WFA Releases Canned Foods

Approximately 2,780,000 cases of canned peaches, peas and tomato catsup were released to consumers, recently by the War Food Administration. The canned goods probably will not reach retail shelves for several weeks. These foods were a portion of the reserve canned and held by canners to meet possible emergency requirements of the government.

Reduce Octane in Gas

Premium gasoline used by civilians will be reduced from 78 and 80-octane to 76-octane to conserve tetraethyl lead and volatile gasoline fractions, both of which are required in the manufacture of high-octane military gasoline. More than 50 million gallons of gasoline fuel oils, lubricants, and other petroleum products are going directly to the fighting forces every day, the Petroleum Administrator for War disclosed. One-third of all gasoline produced in the U. S. is now required for military purposes.

Tire Situation Tightens

Operators of passenger cars may find it impossible to obtain used tires because commercial vehicles delivering essential goods are now eligible to receive used passenger and truck tires of sizes smaller than 7.50-20 to replace tires no longer serviceable. November quotas recently released by OPA for new passenger and truck tires show 30% fewer for trucks and 14% fewer for passenger cars.

No More Books 1 or 2

No more copies of War Ration Books 1 or 2 can be issued by local rationing boards for any purpose whatsoever. All stamps in the two books have expired except stamp 18 in book 1, for shoes, and blue stamps X, Y and Z in book 2, which may be used to buy processed foods through Nov. 20. OPA said the covers of the two books may be thrown away when the stamps have been used or have expired.

Ration-Free Children's Shoes

Some relief from the shortage of youngsters' shoes will be provided about the first of the year by a new supply of children's non-leather shoes for general wear, to be sold ration-free. OPA has announced. In general, children up to about 8 years of age will benefit. The shoes will have canvas uppers and soles made from remnants and heavy woven fabric, reinforced with vulcanized rubber. Shoes of this type larger than misses' and youths' size three will be rationed.

Out New Car Quota

Only 20,000 new passenger automobiles have been released for rationing during November. OPA has announced. This is the lowest figure since rationing began and represents a reduction of nearly 25% from the October quota of 26,800.

Ceramic Stove Model Built

The first ceramic cooking stove model to be built in the United States was recently demonstrated at the National Bureau of Standards. The stove contains only 81 pounds of metal, mostly cast iron. The pre-war all metal model which it supplants weighed 1,085 pounds. The ceramic stove is designed to be heated with anthracite or coke. It uses only about 10 pounds of fuel in 24 hours and if it is fired every 12 hours it will be ready for use at any time. It is expected that the first ceramic cooking stove will reach the market around the first of the year. The purchase price has not been determined yet, but it will presumably be lower than that of the all-metal ones.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEE F

Scouting an foot in Tunisia, Pf. Charles H. Evans was captured by 30 Italian infantrymen and marched to the rear. A bayonet at his back, Evans whirled, disarmed his guard, and escaped. Although wounded by rifle fire, he hid in a cactus patch till nightfall, slipped back to our forces with valuable information picked up as a prisoner. For this he wears the Purple Heart and the Silver Star. Celebrate Evans' escape with another War Bond.

American Battle Planes Must Be World's Best, Is Pledge of Designers and Manufacturers

U. S. Air Superiority Result of Constantly Improved Machines

The test of battle—the only valid test of the performance of combat aircraft—has by now resulted in a number of box scores which reveal the pattern of accomplishment of American combat planes.

"In every theater of operations, American airmen and American planes have met the challenge of our enemies and outfought them by scores never worse than two to one in our favor," said Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces. "All types of American fighter planes have shot out of the skies the best interceptors both Germany and Japan have put against them." This has been true since January, 1942, when our planes were outnumbered on practically all fronts.

While much of this favorable fighting ratio is attributable to the excellent training, versatility and courage of our pilots, a good part is traceable to the mechanical superiority of our planes. Constant improvement is the watchword. Even though production schedules must be delayed, our aircraft must be the best possible, say army and navy air corps officers.

Here is a summary of the chief combat planes which have run up the high scores in our favor from a report just released by the Office of War Information:

Fighters.

V-type liquid-cooled engines are found in most fighter models because the long, slender shape of a liquid-cooled engine is more adaptable to streamlined fighter design. It allows better vision, and has a smaller frontal area for the same horsepower. But it will be noted that in the P-47, where 2,000 horsepower was desired, an air-cooled engine was used. The same is true of the navy's Vought F4U (Corsair) and the new Grumman F6F Hellcat. The navy uses no liquid-cooled engines.

The navy's fighter program is large. An airplane carrier carries torpedo planes, bombers and fighters, and of these the fighters are needed to protect the other planes and the carrier itself. Fighters also protect land bases. In the South Pacific, army P-38's are doing this latter job along with navy fighters.

In the opinion of the materiel command, the Curtiss P-40, or Warhawk, has reached the limit of its developmental possibilities. It has gone through numerous type changes, the most basic being the P-40F when the engine was changed from Allison to Merlin.

Although the latest model P-39 ceiling and general performance have been improved, the P-39 has shared the climb-deficiency of the P-40. It is being supplanted by a new model now under construction, with a low drag wing and a two-stage Allison supercharged engine which will make it an efficient plane at any altitude up to 38,000 or 40,000 feet. The greatest efficiency of the P-39 models has been below 15,000 feet. Like the P-39, the new plane will be equipped with cannon.

Low Altitude Fighter.
Although superior to the P-40 and P-39, the original P-51 or Mustang is also only a low and medium-altitude fighter. Now in production is a new P-51 with a highly supercharged, Packard-built, Rolls-Royce Merlin engine, similar to the Merlin 61 engine in the newest Spitfires. Its performance is reported as even better than that famous ship's. The new engine gives the plane the highest ceiling (up to 40,000 feet) and the highest speed (well over 400 miles an hour) of any fighter in existence.

The A-36 (Invader), the fighter-bomber version of the P-51, has seen heavy service in the Mediterranean theater, and its best features are being incorporated in the new P-51, which will replace both the A-36 and the old P-51.

The latest model of the Lockheed P-38 or Lightning is a fast, powerful fighter that has been given greatly increased horsepower in its Allison engine, improved pilot's vision, and improved intercooling for better high-altitude performance. It outperforms the Zero and later Jap fighters at all altitudes.

The P-38 has always possessed the versatility that is coming increasingly to characterize all combat aircraft. It has excelled at low-altitude strafing, high-altitude fighting, and as a particularly long-range bomber escort. Its distinctive silhouette, with its twin tail booms, has been seen over four major fighting fronts. The newest fighter at present in combat, the P-47 or Thunderbolt, has been currently rolling up a score of approximately four to one in its contests with Messerschmitts and high-flying Focke-Wulfs over England, France and the Low Countries. Armed with eight .50 caliber machine-guns, and heavily armor-plated, it is capable of flying over 400 miles an hour and of reaching an altitude of 40,000 feet.

High Scorer for Navy.

The Grumman Wildcat or F4F, a navy fighter, with Pratt & Whitney Twin Wasp air-cooled engine and with folding wings for compact stowage on aircraft carriers, has run up many high scores in Mediterranean. Although the F4F will continue to be manufactured for use on auxiliary carriers and for training, it is now being supplemented by a new plane, the Grumman F6F (Hellcat).

This newest member of the navy's fighter family is described by the navy as "an answer to the prayers of our pilots!"

A big brother of the famous Grumman Wildcat, the Hellcat has better range, speed, climb, maneuverability and altitude. It has a 2,000-horsepower engine as compared with the Wildcat's 1,200. It has a low wing, improved armor, and a new flexible type gasoline tank which is an improvement over the ordinary puncture-proof type. It carries .50 caliber machine guns.

The Corsair or F4U also has a 2,000-horsepower Pratt & Whitney engine and is easily distinguishable by its inverted gull wing. The Corsair has until recently been the chief navy fighter in the South Pacific. Now Hellcats are beginning to join it in large numbers.

Heavy, Four-Engine Bombers.

The newest models of both the Boeing B-17 (Flying Fortress) and the Consolidated B-24 (Liberator) bombers are equipped with new defensive armament in the form of nose turrets with machine gun installations. External bomb-racks can increase the potential bomb capacity of the B-17 to 17,600 pounds. Nevertheless, this plane has a smaller bomb capacity at long range than the B-24. The most accurate comparison, perhaps, is to say that load-

HELLCAT—Successor to the famous Grumman "Wildcat" is the new "Hellcat." It has folding wings, as shown in the picture below, so that it will take up a minimum of space on the deck of a carrier. The Hellcat is a standard fighter now in both the U. S. and British navies. It has more power and climbs faster than the Wildcat.

ed with 2,000 gallons of gasoline the B-17 can carry 6,000 pounds of bombs (the usual load carried over targets in western Europe), whereas the B-24, with 2,900 gallons, can carry 8,000 pounds of bombs. Consequently the B-17 is being concentrated in the western European theater and the B-24 is being used chiefly elsewhere—in the Middle East, in India, China and Australia—for longer range operations. B-24's have made round-trip flights up to 2,600 miles; the raid on the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania from bases in Egypt, the raid on the Messerschmitt works at Wiener-Neustadt, and raids in the Pacific on Wake, Paramushiru and Surabaya. The B-24 is used by the navy under the designation PB4Y-1.

Medium, Light and Dive Bombers.

New models of the two-engine Tokyo raider, the North American B-25 (Mitchell), are equipped with heavier armament and possess increased speed and range. The B-25 is the chief medium bomber in the present program, production of the Martin B-26 (Marauder) being tapered off. B-25's, powered with Wright Cyclone engines, are flying on 11 fronts, are used by both army and navy for anti-submarine patrol service, and have scored particular successes with skip-bombing.

The Douglas A-20 (Havoc) is the principal light army bomber in the program until the totally new, advanced light bomber mentioned above comes into production. The newest Havoc, used by the army for low-level bombing, is fitted with a power turret and with armament for ground strafing.

The A-24, army version of the Douglas SBD (Dauntless) dive-bomber, is now being produced in decreasing numbers, chiefly for training purposes.

Grumman Avenger.

The Grumman Avenger, the navy's carrier-based torpedo-bomber, has completely supplanted the Douglas TBD (Devastator). It carries machine guns as well as torpedo or bombs, and has destroyed many Japanese vessels in the Pacific.

Chief among the navy's patrol bombers are three flying boats and two land planes. The land planes are the Consolidated PB4Y-1 and the Vega PV-1. The flying boats are the Consolidated PBV (Catalina), Consolidated PB2Y (Coronado), and Martin PBM (Mariner). All three flying boats are used for transport purposes as well as for patrol and bombing operations. The two-engine PBV, the oldest, slowest and smallest, the ship which first spotted the Jap forces on the Aleutians, is still being built, still dive-bombing and strafing enemy shipping and rescuing pilots who have been downed at sea. The four-engine PB2Y has double the horsepower of the PBV. The PBM does good work in anti-submarine coastal patrol and long-range reconnaissance. Not even the newest navy flying boats have speeds much above 200 miles an hour, but all are required to be able to land in a choppy sea.

The Vega PV-1 (a navy adaptation of the twin-engine Vega B-34 "Ventura" bomber) is the navy's chief land-based anti-submarine patrol plane. It carries depth charges or a torpedo, is heavily armored, and is now often used in preference to flying boats in anti-submarine operations because of its greater speed.

The Consolidated PB4Y-1 is a four-engine land-based bomber and, as previously mentioned, is used for long-range bombing missions and for anti-submarine patrol work.

Design and Technical Improvements
Aeronautical engineering demands experimentation with numerous designs in order to obtain several high-performance aircraft of the required types.

But on the other hand, the constant improvements being made on models already in use, and the continuing addition of totally new airplanes to our forces, slow down the rate of production.

Nevertheless, even at this stage in the war, when clear-cut air superiority over the enemy has been achieved, there is no assurance that the planes which have achieved it are superior to planes which the enemy may produce tomorrow. Changes in strategic and tactical problems, too, and changes of terrain over which fighting takes place, bring with them new demands for aircraft design and equipment. Even planes which have run up high box-scores must be constantly improved and replaced. The make-up of our air fleet has never been static, and is not to become so.

Sign of the Times in Southwest Pacific

Two entertainers and their chauffeur read a prediction by President Roosevelt on this huge sign posted along one of our invasion routes in New Guinea. Reading the message are Ray Bolger, atop the rear seat, "Little Jack Little," left, and Col. C. S. Meyers. The entertainers have been putting on shows for the Allied troops in the Southwest Pacific.

Ancient and Modern Locomotion in Italy

Italian peasants with their bullock cart present a strange contrast to the lightning-fast, streamlined fighter planes of the Royal Air force at an air field near Naples. The bullock team was loaned by a local farmer to clear the field for use by the RAF. This is a typical example of the cooperation Italian and Sicilian peasants have given the Allied armies as our forces steadily move northward toward Rome and Berlin despite desperate German resistance.

Modern Armor for Knights at Sea

Three views of the navy's new battle dress. It protects the wearer from small fragments, flash burns, drowning, and underwater explosions. It weighs 3 pounds 12 ounces, is made of gray-green poplin, covers the entire body except the face and hands, and is padded from neck to thighs.

Many Zeros in Their Batting Average

A few of the fighter pilots of the 14th U. S. air force in China who broke up a big force of Jap bombers attempting to destroy the 14th's air field. The total enemy loss was 15 bombers and 2 Zeros confirmed, 7 bombers and 2 Zeros probably destroyed, and 3 bombers and 4 Zeros damaged. The raid was attempted on Japan's "aviation day."

ON THE HOME FRONT

THIS bag was planned as a gift for someone who was finding days in bed difficult enough without having books, magazines and writing materials scattered about. If you like to take an assortment of reading matter to bed, sick or well, you will enjoy a bag like this. Its hanger hook may be sewed to box springs and there you are with everything handy. The bag shown here was made of a remnant of heavy cotton upholstery materials in tones of green with a touch of red in the pattern. The red was repeated in the sateen lining. The sketch gives all the dimensions and shows how the lining and the outside part were made. A coat hanger was cut down to measure 12 inches from end to end and was placed between the lining and the outside; these being stitched together around the top, as illustrated.

NOTE—This bedside bag is but one of thirty-two useful things to make for the home, that are illustrated with detailed directions in BOOK 8 of the series prepared for readers. The price of BOOK 8 is 15 cents. Send your order to:

Peace-Time Photos Help Allied Airmen in Raids

About 8,000,000 photographs and motion pictures taken by American and British tourists in enemy and enemy-held countries during peace years have been donated to the Armed Forces of the Allied Nations to help them identify landmarks, says Pathfinder.

Many have proved very useful particularly the snapshots from which RAF bombers were able to recognize and destroy the Axis headquarters in Sicily, a hotel in Taormina, just before the invasion of the island.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Ceylon, Africa and tropical America are expected to provide the U. S. with 54,000 long tons of crude rubber during 1943. In 1939, it is estimated, 497,473 long tons of crude were imported by this country.

Fara, Brazil, was the first great rubber center. Founded in 1615, it became an important port for foreign trade about 1775. A hundred years later it was the rubber capital of the world.

Rubber obtained from a native wild vine in the Belgian Congo made Leopold II of Belgium wealthy during the 1890-1910 period. Plantation rubber development killed the Congo vine boom.

FIRE PREVENTION

Editorial by Carl Dwyer, English
Fire! That invaluable friend or dreaded enemy! Where would we be without fire to cook our meals, keep us warm, and thousands of other things? We would still be in the primitive age. During this age man thought fire was sent by an angry God and knew not how to control it. We have learned differently and can control and prevent fires if we will all take part. Let's wake up and keep fire as our friend.

In our forests we have rangers and look-out towers to prevent fires. In our cities we have firemen, fire hydrants, street cleaners, fire trucks, and many other organizations and instruments for preventing and stopping fires. In our homes, there are many ways we can prevent fire from becoming our enemy. We should treat fire like an automobile. We can be careful and be safe, or we can be careless and have a wreck. Never do tomorrow what you can do today! Fix that faulty chimney today and play safe. Remove that trash from the attic, and gather up that waste paper that might cause fire, today.

Spontaneous combustion sometimes takes place among oily rags. That is, a fire may break out among the rags because of the heat the rags generate. Put those oily rags where this won't happen. A pound of prevention is worth a ton of cure in case of fire. It is so easy to set that box of matches out of the children's reach, or to move those oily rags or gather up that paper, but we get careless. We have fire prevention week once a year, but we should observe fire prevention every day. Stop and think, America, let's keep our homes safe by keeping fire as a friend!

MY NEIGHBOR'S LOSS

By Ann Wilson
Yes, I'm selling part of my land to the market. It's no because of the war, either; it's because of a careless man who almost an invalid. It begins when the leaves first begin to get green. I plowed my land a little deeper than usual and stirred the ground a little more. I tilled over that piece of land for many days. After working my land thoroughly I carefully planted my wheat. I made the rows nice and straight so I could win the annual prize for the most picturesque wheat field. I guarded that grain carefully until there was no further need. Then I went out every day to see how fast it ripened. Sam Peter's house is right next to my field and he was helping his wife do her fall house cleaning, although I expect he did more harm than good. They had cleaned everything carefully and had gathered together a bunch of old clothes and papers to be burned. He set them on fire and immediately forgot them and the first thing he knew a spark had ignited my wheat field. That was the last thing he knew, too, for in trying to fight the fire he burned himself fatally. He could have easily prevented this by placing a screen over his trash barrel. And that is the reason I am selling my land. I have nothing to feed them. But my loss was hardly greater than Sam's.

SADIE, THE SNOOPER

Gather 'round, chillen, while I tell some more key-hole news. Well, fan my brow if Freddie Johnson didn't trom-her-bone for Don Steadman Friday night. Nice helper, no? Grace Smith, how come you were eating by yourself Friday night? Not counting Bill Hill. Why, Lela Hamlin, you are still wearing your diamond! How do you do it? HOMEMAKING NEWS

First year homemaking students are finishing their aprons and getting ready to begin other garments—dresses, housecoats and pajamas. These girls are learning that sewing is not so hard after all and that it is a skill well worth knowing because "she saves who sews for victory."

Second year students from the fourth period class entertained 26 members and guests with a very successful Halloween party Tuesday night, October 26. The class wishes to express appreciation to the Methodist church for the use of its basement.

From a study of current articles concerning foods and nutrition second year students are realizing the importance of food as a weapon, not just something to eat and to study about in class. Let's all remember that "Food fights for freedom" and do our share: "Produce and conserve—share and play square." Future Homemakers of Texas and Future Farmers of America worked together at the carnival to make a profit of $23.75 from their booth. The Homemakers will use their half of the money for department improvements.

The grand total from all departments and classes at the carnival held in grade school Oct 30, was $237.96.

FASHIONS

The senior boys have the fashions for the week. Did you ever see such handsome boys? (Except in the movies). Johnny Chilton leads the parade with a green herringbone tweed suit accompanied by a tan shirt, tan tie and brown and tan shoes. James McClellan comes in next in a blue pin-stripe suit with a tan shirt, brown and tan tie and brown shoes.

Billy Hill was diked out in a brown suit with a white shirt and a brown and tan tie. He wears brown oxfords. Raymond Smith wears a navy blue pin-stripe suit, a tan shirt, brown tie and black shoes. Russell Blackerby wears tan trousers, brown coat, white shirt, rust tie and brown shoes. Roy Nelson was dressed in a brown suit, tan shirt, brown tie and brown shoes.

Did anyone notice that most of these boys are dressed in brown? And none of them are twins, either. Our magazine sales amounted to $39.95—Juniors, $11.30; seniors, $28.65.

Maybe you won't be glad to see him home after all!

ONE DAY, your man will come home. Home—after having done his duty and played his part in the bitterest, cruellest fight of all time. And you? Will you be able to welcome him back with nothing but sheer joy and thankfulness in your heart? Or will the sight of him remind you, for the rest of your life, that even though your job was unutterably easier than his, you still didn't do it—you didn't quite measure up? That would be a miserable thing to have happen to you. It would be a miserable feeling to carry through the years. So don't take any chances. Don't just buy your share of War Bonds. There is little point in celebrating Armistice Day now, as it represents a lost cause. The day we want to celebrate is when peace comes again to the world.

The brewers have asked that their workers be deferred as being in an essential industry. Not many men will agree that they have an indispensable product when they are using grains and supplies so badly needed by cattle feeders and others. Then when it is remembered that every corner in every slum district in the cities has a tavern, many of them ratholes that are a disgrace to the nation, and a hot-bed of anything but real American patriotism, it is difficult to sympathize with them. The old saloon was rather a respectable place compared to some modern taverns.

7TH GRADE

Boy! We sure did have fun at the Hallowe'en carnival. Mr. Mc said that the cafeteria made the most money of all the booths.

On the junior football team the captain is Doyle Jones. Center is Jack Brooks; left end is Richard Nicholson; right end is Vernon Turner; right half is John Griffith; left half back is Bruce Hugg; Doyle Jones is quarter back.

What is this that we are hearing about Lavea Jo Gunn and Vernon Turner?

Boy, Gene Ashby and Sally Ann Ledbetter sure are getting thick these days.

SECOND GRADE

The second grade boys and girls of Miss Gallegly's room gave a program Friday just after the program by Mrs. Gray's and Mrs. Denison's rooms.

The truly American home was presented with the "Preamble to the Constitution of the United States of America." Uncle Sam and Miss Liberty were in attendance with the guardian angels.

Boys and girls of the second grade are grateful to all the people who helped, in any way, during the school carnival.

There were several of the mothers who attended the program on the fifth.

The mothers have been very proud to prepare costumes for the children to wear in the programs. Miss Gallegly and the children wish to thank them.

EIGHTH GRADE NEWS

Did you hear what I heard? I heard that Maurine Harlan went to the football game with a high school boy whose initials are J. C.

Billy Boston has lost his charm. He can't get a girl to go to the football games any more with him.

Joann Howard, our class canary, is moaning and bewailing because her boy friend, Bobby Beall, packed up and left for high school—such luck.

Maurine Harlan was seen again with Jack Carpenter at the football game. No wonder, she wore a sweater.

Joann Howard and Sue Davis were also with them.

Maurine denies he is her boy friend. Too bad, Jack. You ought to have heard what she called you—a skunk, a long-eared alligator and a sob sister. No more dates for Maurine after Friday, much less midnight rendezvous.

Dorothy Sue Davis was seen running after a high school LI! Abner like Daisy May on Sadie Hawkins day. Could you inform us who he was?

Maurine was cheering for Canadian, her home town (so she says), and I know why—she has a couple of boy friends on the Canadian team.

Mona Caldwell's dream boy, Harry Ferguson, moved to San Antonio. Too, too bad.

Joann Howard, our class canary sure looks swanky in sweaters.

Yvonne Clark has lost her charm, and she is getting very jealous of Maurine; she has the pick of the eighth grade crop.

Mona Caldwell looks very charming in her new suede oxfords.

1ST AND 2ND GRADES

The first and second grade are making a fine progress.

The children of the first grade are enjoying their readers. It is a new health reader called "Good Morning and Good Night." We are very interested in the lovely health stories.

Last week we had our program Rodney Gunn was our announcer. We are glad so many mothers were present.

This week we are having a Red Cross drive. The children are very anxious and are doing their best in helping.

We had two days of perfect attendance and hope to have more. We are trying very hard not to be absent unless it is absolutely necessary.

How much is "duty"?

WHEN A SOLDIER charges up a newly established beachhead heedless of the shells and machine-gun bullets ripping around him . . . that's duty.

When a sailor stands at an anti-aircraft gun fiercely firing at an enemy plane, disregarding the boom and lead falling from the skies . . . that's duty.

A soldier or a sailor has duty clearly defined for him.

But how much is "duty" for a civilian?

There is no clear definition. But there is one job which every man and woman of us must consider duty if he would like to see the war shortened and our fighting men back with us.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are some-time burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's tells the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere.

Tots' Coats and Legging Sets Of Gay Wools and Warm Aralac

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT fun it is to design fashions for the young fry! There is really big satisfaction in catering to youngsters for they are so responsive. The way they simply bubble over with glee when you make or buy them something new, and the way they look so cunning in their clothes repays a hundredfold and then some for all the time and effort put into creating cunning toggery for them. This year especially, designers of juvenile coats and dresses and intriguing hats, purses and other accessories to go with them have come through with the most charming fall and winter outfits one might ever hope to see.

It adds to the zest of the juvenile fashion game that the child of today is so amusingly and so acutely style conscious. Designers in creating little folks fashions are coming more and more to take into consideration latest trend in adult clothes. The average little girl is a keen observer and delights in aping the styles of her elders.

For instance, quite grown up and self-possessed is the wee lady to the left in the picture, as she goes stepping in a coat cut a la Chesterfieldian. It's of yellow wool, which goes to show that coatings for tots as well as for adults make gay color the big news this winter. The gloves and the purse she carries show that this little lassie knows her accessories. Characteristic of this season's trends is the military precision of the buttons that go down the front of this coat. The two-flap pockets and the tiny collar are also up-to-the-moment details. It's a type coat that teams perfectly in wintertime with matching leggings.

The coat and hat twosome worn by the "all-dressed-up" little lady centered in the illustration presents a study for mothers who feel the patriotic urge to practice wartime economy in clothing little daughter these days. This child couldn't help being thrilled with the way her mommy has turned her out a veritable little fashion plate by retrimming her last year's coat and hat. How did she accomplish the magic? The answer is the new intriguing felt cutout applique motifs which come ready-cut in individual packages. A boon to economy-bent mothers are these most attractive flower trims which can be used so effectively to liven up last season's clothes or to add fetching color accent to new ones.

The "comfy" looking fly-front Chesterfield legging suit in the foreground to the right is just such as every little girl should have for winter protection. The outfit is in natural color fleece with velvet collar. The most important thing about it is that it is made warm and snug with an Aralac interlining.

Mothers who are wanting to keep children comfortably clad during the snow and icy days to come will find in Aralac, either as an interlining, or used as rayon or cotton or other materials would be, a happy solution to their problems. This wonder of wonders that is so amazing, is as warm as wool. The marvel of it is that it is really a man-made casein fiber, scientifically produced through adding certain chemicals to skimmed milk. The curds are washed, dried and dissolved and the liquid forced through a spinneret. A fiber results that works up into materials and interlinings as warm as wool and delightfully light weight. Aralac is just in its infancy, but it is already playing a versatile part in children's wear. You will find such interesting items made of it as charming snow suits used alone or in blend with other fibers; also clever brother and sister suits in pretty colors, some trimmed with beaver. The new quilted Aralac interlinings are cheerfully colorful.

Corduroy Ensemble

An investment that will pay dividends in smart appearance and practicality 'round the clock, in every season, and for many seasons to come, is this man-tailored suit of wide-wale cotton plush or corduroy. This aristocratic cotton is one of the season's most popular for suits, coats and accessories, like the shoulder bag in this picture. A practical bag like this will prove a treasure in giving service and wear. The young lady's pancake of stitched velveteen is stunning. This hat with a stitched velveteen muff to match will look smart with your tweeds as well as your corduroys.

THE SANCTITY OF THE HOME

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-30; Mark 10:2-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.—Matthew 5:8.

As the divinely appointed center of man's life, the home holds a place of such importance that it is the special target of Satan's offensive. That has always been true, but it seems that in recent years the onslaught against the home has been intensified.

Books, plays, movies, magazines, all contribute their filthy efforts to break down all sense of moral responsibility. Sex is magnified, and not in any useful or normal sense, but rather for the stimulating of unhealthy desires and purposes, the breaking down of Christian standards of living, and the ultimate prostitution of the most sacred of all human relationships to the lowest level of which animals might well be ashamed.

All this means that this lesson should be taught with a holy boldness and plainness which will make it effective for God in our homes.

We do not like to talk about adultery and related sins. We must speak with care and tact, but perhaps the time has come for some straightforward dealing with an unpleasant situation.

I. Protect the Purity of the Home

(Exod. 20:14; Matt. 5:27-30). Any violation of the divine plan for the marriage of one man and one woman, in loving communion for the founding and maintenance of the home, is a direct violation of the law of God.

It is also a violation of the law of man. It brings serious results in the destruction of the home, and in the ruin of individual life—physical, moral, and spiritual.

The words of Jesus broaden the interpretation of the commandment to cover all sexual impurity in thought, word, or deed.

We are to be firm and definite in our dealing with this temptation to moral uncleanness even though it be as painful as tearing out an eye or losing a hand. The command here is not necessarily to be interpreted literally. Tearing out an eye will not help if there is lust in the heart. The point is, go to the root of the matter, and get rid of it even if it hurts. Most of us are far too easy on our sinful impulses. We daily with them when we should destroy them.

II. Recognize Marriage as a Divine Institution

(Mark 10:2-8). The Pharisees, who had devised some ingenious schemes for getting rid of an undesired wife, wanted to get Jesus involved in the question. They put him up against Moses who had allowed divorce.

Jesus made it clear that this was not in accord with God's plan and only took place because of their sinful hardness of heart.

As a proper background for the discussion of divorce He set up the divine origin of marriage. He made it clear that marriage was ordained by God, and that it involves a holy union of two individuals which makes them one.

All those who look forward to marriage should realize that it is not a casual thing, or a merely temporary legal contract. It is a union for life—be it for better or worse, in sickness or health, in prosperity or adversity. All who are married should highly regard their sacred vows.

The high place of marriage in Christian teaching dignifies that relationship and denies the misleading and destructive theories of men.

III. Follow God's Law on Divorce

(Mark 10:9-12). Failure to observe God's law in these matters may involve a person in the guilt of gross sin. This passage and others teach that divorce is to be permitted on the one ground of adultery (Matt. 5:32).

Divorce and remarriage other than on grounds permitted by God involves the parties in the sin of adultery. Men may make laws based on the civil contract of marriage which provide differently, but man cannot remove marriage from its place as a divine institution, nor can he add to or take away from God's law concerning it.

Aware, as we are, of the laxness of some branches of the church in such matters, and the almost entire lack of standards in the world, we cannot but present the plain teachings of our Lord and urge every reader to follow the commandment of God's Word.

There can be no question that divorce is a major evil in our day. Statistics are positively shocking, but they are cold and quickly forgotten. But who can fail to see, and who can forget, the awful woe brought into American home life by divorce.

Bad as it is, the awful effect on parents is nothing compared to the nervous, moral and spiritual shock which comes to children in broken homes. And that problem is everywhere.

Robot Radio Operator

The lives of many torpedoed seamen may be saved by a new invention.

It is an automatic wireless transmitter. The ship's name and code mark are inscribed on a film, and the vessel's position is inserted on the film as often as conditions demand.

When a vessel is torpedoed or mined, the transmitter comes into action and continues to send out the ship's name as long as the ship remains afloat without the radio operator standing by. The inventor is Captain Espeseth, a Norwegian seaman.

Vice President Henry Wallace got a cool reception in Dallas where he barnstormed, attempting to line up 4th term support. Naturally he was greatly interested in second term support for himself, perhaps more so than he was willing to admit. Business is handicapped by many of the absurd rulings of the New Dealers, but Wallace would pile up our burdens. He has been crusading against business with the idea that some bureaucrat in Washington should tell each of us just what we should do. Wallace seems to forget—if he ever knew—that free enterprise is responsible for the greatness of America. Had not free enterprise built the great industries it would have taken New Dealers 10 years to bring our war production up to the stage it reached one year after Pearl Harbor. Of course, neither the President nor the Vice President have much of an idea as to what industry means, since neither have had to work for what they own. —Canyon News.
