

PLAIN TALK

By BILL PERKINS

The first holiday of the current school year will be observed Monday when students will take in the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo. The State-Line Free Fair at Shamrock will begin today and continue through Saturday. The Donley County Fair at Clarendon is set for this week-end also.

We had a pleasant visit from Mr. A. H. Kelley of Memphis, Tenn., last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley visited their daughter, Ruth Ellen, and son-in-law, Rev. Jack Riley, here last week. Mr. Kelley, who has been in the printing business since he was 13 years old, worked on several Texas newspapers before going into business for himself in Memphis in 1921. The Kelley & Jamison Typesetting Company, in which Mr. Kelley has an interest, is the largest in Tennessee and one of the largest in this country. While here, besides meeting many friendly folks, the Kelleys enjoyed McLean's first football game of the season in Shamrock Friday night.

McLEAN 4-H CLUB GIRLS WIN HONORS

Carolyn Anderwald, member of the Wayside 4-H Club, was declared county baking queen last Saturday in the county-wide achievement event held at the American Legion Hall. Her two products, muffins and cookies, will be frozen and entered in the district contest to be held during the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo next week. Winners of second and third places were Sue Evans and Nancy Tate, respectively, members of the McLean 4-H Club.

The home demonstration clubs of Gray County prepared educational exhibits in competition with each other. The aim of these exhibits is to illustrate information, which the observer, at a glance, can see is being told, by example and few words.

Winners in these exhibits were: Bell, first place, showing the comparative value of a quart of milk with a number of common foods; Hopkins, second, with the need for lining a skirt to help hold its shape; and the Goodwill club, third showing appropriate containers for freezing foods.

Each of these six clubs were presented with checks awarded by the Gray County Home Demonstration Council.

Another feature of the achievement event was demonstrations presented by both the women and the girls during the afternoon session.

Mrs. A. M. Nash, member of the Merten club, gave the recipe for a German chocolate cake and feed the finished cake. Mrs. T. H. Kelly, member of the Bell club, showed ways to decorate and how to entertain at a Scottish party; and Mrs. John Johnson, president of the Goodwill club, demonstrated the preparation of peaches for freezing.

Two 4-H girls gave demonstrations also. Sue Evans, member of the McLean club, showed the preparation of okra for the home freezer; and Susie Lane, member of the Pampa Junior High 4-H club, lead and decorated a party cookie.

All club exhibits and individuals received appropriate ribbons in the countests in which they entered.

Judges in the county contests were: Mrs. Janie Fletcher, Carson County home demonstration agent; Miss Norma Lantz, home-making teacher, Lefors High School; and Mrs. Jim Smathers, home economist, Pampa.

If the Shamrock Irish were the favorites to win in the annual encounter, Coach Hap Rogers' fighting Tigers didn't seem to know it as they fought their way to a 25-6 victory on the Irish's home field Friday evening.

In their first home game of the season the Tigers will meet the Wheeler Mustangs at Duncan Field tomorrow night. Wheeler, who is reported to have a strong team, lost their season's opener to Canadian, 19-12, Friday night.

The McLean Tigers scored four touchdowns and kicked an extra point Friday night to defeat the Shamrock Irish gridmen in the season opener.

The game was played at Denver Stadium in Shamrock before a large crowd, few of whom left their seats until the final play was run, despite the one-sided score.

Although the Tigers held the edge in other departments, it was through the air that they sealed the doom of the Irish. Tailback Charles Crockett teamed up with right end, Benny Woods, for three touchdown passes and ran across one touchdown.

Crockett contacted with Woods early in the opening period with a 25-yard aerial and repeated the feat in the second quarter for 30 yards.

The speedy tailback added a 25-yard gallop around left end later in the second stanza for a counter. Late in the fourth quarter he passed to Woods for 30 yards and the final score. David Woods kicked the extra point following the second touchdown. His other three attempts were wide of the goal posts.

The Irish take the credit for the most thrilling touchdown play of the evening, however. About midway of the second quarter, Wilburn Tyler, Irish fullback and co-captain, took the Tigers' kick-off on his own 10, fumbled it momentarily, cut his way through a portion of the McLean team, picked up some nice blocking and went the entire 90 yards for the counter.

The Irish kick for extra point was blocked.

The Tigers made 15 first downs to five for the Irish. Charles Brothers, 180-pound Irish center and co-captain of the squad, was injured on the first play of the game and was out of action for the remainder of the contest.

Coaches Hap Rogers and Jack Riley had their boys in excellent condition for the Friday night encounter when the team made up in hard playing and determination what they lacked in experience.

Editorial

IN 40 YEARS

Back in the World War I era, a Tennessee groceryman got a new idea. It was to open a store "where everything could be handled with minimum effort." The result was the first self-service store. Competitors hooted—which always seems to happen in the case of new ideas. But within a week the groceryman was issuing tickets to control the traffic. The store prospered, other stores were opened, and a chain system was born.

This year a celebration of the 40th anniversary of self-service is being conducted by a chain store association. Other groups and industries which will participate or are invited to do so include processors, manufacturers, educational institutions, apparel stores, publications, farm organizations, and others.

Self-service now represents almost 90 per cent of total retail food stores sales in this country and rapidly is spreading in the other principal countries of the world. It is also increasingly influencing other kinds of retail business, such as the variety stores. Its purpose is to give consumers better living at the most reasonable possible cost.

The philosophy of modern retailing is found in a simple set of operational principles—large volume, fast turnover, and small unit profits. These profits amount to about a penny on the sales dollar for food chains, and only a little more for other leading distributors. Mass distribution, like mass production, is one of this country's greatest material contributions to humanity.

TWO REVOLUTIONS

Every school child learns of the industrial revolution—a revolution that utterly transformed man's way of manufacturing goods of every kind. The agricultural revolution has been equally thorough-going—and should be given equal attention.

A Boston bank sums up what has occurred in a single century. One hundred years ago two-thirds of all the workers in this country devoted their efforts to producing our food and fiber. Now that production is accomplished by only 10 per cent of the working population. Thus, 90 per cent of all workers can turn to doing other jobs and making and processing and distributing other things. That is one reason for American material abundance—and American living standards.

This almost unbelievable change has been brought about by better farming tools and methods. Among them, mechanized farm equipment dominates. It is not too much to say that the first workable tractor ended one era and began another. Then came all the other modern machines and attachments, to make possible production at maximum efficiency with minimum labor—and to provide the means for conserving the land for the future.

The industrial revolution continues, with ever-improving tools and techniques. So, in exactly the same way, does the agricultural revolution, thanks to farm equipment and the other aids.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Dublin, Texas, Progress: "The trouble with foreign affairs today is that you can never tell whether dictators are smart men bluffing or imbeciles who mean it."

Marion, Iowa, Sentinel: "This writer used to work a 48 hour week on the section for $18. Now a section man gets this much in little over a day. The union can get much of the credit for this . . . but all of us need to study the problems involved to see that everyone gets his fair share, but to avoid killing the goose that lays the golden eggs."

St. Louis, Mo., Labor Tribune: "We are inclined to agree with Arthur Patzer, youth secretary of the Seventh Day Adventists Columbia Union Conference, who recently blasted popular song writers who are cashing in on the current religious revival. . . . The religious 'rock an' roll' we have been getting via the airwaves and juke boxes is as uncouth as it is uncalled for and makes a mockery of real spiritual values."

Waverly, Va., Dispatch: "We were at a fellow's house recently who boasted that he never had taken hand or rod to his three year old son, who at that very minute was trying to snip off the cat's ears with a pair of scissors. Regarding this new conception of child raising, which says don't touch Junior, let him be a free soul to develop his natural whims, we are reminded of the Chinese proverb: 'Give a pig and a boy all they want and you will end up with a good pig and a bad boy.'"

New Film Boasts Rising Star Trio At Derby Friday

Three stars whose careers are zooming—John Agar, Mamie Van Doren and Richard Boone—top the cast of "Star in the Dust," an action-packed outdoor drama in Technicolor from Universal-International, which opens Friday at the Derby Theatre.

Agar is "hot," as the film industry puts it, because of his recent starring role in U-I's "Tarantula," which broke box office records all over the country. Boone, of course, has become immensely popular as the star of "Medic" on television. Miss Van Doren is the undisputed cheesecake queen of Hollywood, but in "Star in the Dust" she will surprise her fans with her first straight dramatic portrayal.

Other top roles in the new film are played by Leif Erickson, Coleen Gray, James Gleason, and Randy Stuart.

Ava Gardner Tells Of Woman's Life In Pakistan

By Ava Gardner

There's an old superstition that it's unlucky for the bridegroom to see the bride before the ceremony on the day of the wedding. That might seem a bit outmoded to today's young men and women.

But I have news for them. The American bride and bridegroom are lucky. At least they have a chance to become acquainted before the wedding day. If they lived in Pakistan, a country that I recently visited, chances are they'd never see each other until after the knot is tied.

According to Moslem custom, the marriage is arranged by the father of the girl. The bridegroom hasn't seen his bride for the simple reason that she is forbidden to show her face in public after she reaches the age of 12.

I had a chance to find out about the life led by the women of Pakistan when I went there for two months to film scenes for M-G-M's "Bhowani Junction." In this picture which is based on John Masters' novel, I portray an Anglo-American girl in love with Stewart Granger.

I found Pakistan a fascinating country in many ways. But it was the life led by the women which made the most lasting impression upon me. To provide a home for the Moslems when the British moved out in 1947, the country of Pakistan was partitioned from India. And every good Moslem believes in purdah for women.

Purdah is that religious custom which decrees that a woman must never be seen or touched by any man except her husband. As soon as she leaves childhood, a girl puts on a veil which covers her face completely—even the eyes—and she takes this off only inside her own home. And then only before her husband or father.

This veil fits tightly over the head like a skullcap and often reaches the waist. In front of the eyes there may be either two tiny slits or else a lighter gauze material through which the lady may see.

A number of Moslem women worked as extras in crowd scenes of "Bhowani Junction," but they remained veiled. I noticed, even though I couldn't see their eyes, that many of them seemed to be gazing admiringly in Stewart Granger's direction.

The true motives of our actions, like the real pipes of an organ, are usually concealed; but the gilded and hollow pretext is pompously placed in the front for show.—Caleb C. Colton.

R. M. Cole, Pastor

By VERN SANFORD, Texas Press Association

Conservative and liberal Democrats are battling each other, Republicans are active. But the Constitution party of Texas now is in the limelight.

At their Austin meeting the Constitution party grabbed headlines by naming, as their nominees, prominent Democrats who have been active in recent campaigns. Their choice included W. Lee O'Daniel for governor; J. Evetts Haley for lieutenant governor; Reuben Senterfitt for attorney general; Warren G. Harding for state treasurer; and Ross Carlton for the court of criminal appeals. Congressional candidates will be chosen later.

Secretary of State Tom Reavley challenged the Constitution party's right to nominate any candidate who had been defeated in the recent primaries.

Joseph M. Rummier of Houston is state chairman of the Constitution party. Their presidential nominee is Democrat T. Coleman Andrews, former internal revenue commissioner of Richmond, Va. Former Republican Congressman Thomas Werdeil of California is their vice presidential choice.

Major plank in the party's platform is elimination of federal income taxes.

ARTIFICIAL RAIN
 Possibility of moistening droughty Texas by artificial rainmaking may be debated in the next legislature.

After hearing state and federal weather experts at an Austin meeting, the Texas Water Resources Committee voted to dig deeper into the subject. If findings are favorable, the committee indicated it would recommend legislation and appropriations for a long-range, state-wide project.

Scientists were cautious in their claims before the committee. Much is yet to be learned about what makes rain, they said, and previous experiments have not yet been thoroughly evaluated. But they agreed prospects were promising enough to merit further research.

"SOAKER" WANTED
 Scattered showers have helped, but most Texas farmers still are scanning the skies for a "fall soaker."

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture's latest crop report reflected increasingly critical conditions. Examples: cattle, "forced to market"; peanuts, "past redemption"; dryland cotton, "extremely short"; vegetable planting, "limited." Only irrigated cotton was reported "fruiting heavily."

GI LOAN PAYMENTS UP
 Delinquencies on veterans land loans have dropped 19 per cent since 1954, said Land Commissioner Earl Rudder.

Payment failures ran 20 per cent on loans made under his predecessor, Bascom Giles, said

CLOWNS ON ICE: European ice comics, Buddy and Baddy, will be one of a dozen comedy numbers in Holiday on Ice coming to the Tri-State Fair, Amarillo, September 17 through 22. The all-new Holiday on Ice boasts a company of more than 100, including international champions, novelty acts, comedians and a line of 36 young precision skaters, on the world's largest portable ice rink.

Rudder. Under the new administration they have dropped to one per cent.

Some 13,000 requests from veterans for loans now are pending before the land board. Present funds will stretch over only about 1,000. More money will be available if voters approve a constitutional amendment for a new $100,000,000 bond issue at the general election.

RAIL SUIT RULING
 Smithville, an old railroad town, lost another round in its prolonged attempts to retain offices of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas line.

An Austin district court upheld the Railroad Commission order permitting consolidation of the Smithville and Waco offices.

Unique aspect of the case was the "all-star" legal line-up. A former Supreme Court Justice, James P. Hart, represented Smithville. Former Governor Dan Moody represented the railroad.

INSURANCE CODE
 Texas' new "model insurance

code" now is in full force and effect.

Last measure to be activated requires companies to have a minimum of 100 policyholders and $200,000 insurance in force.

Printing Means Many Things To Different People

It may mean an announcement or invitation, postcard, letter-head, statement, printed envelopes, business card, stationery, mailing piece, house organ, bulletin, booklet, year book, catalog, folder, program, or publication.

The world over, printing is known as a creative art. At this office your printing will be handled by people who will take a personal interest in it.
