Water Quantity Report Service Incorporated

A.W. Gober, President of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, called the plan to survey and report on water quantities for the municipalities in the Water District area "one of the finest services we can perform for our constituents".

Gober made the remark following Board discussion of the project at the regular monthly meeting of the District's Board of Directors in Lubbock on June 13.

In outlining the program A. Wayne Wyatt, Manager of the Water District, used charts, graphs and maps from an actual water supply survey of a town in the District. The survey depicted problems in the future for the unnamed community. Wyatt said that he was withholding the name of the town until he has talked with the community's leaders about their dwindling water supply, which he said could possibly be exhausted as early as 1986 with no more growth in population, or as soon as 1984 with continued expansion.

Wyatt further explained the program by saying that the District would offer this service to any municipality within the fifteen county area it covered. He said that the program would be "strictly voluntary; they can call on us to help them in their water planning anytime they feel we might be able to lend them assistance or give them some technical advice in this area of expertise".

In other business at the meeting the Directors approved reimbursement of over two thousand dollars to the Randall County Tax Collector. The reimbursement was made for expenses incurred by the collector's office in collecting and refunding taxes outside the District's boundary. The erroneous collections were made as a result of a misinterpretation of the boundary of the District in the City of Amarillo.

Also approved by the Directors was a "special" extension of seven well drilling permits of the City of Lubbock. The seven wells, located in Bailey County, will be completed within a month according to a letter received by the District from Gordon Willis, Superintendent of Water Treatment for the City of Amarillo.

Water Development Board contract and on the progress of the District's water quality program.

Don Smith, Assistant Manager of the District, reported to the Board on the recent Interagency Task Force Meeting in Amarillo on Irrigation Efficiencies, the Soil and Water Conservation District Meetings resulting from the Resources Conservation Act of 1977 and on a recent meeting with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation concerning the "Llano Estacado Total Water Management" study.

The next meeting of the Directors, which is open to the public, is scheduled for Tuesday, July 11 at 10 a.m. in the District offices at 2930 Avenue Q, in Lubbock.

Rev. J.E. Meeks of the First Baptist Church will be one of the pastors featured as a conference leader during the upcoming 14th annual Church Secretaries' Workshop at Wayland Baptist College, July 20-22.

Several Lazbuddie youth participated in this year's Encounter program on the Lubbock Christian College campus.

Included were Quentin Mimms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Mimms; Danny and Mickey Powell, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Powell and Terry Steinbock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Steinbock.

Summer Fun Is Promised In Reading

Muleshoe and area young readers from 25 libraries in the 29-county area served by the West Texas Library System for which Lubbock Public Library serves as the Major Resource Center will participate in the Summer Reading Club sponsored this year by the Texas State Library and local public libraries.

They will be among 140,000 young Texans taking part in the program. Since summer provides a time for recreational reading and for the pursuing of special interests, it is usually the busiest time of the year in children's departments in public libraries.

Area libraries participating in the summer program include the Muleshoe Public Library and High Plains Bookmobile in Muleshoe; Lamb County Library in Littlefield and the Cochran County Library at Morton.

Participants in the Summer Reading Club for 1978 will be invited to "Come to Chimera"! Their trip will take them to a fantasy land where any dream can come . . . To mark their journey, they will receive a reading log that shows mountains, swamps and castles inhabited by fantastic creatures.

Libraries will also be planning special activities. And while young readers are discovering the Reading Club and these activities, they will have an opportunity to find out that using the public library can be fun. In fact, it can become a lifelong habit that will continue to enrich their lives.

The theme for this year's reading club appeals to the imagination and spotlights imaginative literature available in public libraries. Librarians, however, know that reading will not be limited to that. Some boys and girls will read everything available on dinosaurs or horses or volcanos or some other topic they become fascinated with.

Participants will receive recognition at the end of the summer. Most important, however, they will have discovered that the informal atmosphere of a nearby public library makes reading fun.

Soil Conservation Suggestions Sought

Jerry Wenmohs of the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District said that several things came out of the Hune 1 meeting when in-pnut was asked of local and area residents on services of the district.

Guests at the meeting were patrolmen Gary Burkhardt and Wayne Holmes. Holmes, who is crime prevention officer for the Muleshoe City Police, presented the program for the morning.

His program was a film which was 'not enjoyable, but informative.' The film showed how thieves could hit homes and how to keep unwanted persons from entering a home. It also stressed marking home appliances and equipment with a driver's license number.

Crime Prevention, Home Safety Pushed

Senator Bob Price revealed at a press conference at the Ramada Inn on Saturday, June 17, that he will introduce property tax legislation at the beginning of the next session of the Texas State Senate in Jan., 1979.

Price said that his tax proposal would be very similar to the recent tax proposal which was passed in California, known as Proposition 13. The exact details of the proposal are being researched and perfected at the present time.

"It is anticipated that I will hold public hearings at various cities in the 31st Senatorial District so that citizens will have the opportunity to testify and make suggestions that could be incorporated into such a tax proposal.

"Texas, unlike California, does not have the 'initiative and referendum' method of allowing its citizens to petition their State government. Therefore, I am approaching this tax cut proposal by a two prong method. One method is the legislative proposal under which a bill is introduced into the committee which has jurisdiction of taxing in the State, where it is anticipated hearings would be held if the chairman of the committee sees fit to bring the bill up for consideration. At that point, interested citizens would be allowed to testify for or against the proposal as well as make recommendations. If the bill was voted out of the committee, it would be considered by both the House and Senate. Should it pass both bodies, the governor would either veto it or affix his signature to it for the bill to become law.

"There is a question whether the State legislature has the constitutional authority to pass such legislation. The second approach is going to be very similar to the first, except that if the legislative proposal is not constitutional, two-thirds of each body would have to approve the tax proposal before it could be placed on the ballot for consideration by the people of Texas. I plan on pursuing both approaches.

"It is not my intent to try and gut services provided by tax monies of the people of the State. However, it is my intention to give the people of my district and this State the opportunity to vote on a proposal which, if they desire, would give them a reduction in taxes or at least halt the alarming increase in taxes. Every citizen works one-half day every working day, just to pay their local, state and

Plant Clinic Slated Here On June 30

Bailey County Agent Spencer Tanksley said a county-wide horticulture clinic, which will include both ornamental and commercial crops, is scheduled by three extension specialists for June 30.

Dr. Bob Berry, plant pathologist, Dr. Roland Roberts, area vegetable specialist and Dr. Jim Leser, entomologist, will conduct the clinic from 8:30-12 noon at the Muleshoe State Bank community room on Friday, June 30.

The county agent said people can bring specimens of plants or vegetables that are sick or diseased for answers from the specialists. He said that in the event of trees or objects too large to bring to the meeting, arrangements may be made for the specialists to visit the location of the larger objects.

Insect samples can also be checked by the specialists who will provide control answers and they will also answer questions about problems with lawns, ornamentals and vegetables.

Tanksley said the clinic will be free and open to anyone with problems, or persons interested in learning more about plants. Educational and informative materials will be on display and for distribution to interested persons.

Save A Dollar Gasoline Pump Service Opens

Two local men have instituted a new business in Muleshoe, which they say is designed to be convenient, plus will save money.

Save-A-Dollar has been installed at 416 West American Blvd. The new business is an automated gasoline system, instituted by Rick Smallwood and Ed Althoff.

Cards with pre-printed numbers will be used to activate the gasoline pumps. Open 24-hours a day, the pumps will work only with the computerized cards used by subscribers to the service.

In a central computer will be printed the card number, date, time of day and dollars spent for gasoline, along with other pertinent information.

Now open, they may be contacted for applications for the service.

Senator Plans Bill To Give Tax Relief

With vacation time getting into full swing, and many people away from their homes for longer periods of time, crime prevention officer Wayne Holmes is busy giving tips on how to make your home more secure.

He said that during the past several months, local businesses have been installing burglar alarms, and in fact, have more than doubled the number of alarms they have had in the past. He said they have worked closely with local officers in providing better alarms, better lighting and removing 'burglar enhancers' such as ladders and other items which would allow unwanted intruders to get into buildings.

Officer Holmes praised the local businessmen, but reminded that with the better security of the local businesses, and the addition of more patrolmen, crime is moving more into the residential areas.

Recently, there has been a sharp upward trend in home burglaries, including one during daytime hours this week at the home of Ernestine Little. In that burglary, an AM-FM radio and lockbox with papers and money was taken.

He said, "Take a good look around your home. Check doors, windows, shrubbery, lighting, garage doors, and locks. If you were on the outside of your home, could you find a way to get in without a key?"

"About 50 percent of all burglaries are made easy for the burglar because the doors or windows have been left open or unlocked. Another 40 percent of all burglaries were committed because of poor quality locks or inoperative locks."

Farmers Union State Leader To Speak Here

Jay Naman, of Waco, president of the Texas Farmers Union, will be featured speaker for a meeting of the Bailey County Farmers Union on June 29.

Norma Bellar, of Bula, said the supper meeting will be a renewed effort for legislation to achieve a fair farm program in Washington and secure progressive programs protecting Texas farmland and reforming property taxation.

She said Naman is recognized as an outspoken defender of family farming for almost two decades.

Farmers and friends of family agriculture are asked to attend the meeting at 8 p.m. in the Muleshoe High School cafeteria. All the fish and chicken you can eat for $4 will be served prior to the discussion.

According to the officer, "Did you know the greatest deterrent of crime is good lighting? Are you aware that the average burglar, given the right elements, can enter a home, take about $2,000 in merchandise and be gone in five minutes

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN--The unfortunate recent accidents in grain elevator operations indicate that better safety standards and enforcement of standards is required. The House Agriculture Committee has held hearings in Brownsville, Lubbock and Pasadena with the purpose of finding out what the grain elevator safety problems are and developing some possible solutions.

Early reports of the committee have revealed some interesting facts. In a statement for the hearing in Brownsville by E. G. Lantz, Director of Engineering and Planning for the Brownsville Navigation District, it was reported that in the 117 years from 1860 to 1978 there were 344 grain elevator explosions costing the lives of 251 people in the United States. This averages 2.1 deaths per year.

A recent study of United States grain elevators from 1958 thru 1975 indicated that of the total of 141 explosions in 85 cases the primary sources of the explosions were listed as "unknown."

In Texas the number of explosions per 100 million bushels of storage capacity was 2.9 during the period between 1958 to 1975.

Two federal authorities, the Environmental Protection Agency and OSHA inspect the State's grain elevators. Each of these federal agencies inspect the elevators with different methods for different purposes. It has been reported that in some cases the procedures recommended by EPA and OSHA are in direct conflict with each other. These conflicts leave the grain elevator operator in a position of not knowing who to believe or what course to follow in making his grain elevators safe.

Preliminary results of the investigations of the Agriculture Committee in its study have certainly proven two points in particular. An in-depth technical study of the causes of grain elevator explosions is necessary. The program of inspecting processes of grain elevators must be improved and coordinated as to insure the health and safety of the workers in the grain elevator industry.

I will soon be receiving the final recommendations of the Agriculture Committee concerning this important issue. It will then be the goal to work with the Department of Agriculture and various other groups of the private and public sectors in solving this serious problem and providing legislative recommendations as are deemed necessary.

ACCIDENT CONTROL--A study by the U.S. Coast Guard found that prolonged exposure to the sun creates almost the same symptoms as drinking small amounts of alcohol. Thus, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service advises extra caution for boaters or anyone working long hours in the sun.

Important principles may and must be flexible. -Abraham Lincoln.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Landslide passage of the California Proposition 13 property tax slash referendum set off political shock waves throughout Texas and the nation.
Candidates for governor promptly picked up the battle cry of "slash taxes." Republican nominee Bill Clements pledged to work for a constitutional amendment providing ironclad limitations on taxation and the growth of government spending.

Democratic candidate John Hill stopped short of all-out endorsement of California's Proposition 13 (which would limit property taxes to one per cent of fair market value, a cut of 57 percent in California). But Hill said the concept is appealing. Sensing a taxpayer's "rebellion," he urged a legislative committee to study implications for Texas in similar tax ceiling measures. And he pledged anew to work for modest tax cuts for the elderly, small farmers and ranchers and small homeowners.

House Speaker Bill Clayton expressed support of a "realistic" tax limit, taking into consideration inflation and population growth. He said he thinks Texas voters would support a ceiling overwhelming.

There is no question the legislature will be considering a version of Proposition 13, said Clayton, since more than a dozen representatives and a senator have indicated they will introduce proposals, and several already are being drafted.

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office warned that a one per cent state property tax ceiling would reduce revenue in the state's largest counties (Harris, Tarrant, Dallas, Bexar and Travis) by $600 to $700 million a year.

Texas has no provision for adoption by voters of legislative initiatives like Proposition 13. A tax ceiling here would have to be ordered as a constitutional amendment approved by two-thirds of the legislature and by voters in a statewide election.

Lawyers Sue

Lawyers are suing lawyers

over the State Bar's plan to levy $150 assessments on 29,000 attorneys to pay notes on the $8 million Texas Law Center building in Austin.
The charge was approved 12,696 to 8,686 in a statewide referendum, but opponents say lawyers were misled.
Lawyers who don't pay Bar dues and fees by September 1 can be barred from practice in the courts.
Opponents argue the Law Center was constructed without consultation with Bar membership, and directors promised membership fees would not be used to pay the notes.

Lands Leased

The State School Land Board netted another $19.1 million last week from leases on Texas public lands.

High bid of $1.7 million was submitted by Superior Oil Company for an offshore tract in Matagorda County. Other high bidders were Rutherford Partnership, bidding $868,320 on two offshore Kleberg County tracts; Mobil Oil Corporation, bidding $748,800 for offshore tracts in Brazoria County; and Kennedy and Mitchell Inc., with a bid of $612,000 for a tract owned by the Texas Department of Corrections.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said average per acre bonuses were $92.34, and offshore acreage went for $105.63 an acre. In addition, the state receives a royalty of one-fifth the value of oil and gas produced.

Courts Speak

Constitutionality of the new Texas law providing criminal penalties for welfare fraud has been upheld by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a 25-year murder sentence given a Nacogdoches County man on grounds a request for selection of a new panel of prospective jurors should have been heeded.

The same court upheld a death penalty assessed a San Antonio man convicted of stabbing an 88-year-old Bexar County woman to death.

The State Supreme Court held Lone Star Gas Company is not entitled to an $809,000 refund of state and local taxes paid on foreign-made pipe running from Pecos to Dallas counties.

The high court refused to order release of documents outlining alleged wrongdoing within Bexar County's community action agency.

Establishment of a San Antonio Savings Association Branch in New Braunfels was upheld by the State Supreme Court.

AG Opinions

Attorney General John Hill held unconstitutional a Texas law barring corporations from giving money to aid or defeat measures on the ballot. (A similar ruling earlier had been made by Secretary of State Steve Oaks).

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

Interest earned on investment of school bond proceeds must be spent for purposes authorized by law. Interest not needed may be placed in a sinking fund or used to refund bonds.

The administrator of the Interstate Compact on Juveniles may not use the appropriation to the Texas Youth Council for non-residential services to pay the cost of returning a non-adjudicated juvenile runaway to Texas.

Aggressive Plan For Texas Arts Announced

An aggressive plan for the arts in Texas was announced today by the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities. The plan was approved unanimously by Commissioners in response to growing citizen demands which have been expressed in meetings held throughout the state during the past year.

"After six months of extensive study, we have developed an appropriation request which makes the arts available to every Texan," said Bill Burford, Commission chairman.

Through deliberation with statewide and community organizations, we have developed the first comprehensive arts plan which will mobilize the cultural resources of the state's private and public sectors," said Burford.

The Commission has proposed an appropriation for 1980 of $3.9 and $4 million for 1981. Eighty-two percent of the budget will go directly for support of programs in community arts, statewide partnerships, and artists' services.

"The appropriation request is unique because it allows the Commission to be a catalyst for private funds and activities now present in Texas. It will increase the availability of the arts while actually returning the tax dollars appropriated through economic impact in the state," said Tieman H. Dippel, Jr., of Brenham, chairman of the Commission's appropriation committee.

'Texas Cradle Of Giants' To Be Performed In Area

The show that last summer played to nearly 20,000 people on a three-month tour across the South Plains is back.

"Texas Cradle of Giants" the road show produced by South Plains College to tell the story of the evolution of country music in Texas, will take to the road next month for its second season.

"Texas Cradle of Giants" will have its first road show Jan. 20 for the Airstream Western Winter Rally at Harlingen. A home show is scheduled March 11 for Parents Day on the SPC campus and will be followed by road shows May 20 at Lake LBJ, Kingland, and June 24 at 8 p.m. at Coleman Park in Brownfield. A final performance is scheduled July 4 on the SPC campus. Persons wishing to have "Texas Cradle of Giants" come to their town or city for a performance should contact Eddie Price, dean of college relations at SPC, 894-4921.

"The show evoked memories for so many of us," wrote one woman who attended the program at its Lovington, N.M. stop last summer. "I found myself singing along with the group on songs I recall my parents listening to when I was knee high...It was the best free entertainment I have ever enjoyed," she concluded.

Letters flowed in from other people who had seen the show. "There wasn't a sour note from any of the folks attending the Amarillo concert," said one writer; "the program was very well done; the musicians are doing a great job," said a writer who saw the show at Post; "It was a really super show, fine quality entertainment," expressed another Lovington writer.

"Texas Cradle of Giants" last summer backed up Justin Tubb at Odessa's Wynwood Mall, helped dedicate the Littlefield High School Memorial Tennis Courts, put on the show at Tahoka, Plainview, Hereford, Bovina, Lubbock, Lake Meredith, Amarillo and a number of other cities in the area.

In spite of the success the show enjoyed last summer, however, there is nearly an all-new cast, script changes, new costumes and some new songs, according to Helen Roberts, SPC assistant professor of speech who wrote the original script for the show. "The script is currently being adapted to divide the parts into speaking and performing roles in order to let all the performers tell the story, rather than one narrator like we had last summer," said Mrs. Roberts. "The narrative of the story of country music will become more of a dialog."

Explaining why the changes were made, Mrs. Roberts commented, "The singers are all gifted performers and fine speakers as well; there are so many capable people in the cast that we wanted to use them all in speaking roles...We feel the group role of telling the story makes a nice refreshing approach," she added.

Cast members in "Texas Cradle of Giants" for 1978 will include one veteran of the performance last summer--John Hartin, director of SPC's country/bluegrass music program who will again sing and perform on the guitar.

New cast members will include SPC faculty and students--Dan Hanson, music instructor and sponsor of the Baker's Dozen and Stage Band who will play piano; Tim McCasland, SPC bluegrass instructor who will perform on dobro, banjo and guitar; students Barry Canter of Lorenzo, vocals and instrumentals; Jerry Lawson of Levelland, drums; Randy Ellis of Clovis, N.M., Texas Tech graduate, currently a student in SPC's country bluegrass music program on vocals, guitar and pedal steel guitar; Rocky Reynolds of Lovington, N.M., instrumentals, Mike Riley of Cal Farley's Boy's Ranch in Amarillo, vocals; Leann Kuenstler of Jarton and Tonia Spears of Lubbock, both vocals.

Reynolds and Riley also will double as technicians for the show, and their partners for the skits and dances will be the show's only two women. "Both Leann and Tonia have had several years of musical training," said Mrs. Roberts, "so they will also do some singing with the group. In addition, they will do technical work with the slides and make sure the lights are set."

Last summer, the show had to wait for cover of darkness to begin because of the slides that were shown during each half. This year the show will be able to start earlier, since slides will be reserved for the second half of the show, said Mrs. Roberts. In addition to the regular script Mrs. Roberts is adapting for the two-hour road show, she also is writing a condensed script for a one-and-a-half hour show at SPC. "The road show script also will be flexible for both outdoor performances, where we have to watch out for the weather, and indoor shows, which often vary in facilities for space and acoustics," she said.

Hartin, who is in charge of the music for the show, has added medleys by Ernest Tubb, Ray Price and Jimmy Rodgers because he felt they would be very significant, she said. The vocals to "High Noon" also have been added, along with a song by George Jones, "She Thinks I Still Care," and "Miles and Miles of Texas" for an Asleep at the Wheel number.

A few songs have been deleted.

Rather than the uniform country/western costumes worn last year by the cast, three sets of costumes will be designed for early, honky tonk and progressive country eras portrayed in the show, according to Mrs. Roberts.

SPC president Dr. Marvin Baker is planning a series of receptions prior to each show for SPC alumni and school patrons. "Leann and Tonia, who were selected as College Presidential Hostesses, will serve as hostesses for the receptions," said Mrs. Roberts.

Despite all the changes, much of "Texas Cradle of Giants" will remain the same. The script will still tell the story of how country music evolved in Texas from the turn of the century through the current progressive country music so popular today. Many of the songs will remain unchanged on the program.

"Barry Canter will do much of the lead singing, and he will perform the numbers by Vernon Dalhart and Gene Autry; Randy Ellis will do numbers by Jimmy Rodgers, and both he and Canter will do tunes from the honky tonk era and Willie Nelson songs," said Mrs. Roberts.

"John Hartin will do numbers by Tex Ritter and Ernest Tubb, Tim McCasland will perform number by Johnny Horton and Stuart Hamblen, and Dan Hanson will do material by Buddy Holly," she added. "Tim, Dan and Randy will do numbers by Bob Wills, backed up by the rest of the singers."

Songs will be featured from each musical era experienced by the Lone Star State--for instance "Git Along Little Doggies" and "Home on the Range" from the early cowboy herding songs; "Arkansas Traveler" and "The Prisoner's Song" from the early 20's when country music began to be commercialized; "Faded Love" and "Beautiful Texas" from the era of western swing; "The Soldier's Last Letter" from the World War II era; "Born to Lose" and "Pistol Packin' Mama" from the honky tonk era; "Hello Walls" and "Good Hearted Woman" from the 1960's; "Blue Eyes Cryin' in the Rain" and "I Saw Your Face in the Moon" from the current progressive country era and the revival of western swing.

As they did for part of last summer, the Texas Cradle of Giants cast will perform on the Showmobile, a large trailer which has an extended stage and is equipped with sound and lighting.

The Yetter Tool Bar Rotary Hoe

New Load Of Red Hot Yetters Fresh Off The Press!

The Yetter 3400 Series Rotary Hoe is the most flexible, and one of the most versatile rotary hoes on the market today. If you're looking for a durable piece of equipment that can take the hard knocks of field use, then this is it. Yetter's Rotary hoe features arms made of high strength ductile iron. Each spoon-billed tooth is hardened, drop-forged, and self-sharpening. All bolts are zinc plated and hardened. Other features of this new Yetter Rotary Hoe include independently spring-cushioned arms. This feature permits the 3400 Series Rotary Hoe to follow the contour of any field and it insures rock protection. Yetter engineers built this hoe so there is only one wheel per arm, rather than two or more. They are riveted for durability and turn on sealed ball bearings. There are 16 rugged teeth per wheel.

Hot Weather Brings Horse Skin Problems

Skin diseases in horses can be caused by thousands of things. A majority of problems causing the summer "itch" can be reduced to three sources—insects, parasites and infections.

The summer "itch" afflicts 5 to 10 percent of all Texas horses. It is basically an allergic reaction to insect bites or parasites. Biting gnats cause most of the trouble when they feed at the base of the horse's tail, mane, withers, ears or underbelly. Itching and rubbing can be so severe that a horse will lose a lot of hair and have fresh raw spots plus some older spots with a scab covering. With prolonged exposure, the skin finally becomes wrinkled and thick, almost like elephant hide. The most common symptom is "rat tail" where most of the long hairs are rubbed out and "rubbed out" mane.

Treatment involves protecting the horse from the gnat. Repellents applied twice a day are helpful. Screening stalls with a fine mesh wire will also help. Painting the screens with pyrethrin insecticides is also beneficial. In advanced cases, antihistamines and cortisone are of benefit.

Black flies also cause "the itch" but, unfortunately, they are not just a summer problem. For the last several years, there have been hatches of flies in January, following winter rains. Luckily, black flies live only a few weeks after hatching so the problem clears up shortly. However, there may be several hatches a year.

"Black flies seem to prefer dark colored animals," explained Dr. William C. McMullan, associate professor in the large animal clinic of the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University. "If enough flies bite, there is considerable itching and loss of hair. Horses and other livestock can die when attacked by large swarms of black flies. The area along the Red and Mississippi Rivers are particularly susceptible to black fly problems."

Horn flies and mosquitoes also cause itching problems in horses, especially under the belly. Several mosquito repellents are available which are effective for six hours or so.

A skin parasite, Onchocerca Microfilaria, is another cause of itching. The microfilaria are spread from an infected horse to another by gnats. The adults reproduce in the neck ligament by the thousands. Summer heat and sunlight cause the microfilaria to die bringing about an allergic reaction in the horse. Your veterinarian can treat this problem with drugs.

Most livestock owners are familiar with another parasite that can cause itching, the mange mite. While the incidence of mange in horses is low, four different types of mange afflict horses. Another parasite causes what is called "summer sore"—a hard to heal, itching wound. Drugs can be used effectively on "summer sore."

"Wounds which do not heal properly should alert the horse owner to seek immediate help," Dr. McMullan continued. "Particularly along the Gulf Coast, a fungus can contaminate a wound, causing the horse to gnaw it until a serious problem develops which can often be fatal. A more common infection of the skin is ringworm. This highly contagious fungus responds readily to treatment."

Every special group has special reasons to justify its special demands for special privileges.

View From The Plains

by J.D. Peer
I & E Field Officer

Lubbock—Hunting leases have existed in Texas for more than 30 years and sportsmen looking forward to the 1978 fall seasons should consider lining up a place to hunt now by contacting the landowners before the big rush in September.

Many landowners will allow hunters to harvest wildlife without charging a fee, but the practice of leasing property is increasing across Texas including the Panhandle and South Plains.

In some instances, the hunters want exclusive rights in return for their payments to farmers and ranchers. Farmers and ranchers want to regulate the hunter's use of their land and want to supplement their income.

Both of these wishes can be granted if the parties agree on certain important facts prior to the hunt.

A hunting lease is an agreement whereby the landowner transfers the right of ingress on his property to the hunter for the purpose of hunting in exchange for a fee.

Since hunting is recreation, recognition of this fact is the key to successful operation of a hunting lease. The hunter wants a good hunt, and the quality of the lease agreement is measured by the degree of his satisfaction. To insure satisfaction, both the hunter and landowner should agree on what is included in their lease.

A written agreement is the best insurance against misunderstanding between the hunter and landowner. It can clearly spell out conditions of agreement and provide an outline for discussion on mutual points of interest before a lease is made.

A copy of the written agreement should be provided for both the hunter and landowner.

Every hunting lease should include at least the following points: what is leased; name of parties; description of tract, size and bounds; terms of lease, payment rate and when paid; duration of lease; who is to hunt on tract, both lessee and lessor numbers; what is to be hunted and any restrictions on number of animals or birds to be killed.

The lessor or landholder is required to purchase a "shooting preserve license" from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. A shooting preserve is defined as any premise leased for hunting purposes, which is a separate, unconnected and distinct tract of land with a continuous and unbroken boundary.

The four basic types of hunting leases are: a year-round lease including all hunting privileges; a lease of limited duration; day hunting; and guided hunt.

Since each situation is different, a lease agreement should be custom designed to fit both the landholder's and sportsmen's requirements.

More information concerning regulations dealing with shooting preserves and other requirements by the P&WD can be obtained by contacting your local Texas game warden.

Gun Control By Any Name

WASHINGTON—If we can't get federal gun control by one method, let's try another. That seems to have been the latest tactic of the bureaucracy. But this time, Texans and many concerned Americans spoke up and said "no" and it has worked, at least to some extent. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, under the watchful eye of its parent, the Treasury Department, is trying to achieve by regulations what has been repeatedly turned down by the Congress for years. The public outcry against the proposed regulations brought their immediate plan to a screeching halt.

The regulations would require: (1) a unique 14-digit serial number on each firearm or non-component part manufactured or imported; (2) a prompt reporting of loss or theft by manufacturers, wholesalers and dealers; (3) centralized reporting to the Bureau of all commercial transactions between manufacturers, wholesalers, and dealers; (4) use of a new form for approval of shipment of machine guns and sawed-off shotguns across state lines; and, (5) an end to the exemption which allows servicemen to import free sporting-type rifles or shotguns for personal use.

No one was fooled. These regulations stop just short of implementing national gun registration. It is clear to me that the Bureau exceeded its statutory authority under the Gun Control Act of 1968. Such drastic changes far exceed the intent of that legislation which expressed the will of the Congress. The Treasury Department, however, claims these rules would not create national gun registration because they would not require the reporting of names of individual gun purchasers. Such information could be quickly obtained, however, by phone call from the Bureau to the dealer.

Legal interpretations aside, these proposed rules would mean some 30 to 40 million computer entries requiring 688,000 quarterly reports from the 172,000 holders of federal firearms licenses, and would cost manufacturers, wholesalers, and dealers an added $8 million in additional paperwork—a cost that would be passed on to the consumers, of course.

The Treasury Department asserted that the new rules would merely speed up crime control by assisting in identification of firearms used in crimes, and by providing early information on the flow of large numbers of firearms to border areas, a possible indication of smuggling operations. It failed to mention, however, the Bureau already traces a weapon in as little as 27 minutes on a priority basis.

Because of such an overwhelming cry of public opposition to these rules, received in mail to me and many of my colleagues, BATF has extended the time for public comment from the original deadline of May 22, 1978 to June 30th. As added insurance, however, a Concurrent Resolution has been introduced by Senator McClure and me, along with others, which would prevent implementation of these rules.

At a time when Texans and all Americans are calling for less intrusion by the federal government into their private lives, once again we have seen an example of the unheeding federal bureaucracy at work. This time, however, the people spoke and hopefully Washington is getting the message.

On Wall Street
By Bob Hill

Would you believe a black market in railroad grain cars? It is true. But the shortage of all railroad cars has spread far beyond the grain belt. There is no end in sight because the supply of railroad cars is still shrinking.

The squeeze in grain cars is a result of having to handle two harvests at one time. There is the new winter wheat crop and last year's grain crop, which farmers held for higher prices. Grain exports are up, prices are climbing and farmers are unloading.

The current quote for a black market grain car is $250 under the table. A shipper can make as much as 30 cents per bushel additional profit if he can just get the grain shipped.

There is a severe shortage of gondola cars. The supply of these cars has dropped from 280,000 in the mid 1950's to 160,000 today. As utilities and other coal users ordered up extra coal supplies replenish depleted reserves resulting from the coal strike, a reported daily shortage of 7,000 open hopper cars developed. There was a shortage of 5,000 gondola cars and 31,000 covered hopper cars. There is even a shortage of 13,000 boxcars.

Railcar shortages are expensive for both shippers and railroads. A major grain company reported that it lost $500,000 in the last three months because of lack of equipment. Some shippers are turning to barges and trucks, even though operators have jacked up their prices substantially. Grain elevator operators buy grain from farmers based on the published rail tariffs. But when they use more expensive means of shipping grain in unregulated carriers such as barges and trucks, they will reflect the higher shipping cost in what they pay the farmer.

There is no immediate solution to the problem. Railroads are ordering additional cars but manufacturing backlogs are huge and deliveries are falling behind.

Misery seeks not man, but misery.
-Frances Burney.

Farmers Union Says Beef 'Boom and Bust'

The President of the Texas Farmers Union has charged Administration officials with treating increased retail beef prices "as if they were imposed by some demon of inflation out of the clear blue, while the truth is that consumers are suffering more due to the very nature of the boom and bust cycle which the government is perpetuating in all areas of agriculture."

Jay Naman says that the sharp increases in beef prices are neither exorbitant nor surprising when the facts of the past five years are inspected. Naman points to the statistics of chronically low incomes to cattlemen for the past twenty-five years and the most dramatic drop in beef prices in the history of the United States in September of 1973. The glut, he says, caused operators to cut back or liquidate entire herds.

Lower resulting supplies and brisk demand in 1978 have now caused prices to climb, and while cattle numbers can be cut quickly in a matter of a few years, it takes at least five years biologically for rebuilding of cattle available for slaughter. Naman says the consumer would not be hurting now if the cattleman had not been hurting a few years ago and advocates stability for the benefit of producers and consumers. He further lays blame on the Administration for not establishing programs to provide stability and labels a possible increase in import quotas as "a critical mistake."

"It is the same old stuff the Farmers Union has been trying to tell consumers for years," says Naman. "Both producer and consumer benefit when prices to farmers and ranchers are stable, which in turn brings stable supplies and prices to consumers. But by breaking the back of the cattle producers for five years and living under the false economy of low supermarket prices while cattlemen cut herds or go broke, you suddenly awake on day to find it all catches up to you."

It's boom and bust agriculture that has haunted us for decades. Rather than moaning about it, consumer groups and others concerned should join with farm organizations and put the bee on the back of the Administration to formulate a national food policy based on price stability on the farm and in the store."

Naman further labelled actions by the Administration irresponsible and warned that increasing meat import quotas would only punish cattlemen while evading and failing to correct the boom and bust situation. A false control of prices through imports, he claims, would cause further cutting of herds by domestic producers and only add to the supply and demand problem. Cattle numbers will not be increased in America while high import quotas loom over the industry.

Naman compared such discussions by the Administration to open up import quotas with similar situations in other industries.

"We do not flood the country with imported steel when the big steel companies increase prices. On the contrary, we keep protective tariffs firm. Domestic electronics manufacturers and car dealers would scream if import taxes were lowered or dropped. Restrictions against reduced airfares by foreign carriers protect domestic airlines. But if ranchers begin to recover from a long and devastating market glut and realize a small profit, then the government scrambles to open up imports and see what it can do to force them back into it!"

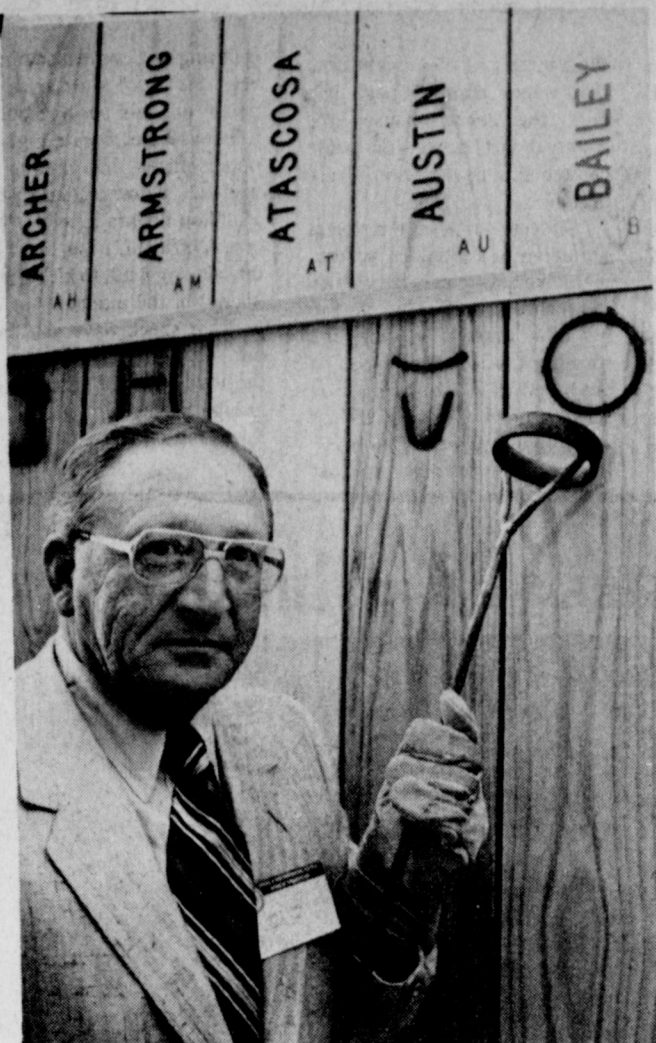

Referring to recent years in the early seventies when supplies themselves became limited and beef availability at the consumer level started to become critical, the farm leader pointed to the short memory of the consuming public. He commented that the same or worse situation could recur if cattlemen are knocked back into price levels below the cost of production.

"It is time that someone tell the truth about this meat situation and all other aspects of the farm economy. American consumers enjoy the lowest food costs of any nation in the world at 16 percent of their average income. That allows for affluence in homes, travel, entertainment, and a vast array of activity that fuels our nation's economy. But to have an inflated economy and keep farm income in the red leads directly to shortages, busted farmers and ranchers, more inflation, and a weaker economy. Until the inflation spiral is leveled, consumers must also stomach commensurate increases in food prices."

Truckers Given Warnings For Tax Permits

State Comptroller Bob Bullock, Tuesday, warned truckers who plan to travel in South Texas this month to double-check their permits and be sure they are in compliance with motor fuel and other state laws.

Bullock said his office will be setting up roadblocks on major highways south of a line from San Antonio to Victoria the last two weeks of this month to insure compliance with state tax laws.

The Comptroller said he hopes the roadblocks will encourage voluntary compliance with the tax laws.

"We intend to enforce the tax laws fully and we believe that these roadblocks will be a good way of getting that message across to truckers," Bullock said.

Bullock encouraged truckers who are not now properly permitted to contact the nearest Comptroller's Field Office for assistance.

"If a trucker does not have a permit, I suggest strongly that he get one because the chances are good that we are going to ask to see it," Bullock said.

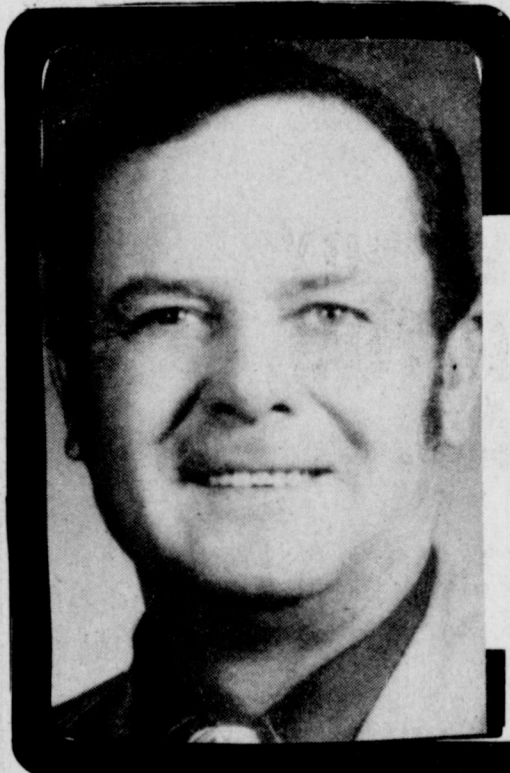

Bullock said his agents also will be checking for violations of state sales and cigarette tax laws.

The roadblocks are being coordinated with the Department of Public Safety, State Highway Department, Border Patrol and local law enforcement agencies.

The costs of labor, materials and other items necessary to the company's operations continue to skyrocket. Despite the fact that we have adopted programs for cutting expenses and capital expenditures, it becomes increasingly difficult for us to keep up with these rapidly rising costs.

Although we have been operating in a highly inflationary atmosphere for the past several years, there has been no general increase in SPS electric rates since 1974. Now, however, we are forced to seek rate relief if we are to continue to provide the electric service needs of our customers.

Our goal is to provide the best possible service at lowest possible cost, now and in the future. The increase in our rates that we have requested will allow us to realize that goal.

With the summer in full swing now, many families will spend weekends, vacations, and the July 4th holiday near the water. Whether it be a large lake suited for skiing and boating or a small fishing and swimming hole, the possibility of drowning is ever present.

Swimming is the second leading cause of accidental death in America. Good swimmers can drown. Non swimmers don't need to. Does this sound backwards to you? Perhaps you have been convinced that everyone should "Learn to swim so you won't drown". As a result, parents send younger and younger children to swim classes. Adults who have not learned to swim are deathly afraid. The truth is that knowing how to swim is not what keeps you from drownin

Drowning means to die by suffocation in water or other liquid. Swimming means to move through water by movements of the arms, legs, fins, tails, etc. Our popular concept of swimming adds the thought of movement in a pattern of special motions that we must learn. The two main words that are important to knowledge of water safety (not drowning) are "suffocation" and "movement".

The main causes of drowning have been identified as panic, exhaustion and cramps. Panic is a sudden, unreasonable fear. Panic also causes death in fire, car accidents, floods and tornadoes. The biggest cause of panic is the lack of knowledge about what to do in these situations before they happen. Pre-thought and planning before the emergency helps to alleviate panic.

Most everyone who is afraid of the water is sure that when their feet leave the bottom they will sink at once. This is not true. There are very few "water heavy" people. Sinking and floating are mostly psychological.

The first thing to know about "not needing to drown" is that the deeper the water, the more buoyant one is. The pressure of the water pushing up is much greater than the pressure of your body pushing down in deep water. So remember, "I do not need to sink! I can float". The more relaxed you are, the better you float. If you want to float—which means to lie still in the water—then you want to make as little movement as possible. Let your motto be, "When in trouble—be still". If you fight the water, it will fight you back and probably win.

Since suffocation is the cause of drowning, you must be able to breathe. The best and safest way to stay up and to breathe is to lie flat on your back. By putting your chin and head back, you can get to your back from a standing position.

Or, just roll over if you are on your face. Keeping your chin back helps to keep your face dry and your feet up. With very soft hand movements, very soft leg kicks, you can stay up indefinitely—if you relax.

Recently a new technique has been perfected for staying afloat for hours even for those who do not float easily. It is called "drownproofing". This technique is done by hanging in a perpendicular position with your face and hands relaxed in the water. Hold your breath. When you need air you simply use your hands to pull down on the water while you let your air out. The pull on the hands compensates for the lessened buoyancy that occurs when you let your breath out. Then you gently lift your head just enough to get air. Then you hang again. With a little practice you soon get the pattern of need and fulfillment and movement to stay afloat. You can practice on land, or in a kneeling position in shallow water by kneeling and just doing the hand and breathing movements.

When you learn to swim, or talk about swimming, all emphasis is on movements. You are continually told to move, move, move. Nonswimmers think that constant movement is imperative to stay up. Imperative to stay up.

Actually, this is what may cause you to drown. When you panic you feel impelled to thrash around. You think any movement is at least a try at swimming. If you want to go under water you can do it easily by lifting your hands into the air. You would not stay down if you then stood perfectly still. So, if you do not want to go under, do not put your hands up. You will only get water in your face, and go under some. You cannot see what is happening and you will probably get a lot of choking water in your mouth because you are breathing wrong or yelling. You will tire out quickly, choke yourself, and may finally drown.

All you need to do so to stay quiet and lie on your back. You will be in a position to breathe and to think. But, again, I emphasize you must practice thinking these things—just as you do in a fire drill.

Exhaustion is another major cause of drowning. It usually happens to nonswimmers who struggle—needlessly—with the water. Cramps, alone are not devastating. Their damage is panic. If you are a nonswimmer you probably will not be in deep water if you get a cramp.

Whether you are a swimmer or a non swimmer, you can keep from drowning if you think ahead and prepare yourself for the possibility.

So, in an emergency, remember:—When in trouble, be still. To be safe, lie on you back and use soft hand or leg movements. Use the "drownproofing" method of hand floating. You may never need to use these techniques but by simply knowing them you can be less fearful this summer at lakes and pools.

Basketball Summer Camp Begins Soon

It is hard to beat a good summer training program when it comes to specialized development of all-around basketball skills. That is one reason why the annual Camp of Champs for boys fifth grade through junior varsity has been sold out for the past five seasons.

This year the camp is scheduled for July 17 to July 28 at Howard College in Big Spring with Harold Wilder again in charge as Director and Chief Instructor.

At the Camp of Champs the young player receives skilled instruction in individual offense, dribbling and ball handling, shooting, defensive positioning and team play, plus physical fitness and conditioning. There are chalk talks and league games at night in which the practical application of new skills under game conditions is stressed.

In addition, the camps include tournaments in bowling, ping pong, checkers plus movies and video tape of campers in action.

Boys can attend for one week or two. For information contact Harold Wilder, Camp Director, Howard College, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek takes a look at the California tax revolt this week.

Dear editor:

When I first heard of California's Proposition 13 to set a limit on property taxes I thought so what, people don't outsmart politicians, politicians outsmart people and they will figure out a way to keep those tax dollars rolling in. If they can't increase taxes more than one percent of a home's market value, all they will do is raise the market value. There is more than one way to skin a cat, although I have never understood what anybody would want with a skinned cat.

But then I learned that under the proposition the market value cannot be raised more than two percent a year and furthermore the present value is rolled back to 1975 levels.

Looks like there is absolutely no way for the politicians to get around that. they are locked in tight, but you have got to remember that there is no such thing as an escape-proof jail if the inmates are smart enough, so let's wait and see.

Meanwhile, I understand shock waves from the California vote are rolling across the land and politicians are scrambling to get on the tax-reduction band wagon. Not just a seat anywhere on the wagon but up front in the driver's seat where they can get hold of the reins and try to head off a runaway. Who knows, you let those horses get the bit in their teeth and they might drag that wagon right through city hall, the school house, the county court house, the state capitol and maybe on to Washington.

Do you suppose the voters are going to act toward government like fed-up parents with an improvident son? After paying his bills time after time and warning him to hold himself in check, with no results, they finally cut his allowance in half and tell him to sink or swim. I read just the other day that counting a Congressman's salary, his staff's salaries, his phone bill, his postage bill, his utilities, his elaborate high-ceilinged offices, his parking garage, etc., it now costs tax payers a million dollars a year to keep him in office. If I was one I'd be introducing a bill to kick California out of the union.

That shock wave you feel is not a California earthquake, it is the shuddering of office holders in high places. Yours faithfully, J.A.

FOUNDATION

Our nation is witnessing a building boom, such as has never before been seen. Every day new foundations are being dug and laid. Any builder will tell you that it takes a firm foundation to support today's skyscraper.

Our Lord, in His sermon on the mount, compared those that heed His word, to the wise man that built his house upon a rock, and those that did not heed His word to the foolish man that built his house upon sand and it was washed away.

Build your house upon a rock... Attend church regularly.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Scott And White Plan New Facility Dedication

Dedication ceremonies will be held June 17 for the new 205,000 square-foot Mabee Diagnostic Center, the Scott and White Clinic's new laboratory, research and patient-care structure named in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Mabee, who founded the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

The Foundation is the biggest single donor to Scott and White Memorial Hospital and the Scott, Sherwood and Brindley Foundation. The Mabee Foundation made a grant of $1.5 million for the Diagnostic Center, which brought its total gifts to Scott and White to $3,125,000.

The Mabee Diagnostic Center begins receiving its first patients on June 5. Many Scott and White Clinic Departments are the beneficiaries of greatly enlarged facilities in this new structure, built at a cost of $14.5 million.

The Mabee Diagnostic Center initially will provide space for 40 additional physicians, many of whom have come on the Scott and White staff in recent months. Later expansion will provide office space for a total of 200 physicians.

The new building connects to the present Scott and White Clinic on all levels except the sixth floor. It is completely insulated to achieve maximum energy savings. The Center is a six-story building plus a ground floor, constructed to accommodate the addition of four more floors to be added if needed.

Departments which have moved into the Mabee Diagnostic Center include:
--Ground Floor - Laboratories, Medical Records, Endocrinology, Tumor Registry, X-Ray Therapy.
--First Floor-Pediatrics, Dermatology, Infectious Disease, Allergy, Community Internal Medicine.
--Second Floor-Orthopedics and Chiropody, X-Ray.
--Third Floor-Gastroenterology, Endoscopy, Fluoroscopy, Proctosigmoidoscopy.
--Fourth and Fifth Floors-Shell-ed in.
--Sixth Floor-Doctor's Lounge, Clinic Administration.

The new building is equipped with a complete communications system, compatible with that in the existing Hospital and Clinic. Teletel communications vertically and horizontally carry laboratory items, X-rays and medical records. Of course, there is a nurse call system and a public address system throughout.

With many laboratory and medical support departments moving into the Mabee building, some 35,000 square feet of existing Clinic space in the main building has been renovated for expansion. Office and waiting areas have been redecorated for better patient access and comfort. Radiology and pathology laboratories are expanding into some of the vacated space.

The new diagnostic facility constitutes Phase II of the 125 million Expansion Fund at Scott and White. Phase I brought the Lucy King Brown Special Treatment Center in 1975. These two structures are the most significant single additions to Scott and White since it moved to its present site in 1963.

In 1977, Scott and White celebrated its 80th anniversary of founding. In observance, a special time capsule containing artifacts and memorabilia from those eventful years was sealed and placed in the lobby of the Mabee Diagnostic Center (adjacent to the picturesque fountain). In 1997, during Scott and White's centennial ceremonies, the capsule will be taken out and examined. Until then, a chunk of the institution's history can consider the Mabee building as its home.
