DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. Can my children buy Defense Savings Stamps?

A. Yes. Hundreds of thousands of American children are buying stamps regularly as their share in the national savings program.

Q. Why should children be encouraged to buy savings stamps?

A. Because by buying stamps they write their names on a Roll of Honor of Americans who are doing their part to show the dictators that united America will never flinch to preserve her sacred liberty.

Q. After my child has collected enough stamps to exchange for a bond, can the bond be registered in the child's name?

A. Yes. A minor may own a defense savings bond. Many parents are registering bonds in their children's names to prepare for future educational needs.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Steel Placed Under Defense Priority; Government Moves to Check Inflation With Installment-Buying Regulations; Tension Grows in Far East Situation

EDITOR'S NOTE—These analyses are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Reprinted by Western Newspaper Union.)

Wm. S. Knudsen (2nd from right) OPM director, finds himself in a sea of motors during his inspection of the Curtiss-Wright aircraft plant at Paterson, N. J. The OPM chief on the same day also visited the company's Caldwell, N. J., propeller plant where 300 machinists went out on strike on the day of his inspection.

STETTINIUS: Issuing Orders

The priorities director of the Office of Production Management, E. R. Stettinius Jr., moving rapidly to get the economic condition of the nation geared into the defense production machine, announced that steel would be placed under full priority for defense.

Stettinius announced that there is a growing shortage in certain types of steel products, and said that orders covered not only steel but also certain alloys.

Stettinius said that the steel companies, in operating at capacity and in growing backlogs of orders, are being asked to accept all defense orders in the future even if this means the shelving and deferring of non-defense orders.

Stettinius said that preference given defense orders applies not only to the army, navy, and also to British orders under the lend-lease program. This is into effect September 1, and any order for steel will be accompanied by a specimen which will set forth what the steel is to be used for.

Stettinius said that the priorities control over steel will be a little higher as far as governmental economic action is concerned. Already in August an order had been placed on the list of the recent order concerning the manufacture of silk hosiery, and the entire national output of silk at government and defense disposal sent women chasing pell-mell to department store counters.

Also the Stettinius office was ordering other goods out of production to conserve materials. How far-reaching this was could be noticed in the order outlawing "white-wall" automobile tires.

Stettinius' order stated that 8,000 tons of rubber per year could be saved in this way, and that quantities of zinc, in the form of zinc oxide, also went into the manufacture of these tires.

JAPAN: 'Crisis'

Increasingly "tough" measures against Japan by the British-American front were predicted by London as the crisis grew more acute in the Indo-Chinese area; with the Dutch East Indies, Malaya and the Philippines regarded as equally menaced.

The Japanese demand on Portugal for an air base at Delhi, toward the Portuguese half of the little-known Dutch-Portuguese island of Timor in the Malay archipelago, was the latest move of the Nipponese to raise tension in the South Pacific.

London stated that the granting of such a base would enable the Japanese planes to fly right over the center of the Dutch East Indies, and to throw a loop of military airplanes around the Philippines.

It did not make the tension any easier when it was learned that Nazi Germany was putting pressure on the Portuguese government asking air and submarine bases on Lisbon's colonial territories in return for a Nazi guarantee of Portuguese territorial integrity.

A German base in the Azores, London pointed out, would largely nullify the American aid to Britain on the Atlantic. Also a base on Portuguese territory in West Africa would do the British no good in the Mediterranean battle.

At the same time an article by Chen Chieh, former Chinese ambassador to Berlin, expressed the conviction that stiffer economic pressure on Japan by Britain and the United States might checkmate any of Nippon's demands.

Chieh said that the entire Japanese southern Pacific campaign was the result of prodding by Germany, who had underestimated the courage of the United States, and while realizing the strength of the Chinese army, thought a bluff would close the Burma road.

BUYING: Curbing Installments

In an action designed to put a check on inflationary trends in the nation's defense boom, an executive order was issued by President Roosevelt which called on the Federal Reserve system's governors to regulate installment buying.

This order gave the Federal Reserve virtually complete control over consumer credits in the country and will become effective in about a month.

It was indicated by Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve board chairman, that the first steps in the regulation would not be to prohibit installment buying, but merely to control it. This meant that the board might put through an order regulating the size of the down payment to be made and the length of time allowed the consumer for repayment of the credit.

Eccles also said that initial regulation would be issued promptly "following consultation with representatives of the trade and financial institutions affected."

DRAFT: Extension Fight

The passage by the senate of a bill providing for an 18-month extension of the terms of service of all men in the army and navy did not end the battle by any means, nor did it have the effect of quieting opposition in the house.

First intimation that this was so came from administration circles themselves, with the apparently authorized statement that any extension at all from the house would be acceptable.

When the bill went into the senate, the first goal of the administration leaders was for an unlimited extension. The opposition bloc countered with the Taft bill, calling for six months; later a vote was taken on a year, and the 18-month provision was finally passed, by a fairly strong, though lessened majority.

It was considered significant that on the eve of the first test of strength, house administration leaders were admitting that a "down the line" fight for the senate 18-month extension might risk a complete defeat for the bill.

BATTLE: Of Propaganda

The rival claims of Russians and Germans to successes on the east front continued to feature the war news to the despair of the reader and observer, and the beclouding of any clear understanding of the action.

Official London, usually ignoring such matters, warned the public to "take the German claims with reserve," but to realize that a serious and dangerous threat to the Black sea port of Odessa was shaping up.

That was one direction in which the Germans were claiming relatively little. They did claim the capture of an army general in the south, and thousands of prisoners, but most of the claims were in the territory closer to Kiev, Smolensk, and Leningrad.

Stories came out of Berlin with an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with conditions, however, one dispatch stating that the Russians, despite huge losses, were still hurling "millions" of fresh troops into the fray with no count of the cost.

BERLIN: Under 2 Fires

The German capital, since the Russian war started, has been placed under two bomb fires, in fact, in recent attacks, people could not tell whether the bombing planes were coming from the east or the west.

Britain, relieved of much of the necessity of protecting her own cities, was hammering away day after day, night after night, when suddenly came reports from Berlin of bombings of the city and territory by Red planes.

Envoy's Wife

LONDON, ENGLAND.—Mrs. John G. Winant, wife of the U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, is shown speaking as she officiated at the opening of the new Y. W. C. A. New England club in London. Seated beside her is Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the British premier.

DAKAR: Reported Nazi Move

A relatively strong Nazi expeditionary force, it was learned in Washington, has entered Spanish Morocco by going through Spain and across the straits of Gibraltar, and is poised for an entry into Dakar.

This news was coupled by a Birmingham dispatch which declared that France is believed to have concluded a full war alliance with Germany, calling for industrial, colonial and, eventually, the sending of men to bolster the Nazi attack upon Russia.

The Dakar report, impossible of verification, placed the German force as fairly large, including 1,000 mechanized units including tanks, and counting at least two panzer divisions.

They were poised, Washington heard, for simultaneous thrusts at Dakar and at French Morocco. The French commander in this territory is Maxime Weygand.

This, according to Washington sources, will be Germany's answer to the American occupation of Iceland, and will render this nation's position on the war more ticklish than ever, because of the occupation of Dakar would be regarded as a direct blow at this country's security.

STRIKES: Break Out Again

With the mounting cost of living, particularly soaring food prices, once more labor trouble began rearing its head, particularly in defense industries.

Twenty-two thousand shipyard workers at Kearny, N. J., went out on strike, and boldly demanded that the United States government take over the yard. There was a smaller strike at a nearby shipyard in Brooklyn.

At Caldwell, N. J., a vital airplane propeller plant was crippled by a strike. In many instances, workers receiving about 72 cents per hour were asking for a raise to $1; other groups were asking a 30-cent-an-hour increase, while one or two of the disputes had a jurisdictional phase.

Oddest strike was that in the propeller plant, where the workers put on their demonstration on the very day when OPM Director Knudsen was due for a visit to watch airplane propellers being rushed into production.

The company finally joined the workers in asking U. S. assistance to end the walkout.

Meanwhile, similar troubles were reported at the Philadelphia Navy yard, where some of the navy's biggest fighting ships are built. This was not a walkout of shipyard employees, but a carpenters' dispute which, according to navy officials, was seriously curtailing the defense effort.

SINKINGS: Totals

A review of 161 weeks of world war on the high seas revealed that 1,813 vessels have been sent to the bottom, and 14,859 persons have lost their lives at sea.

First vessel to go to the bottom was the Athenia, 13,500 tons, the very day that Britain declared war on Germany. Since that day, the record shows, 6,829,000 tons of shipping have gone to "Davy Jones'" locker.

This includes both sinkings and scuttlings of all merchant and naval shipping. It represents an average of two ships and 21 lives lost each day.

The list also includes 9,217 persons reported missing, about 13 a day, most of whom must be regarded as dead.

Britain has lost almost half of the total ships, 816. Scores of nations have lost ships, many of them non-combatants, such as the United States, Egypt, Sweden, Portugal, Denmark and others.

Fall Social Calendar Demands Smart Clothes for the Matron

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE time is not too far away now when you daughters of the household will engage in the exciting experience of getting off to school in the fall, with a wardrobe tuned to your exact needs and whims. Only please remember you are not the only heroines holding the spotlight in fashion realms. You have rivals, yes indeed!

We are not telling who but here is a tip. Keep an eye on modern mothers, matrons and women in general, who are so importantly carrying on in club work and in social activities that tend to "keep the home fires burning" while college-faring daughters are away from home.

Fashion is catering to the costume needs of women with whom "life begins at forty." With unbounded zest and enthusiasm inspired by an ever-increasing appreciation of the tremendous influence smart clothes have, they are achieving new chic and poise. It's no secret or myth or fairy tale that women who "go places" and "do things" in this busy world of ours have gone utterly modern in matter of dressing glamorously. So look to your laurels Miss Teen-age, Miss Debutante and Miss College girl, you will have to step lively to keep up with queen-mother's fashion pace!

One of the fashion gestures that will serve mothers and matrons well who happen to be limited to a restricted budget, is to select a simple basic dress, smart in lines, made of good material and styled with the thought of complementing this one gown with flattering interchangeable accessories. These have a magic way of glorifying their appearance. Chic jewelry, feminizing and lovely lingerie neckwear touches, can do wonders in transforming the entire aspect of your costume. And don't forget flowers! Be sure to wear flowers for that refreshing accent of youthful charm that is always so endearing.

To the right in the illustration

"somebody's mother" presents a lovely "picture" as she graciously presides at the initial autumn meeting of her favorite club. She is clad in the simplest sort of a gown made of fine sheer black wool to which frilly white lingerie accent lends charm. In the lovely quaint Victorian bouquet of carnations, violets and stephanotis which she carries so carelessly in her lovely hands, one immediately senses the gallantry of friend husband or a devoted son who, perhaps being out of town, wired to the nearest florist for the prettiest bouquet fancy might picture. Just as an afterthought this dainty bouquet may be a tribute of admiration to their leader from various club members.

The lady seated goes in for ultra modern fashion as you can readily see in her swank gown of handsome black wool ribbed crepe. This together with her chic English sailor so piquantly veiled, goes to show how very smartly one can dress in all-black. Notice the low-cut V-neckline, a stylizing detail that was popular this summer and will continue good form right through the fall. The patriotic corsage she is wearing is of blue cornflowers, fragrant red roses and white carnation petals.

Glittering satin is scheduled for a big play this fall. A satin dress is a good "buy" for it not only gives marvelous wear, but it has that air of dressiness that tunes in with social environs. The lady in the top oval has on a satin frock which is intriguingly shirred about bodice and sleeves. She wears a tiara of salmon pink gladioli. Evidently the lady in the oval below to the right has a yen for pastel colorings. Her eyelet-embroidered dress in soft blue crepe is really lovely. She adds to the glamour by dramatizing her well-groomed hair with a cluster of rosebuds and hyacinths.

Jeweled Bow Knots

There is going to be a big play made on unique buttons and jewel fastenings of every description this fall and winter. Note the tailored jacket of chalk white crepe shown here. Its sleeves, yoke and front panel are cut in one, a characteristic feature of the newer fashions. The five crystal and enamel bow-knot fastenings herald intriguing gadgets to be used like buttons.

Rich Browns for New Autumn Wear

There is considerable emphasis on handsome browns for fall. The dresses in initial showings are mostly of rayon crepes and jerseys. These are simply styled so far as "lines" are concerned but have interesting surface treatment in stitching, self-fabric appliques and quilted decoration.

The dressier afternoon models often combine fabric with lace dyed to match or with velvet or satin.

In keeping with the trend to browns, touches of embroidery appear in bronze sequins and metal threads, also favor is expressed for smart little mink hats with matching neckpieces.

Fringes Take On New Importance in Style

Fringed dinner gowns appear in scores of individual treatments. Afternoon dresses too take on accents of fringe. The originality and versatility expressed in trimming with fringe is most interesting.

There is every sort of arrangement from narrow fringe placed row and row in tiers covering the entire skirt to long swinging panels of fringe extending in one continuous line from waist to hem. Fringe also is worked in interlaced manner to give the new drop-shoulder line and to form pockets and girle effects with long streaming ends to add grace.

WARDEN SAVES FISH

A fairly big bass may still be alive today and growing to a size where it will give some fisherman a lot of sport because a game warden came along just after a huge water moccasin caught the fish and started swallowing it.

Working a stream near Temple, the warden came upon a huge snake well up on a bank. The snake had evidently worked itself up on the bank after catching the fish. The warden, unable to reach the snake because of overhanging branches, shot the reptile twice before it released the fish. The fishy one worked its way back to the water and swam off.

"That was the only time I ever needed my gun in all the years I have been with the Game Department," the warden said in reporting the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sullivan of Clovis, N. M., visited the former's mother, Mrs. G. W. Sullivan, the first of the week.

"KEEP IT OUT OF THE PAPER"

Kansas newspapers are planning on a "Keep It Out of the Paper" Week. In most newspaper offices every week is "Keep It Out of the Paper" Week, for scarcely a week goes by that someone doesn't rush in to say, "I got in a jam, of course, it wasn't my fault, but please don't put it in the paper." To which the editor might soften up and say, "Well, OK, we won't use it."

The next week the advertising man would probably call on the one who pleaded the item concerning him be kept out of the paper and be told, "Nope, I don't want an ad. Nobody reads your paper anyway, so what good would an ad do?" Oh, the life of a newspaper man is great.—Salina (Kan.) Sun.

Watch Your Kidneys

Help Them Cleanse the Body of Harmful Waste
 Your kidneys are constantly cleansing your blood from the most serious waste matter from the blood stream. Kidneys sometimes lag in their work and not as Nature intended. This move impurities thru, if possible, poison the system and upset the body machinery.
 Symptoms may be nagging headache, permanent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, pain under the eyes, a feeling of general anxiety and loss of pep and energy. Other signs of kidney trouble are backache, frequent urination, and uric acid in the urine.
 There should be no doubt that the treatment is what the kidneys need. Dr. J. C. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have been used by thousands of men and women who are recommended by their own countrymen. Ask your physician.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—United States army men feared, when Maj. Gen. Allen W. Gullion was passed by in favor of Lieut. Col. Lewis B. Hersey as administrator of the selective service act, that President Roosevelt in all likelihood had him in mind for some important civilian duty.

Not that such a compliment would not have been appreciated by General Gullion's fellow soldiers. It was merely that his legal services as judge advocate-general, to which office he was appointed in 1937, were so valuable as to cause wonder as to just what officer could in precise degree fill the place of a man who, in addition to the Distinguished Service medal—for administrative brilliancy as chief of the mobilization division in the provost marshal's office in the first World war—holds a bachelor of law degree as a graduate of the University of Kentucky law school.

But the army keeps him, after all, by virtue of his appointment as head of the re-created office of provost marshal-general with duties including the training and command of military police, supervision of internment camps for aliens and related activities. It will perhaps be recalled that this office was held in 1917-18 by Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder.

General Gullion, now 61 years old, having been born in Carrollton, Ky., in 1880, was graduated from Centre college in 1901 and from West Point in 1905. While on duty as professor of military science and tactics at the University of Kentucky in 1914 he took the law course, being graduated with an LL.B.

During 1929 he was the war department representative at an international conference of 47 nations at Geneva to formulate a code for the handling of prisoners of war and to revise the Geneva convention of 1906. A graduate of the school of command and general staff at Fort Leavenworth, his experience as a student of arms was broadened by a course of study at the naval college, Newport, R. I., from which he was graduated in 1932, having the previous year completed his courses in the army war college.

BUSY at the moment fixing up headquarters in Philadelphia, John B. Kelly, new federal director of health training for the men and women of the nation, retires as chairman of the Democratic city committee, a post he has held for eight years, in order that politics, or any suspicion of the same, shall be divorced from his duties. Kelly places physique above politics at all times and he rejoices as heartily at sight of a physically puissant Republican as a Herculean Democrat and always has.

Since the Civil war the tortuous waters of the Schuylkill river have been dotted on pleasant afternoons of the spring and summer with the fragile shells of single sculls oarsmen. The stream is the national home of sculling and many a champion has been sent forth from those placid waters. Kelly—Handsome Jack, as he was, and is, fondly known—was one of these scullers. He took to the water as soon as he could handle a pair of oars and his fame was established in 1920 when he won the Olympic championship in sculls, a feat he repeated in 1924.

Always an enthusiast for a sound body—he is willing to let the sane and develop as an inevitable corollary—Kelly has been preaching the virtues of trained physique with all the ardor of an evangelist in the years since his retirement from competitive rowing. A successful contractor, his political life has been characterized by wide experience and rugged battling in the republican party of which he was a member, as well as in his party affiliation, the Democratic Party.

DR. JOHN L. WHITEHURST, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, protests against the exclusion of women in national home defense program, and is also inveighing against the aeronautics board for its action in closing civilian pilot training camps to women. She will ask the General Federation to take action in both matters. The wife of a Baltimore business man, she has been active in women's club affairs for 25 years.

Strike Stops Warship Building

While work on some $373,000,000 worth of warships and merchantmen remained at a standstill, these members of the C.I.O. industrial union of America picketed outside the yards of the Federal Shipbuilding & Dry Dock company at Kearney, N. J. The strike was called over the failure of the company and the union to agree in a dispute over the classification of some 1,500 workers.

Prices Going Up

Leon Henderson, chief of Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, told congress that there soon will be a tremendous increase in the cost of living. He appeared before the house banking and currency committee to urge passage of the price-fixing bill. Photo shows Henderson pointing to 16-foot chart showing changes in commodity prices of present war period.

NEW EFFECTIVE HAY FEVER RELIEF

Hay fever, which annually causes more sneezes, more inflamed noses and more red, streaming eyes than any other scourge, may have its final big fling this September, all because a Pennsylvania electrical engineer was served a dish of corn meal mush, which was entirely too salty.

The engineer, sneezing, and with all other hay fever manifestations, stopped at a hotel where he was considered sending back as it was much too salty. Finally he ate it, however; the hay fever attack lessened, ultimately ceased. Next day he had three meals, all over-salted, and experienced his most comfortable time in years in the "hay fever season."

His analytical mind quickly grasped the possibility that the saline substance in his food was responsible for his relief.

About this time, Dr. E. E. Selleck, a graduate of Columbia University, met the engineer, made notes, and when he returned to his home, began experiments. Today Dr. Selleck declares he has found a certain means of relief for hay fever and is supported in his contention by other medical experts, and a nationally known chemical manufacturing concern, the Hollings-Smith Company, at Orangeburg, New York, has taken over making the remedy, which is called Naskamo Bell.

Describing the experiments, Dr. Selleck said, "After I was sure I had found a means of quickly relieving hay fever through the chloride group, I tested it in the most practical way I knew. I held a three day clinic, to which many hay fever sufferers responded, from ages ranging from 10 to 60 years. Each person was given two tablets with a little water. Some relief came to all within ten minutes. Reports on these cases during the ensuing weeks showed practically a complete cessation of symptoms."—Adv.

Our Heaviest Wood

According to the U. S. department of agriculture, the heaviest green wood is red oak, which weighs 64 pounds per cubic foot. The heaviest air-dried wood is hickory. (Air-dried implies a moisture content of 12 per cent, the condition reached without artificial drying.) Air-dried red oak weighs only 44 pounds.

Hickory, which when green, weighs 63 pounds per cubic foot, weighs 51 pounds per cubic foot air-dried, or 4,250 pounds per 1,000 board feet.

Maneuvers in Poison Gas

In the first demonstration of its kind, the second armored division at Fort Benning, Ga., shows how it plans to minimize effects of poison gas. Armored vehicles were gas bombed, then "minute men" sprang into action and established a decontamination unit. Real gas was not used. Top: plane drops "gas" bombs. Below: a decontamination squad removes traces of gas from a tank.

Motorists driving smoky vehicles are warned to make necessary adjustments immediately. Those ignoring the warnings are subject to arrest under a nuisance statute.

is strange that the spend- of vast sums by national and local bodies finds so objectors. Everyone seems forget that all these sums must be met by increased taxation, which means higher prices for every necessity of life. The man who grabs for some government gratuity today will have to pay for it tomorrow, or if he fails to live that long, he leaves the bill for his children.

Some towns are just beginning to wake up to the fact that filling station attendants, soda jerkers and cafe waitresses are more responsible for the tourist's opinion of the town than anyone else. Many times an indifferent attendant, sloppy jerk and sourpuss waitress make such an unfavorable impression that the tourist never stops again, and if the impression is deep enough, he keeps his friends from stopping. On the other hand, when a favorable impression is gained from friendly, courteous people, he is glad to return, and recommends the town to his friends.

A town either needs a newspaper, or it doesn't need one. The paper must of necessity stand upon its merits the same as any other business, but the nature of its business differs from most others, in that all other businesses are affected by the quality of the home paper. The only way the paper can properly represent the town is to be a success financially, and other businesses can assist in this by using the services of the newspaper, which gives them a double dividend—first in increased business for themselves and second, increased growth of the community fostered by a successful newspaper. Few towns ever grow much beyond the support given their newspaper.

Ginnings BY COTTON JOE

Sarah writes she's havin' cotton-covered wallboard put in her new house. Says it's cheaper in the long run, an' downright pretty too. Looks like these farm gals just ain't satisfied in the city 'til they get themselves surrounded with cotton.

MEDDLIN' PREACHER

Aunt Becky was punctuating the negro preacher's sermon with "Amen! Amen! . . . Praise de Lawd!" . . . as he lit into every sort of sin from murder to shooting craps. Then the parson moved on against snuff-dipping and Aunt Becky exclaimed to her neighbor, indignantly, "Dar, now! Dat man done stopped preachin' an' gone to meddlin'!"

OTHER WAY AROUND

The marriage of Mr. Percival C. Proudpants, son of Mr. and Mrs. Twiddingham Proudpants, and Miss Flansy Garglethrope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Garglethrope, was solemnized at 8 p. m., Friday, at the First Union Tabernacle in Bugtussie, Arkansas.

The Reverend Orson Purpleeye read the service before an improvised altar of palms, pumpkin vines and gladiolus with burning ivory tapers. Mr. Eggbert L. Proudpants, brother of the groom, lighted the tapers and otherwise made himself useful. He was attired in beautiful black full dress evening costume—complete with studs.

A delightful musical background was provided for the impressive ceremony by the Tabernacle choir. The musical selections were: The Road to Mandalay, Song of the Marching Men and Yesterday's Kisses. The traditional wedding music from the Funeral Dirge was tearfully rendered by the organist as the groom and his triumphant bride covered the distance to the altar in practically nothing flat.

The groom, who was formerly forsaken in marriage by his father, was dressed in tails (black, of course) and wore a very attractive and highly glistening white shirt, complete with pleats. His studs were of brilliant midnight blue, contrasting smartly with his very masculine cut waistcoat. His tie was of the ready-tied variety and performed beautifully. His patent leather shoes beamed brightly to complete the most attractive wedding ensemble seen in these parts in years. In one pocket he carried a golden circlet that was later used as the rivet in the bonds of matrimony.

Twiddingham Proudpants, father of the groom, was attired in black full dress and white tie. He wore gardenias. Jason Garglethrope was likewise attired in black cloth to lend pleasing contrast to his white shirt. The bride was attired in a white dress. May we join with their hundreds of friends in wishing them a pleasant voyage on the troubled sea of matrimony.—Wichita (Kan.) Sun

Not a Single Acquittal Reported During July

There was not a single acquittal in a criminal case reported to the Liquor Board from its 17 enforcement districts in July.

Inspectors reported filing 416 complaints and obtaining 231 convictions in which $22,149.55 in fines was assessed. There were also 39 jail sentences.

During July inspectors also seized and destroyed 32 illicit stills, along with 3,005 gallons of mash and 66 1/2 gallons of contraband liquor. There were 37 arrests and five vehicles seized.

Destruction of the stills, which had a total cubic capacity of 1,725 gallons, prevented the potential evasion of $36,800 in state taxes, based on the new rate of $1.28 per gallon.

Inspectors captured an accused moonshiner in Jasper county who said it was his first arrest in more than 20 years of moonshining. He was caught when his horse failed, for the first time, to whinney a warning at the approach of the officers.

Liquor revenues totaled $734,111.20 in July, an increase of $266,030.81 over the $468,080.36 collected for the same period last year.

Per capita consumption of all alcoholic beverages was up in July. Distilled spirits consumption was 0.50 gallons as compared with 0.40 a year ago; wine was .036 as against .030, and beer was .916 as compared with .729.

Hearings on complaints against permits and licenses numbered 277 in July, with 34 convictions for cause and 43 suspensions. There were also 163 voluntary cancellations.

Seven permits and licenses were refused, 28 complaints were dismissed and two were reinstated.—Texas Liquor Control Board Review.

HITLER, THE DEMON

Hitler is a demon, a brute, a devil in human form. The English language is inadequate, there are no words that can properly describe our opinion of this tyrannical dictator. He undoubtedly has world domination in mind and he has made a very substantial start toward achieving that ambition.

But what has he done to this country? He is sending us on a wild rampage in our preparation for war. And billions of treasures are lavishly expended in this terrific rush to make amends for our shameful neglect throughout the years.

Though we may not be able to emphatically express our opinion of Hitlerism, we could not fittingly value the revolutionary changes that it has brought to this country. We have been awakened from a long sleep. We have been so occupied with fights among ourselves that we have ignored our foreign enemies.

At last we have been made to realize the necessity for national self protection, but the value of strong, broad shouldered healthy manhood and womanhood in this emergency is not yet fully recognized. In attaining our present objective, some of the devitalizing evils which have been sapping the vitality of the race for generations are now being exposed.

The white flour curse, the fake staff of life that has weakened the race, starved bones and teeth, given children rickets and dwarfed their growth, is now out in the open with all its skeletonized defects.

If the actual truth were known, millions of graves, cutting off life prematurely, could attest to the gravity of these deadly mistakes through many generations.

A few years ago the discovery of vitamins brought damning charges against many of the processes for preserving foods. Flavor and vitamins were destroyed, salt, pepper and other condiments were used to replace them.

The government is now active in correcting these deadly errors. But there was no special need for the knowledge of vitamins to indicate the deficiencies of many of our staple foods. The study of nature and practical experience brought out their defects with amazing clearness.

As a health crusader for more than half a century, I have pointed out the defects in many food products which were devitalizing the race. And I was called a crank and a food faddist for my efforts. But the facts brought out by vitamin experiments proved conclusively the accuracy of many of my deductions.

But Hitler's bombing of women and children makes us realize that we are not immune from attack. We must protect our country from invasion. Preparatory measures that every intelligent American has advocated for years, is now going forward with almost fanatical zeal. He has awakened us to the necessity of giving official attention to the growth and development of our young manhood and womanhood, but official attention to this special need lags most shamefully.

From this time forward we should place the needs of the nation above our individual financial interests. Powerful financial leaders have restrained and restricted government officials in the efforts that should have been made years ago for a protection of the health of the public, and our health officials are to blame to an equal degree.

Hitler has not only taught us the value of the mechanized units of war but he will ultimately make us realize the necessity of having manpower back of them, and back of it all the vital womanhood necessary for our national salvation through the perpetuation of the race.—Bernarr Macfadden.

"No, no."

COOPERATION AT AUSTIN

An unprecedented tribute to Texas' new governor, Coke Stevenson, was expressed by the presence at his inauguration of seven ex-governors, members of both houses of the Legislature, and many visitors of varying political belief from many sections of the state. The demonstration is taken as a sign that a new era of cooperation and understanding lies ahead for state government.

Texas sorely needs this "new order" in Austin, where dissension, distrust and controversy have afflicted the state government for some years. Unity and mutual understanding are particularly important during the defense emergency. The times demand that Texas have a Chief Executive with courage to act according to his best judgment and convictions, and every reason supports the belief that such a governor is now at the helm of state in Austin. The inaugural was not a celebration for any minority pressure group, nor a gathering of special privilege seekers. And yet by their presence, seven former governors gave testimony to their faith in Coke Stevenson as a native Texan who will provide a square deal for everybody. Such is the elemental theory of our government, which has been obscured in recent years.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

BOOSTER TRIP DRUNKS

When some men get away from home they think they are licensed to raise hell, regardless of how they conduct themselves at home. This is especially true when communities send out trade or booster trips, and a few fellows think that they should get lickered up in order to show off before their neighbors. Canyon has been fortunate in years past in sending out delegations. Most of them have behaved themselves. In a few instances, Canyon would have been much better off had our citizens stayed at home rather than go away for a spree. In one Panhandle town recently a bunch of visitors on a booster trip put on a drinking party on the public square. The sheriff took the visitors in, as he should have done. They were creating a hazard by drinking while driving with a crowd. Perhaps the visitors thought pretty hard of that town, and maybe local people thought their sheriff had no business interfering with the "personal rights" of the visitors. No doubt it took a lot of nerve for the sheriff to perform his duty, but he should be commended, rather than condemned. After the drinking men sobered up they should think more of that sheriff for stopping them before they killed some member of their own party, or a citizen in some community in which they were visiting.—Canyon News.
