junk wagon, and a striker, wearing a gas mask, gives a satirical address showing the connection. This was one of the lighter angles of the Allis-Chalmers strike in Milwaukee, Wis., as recorded by the News of the Day Newsreel.

Reference is made here to the healing of the lame man-a miracle which resulted in the imprisonment of Peter and John. It was a work of power, but only the first of many

An even greater work was that of the Spirit-filled preaching of the gospel which brought 3,000 souls into the church (2:41). As we marvel at that event, we need also to keep before us the recurring day-by-day miracle of the regeneration of in-dividuals (2:47). This was, and is, accomplished through the teaching of the Word (2:42).

III. True Witness Presented (4)

The rulers and leaders (especially the skeptical aristocrats of that day -the Sadducees) were angered by the proclamation of the resurrection of the One they had crucified. They also feared that their rich revenues from the temple might be cut off if the people were to follow Christ (4:4), so they took the disciples into custody and brought them before the Sanhedrin.

Humanly speaking, one might have expected these men to stand in fear and awe before that august body, and either become dumb with terror or brazenly defiant. But such is not the operation of the Holy Spirit in a man. They spoke tactfully, but boldly, of the death and resurrection of the only One in whom there is any salvation.

be held in Cleveland April 23-26. Miss IV. Faithful Though Persecuted (4:13-20)

Note the answer in verse 19 There is only one message (v. 12). " 'Neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men, wherein we must be saved'; thus Peter asserts not only that the miracle has been wrought in the name of Jesus Christ, but that he and his judges can have eternal salvation in no other name. His words are at once a rebuke, a challenge, and an invitation. They need to be reviewed and weighed today by certain benevolent but superficial talkers who are asserting that Christianity is only one among many religions, and that it is only necessary for one to be sincere in his own belief. Such teachers must reconcile their statements with those of Peter and John, who were 'filled with the Holy Spirit' when they declared that there is but one name wherein we must be saved."

Note also how fitting it was that on that Sunday morning-evidently in the upper room-the disciples were "with one accord in one place," ready for the great gift of power and grace for life and ministry which God had for them, and through them for the world. One wonders what might happen today Christian people would be in God's house on the Lord's day, in complete accord and unity, expectant, looking for His blessing.

I. The Holy Spirit Poured Out (2:1-4).

"We are not to imagine that at this Pentecost He first came into the world. In all ages He had been imparting life and guidance and strength and holiness to the people of God; but He was now to work with a new instrument, namely, the truth concerning a crucified, risen. ascended, divine Saviour. For the proclamation of this truth the Church was the appointed agent. The story of Pentecost, therefore, is the first chapter in the history of the Church as it witnesses for Christ, and it embodies the impressive lesson that in all successful witnessing the power is that of the Spirit and the instrument is the message of the

The outpouring of the Spirit on the day of Pentecost was accompanied by signs of great power, and a special enduement which enabled all the strangers in Jerusalem to hear the gospel in their own tongue. "This ability to speak in foreign languages not previously learned was merely a temporary endowment granted for a special purpose. It was one of those miraculous spiritual gifts which marked the age of the apostles. In modern times the claim to possess this power has never been established on credible evidence, nor is the dominance of the Spirit in the life of a believer to be tested by the presence of any

Without any publicized concerted effort, it begins to look as if McLean would have more beautiful yards this year than ever. Time was when no one seemed to care how his yard looked, but the work done by the Lions Club and The News in sponsoring the better yards and gardens contests a few years ago made many people conscious of the shabby appearance of their yards, and the idea has grown to such an extent that most folks would as soon leave their front rooms unswept as to have an unsightly yard.

THE STORY SO FAR: Dusty King and Lew Gordon were joint and power, but had gained his position through wholesale cattle rustling and gunowners of the vast King-Gordon range which stretched from Texas to Montana. When building up this string of ranches, they conplay. One afternoon King was killed by Thorpe and his two assistants, Cleve Tanhad to fight the unscrupulous Ben ner and Walk Lasham. King's adopted son, Thorpe. He rivaled King-Gordon in wealth Bill Roper, decided to start a cattle wa the saddle men he gathered. One way or another, picking up a man here, three more there, he got all he needed, and more. But certain other things had to be done, in order that the wild bunch would have work to do, planned in such a way that something would be accomplished that would stay accomplished. On a steamy afternoon early in July, Bill Roper sat in Fred Maxim's San Antonio law office. Maxim was an attorney who, some thought, had worked under a different name, somewhere before; but here, assuredly he was in no one's pay.

What I want to know is, can you head off some cooked-up legal interference with Graham, after he's in possession again?"

Fred Maxim thought it over. "I can only promise you that I can cause considerable delay," he said. "Months of delay?"

"All right, you hard guys," Bill Roper said; "you know who told you to come here. Dry Camp Pierce told you to come here. Maybe he told you what you could look for here, huh?"

These four gunfighters who met Roper here were none of them older than Bill; yet each was famous as a killer in his own right. Of them all Bill Roper alone had no name, no reputation. Yet, in respect for the name of Dusty King, they had come

They even took over his house and his windmill and his corrals. Now, I aim to hand back that range to Bob Graham; he's waiting in Bigspring for the word. Your part of the job is simple enough—you just go and take it away from the Tanner bunch."

"Simple, huh? Just how do you figure this simple trick is to be done?

"A lawyer in San Antonio kept the Rangers off when Tanner jumped Graham. Now we've got another better lawyer in San Antonio to keep them off when Graham jumps Tanner. The only question is, who's got enough salt to grab that range-and then hang onto it?"

"And what do we get out of all this?' "Graham takes over the outfit and runs it. You hang around and help him, and see that he doesn't get run off again. For that you get a half interest in the outfit. You split it among you any way you see fit. I'll baok Graham with cattle, and what other stuff he needs."

Nate Liggett said, "Bill, I don't see where we come in for no advantage.'

"If you're satisfied with the lone wolf stuff you've been pulling, I haven't got anything to offer you, Roper admitted. "But I'll tell you this-the boys that string with me now will see the day when they'll run Texas; and Cleve Tanner, and Ben Thorpe, too, will be busted up and forgot!"

"It's a hefty order!" "Maybe it is. This Graham business is a kind of experiment; it'll work if you make it work. But if it goes through okay-it's only the beginning, you hear me? You string with me a little while; and maybe,

Hot, dry days of early August-As the first sun struck with a red heat across the plains, the Tanner were already saddling. All over Texas, cowmen were throwing together the last trail herds of the year; it was time for these Tanner men to roll their chuck wagons again, to round up the last of the trail-fit stock that remained in the herds which had belonged to Bob Graham.

Out from what had been the Graham corral, three riders swept through the dusty dawn; but they had hardly left the pole fences behind when six other riders confronted them, rising into their saddles like Comanches, out of the brush. The strangers closed in a semi-circle, unhurriedly, their carbines in their hands. In another minute or two the three Tanner riders were grouped in a defensive knot, while from the semi-circle of the raiders Nate Liggett jogged forward to talk it over.

"I don't think you want to go on," he said. "I don't even think you want to work for this outfit any

With the approach of dusk, a peculiar light lay upon the valley of the Potreros. In a reach of open grass a herd of five hundred head bunched loosely-tame, heavy cattle, already well removed by breeding from the old, wild, long-horn strain. But they had not bunched sion-I'll keep you clear until hell voluntarily. They shuffled restlessly, watching the brush! something was happening around them that they did not understand.

As the light failed, the figures of horsemen emerged from the brush, cutting mile-long shadows into the flat rays of sunset; the huge, heavyshouldered man who signaled to his spread-out cowboys by turning his horse this way or that, in Indian horse language, was Dave Shannon.

They did not harass the cattle. Only, between sunset and the next daylight, no cow took a step other than in the direction of the Mexican border . .

Dry-grass season; Texas scorched by the hot winds-

All across the southern ranges a peculiar thing was happening. As word spread from twenty points of disturbance, certain of the older cattlemen began to sense that there was a curious, almost systematic order to what in itself seemed a widespread disruption. All over the Big Bend country, eastward almost to the well settled Nueces, westward beyond the barren Pecos, northward to the fever line, was breaking a spotty wave of raids of an unparalleled boldness. Far apart, but almost simultaneously, hell had busted loose in a great number of places, covering more than half of Everyone reading The McLean News has either paid 5c for it or subscribed for it in cash, at the advertised rate of $2.00 a year in Texas, and $2.50 outside the state.

There are no Free McLean News.

We could easily increase our circulation another thousand or two by just putting names on our subscription list, by one method or another. That would please a few of our advertisers, perhaps, but not the majority of discriminating business men.

For it is a recognized fact that The News has quality circulation. It is read by people who are able to buy the articles advertised in it. Anyone who cares enough about a weekly paper to lay down the advertised subscription price to have it sent to him, is not only going to read it —he or she is likely to have money with which to buy the things advertised in it.

We have not increased the price of The News-rather, we have increased its quality, and are pleased to note a satisfactory response. We have kept our old friends and added many new ones during the past few months. We do not add 100 subscribers in a week, but we have added as many as 10 in one week and they all paid in advance. They will read the paper from cover to cover. Some of them will keep it all week, while others will pass it on to a neighbor.

This will interest our advertisers.

Women, records show, are by far the largest buyers of merchandise of all kinds, especially things for the home -food, clothing, furniture, and scores of other items. They always find things of interest in The News, both in the news and advertising columns.
