McLean's junior high school football team will meet the Lefors juniors in a game on Duncan Field tonight. Kick-off time will be about 7:30 o'clock. The game with Lefors will be a reference game.

Firemen answered two fire calls Sunday, the first a grass fire and the second a burning truck. The grass fire burned about 15 acres of grass in the Hudgins place about five miles north of McLean. Firemen were unable to get trucks to the scene of the fire and had to use sacks to extinguish the fire. While the grass fire was being fought, a pick-up, used to carry flares to various points on Highway 66 during the construction period, caught fire about two miles west of town. The pick-up was badly damaged, it was reported.

Fun Nite for teen-agers will be held Friday night after the football game at the American Legion. All teen-agers are invited to attend.

Al and Orien Fuqua have moved from McLean Cafe to their new location on the corner in the former Smith Bros. building. The interior has been completely redecorated, fluorescent lighting added, and rubber tile laid on the floor. Moving was completed Monday, and service in the new location was begun Tuesday. Fuqua said it would be several days before everything is straightened out.

All people who became members of the Wheeler County Community Concert Association in its recent drive may use their membership cards to hear James Melton, famed singer, in Vernon October 23. Mrs. Mary Pace of Shamrock, publicity chairman for the association said. The Anaria Spanish Ballet will appear in Pampa November 1, and the smart tickets may be used for that appearance, also. The tickets will also be good, of course, for the concerts in Shamrock during the year. Those who have joined the association and who have not yet received their membership cards, may obtain them from Miss Nell Adams at the Shamrock Gas company office.

Charlie Carpenter, who lives north of McLean near McClellan Creek, is getting to be quite a good spotter of grass fires. Assistant Chief W. W. Boyd reports two different grass fires have been first noticed by Carpenter from his home place, and each of the fires was several miles away. As a result of his close observation, the fires were checked by members of the McLean fire department before very much grass was burned off.

A fire in the alley behind the home of J. Lester Dysart Tuesday evening at about 6 o'clock did little damage. The blaze had crawled underneath a pile of lumber, and also had ignited a ticket fence when first noticed. Several people in the neighborhood aided in cutting down the blaze before the firemen arrived. The tank truck was then used by firemen to extinguish the fire, and the damage was to a small section of the fence and to the life of lumber.

Cattle Office Opens Here

Opening of a new cattle and real estate office in McLean was announced this week by the owners of the firm, Buck Henley and Lonnie Knutson. The firm will be known as H. and K. Cattle and Real Estate, the owners said. It is located in the first building west of Brown's Drug.

Both Henley and Knutson are well known here, having lived here for many years. Both have spent most of the past years in the cattle business.

"We will sell or buy for you all kinds of livestock," the two men stated. "We will also handle farm and ranch sales, as well as house sales, and invite you to visit our property with us. Should you be in the market for either livestock or real estate, come in to see us."

Club Formed To Feed Tigers After Games

A new "Tiger Appreciation Club" has been formed under the leadership of C. L. (Tex) Gentry, who solicited funds from various businesses and individuals to feed members of the high school football team following each home game this season.

Gentry stated that the contributions given totaled $96.70 in the drive he made last week. That amount, he explained, will be approximately that needed to feed the boys after each of the four home games still to be played.

Church Observes 50th Birthday

Observance of the Golden Anniversary of the McLean Methodist Church last Sunday saw the church filled with several hundred members and visitors; and an old-fashioned "dinner on the grounds" following the morning church services was enjoyed by all.

Rev. C. W. Parmenter stated that guests, those visitors who are not members of the local church, totaled 47. Many of these 47 were from out of town, while a number of local people visited the church.

Three former pastors were heard during the day. Rev. R. S. Watkins of Throckmorton, pastor here from 1941 to 1943,

Signs of the Times — Another Landmark Passes Into Oblivion

Not long ago, we ran a short story about the passing of a familiar landmark in McLean—the removal of the water spout from the Rock Island railroad watering tank.

Now another once-familiar contraption has passed into oblivion.

The last hitching post in McLean—at least the last one we know anything about—has been removed from the business district.

The old hitching post, which has graced a small space behind the Hindman Hotel for many years, was bulldozed out of existence when the Austin Road company's paving crew hard-surfaced Railroad Street through the downtown section last week.

Legion to Start Membership Drive Monday

Legionnaires from more than 600 Texas American Legion posts with a slogan, "Level for the Legion," will put on their caps and go out and seek other veterans for their organization Monday, October 20, which has been proclaimed by Governor Allan Shivers and a number of mayors as "L Day."

That date begins another fiscal year for the American Legion which will start its 36th year as the largest veterans organization in history.

A breakfast, free to all veterans of the area, will be given Monday morning at the American Legion Hall, Commander Luke Henley said. The breakfast, to be served from 6:30 to 8 o'clock Monday morning, will be the "kick-off" affair for the local membership drive. All veterans are urged to attend the breakfast, regardless of whether they now belong to the Legion.

The new department commander of the American Legion, Albert Brown of Austin, has urged every Legionnaire to dedicate "L Day" to talking to friends and neighbors about the principles of the organization. The "L Day" drive is directed by Ed Riedel of Austin, a former state commander and who is now state chairman of the Legion's post activities and membership committee.

Roland West Hurt on Road

Roland West, about 16 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. West, was seriously injured in an accident on the paving work being done on Highway 66 east of McLean Wednesday morning. West suffered a compound fracture of the lower part of his left leg, and in addition received one deep gash and lost considerable blood. He was given treatment here, and then taken to Highland General Hospital in Pampa in a Claborn ambulance.

He was injured when he jumped from a spreader machine, and was run over by the machine. He was employed by the Austin Road company, contractors for the paving work.

A total of 420 residents of the area took advantage of the free chest X-ray service last Wednesday, S. A. Cousins, McLean co-chairman for the visit of the machine, reported.

The visit of the machine, which is operated by the State Health Department Tuberculosis Division and financed by tax funds, was sponsored in Gray County by the county medical and tuberculosis associations.

"We want to thank all of the many people who aided in making the visit of the machine the success which it was," Cousins stated. "Everyone who was asked to help gladly did so, and only with their cooperation were we able to get as many X-rayed as were handled during the day."

Home Game Kick-Off Time 7:30 o'Clock

The McLean Tigers will square off against the Lefors Pirates Friday night on Duncan Field in the first District 1-A game for the Tigers.

Kick-off time will be at 7:30 o'clock, instead of the earlier-season time of 8 o'clock. Coach Don Leach said this week. All future games for the Tigers, both here and away, will begin at 7:30, Leach said.

A victory over the Pirates will start the Tigers on the road to a possible district championship, but a loss will seriously hurt their chances. The Lefors eleven already has one district victory, over the Clarendon Broncos.

Lefors will be slightly favored, although the Tigers are expected to put up a battle and can come out with a win without a big upset.

The two teams have had two common opponents this season. McLean lost to the Stinnett Rattlers 6-0, while Lefors won over the same team 19-0. McLean, however, tied the Memphis Cyclone 6-6, while the Pirates lost 26-0 to the same team.

In addition, the Tigers have tied Wheeler and lost to Price College, while Lefors has won two, one over Clarendon and another over the Pampa B team.

The Tigers will play without the services of Dale Glass, reliable defensive back. Glass suffered a cracked shoulder bone in practice last week, and will be out of play for at least two weeks. B. W. Duncan may see some service, but his work against Lefors will be limited. Duncan suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury in the last play of the game against Memphis. Leach expects the remainder of the team to be in shape for Lefors, but he is having to do some shifting around to make up for the loss of the two backs. Duncan has (Continued on back page)

High Plains Poll—

IKE BY 4 TO 1

Voter preference for General Dwight Eisenhower is running four to one over that for Governor Adlai Stevenson, according to the first round-up report of the High Plains poll.

Nearly 1,200 votes were tallied for the first report of the poll. The vote for Eisenhower was 943, compared to 243 for Stevenson.

The poll, conducted by weekly and daily newspapers in the Tri-State area, is by means of straw vote ballots printed in the various publications.

In the poll of The McLean News, the ballots turned in by Wednesday morning gave Eisenhower 23, Stevenson only 4—almost a 6 to 1 lead. However, as has been demonstrated throughout most of the Panhandle, the Ike boosters seem more enthusiastic than the Adlai backers.

And while most polling experts will agree that straw votes are not conclusive, the report of the High Plains tally shows at least this:

Ike supporters are more vigorous in their support of the General than are the folks boosting Stevenson.

Twenty-three newspapers participated in the first round-up (no total given).

ANOTHER REASON

AS MANY OF YOU KNOW, this newspaper has been opposed to socialized medicine, or any step in government regulations which might bring it nearer, for a long, long time. Our position on this matter has not changed one iota.

We have been in the past, are now, and will in the future, be opposed to any form of socialized medicine. This means that we are very definitely opposed to President Truman's compulsory health insurance plan, believing that voluntary health insurance programs are much, much better, and much, much less expensive on everyone.

Therefore, one of the most heartening developments in the current presidential campaign is General Eisenhower's forthright statement in opposition to socialized medicine. Surely this will meet with the approval of every citizen who believes in American traditions, regardless of his party affiliation.

General Eisenhower has called socialized medicine an "assembly line treatment." Those of you who have studied the situation in England know that this characterization by the general is a good, sound one.

In the general's words, "any move toward socialized medicine is sure to have one result: instead of the patient getting more and better medical care for less, he will get less and poorer care for more. . . it would require a whole new army of government clerks to handle the records that would be an essential part of a compulsory system."

Not only has the general taken this stand, but he has praised in the highest terms the achievements of our doctors and other scientists. "They," said Eisenhower, "had the incentive to constantly improve themselves, in order to rise in their own profession and to make a better living. These incentives would disappear under government bureaucratic control, because promotion and increased compensation for most doctors would come more by seniority than by merit."

Of course, the presidential candidate pointed out that local, state and federal governments do have the responsibility "to assist the unfortunate, but it must not be in ways that will lessen or weaken the benefit already available to the vast majority."

We like the position that General Eisenhower has taken on the socialized medicine question. We like his stand, just as we like his stand on the tidelands and various other questions. There is quite a bit of similarity between the stands of both candidates, but there are major differences, also. This socialized medicine stand is another reason we like Eisenhower for president. We'll still take Ike.

LES TALK By LESTER

Here's a couple more good citizens of our community.

The top picture is that of Joe B. Taylor, as most of you know, Joe runs the John Deere place, and sells G. M. C. trucks as a sideline. He is an excellent business man, and tends to his business in a most capable manner. Joe also takes time out to be an active church member, too. And so does Mrs. Joe. I believe they have a total of five children, although I am acquainted with only Dan and Don. Both of these boys are fine young fellows, and I would imagine that the other Taylor children are fine kiddoes, too. Joe used to belong to the local Lions Club, and was a good member. But he quit for some reason or other, and I'm sure his reason must have been a good one. Anyway, I'm glad to have Joe's picture on hand to run in this column, for he is another good citizen to make up the fine population which this town has.

The second gent is R. L. Appling, better known as Bob Appling. He is one of those public servants who is asked to do just about everything from loaning money for a stamp to carrying a package in to town for Aunt Matilda. Bob is a mail carrier, in case you didn't know. He has been carrying the mail every since I have been in McLean, and I guess for a long time before that. He is a quiet, polite sort of man, doesn't go around bothering anybody, and minds his own business. At least, he strikes me as that kind of a man. Actually, I don't know him too well, but I do think he is a fine fellow. Some of you may not know the problems of a rural mail carrier, but I remember knowing such a man years ago when I lived in Wellington. And believe me, a rural mail carrier is asked to do just about everything under the sun—without getting paid anything for it. And Bob Appling has held up under this pressure and still maintains his friendliness. Reckon that's a big accomplishment for any person.

Please understand that I have my fingers crossed as I tell this story. J. E. Kirby says that Smoky Price has a cow that gives pretty near all cream. The story was already stretched when it got to me, so if I don't get it right, it doesn't make any difference. Anyway, Smoky gave somebody—forgot who Kirby said—a gallon of the milk. They used all the cream off it they wanted for one meal. Then they churned a quart of it and got a pound of butter, or maybe they churned the whole gallon and got the butter. At any rate, the milk figures out about 60 per cent butterfat. Whereupon, Smoky says it's all butterfat.

The cow is not for sale. Frankly, it sounds like a bunch of bull to me.

Larry Fuller, the new public service company manager, has a dog which had pups the other day. It was her fourth time to give birth to pups. The first time, she had only one; the second, there were six of the youngsters; the third time there were seven; this time there are eight pups. I recommended that he get rid of the dog pretty quick. She may have read that book, "Cheaper by the Dozen."

The big city boy was gloating a little as he pointed out the metropolitan sights to the lad from the country, when a beauty parlor "vision" came into view. She was a finished product—artful hairdo, mask-like complexion with a gaudy gash of lipstick, and sinister looking finger nails of lacquered crimson.

"Now, what do you think of that?" inquired the city boy. "Speaking as a farmer," replied the country lad after due consideration, "it looks to me like it's pretty poor soil that requires so much top-dressing."

Two fleas fell in love, and one lovely June day they got married.

Young, industrious, and ambitious, the fleas worked hard and saved their money. They sacrificed fun to assure their future. One day they counted their money and were overjoyed to find they'd saved five dollars.

"If we can save five, we can save ten," they agreed, so they continued their thrift. They toiled, economized, and planned, spurning the frivolous pleasure of other fleas. Finally came the day when their savings totaled ten dollars.

That day they went out and bought their own dog.

Poor Eyesight Makes Child Slow in School

Poor eyesight can make a child "slow" in school. Uncorrected visual defects can cause a normally bright youngster to dislike school, fall behind in his class and become self-conscious about playing sports and games, says Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer.

A child will rarely complain about poor vision. It may be blurred, he may see double, yet in three cases out of four, he will not tell anyone because he does not know how well he should see. That is why it is so important for parents and teachers to know the symptoms of eye trouble. An intelligent child may be victimized by poor vision both at school and with his playmates.

Too often a youngster's eyes are neglected because no one knows that they will need care, Dr. Cox points out. For this reason, vision tests should be continued throughout the child's school career.

Some of the symptoms which may mean that a youngster has eye trouble are:

1. Rubs eyes often, attempts to wipe away blur.
2. Becomes irritable when doing close work.
3. Blinks more than usual, stumbles or trips over small objects.

4. Is over-sensitive to light, can't play games requiring distance vision.

5. Red-rimmed, encrusted or swollen eyelids.

When any of these symptoms are present, those responsible for the child should have his eyes examined at once. Early correction will save many days of unpleasantness and possible blindness.

Health Talk— YOUR VISION

You hear that a man has "20/20 vision" or that someone else is "industrially blind." What do these terms mean?

How can you tell whether or not your vision is considered normal? You may suspect something wrong if you find it hard to see motion pictures or television, or if you have frequent headaches, or if people who do not have normal eyesight don't know it, or if you have never had a really good vision, they do miss it.

A trip to the doctor often will reveal the trouble. If had eye-weakness is not the result of disease, glasses may correct the seeing. Sometimes, however, a condition requiring medical treatment may be found. Always the doctor keeps in mind that disease in other parts of the body may affect the eyes.

The vision of each eye for distance is measured separately. By 20/20 vision is meant that with standard lighting on a chart 20 feet away, you can read letters of a standard size that can be read by others considered to have normal eyesight. Since 20/20 equals 1 or normal, any fraction less than 1, such as 20/40 or 20/100, represents eyesight less than normal. The vision in one eye may be better than in the other. When the vision falls to 20/200 or less in the better eye with glasses to improve the eyesight as much as possible, or when the vision in the better eye is greater than 20/20 but the field of vision is limited, the patient is said to be industrially or economically blind.

When you speak of seeing things "out of the corner of the eye," you refer to the field of vision (peripheral vision) which is very important in daily life; it enables you to drive a car safely, walk through a room without bumping into objects, or duck when something flies at you unexpectedly.

The field of vision is measured differently from the central vision; an apparatus called the perimeter or a black screen is used. One eye is blindfolded, and the patient, sitting down, places his chin on a rest and stares at a fixed point on the perimeter or screen a short distance away. The examiner moves a small white or colored object from all directions until it can first be seen and plots the outer edges of the visual field on a diagram in much the same way as a map is charted.

After one eye has been tested the opposite eye is covered and the outer field measured. The binocular field (that of both eyes) is obviously larger than for only one eye.

Just as the central vision of the two eyes may differ, the peripheral vision in each may they are "color blind." Color weakness in most instances would be a better term than color blindness, because very few persons are completely blind to color, that is, see only black and white. Those who are color weak see some color for red, green, yellow, blue, and so on. Most color blindness is hereditary, that is, passed down from earlier generations, but it may result from disease. More men are affected by color blindness than women.

The measurement of the eye's abilities mentioned in this article—central and peripheral vision, binocular vision, and color perception—may enable the doctor to tell that disease is present in the eye or other parts of the body; in fact, it often may be his first clue in diagnosing brain tumors or diseases of the central nervous system.

All knowledge is lost which ends in the knowing, for every truth we know is a candle given us to work by. Gain all the knowledge you can and then use it for the highest purpose.—John Ruskin.

vary. A normal field in the left eye may make up for a defect in the right field, or vice versa, making clear one reason why some people may not recognize that one field is not normal.

The working of the two eyes together explains why you may not know you have a small, normal blind spot in each eye. This spot, which shows up in the right part of the field for the right eye and the left part of the field for the left eye, represents the point at which the optic nerve enters the eye. Actually, this nerve enters near the nose, but because the lens of the eye reverses images, the blind spot seems to be in the opposite part of the visual field. Since the optic nerve entrance is not covered with the cells needed for seeing, no vision is present at that spot.

Binocular vision also improves the ability to judge depths and distances. This function is made possible through coordination of the muscles of both eyes and the fusing by a brain center of the two slightly different pictures that fall upon the light-sensitive coat, the retina, in the back of each eye. Because the images are seen from angles which are not quite the same, their likeness gives rise to the sense of a third dimension; this kind of sight is known as stereoscopic vision. One-eyed persons, although lacking this ability, can learn to judge depths and the speed of movements through experience and judgment of factors other than depth perception.

Another duty of the eye taken for granted is the seeing of color. It comes as a shock to some people, however, to find out that

OCT-12-18 THIS IS OIL PROGRESS WEEK

Progress 1952

Texans have a natural interest in the oil industry, which is so important in our State, and in the progress made since Oil Progress Week was last observed. Here are a few quick facts:

- New Wells—During the twelve months ending August 31, 1952, the Texas oil industry drilled 17,000 new wells, at a cost of over $700 million. Most of the heavy expense of drilling these new wells was paid from earnings plowed back into the development of the State's oil resources.
- Production—Production has reached a record level. Texas currently is producing about 46 per cent of all the crude oil produced in the U. S. In the year ending August 31, Texas production totaled about 1,015 million barrels. There are now 133,800 producing oil wells in Texas.
- Refining—The Texas refineries will have a big year. They now employ, in round numbers, 46,000 Texans, and process about 28% of all the oil refined in the U. S. The daily refining capacity of all Texas refineries exceeds 2,000,000 barrels. A program to expand and improve these facilities has been general throughout the industry.
- Reserves—Proved oil reserves in Texas of 18 billion barrels represented 57 per cent of the U. S. total at the beginning of 1952. During 1951, the last year for which figures are available, proved reserves increased two billion barrels. These are developed oil reserves and the figure is important: developed reserves supply our needs currently and provide reserve capacity that is immediately available when we need it.
- Transportation—The total mileage of Texas' trunk pipe lines for oil and finished products is over 29,000. This low-cost transportation system is a major factor in the maintenance of the low prices you pay for petroleum products.
- Taxes—The Texas oil industry continues to be the largest tax-payer in the State. Through the year ending August 31, gross production taxes alone on Texas oil and natural gas amounted to more than $137 million; in addition, the industry pays large amounts in other taxes.

HUMBLE TEXAS OPERATIONS

In brief, the Texas oil industry during the past year continued to do its part in meeting the demand for oil. It has expanded pipelines to provide low-cost transportation. It has improved facilities for making more and better petroleum products for your use. Today, two gallons of gasoline do work that required three gallons in 1925; and the gasoline costs no more than it did then.

TO THE PUBLIC

Listen, thought you'd like to know that our fifty-year celebration, home-coming, and fellowship at the Methodist church Sunday was wonderful. In fact, it was a mountain-top experience. For some, naturally, 'twas memory time, made us fully realize that our church has done so much for us and we so little for it. It's wonderful the way friendship and Christian love reach across the years, linking us together for time and eternity. Visitors were here from Throckmorton, O'Donnell, Abilene, Clarendon, Amarillo, Groom, Borger, Panhandle, Pampa, Alanreed, Heald, and Ada, Okla., that we recall. Yes, 'twas a great day and we are deeply grateful. An Old Time Member, Mrs. R. N. Ashby.
