Grand Jury Reports County Crime Light

Pampa, Texas, Nov. 4, 1941. Honorable W. R. Ewing, Dist. Judge, Gray County, Texas.

The Grand Jury duly impaneled at the September term, A. D. 1941, for the district court, Gray County, Texas, said Grand Jury consisting of Walter Daugherty, foreman, and eleven others, respectfully submitted the following report:

The deliberations ten days and during that time returned eleven indictments, namely:

Indictment for forgery.

Indictment for murder.

Indictment for disposal of mortgaged property.

Indictments for theft of the same.

Indictment for willful burning.

In the case of the State of Texas vs. Alonzo E. Cade, for murder made a thorough investigation and returned such indictment and in the case of the State of Texas vs. W. W. Cumberland, we returned other findings.

September 2, at three a. m., Alonzo E. Cade was found at Bovina, Texas, by the local agent in charge of the local Santa Fe station. At that time he was self-inflicted wound caused discharge of a .38 pistol. He was removed from Bovina to Clovis, N. M., where he was under treatment a period of two months. After that time he was brought to Gray County and placed in jail under observation. These observations show that Cade is a complete paralytic on his left side, he is also paralyzed in his bowels and bladder. Furthermore, his mental faculties have been diagnosed as that of a I. Q. of a ten year old child. We submit such detailed report because we feel as a body that the people of Gray county are entitled to know the reason that he has not immediately brought to trial.

On this date he has been returned to the Santa Fe hospital at Clovis, N. M., for further treatment and observation.

In a general finding of the crime situation in Gray county, the crime situation was and is relatively good, and the crime situation is generally good, and we wish to compliment the law enforcement bodies of Gray county for their diligence in suppressing any crime and the enforcement of laws of this state.

In addition to the foregoing findings by this Grand Jury we have, in the interest of the taxpayers of Gray county, investigated thoroughly the cost of county administration.

The investigation leads us to believe that the valuations of Gray county are not equalized to the extent where taxpayers are taxed on an equitable basis. We particularly refer to the valuations as set up by Thomas Bennett and Son of Dallas. We believe and suggest to the Commissioners Court that an effort be made to employ the services of a county resident for the valuation of all properties in this county, especially oil properties. We base our conclusion on our findings after interviewing men who have had experience in the oil industry and whom we believe would be able to set such valuations. We interviewed members of the Commissioners court and they are in accord with this program. We respectfully refer the continuing of our recommendations to all Grand Juries, in the equalization of taxes and economy in our government.

In close this report with an expression of our appreciation to District Attorney Bud Martin for his untiring efforts as well as fairness to all requested to appear before us, and in assisting Grand Jury in all of its investigations.

Very truly,
WALTER DAUGHERTY, Foreman.

Red Cross Roll Call Begins Tuesday

School Carnival Shows Nice Profit

Approximately $157.00 was taken in at the McLean all-school carnival held last week end, according to Darrell Manney, ward school principal and manager of the carnival. The money will be divided evenly between the ward school and high school, and will be used to buy playground equipment and other school essentials, Manney stated. The carnival, which was under the joint supervision of faculty members, various room mothers and the students, was attended by several hundred merry-makers during the Friday evening, Saturday afternoon and evening it was running. Following is a list of expenditures attendant to operation of the carnival:

Rodin Novelty Co.	$41.85
Ben Franklin Stores	16.56
City Food Store	12.85
McLean News	5.17
Hodges Bakery	2.40
Hermitage	1.00
Coca Cola Bottling Co.	3.00
Magnolia Service Station	2.35
Southwestern Public Serv. Co.	1.00
Total	$85.88
Net income	$71.12

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE BY HALLOWEEN PRANKS

Halloween pranks did little damage in McLean, thanks to the vigilance of local officers. Some three young men spent a night in the city jail, being the first arrests necessary on Halloween for several years. Windows and cars were soaped and some trash barrels overturned, but in the main the kids worked off their surplus energy at the school carnival held down town.

Patterson-Wyatt Nuptials Spoken

Miss Mary Alice Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Patterson, became the bride of Mr. Arle J. Wyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wyatt of Paducah, at 5:30 p. m. on October 31, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. C. O. Huber, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated with a single ring ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and close friends. Candelabra, baskets of chrysanthemum and dahlia, and a vine-covered trellis formed the setting. The pre-nuptial solo, Cadman's "A! Dawning," was sung by Mrs. C. O. Huber, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Willie Boyett, who also played the traditional wedding marches. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white mousseline de soie floor length dress which had four tiers of ruffles on the skirt with wide inserts of lace between each tier. The bodice was topped with a lace bolero fastened with tiny covered buttons. The bracelet length veil of bridal illusion was held full with a wreath of orange blossoms and small seed pearls. Her arm bouquet was of white sweetheart roses and showers of stephanotis. Mrs. L. A. de Lee of Wichita Falls, cousin of the bride, attended her as matron of honor. She was dressed in an R. A. F. blue taffeta floor length dress with metallic bolero similar to that of the bride. Her bouquet was of tulle and roses. The groom and his best man, Mr. Jerry Evans of Vernon, were dressed in their military uniforms. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held, the bride cutting the wedding cake with her father's sabre. Miss Catherine Patterson, sister of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt attended West Texas State College at Canyon. Mr. Wyatt is a flying instructor in the U. S. Army Air Corps and is now stationed at Victory Field, Vernon, where they will make their home.

Tigers Meet Wheeler Here Friday Night

The McLean Tigers will meet the Wheeler Mustangs at Tiger Field Friday night of this week, after a week's rest following their defeat by Lefors. Shamrock lost to Lefors last week which leaves the Pirates practically certain of the district title for this season, with McLean, Shamrock and Wellington to battle for second place. The Tigers will play all of the remaining games on the home field, meeting Clarendon after the Wheeler game, and Shamrock as the opponent for the final game on Nov. 21.

Buddy Watkins Has Bought Bennie's Cafe

Buddy Watkins is the new manager at Bennie's Cafe, having bought the business from his brother. Mr. Watkins says there will be no change in the high class service given by this popular cafe; that they will continue to give the best possible service to their customers. Mr. and Mrs. Booth Woods of Amarillo visited the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dougherty, over the week end.

School Bonds to Be Refinanced

At a meeting of the board of education held at the city hall Monday evening, a contract was made with a bond buying firm to refinance all the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the McLean school district that will constitute a saving of from 20 to 23 thousand dollars to the taxpayers over the life of the bonds. Old bonds that are bearing as high as 6% interest will draw only 3 1/2% under the new set-up. While the proposition is now only in contract form, there is little chance that the contract will not be fulfilled as signed. It will take a few weeks time to get all the details worked out, but it should solve the district's bonded indebtedness problem in a very acceptable manner. The contract was made possible by the vote given the new tax rate in the recent election.

Fun Session at Lions Club Lunch

As Tuesday was not a program day at the Lions Club, a bit of fun was injected into the session after Dee McMullen had addressed the club in an impassioned plea for better observance of traffic rules. "Somebody is going to get killed," said Dee. "If this kind of thing is not stopped, and I don't know if the undertaker is prepared to put 'em away or not." Happy Lamb's name was put in nomination for traffic officer, which was quickly seconded, but Dee won in the election that followed. Mayor Boyd Meador stated that Dee had been appointed by the city but could not be recognized until he outfitted himself with a Sam Browne belt. In the directors meeting following the luncheon, two applications by underprivileged children for medical attention were favorably passed upon. Vice President Crockett presided as Boss Lion in the absence of President Hbler. Some 14 members and one visitor were present.

FIRST SNOW FALLS THURSDAY

The first snow of the season fell Thursday night, covering the ground for about two inches and bringing the total precipitation for the year up to 34.24 inches. The snow disappeared under a bright sun during the day Friday and the weather has been uniformly fair since, with no killing frost yet to be reported. The total rainfall by months for the year follows: January .77, February 1.19, March 2.08, April 4.41, May 7.70, June 4.34, July 7.77, August 3.17, September 1.65, October 6.16.

Rev. J. W. Myrose attended an inspirational retreat for the ministers of the Presbytery of Amarillo, at Buffalo Lake on Monday and Tuesday. The speaker was the Rev. Max M. Morrison, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

WOMEN'S MEETING MONDAY

Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Gray county home demonstration agent, invites all women in McLean who are interested in the home demonstration work for 1942 and would like to be members of the Home Demonstration Club organized at McLean, to be present at a meeting next Monday afternoon beginning at 2:30 o'clock in the directors' room at the city hall. Plans for the coming year will be outlined and the general nature of home demonstration work outlined by Mrs. Kelley.

ROCK ISLAND MAN HERE

George R. Angell, public relations representative of the Rock Island Lines, of El Reno, Okla., was a pleasant caller at the News office Tuesday and presented the editor a "rose bean," a novelty made by monks in Tibet, who take rose petals and compress them into large "beans," which give off a lasting and pleasing odor.

BIRTHDAYS

Ohio Lady Wants Letters from McLean

Cleveland, Ohio, 17617 Harland Ave., October 27, 1941.

Dear Sir: As editor and publisher of The News, you seemed to be the most logical person to whom I could write and request such a favor as I am about to do.

Perhaps it would be more clear to you if I went back two years ago in June, 1939. That was the date when I graduated from high school in Ashtabula, a small town 60 miles east of Cleveland, on Lake Erie. As a graduation gift it was my good fortune to take a motor trip "out west," which lasted two weeks. On my way to the coast we passed through northern Texas where we drove through a number of small western towns such as McLean itself. I recall McLean only as we had to stop for a traffic light there and it has always stood out in my mind ever since, for a reason which I cannot quite understand myself. However, I have long been my intention to write back some day in appreciation for the enjoyment I had in the west that summer, and I might add—I have great hopes of returning.

And now I decided to find some information from the Cleveland Public Library about your town and write as soon as possible to you and request that perhaps you may be able to assist in finding someone that would like to write to me as I most certainly would enjoy hearing from some person in another part of the country. I also understand that your local newspaper is published every Thursday. Could you find it possible to send me a copy of your next issue? If not, you may send it to me and also a bill for the cost of the paper and mailing.

Perhaps you have never received a letter of this type, but I most certainly want to thank you in advance for anything you can do for me in finding someone that would be interested in writing.

Enclosed, please find my full name and address. Thank you.

Yours very truly,
MISS SHIRLEY HOLMAN.

Occupation, secretary. Age, 20.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

U. S. Policy of 'Delivering the Goods' In Effort to Aid Foes of Hitlerism Is Nation's Objective, Says President; Nazis Pound Russians on Three Fronts

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

POLICY: Defined by FDR

On the same day as the senate opened its debate on the historic measure aimed at stripping the neutrality act of all restrictions on American shipping, the President delivered his Navy day address in which he declared that the U. S. foreign policy was one of "delivering the goods" to friends of democracy.

He said that despite U. S. efforts to avoid it, "the shooting has started." Bristling with challenges to the Nazis, his speech pledged his administration to a policy of destroying Hitlerism and assisting in establishing a peace which will make a better world.

In writing to the Foreign Policy association an exposition of his own foreign policy, President Roosevelt had said that it was so simple a child could understand it.

The cardinal principle, he asserted, was the destruction of the "Hitler menace" and the protection of the American way of life from a system that would destroy it.

He admitted that there were those in this nation who would lull the people into a sense of false security, but warned that this action had preceded the fall of every country now occupied by Axis forces.

This and his Navy day address served the purpose of clarifying the situation as regarded the road the United States was prepared to travel in following the administration's leadership.

The President expressed himself as confident that his aims were the popular aims of the nation, and that the people would be ready with such sacrifices as would be necessary to carry them out.

SOVIET DEFENSE: Last Ditch

What was called the "last all-out" attack possible for the Germans to launch had been touched off on all three of the major Soviet fronts, and there were indications that the defenders were reaching their last ditch.

The "military miracle" was happening before the eyes of the world, as the Red troops had apparently halted the full fury of the Nazi advance, had kept their defense lines intact, and were putting up what even Berlin admitted was a magnificent defense.

But whether they could continue to hold or not remained the latter part of the needed miracle. Germany announced the fall of Khar'kov, Donets basin industrial center, a city of 850,000 souls, of 12-story industrial buildings, dubbed the Pittsburgh of Russia.

Fantastic stories were told of the losses on each side.

Strange was the report from Moscow, telling of Stalin in personal command, of the removal of Budenny and Voroshilov from command, to take charge of the forming of new armies, and of the placing of Timoshenko in actual command of the defense of the capital.

'BUTCHERIES': Continuing

Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and General DeGaulle all had their say about what they called the "Nazi butcheries" of hostages which were continuing all over occupied Europe.

Resentful people were taking pot shots at high Nazi officers, and each time one of these hit a vital mark, scores of persons connected only distantly with the crime were being executed.

PARACHUTE: A New Hero

ARTHUR H. STARNES A long drop for science.

One of aviation's most thrilling stories was that of the parachutist, Arthur H. Starnes, who leaped from a plane at 31,500 feet, carrying some 25 pounds of extra equipment, and didn't pull his rip-cord until he was 1,500 feet from the ground.

He risked his life to find if a human brain could retain consciousness through such a free fall from such an altitude. He lost consciousness for just a second, at the moment when his chute opened and snapped him into comparative immobility.

At the instant it opened he was traveling 190 miles per hour. He somersaulted in the air—fell straight, tried everything, and took 14 breaths, 6 deep and 8 light, in the 1 minute and 56 seconds he was falling.

He landed safely two minutes after the first of the two chutes he carried opened up. His feat opened a new way for pilots to escape in case their planes were disabled in combat.

NEUTRALITY: Fight Commences

The fairly close vote in the senate foreign relations committee by which it was decided to add to the ship-arming bill an amendment permitting American ships to travel where they pleased with lease-lend cargoes, indicated that a severe fight was in prospect.

Senate anti-administration leaders, however, did not predict victory for themselves, but said that the bill, as amended, would probably pass by a close vote.

Delay and a full debate was what they promised, though there were indications that the ship-arming bill would have passed swiftly.

Wendell Willkie, in a statement following the committee action, had expressed himself "gratified" by the vote, and especially by the Republican reaction. But this was hard to understand, for only one G.O.P. member voted "aye," Senator White.

PLANES: Death in Peace

The loss of five pursuit ships of the P-40 type, the American Spitfire, as it had been called, which vanished during a fog during which a squadron of 19 became separated from each other, showed this country that deaths in plane training could be heavy in peace as in war.

One pilot was seen to parachute from his ship in the mountains near Tehachapi, Calif. Another was found, burned to death, in the wreckage of his plane.

Seven bombers were searching for the others, systematically. They had to land on a field. The field was too small, and one cracked up.

Before they could take off again, a tractor and road graders were obtained. Emergency crews went to work lengthening the runways by 3,000 feet.

The bombers of the searching party arrived at the field in early morning. It was late afternoon before they could resume their search. There was no expectation of finding the missing three pilots alive.

BENES: His View

The former president of Czechoslovakia gave his views on the war, saying that the sudden and early winter in Russia was the death knell of Hitler's hopes.

The Nazis, he said, might last through this winter, taking the defensive in Russia, and turning their forces to other fields where the weather was better.

He could not see Germany surviving another winter. He claimed that Hitler was losing faith with his present associates, and that a military dictatorship soon would be formed, and following that Germany would collapse, for an internal schism would be set up.

MISCELLANY:

SAN FRANCISCO: One of the witnesses in the Bridges deportation case, James O'Neil, was convicted of perjury.

LONDON: A new "Florence Nightingale" in Crete, Joan Stavridi, who refused to flee to safety, but who had remained there to nurse wounded British Tommies as well as the German Chutists, was receiving world-wide acclaim. Her hospital was a cave.

Fashion Advocates Lavish Use Of Fur in a Variety of Ways

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FASHION is most eloquently "saying it" with furs this season. According to the signs there is going to be a most grand and glorious display of furs this winter both as trimming and as coat or cape ensembles of sumptuous fur. Almost everything in the way of matching accessories that can be made of fur is being made of fur: hats, gloves, handbags, separate neckpieces, detachable piastron fronts, and lapel gadgets of bows and boutonnières.

Milliners are giving of their best in creating fur hats matched to coats, to jackets, or to the trimming on one's gown and wrap. The favor for browns has placed extra emphasis on the importance of mink. There's exciting fashion news in the sumptuous mink coat shown above to the right in the illustration. It is topped by a hat made glorious by a wide brim (huge fur hats will be worn this winter) of matching mink.

The young woman centered above in the picture is snappishly turned out in an ensemble of gray Chinese kidskin, the fingertip-length coat fashioned along very youthful lines.

The insistent call for sleek black by fashion sophisticates keeps Persian lamb and elegant broadtail in the limelight again this season. Royally luxurious is the broadtail ensemble shown in the upper left corner. Here a slim svelte princess coat demonstrates how up-to-the-minute is the styling given to furs this season. The hat is one of those new tall effects so definitely in style.

Its graceful feather trim is Kelly green for added color. Fur capes are definitely something to talk about, for they are in the very foreground of the current fashion picture. The gorgeous cape lower right, is of lustrous black Persian lamb. The new rule for a black wrap worn with a color-bright dress is faithfully observed. The pretty, softly styled frock is in the widely sponsored new gold tone.

For daytime wear nothing exceeds leopard in chic, unless it be American opossum, which is also playing a star role. You will be perfectly tuned to the grandstand picture if you attend the game in a coat of leopard at lower left. It is a fashionable, three-quarter length style with a stand-up collar and bracelet-length sleeves—all very youthful and destined for an eye-smashing entry into any smart gathering.

A most extraordinary development in fur styling this season is the working of glittering embroidery on the lapels and collars of fur coats. The new fur capes are sometimes embroidered with a hem line bordering for evening. Brown sequins worked on mink hats, jet motifs on either black or white furs or metal thread embroidery punctuated with glistening jewels give to furs an entirely different aspect. Many of the most staid and conservative coats are bursting into glory with gleaming jeweled buttons.

Grandma's Buttons Make Style News

Dig into grandma's button box, and you may find hidden treasures that will cause your winter gowns and coats to soar to heights of sartorial glory. Better still, trek around to the button counters and see what a splurge buttons are making in the fashion realm.

Two important trends register in the button field, one of which is the inclination toward bulkiness. Buttons are sometimes massive and knobby. Also, the new buttons tell a grand and glorious color story. You, with everyone else, are going to wear a great deal more color this year than you did last, and accordingly button originals are keeping pace with the color commotion.

Plastic buttons are available in a full range of costume colors. A button that makes an interesting accent on frock or blouse is a molded plastic done in a flower design with nailhead detail. Fresh fashion interest is also developing in filigree buttons. A gold filigree button is proving especially attractive for dress-up blouses and party frocks. In fact, metal buttons rank high in favor, whatever the type.

Glitter is popular, and lovely rhinestone buttons flourish on wools, velveteens, dressy crepes, and the newest fashion note is rhinestone or other jeweled buttons on fur coats and jackets.

Woolies Defy the Chill

Breath of Jack Frost

Farmers can prognosticate and their signs are unfailing. It's "ditto" with fashion. Well, from all fashion indications, we will see wool mittens; long wool socks (sheer wool for daytime hose); heads done up in wool wimples; huge fur hats and muffs as extravagantly big. All will valiantly fulfill their mission of comfort and smart appearance when winter brings on its usual quota of days with a sharp tang.

Possum on Wool

American opossum is a flattering, young-looking fur when it trims swank town and country tweeds. It carries a message of style prestige wherever it goes, and this year more conspicuously than ever. In the picture we see American opossum accentuating the straight silhouette of a hunter's green wool coat. Three bands of the fur around the bottom of the skirt, and a flattering ripple collar of this fur, add distinction to the pencil-slim coat. The ripple-brim fine felt hat is detailed with stitching.

Reddie freshman

Well, at last I've found out how chest on an examination. You behind a real smart person and over his shoulder (isn't that smart?) That is, if you can find smart person whose shoulder you see over and the teacher doesn't see you.

This time I'm really in love. I've been looking at Joyce Dowell. The thing I have to do now is get by Kenneth Dyer. Say, by the way, where do you get rat poisoning? I went to the Sub-Dab dance last Saturday night. I made up a new dance. You go two steps, then two steps back. Everybody laughed when I showed it to them; I guess they didn't like it. When I got to the party there was a boy there named Roy who didn't come back. I guess he didn't like the party.

I sure wish the boys would find a way to kiss me like they did for Arthur Boyd. When I get married I think I'll marry a girl like Ruth Franks. The other day she was going down the street really pinching a penny.

Say, Bobby Crisp what is this I hear about you and a Robert Taylor? You wouldn't mean Junior Raymond, would you? You may think there ain't no one. Well, there ain't.

Representing . . .
Lads and Lassies of 1941-42
ROBERT (BOB) DWIGHT
Bob was born in Ardmore, Okla., August 2, 1923. He has attended school at Enid, Garber, Pampa, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and McLean. His hobby is collecting Indian relics. His favorites are red, white and blue boys, pretty girls, and nice geometric figures (if you get what I mean). He dislikes gum poppers, church congregation and to be called baby. His best liked actor is Spencer Tracy, and Dorothy Lamour stops as his best liked actress. "Bill's Angels" is his favorite movie. Bob hopes to attend T. C. U. after graduation or join the R. A. F.

KELLY LEE
Kelly, who can't stand to be called funny, was born one chilly autumn on October 4, to be exact, in 1922. He attended school in Forest, La., where he was born; then Oak Grove, La. Swartz and then he moved to McLean, where he attended school in Lefors. Now, he is going to dear old M. H. S. His favorite actor and actress are Ronald Reagan and Madeline Carroll. His best liked show is "Too Many Girls." (We have our own ideas why he liked that). His ambition is to join the R. A. F., which he hopes to do after graduation.

Home Ec Girls to Area Meeting

Representatives of the 1, 2 and 3 home economics classes are going to Canyon, Nov. 15 for an annual area meeting.

The girls selected to go were Margie Ballard and Pat Cobbs for the third year girls; Katherine Watt for the second year class; Dorothy Cecil and Billie Marie Stewart for the first year.

Alternates are Loyce Thacker, Betty Davis, Una Lee Rhea and Ruth Humphreys.

Junior Red Cross Drive Now on

Join up! That is the battle cry of the Junior Red Cross as it fights for members for the new year of 1941.

The Junior Red Cross drive has been going on in the McLean high school for ten days and has about 64 members. The drive is to be over on November 11.

The members of this organization have pins to wear on their shirt or coat.

To join the Junior Red Cross you may see your class president.

FASHION REVUE

The Sub Deb club has started some new styles: pigtails, knee socks and no make-up. How do you like that, Tommy?

Billy Reeves, you finally reached the point to get the fashion of the week by wearing a tan slack suit with the shirt tail flapping and collar ajar. Another peculiarity of Bill's attire is the fact that he shines his cowboy boots.

Kenneth McMullen and his little tan corduroy hat is the latest head wear. We mean the hat, of course.

It may not be Parisian, but it's effective in keeping the boys away, at least. Speaking of the new types of feminine "unadornment" inaugurated by the Sub Dabs during the recent initiation week.

Take the matter of hair, for instance. Now a female critter sure would look funny without any, but take a handful of hair, put it behind the ears and plait into two tight pigtails. The effect is usually not to say appalling.

NEWS FROM DENWORTH

Mrs. Ray Ra'h reviewed "Harrowing Experiences" by Paul O'Neal at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Women's Missionary Society. This is a gripping story of the O'Neal's experiences on the "Zam Zam," taken from some back numbers of the Baptist Standard.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Dowell entertained their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Vester Dowell, at a 6 o'clock dinner Thursday evening, honoring their 22nd wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Otto Gross entertained the teachers and pupils of Back school with a Halloween party last week. The house was beautifully decorated with the usual Halloween decorations and all who attended report a very nice time. Little Jackie Gross was awarded a prize for having the prettiest costume, and the primary teacher, Mrs. Ballard, was given a prize for the ugliest costume.

The Women's Missionary Society at Denworth plans to put on the stewardship play, "The Prove Me Plan, the Only Plan—God's Plan," at the church Sunday morning, Nov. 9.

Mrs. Jiggs MacDonald and little daughter, Deanna, are visiting the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vester Dowell.

Mrs. Bob James visited her daughter, Mrs. Ben Chilton, and little son in Amarillo last week.

NEWS FROM HEALD

Mrs. Howard Rogers was in Pampa Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arble Lanford and son, Billy Kester, visited the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kester Rippey, Sunday.

Several from this community attended the carnival at McLean Friday night.

Raymond Bailey of Wheeler visited relatives in this community Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Litchfield and daughter, Jan, visited in the Walter Litchfield home Monday.

The Heald school children gave a very enjoyable Halloween program at the school house Wednesday night.

Mrs. H. E. Franks and daughter, Ruth; Mrs. Ballard and Mary Patterson were in Pampa Thursday.

Mrs. E. H. Kramer, Mrs. E. J. Windom and Mrs. Leo Gibson were in Shamrock last Thursday.

T. L. Lovelace of Shamrock visited in McLean Friday.

Mrs. Kid McCoy visited relatives at Post City last week.

Mrs. L. E. Cunningham left the first of the week for Los Angeles, Calif. The home paper will follow her.

Misses Mabel Back and Frances Hudzetz of Canyon spent the week end with home folks here.

Dr. J. A. Hall of Shamrock was a McLean visitor Sunday.

ARE YOUR Bowels Stubborn?

Then try kindness! First of all you can't expect them to act unless you give them a chance. Most people make sure to get 3 meals a day. But they never think of giving their bowels a regular time (daily) in evacuation.
 If you've neglected YOUR bowels and they finally became stubborn and unwilling to act, ask your druggist for ADLERKAL.
 It is an effective blend of 6 carminatives

 Gas is expelled and bowel action takes surprisingly fast. After that, make up your

WITH THE CHURCHES

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

J. W. Myrose, Minister
 Sunday school 10 a. m., P. H. Ward, supt. Meet with us Sunday for study and fellowship. We have classes for all ages. You are especially invited if you are a member who has become careless of attendance.
 Morning worship at 11 a. m. We are all pleased last Sunday with the program made to Loyalty month. We keep up the good work. If you were not here last week, this is the time to begin Loyalty again. The sermon will be "Moses, Man Who Dared."
 Morning service at 6:30. Please be present for the new hour of meeting. We meet together for worship at 7:30. This week Mr. Israel, the Boy Scout field man, will be with us to present the charter for the Boy Scout troop sponsored by our church. There will also be a ceremony of initiation for the new scouts. Their parents and friends are invited to be present with us and all of our own members are urged to show their interest in the boys of the community by being in church Sunday morning at 6:30. Following this ceremony will divide into age groups with the pastor meeting with the adults. Myrose with the seniors, and Franks with the juniors. There will also be a group for the beginner primary ages. So come as a family. After the closing worship at 7:15, we will enjoy our Sunday supper together in the basement and have a Christian fellowship. There will be coffee and you may bring whatever you wish.
 The Boy Scouts meet Monday at 7:30 with Don Alexander as scoutmaster. The meeting is held in the basement.
 The ladies will hold an all day meeting Tuesday, with lunch at the church. Bring a friend.
 The senior choir meets after school Tuesday.
 The junior choir meets at 7:30 Wednesday. Both choirs are practicing Christmas music and it is important every member be present. There is always room for more.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

C. O. Huber, Pastor
 The church will receive its charter by Scout Troop 25 next Sunday at the morning worship services.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Paul T. Brock, Pastor
 Our Sunday school begins at 9:45. If you do not attend services elsewhere we invite you to come and worship with us. We especially want all children in Sunday school. Our attendance is building up some, for this we are thankful.
 Our morning worship begins at 11. There has been a good spirit in these the last three months; personally, I say extra good. We feel that our church is going to make definite progress this coming year.
 N. Y. P. S. promptly at 6:30 p. m., preaching at 7:15. We have been having good attendance at the evening services.
 Mid-week prayer service at 7:15. A special welcome to one and all.

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES

"He moveth them to deal mildly with a brother that has slipped and to bear one another's burdens," was the thought brought by the Spiritual Life leader, Mrs. H. E. Franks, Tuesday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church.
 Two chapters of the study, "A Christian Imperative," were reviewed by Mrs. Tom Stanley. "The basic question, the moral issue, is an integral part of the world in which we live. Politics and economics are open to dispute, but we should be concerned with what is right and what is wrong," said the speaker. Refreshments were served by the

"The Browns seem to be getting along better these days."
 "Yes—he visited his old home town last month and saw the girl he was in love with twenty years ago."

BAPTIST TRAINING UNION

The following program has been arranged for the intermediate training union at the First Baptist Church next Sunday evening, beginning at 6:30 o'clock:
 Subject—Rainy Days.
 Some Rain Must Fall—Pauline Simpson.
 Wrong Ways of Looking at Trouble—Jean Cooper.
 Troubles of Others—Kenneth Gibson.
 The Remedy for Trouble—Melba Jean Hanner.
 Leader's part—Mrs C. O. Huber.
 All intermediates are invited to attend.

FIFTH TUESDAY COUNCIL

(Comments by a member)
 The Fifth Tuesday Council of Churches met in called meeting Monday afternoon at the Pentecostal Holiness Church.
 This organized effort from different churches, for a better town in which to live, is, we believe, a long stride in the right direction. Theological bickerings over church doctrine are discarded—the community spirit is a revelation—no denomination claims a monopoly on heaven. It is a union of churches for spiritual instruction and inspiration. Its spiritual and practical success depends much on leadership and earnest effort.

NEW Dodge

Triumph of the Floating Idea

FLOATING POWER... FULL-FLOATING RIDE... ALL-FLUID DRIVE... POWER-FLOW ENGINES

AN ALMOST COMPLETE REVOLUTION in the standards of motorcar performance is now concluded. That revolution is so complete and final that you could not and would not go back to the old standards, at any price. This is a Dodge Accomplishment of historic importance.

IT IS THE FULL TRIUMPH of the Floating Idea, first inaugurated by Dodge with Floating Power; then carried further by the Dodge Full-Floating Ride; then advanced again to extraordinary degree by Dodge All-Fluid Drive.

NOW, with New Power-Flow Engines giving you an entirely new kind of ebb and flow of power, the revolution started by Dodge a decade ago reaches its successful climax.

THERE CAN BE NO CURTAILMENT OF DODGE QUALITY... NO SUBSTITUTE FOR DODGE DEPENDABILITY

Traffic violations in McLean by motorists, both local and tourist, seem to be a laughing matter. Let us hope they will not continue until a tragedy results.

Just a few days bright weather changes the picture in regard to the crop situation. It is possible that the crops have not been as badly damaged by the continued wet weather as first thought.

Some time ago a WPA survey showed that there is room in the McLean schools to accommodate every school child for a radius of 25 miles around McLean, with the exception of the Lefors district. Under the new setup recently voted, McLean should rightfully remain the school center of this vicinity.

Christmas is just around the corner and we are told that this will be the last time for many years that we may buy any kind of toy and gadget wanted. Early shoppers will be the favored ones in this regard, as there will be no chance to fill orders after merchants' stocks are gone. Of course, there are always hundreds of practical gifts that are appreciated by most people that can be bought at any time.

NEW APPROACH

Panhhandle—Say, buddy, could you give me a dime for coffee?
Citizen—A dime! Coffee is only a nickel.
Panhhandles—I know, but I gotta buy two cups. I gotta date!
The husband answering the phone said: "I don't know. Call the weather bureau," and hung up.
"Who was that?" asked the wife.
"Some sailor, I guess. He asked if the coast was clear."

You pay half of what you earn (in England) to the government and you don't argue about it. And the socialism of democracy begins to operate automatically.—Miss Gordon Holmes, British financial expert.

Boogy—Say, what's the matter with your jaw?
Woogy—I just had a tussle with a dentist.
"Who won?"
"It was a draw."

Department of Agriculture records and exhibits show that there are more than 500 varieties of soil in Texas.

And when he got the lawyer's bill

AIDS IN USING THE LIBRARY

Get your "borrower's card" so that you may become a registered borrower of your library. Look through the books and see the numerous titles that have been added to the library for your use. The librarian will check out your books when you have found the titles you want to read. The books are checked out for seven days. There is a fine of two cents for each day the book is kept overdue.

November 2-8 is Book Week. If you have books, magazines, or any thing (money, too) that you would like to give to the library, we shall be glad to get it.

We wish to thank Mrs. Creed Bogan for the Mother Goose story books and a Child's Garden of Verse by Stevenson, for pre-school age children; Mrs. Ernie Phifer, Click, American, Holland's, and Junny books; Mrs. Opal Peirce, Sheltered Life by Ellen Glasgow; John Patterson, two copies of the Amalillo News-Globe booklets.

Visitors this week: Miss Catherine Patterson of Montgomery, Ala., Misses Mary Beth Johnson, Alia Marie Carroll, Idell Gadberry and Mary Lou McIlhenny. We hope you have enjoyed browsing around in your library and that you will come again soon.

BEWARE CURTAIN GRAFTERS

Warning is sent out from Austin that another bunch of grafters are working the state on school stage curtains. This bunch displayed an unauthorized letter from State Supt. A. Woods. Mr. Woods asserts that he has never recommended school curtains for advertising.

The curtains are not worth one-third the amount received by the promoters, and local business men are gyped for the whole amount. If any curtain promoters show up in Roberts county with a letter from Mr. Woods, citizens are requested to notify the sheriff, as the letter is a fraud.—Miami Chief.

Tom—Do you know, honey, if I had it all to do over again, who I'd marry?

Wife—No, who?
Tom—You.
Wife—Oh, no, you wouldn't.

Boogy—Do you know what one little toe said to the other little toe?
Woogy—No, what?
Boogy—Don't look now, but I think we are being followed by a couple of heels.

Heck—What were you and your wife quarreling about?
Peck—Well, she said a certain girl was beautiful, and I made the mistake of agreeing with her.

When a woman's toe sticks out of her shoe, she's fashionable. When a man's toe sticks out, he's a bum.

Women were made before mirrors and have been before them every since.

Southwestern PUBLIC SERVICE Company

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By MUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—It was last August that Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby of Houston, Texas, became head of the army's division of the army's bureau of public relations. She said she would organize the division to tell women what they wanted to know about the army. Her success has been such that today her achievement is being nationally recognized as a bang-up score for women in the defense effort.

Mrs. Hobby is executive vice president of the Houston Post, and hence a specialist in telling people what they want to know. A newspaper woman happy in leading a government public relations bureau which offers some more than hand-outs in press co-operation. The post is important as a liaison between soldiers and wives and mothers.

She is 35 years old, pretty, slender, stylish, brisk and businesslike. The wife of William Pettus Hobby, vice governor of Texas. Her achievements in the above few years are such that they may only be needed in the space available here. In addition to running the Houston Post, she is the active executive of radio station KPRC; director of a national bank; director of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association; a member of the board of regents of the Texas State Teachers' college, of the Junior League, of the Houston Symphonic society and the National Association of Parliamentarians.

She studied law, was admitted to the bar, codified the state banking laws, was parliamentarian for the Texas assembly for several years, was assistant city attorney of Houston, wrote a book on parliamentary law called "Mr. Chairman," which is used as a text book in the schools of Louisiana and Texas, syndicated a column on parliamentary law and served as research editor, literary editor, assistant editor and, since 1938, executive editor of the Houston Post.

In 1939, Mrs. Hobby was awarded an annual certificate of merit of the National Federation of Women's Press Clubs, for outstanding work in journalism. She was born in Tennessee, Texas, the daughter of an attorney of the town.

With all the above activities, she says she has had ample time for her children, a boy of nine and girl of seven.

Eighty-year-old Rep. Joseph Jefferson Mansfield of Texas has a career of planned river and harbor development and control. It goes back to his boyhood days in Virginia when he was riding a horse to the grist mill, with sacks of corn stowed fore and aft. When he forded an angry stream, he and horse were swept away and he had a hard time making shore, with no end of trouble thereafter.

Then and there he became a good-battler, ready to take on any undisciplined waterway, for his own good and the well-being of the commonwealth. So, naturally, in his 25 years in congress he has been chairman of the rivers and harbors committee. He's in form and in his stride today, as he contends that only river and harbor projects qualify as bona fide defense undertakings, and rate advancement in the "immediate construction" file.

He has been 54 years in politics resident of Texas since 1881, when he settled in Eagle Lake—city at the time, mayor, county attorney and judge for 10 terms, and congressman. In 1926 he suffered a malady which cost him the use of his legs. He campaigned and won in a steel chair and carried on in congress, from his special wheel chair since to the right of the speaker's desk.

His father, a Confederate soldier, was killed in battle six months after his son was born. He battles valiantly for a sea-level Panama canal for transportation of Texas oil toward inland waterways.

Just before the war started, Vladimir Kyrillovitch, a son of the Grand Duke Cyril, and pretender to the throne of czarist Russia, was working in a Diesel engine factory in England. He said he would impart to his following of 50,000 White Russians the skills necessary to reclaim his homeland. He was soon back to his Brittany estate and now news of his repeated visits to Paris follow several reports that the Nazis are encouraging him to believe that he might yet stage a man-of-war comeback.

Lewis Announces Coal Strike

John L. Lewis, head of the C.I.O.'s United Mine Workers Union of America, announced that 53,000 workers in coal mines owned by the major steel companies would strike. Lewis told a press conference that he had sent a letter to the President notifying him that the miners could not renew their treaty with the steel companies, and that production would be halted forthwith. In the letter, Lewis advised the President the miners were willing to negotiate in the hopes that "no substantial loss of production" would be incurred. Photo shows John L. Lewis as he gave out his statement to members of the press.

USE FIREWOOD THIS WINTER

Many Farms Are Installing Wood Burners.

By R. W. GRAEBER
(Extension Forester,
North Carolina State College.)

Indications point to higher coal prices for the winter of 1941-42 and farmers should prepare now for extensive fuelwood cuttings this winter.

Even if labor is available to mine sufficient quantities of coal for domestic purpose, it is questionable whether transportation facilities will be available. This situation is bound to create a greater demand for wood as fuel.

The expanded fuelwood market should enable many farmers to dispose of low-grade hardwood trees not suited for lumber or other commercial purposes. The earlier the start is made in cutting, the more nearly the wood will be seasoned when the demand becomes active.

Despite the advantages of increased demand for wood there should be offered a note of warning. The slogan should be "Don't Strip the Land." A good cutting plan would be: Cut the poorer species, such as scarlet oak, black-jack oak, sourwood, black gum, hornbeam, etc. Cut crippled, crowded, or diseased trees of any species. Make use of tree tops left from recent sawmill operations.

It is a good idea not to cut more than one-fourth of the total volume of timber in any one area of average hardwood stands. This will give a profitable harvest, and at the same time maintain an adequate stand of growing stock.

It can be safely predicted that numerous farm and urban residents will install automatic wood-burning stoves or heaters this fall. One city in the South installed 3,000 wood-burning stoves for heating residences, stores and other buildings in one year.

Hides and Skins Become Valuable Farm Product

Hides and skins are among the highest price-per-pound raw materials that agriculture produces. The tanner often pays as much or more per pound for the best flayed and cured hides and skins of cattle and calves than the butcher pays for the dressed carcasses of these animals. Yet, because they are byproducts of another industry and frequently are marketed by indiscriminate methods, hides and skins are all too often treated with but little regard for what should be done to realize their maximum value.

It is generally considered that for cattle an average of about 7 per cent of the live weight and about 11 per cent of the value of the live animal is in the hide. In the case of calves, the skin may equal as much as 20 per cent of the value on the hoof.

The importance of hides and skins is shown by the fact that about 125,000,000 are tanned annually, worth around $200,000,000. The leather produced has a normal factory valuation of around $450,000,000. It is converted into shoes, belting, harness, and other goods for which consumers spend yearly close to $2,000,000,000. Domestic production is about 40,000,000 hides and skins annually, worth well over $100,000,000. It is necessary to draw upon foreign countries for the balance.

Synthetic Resin Proves Control for Red Spider

BERKELEY.—An unexpected laboratory discovery made during investigation of an entirely unrelated subject at the University of California college of agriculture has resulted in discovery of a new weapon for use in controlling red spider.

Red spider attacks hundreds of different plants grown both in the greenhouse and in the field. The new insecticide which has proven so effective in controlling the pest is a synthetic resin, phthalic glyceryl alkyl resin. Drs. P. A. Ark and C. M. Tompkins of the plant pathology division discovered its remarkable efficiency or control of red spiders. A 2 per cent solution of the resin in water applied to plants heavily infested with red spider was found to kill adults and also eggs within five days. Many of the insecticides used for control of red spider have proved ineffective.

When to Bale Hay

The best time for baling hay out of the mow is just when it is "coming out of the sweat," that is, approximately a month after being made from the field. At such a time, properly cured hay is "soft" and has clinging leaves.

To save the leaves and to avoid bales with "stemmy" surfaces, it is advantageous to bale any kind of stored hay on damp days. For successful field baling, hay must be drier than for the mow.

UNITED—in Soul Searching Ideals

YOU'RE confused by the cross currents of world affairs, by uncertainty about the future? Sure you are, Mr. Smith. You are going through an experience unlike anything you have known before. And it makes you none too happy. But, frankly, that unhappiness is not without a comforting thought. For years a good many of us, millions of our fellow Americans, had become too indifferent for our real good—and ideals, yes, American ideals were something only vaguely connected with our lives.

Yet now when you find yourself alone and thinking about this world of bleeding hearts, you somehow wish there was something hard and firm a man could cling to—something that wouldn't melt away like riches and false pride, or like that dish of ice cream you had for dessert tonight.

You need something, Mr. Smith. You haven't realized it before, perhaps, because you've had pretty fair security. Never rich, of course, but compared to those poor devils in Poland and France and Greece you were a king. That was before you saw America threatened, before they made a soldier out of Junior and began to get excited about this national defense business. It's a fine thing to be an American, Mr. Smith, but doggone it, there are too many people in your frame of mind nowadays—people who are groping for something to get their hands on—something hard and firm!

Those Pilgrims had it back in 1620. Remember? It took something to sail a rickety little ship across the Atlantic when you knew that your only reception would come from hostile Indians, when you knew that hunger and maybe even death lay in the cards.

Those barefooted, frozen, starving wretches had it at Valley Forge, too, something they could cling to. That "Something" is kind of an American heritage, we guess. It gave Lincoln courage, and it tramped across the western prairies beside pioneer wagon trains.

Know what it is, Mr. Smith?

We call it—Faith.

You see, Faith is what gives strength, without which all the airplanes and soldiers and machine guns in the world are useless. Faith is what makes you get up when they knock you down. Faith in the eternal values. Faith in Divine justice and in the blessings of a UNITED States of America, a nation indivisible, dedicated to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Faith in soul searching ideals.

You can get your hands on Faith. Won't you try it?

Vanished Men

INSTALLMENT FIFTEEN

THE STORY SO FAR: Bound for the Chibougamau gold country, six men lost their lives on the Nottaway river. Red Blaise, Garrett Finlay, brother of one of the six, and Blaise, half-breed guide, arrive at Nottaway posing as survivors.

When Blaise had given the Indians the details of the trip to Mata-gami, Wabastan said in Montagnais: "You are brave men but foolish to come back. Some night they will find you and you will die in your sleep. What can three do against so many?"

"When Kinebik sets up his medicine tent in the round of the moon," Finlay said, "we shall be there to listen, you and I. When the thunder sounds in the skies and the plane comes from the north we shall still be there to see."

Blaise interpreted to the listening Indian.

"So you have heard of the flying canoe that comes from the North this moon?" said the old man.

"Yes, I have heard. Why does it come?"

"Never in the 'Moon when the Birds fly after the Moul't will Isadore have Montagnais at the post. It is a great secret, the coming of this canoe of the skies."

"What do you think it brings?" demanded Finlay.

"How can I tell? When it comes only Isadore and Tete-Blanche go to it in a canoe."

"How many men come in this plane?"

"Once we hid on the island and watched. One man comes and, in three sleeps, one man goes away."

Red's puzzled eyes met Finlay's. "Well, the only way we'll solve this mystery will be to board her when she shows up," said Garry.

CHAPTER XV

It was soon evident that the big lake, more than sixty miles in length, with its deep bays and countless islands, was being searched from the mouth of the Wasswapi River to the Quiet Water, for the men who menaced Isadore's future.

Almost daily as they lay hidden in the willows and alders of some island or point of shore the man on guard sweeping the lake with his binoculars would pick up a canoe hunting for signs of the camp of the men Isadore and Tete-Blanche had sworn should never see August. Daring no longer to remain within reach of the post, with the chance of hearing from Lise, Finlay had left a letter under the quartz rock on the beach and moved up the lake.

By the time they returned from the medicine making, if they did return, Blondell would be at Isadore's. Brooding over the situation of the desperate girl Finlay drove his nails deep into his calloused hands. But he was helpless.

One day in early August they were camped in a maze of islands at the mouth of a deep bay. Garry and Red were asleep in a stand of young spruce with Flame beside them while Blaise kept watch on the shore.

By day they always slept, for they knew if their camp was located any attack would come on a black night when it would be easy to approach by water.

For hours through the long afternoon Blaise's binoculars had covered the lake beyond the islands but had picked up no tell-tale flash of a dripping paddle. At last he muttered, "I go back and see what dat Red doin'." He got too much sleep, already.

Crawling back from the thick shore scrub Blaise found his friends sitting peacefully under their bessecloth canopy. But the dog was missing.

"By gar, dat dog chew dat leash and go somewhere and navare make sound. Now why he do dat? He smart chien, dat Flame. He smell hear someth'ing for sure."

Blaise reached for his Lee-Enfield which stood against a tree, glanced at the 45 he carried in a belt holster and left his two sleeping friends. Curving the camp he managed to pick up the dog's trail, lose it and find it again. At last he came out on a mud beach. Over the unmistakable tracks of Flame he straight to the water. Two hundred yards away lay another island heavily timbered with scrub spruce, birch and poplar.

Concealed inside the shore brush Blaise stopped to consider the situation. "Dat dog swim straight to dat land," he murmured. "De air it come from dere to here and he smell someth'ing, for sure."

The airdale had followed no game to the water for the beach was marked except by Flame's feet. Something had led him to chew a raw-hide thong and investigate, without warning the sleeping men. Therefore, reasoned Blaise, the dog could not have been excited or caught them in danger. If he had caught the wind of Montagnais on the other island he would have led the sleeping men at once, for an airdale could wind an Indian in a half mile.

Now what was the dog doing over here all this time to keep so quiet? The problem was too deep for Blaise to solve offhand. And he was tired. Something strange had happened.

Something so unusual that it called for action. It might involve their lives.

Blaise Brassard determined to investigate.

Retracing his steps he shouldered the Peterboro hidden near the camp and made his way through the scrub to the mud beach. Then with his rifle across a knee he paddled to the island and found the tracks of the airdale on a narrow beach. Caching the canoe in the brush Blaise started to follow the dog's trail into the heart of the timber.

He had traveled less than a hundred yards from the shore when he suddenly squatted while his narrowed eyes roved the thick forest growth about him. Lifting his head his nostrils caught a pungent odor in the air. Then his gaze fell to the birch shoots in front of him. Reaching, Blaise drew the shoots toward him and sniffed at the green, scalloped edged leaves which glistened as if smeared with oil.

"Beaver castor!" he muttered. "I bin smellin' dis all de way from de shore. Dat w'at make Flame swim to dis islan'—beaver castor."

"Beaver castor!" he repeated, rubbing his square chin, his swart face wrinkled in thought. "No beaver on dis islan'!" Slowly the slits of eyes widened as a solution of the mystery began to crystallize in Blaise's active brain. He moved on through the undergrowth and, shortly, found more birch shoots with leaves smeared with the pungent oil, from the glands of the beaver, widely used by Indians as a game lure at trap-sets and carrying an irresistible appeal to the furred and shaggy owners of fang and claw.

Blaise Brassard determined to investigate.

"Dey are here, on dis islan'!" he murmured. "Dey use dis castor to draw de dog ovaire here and kill him. Den dey come tonight. He navare get dere wind, w'en he come, becuz dey smear de beaver castor on demself. All poor Flame smell is de beaver."

Blaise Brassard was doing some hard thinking. Lured by the scent scattered over the low sprouts Flame was already somewhere in the center of the island and probably dead. He would not give him up until he went in there and had a look.

Silently following the trail of beaver castor smeared at intervals on low bush, like a fox stalking wood-mice, Blaise worked through the timber into the heart of the island.

At length the timber began to thin out and Blaise reached the edge of a natural clearing. What had become of the dog? Hidden in a clump of seedling spruce which commanded a view of the opening Blaise waited. Where were the Montagnais who had enticed the dog to his doom?

Blaise had waited for some minutes in his "hide" when he chanced to glance at the sky and notice an eagle circling high above the break in the timber.

"W'at dat fallar see, down here?" Blaise muttered. "He got his eye on someth'ing. Is it de dog?"

Wings spread, the eagle drifted down in wide spirals while the man in the spruce watched, his heart sore with knowledge of what the bird's movements meant. So it was "a'voir" to poor Flame! The eagle was making his last circle preparatory to landing in the spagnum, when, with a thin whistle of fear, he wheeled in the air and flapped away over the spruce tops.

"Ah-hah!" The cocked Lee-Enfield covered the center of the clearing. "Someth'ing scare dat eagle from landin' out dere! W'at was it?"

Convinced that Flame lay stiff in death out there in that spagnum moss, crushed in a trap or dead-fall, Blaise started to circle the clearing. Shortly, as he crawled, he came upon the unmistakable trail of the dog leading into the moss, and moccasin tracks in soft soil leading away from it.

Lise, Isadore's stepdaughter. Answering an appeal from Lise, Finlay is ambushed. It develops that they are Mounted Police officers. When Chief Wabastan tries to help the disguised Mounties, is deserted by his tribe.

Reckless with wrath and grief for his friend Brassard rose and walked boldly from cover into the patches of moss and Labrador tea. Halfway across the open space he found what he had dreaded. Under the heavy drop-log of a dead-fall lay Flame's limp body.

Lured by the irresistible scent of the beaver castor the gallant airdale had followed its trail directly to the dead-fall. With a groan Blaise dropped to his knees beside the dog he had loved from puppyhood.

"Flame!" he muttered. "W'y you do dis, Flame? You poor chien! Blaise, he navare forget you. He navare—"

Brassard was lifting the drop-log of the dead-fall, easing the dog's body, when he suddenly caught his breath. "By gar! Dat dog is warm, yet!" His swiftly groping fingers sought the dog's breast ribs and explored his neck and spine. "Dat dog not break his neck or back!" he gasped in his joy. "And his heart— it beat! He still live! De drop-log crack him on de head, by gar, and knock him out!" Blaise's ear pressed against the shaggy ribs. "For sure! For sure, Flame! Dat old heart, she go good!" Brassard's fingers touched the dog's skull. "Dere it is! Right on de head! Big lump dere! It hit you on head, not de back or neck, and de tick moss save you, by gar!"

Because the builders of the trap of logs had been careless in removing the thick carpet of moss on which it stood, the dog's neck and back had not been crushed by the release of the drop-log when he reached the bait of moose meat smeared with beaver castor. Instead he had taken a glancing blow on the skull which had knocked him out.

Reaching, Blaise took the inert body of his friend into his arms and laid it on a soft bed of moss. Then the overjoyed man rubbed and kneaded the circulation back into the iron frame. At length the dog's legs twitched and his blood-shot eyes met those of the man for an instant of recognition. The stub of a tail lifted and fell. Shortly the airdale struggled to get to his feet, but sank back on the moss where Blaise's hand restrained him.

"Quiet, now! Take your time, boy! By gar, it is good to see you alive! Bad crack you take on de head. Blaise stay wid you right here until you not so dizzy, eh?"

After a space Flame again insisted on getting to his feet. Blaise watched the dog slowly regain his equilibrium, shaking his head in an attempt to clear the mists from his brain. At last Flame's strength began to return, for he no longer reeled as he walked about Brassard whose roving eyes covered the edges of the clearing. When Flame began to show interest in the smeared bait of the trap and his nostrils quivered as they caught the seductive aroma Blaise felt that the dog could make the trip back to the canoe. He picked up his rifle and, followed by Flame, left the clearing.

As they entered the thick timber there was a warning rumble from Flame. He leaped past the surprised Brassard, fell, recovered and roared his airdale challenge as two bodies catapulted into Blaise's back hurling him headlong to the ground. As he fell and instinctively rolled from the weight of the men on his back the half-breed tore the 45 from his holster. A hand gripping a knife drove past his neck and buried its blade in the leaves. Blaise caught the Indian's wrist and with a wrench had the writhing body beneath him. Clinging the 45 he bludgeoned the Montagnais into unconsciousness. Leaping to his feet he saw the injured airdale drive at the second Indian's legs, dodge a knife thrust as the Indian backed away, then leap again as the Montagnais reached for the rifle which had slipped from Brassard's hands when he was struck from the rear.

Indian and airdale rolled over and over in the brush, the dog slashing with his long fangs as the other tried to use his knife. With a leap Blaise reached them and the clubbed 45 struck again. Holding the maddened dog off the stunned Indian Blaise swiftly bound his hands and feet with strips of his shirt, and repeated the operation on his companion lying unconscious a few yards away. A quick examination proved that the raging Flame had escaped with a surface cut. Picking up his rifle Blaise and the dog started for the canoe.

"You t'ink I am craze not to shoot dose fallar, Flame?" the man said to the dog at his side. "If I shoot dat old 45 we have t'ree-four, mebbe ten-twenty on our heel before we reach de cano'. Dere are plenty Montagnais across de islan' waitin' for night. You and Blaise now go wake up Red and Garry and start up de lake, tout suite, w'en dark comes."

Crossing the strait with the dog Blaise carried the canoe to the camp and waked his sleeping friends. "Wal, you fallar sleep pretty hard w'ile Flame and me make a little trouble' for ourself."

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 13:11-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe the gospel.—Mark 1:15.

Sin with its devastating consequences has its only remedy in the salvation which is in Christ Jesus. He died to set us free from the penalty, to power, and ultimately the very presence of sin. However, His death, which was for all mankind, is effective only for those who in repentance and faith accept His redeeming grace and turning from their sin.

I. Worldly Pleasure Brings Sorrow (vv. 11-16).

Selfishness is at the heart of sin, which is essentially self-will over against God's will. The younger son, who represents the sinner, wanted his own way. He suffered from

1. Restlessness Under Restraint (vv. 11, 12). The father loved his son and sought his welfare by proper parental control, but the boy wanted to be free to live as he pleased. God loves all men and seeks by loving and gracious restraint to lead them in ways of righteousness and peace. But they, while they want His blessings, are often eager to get away from His guiding hand.

2. A Request Resulting in Responsibility (vv. 12, 13). When the prodigal asked for his inheritance he took upon himself full responsibility for its use. The man who refuses to have Christ rule over his life assumes a grave and heavy burden which he is not able to bear.

It is an awful thing to rule God out of one's life, to attempt to steer a successful course through the stormy sea of life. Why do it? It will always result in loss and failure.

3. Riotous Living Leading to Reproach (vv. 13-16). In the "far country" he found for a time what we call "fun," but it led to bitter sorrow. To the flesh there are "pleasures of sin" (Heb. 11:25), but they are only "for a season"; that is, "very short lived—and they come high. 'The devil is not such a fool as to go fishing without bait.' The pleasures of sin are the devil's bait, and they always have a hook in them. If you bite at the devil's bait you will soon have the devil's hook in your gills and be in the bottom of the devil's boat" (John W. Bradbury).

The end of Satan's "fun" road was a pippen in a far country. That may not always be literally true (although it happens often enough), but it is always true spiritually. Men and women are in a state of spiritual collapse and disgrace because they have rejected God's way. But there is a way out.

II. Godly Sorrow Brings Joy (vv. 17-24).

Paul tells us that "godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation" and thus differs from "the sorrow of the world" which "worketh death" (II Cor. 7:10). The prodigal found his way back to the father's house. First, there came to him

1. Remembrance and Realization (vv. 17-19). He began to think. If men and women could only be made to think we would have more repentance, but Satan tries to keep them too busy to think. He remembers what he had as a son in his father's household. What memories will your boy have in his hour of need? You are writing that record now.

He "came to himself." The man in sin is really unbalanced, abnormal, not himself, spiritually insane. When he "came to" he knew that he was in the way of the perishing. Then came

2. Repentance and Return (vv. 20, 21). To repent means to change your mind, to turn your life in an "about face" from sin to God. Repentance calls for more than thinking or talking or praying. One must act. The young man "arose and came to his father." That was his part, and then came the father's part—

3. Restoration and Rejoicing (vv. 22-24). The son expected to return as a hired servant, but his father restored him to full family fellowship. God is gracious, and the repentant sinner finds himself clad in the spotless robe of Christ's righteousness, wearing the ring of sonship, with shoes on his feet, so that he may go on the errands of his Father.

God's plan of salvation brings no half-way redemption. There are no steps or distant relatives in His family. It is a full salvation which brings glorious fellowship in life and service.

You who are still eating the husk of this world, who are in the far country tending swine, we invite you too to come to God and share in the rejoicing in the Father's house.

Life a Struggle

Life is a struggle, but not a warfare; it is a day's labor, but labor on God's earth, under the sun and stars with other laborers, where we may think and sing and rejoice as we work.—John Burroughs.

Women Are Cooler

Women are usually cooler than men not only because of their lighter-weight clothing but also because of their lower metabolic rate, says Collier's. A recent series of scientific experiments reveals that, on the average, women's limbs are three degrees cooler, their arms four degrees cooler and their hands and feet five degrees cooler than those of men.

"FRIENDSHIP IN A CUP"

YOU ARE AN INFLUENTIAL PERSON

The merchant who advertises must treat you better than the merchant who does not. He must treat you as though you were the most influential person in town. As a matter of cold fact you are. You hold the destiny of his business in your hands. He knows it. He shows it. And you benefit by good service, by courteous treatment, by good value—and by lower prices.

Varied Activities of Panhandle WPA Dist.

Construction and modernizing of 57 public buildings in the 26 counties comprising the Amarillo WPA district has been completed during the past six years, it was reported by District Manager A. A. Meredith.

Meredith's statement, highlighting WPA physical accomplishments since the inception of the Federal agency in July, 1935, listed project completions on 27 schools, 21 recreational buildings, two auditoriums, and four gymnasiums.

Improvements have been completed on 1,167 miles of Panhandle roads, largely farm-to-market routes leading to Amarillo and other marketing and shopping centers in this area. In connection with this work there were installed 125 bridges and 861 culverts.

The outdoor recreational facilities created and reconstructed by WPA workers in the Amarillo district include such items as seven parks, one fair ground, 10 athletic fields, two swimming pools, one golf course, and 13 stadiums, grandstands and bleachers.

Municipalities have utilized WPA assistance in the expansion of two water and sewage disposal systems. Other work listed by Meredith included the improvement of two fish hatcheries, the construction of 11 flood control dams and one water storage dam in this area.

The Amarillo district is composed of 26 Panhandle counties.
