

The Peripatetic View by OEC

For those of you who are becoming too tired of my constant gripes against the REA and other government-supported enterprises, please turn to another part of this insignificant little newspaper and don't read the rest of this column.

I remember distinctly in the past when the government ruled that advertising supporting the cause of private industry could not be deducted as other business advertising. This, essentially, ruled out private companies pleading their cause to the public. With the remainder of the excessive taxes they labor under, they could not afford to put forth this business expense and have it ruled as not business expense.

AND THEN, the other day I picked up a leading magazine and found a full page ad, costing something in the neighborhood of $2,000, pleading the cause of the Rural Electrification Administration. It doesn't matter so much that the facts were misleading, but it does matter that they are allowed to cry out the leftist opinions at the expense of the taxpayers, while the private enterprisers can't even promote their side of the business and call it business expense.

If this isn't government suppression, then I'll eat my big black rodeo hat!

And I owe an apology to state representative Will Ehrle of the 98th Congressional District. A few weeks ago I stated that while Ehrle was running for the state legislature he was under suspension for dubious practices from the University of Texas. I was wrong and I apologize. The truth is that he was suspended but was reinstated prior to the race. And I was NOT contested on the Cadillac part, so I suppose we can let that stand as such. The people of Hall, Donley and Childress counties seem to be happy at any rate. And after all—boys will be boys. If he gives away the state capitol building then Uncle Ralph Yarborough will probably smile a few times and just give us all a big new one.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Mr. Cullin:
You are certainly doing your readers a great service in calling their attention to the threat of more gouging on the gasoline taxes. Your May 12 editorial, which I just happened to see, was a good one. If all the so-called automotive taxes were used on our highways rather than other governmental purposes, we would have plenty of money.

This diversion and future threats of diversion of a car-owner's tax money are not confined to the national level. I hope you and other alert editors will keep your eyes on any attempt to juggle the gasoline tax money here in the state in such a way as to divert it to non-highway uses.

Very truly yours,
Estill S. Heyser Jr.,
President, Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association
(Editor's Note: I agree that it's an extremely good editorial. Especially since I borrowed it and didn't write it myself. Apparently, however, there are two groups who do not read such editorials or do not pay any attention to them: The first are the compromisers, knee-paddling, vote-hungry legislators who make the tax laws, and the multiple diversions; and the second are the non-thinking bump heads who keep voting for them.)

66 Rodeo, Roundup Was Roarin' Success

FIVE BOYS WIN IN CALF SCRAMBLE

Five bruised, battered, dirty, but happy boys emerged Saturday night from the calf scramble with some real cattle filling their halters in the final night of the 66 rodeo performances.

From a field of 18 boys, five took home a calf of their own, with the only price being the scramble it took to catch one and haul it to the judge.

Boys winning calves were Ernie McCracken, Joe B. Taylor, Donnie Woods, Gary Clawson and Bill Goldston.

Donating the calves for the scramble, which was the first to be held in the McLean celebration, were Morse Ranch, Sitter Ranch, Hess Ranch, Webb Ranch and Saunders Ranch.

The event was highly worthy of the show and will become an annual affair.

McLean's 1960 Rodeo, Roundup and Celebration was a roaring success, proven by the crowds that thronged the four initial performances in the new arena of the association.

According to reports, more persons attended the 1960 rodeo shows than had ever attended in the history of the association, and larger facilities are being planned for next year.

The second annual A. Q. A. approved horse show held Friday was highly successful, with some of the top entries in the state competing. A complete record of the winners of the horse show will be published next week.

In the rodeo division, Ed Harland of Texhoma was the big winner, taking the all-round cowboy saddle along with two belt buckles and $325 in prize money. The roping saddle went to Bob Thompson of Paducah with a total of 63.4 seconds in four ropings.

First place in double mugging went to Nolan Potete of Panhandle, and bull dogging honors went to Dick Ratzin of Happy. Both bareback bronc riding and saddle bronc riding first places went to Ed Harland. The brahma bull riding first place buckle went to Lonnie Garrison of Tulia.

According to rodeo officials, the parade Wednesday opening the celebration was better represented by organizations than any before, and all phases of the four-day festivities were successful.

On behalf of the Rodeo Association, which includes the Lions Club and the Roping Club, appreciation was expressed to all persons and firms who had a part in making the 1960 celebration a success. Thanks particularly go to those who helped in completing the new arena prior to the first performance. The labor, materials, and all donations to the project were invaluable, and were appreciated by all those responsible.

Funeral services were held in Clarendon Monday for Mrs. Frances A. Dotson, 88, mother of Mrs. E. L. Moore of McLean. Mrs. Dotson, who had been a resident of Donley County for 42 years, died June 4.

66 Ass'n Plans Barbeque

A chicken barbeque has been scheduled for June 16th, next Thursday, at 7:30 p. m., at the new rodeo arena, it was announced this week.

Plans for the barbeque were made at the meeting Tuesday night of the rodeo association.

It was especially stressed that the affair would not only be for members of the association, which includes the Lions Club and Roping Club, but was planned for all persons who helped with the rodeo and celebration this year, or who are interested in the annual affair in any way.

Members of the association will select officers during the barbeque for the next year's rodeo and celebration.

MRS. JOEL WAYNE LYNCH

Leona Gossett and Joel Wayne Lynch Marry in Amarillo

San Jacinto Church of Christ in Amarillo was the scene of the marriage of Miss Leona Rae Gossett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gossett of Kellerville, and Joel Wayne Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Lynch of Ada, Okla., on June 4, at 8 p. m. Glenn Walton, minister, read the double ring ceremony.

Lighted candelabra formed the arch banked with woodwardia palms. The arch was flanked with standards of yellow gladiolus and majestic daisies. White silk ribbons marked the family pews. "O Promise Me," "Whither Thou Goest" and "Be With Us Lord" were sung by a chorus from San Jacinto Church of Christ. The traditional wedding marches were used.

Groomsmen were Kenneth Gossett of Kellerville, brother of the bride, and Gene Stephenson and Jack York, both of Shamrock. Bobby Johns of Kellerville served the groom as best man.

Candles were lighted by Joy Buchanan, cousin of the bride, and Sarah Beth Lynch, cousin of the bridegroom.

Miss Ladelle Ratten, Amarillo, served the bride as maid-of-honor. She wore a pale yellow silk organza dress accented with a deeper tone of organza trim, including a large bow at the back of the bouffant skirt. Bridesmaids were Misses Thelma McKenzie and Miss Jerolyn Cummings of Amarillo, and Mrs. Charlie Martin of Pampa, cousin of the bride. They were dressed identically to the maid-of-honor, except in aqua. Each carried slender cascades of frenched carnations matching their gowns.

Misses Gay Lynn Howard and Dana Jo Jenkins of Amarillo were the flower girls. They wore dresses identical to those of the honor attendants and carried miniature baskets of flowers.

Rings were presented to the minister on a heart-shaped pillow of white satin by Master Wayne Ramsey of Shamrock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white floor length gown. The bodice of Alencon lace was complemented with long tapered sleeves and a scalloped scoop neckline trimmed in sequins and pearls. The skirt was bouffant silk organza detailed with re-embroidered Alencon lace motifs delicately accented with seed pearls. The fingertip veil of imported French illusion with scalloped edges was attached to the queen's crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a long cascade of white starlike roses and stephanotis tufted with maline and showers of white satin streamers atop a white Bible. She wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue.

Mrs. Gossett, mother of the bride, wore a mocha colored lace sheath. Mrs. Lynch, mother of the groom, wore a sheer cotton in shades of orchid and olive green. They each wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held honoring the couple. Guests were registered by Mrs. Ona Bidwell of Albuquerque, N. M. Members of the house party included Mrs. Carrol Gossett, Mrs. Royal Crawford, Miss Nelda Wright and Miss Beverly Clark.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a navy sheath. Her accessories were white with a corsage of white roses.

The bride graduated from McLean High School and Draughts Business College. She is presently employed by General Crude Oil Co. The bridegroom graduated from Ada High School and East Central State College. He is presently employed as a teacher in the Shamrock school system.

After June 10, the couple will be at home at 306-A North Virginia in Amarillo.

Welcomes You

THE PLEA OF CHURCHES OF CHRIST

Our plea is for a complete return to New Testament Christianity. After the church was established on the first Pentecost after the death, burial and resurrection of Christ in the year 33 A. D., there was a gradual falling away from the original pattern of true worship. This had been predicted by the apostle Paul in 2 Thess. 2:3-9; and in 1 Tim. 4:1-3. Efforts to reform the apostate church only resulted in many denominations being formed. In the latter part of the 1700's A. D., men from various ones of these groups commenced to get the idea of a complete restoration to New Testament Christianity.

By the early 1800's there were many more who had conceived this idea, many of them being unaware that anyone else had such an idea. The thing that was found out, however, as each of these movements branched out was that they each were teaching the same thing, because they were each teaching the Bible, 1 Cor. 1:10.

They did not achieve unity by compromise or by meeting around conference table, but by teaching and obeying the simple truths of the word of God. It is significant, today, that wherever the word of God is used as the sole guide in all religious matters the same results are being produced.

Each individual, not only has the right to study the word of God for himself, but he has the obligation to follow the New Testament scriptures to the exclusion of all other religious guides.

We plead with all men to be Christians only and to be members of the body of Christ.

YOUR POWER BILL

Judging by all the controversy over public-vs-private electric power, a person who lacked factual information would be entitled to the belief that power costs are one of the biggest financial headaches in the American home and American industry.

Yet, the truth is that power is one of the extremely few items in general use which costs less now than it did in 1945.

A major utility company has told its own rate story, which is a typical one. Its average residential rate declined from 5.04 cents a kilowatt hour in 1945 to 3.98 cents in 1959, and its average commercial and industrial price went from 3.11 cents to 2.63 cents in the same period. It's true that electric bills are higher. But that's because people use much more electricity. They want the convenience it provides, and are willing to pay the modest cost.

This particular company has had to ask for a rate increase because of rising costs of all kinds over which it has no control. So have other power companies. But the increases are always comparatively minor—about six cents a month for residential customers in the case in question.

Actually, the cost of electricity runs to about 1% of the average domestic and commercial budget. What else gives you so much for so little?

AFTER THE TAX COLLECTOR GETS THROUGH

News media occasionally carry stories concerning the highest paid people in American industry. Under the law, these figures must be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and thus become a public record. And the gross earnings of the executives concerned are certainly huge.

However, the news stories commonly pay little or no attention to what is left of these incomes after the federal tax collector gets through.

U. S. News World Report describes this aspect of the matter in a recent article. Example: One man had total compensation of $670,350 before federal income taxes—and $172,785 after. Another earned $600,100 before federal taxes—and was left with $160,070. Still another had a before-tax take of $515,100—and an after-tax take-home pay of $144,685.

The fact is that the U. S. Treasury is the biggest beneficiary of large incomes. And the earner is able to keep only a fraction of his compensation. In addition, of course, he must pay taxes to state and local government, thus further reducing his take-home pay. Salaries have to be enormous to leave a net return large enough to interest executives desired.

The same thing is true of the earnings of business. The profits tax on a corporation of any size is a whopping 52%. And that's just the beginning. For the div-

Contract Awarded for Road Construction

A contract for 7.0 miles of construction on F. M. Road 291 in Gray County has been awarded to an Amarillo firm, it was announced in Austin this week by the State Highway Commission.

Gilvin-Terrill, Inc., submitted the low bid of $107,960 on the project. Construction of reconstruction of grading, structures, base and surfacing from State Highway 273 to 7.0 miles south is expected to take 90 working days, according to Charles W. Smith, district highway engineer at Amarillo.

G. K. Reading, resident engineer at Pampa, will be in active charge of the project while it is under construction.

Dividends paid to stockholders out of the remaining profits are subject to the individual income tax, at rates ranging from 20 to 91%.

Top executives and substantial businesses handle a lot of money. But most of it goes right through their hands, and into the coffers of government.

HOW WILL WE EXIST?

Some time ago the House Ways and Means Committee rejected the Forand bill, which would provide government-paid medical services of various kinds to the beneficiaries of the social security system. The ultimate cost of this measure, according to reliable estimates, would be some $7.5 billion a year.

The committee's action, it should now be emphasized, does not mean that the bill is dead. The strongest kind of pressures will be used either to resurrect it, or to press through another bill of a comparable nature. And that gives immediate and urgent point to an editorial appearing in the Tulsa Daily World.

The paper writes: "How, in the light of what already is in prospect in the way of social security protection, can the mass of the American people take on another heavy tax such as the Forand bill contemplates where another $7.5 billion annually must be deducted from paychecks."

"We think cost is an important consideration: we don't care whether others so consider the matter. Moderate incomes today are being taxed as high as 30%; social security taxes are rapidly approaching the 10% bracket. We think it is not unfair to consider the individual in this matter—and we mean the individual who is not over 65 years of age.

"We want to know how these younger people are going to exist on only 50 to 60% of their annual earnings in the years ahead. It would be difficult enough in these high-cost times to exist on 100% of income—if we could only collect it!"

In sum, we are going to have to begin thinking in terms of what we can afford as a nation if we are to prevent financial disaster. And that means that we are going to have to look to means of solving problems which do not involve piling more and more burdens on taxpayers.

Area Observations

From Douglas Meador's "Trail Dust" in Matador Tribune:

Leisure provides sufficient time in which to fabricate more ornate excuses for the incidence of failure.

If delinquency can be attributed to parents, then the behavior of all outcasts has a ready-poured abill.

Time is geared according to age. The youth finds it slow while traveling with the wind in his sports car. On the other hand an aged man can't slow its pace while sitting down and dragging his feet.

If the nation was placed on a quick silver standard some of us would have a respectable excuse for not being able to keep a little of what we earn.

Fumes from the exhaust of opportunity leaving the scene of a refusal may remain nauseating through half a lifetime.

The creation of beauty is, perhaps, the most unselfish form of greatness that mankind can reach. Its latitude is that of the heart collected in a building, a picture, a poem or a freshly-plowed field.

The fire of an untruth can be most effectively squelched by allowing it to burn its substance away in the spot where it falls.

Thoughts for Thursday, by H. M. Baggarily in Tulsa Herald:

Life is composed of innumerable situations and problems which call for action by every human being. Day by day, hour by hour, we must make choices. Our success depends upon our ability to make the right ones. Should a person live possessing the ability to make right choices in every situation, the world would be his. But the world isn't composed of that kind of people.

Life is complex because of the difficulty in making right choices. Sometimes the choice is to select one of two courses. One is right. One is wrong. In these situations, we have at least a 50-50 chance of making the right choice.

Our ability to think ordinarily gives us an even better chance to make the right choice. If always our problems were sufficiently simple to distinguish between black and white, if every problem required a yes or no, true or false answer, life would be comparatively simple.

But more often this isn't the type problem thrown in our path. More often we must select the one true answer from perhaps 100 possible answers, in which case the odds are 1-100 that we will select the correct one. Instead of selecting black or white, we must choose between 100 shades of gray.

The wise person is he who has the ability to select the best course from among the hundred possible courses.

Is there a sure way of knowing one best answer, the best course? Usually there is not. However, there may be some pointers which will help.

Were you ever asked to select a number between 1 and 100 in childish guessing games? Ordinarily it isn't wise to select either the first or last number. More often the correct answer lies somewhere nearer the middle.

So it is in life's guessing game. Almost always truth is never found at either extreme.

A piano is composed of 88 keys. The lowest key in the bass and the highest key in the treble invariably are useless. Even on the best attended pianos they are out of tune. They do not produce pleasing sounds. The most beautiful notes and combination of notes are to be found nearer the center of the keyboard.

Two ways of rearing children are these: One parent cares so little for his child that he murders him all because the cries of the child annoy the father. Another parent "loves" his child so much that he just can't bear the idea of punishing even the slightest transgression. (The first child is the fortunate one.)

There are two ways to manage one's financial affairs. One can be a miser. He can wear rags, eat crumbs from garbage pails, and live in a shanty in order to amass a fortune. Or one can be a spend-thrift. He can spend every cent he makes this week—and will make in the coming weeks—on various whims that enter his thinking.

In either case, the extremes are to be avoided. The right answers, the right courses to follow, are somewhere in between. The wise person, the one who knows how much to love his child, how much money to spend, who selects the keys with the more melodious pitches found away from the extremities of the keyboard.

LIVING UP TO LIFE

by Michael Daves

"Down, but not Out!"

Mac Davis tells the story of two American heavyweights who, needing money, decided to stage a 40 round fight in Paris. Their names were Sam McVey and Joe Jeanette. The year was 1909. Round after round Sam kept knocking Joe down. But each time, Joe climbed back to his feet. By the end of the 36th round, Sam had knocked Joe down an incredible 36 times. But when the bell rang for the start of the 37th round, Sam could not move from his corner. He was exhausted from the effort of knocking his opponent down. And so Joe Jeanette, the man who had been knocked down 36 times, won the fight, while the man who floored him was officially counted "out."

In the battles of fear, frustration and conflict, we need to remember that God is with us. As the psalmist knew, "He is a very present help in times of trouble." As He kept Jerusalem, so He keeps us. He does not keep us free from trouble, but He gives us freedom in trouble. Troubles may knock us off our feet 36 times 36, but His is an abiding power. Listen to the words of Paul as translated by J. B. Phillips: "We are handicapped on all sides, but we are never frustrated; we are puzzled, but never in despair. We are persecuted, but we are never knocked out." Yes! We will always win, for God is "in."
