I personally like to have any chance to say, "I told you so," and for those few readers who have waved the flag of liberalism and championed the cause of all government subsidy I can say so now to you.

I fervently hope that the few readers who have insulted my "reactionary" remarks had a good ear turned when the Democratic majority platform report was steam-rolled through the convention.

For the status-quo people who say we aren't progressing but have led a "golden mean" between left and right wing, I hope you consider the broad statements made which will, in all probability, be your laws in the future.

If you like to have the federal government force a private businessman to integrate his establishment, then you have been on the right track for the past decade. If you want the federal government to decide whether or not you are fair in who you want to hire to work for you, then you've been embracing the right views.

If you want to see another million or so farmers go broke during the next administration, then you keep telling me that the REA, the price support, etc., are wonderful things.

Federal income tax during the past 30 years has increased 400 times over the per capita income for the same amount of time.

If this is the idea of a big, beautiful world, then I don't care for it. Persons have sat on their big, fat complacent egos and watched on television one of the most colossal farces ever perpetrated. But when the hand-outs start again, the line, as usual, will stretch for miles and miles. It's come to the point that the kindest thing you can call a man is a Republican.

ON THE LOCAL SIDE: Mr. Wes Izzard of the Amarillo Daily News in his Tuesday column was trying to deprecate some convention delegates and did so by saying they were like a "bunch of small town business men fawning over the local banker."

Aside from being in poor taste, Mr. Izzard could have chosen much more colorful and apt expressions. For instance he might have said, "like a bunch of Potter County officials at a state investigation." Or perhaps he might have said, "like two liquor control men chasing a drunk around the post office."

Or still better, he might have said, "like a neighboring county judge seeking an indelicate swap for a divorce fee."

He might have said a number of things without being snide about a group of which I am a part, and which I would place man for man against Amarillo business men any "Golden Spread" day of the year.

But of course, it's always easier to insult the man in the backyard next to your own.

Baptist Circles Meet Tuesday

The Glenda Woerner circle of the Baptist W. M. S. met in the home of Mrs. Raymond Smith Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Homer Abbott brought the lesson on prayer.

Those present were Mesdames F. E. Stewart, A. J. Goodwin, R. L. Brown, T. A. Langham, Bunia Kunkel, Joe Suderman, Homer Abbott, the hostess and one guest, Mrs. Leroy Blaylock.

The Marjorie Rowden circle met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. H. W. Finley for mission. The mission book, "William Carey," was begun with Mrs. Pettit as leader.

Mrs. Bill Pettit received the honor of the W. M. S. attendance as enlistment chairman for June.

The meeting for July 17 is to be held with Mrs. Bert Barker.

Others present were Mesdames O. L. Tibbets, Ola Henderson, Pearl Matthews, Earl Brooks and Lonnie Day. The hostess served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Reeves and children of Anaheim, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Jess Reeves of Carlton and Mr. and Mrs. Graham Reeves and daughters of Pampa visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cousins.

Retail Merchants To Meet July 21

ANNUAL GREENBELT CLASSIC HAS GLITTERING HISTORY

Names of many great athletes have appeared on the rosters of the Greenbelt football classic over the past ten years. When the game was started the sponsors had in mind bringing together a group of outstanding high school players from the area.

Coaches for the teams each year have headlined the greatest of the classic and many have gone on to make big names in the world of sports.

This year David Crockett of McLean will be participating playing with the West team.

The first year of the classic found Ki Aldrich coaching the East team and Dick Todd coaching the West team. The West team nosed out the East team 14 to 13. In 1951 Aldrich again coached the East team and James Mitchell tutored the West team and his team knocked over the East team by one touchdown for a score of 20 to 14. Dixie White took over the coaching duties of the East team in 1952 and defeated Mitchell's West team 14 to 0. In 1953 two great games in football came into the picture with Sammy Baugh coaching the East team and Abe Martin directing the action for the West team. Sammy's 11 defeated his old coach's team by a score of 7 to 6 to even the game count to two for the East and two for the West. In 1954 Sammy Baugh again coached the East team and Frank Kimbrough coached the West team. The West won the game by a decided 18 to 7 score. In 1955 Frank Beauchamp took over the reins of the West team and whipped Frank Kimbrough's West team by a small score of 7 to 6. In 1956 Fred Taylor coached the East team and Dick Todd coached the West team and Taylor's team compiled the largest score of the classic's history by the East winning by a score of 27 to 6.

In 1956 Claude Gilstrap coached the East team and A. H. (Sandy) Sanford coached the West team with the East winning 6 to 0. In 1957 the same two coaches returned and the West won by a close score of 7 to 6.

In 1959 J. V. (Sik) Sikes coached the East team and Bennie Williams coached the West team. The score ended in a 14 to 14 tie. This year the same two coaches will return and will try to unlock the tie.

During the ten years that the classic has been running, the East has won four games with one tie and has scored 115 points, while the West has won four games, tied one and compiled 91 points. This indicates that the teams have been well matched and have had some of the best players in the area.

One familiar name will again appear on the roster this year as a player. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Baugh, who graduated this year from Rotan High School. He is Todd Baugh, named after one of his father's best friends, Dick Todd, who coached the West team two years, and his father, of course, coached the East team two years.

Alex Saied, president of the Greenbelt Bowl, Childress, has announced that tickets have gone on sale, and that the largest crowd in history of the classic is expected this year.

According to Saied, an added attraction this year will be outstanding cheer leaders selected from schools in the area who will become a permanent part of the Greenbelt classic.

Gene Brown of Lubbock spent last week in the Jim Hathaway home.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Allison and children of Lubbock returned Mrs. T. A. Landers to her home near McLean following a month's visit in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Back spent several days in Borger last week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Back.

Miss Norma Ruth Beck has been visiting in Borger with her aunt, Miss Jewell Cousins.

Mrs. B. Atchley was in Highland General Hospital four days last week for medical treatment.

SHAMROCK RODEO SET JULY 21-23

Tickets are now sale for Shamrock Sheriff's Posse annual rodeo to be held at their arena north-west of Shamrock on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 21, 22 and 23.

Only night performances of the three day show will be held, starting at 8 o'clock.

A quarter horse show will be held on the opening day.

Dr. O. M. Roberts is in charge of ticket sales again this year. Other committee chairmen are Dick Anderson and Paul Macina Jr., concession rights and barbecue; Lonnie Burks, quarter horse show; and Glenn Richerson, advertising and publicity.

Stock for the rodeo will again be furnished by L. D. Ward of Trinidad, Colo. His well-known string of animals is expected to attract scores of amateur cowboys as it did last year.

Mr. Ward has become one of the more prominent rodeo producers in the southwest, handling many of the bigger shows in the area, including the Will Rogers Range Riders rodeo at Amarillo. Spectators will be treated to six events on each of the three evenings: bull dogging, calf roping, bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding and barrel racing.

A trophy will be awarded the best all-around cowboy. Trophy buckles will go to the winners of each event. This, of course, will be in addition to the prize money consisting of all entry fees, plus $25 in each event.

Admission prices will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

A clown will be on hand to insert the comedy relief.

Dances will be held on Friday and Saturday nights at the National Guard Armory. Admission price will be $1 per person.

For the information of cowboys who wish to compete in any of the events, the rodeo books will be open from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. on Wednesday, July 20, at the Chamber of Commerce office in Shamrock.

Mrs. Bob Willoughby and children, Skip and Toni, spent last week in Tulsa, Okla., visiting relatives.

GREAT PLAINS CONSERVATION PROGRAM PLANNING REVIEWED

We feel like it is important to take this opportunity to inform you a little more about this program. This is probably the best approach ever to be taken in getting a particular farm or ranch to put all the needed conservation practices on the ground. Getting conservation on the ground is our only purpose as a Soil Conservation District. We know that most of you farmers and ranchers are now aware that the conservation of your land is of utmost importance and that you want to apply those needed practices. With this in mind let us explore this Great Plains idea a little farther.

First, it is effective only if you (Mr. Farmer or Rancher) want to put needed conservation practices on your land. (We of course refer you to the Soil Conservation Service men to assist you with the determination of the nature and extent of these practices.) After you have reviewed your place and determined the conservation practices you need, then you can tentatively schedule out the year, or years, that you want to do each practice you have decided on. The Great Plains program also provides cost share for applying the conservation practices. These cost shares range from 50 to 80 percent of current average cost, depending on the practice. After you have selected the practices you need and the year you plan to apply it a plan will be devoted by the Soil Conservation Service (of which you will receive a copy) showing the year, the conservation practice, the extent of the practice and the amount paid by the government for each practice. You will then be given an opportunity to review this prepared plan and make any changes needed. If you agree with it then you will sign an agreement with the government that you will

1960 Grid Schedule Announced

WATERSHED PROGRAM UNDERWAY

From Gray County
Soil Conservation District

Over the past years we have seen many damaging floods come down McClellan Creek. These floods have covered up rich, productive fields and meadows. They have washed out roads, bridges, and other works of improvement and endangered human lives and dwellings. We have naturally wondered what we could do to control these floods. We think we have found a way through the use of Public Law 566, "The Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act." Your Gray County Soil Conservation District started action for this program. An application has been submitted to the proper authorities for action. We want to say here that we are deeply grateful to the Staked Plains Soil Conservation District (Carson County), to the Gray County Commissioners Court and to the Carson County Commissioners Court for joining us as co-sponsors of the application. Without their support we would have been unable to get a legal application. We are hoping we can get a survey made this fall or winter to determine whether there is, or will be, enough damage on the flood plain to offset the cost of building the dams up stream. In the event there is enough damage to offset the cost, then the next step is to get an engineering crew in to locate where the dams will be built. After that, the easements granting permission to build the dams will be obtained and actual work will start on building the structures. These steps will take time and one must be taken care of before the next starts. In the event the survey is not justified, then the watershed program will be stopped. We all hope that we will eventually get the watershed program and prevent the floods on McClellan Creek.

McLean's 1960 schedule for the Tiger football squad was announced this week by Clifford Bradshaw, head coach. Shamrock will be the opener, scheduled for September 2nd.

A total of 10 games will be played this year, including four conference and six non-conference bookings.

After re-arrangement of District 2-A, the Tigers will be competing this year with Canadian, Memphis, Clarendon and Lefors. White Deer and Panhandle were added to 1-A.

Joining Bradshaw on the coaching staff this year will be Darrel Davis, a former Pampa athlete, who comes to McLen from a position with the Amarillo school system. Davis will be assistant football coach and head basketball coach.

The schedule for the forthcoming seson is as follows:

September 2	Shamrock there
September 9	Wheeler here
September 16	Groom there
September 23	White Deer here
October 7	Claude there
October 14	Canadian here
October 21	Memphis there
October 28	Open
November 4	Clarendon here
November 11	Lefors there
Final four are	conference games

Plains also takes this approach and will make any needed changes to conform to changed conditions.

This appears to be a sound approach to us. You, Mr. Farmer or Rancher, are the ones that make the decisions to apply and when to apply them. This business of tentative scheduling looks particularly good to us for it indicates that when your plan is over you have done a complete conservation job. It also ties cost share in, too. It should be pointed out that approved cost share may also be received for practices that are not set up for cost share under Great Plains. There can be no duplication of payment. If you are interested and have further questions please see Mr. Ralph Thomas, any of the SCD boys, or Miss Evelyn Mason. You probably know someone who has a Great Plains plan all ready (there are 21 to date in the SCD) that you can talk to.

Mother of Local Man dies Friday

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon in the Groom Methodist Church for Mrs. Dora Stubbfield of Amarillo. Rev. Marvin McBrayer of Amarillo officiated, assisted by Rev. C. R. Copeland, pastor of the Groom church.

Mrs. Stubbfield was born in McKinney and married Joseph M. Stubbfield on July 18, 1892. They moved to Shamrock in 1936. Mrs. Stubbfield died Friday in Underwood Hospital in Amarillo.

Survivors are five sons, W. J. Stubbfield of White Deer, J. A. and Dwight Stubbfield of Amarillo, Joe M. Stubbfield of Hale Center and B. Earl Stubbfield of McLean; three daughters, Mrs. Donna Lemley and Mrs. Art Knapp Sr. of Amarillo, and Mrs. C. A. Morrow of Groom; 15 grandchildren and 9 great-grandchildren.

Curry, Watson New Owners of Zero Lockers

Purchase was announced this week of the Zero Lockers in McLean by Glen Curry and Carl Watson. The firm was formerly owned by Roland Williams.

Since purchase of the business, Curry and Watson have remodeled the interior and expect to add more services to the plant.

Zero Lockers will continue as the name for the business. Presently, meat processing is done in addition to the frozen locker rental.

The biggest oil derricks can lift 450 tons—more than the combined weight of a steam locomotive and tender.

Farm pond for livestock water and better distribution of grazing. May be cost shared through GPCP.

Church Of Christ Welcomes You

4th and Clarendon

WE MUST OBEY GOD

Men have no right or authority to legislate or make laws in the realm of religion. Christ alone has been given authority in His church, and men who would be saved must obey Him. (Matt. 28:18-20)

When men sought to keep the apostles from any longer preaching and teaching those things they were commissioned by the Lord to preach they answered, "We must obey God rather than men." (Acts 5:29) The reason for this is given by the apostle Paul in 2 Thess. 1:7-8, "... and to you that are afflicted rest with us, at the revelation of the Lord Jesus from heaven with the angels of his power in flaming fire, rendering vengeance to them that know not God, and to them that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus."

Anyone today who refuses to obey the gospel of Christ will be lost. It does not matter how good a person is, or how many good deeds one may do if he does not obey the gospel of Christ the apostle tells us that the Lord will come rendering vengeance upon him. Sometimes such a person is a great detriment to the cause of Christ because he leads others to believe that they can be saved without becoming Christians. We have an example of a very pious and good man in Acts 10, Cornelius by name. This man needed to have the Word of God proclaimed to him, and then obey the same before he could be saved.

When one refuses to obey the gospel of Christ, he in effect turns his back on the Lord. Jesus died for our sins, and in order to have our sins remitted we must obey Him. To obey Christ and have ones past sins remitted one must believe, (Heb. 11:6) repent, (Luke 13:3) confess his faith in Christ, (Rom. 10:9-10) and be baptized for the remission of sins, (Acts 2:38; 22:16).

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Government electric power projects are never described by their proponents as socialistic ventures, but that is precisely what they amount to.

The bait offered to lead the people into the socialistic trap is "cheap power." It is cheap only because tax exempt federal power projects can escape paying some 23% of total income in taxes which investor-owned electric companies have to collect from consumers and pay to government.

We read that Russia plans to abolish nearly all income taxes in the next five years, but that means nothing. In Russia the state owns almost everything and all it has to do to raise money is to add enough to the price of goods and services to meet the needs of government. It's just a choice between taxes or higher prices.

If socialism is extended in the United States, either remaining private industry and taxpayers will have to be bled white to make up for revenue losses accruing from tax-exempt government projects, or such projects will have to increase their prices in order to carry their share of the cost of government.

Just how long the politicians can make up the taxes lost through socializing business by imposing higher taxes on all the people and remaining private enterprise, remains to be seen.

THE CONSUMER SUFFERS

Federal regulation of natural gas is supposedly in the public interest. But the fact is that both consumers and producers are being penalized to the tune of many millions of dollars as a result of this regulation—and the consumer is "really the one who has suffered the most grievous injuries, although he hasn't yet realized it." That's the informed view of an officer of a leading oil and gas company. And he amplified his case in detail.

Gas shortages will develop if gas exploration is not encouraged. Under Federal Power Commission regulation, natural gas could become so expensive that the average homemaker could not afford it. And this is no small matter. Natural gas furnishes over one-quarter of this country's energy requirements, and makes extremely important contributions to our living standards, our economy, and the national defense.

Yet, when an operator discovers gas today, he may have to wait from two to six years before getting permission to start deliveries. That's because the log jam of cases before the FPC has grown at an alarming rate. At the end of last February, the pending cases on the docket stood at 3,187. FPC simply can't handle them with anything resembling expeditiousness. The out-of-pocket costs imposed on gas producers during the last six years, because of delays and disruptions, total at least $75 million.

The executive summed up the situation in these words: "Natural gas is now the only basic commodity which enjoys no exclusive franchises or other monopoly privileges, and the price of which is directly controlled during peacetimes by government edict. If that kind of federal regulation is 'the public interest' so far as natural gas is concerned, what is to keep the same controls from being imposed on oil, coal, lumber, steel, meat and other essential commodities?"

PUBLIC DEMAND IS THE ANSWER

Under an old law, passed when conditions were very different from those of today, the Rural Electrification Cooperatives borrow money from the government at 2%. But the government must pay about twice that much interest when it sells bonds to produce capital. So all taxpayers must make up the difference.

It has been widely urged that REA interest rates be increased to the point where they will balance the going rate paid by the government, and thus take the burden of financing co-op expansion off the backs of taxpayers at large. But, so far, the proposal gets nowhere. Indeed, commenting on the matter, Senator Wiley recently said: "The Ways and Means Committee—the tax-writing body of Congress—has held extensive hearings on these controversial issues. . . . The views are so wide apart that such legislation has not yet been forthcoming, nor does it look like it will."

However, there will be future Congresses, and the interest rate proposal will come up again. What is needed to make it into law is public demand. And there is every reason for that demand. The co-ops are commercial enterprises, competing with private utility industry, municipal systems and all other producers of electric service. The job of electrifying agricultural America has been virtually completed—so current and planned REA co-op expansion is largely in industrial and residential fields that were never envisioned when it was started. Moreover, in addition to the interest subsidy, the co-ops are totally free of heavy costs that must be borne by private taxpaying enterprise—of which the federal income tax is the most important.

Loaning federal money at half what it costs the government, plus loss of federal income taxes on properties so favored, is now an unquenchable drain on the general taxpayer.

BARNUM SAID IT BETTER

by Vant Neff

P. T. Barnum built his circus around the simple slogan, "There's a sucker born every minute." It's surprising how many of our prominent politicians apply the same philosophy to their election-time show. They repeal the basic laws of economics (for the duration of the campaign), drag the old "something for nothing" gimmick out of mothballs, and offer a good time to all. You scarcely feel the hand in your pocket. But you'll know it's there, all right, when the time comes to count the cost.

Just now, for instance, there are bills before both houses of Congress which would increase the federal minimum wage from $1 to $1.25, and extend its coverage to workers in "retailing and service industries." A good "liberal" cause according to its sponsors, and worth all the campaign mileage they can get out of it. But is it really? Let's look at it objectively and try to determine just who really benefits, and who pays the tab.

The first, and most far-reaching result would be direct inflation. Any retailer forced to pay higher wages would have no choice but to add the cost directly to his prices. You won't even have to wait for tax time to pay for this one. You'll pay right out of your pocket each time you shop. And, of course, the increased prices of goods make your own dollar worth just that much less. There aren't any one-way streets in economics. Any accountant can tell you that. Money on one side of the ledger must be balanced by money on the other side.

Another obvious effect of such a law would be the inevitable elimination of sales jobs for students and older people. Why? Because a retailer who must pay this increased wage will be forced by simple economics to hire full-time "professionals" while his operating costs skyrocket. This could mean immediate, widespread unemployment, particularly among older people who need these jobs!

There is no need to point out the increased federal intervention in local, state and community affairs this law would entail. And you know through sad experience, you would have to cough up the tax money to finance the federal bureaucracy to administer the new law. So you'd actually end up paying the tab two ways, in higher prices and higher cost of federal government.

The bill's advocates will tell you it only covers firms with annual sales of $1-million and over, and exempts small businesses. This is meaningless when you examine it closely. The local store that is a branch of a national business is still a local business employing local people. But it would be forced to pay higher wages than its next-door competitor just because of the national connection, or the small retailer would have to meet the larger store's sales, so he would be caught anyway. Doesn't make much sense, does it? Particularly since such unequal competition could force many stores to close, throwing local people out of work.

Then what is the answer? Shouldn't the unskilled worker be subject to minimum wage laws? He should be and is, under laws already on the books in 29 states. But it's a matter for your state legislature, where everyone is familiar with local conditions and problems. Not somebody way off in Washington. And it doesn't make sense to set up one rule, regardless of the admittedly varying economic conditions that exist from one area to another.

As for the bills before Congress—S. 1046 (Senate) and H.R. 4455 (House)—write to your representatives in Washington now, before it's too late. Let them know what you think of these shenanigans. They'll listen to you all right; after all, it's approaching election time!

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

How to Be a "Good" Witness

By far the most vital people in our system of justice are witnesses. Everyone else in a trial exists to hear what they have to say.

Chances are you worry about stepping up, taking an oath, and telling your story in court. Actually, almost anyone can be an effective witness if he merely follows a few simple rules.

1. Don't memorize your story word for word. That is the surest way to make your testimony sound "phony." Rather, think over what you saw and heard so you have a clear mental picture of what you observed.
2. Listen to the questions you are asked with care and answer thoughtfully.
3. Give a simple, direct answer in your own words.
4. If you err—and people often do—correct yourself at once. If you can't remember some detail, say so. Don't bluff!
5. Tell the truth. Don't figure which side you may help. Don't identify yourself with either side.
6. Stop when the judge or an attorney breaks in, and don't try to sneak an answer in before he can stop you. What you might say could end in a "mistrial."
7. If they ask you: Certainly, you have talked to other people about the case—the lawyer, for example; and yes, you are receiving the lawful witness fee to make up in part for the time lost from your job.

Ordinarily, no one has a desire to be a witness in a lawsuit, but the day may come when your testimony may be absolutely necessary for a just verdict in some case.

Remember, unless witnesses give understandable and truthful testimony our law will fail to do justice. If you are called, be a "good" witness.

A little girl stayed for dinner one night at a friend's house. There were buttered parsnips and the mother asked if she liked them.

"Oh, yes," replied the child politely. "I love them."

However, when the platter was passed, she refused to take any.

"But, dear," said the hostess. "I thought you said you liked buttered parsnips."

"Oh, I do," explained the child, "but not enough to eat them!"

The 4th of July always brings on an outbreak of celebrations. We have barbecues, rodeos, old settlers meeting together to discuss old times. We have the round of fireworks, week end trips along the highways with its toll of car wrecks. And we have something else; that of pausing now and then to give thanks for our country, and for the freedom and independence which our forefathers have bought for us at such a great price.

Daniel Boone and many of the pioneers of that day left their marks upon the trees as they blazed trails westward to new lands and new homes. To them we owe a great debt of gratitude.

George Washington and his brave men who fought, starved and died at Valley Forge that we might have this great freedom should always be kept in our memories. It was he who once told his men, "This Freedom will seem cheap by and by, when no one dies for it." Unless we remember well, this can be so true. We can so easily forget the price, and take for granted these grand and wonderful blessings which we enjoy.

These pioneers, which we honor and or today, may not have marked the trails with an ax, but they have left many wonderful and worthwhile marks as they have blazed the trail for us. On this corner they have helped to place a stone that marks the corner of some land that has been proven and patented and surveyed. There they dug a well.

On another corner they have built a school house so that their children may have a better chance to find happiness in life. On another they have built churches. Within these walls their children have found great spiritual hope. In these they have gotten married and brought their families to Sunday school.

For these wonderful marks along the trail we say a big Thank You to all pioneers who have blazed the trails for each of us.

WALTER ROGERS REPORTS

How Do We Get There?

For a number of years now virtually all of our "best minds" have been telling us how vital are the good wishes of our uncommitted and neutralist neighbors in Asia and Africa. We have also been reading that either a thoroughly unpleasant fate or a diabolical trap awaits us in Cuba. And in the backwash of the summit flop and fiasco in Japan, the arguments over "personal diplomacy" and "U. S. prestige abroad" have become particularly intense.

All this discussion is, of course, justified. It is important. But I often wonder if perhaps we are tragically overestimating this importance, or at least looking at it in the wrong light. First of all, we wonder incessantly about how "complex" the world is today. And indeed it is complex. But while this should spark our imaginations, it often serves merely as an excuse to further inaction. Another of our favorite is the well worn complaint about how crucial the decisions are today. We seldom remember that man's decisions have always been "crucial," just as the times have always been "dangerous." Again, this would step up our efforts and our tolerance, not paralyze our will.

For the fact remains that after all the study groups, college professors, and bureaucrats have planned and mapped, weighed and considered, it will still be up to the American people to determine the direction that is taken. I don't mean that a big election is going to settle our objectives once and for all, or that newspaper headlines will herald an inspiring national purpose. It's a lot less sensational than that. The enduring decisions are made in divorce courts and hospitals, prisons and churches, living rooms and classrooms. And they are made in spite of, not because of, all the complex and crucial bogeymen that have been conjured up amid the clamor of a thousand spokesmen for various purposes and objectives.

This is, I think, healthy and as it should be. For I have long had the feeling that somewhere amid all the scrambling and scrimmage something has been misplaced. In the past 20 years our interest and our concern have largely shifted to the outside world. But in addition to enlarge our outlook, which was perhaps inevitable, too many of our professional spokesmen would have us measure ourselves and our behavior in terms of world-wide standards and viewpoints.

We have buried hopeless jingoism and blind isolationism, but I am not sure we want to replace them with a massive popularity contest in which our every action is to be judged by what others think of us. We cannot gain world friendship—which we are assured is so important—without first winning world respect. And I question the possibilities of achieving this with a pathetic, purposeless grasp for everyone's and anyone's good will.

America has been around for a long while now. Certainly long enough to give virtually all nations an opportunity to look at our history and judge our intentions for ourselves. Naturally we would wish them to look upon us favorably, but obviously a number of them have not. This is their decision to make, and all the evidence indicates that those opposed to our purposes and our very existence are not going to be swayed by begging and pleading. Nor are we going to convince them of our good intentions with reason, and not even with threats.

But this is certainly no reason to begin doubting ourselves, and it is not an excuse for inaction in a cause we believe to be right. Do we really wish to allow Cuba to disrupt a policy of more than 100 years standing because we are afraid of an international trown? Or do we seriously propose to allow the Soviet Union to continue its massive blackmail and propaganda activities merely because we don't wish to risk the disfavor of "uncommitted" nations? We certainly want to, and will, make every effort to achieve solutions. But we should never forget that our self respect and our heritage will always be the greatest weapons of all to combat conspiracies against liberty.

Senator Fulbright Sees Dock Strike As Threat to Arab-American Relations

By Hussein Kamel Selim, Ph.D.
Emeritus Professor of Economic History, Cairo University

Dr. Hussein Kamel Selim

The recent picketing of the United Arab Republic ship Cleopatra by American dock workers may well prove to have more far-reaching results than the participants in this "wildcat" boycott yet realize.

Already the State Department has called this picketing of the Cleopatra "embarrassing" to American foreign relations. But, in a statement made in the Senate April 25, Senator J. W. Fulbright was more explicit. He said that this picketing bordered upon irresponsible private intervention in the U.S. foreign policy. (Italics ours). The Arkansas Democrat and Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee discussed the picketing in a speech on the efforts of "special pressure groups" to push foreign policy in "special-interest directions."

Sen. Fulbright added that "these private groups proceeded by coercive devices of their own to interfere with the official activities of our government in the field of foreign policy." Under the constitution, the American senator observed, the conduct of foreign policy is confined to the President or his designated representatives.

Senator Fulbright could not have expressed the problem more clearly. It is our opinion that in the future, it would be advisable for strike-intent workers to take precautions to stay out of the quagmire of international politics for the sake of both national and job security.

Ostensibly a gesture made in protest against the Arab boycott of American ships trading with Israel, the American picketing, which is generally believed to be Zionist inspired, has endangered the whole intricate network of Arab-American relations which have been improving during the past 18 months.

Despite the allegation by the officials of the seafaring and longshore unions that the move was taken because the Arab boycott of Israeli shipping had jeopardized maritime jobs available to American workers, the maneuver seems to be an attempt by Zionist elements to use American dock workers to punish President Nasser for the Israeli boycott.

Obviously, such an incident as the tie-up of the Cleopatra can not help but spark retaliation in the Arab world. The question now arises as to what the effect of such retaliation would be.

The UAR has a small ocean-going merchant fleet of about 19 ships. No more than one of these ships calls at an American port each month. On the other hand, about 25 ships of the vast U.S. merchant fleet call at Arab ports each month. It is easy to see, then, that an Arab boycott of American shipping would threaten the jobs of many more American mariners than the small number presently being affected by the boycott of ships handling Israeli cargoes. Furthermore, if the Arab boycott were to spread to American commercial airlines, as has been lately reported, the damage to American interests would be considerable.

It was clearly evident to most observers that, unless the New York dockers' picketing of the Cleopatra were quickly called off, a retaliatory move by the Arab countries was in the offing. The International Arab Trade Unions Federation called a meeting in Cairo on April 13 to determine Arab policy for just such a move to counter the American action.

The Jordanian and Lebanese Trade Union federations quickly pledged their support to any policy adopted in Cairo. Aden trade unions also pledged to support the decisions of the other Arab union federations. Iraq and the Arab Gulf states may well be expected to follow suit.

Arab indignation over the American move is now such that there is little likelihood of government interference with a similar retaliatory move by Arab dock workers.

If a forthcoming Arab boycott were extended to include not only ships flying the American flag, but American owned ships of Panamanian, Liberian, and other registry, the effect could be almost crippling to the oil industry.

Although the situation is still one of turmoil and general dissatisfaction on both sides, it is clear that Zionist influences are conspiring to drag America into a dispute between Israel and the UAR and, no matter what happens, the United States stands to come out of the fray as the loser.

Twenty years of growth is the record claimed for the national 4-H clothing award program which today involves nearly three-quarters a million girls between 10 and 21 years of age.

This report comes from the National 4-H Service Committee which developed the program over two decades ago in cooperation with the Extension Service. It has been supported ever since by Coats & Clark Inc. of New York.

Right now across the nation young seamstresses are putting the finishing touches on skirts, dresses and coats. The garments were carefully cut, stitched and sewn under the knowing eye of their local 4-H Club leader.

Many hopeful models also are rehearsing for a fashion show and exhibit of their handwork in competition with other club members for county, state and national 4-H clothing awards provided by Coats & Clark.

An even dozen college scholarships worth $400 each are awaiting the 12 top 4-H'ers to be selected from 50 state winners next fall. The state champion will be a delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago with all expenses paid.

For more information about joining a 4-H Club contact the county Extension agent.

THE HIGH COST OF LOW LIVING

By J. L. Mayhall
Pastor, Church of the Nazarene

"A garden that was too costly." Naboth owned a garden near the king's palace. Ahab wanted this garden but since it was an inheritance Naboth refused him. This displeased Ahab greatly, and assisted by his wife, Jezebel, he had Naboth put to death and took the garden. While looking over his newly acquired possession he met God's prophet Elijah with a message from God. 1 Kings 21:19-20: "And thou shalt speak unto him, saying thus saith the Lord, Hast thou killed and taken possession? And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, thus said the Lord, in the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine." And Ahab said to Elijah, "Thou hast found me, mine enemy," and he answered, "I have found thee; because thou hast sold thyself to work evil in the sight of the Lord."

The garden was too costly. It cost the life of its rightful owner and also the lives of Ahab and his wife Jezebel. It never pays to go too far to gain one's own way.

NOTICE

All persons wishing to have paving done must sign up immediately with the City Manager.

Paving will start soon, and persons not having applications in will not have paving until next season.

"From 3 to 13 My Dishes Get Clean.. Automatically."

says Mrs. Don Winter, 1401 W. Beaver, Guymon, Okla.

Here's an enthusiastic homemaker who fully utilizes her electric dishwasher, whether it's just the family three for breakfast or a friendly dinner group of thirteen. In either situation, Mrs. Winter merely "pushes the button" for sanitary, clean dishes. Incidentally, all the dishes used by the thirteen people in the actual dinner party pictured easily went into Mrs. Winter's electric dishwasher with plenty of room for proper washing.

"OUR ELECTRIC BILL IS THE BIGGEST BARGAIN WE HAVE"

It's the man of the house who usually pays the bills and Mr. Winter is no exception. Despite unlimited use of electric service in the Winter home, Mr. Winter is happy with the low cost of his electric service. No wonder he says, "Our electric bill is the biggest bargain we have."

WATCH AND WIN

It's WATCH AND WIN at your Reddy Kilowatt Electric Appliance dealer. Yes, watch a demonstration of an electric dishwasher, home freezer, range, clothes dryer, or all 4 appliances... then register once for each demonstration you receive. You may win because TWO of these appliances will be given away this month.

PUBLIC SERVICE

" Area Observations "

Reprinted from "My Akin Back" by Kenneth Houge in Sunray News:

I don't know whether you will find the following amusing or not. Most newspaper people do because they have had the same or similar questions put to them.

The editor of the Montello, Wis., Tribune recently answered some questions he had received from readers of his weekly newspaper. Here are some of the questions and the editor's answers:

Q—Why don't you have funny papers?

A—We think we have the funniest paper in Wisconsin right now.

Q—Why don't you have a "Advice to the Lovelorn" column, like Abby Lane?

A—None of our readers have any such problems.

Q—Why do you have all those misprints?

A—They're the most entertaining part of the whole paper.

Q—Why didn't you publish the poem I sent you?

A—It was a lousy poem.

Q—Why do you always say "we" when referring to yourself in the paper?

A—We want our readers to think they're outnumbered.

Q—Why don't you put out a bigger paper, like the Milwaukee Journal?

A—We plan on it as soon as the population of Montello equals that of Milwaukee.

Q—What would you give me for writing a weekly column of moral homespun philosophy?

A—A poke in the eye with a sharp stick.

Q—Why don't you write an editorial and tell those guys on the city council what they can do to improve the town?

A—Why don't you go down to the next meeting and tell 'em yourself?

Q—Why don't you print more letters to the editor?

A—Why don't you write me one? And sign your name, please . . . don't be chicken.

Q—Why do you devote space to such trivialities as "Joe Smith is feeling poorly this week"?

A—Because good old Joe has many pals who are concerned over his health, even if you are not. Who knows, somebody might read this item and send Joe some sympathy.

Q—Why do you make so many grammatical errors?

A—Cause we ain't never learned no better.

Q—What do you do with all your money?

A—We squander it on frivolities like food and clothing.

Q—Last week I brought you detailed obituary about Homer in California. You printed one short paragraph and you stuck it on the bottom of an inside page. How come?

A—Uncle Homer hadn't visited Montello since the spring of '06. Nobody but you heard of Uncle Homer. Uncle Homer had been dead eight weeks when you brought in the obituary. The main reason we cut the length of it was that we lacked the courage to throw ALL of it in the wastebasket.

Q—How come you're such a jerk?

A—Just lucky, I guess.

Q—Why don't we go have a cup of coffee?

A—Why not? . . .

Harold Hudson, in Ochiltree County Herald:

If a middle-age man could only sell his experience for half of what it cost him, he could retire in luxury.

Visitors in the Sidney Kunkel home during the week end were Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Kunkel and girls of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Kunkel and son of Dumas, Mrs. Paul Webb of Showson, Ariz., Mrs. Allen Graves of Wellington and Mrs. E. L. Minix. Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Graves also visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Green.

Miss Leona Forbes and Miss Gussie Bledsoe returned Saturday from a vacation in the Capitan mountains in New Mexico. They also visited relatives in Clovis.

Mr. and Mrs. Kid McCoy accompanied the Brady McCoy family of Amarillo for a week's vacation at Tres Rigas Lodge at Las Vegas, N. M.

Mrs. J. B. Pettit visited relatives at Clarendon the first of the week.
