Coach Bradshaw's Mother Dies

Mrs. Sarah Alice Bradshaw, 72 years of age, died at her home in the Acuff community near Lubbock on Thursday, Feb. 25. She was the mother of Coach Clifford Bradshaw of McLean.

Funeral services were conducted in the Acuff Baptist Church Saturday, Feb. 27, with the pastor, Rev. Donnelly, officiating. Grave-side services and interment were in the City Cemetery at Childress. Rev. Allen, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Childress, assisted Rev. Donnelly at Childress.

Mrs. Bradshaw was born May 1, 1887, at Winsboro, Wood County. She moved with her husband to Childress in 1911 and to the Acuff community in 1945.

Survivors include her husband; five children, Mrs. L. F. Fisher of Lorenzo, Rev. J. W. Bradshaw of Lubbock, Mrs. Francis Sport of Childress, Mrs. Landon Coffman of Artesia, N. M., and Clifford D. Bradshaw Jr. of McLean; 16 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren.

Ten days of snow, drizzle and extreme cold kept McLean people slipping, sliding and hunting a warm place. The heaviest snow fell Tuesday night and it measured about 5 inches here in town. However, light snow has been on the ground for 10 days, melting and then more falling.

School was dismissed in McLean Wednesday because of the heavy snow, as it was in Alanreed and Kellerville. Although no major accidents had occurred around McLean as of Wednesday, there had been several minor fender-benders as a result of slippery ice on all roads. The extended cold spell and snow was one of the worst storms in several years.

Another cold front was expected in the area this week end.

"RUM" A FAMILY GAME

Do you remember the first card game ever played in your family? The chances are it was Rum or Rummy because surveys show it is the best-known of all card games played in the United States and indeed it may be the best known game of any kind.

The popularity of Rummy is due partly to the fact that it is so simple. If you learn the basic principles of the original game, its many variations become quite easy to learn.

Rum is best for two to six players, each one playing for himself. The cards rank from the King down to the Ace, the latter being low in most Rummy games.

After the 52-card pack is shuffled, the dealer gives each player ten cards if it is a two-handed game. If three or four are playing, each receives seven cards; when more than four are in the game, each gets six cards. The cards left are placed in the center of the table, and the top card is turned face-up to start the discard pile.

The object of play is to form matched sets, consisting of three or four of a kind (such as three sixes, three Jacks) or to form a sequence of three or more cards of consecutive rank in the same suit, as: ten, Jack, Queen of Clubs.

Each player, in turn, starting with the player to the dealer's left, must draw either the top card or the top card of the pack in the center of the table. He then must discard one card face-up on the discard pile. Just as soon as a player completes a sequence of three or more cards or a set consisting of three or more of a kind, he may lay these on the table in front of himself. Any player may lay off additional cards on any set on the table even if it was put down by an opponent.

The first player to go out by getting rid of his cards wins the game. If nobody goes out by the time the stack in the center of the table is exhausted, the discard pile is turned over to form a new stack and play resumes until one player gets rid of all his cards.

When a player goes out, the other players count the total of points remaining in their hands as follows: 10 for each face card, one for each Ace, the other cards their index value. This total of each player's hand is credited to the winner of the deal. When counting points in a hand all cards remaining in the hand count against the player, including those in sets and sequences not yet placed on the table. Usually a game continues until one player reaches 100 points, and the winner is the player with the greatest number of points scored.

SOME DANGERS OF 'MODERATE' DRINKING

While public attention is being focused on "alcoholism" as the modern peril to health and good citizenship, let us not forget the larger dangers of "moderate" drinking to that which is even more important. Some of these are:

1. Estrangement from God and His program for the individual, one will tend more and more to leave God out and follow his own selfish motives. He also loses his sense of responsibility to others, and will find his personality deteriorating as well as his influence for good being damaged.
2. More and more the "moderate" drinker will find himself dependent upon artificial "lifts" which will tend to take away his reliance upon spiritual resources.
3. He will be identifying himself with the most vicious "traffic-in-death" known to modern society. Alcohol is a great killer as well as a "subtle foiler." This is shown by those who drink and get behind the wheel of an automobile as well as in many other instances when death comes as the result of drinking.
4. Even though one can "take it," the light drinker surely encourages the habit-forming practice that is certain to enslave many. "Alcohol addicts one-third of those who begin to drink."
5. One in ten of those who drink will become an alcoholic. Of the seventy million Americans who drink over four million, five hundred thousand are problem drinkers.
6. "Moderate use of alcohol is the great nursery of intemperance" has been proved over and over again. Accidents, divorces and sexual irregularities are often caused by those who have had only a few drinks as well as the so called "drunk."

"It's smarter not to drink" are words of wisdom.

THE SHRINKING DOLLAR

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports that the American dollar is worth less today than at any time in history.

During the current century alone, now just started on its sixtieth year, the purchasing power of that dollar dropped from 100 cents to 29 cents—a loss of almost three-quarters. And the value of savings, pensions and insurance has dropped accordingly—as great numbers of people who must live in whole or in part on fixed incomes have learned the hard way.

We can't change what has happened in the past. But we can learn from it, and make an honest effort to keep the dollar's worth from sliding still farther down the hill. For instance, the Chamber calls upon Congress, in the current session, to keep the highway program on a pay-as-you-go basis; to oppose inflationary increases in the minimum wage; to remove artificial restrictions on the interest rate of government bonds; to avoid wasteful defense spending; and to eliminate unnecessary spending for public works, depressed areas, community facilities, veterans' benefits, and airport construction. This call is based on the inescapable fact that the greatest single force back of inflation is drunken-sailor federal spending. The Chamber also seeks to reduce monopolistic labor power, which is another important source of inflationary pressure.

Naturally enough, there will be wide differences of opinion over the details of such a program. But, those aside, something drastic must be done, and done soon, if the dollar's worth does not become 15 cents, 10 cents, 5 cents, and, ultimately, zero.

HOPE SPRINGS ETERNAL—BUT!

As the old saying has it, hope springs eternal in the human breast. All of history is an affirmation of that. However, no matter what the age or what the situation, hope must have some positive basis if it is to live.

This truism can be applied to the current controversy over the 27½% depletion allowance given the producers of oil. The allowance amounts to a credit against federal income tax, and this year as in other years an effort is underway to reduce it.

The reason for the allowance—which, significantly, has been part of the law since 1926—can be explained without going into elaborate statistics. For one thing, searching for oil is one of the most risky of commercial undertakings—only one wildcat well in nine turns out to be a producer. For another, the best well ever found wears out, becomes useless, and must be replaced. So, in effect, the producer is reducing his capital—the crude oil—every time he pumps and sells a gallon.

The oil producers are thus in a very special position. Under normal taxation, they would take all the risk of loss when loss is highly likely—yet, if the long shot gamble came through, the government would take much or most of the profit. There'd be mighty little incentive left. The result would be less and less exploration—at an enormous danger to this nation's future.

That's why the depletion allowance was first made law, and that's why Congress after Congress has reaffirmed it. It is more essential now than ever, for the cost of drilling for oil soars—because of the general inflation, and the fact that the drillers must go deeper and deeper into the earth. This is no time to discourage oil production.

ELECTRIC POWER—HERE AND IN RUSSIA

Much has been of the Soviet Union's efforts and plans to increase electric power output. This is a highly important matter—for electricity, to say the completely obvious, is vital to any nation's industrial and military strength.

Representatives of the electric power industry of the United States made two visits, in 1958 and 1959, to Russia to inspect its facilities. They were cordially received and saw what they went to see. Their report is now available, and it is a significant one.

No attempt is made to downgrade Russia's ability or determination to expand the nation's power system. The report assumes that the goals set for the Seven-Year

Will Wilson explains that the "Bridge War" between Texas and Oklahoma concerned the opening of three free bridges across the Red River. "Crossing the Gainesville bridge a large truck found the Texas side impassable."

Plan ending in 1956 will be reached. Even so, at that time U. S. power capability will exceed Russia's by an even larger margin than at present.

To put it in figures, our 1959 power capability exceeded Russia's by about 124 million kilowatts. In 1956, if both countries carry out their announced plans, the excess will be 133 million kilowatts or more.

The report observes that a good indicator of a nation's total productive capacity and its people's well-being is kilowatt-hour use per capita. In this country, last year, that use was about 4,481 kilowatt hours, as against an estimated 1,161 in Russia. The Russian goal for 1956 works out to about 2,100 kilowatt-hours per capita. But at that time the U. S. figure is forecast at some 6,000. The report states categorically that "there is not the slightest reason to believe that Russia will pass the United States in power supply at any time in the foreseeable future."

In power, as in other fundamental fields, private enterprise is outdoing government enterprise by a huge margin.

Battle Border

Little known facts about Texas boundaries.

(Editor's Note: This is the 11th in a series of articles outlining the numerous boundary conflicts dating back to 1716, pointing up little known facts which shaped the Texas of today.)

Rivers usually flow along in a series of loops rather than a straight line.

The Rio Grande is no exception. In times of flood the river will cut straight ahead, rejoining the channel farther down stream, leaving an exposed loop which becomes a dry bed.

Inside this loop is a plot of dry ground which has, by action of the river, changed its position from one side of the river to the other. These tracts of land are called "Bancos."

"These 'bancos' created even more complicated legal questions to add to the stockpile of Texas boundary disputes," Attorney General Will Wilson comments.

In 1338 the Republic of Texas fixed the boundaries along the principal stream of the Rio Grande. The treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1828 fixed the boundary as the middle of the Rio Grande following the deepest channel.

The changing of the river channel began to pose real problems and in another treaty in 1888 it was agreed that any bancos cut off since 1852 by the river should remain part of the original nation.

"This meant that parts of the United States were south of the river and parts of Mexico were north of the river."

This naturally did not work so another treaty eliminated all present and future bancos and fixed the line between the two nations along the deepest channel of the streams. The 58 bancos remaining on the north side of the Rio Grande went to the United States.

The International Boundary

Commission is directed to set monuments in the abandoned beds of the river where the boundaries of the bancos could be clearly defined.

Private Mexican landowners continued to own land even when it moved north of the river. In Mexico the government owns all the minerals while in Texas the landowners control the minerals.

By a 1922 statute, the federal government ceded jurisdiction over the bancos and provided that they be a part of the State of Texas.

The heart of controversy is this:

Because the act did not specifically state what happens to the ownership of the minerals under the bancos it appears, in the light of the Tidesands experience, that another three-way battle looms between the federal government, the State of Texas and the Mexican landowners over the minerals under the bancos.

The General Land Office reports that none of the bancos have been leased by the state for minerals in view of the uncertainty of the title.

The Texas portion of the river bed has been leased, but not the bancos.

Oil drilling along the Rio Grande will eventually force a decision regarding mineral rights.

general news and mention from Lefors

Written by Mrs. Charles Roberts

Art & Civic Club Meets

The Art and Civics Club met Tuesday night, Feb. 23, in the civic center with Mrs. James Jinks as hostess.

Mrs. Charles Glissen presented the program on "What's My Type," concerning styles and colors of today. The quotation, "Originality is one of the most necessary things next to good taste," was presented by the program director.

It was decided to buy eight hospital type towels for the Lefors ambulance. It was also decided to sponsor the Brownie Scouts, of which Mrs. Dale Prescott is the leader.

Cherry pie and all the trimmings were served by the hostess.

Members present were Mesdames Carl Hall, Charles Glissen, Floyd Hines, Clark Stanton, B. J. Thacker, Ray Chastain, Alex Swenn, Bud Cumberland, James Jinks, Earl Atkinson, L. R. Spence, C. C. Mullins, Raymond Jordan and Miss Mickey Sue Johnson.

Lefors HD Has Meeting

Lefors Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. H. L. Braly Thursday afternoon, Feb. 25, for a program on recreation given by Mrs. D. T. Pfeil, recreation chairman, Mrs. O. O. Bishop and Mrs. James Gatlin.

Mrs. Bishop, president, conducted the business meeting in which final plans were made for the fat stock show.

Mrs. Pfeil was elected as delegate nominee to the district convention in Claude in April, to replace Mrs. L. D. Rider, who stated she could not attend if elected.

An April rummage sale was planned and also a Mother's Day dinner to raise funds for a club trip this summer. Mrs. Bishop was appointed to get information on a chartered bus.

SENIORS GIVEN BANQUET

The Lefors High School seniors formed a gypsy caravan Thursday, Feb. 25, as they entered the Baptist Gypsy Camp. This annual senior banquet, given by the First Baptist W. M. U., was held in the church annex. The annex was transformed into a gypsy camp complete with campfire, tent, covered wagon background, and gypsy waitresses.

A gypsy serenade was given by Amy Earhart, Shirees Cable and Sandy Call, singing "Gypsy Earrings" and "Graduation Day." Mr. and Mrs. Joe Archer also serenaded the group with a song called "Dream."

Gypsy fortune teller, Mrs. Ann Teel, looked into her crystal ball for a glimpse of amusing futures of each senior.

Mrs. R. N. Cyper, WMU president, welcomed the banqueters, and Harry Price, senior class president, followed with the senior response. Guest speaker, Rev. T. O. Upshaw, former pastor of the Lefors Baptist church, explained to the senior guests how "Life Is Like a Cafeteria." Luther Berry served as toastmaster.

One new member, Mrs. Gene Fort, was welcomed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Braly, to Mesdames A. M. Dickerson, B. J. Thacker, James Gatlin, O. O. Bishop, D. T. Pfeil, Charles Roberts, B. D. Vaughn, A. T. Cobb, Jeff Davis, Ted Kendall, Gene Fort and R. H. Bradford.

WANT TO WIN A RACEHORSE?

CAN TRAVEL, NEED NAME—Hall of Fame Jockey Ted Atkinson and the $25,500 colt he selected to be given away as first prize in the 7th annual Kentucky Club Derby Day Contest now underway. The handsome son of Hill Prince, and a grandson of the great Princequillo, sire of Round Table, world's leading money winner, will go to the person who comes up with a winning name for it. See your tobacco dealer for details. Contest ends on April 11th.

LIONS HAVE LADIES NIGHT

Approximately 130 persons attended the Lions Club Ladies Night banquet in the Lefors school cafeteria Monday night, Feb. 22.

The feature attraction of the evening was that the Lionesses took over the meeting, conducting all business procedures in a somewhat mocking fashion.

Much to the embarrassment of the Lions officers, their wives filled their positions to show how officers look through the eyes of a woman.

The business session was kept well in hand by Lioness Jacobs, wife of Boss Lion Jerry Jacobs.

Lioness Robinson, cigar in mouth, read the minutes of the last meeting for her husband, David Robinson. The treasurer's report, in exaggerated form, was given by Lioness Watson, wife of Joe Watson.

The program was presented by the "Starlighters," a grade school trio consisting of Dickie Archer, Bill Nichols and David Roberts, who sang "Blue Moon" and "Mr. Blue." They were accompanied by Miss Pat Berry, Sharon Hines, club sweetheart, gave a reading entitled "Is That Accessory Really Necessary?"

The speaker for the evening was Lioness Beck, wife of Boyd Beck, whose speech entitled "Silence Is Golden" consisted of only a sweet smile and no words.

Ausmising gifts were presented to Lions Robinson, Beck, Thackel, McBea, and Boss Lino Jacobs.

HAMLIN HERALD: Charity Begins at Home. Since World II ended, Uncle Sam has scattered billions of dollars around the world to friendly nations, or rather to supposedly friendly nations. There is evidence that in some cases this has paid off, two outstanding examples being Western Europe and Japan. However, while the billions of dollars we gave these nations has been a factor in creating the prosperity they now enjoy, most of the credit must go to those nations themselves—they lifted themselves by their own bootstraps.

Our greatest contribution, greater than the dollars given by Uncle Sam, has been the advice given that they should protect property rights, avoid back-breaking taxes and keep labor's demands reasonable. They took the advice and developed an economic climate that has brought them almost incredible prosperity.

Which leads us to wonder why Uncle Sam doesn't begin to take some of the medicine he prescribes for strangers. Isn't it high time that we ourselves begin to take some of his advice? We have back-breaking taxes, labor has gotten out of bounds with its demands, and we have grown careless about protecting our own property rights.

Congress might do well to quit worrying about big business units and tone down its efforts to break them up. It should concern itself, rather, about protecting our American industry so that it can compete successfully in a whole world of competition. Our world leadership hinges on such competition. It's nice of us to peddle our money and advice abroad, but it's still true that charity begins at home.

OSCHILTREE COUNTY HERALD: Is Walking a Forgotten Art? It has long been a standard joke in American families that the head of the house berates his sons because they are getting soft. A couple of generations ago school children walked several miles through the weather to the one room school each day, carrying their lunch in a syrup bucket.

Later this walking decreased to a number of blocks, but still it was walking, and fathers of present day students are fond of reminding their offspring how far they walked.

We suppose it is the same all over.

D. Hodson Lewis, the chamber of commerce banquet speaker, said the high school kids in Highland Park at Dallas have crowded the school grounds with automobiles so that a committee of mothers has asked the school board to buy up property around the school and make a parking lot.

The comic strip "Gasoline Alley" has characters who age and it so happens that Squeezix is just the age of the Herald editor. His problems are about the same, too, and recently he has been concerned over the inability of his son, Chipper, to do any walking.

has really taken hold. At McLean they have a court case because the father of a girl in high school insists that she can get in her car and drive away during the noon hour and the school insists they have control over student parking during all school hours.

Football coaches blame the high rate of knee injuries on the fact that today's youngsters don't walk enough to develop strong knee joints. Dr. White, the heart specialist who treated President Eisenhower, says many of our modern day ills would be eliminated by a brisk walk of a mile or so every day.

Thursday, March 3, 1960

Adults are fond of stating how much they walked when they were young. But nobody wants to do it today. If we did, there would be no need of parking meters in Perryton because everybody actually lives within walking distance of town.

It would seem that everyone would be wiser and richer if they would only take the same advice which they are always trying to give away—Uncle Zeb in Plowin' Out the Corners.

GIVE ME THAT NEW TIME RELIGION!
By Jack Riley, Pastor McLean Methodist Church

Have you ever seen an "unfunny paged" daily newspaper?

Most children, youth and adults are familiar with the names Fearless Fosdick, Mike Nomad, Steve Canyon, Boots, Dr. Rex Morgan and Nelson Shrinkafeller. They can give you the latest report on their activities.

Are people familiar with the names, Bach, Paul, Shakespeare, Jesus, Chaucer and Peter?

Are we in America building a culture around a "comic philosophy" and a "televized psychology?" Thanks to a few writers some of the comics deal with social problems which exposed society to some of her needs and perhaps lead some people to see themselves in the problems of their favorite comic characters.

The renaissance would again be upon us if we would devote as much time to great literature and art as we do to lesser literature.

Is our funny-paged, televized living leading us to a Funnybook Religion? GOD FORBID THIS! Folks, get down off your high mule! Look at our religion today from the eyes of, quote, "great" men. The solution for the world crisis is said to be by:

- Lawyers . . . International law.
- Military men . . . armanent.
- Economist . . . spending.
- Lend-lease . . . lending.

No wonder the prophet cried, "Peace, peace when there is no peace!" Jer. 6:14.

Give me that new time religion! The kind that came out of the Law and the Book and into life in the power of the Man-Spirit, Jesus Christ. The man who practices the way of the Christ today will be as unpopular as the Christ.

Is it asking too much of you to give up your "Comic Book Religion" and accept the new time religion which is as old and as new as God, our Heavenly Father?
