Filled parking places, especially in the just completed Christmas shopping season, and the latest statement of condition from the American National Bank in Mc-Lean would seem to bear out this

Resources listed in the statement of condition appearing in this week's McLean News total $2,-608,781.81, as of Dec. 20.

The first statement published by the bank in 1963, which appeared on Jan. 10 and reflected the condition as of Dec. 28, 1962, showed assets of $2,364,218.20.

That's a pretty fair increase for a bank in a city the size of McLean.

We asked Clifford Allison, bank president, what reasons he could think of for the jump in assets and, especially, in the deposits.

Those deposits, incidentally, were the highest ever at $2,354,864.06 on Clifford first mentioned the much better than expected cotton crop
