Brush Shelter
 Ever build a brush cover in your favorite fishing lake? Right now is just about the best time of the year to do it.
 If you like crappie or bream fishing, then a brush cover has a great deal to offer.
 Biologists are agreed that a good brush cover offers a definite advantage in catching fish. And a good one can be built in a couple of hours. It is hard work, however, especially if you are a desk man.
 Generally brush covers don't work too well in a running stream. They must be firmly anchored. In relatively still lakes they can be tied down with heavy rocks. However, if they can be built around an old tree trunk, it is even better.
 To build a brush shelter you'll need a sharp axe, a pair of pliers and plenty of baling wire. A good tow-rope will be helpful, too. It is best to work with two boats, or a boat and some type of barge or raft.
 The process of building the shelter is in itself relatively simple. Cut an armful of brush, such as willow, tie it together, and attach a stone so that it will sink to the bottom of the lake. Select a suitable spot where the shelter will not be a hazard to navigation, or get in the way of deep trawlers.

 It doesn't have to be too far from shore. At least a dozen large bundles of brush should be transported to the spot. Some of it should consist of a fair-sized brush, such as mesquite trees.
 In lowering the brush into the water, it is well that the brush be stacked, so that it will be in a pile at the bottom of the lake. A brush shelter a dozen feet around and some five or six feet through is ideal.

Some builders find it profitable also to anchor a bale of alfalfa hay in the center of the pile.
 To be most effective the brush should not be matted together. Fish must be able to swim around freely among the branches. At the same time, some shelter builders prefer a brush pile that big fish cannot get into... one that furnishes a refuge for smaller fish.
 When big fish chase the little ones into the brush pile, they'll hang around nearby. That's a pretty good time to lower a milt now in the vicinity. For that reason the perimeter should be well marked. Plenty of hooks can be lost fishing in brush shelters, if its bounds are not known.

Some fishermen use poultry netting to hold the brush together. In that event the entire project must be completed on land and then towed to its resting place.

We once heard of a fisherman who made an unusual, yet ideal, shelter in a lake that had just been lowered. He found a couple of old outhouses, filled them with heavy brush, then hauled them to a spot that would be just the right depth when the lake was re-filled. There he anchored them down to stay. They were flat on their sides, with the door open.

Needless to say, he had an ideal cover for fishing and caught more than his share of crappie and bream.

Another good plan is to build the sheltered directly under the end of the boat dock or pier. In this instance it is necessary to use heavy wire to keep the brush from washing out, and to keep hooks from snagging.

Anyway, now is a good time to build you a good brush shelter. Just be careful where you cut your brush and where you put it. Do the job right and you'll have a good fishing spot.

What About Man Overboard?
 Ever so often I wonder just what I'd do if a sudden and wholly unexpected need for a life preserver existed. This thought hits me whether I'm just plain fishing or pleasure-boating. And I'm not afraid of the water, either.

Fact of the matter, my concern is over what I'd be able to do to help someone else. Chances are I'd be paralyzed with fear. Apparently that's why I always carry a surplus of buoyant cushions, in addition to the familiar old-style, round shaped life preserver, with a long rope attached.

In my book you can't overdo the safety angle. The law requires one approved life preserver for every passenger in your boat. Don't forget it! Better yet, see to it that your guests wear life preservers. Insist that children do. The wise outdoorsman will never take a chance, especially on or near rough waters.

Speaking of life preservers, now comes the Muter Company of Chicago with a Res-Q-Pak that's an easy addition to any safety kit. This inflatable emergency life preserver comes in a pocket-sized package, no larger than a pack of cigarettes. Should be a part of every tackle box.

Res-Q-Pak inflates instantly. A gentle squeeze on the package... and presto, you have a two-foot float, shaped very much like the old-style water wings. Manufacturers says it will support a 250-pound man for hours in the water.

Learning to Cast
 To spin cast or bait cast with accuracy takes practice. An old-timer's method of mastering the trick is to place an empty beer can under the casting arm, then practice casting without dropping the can. This makes it necessary to use only the wrist for action which is the secret of successful casting.

And, by the way—if you have trouble dis-assembling your casting rod, at the end of a day of fishing, here's an idea. Next time you get ready to put your gear together, wipe the male ferrule against your nose a few times, rolling the ferrule over and over as you rub. That will put a base of oil from your skin onto the ferrule and make the connection easy to assemble, and most important of all, easy to dis-assemble.

The McLean News

Slick trick. And it works!
 Caught the Wife's Eye
 Finally got the wife interested in fishing.

Actually, South Bend's colorful, green Spin Cast 2320 rod and matching "T" reel did the trick. Cooperation on the part of some nice black bass clinched the deal.
 Now we got a fishing partner—partner—anytime, anywhere.

Reduce Delinquency
YOU ARE IMPORTANT
 II.
 (A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our fast-increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)
 By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

Many more individuals are needed for work with young people. You can volunteer to serve in one of the numerous organizations crying for help on every hand—the Scouts, the YW and YM, club activities for boys and girls.

Does your town have a community center where teenagers can hold meetings and play games? It takes work to establish such a center, but it doesn't need to be elaborate. Sometimes a very simple one is the best, but somebody has to sponsor it.

You Are Needed
 We should also remember that after a community center is established, your help will be needed. It doesn't just run itself, of course. Ideas and volunteer help are a MUST.

There is need likewise for constructive activities for boys and girls in the churches. Get together a group of young people. They will have ideas about what they want to do, but they need your suggestions as well as your assistance.

Gathering at Home
 Make your home a center for young people. Have a barbecue party in the back yard; start a song fest around the piano in the living room—or sing without a piano. Teen-agers enjoy home more than we imagine—if there is something to do.
 This job of promoting activities for young people is a tremendous one, but it is well worthwhile.

New Enlistment Program Announced For Marine Corps

An enlistment program allowing young men to remain at home for as long as four months after joining the U. S. Marine Corps was announced this week.

T/Sgt. Gene Tisdale, non-commissioned officer in charge of the Amarillo Recruiting Station, said a man may enlist in the Marine Corps Reserve and be given orders to report within 120 days for active duty. He then serves for three years on active duty as a reservist, or he has the option of joining the regular Marine Corps for three or four years.

This program allows a young man to complete his high school education, or continue his present employment for an additional four months. Sergeant Tisdale said, "However, the quota is limited and men interested should apply without delay."
 Young men interested in this program can get more information by writing to the Marine Corps Recruiting Station, P. O. Box 1047 in Amarillo.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Taxpayers often make mistakes that cause their income tax returns to be audited. The most common mistake is claiming a dependent the taxpayer is not entitled to. Nobody has any trouble making up his mind what should happen to the farmer who claimed Maud as a dependent for years before the Internal Revenue folks discovered that Maud was a mule.

Generally speaking, quite a few folks don't claim a dependent parent who qualifies as an income tax dependent under the law simply because they haven't read the instructions. On the other hand, divorced parents frequently have both parents claiming one dependent. It can't be done. It is a mighty good idea to study the tax instructions before you fill out your tax return.

Senator Yarborough's WASHINGTON REPORT:

A 60-year-old farmer, who owns 300 acres of land near Jarrell in Williamson County, recently wrote me for assistance. His case is typical of a number I have had called to my attention in recent months.

This family farmer, during the drought years, had borrowed over $6,000 from the Farmers Home Administration, and had managed to repay all of it except $300. The final $300 was due last September, but he had signed an application for extension of the loan so he could repay the $300 next September.

He wrote me that FHA officials had turned down his ex-

... that $300 now because it's too small an amount to carry on the books." To me, this is a shocking case of maladministration of a federal program intended to help farmers struggling to make a living on the farm. It is not the first such case I have heard, but it is probably the worst. It is a part of the plan being used to drive small farmers off the land.

It reflects one reason why Texans have been leaving their farms at the rate of 8,000 a year for the past five years. The drought, the floods, and the hard money policy are driving the little farmer from the land just like the Agriculture Department wants, because USDA officials just don't believe in small farmers. I believe this trend of the vanishing family farm is one of the most serious problems facing ... basic soil conservation program; periodic emergency soil rebuilding program such as the $20 million plan I led in passing last session; more money for building water conservation projects on our creeks and rivers; expansion of the Great Plains program.

Fourth, we need to fight inflation at all levels with special emphasis on opposing moves to increase REA interest rates.

All of these are important steps toward a prosperous farm economy, steps which I believe we must take in the new session of Congress.
