State Capital NEWS

Insurance bounced back into the news on three fronts in Austin last week.

State Board of Insurance Chairman Larry Teaver promised, after a public hearing to review all aspects of the new catastrophe pool for wind-storm coverage in high risk coastal areas.

Agents and property owners complained of price gouging and of companies allegedly unloading on the pool properties which should be insured at standard rates. Companies denied the charges.

Board also took under consideration an Allstate Insurance Company proposal to cut out coverage rates up to 20% for new-model cars equipped with shock-absorbing bumpers.

All 1973 and later cars must have bumpers which can withstand a five miles an hour front crash and a two and a half miles per hour rear-end whallop without damage.

Allstate proposed to allow discounts to become effective with 1972 model cars equipped at owners' expense with the tested shock-absorbing bumpers.

Initial reduction would be 10% in premiums for the five mph front, two and a half mph rear safety protection. The cut would reach 20% for cars which can be crashed at five mph into a test barrier, front and rear, with no damage to the vehicle.

Board members heard support and opposition for proposed new rules to curb arbitrary cancellations and non-renewals on property and casualty insurance. Under the regulations, auto insurance in effect 60 days could be cancelled only for failure to pay premiums or where driver's licenses have been suspended or revoked. Companies could cancel coverage at annual expiration dates by giving 30 days written notice.

Teaver advised rule prohibiting cancellations for "age alone."

In two other cases, the Supreme Court sent applications for savings and loan associations branches -- in Hallettsville and Bay City -- back to Commissioner W. Sale Lewis for further proceedings. Lewis had approved the applications, but had not filed a required concise statement of underlying facts supporting his finding. Court opinions concluded, AG OPINIONS -- Laws prohibiting dumping of refuse within 300 yards of public highways and anti-dumping statutes pertaining to public and private properties and public waters are both valid and can be harmonized.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that: Flight schools are subject to new Texas Proprietary School Act.

Texas Water Rights Commission can test any claim of a right to use water under water code provisions by the legal requirement of past beneficial use of water without a formal adjudication of all claims on the stream.

Legislators are entitled to 16 cents per highway mile for use of personally-owned airplanes on official business trips.

Authority exists for establishing a central services account for Texas Tech University and Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

Procedure for assessing the Harris County domed stadium for taxation is unchanged by legislation passed this year.

Taxable leasehold estates on exempt property are to be valued at the price they would bring at voluntary sale for cash based on value of comparable improvements on non-exempt property.

A hydrologist employed by the Rio Grande Compact Commissioner can be paid $11,616 a year, although the commissioner himself is limited by law to $6,000.

LAND BIDS ACCEPTED - Bonus bids of more than $1.7 million on oil and gas leases were accepted by the School Land Board for the permanent school fund.

Seventy-six bids covered 39,843 acres of state-owned lands and averaged $44.77 an acre.

Pheasant Season Should Be Good

There's a passel of real estate in the Texas Panhandle, pardner, and a lot of that crazy-quilt pattern of winter wheat and autumn cornfields laced together with roadside weeds and brushy fencerows is perfect for pheasant.

Pheasant hunters in the Panhandle can expect much of the same quality of hunting this year as they had last year, although there are not quite as many of the birds this year, say biologists for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The pheasants north and south of the Canadian River are showing good survival rates from summer production.

Biologists have conducted a roadside census to pinpoint distribution and density of the pheasants. They estimate approximately 12,000 birds will be harvested this year.

He married Miss Myrtle Turner in 1911 in Crowell. Survivors include his wife, two sons, Brady of Amarillo and Dr. Kid McCoy Jr. of Kealakekua, Hawaii; a daughter, Mrs. Irene Romer of Kealakekua; a brother, J. J. of Crowell; four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Final Payments Made For 1971 Set Aside Wheat

Checks totaling $231 million nationally in final payments under the 1971 set-aside wheat program were mailed to producers over the nation. Gray county wheat final payments totaled over $102,000, and all have been placed in the mail to farmers. The preliminary payments made in July of 1971 were $646 million nationally and for Gray county the preliminary payment in July was $536,900.

The final wheat payment is the difference between the final face value of the domestic certificates -- determined to be $1.63 per bushel -- and the preliminary payment. The final payment is the face value of the certificates and the difference between 100% of the parity price of $2.93 on July 1 and the Nat'l average wheat price of $1.30 received by farmers for the 6-month period of July through November.

Final payments were computed on the basis of 43 cents per bushel. Preliminary payments were made on $1.20 per bushel and was based on 75% of the $1.60 estimated face value of wheat certificates on July 1.

The Agricultural Act of 1970 provides for preliminary payments under the wheat, feed grain and cotton programs. Only in the wheat program is the preliminary payment specified as a percentage of the final payment. In the feed grain and cotton programs, the preliminary payment may be the total payment due unless market conditions warrant a final payment. This payment would then be made for cotton after Jan. 1 and for feed grain after March 1, 1972.

ulate a wagon and team, other necessities, and the courage to move across scrub mesquite, prairie dog towns, alkali land, and gyp water streams to the sand hills of western Wheeler County -- just three miles northeast of McLean.

Here Kid and Myrt built a home -- not just a house -- but a home where Irene, Brady and Kid Jr. were welcomed one by one to the family. Here they weathered droughts, endured sandstorms, survived the ravages of tornadoes, and watched black dusts creep in -- silent monsters -- to cover their land, seep through closed doors and windows, to settle a velvet-like scum over beds, furniture, and food. They fought the depression of the early '30's and came out winners.

Through it all the McCoy's never lost heart. They maintained their sense of humor or their faith in God. They improved their home and worked hard to educate their children. They loved people and enjoyed sharing with their neighbors and friends. No one ever came in contact with the McCoy's that they didn't receive more than they gave.

Kid was a member of the Masonic Lodge -- a Mason in the true sense of the word. He came with Myrt to the Eastern Star and together they worked and played, forming friendships that still last. Very seldom did the doors of the Presbyterian Church open that the McCoy's were not there. In fact, it was they who opened those doors many times.

Kid was a born story-teller and how I have longed to record those stories in a book, but his modesty forbade that.

When he realized he was to be quoted, he closed his lips and shook his head. Only that well-remembered twinkle in his eye gave you hope that you might some day get that story after all.

Eighty-seven years of memories were buried last Saturday in Hillcrest Cemetery as we said good-bye to a worthy friend, Kid loved life. He loved his family and he loved mankind. He had a mission and he fulfilled that mission. The sun was a little brighter, life a little sweeter and the world much better because Kid McCoy spent over four score living his own original philosophy of life.

Recreation Is A Major Land Use

Recreation is a major land-use in many areas of Texas particularly in the central, southwestern, and eastern regions. People here on the High Plains often fail to consider this have a much higher recreation potential, than they are realizing, says Phil Richey, Range Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Pampa.

When we say recreation, we are thinking of not only lease hunting, but fishing, camping, picnicking, etc. City people wanting to "get away from it all" would gladly pay for a good place to camp or fish. In Gray County, we have two planned watershed projects which, for landowners who have flood structures on their land, will provide for excellent recreation enterprises. If not a floodwater type structure to hold water, a well stocked farm pond can be leased for fishing. Fish can be obtained from the State fisheries or by going through the local SCS office free of cost.

Even though we have several types of recreation enterprises, lease hunting would probably benefit the largest majority of landowners, Richey goes on to say. Information gathered by the SCS indicates that least hunting can add from 30 cents to 87 cents additional net income per acre on rangeland with little or no expense or labor. One rancher in this county leases his ranch at $1000.00 for the turkey, quail, and deer season and has at the most $170 expense including labor. Richey says we have many varied types of wildlife in Gray County. Dove, quail (bobwhite and blue) and turkey are all gamebirds that we have in Gray County. Antelope and deer are also found. Pheasant and prairie chicken, ducks and geese make their home here. Catfish and bass can be found for fishing.

All the above wildlife need help in this county. For example, there was a light quail hatch this year. These gamebirds can be helped by feeding quail blocks or scattering milo around for feed. This measure is badly needed to maintain our quail population. Cover is just as important as feed for any gamebird. This can be achieved by protecting a few bushy areas in out areas of a field, in fence rows or along creeks. One man is even planting weeds in strips in his pasture for quail feed and cover.

Weeds are very important as quail food and for cover. Here on top of the caprock, sorghum stubble furnishes good food and cover for quail and pheasant. Available water is important. Some people have even constructed wildlife watering facilities. As far as turkey are concerned, the same principles apply; food, cover and water. A small grain field along a creek is excellent turkey habitat. Deer, found in the rougher areas of the county, can be helped by protecting existing brush for cover and browse. Often these areas are not suited for anything but wildlife and should be used as such. Deer will also utilize small grain fields. Hunting regulations should be strictly adhered to, in order to protect our somewhat limited antelope population. The same is true for all our game species. A successful ranching or farming operation today must consider recreation for re-ing the utmost in net profit. There is no reason for hunters to leave the county for hunting when Gray County could be providing it. The Soil Conservahelp anyone plan any kind of recreation enterprise concludes Richey. The SCS can be contacted at the Courthouse annex or by calling 665-1751.

Mary Martha Class Have Social

By Lucille Cullison, Reporter
The Mary Martha Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Brent Chapman, class teacher for their monthly social and Christmas party with Mrs. Chapman as the hostess. Loree Barker, class president presided over the meeting and class business session and led the discussion for coming class activities. Juanita Smith gave the inspiring devotional from Luke 2:8. The subject was "abiding, as the shepherds abide with their flock." Helen Ramsey, social chairman led the class in the fun and guessing games and an enjoyable time was had by all. Margaret Chapman read a very inspiring Christmas poem. The class members signed Christmas cards being sent to the elderly and sick people in McLean and this area and cards to some formerly living here and are now in rest homes on other places. The home decorations were in the Christmas motif with a beautiful Christmas tree under which the pretty gifts were placed by each member. They drew numbers and there was an exchange of gifts with each member receiving a gift.

Refreshments of fresh apple cake and punch was served to Mesdames Loree Barker, Bea Lester, Bonnie Bidwell, Mary Howard, Helen Ramsey, Juanita Smith, Pauline Miller, Lucille Cullison, Verna Hudgins, Gladys Eggers, Priscilla Dowis, Lily Mae Williams, Gladys Smith, Levie Smith, Jessie Watson, Velma Willis, Elizabeth Kunkel, Ellen Roby and Nora Moore.
