TO YOUTH UNDER 18:

We of the armed forces urge every young man and woman of premilitary age who has been filling a summer war job to return to school this autumn. Such war work is important, but your education has top priority. You will serve your country best by making the most of your educational opportunities, for this is not only a brave man's war-it is also a smart man's war.

If you plan to enter military service, you will find that a good education offers the best assurance of progress and recognition. In all branches of service we need trained leaders, engineers, scientists and specialists. And in the years to follow victory we will need them even more, as our nation charts its progress in the post-war world.

Sincerely,

H. H. ARNOLD, General, U. S. Army Commanding General, Army Air Forces.

It's Time to Send Your Presents to Servicemen; 'Christmas Mail Month' Is Sept. 15 to Oct. 15

Privilege Granted On Overseas Gifts During This Period

The volume of Christmas mail going overseas to men and women in the armed forces this year will reach a new high, the office of war information predicts.

Approximately 33,000 uniformed men and women in the army and navy postal services are preparing for their biggest job-that of moving an estimated 70,000,000 packages of Christmas presents (three times as many as last year) to the military men and women overseas.

my postal officers are prepartwice as many Christmas parcels as were handled in 1943, when 20,000,-000 holiday packages were sent

The navy mail service expects nearly four times the volume of gifts handled in 1943 through fleet post offices in New York and San Francisco. A total of 7,480,000 packages went through the fleet post offices last year, 3,480,000 of them to advanced bases or ships at sea and 4,000,000 to ships putting in at Amer-

The service postal organizations can handle this enormous volume more easily with a little assistance from friends and relatives of soldiers and sailors. In 1943, the army post office transmitted more than 20 million holiday packages and an additional 75 million to 100 million pieces of miscellaneous mail,

The navy moved approximately 3,480,000 parcels overseas last Christmas and approximately four million packages to personnel on shore stations in the United States, and more than 80 million letters and Christmas cards during the Christmas mail period last year.

The army and navy intend to make every effort to deliver every Christmas gift overseas on time and intact. But a sailor will not be cheered if the gift he receives from his mother-for example: an expensive wristwatch - proves to have been ruined because it was completely buried in a box of cookies that have crumbled in transit, the navy said.

Distances, heat, cold, sand, dampness, fleet or combat operations, and the fortunes of war are hazards that complicate the delivery of all mail overseas, even without the Christmas gift delivery over which the sender has control is the type and condition of the parcel when it leaves his hands, the army and navy emphasized.

Mail Regulations.

1. Christmas mail month will comprise the 30-day period from September 15 to October 15, 1944, for all those in the armed services over-

This period is the only time during which packages may be sent to soldiers overseas without a specific written request from the soldier or without an APO cancellation.

Only one package may be sent by

Whenever the presents arrive is Christmas to soldiers across the seametimes the army and navy postal services deliver the goods sooner than expected, as happened last year in Italy, when packages from home arrived late in November. The boys opened them up at once, since they didn't know what they'd be doing or where they'd be on Christmas Day. It's safest to mail early, however, because unforeseen delays can along any time.

inches in length and 36 inches in length and girth combined.

The army recommends that the package container be a box of metal, wood, or solid doublefaced, corrugated fiberboard, reinforced with strong gummed paper tape or tied with strong twine or both.

Standardized boxes for mailing Christmas gifts to military personnel overseas will probably be on the market by September 1, the War Production board reported. Approximately 16,000,000 special applications for the purchase by retailers and box jobbers of these boxes have been filed with WPB.

WPB said that the standard boxes are to be manufacutured of 175tested corrugated paperboard. 12 by 634 by 4 inches, in regulation slotted carton style with taped manufacturers' joints. The post office department has recommended that gummed flaps be supplied with the boxes for sealing the parcels. WPB reported.

Blanks for address and return address will appear on the panels of the box, also the statement "this box to be used only for sending merchandise to a member of the armed forces outside the United 4. Address the package completely and legibly. Print the address so that it will not run, streak, smudge or fade. Place an additional copy of the address and return address inside the package, so that if it comes apart, or the wrapper is torn. soiled, or lost, the additional copy may be used. Do not use gummed labels for addressing.

The army and navy point out that they know what not to send overseas for Christmas, on the basis of past experience. But what to send is another thing altogether. In general, soldiers and sailors and others like gifts that are unobtainable where they are and remind them with special significance of home.

What Not to Send.

The services advise generally against sending articles that may be obtained by sailors in ships' serv-

Packages get rough handling all along the way, and unless they are securely wrapped and tied, they may be damaged in transit. Here is a scene in the New York postoffice, showing how busy sorters toss parcels into the hand-trucks. The big pile in the rear consists of packages that are coming undone-the string working off, or the wrapping loose. By the time your gifts have made the long trip in a mail sack, they have been subjected to a lot of bouncing around on the railroad and beat. The last stage may be made in a jeep or airplane.

overseas wrote: "During the Christ-

"Above all the fact should be stressed that mail sacks can be baked in the hot sun and drenched in transit, all in the same day.

The navy has found that unsuitable gifts include: leather goods (these mold in the tropics); choco lates (these melt); cigarettes (obtainable more cheaply in ships' stores); cameras (forbidden); electrical equipment (there may be no electricity available); food, unless tinned; liquor; clothing, unless re-

Fragile articles and soft candies and pastries are poor gifts for obvious reasons, the army reported.

Gifts Poorly Wrapped.

The army cautioned that boxes of miscellaneous gifts should be packed carefully. Razor blades, for example, require extra wrapping. Numerous cases have been recorded of improperly wrapped razor blades working through packages. In 1943, approximately 15 per cent of the Christmas mail handled by the navy was delayed in transit because of incorrect or incomplete addressing, the navy reported. One navy postal officer wrote from the Pacific theater:

"It needs no considerable stretch of your imagination to understand how mail looks after it has been shipped for thousands of miles by water, then worked and shipped again, reworked and reshipped until it arrives at a Fleet Post office for directory service. By this time, any of the parcel post that was at all inclined to be perishable is thoroughly decomposed, causing damage to mails adjacent.

"Only today we dumped up a sack containing the contents of a parcel which had come entirely apart. There were rotten apples, decayed oranges, melted candy and stale cake crumbs throughout the entire sack. This happens all too frequently.

"A great deal of it was originally poorly wrapped. Many parcels have sticker addresses. The sacks may have become wet in transit, causing the labels to come off. Frequently these stickers have been hurriedly slapped on, leaving tiny air pockets beneath them. Friction in transit causes these to wear off in spots. All too often addresses are in pencil, or, if in ink, the ink has become wet and illegible."

Again this year soldiers overseas will be able to select gifts for the folks back home from the mail order catalogue operated by the army exchange service, special services division. Listed gifts include: men's toiletries, haberdashery, leather goods, luggage, games, including playing cards, books, magazine subscriptions, dolls, toys, doll dishes, stuffed animals, smokers' supplies, candy, perfumes, cosmetics and lingerie.

First Railroad Post Office Carried Mail to Soldiers

Eighty years ago the first permanent railroad post office was established to speed up mail for soldiers. On August 28, 1864, George B. Armstrong, then assistant postmaster of Chicago, sent his first railway post office on its way over the Chicago and North Western railway from Chicago to Clinton, Iowa, Within a years the new system of exng the mails spread to include al trunk lines of the na-

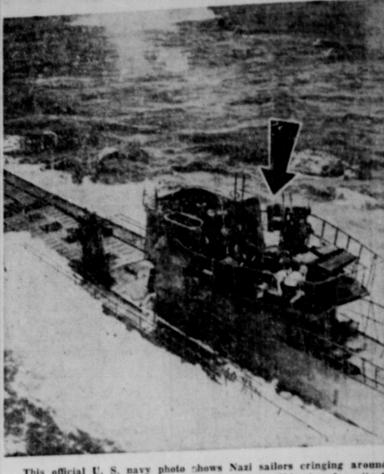

world adopted the idea eventually. Armstrong instituted the service with approval of the postmaster general as a means of facilitating distribution of mail, particularly to men in the army. From the first, Armstrong envisioned a national system and lived to see his plan become a success, despite public doubts and ridicule when he first announced his plan.

along to witness the initial operation. One banker refused to be convinced of the plan's practicability, remarking that "all the mail would blow out of the car."

Although Armstrong is generally credited with the first permanent railway post office, others preceded him by a few years with similar plans. All, however, were devised to eet local emergencies and no plan erated more than a year.

End of a Nazi Submarine

This official U. S. navy photo shows Nazi sailors cringing around the conning tower (arrow points to Germans) of a U-boat under attack by U. S. army and navy planes. A few minutes later this sub sank under the hail of bombs from army Mitchell B-25 and navy Liberators. Nazi submarines are becoming scarce articles these days.

Mourn at Camp of Annihilation

Photo shows a few of the thousands of Poles weeping for their loved ones at the edges of the huge burial pits at the ill-famed "Camp tion, an American dough of Annihilation" in suburban Lublic, Poland, The Nazi burnt to ashes marches through Torigny on the bodies of thousands upon thousands of victims of their tortures and threw the remains into the pit. Special ovens were built for this purpose.

Heels of the retreating Germa Yanks have been presented we hundreds of different kinds of purpose.

Latest Moves Against Nazi

Heaviest opposition of the southern France invasion was met between St. Raphael and Cannes and from there to Nice. Glider hordes were dropped all along the Riviera, and huge landings were made in St. Tropez bay zone. It was announced that bombers had destroyed every small rail bridge in Rhone valley, indicated by large arrow.

Clearing the Way for Yanks

The engineers do their part, and it is usually a dangerous and hard part. The men of this American engineer unit are shown combing the streets of Lessay, France, in the hunt for mines. Making the roads safe for the Allied advance in France is only one of the jobs of these engineers. Hundreds of bridges must be rebuilt for the advance.

CHAPTER XVIII

"I had only four bombs-we hadn't had time to load more before the graid alarm blew and we'd had to clear off the field-so I sighted on the last ship and let go all four in a

"If you're dropping instantaneous fase bombs, of course you see the plash of deck planking and debris the instant it hits, but it doesn't do much damage-all on the surface. But these were delayed-action fuses. From that altitude there isn't much b see when they first crack the deck. There's a little pause, and then there's the sweetest geyser of deck splinters, and form, and machinery, and Japanese infantry cororals you'd ever hope to gaze down t As I think I said, we blew her tern off. I kept peeking back un-I the debris subsided, and I could see solid blue water between the we halves of the ship.

"We got back to Madiun Field just in time to take off in the face of three strafing Zeros, our side gunser-a National Guard boy we'd picked up in Java; the rest of his outfit all stayed and got capturedmocking one of them down almost before we got our wheels up. When the other two went away we relanded, and found a bomb somewhere had knocked our electricity set. We had to refuel by hand, using flashlights. Also we were using them trying to repair our brakes then all of a sudden came a terrific Bang! It shook the ship so badly it knocked one guy off the wing, and be fell face-down on the field. Of course we were sure that the Japs, seeing our flashlights, had dropped a bomb. But no. Oh, no!

"It was just the methodical Dutch, carefully scorching the earth by Mowing up our ammunition dump, which by some miracle we weren't war at the time.

"It wasn't until I'd hung up that I realized that when the 19th had left about, said they would pay the Java, there wouldn't be any way for me to get out. The hotel by now was emptying fast of foreign uniforms-I'd bade the first echelon of it would go through at all. Java was our Navy goodby. Poor old Java collapsing fast all around us. was being left to sink by herself, but since the newspapers were still about four days behind the actual news, the people didn't realize it yet. Things were moving fast.

"That day we heard a big Jap force was closing in off the north coast, headed for the Java beaches. We got reports from scout planes, even from submarines, but we didn't know just how big it was. Because hanging over it was a Jap fighter screen so thick that our recco planes didn't dare fly through to see. "We got a few reports from a tiny island which lies out in the Java Sea north of Surabaya, but omineusly its radio went dead. We realized the Japs had put a landing force ashore there.

"That night out went the tiny Dutch Navy-it was all they had left-which pounded them under cover of darkness and then pulled away.

There's a little pause, and then there's the sweetest geyser of deck splinters.

It did some good, because in the morning we found the Jap advance guard, which had been headed right for Java's beaches, now pulled back a little, under that bomber-andfighter screen, waiting for the main force to come on up.

"Colonel Eubank was now in Jockstrap, and by telephone I put a problern up to him. The position of our fighter pilots in Java was hopeless now-any minute their field would be hit by Jap bombers and put out of operation. I wanted them to turn their P-40's over to the Dutch fighter pilots (who had nothing left now but three Hurricanes which had been rescited from Singapore) and come on out to Australia with us where we could continue the war.

'Further air defense in Java was hopeless. We had broken camp at Malang-Jap bombers were swarming over the island. "But Van Oeyen, the Dutch commander, wouldn't listen. He was a stout old infantry officer, and he had given orders to fight to the last.

"We had to plead our viewpoint with Van Oeyen. Yet it would be hard to explain to men who were defending their homes and families in this beautiful island, whose lives, when it fell, would be over.

"That night, fifty miles off Surabays, the naval battle was resumed. The main Japanese invasion force, ringed by submarines, was headed for our beaches. At midnight the United Nations Navy moved in to throw their little all into the balance. This final night the Dutch struck no glancing blow. It was now or never. They moved in and fought them toe to toe, the Australians at their side. It was pitiful, of course, and hopeless, as all of them knew. But the gallant Dutch preferred to die fighting out in the night rather than go skulking home to wait for the Rising Sun tanks to come rattling down their streets.

"Side by side, the Dutch and the Australians plunged through that outer ring of Jap submarines. The American forces took up the last defensive position, skirting the Jap back edge, firing on the run. It was our duty not to dissipate ourselves in lost causes, but to do what damage we could, and conserve our strength to strike again.

"Java died that night in the gunare which came rolling in over the water. It took until dawn for the Jap battle fleet to crunch to bits the Dutch and Australian navies. But early the morning before I

Hardware

We have reopened our hardware store in the building between City Food store and Stubblefield Department store, where we will have as complete stock of needed items as the times allow.

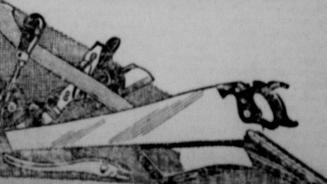

The store has been redecorated, new fixtures are installed and many items are now on display, with new shipments arriving daily.

We are open for business and will be glad to have all our old customers and anyone visit us at the new location at any time, whether you are ready to buy or not.

We probably have just what you need right now, but if not we will get it for you just as soon as priorities allow.

Scalloped Tops for Your Sash Curtains

ERE is a new idea for your kitchen curtains-or for sash curtains for any room. Crisp, sheer material such as lawn or organdie may be used and white or a plain light color will be most effective. The curtains are hung above eye level on a single rod fastened to the window sash. The four-inch-deep scalloped hem at the top shows through the sheer material giving a very decorative effect and the rings sewn to the points of the scallops make it possible to slide the curtains back and forth on the rods.

The trick in making the scalloped hem is in being sure that the curved edges follow a sharp, clean-cut line. All the steps are shown here in the diagrams.

first of October you will begin to prepare to house your pullets for the winter. When you put your pullets in the house for the winter, you want to feel that you will receive just as near a laying pullet for every bird housed as it is possible to obtain. Too, you will want to prevent them from having colds or chicken pox and to be free from worms.

First, see that your house is clean and thoroughly disinfected. Scrubthe floor, nests and roosts with hot lye water. After drying, disinfect with a good creosote disinfectant (Dip and Disinfectant, Fidelity, is a coal tar creosote disinfectant having a phenol co-ef of 5). Check the ventilation so that the pullets may have plenty of fresh air without being in drafts. GASOLINE CHISLERS ONES TO BLAME

"What may at first glance appear to be favoritism on the part of gasoline ration panels often turns out to be just plain chiseling by applicants for gasoline." District OPA Rationng Executive Ely Fonville reports.

People sometimes complain that an acquaintance is getting enough gas to take a vacation trip, visit voungsters go joy-riding. Almost blamed, especially by the persons who can get only two gallons a week. They seem to feel sure that there is unfair discrimination, or politics, or that someone has a "pull" with the gasoline panel.

"But in most cases." Fonville blamed, for the fault lies with the persons who have applied for more gasoline than they rightfully need for essential travel and who use the excess for unessential

No matter how fair-minded and conscientious the members of the gas panel are, they have no way of knowing or denying such dishonest claims. The applicants, not the gasoline panel members, are corrupt," he said.

"It is terribly unfair, unpatriotic and un-American that volunteer workers who make personal sacrifices to serve on gasoline panels should be blamed for a situation which in most instances is the result of dishonest applications."

SUNDAY DINNERS

Within recent years the women of this country have instituted sev. eral radical changes that tend to make life more pleasant. They have discarded the dirt-sweeping skirt and the tight corset. They have obtained property ownership and suffrage. They have seized the advantage of co-education and wiped out the ancient belief that woman as a class was inferior to the male of the species.

Another big day is coming in her behalf-the day when she rises in her might and throws off the old slave-like custom of the big Sunday dinner.

There is no reason why Mother should spend the graater part of the Sabbath day, as well as a goodly portion of the day before in preparing an elaborate meal that the family will gobble up in a lew minutes—then sit aroun wishing they hadn't eaten so much -while Mother does the dishes.

The average housewife puts in as hard a work-week as the average man; many of them harder Why, then, should she be expected to put in a busy Sunday getting up a meal for the men folks to gorge themselves on? To go a bit further why should Sunday be regarded as a day especially set aside for gorging by anybody?

This writer recently accompanied a neighbor family home from The mother slipped an apron over her church dress and quickly put on the stove a skillet of hamburgers. While they were cooking she cut a head of lettuce and covered it with a salad dress ing, meantime making a pot of Another member of the family buttered several slices of bread, while a third set the table.

Within a few minutes the en tire group sat down to a satisfywiches, salad and coffee, with milk There was a simple desert that had been prepared the day before.

It took only another 10 minutes or to clean up the dishes and the few cook utensils, and Mother had a free afternoon.

An experienced matron once remarked that the best way to hold a man's love is to "feed the brute." Sound logic, no doubt, but it is not stated that the woman needs to lead a dog's life in doing it .-E. C. Gorrell, editor Winimac (Ind.) Plaski County Democrat, in Capper's Farmer
